Jeremiah in Prison.

"Because of loyalty to God's Word, Jeremiah was cast into prison, and almost starved to death. It has ever been so — many noble men have suffered persecution for the Word of God—such men as John the Baptist, Paul, John, John Bunyan, Samuel Rutherford, and others; perhaps not physically tortured, but criticized, ostracized, and ridiculed for their loyal stand. How often men and women are insulted when rebuked for their faults. Tell then of danger, and they look upon it as a sign of ill-feeling.

Ebed-Melech.

"But to get to my old clouts and rotten rags," continued Mr. Allan. "Ebed-Melech (servant of the king) wanted to bring Jeremiah from his dungeon prison. He did it so thoughtfully—he did not want him to have his flesh torn and bruised, so he brought these clouts and rags. He did not throw them into the hole—he lowered them with a rope, to keep them dry, to be put under his armpits, and with the rope to be hauled comfortably and gently from his filthy prison. What a significant and kindly action of this servant! Jeremiah's condition called for this care and thoughtfulness. (Some people make you feel small and embarrassed when you give anything for charity's sake.) Such acts as this servant's are extremely rare these days. There is no telling the good that may be wrought by giving even rags to needy cases. Ebed-Melech had no thought that the incident of the rags would have a place in sacred Scriptures—he was a forerunner of those who go about doing good. God sometimes puts tremendous value upon seeming trifles.

The Kindly Thought.

In concluding a sermon brimming over with "food for serious thought," Mr Allan urged his listeners to cultivate the ideal of helping others; "the world is dying for a little bit of love." Is there anything mean, evil, miserable in your life? he asked. If there is, then link up with Christ as your Saviour. We need His saving grace and power, and with Him beside us we can do all things. Let us say with the hymn-writer, "My Jesus, I love Thee ,I know Thou art mine," and we can do much for His return to our lives.

MARRIED IN MONTREAL

An interesting wedding took place in Montreal, when Miss Louise Cockburn, daughter of the late Mr. Henry Cockburn, C.B., and of Mrs. Cockburn Hemel, Hemstead, England, became the bride of Mr. Raleigh Parkin, son of the late Sir George Parkin and Lady Parkin. The Hon. Vincent Massey and Mrs. Massey were in Montreal for the wedding, the latter being a sister of the groom.

Rush To Buy Cheaply Causes New York Gains

NEW YORK, October 25. — Disregarding recent unfavorable corporation reports and disappointing railroad earnings statements, the stock market to-day was driven upward in a brisk competition to buy stocks as cheaply as possible. Several specialties rose to new peaks for the year, particularly in the drug group, United Drug Lambert, Sterling Products, American Linseed, Columbia Carbon, United States Leather, Warren Bros. and United States Leather "A" and Prior preferred were in the list of shares selling at new high prices for 1927. A sudden drop in Wabash was without effect on the general list. Aside from temporary sympathetic heaviness in the Leads and Pacific and Kansas City Southern, Abitibi Power dropped 10 points on realizing following the announcement of a merger and stock split up.

Wheat Turns Higher On Liverpool News

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 — (Canadian Press.)—Wheat values scored an early advance to-day, influenced by an upturn at Liverpool and by confirmation that European import requirements this year will be liberal. Opening 1-8 to 5-8 higher, wheat subsequently showed additional gains. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer. Corn started at 1-8c. off to ¼c. up, sagged a little, and then rose all around to above yesterday's finish.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 122⅜, March 126¼. Corn, December 83, March 87 1-8. Oats, December 46, March 48.

Small Price Changes In Toronto Activity

TORONTO, Oct. 25. Canadian Press. — Price changes were only fractional among the leaders and trading was scattered over a wied list on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. The market was active but lacking in feature. Brazilian closed at noon at 191 for a gain of a point. City Dairy was one up at 199. C.P.R. rose 1¼ at 189; Christie Brown was also up 1 at 68 and International Nickel was unchanged at 63¾. With the exception of the liquor stocks the unlisted was slightly weaker. Walker's was a half weaker at 59½. Gooderham and Worts unchanged, and Noranda firmer at 22.50.

Selling Heavy In Mines With Most Shares Weaker

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—The selling was heavy on the Standard Mining Exchange today and unloading was accompanied by general weakness. Amulet, with a turnover of 55,600 shares, was the active leader and eased off slightly at 515. Barry Hollinger was 1¼ lower at 92¼, and Bidgood one down at 85. Castle Trethewey lost four points at 81. Hollinger Consolidated was unchanged at 17.05, Lake Shore at 26.90, and McIntyre at 28.00. In the unlisted, Noranda was lower at 25.25.

No Book Bonfire Until Law Tested

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Until the legality of the manoeuvre has been determined, no bonfire of pro-British books from the public library will smudge the sky along Chicago's lake front, the city administration promised to-day. The promise gained for the city delay in the hearing of a petition for an injunction being sought by a citizen to restrain the destruction of the books.

THEATRE MEN FOUND GUILTY

FOR CHILDREN'S DEATH.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.— (Canadian Press.) — Proprietor Ameen Lawland, of the ill-fated motion picture theatre in which seventy-eight children were killed when fire destroyed it last January, was found guilty by a jury of manslaughter. Two of his emloyees, Camil Bazzy and Michael Arie, were also found guilty of manslaughter and all three will be sentenced at the end of the term of King's Bench. The jury deliberated only a few minutes.

FLAG QUESTION COMPROMISED

Smuts and Government Forces Agree in South Africa.

CAPE TOWN, October 25 (Canadian Press).—The controversy over the flag question, which has been raging for more than a year, and which threatened to cause a political upheaval, has practically been settled by compromise between the Government forces and the followers of General Jan Christian Smuts. The basis of the agreement is that the Union Jack will be regarded as the official flag and the domestic flag will remain as designed by the Government.

SLANDER SUIT NEARLY OVER

FROM CUSTOMS PROBE.

HUMBOLDT, Sask., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—The closing chapter in the slander case launched against M. N. Campbell, M.P., and W. J. Smith, by Senator Jacques Bureau, former Minister of Customs, was written off in court late yesterday before Mr. Justice Taylor. The finish will be written with the verdict of the jury which retired at 9.20 last night. The charges arose out of so-called allegations concerning Customs corruption.

Big New Plane "Strictly Secret"

LONDON, Oct. 25 (United Press).—A "strictly secret" airplane reported to be the largest in the world, is under construction at Martlesham Airdrome by Air Ministry experts. Newspapers declare that the plane was designed originally to carry 30 or 40 passengers and that it is capable of carrying from four to five tons of bombs.

The Star declares that the plane will be a four motor one, developing 2,000 horse-power. It is made of duralumin.

It was the Air Ministry that applied the "strictly secret" term to the plan, in refusing flatly to discuss it.

LEADERS WORK FOR SYMPATHY

Trying To Get Other Unions To Support the Striking Carpenters.

FIGURES DIFFER.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—The leaders of the carpenters' strike in Toronto to-day prepared to obtain hundred per cent. results in their call to down tools on all construction work in the city, asking the members of the other building trades unions to quit in sympathy with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters. In the meantime the strikers were considering the results of the round table conference in the Mayor's office yesterday when suggestions were put forth.

The likelihood of an early settlement by arbitration was not in sight. William Varley, secretary of the Building Trades Council, stated today that arbitration is out of the question because "the issue is fundamental. We want nothing to do with the Amalgmated Carpenters' Union except on the basis of their entering the Brotherhood," he added.

The strike leaders claim twelve hundred men, including carpenters, have been taken off the jobs, but others claim only eighty union men have downed tools in support of the 900 striking carpenters.

PICTURES ORDERED FOR U.S. MAGAZINE

Will Illustrate Article Written By C. H. Clementi of This City.

That the fame of Peterborough productions extends to the United States is shown by an order received today by Fred L. Roy. The Sheet Steel Trade Extensions Committee of the Oliver Building, Pittsburg, Pa., haing learned that "the Roy Studio is credited with producing some of the most artistic work in Canada," has placed an order with this studio for three large, specially finished photographs for magazine reproduction. The pictures are to illustrate an article by C. H. Clementi, of this city, that will be published next month. The photographs ordered today are of Peterborough Conservatory of Music, Peterborough Court House, and St. Peter's Cathedral.

TWO PROVINCES AGREE ON POWER

Federal Government Plans To Combat Any Action They Take.

QUEBEC, October 25 (Canadian Press). — "Quebec and Ontario are as one in the dispute which has arisen with regard to the development of the powers at Carillon Falls on the Ottawa River." This was stated in an emphatic manner by Premier Taschereau to-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 25 (Canadian Press). — "The position of the Federal Government respecting Carillon was clearly defined in my speech in Parliament last session," declared the Hon. Ernest LaPointe, Minister of Justice ,to-day in connection with the declaration that Ontario and Quebec would combat the authority of the Dominion Government to deal with the power rights. The whole matter will probably be considered by the members of the Cabinet shortly. The Government would be represented, if the Provinces made representations to the Supreme Court or the Privy Council.

Inspectors Arrest Whiskey Smugglers

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., October 24 (Canadian Press). — Customs inspectors who on Saturday night arrested Samuel Gueller, 92 Quenton Street, and Joseph Spectar, 90 Heddon Terrace, Newark, N.J., when they found liquor in a car in which the men drove over the Falls View Bridge said on Saturday that in addition to the liquor, they discovered ten permits issued by the Ontario liquor stores in the men's possession.

The permits were issued under various names at the Government stores in Bridgeburg, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, and Hamilton, Ont., customs men said. The liquor taken from the two men consisted of 19 bottles of wine and whisky and was found in a false gasoline tank, they said.

MINOR CLAIMS FOR REVISIONS

Campbellford Court Hears Two Requests For Small Adjustments.

SHORT SESSION.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25.— The business of the court of revision held in the Council Chamber last night was very brief. Mayor Kingston was appointed chairman and there were present. Reeve Bygott, Councillors MacDonald, O'Sullivan, Wiggins, Clerk MacGregor and Assessor Mulhearn.

A written notice was read by the clerk from Vernon Marks, which stated that he would appeal his assessment as being improper, but Mr. Marks did not appear and his appeal was therefore unheard. The clerk stated that he had given the usual notice of the meeting.

Mr. Arthur Graham asked that some consideration be granted him with regard to the charge made for oil in front of his shop. He claimed that no oil had been put on the slope of the street leading down to his entrance and that he did not think he should be called upon to pay the full amount. Councillor O'Sullivan upheld the claim and a motion was carried which required him to pay only six cents per foot. This was agreeable to him.

There was a matter of a small rebate due John Hall which the clerk said was payable and himself assumed the responsibility for the error in not having adjusted the matter at the proper time. He was authorized to make the payment. There being no further matters to be discussed and Marks not having made his appearance, the court was adjourned.

Hamilton Mayor Asks For Chicago's Books

HAMILTON, Ont., October 24 (Canadian Press). — Mayor Treleaven has wired Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, that if Chicago has no use for the seven thousand books given to the library by Queen Victoria and English citizens after the Chicago fire, the City of Hamilton would be glad to take them over.

FLIGHT DEPENDS ON EXAMINATION

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Fixing of the time for the fourth trans Atlantic flight, start today was contingent upon examination of one of the two engines of the big Amphibian plane, Dawn, which yesterday flew out past Nova Scotia before being forced to return with a defective engine. Mrs. Grayson, Long Island aviatrix and commander of the flight, was also busy examining weather reports. No abandonment of the flight is contemplated until the weather conditions make such action absolutely imperative.

A broken exhaust valve which but for fortunate developments might have exploded the motor and sent the plane Dawn suddenly into the sea was found today by T. Harold Kinkaide in his investigation of the trouble which forced the Grayson plane to reurn.

SEVEN KILLED IN AIR MISHAPS

Three Planes Crash and Two 'Chutes Fail To Open.

IN UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Seven were killed and four others injured in airiplane and parachute mishaps in the United States yesterday. Carl Carr and Don Ceasel were burnt to death after their plane crashed at Lincoln, Nebraska, while L. Brechman and M. C. Eiting were killed when their plane crashed into a hill at Santa Monica, Bernard Albright of Detroit, a passenger, was killed in the crash of a plane piloted by a novice at Mount Clemens, Mich., while two more fatalities resulting from parachutes failing to open cost the lives of W. S. Lesseman of Los Angeles and Kenneth Davis of Kansas City.

SCHOOL FAIRS MORE POPULAR

Increase of 20 Per Cent in Entries in Durham County Fairs.

6,900 PEOPLE ATTEND.

Statistics in regard to school fairs held in Durham County in September show that these events are rapidly expanding and gaining in popularity. The number of entries this year at the twelve school fairs show an increase of 20 per cent. over last year, or 5,311 entries in all. Over 2,600 children and 4,300 adults attended the school fairs this fall, and many were heard to venture the opinion that school fairs were commanding more interest and attention than many of the smaller fall fairs. An innovation in the form of a handsome silver trophy donated by The T. Eaton Company to the pupil receiving the greatest number of points at each fair, helped to swell the number of entries and increased the enthusiasm of the children. In addition a shield is given to the school which received the greatest number of points per pupil at each fair. With the continued assistance of teachers, parents and pupils, the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope, to make the school fairs of 1928 even more successful. The list of The T. Eaton Cup winners is as follows:

Winners of Shields.

Welcome—S. S. No. 9. Hope, Bunker Hill, Miss Beatrice Bragg.

HOTEL DAMAGED.

Fire Causes Loss of $15,000 To Potter Hotel, Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Potter hotel, an old landmark of Wentworth county, on the mountain, was damaged by fire to-day with a loss of fifteen thousand dollars.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wood and party motored to Peterborough on Friday.

Mr. T. A. Brown, Toronto, was in town on business on Saturday.

Mrs. Neil Thompson, Mrs. C. B. Williams, Miss Helen Thomas, and Mrs. Rutlidge motored to Peterborough on Saturday.

Among those who attended the Catholic Women's At Home in the Norwood armouries on Friday were Messrs. Ted Blute and Thornton Ibey

It is understood that there are very few cases to be heard by the Court of Revision which will be held Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Mr. Percy Locke is spending the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Locke, Seymour West.

The Rev. James Grier preached at Huntingdon on Sunday, this being the anniversary services of that congregation.

Joel McArthur motored to Belleville yesterday to visit his son, Douglas, who underwent an operation on his knee in the hospital there.

The Rev. H. N. Taylor, Toronto, who was to have taken charge of the services in Christ church here yesterday, was unable to be present and the services were taken by the Rev. Mr. Brewin of St. Simon's church, Toronto.

The Rev. A. N. Reid, of Huntingdon occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at both services yesterday. In the morning Mr. Reid took his sermon text from the ten commandments, the sermon on the mount and mount Cavalry. In the evening he chose Matthew 25, verse 10, and 1st Corinthians 16 and 9. Both morning and evening Mr. Reid preached very powerful sermons and seems to possess that enviable ability of being able to apply the gospel teachings to the present day life.

CAVAN INSTITUTE TO HOLD SUPPER

Members and Husbands Will Have Social Next Month.

CAVAN, October 25.—The Cavan Women's Institute held their October meeting on Thursday afternoon at Mrs. J. Armstrong's home, Eighth Line. There was an attendance of twenty-three ladies.

The president, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, conducted the meeting which opened by singing the Institute Ode. Among the business discussed was the Choral Class and Winter amusements. It was planned to have an oyster supper for the Institute members and their husbands, in November, on the evening of the regular meeting, or as near that date as possible; this supper to be held in Cavan Community Hall.

Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, Mrs. C. Carr and Mrs. H. Sisson were a committee appointed to arrange for this supper.

Correspondence was read by the Secretary, Mrs. R. Matchett; among this were letters from persons, acknowledging fruit and flowers sent during illness.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. L. Sutton, Miss Kelly and Miss E. Pritchard.

Among those present were Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. Pritchard, Miss Elinor Pritchard, Mrs. H. Sisson, Mrs. M. Carr and Rex, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. L. Sutton, Mrs. L. McNeil, Miss N. Sutton, Miss I. TWO PRESENTATIONS.

Lodge Workers Leaving Havelock Receive Gifts From Colleagues.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25.—The members of the local Dorcas Rebekah Lodge took advantage of the opportunity offered by their regular meeting on Thursday evening to wish "Godspeed" to two of their members in the persons of Mrs. Jean Moore who is leaving in November for an extended visit to Belfast, Ireland, and Mrs. J. Smallshaw who leaves in a few days to reside in Ottawa, and to present each with a pair of silver candlesticks as a slight token of appreciation of their qualities as friends and co-workers. Mrs. William Jones, a former Noble Grand of the Order, made the presentation to Mrs. Moore and Mrs. John Howe presented the gift to Mrs. Smallshaw. An appropriate address accompanied each presentation.

Praised by all who have used it

The Dietician of a large institution in Western Ontario writes:

"My cakes turned out better and I found they remained fresh for a surprisingly long time."

Two home bakers sent these words of praise:

"Nearly all my friends came over and asked me for the recipe of my wonderful cake."

"My cakes are lighter and more delicate than I have ever made before."

Quaker Cake Flour has earned enthusiastic applause from the most experienced cooks. Many have written letters of praise after using it.

To less experienced cooks it gives cakes of such feathery lightness, fine texture and delicate flavour they never thought they could attain.

Use this new Cake Flour if you would like to have new delights in cake baking.

ELOCUTIONIST GIVES SPLENDID PROGRAM

Mrs. Jessie Alexander Roberts Supported By Local Vocal Soloists.

The new Sunday School Hall at George Street United Church was filled almost to capacity last evening for a very entertaining concert presented under the auspices of the L.F.C. ("Live for Christ") Sunday School Class of Senior C.G.I.T. girls, taught by Miss Bessie Elcome, who was in charge of the program, which included readings by Mrs. Jessie Alexander Roberts of Toronto and vocal solos given by Mrs. G. F. Liddle and Miss Daisy Murray. The proceeds of the concert were donated to the Sunday School Building Fund.

The elocution of Mrs. Jessie Alexander Roberts proved very enjoyable to her audience, who gave her prolonged encores at every appearance. Her attractive, resonant voice, clear diction, powers of mimicry and the emotional coloring imparted to several of the numbers, made her work very pleasing. Her selections were mainly by Canadian composers, a fact which added much to their attraction.

The first reading was Peter McArthur's "Bushel for Bushel," the prose story of Neil MacAlpine, the "man who saved the settlement," when he gave the pioneer colonists of olden days the necessary seed grain to carry on their farming operations. It, with its encore, a little scene in a country store, gave the note of humorous interpretation and colorful human interest that was repeated in Dorothy Dix's recital of the joys of later life, in "Miranda on the Joy of Being Fifty," with its side-lights on feminine foibles and characteristics. Both aroused a great deal of mirthful appreciation in their hearers.

"I Just P'ten," was the pathetic little tale of the poor child who "pretended" about everything, and "Mary Mahone" was one of the oddly ethereal bits of Wilson Macdonald's poetry that glimmer through his heavier compositions. Several concluding numbers included the patriotic composition by Helena Coleman of Toronto, entitled "I Am Content With Canada," a comparison of the Homeland with other less favored nations.

Mrs. G. F. Liddle's rich, sweet contralto voice, with a quality of artistic finish that makes it very pleasing to listen to, was heard to much advantage in several numbers; Hariet Ware's "Boat Song"; Robert Eden's "What's in the Air To-day," and Foster's "One Golden Day."

Miss Daisy Murray sang, in her clear soprano, with its full volume and soaring power, "The Seraglio's Garden," by Emil Sjogren; "Ship of My Delight," by Montague Phillips; "A Psalm of Love,' by Dorothy Foster, and "Big Lady Moon," written by S. Coleridge-Taylor.

Mr. G. F. Liddle acted as accompanist for the vocal numbers.

Abe Robinson Objects To Hydro Pole Line

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 25. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission is running a power line from the Gatineau development to Toronto and it was necessary that the line be run over the farm of Abe Robinson in Madoc Township. This was objected to by Robinson and his brother and sister, who live with him.

The inspector pointed out to the Robinsons that if any interference was caused in any way while the workmen were proceeding with the line, steps would be immediately taken to protect the Hydro and that anyone objecting could be incarcerated until the work was completed.

An interesting little booklet, entitled "Art Development in Canada," has just been issued by Mrs. Dignam of Toronto, who founded the Women's Art Association in 1887 as a provincial society which later, by a special Act of Parliament, was maed a nation-wide organization. This booklet was prepared by Mrs. Dignam who spends much of her time in Europe, and is convenor of Fine and Applied Arts and Crafts of the National Council of Women, at the request of Monsieur Dupierraux of the Institute of the Intellectual Co-Operation of the League of Nations. While in England some time ago Mrs. Dignam took advantage of a meeting of artists there to show them a programme of the local Women's Art Association work, in which they were much interested.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

For a dreadful minute, while she bit the knuckles of her clenched hand to keep from crying aloud a more abject plea to him, Faith thought he was not going to answer. But his voice came at last, a quieter, shamed voice, as if Bob too realized the precipice to which their quarrel had brought them:

"Why did you say that, Faith—'for the sake of what little love I ever had for you'? Have you found it so—little?"

"It must have been only a feeble love, dear, since it has not survived even the first year of marriage. But you are putting me off, and I want the truth at last. I asked you to be honest with me, to tell me what's really in your heart and mind. It isn't jealousy of Bruce Patton or of George Pruitt. I wish it were. That would prove that you love me——"

"Don't be so damned sure," Bob interrupted, as if grateful for the opening, "that I'm not jealous! I suppose you think it was pleasant for me to see you glowing and sparkling and smiling and fluttering your eyes at a man you know I detest, a professional philanderer, who doesn't even take the trouble to think up a new line. I suppose," his voice grew bitter, "he told you that your husband doesn't understand you, and that he does! God! To think you would fall for a line like that! I didn't expect anything better of Cherry, but—you!"

She snatched at that, drew comfort from it, lean though it was, comfort. "Don't you think I'm human? Any woman likes admiration, even if it is only lip-service from a professional flatterer. Don't think he fooled me! I know it's Cherry he's crazy about, that he was simply unable to resist the temptation to give a prim married woman a thrill——"

"Then you admit you were thrilled!"

"Yes, I admit I reacted in a perfectly normal way to a good-looking man's flattery," she retorted. "Perhaps if I were a little more accustomed to admiration and flattery I shouldn't be so easily pleased with a shop-worn variety."

"Rot!" Bob repudiated her heavy sarcasm rudely. "He got you going in about one-tenth the time it takes him to get a flapper all primed up for a kiss—and by heaven, I thought you were going to kiss him right there in front of us all. A pleasant little scene for Cherry, I must say! I suppose she'll be pretty skittish about bringing home any more of her sheiks! Not so different after all, you two girls!" he added bitterly.

"Perhaps not," Faith answered with dangerous quietness. "Perhaps if I were more like Cherry you would love me more, and it was only my faint resemblance to her which attracted you at all, in the first place."

"Out at last!" Bob's voice throught the dark, sarcastic, triumphant, contemptuous, each word like the flick of a cat-o'-nine tails on her quivering flesh. "Now we're getting down to brass tacks! Jealous! Eaten up with jealousy of your own sister! Every hour of your life made miserable with foolish imaginings—"

"Foolish?" Faith's voice, shrill, unrecognizable, interrupted his impassioned accusation.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BEAR.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Standing in the cornfield, near the ragged scare crow gentleman, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty watched the Bushy Bear slowly shuffling along on his big, broad feet. Now and then the Bear raised his black, pointed noise straight up in the air, sniffing and snuffing.

"He's smelling for us!" whispered Bunty.

"I don't believe he knows you are here at all," spoke the Scare Crow in a low voice. "That Bear hasn't very good eyes, and he hasn't seen you because of so many piles of cornstalks."

"If I had thought," murmured Uncle Wiggily as he watched the Bear and stood in front of Baby Bunty to protect her, "if I had thought in time I would have hidden Bunty and then myself in one of the shocks of corn. But if I move now the Bear will see me and rush over."

"Yes, you had better stand quietly just where you are," advised the Scare Crow. "As soon as the Bear turns his back I will save you."

"That is very kind of you, I am sure," remarked Uncle Wiggily.

"But I don't see how you are going to save us," said Bunty, who was a smart little rabbit, for she went to the Hollow Stump School every day and learned many things which the Lady Mouse taught her. "You are nothing but a ragged coat and trousers stuffed with straw," said Bunty. "And you only have one leg, made of wood, and that is stuck in the ground. How can you save us?"

"Hush, Bunty, remember to be polite even to a Scare Crow," said Uncle Wiggily. But the ragged man heard what was said and a smile came over his face which was made of charcoal marks on a piece of white cloth.

"What Bunty says is quite right," spoke the Scare Crow. "At first thought it does seem as if I couldn't save anybody. But if the Bear comes this way I will not let him get either you or Baby Bunty, my dear Uncle Wiggily."

"That is kind of you," spoke the rabbit gentleman.

"And you had better begin to think of a way to save us," said Bunty suddenly. "For the Bear is turning this way and he is sniffing and snuffing straight at me. Are you going to tell us to run, Mr. Scare Crow? Is that how you are going to save us."

"It is too late to run now!" said Uncle Wiggily in a low voice. "The Bear, though he looks big and clumsy, can run very fast when he is chasing his supper, and Bunty and I would only make part of a supper for such a big creature. Alas!"

"Hello, Mr. Scarecrow," growled the Bear.

"Have no fears!" said the Scare Crow. "I will not let that Bear have so much as half a nibble from either of your ears. Quick now! Here he comes! Jump in here!"

As the Scare Crow spoke the wind blew open his ragged coat and there, inside the lining was a long slit, like the opening of a pocket. In fact, it was a sort of pocket in the torn lining.

"Quick! Jump in here!" said the Scare Crow as the Bear turned and came straight toward where the two rabbits crouched among the corn shocks. "The Bear will never see you in my coat lining."

"He may sniff us!" said Bunty.

"Never mind that! Jump in!" hoarsely whispered the ragged man.

Uncle Wiggily gave Baby Bunty a little push to start her on her jump and, a moment later, the little orphan rabbit girl had leaped down inside the torn lining of the Scare Crow's coat. Then Uncle Wiggily looking over his shoulder, and seeing the Bear shuffling nearer and nearer, the rabbit gentleman gave a big hop. He landed safely inside Scare Crow's coat lining and crouched down beside Bunty, out of sight.

"Hello, Mr. Scare Crow," growled the Bear, lumbering close to the ragged, stuffed man. "Hello to you!"

"Hello to you, Mr. Bear!" greeted the Scare Crow.

"I thought I sniffed a couple of rabbits around here," went on the Bear. "Have you seen them?"

"They were here, but they have gone to hide," said the Scare Crow. "I don't see them now!" Which was true enough for he could not see Bunty and Uncle Wiggily when they were hidden inside his coat lining.

"Dear me! I'm cheated out of a rabbit supper!" growled the Bear. "Well, I'll shuffle along and see if I can find those rabbits. I certainly am fond of them! Yum! Yum!" Smacking his lips hungrily, the shaggy chap lumbered far off and away. And when he was gone Baby Bunty and Uncle Wiggily hopped out of the Scare Crow's coat safe and sound.

"Thank you for hiding us," said Bunty as she and Mr. Longears hurried to the hollow stump bungalow. "You are more clever than I thought."

"He is, indeed, a clever Scare Crow," said the bunny gentleman.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A transparent evening gown of black point d'esprit that is embellished with gold bead embroidery and black tulle.

Colors chosen for evening frocks at present defy brief description, for most of them are decidedly subtle. You cannot simply say a gown is pink, or blue or green or red, and let it go at that. There is a new color that is neither green nor golden—but a subtle blending of the two. There is nothing at all vibrant about this color, but under artificial light it takes on a lovely golden glow that gives it the warmth and magnetism that many other greens seem to lack.

Then there is another green—that isn't just green either, for it possesses a blending of blue that gives it a soft "moonlighty" effect difficult to describe. The new rose color has a suggestion of coral, and a lovely light orchid has a slightly more than pink about it.

Pure white is often worn in the evening, but usually as an excuse to display colored gems—rubies, emeralds, or sapphires. There are all-black evening gowns, too, but usually black is touched up with a bit of color or a gleam of metal.

The sketch shows an evening gown of point d'esprit, glorified by gold bead embroidery. Rose and pink are frequently used in connection with black for evening.

If you have old jewels of any sort—emeralds, rubies, sapphires, diamonds, or even topazes or amethysts—now is the time to bring them to light. For a while it seemed rather foolish to do this, since almost every one was wearing inexpensive imitation jewelry that did not cost as much as the price of resetting the old stones.

But genuine gems have come back into fashion, and in Paris and fashion centers in this, country jewelers are working overtime remolding old earrings, brooches, and rings. Many of the old-time earrings need simply to be given a screw mounting instead of the old-time ear stabber. Settings for brooches are bolder, more geometrical than the rather self-effacing mountings popular a generation ago.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Wednesday, October 26, 1927.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is an unfavorable day in planetary direction, according to astrology, which finds that adverse aspects dominate.

Although there may be a strong impulse toward constructive activities, while this rule prevails, it is wise to postpone starting any important new project.

While all the signs promise for the winter season general stimulation, it is wise to be conservative, for there will be unexpected world events that change market demands, the seers prophesy.

As next month advances, political plans will become even more uncertain and less clear-cut than in the past, it is foretold.

This rule is read as exceedingly sinister for both men and women who court popularity.

Much libel and scandal will be disseminated and persons who have enjoyed prominence are likely to be attacked unjustly.

While the stars seem to presage great mental activity among all classes of Americans there may be much futile effort in public affairs.

Women's clubs are now subject to forces that stimulate progress through iconoclastic methods, it is foretold. Old leaders will be superseded.

With the obliteration of families of wealth in which the birth-rate has deminished to the vanishing point, large bequests will be bestowed on the public, the seers foretell.

Women are to improve in beauty, but there is to be a trend away from all that is artificial, it is prognosticated.

Marriage now is to be discussed with bitter feeling, owing to increase in sensational divorces among leaders of society.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of improved status. It is wise to devote time to study.

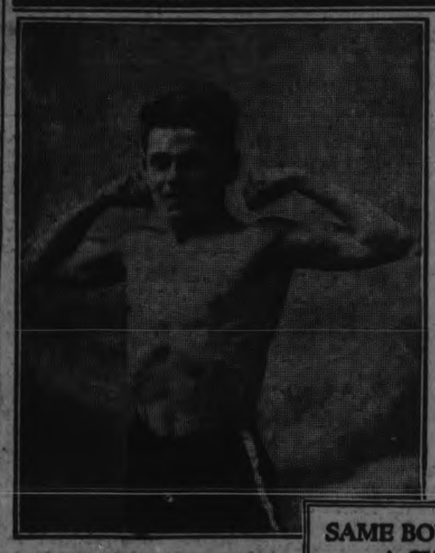
Children born on this day may be sensitive and efficient, but unable to make the best impression.

Princess Arthur of Connaught shares with Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, the distinction of being England's best royal nurse. When in London she visits one of the hospitals almost every day.

Preacher To Tell Of Healing By Faith

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (United Press). — The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton has announced a series of sermons beginning Sunday for his congregation at Calvary Baptist Church, in which he will describe from the pulpit how he was cured of indigestion and gained 35 pounds through the intervention of the Holy Spirit.

His 19-year-old son, Warren, and Mrs. Straton are also to testify to experiences of physical healing, the fundamentalist pastor said.



How VIROL builds FOR LIFE

GEORGE POVALL TO-DAY Age 18

SAME BOY WHEN A CHILD

March 9th, 1910. Age 1 year 7 months; weight, 31½ lbs. AFTER 13 MONTHS on VIROL

These are guaranteed to be genuine photographs and accurate particulars of George Edward Povall. This and every other case published by Virol, Ltd., are open to the strictest investigation by any Doctor interested.

PROOF that only VIROL can show

At 6½ months, Feb. 8th, 1909, George Edward Povall, 5, Central Fire Station, Salford, Eng., wasted away until he weighed only 6 lb. 8 oz. "He was nothing but skin and bones" (see Photo 1). Then he was put on Virol. On March 9th, 1910, just thirteen months after he was first given Virol, he weighed 31½ lbs. and was the fine healthy baby you see in Photo 2.

Not only did Virol effect an immediate improvement in this terrible case of wasting, but it laid the foundations of healthy growth and development. Since Virol saved his life, George Povall has not had a single day's sickness. He has won prizes for running, played football regularly, and to-day he is a well-built muscular boy of 18, in perfect health (see picture at top), as the doctor who attended him in his first and only illness has certified in a letter written recently.

But Virol is not only a life saver. Its extreme value to mothers lies in this. Virol builds up weakly children or children you are "just a little bit anxious about," to really robust permanent health."

FRENCH TENNIS STARS TO MAKE WORLD TOUR

FRENCH BELIEVE TENNIS TOUR WILL BE BOON TO ALL SPORTS

That World Trip By Stars Will Arouse Interest.

BENEFIT UNIVERSE.

Go From South America To Australia and Then South Africa.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—French sport enthusiasts are greatly interested in the world tour of the French tennis team of Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus, which now is in progress.

The French regard the tour not only as amounting to really the first step in the defense of the Davis Cup next year, by reason of the wide experience it will give the players, especially young Boussus, who has had little real international propaganda for French tennis and French sports.

The team, which left Lisbon several days ago, is now in on the ocean. It will reach Rio Janeiro at the end of October and will be in Buenos Aires early in November. The French will play such South American players as are available.

The French players will be received by Ambassadors, high officials and leading athletic heads. They also will be feted in the large South American cities much as were the aviators Costes and Le Brix.

After playing in Buenos Aires they will cross the Andes and play in Valparaiso, after which they will start their long journey to New Zealand and Australia, where they will play in January and February against the strong Anzac team. Australia will re-enter the Davis Cup competition next year and is generally regarded as really dangerous.

In the Spring the French will go to South Africa and will be entertained by Cape Town sportsmen. They will stay theer nearly a month and will play Condon, Raymond and other excellent players.

All this naturally is very pleasing to the French who like to see their champions sought for, especially by Anglo Saxons, who have come to be regarded as the kings of the sports world. But there is one other reason why the tour is widely popular. That is because the Davis players are regarded, not only as tennis experts, but as representatives of French athletics in general.

France still is short of funds for next year's Olympic games despite prodigious efforts which have been made in certain quarters. When the Davis Cup was placed on public view at the Racing Club a few weeks ago the entire proceeds were devoted to the Olympic fund. It now is hoped that a successful showing on the tour will be one more thing to rouse the interest of the French people in the Olympics and all other sports.

FORCED TO PAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Eddie Kane, manager for Tom Gibbons, Sammy Mandell and other boxers, must pay Richard Butler $2,500 for arranging a bout between Gibbons and Jack Bloomfield in London in 1924, Supreme Court Justice Black ruled yesterday.

Butler, who is president of the Longshoremen's Union testified that he arranged the bout with the understanding that he would collect five per cent commission. He said he tried to collect but was forced to bring the matter to court.

At Portsmouth, England, a man was recently tried three times in one day for the same offense. The first jury disagreed, the women ranging themselves on one side and the men on the other; the second also failed to arrive at a decision; and the third, after forty minutes' deliberation, found the prisoner guilty.

Jockey Marinelli Dead At New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Benjamin Marinelli, 25, who rose to fame as a jockey at Tijuana at 17 is dead, a suicide.

Little more than a year ago the jockey was unconscious for more than a week from injuries he received at Jamaica when the horse he was riding stumbled and threw him. Another horse fell on the jockey and Marinelli had a fractured skull.

Months after the accident he rode for the stable of Mrs. A. Swenke. He was to have ridden one of her horses at the Empire meeting in Yonkers Saturday, but said he was sick.

His body was discovered with a gas tube near his mouth when a friend called on him Sunday.

COOPER SCORES TO WIN TOURNEY

Coast Star's Card of 7 Strokes Better Than Par in Golf Match.

ESPINOSA SECOND.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 25.—Harry Cooper, of the Biltmore Club of Los Angeles won the first money of $1,000 in the Oklahoma City open golf tournament, shooting the seventy-two holes in 283 strokes.

Al Espinosa, who captured the tournament last year, was second with 286 and Horton Smith, 19 years old, scored 288 to take third money.

Espinosa drew $750 and Smith $500.

It was a putting cleek that added $1,000 to Cooper's earnings for the year. For twenty-six holes in the second round of the tournament, played on the Oklahoma Golf and Country Club links, Cooper's regular putter would not work for him.

It failed him on long and short putts alike after he had played perfect golf to the greens. Coming to the twenty-seventh hole of the day's play, the little "pro" closely surveyed the green as his ball lay some fifteen feet from the cup. He pulled his cleek from his bag and sent the pellet rolling into the hole.

All Square With Espinosa.

At this stage of play Cooper was all square with Espinosa and he was in a threesome with the Chicagoan and John Golden, former member of the United States Ryder Cup team.

With the cleek dropping the ball into the cup from all corners of the green, Cooper shot a masterful game for nine holes. He scored four birdies and five pars for a 32 on the final nine, all due to the fact that his putting was equal to his play to the green.

Cooper negotiated the last eighteen holes in sixty-eight strokes, five under par. He turned in a 73 card for the morning, giving him 142 strokes for the thirty-six holes. Yesterday over Lakeside course Cooper had 141 strokes for the first thirty-six holes. His 283 was seven strokes better than par.

Manero's Play Sensational.

Although Spinosa and Cooper commanded by far the largest gallery their shots to-day, great as they were, did not compare with those made by Anthony Manero of the Fairview Club in New York. Manero went the sand-trapped course with a pair of 69s for 138, the best card for 36 holes turned by any one during the two days' play.

Manero scored 151 for the first 36 holes, giving him a total of 289, for fourth money of $300. Golden was fifth with 291 strokes. Jock Hutchison added 143 strokes to his 149 of yesterday for 292 and sixth place, which carried a cash value of $150.

Clarence Clarke of Tulsa and Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, Ohio, tied for seventh place, each with 293. They earned $100 each. Ninth and tenth money went to Harold Long of Oklahoma City and Charles Guest of Los Angeles, with cards of 294.

Johnn Rogers of Denver broke into the $50 class by scoring at 297, which matched Bill Melhorn's card.

Ed Dudley of Los Angeles and Waldo Crowner of Shreveport, with cards of 298, failed to get into the money. Gene Sarazen took 306 strokes to get around the 72 holes.

Last year Epinosa won the local tournament with a card of 297 over the same two courses. This year it took 297 to get into the money.

Chess Players Tied At End of Tourney

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. S. Tartakower of Paris and A. Nimzowitsch of Copenhagen were tied at the conclusion of the international chess tournament at the British Empire Club yesterday. The contest ended in the eleventh round, the two masters winning eight games each and losing three. They divided first and second prizes.

F. J. Marshall, United States champion, by winning his last game, captured third prize, with seven and a half games won. Dr. N. Vidmar, Jugo-Slavia, met with defeat today and dropped to fourth place.

Fifth prize was won by E. B. Bogeljubow of Germany, while Richard Reti, Czecho Slovakia, and W. Winter, England, tied for sixth.

B. B. Johnson has resigned as president of the American League.

The retirement of Ban Johnson from baseball marks the passing of the man who more than any other person has placed baseball on its present high plane.

The deeds and the work of President Johnson will be far more appreciated 20 years from now than they are today.

Like all great men, Mr. Johnson had the courage of his convictions, a very definite opinion on all things and a willingness to express it, regardless of whose toes he stepped on.

Being human, he made mistakes. At times he might have been more tactful; but that wasn't the way of B. B. Johnson. He didn't believe in handling drastic situations with kid gloves.

He passes from the game still boasting a legion of friends and admirers who appreciate what he has done for it. Likewise he has made enemies. Men with the courage of their convictions always do.

After serving for 22 years under President Johnson, as a member of his staff of umpires, I want to go on record as saying I always have found him a square shooter.

Gave $500 Extra to Umpires

During those 22 years I have had my arguments with President Johnson, often because I thought my contract called for less money than I expected. Yet, in the end, I always found him manifestly fair.

I recall one season I argued over a matter of $500 expense money. At the close of the previous season, in a chat with Johnson, I took it for granted I was to get such an additional amount. In the spring my contract didn't call for it.

I stood pat on the situation. Mr. Johnson finally admitted that he had recollections of the discussion and gave me the extra money I had been promised.

"I guess all the members of the staff would welcome an extra $500, so I will make the increase general", was the way he dismissed the dispute.

Since he gave me an additional amount for expense, in fairness to the rest of the staff, he added to their salary also. This, too, after all of them had signed for the season.

Early Days Tough in Baseball

When I joined the American League, the staff of umpires consisted of only five men: Jack Sheridan, Tommy Connolly, "Silk" O'Loughlin, Tim Hurst and myself.

Most of the year an umpire would work alone. It was customary for Mr. Johnson to double Tim Hurst, who was the poorest fit physically, with the other members of the staff.

The going was pretty tough for the umpires in those days. At many of the parks there was a long bar that dispensed hard liquor and beer. Vendors peddled half pints of whisky through the crowd then as pop is sold now, for the small sum of two bits.

Mob scenes were almost daily occurences, wild riots were frequently staged. President Johnson, with a firm hand, soon brought order out of chaos, made life worth living for the umpire, the game more enjoyable for the spectators and the profits greater for the magnate.

A strict disciplinarian, there was no dodging an order Johnson issued or a penalty that he imposed. His word was final in all things pertaining to the American League. Yet he was always fair.

Fined For Taking Late Train.

I recall one year, it was the season of 1908 I believe, that I was ordered to take a certain train from Detroit to St. Louis. I had a social engagement that I couldn't fulfill if I took the early train. I decided to take a chance on one leaving at midnight.

The train I took, if it arrived on time, got into St. Louis at 2.30 p.m., while the game that day started at 3.15. Of course the train was late.

By donning my umpire clothes on the train and jumping into a taxi, I managed to arrive at the park about three minutes before starting time. Even though I got the game away exactly on time, word got to President Johnson of my late arrival.

He wired me, asking what train I had taken, and when I replied the midnight choo-choo, it cost me $50 in a fine for disobeying orders. I worked about 130 games alone that year for a comparatively small salary and didn't like the idea of losing the money. Jack Sheridan, dean of the staff, said he would have Mr. Johnson return it. He didn't. However, at Christmas time he sent me a check for $300.

In thanking him, I told him he could fine me $50 any old time, provided I got $300 in return. That, however, was the last time I failed to take transportation on the train arranged for me.

TRY NEW PLAYERS.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A flock of new players took the ice today in the first practice session of the Boston Tigers of the Canadian-American Hockey League. The club this season will exhibit an entirely new forward line. The defense will be made up of the veterans Rheaume, goal; Captain A. Smith and Ponzi Containt.

New Bicycle Mark Is Set By Maltese

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Louis Maltese of the Century Road Club Association won the 25-mile open bicycle race conducted by the Unione Sportiva Italiana on the Bronx River Parkway yesterday morning, and also set a new record for the course, his time of 1:05 2-5 breaking the previous mark of 1:11:17, established in 1922 by Vernal Newcomer of Philadelphia.

The course extended from Oak Street, Mount Vernon on the Parkway north to the Kenisco Dam, a distance of 12½ miles, returning over the same route for a total of 25 miles.

Yesterday's race was the second distance race which Maltese has won, his first being the 100-mile contest from Union City, N.J., to Philadelphia. His time on that occasion was 4:23:25 1-5, which also was a record.

Second place in the Bronx River Parkway race was won by Frank Connell, New Jersey champion of the Century Road Club of America, who, despite a puncture and a change of wheels, finished in 1:06:02 4-5. Reynold Heil, one minute and eleven seconds behind Connell, was the winner of third place.

SOCCER CHARITY GAME SATURDAY

Quakers and Thistle Meet For Third Time—Extra Play if Necessary.

Arrangements were completed last evening, at a meeting of the local soccer executive in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, for the final of the Phelan Charity Cup between the Quaker Oats and the Thistle.

In the absence of the President, Vice-President Hodgson occupied the chair, and instructed the representatives of the two teams that the game would be played at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon.

Owing to darkness stopping the battle last Saturday, in the extra time, and after a very lively discussion, the members agreed that the game would start at 2.30 prompt. If the teams were still in the same predicament as in the previous encounters, extra time would be played —ten minutes each way—twenty minutes in all.

Alex McKinley agreed to act as referee again.

APPLES A HEALTHFUL FOOD

This is the harvest season for the apple orchardist who is now either having his apples squeezed into cider or packing them for refrigeration and distribution during the winter.

It is only during the past quarter of a century that the raising of apples has really become a valuable agricultural industry. Well cultivated and fertilized trees will now bear as high as ten tons of fruit to the crop.

The modern method of wrapping the apples with paper and packing them in boxes has proved superior to the old method of carelessly packing them away in barrels where the ripe, unripe, and wormy fruit came in contact with each other, the whole barrel often becoming spoiled after a month or two.

It costs more to produce good apples, so the consumer must be content to pay a higher price for this fruit than he formerly did when the apples were sold merely as a product of diversified farming.

Many people complain that apples do not now have as good a flavor as when they were not so well cultivated, but there is now an advantage in the developed apple having a higher food value, and I am sure everyone can find some type of apple to suit their taste as there are over a thousand varieties to choose from.

Apples contain from 10% to 15% of fruit-sugar, a small amount of protein, and are especially rich in potassium, sodium, magnesium, and iron salts which contribute to the building of bone and blood. The malic acid of the apple is in a negligible quantity, so apples may be considered in the subacid class.

The best way to use apples is to eat them as a meal either by themselves or in combination with cheese, nuts, milk, or some of the non-starchy vegetables. I do not consider it a good plan to use them with an ordinary meal or as a dessert afterwards unless they are baked or made into apple sauce.

Applesauce may be made without the addition of any sugar if it is properly cooked without water and in a thick aluminum pan. The flavor is more delicious when prepared in this manner, and by thus keeping the sugar content to the minimum, it makes an excellent dessert to be used either with a protein meal or with breakfast. Baked apples should be likewise cooked in the aluminum pan, and no sugar or water added.

If apples are used in the ways I have described, they will be found highly beneficial, but as with all fruits, if improperly combined with other foods, both the value of the apple is lost and the digestion of the other foods interfered with.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Q. writes: "Should a person suffering from anemia drink a pint of pure beef blood daily? If so, where could it be obtained?"

Answer: This treatment has been tried many times, but I have never heard of a case receiving any benefit. Anemia can only be cured by getting rid of the systemic toxicosis which produces it. Stuffing with any kind of food is never helpful and always makes the patient worse.

Question: Housekeeper asks: "Why should not acid fruits be used with a meal containing starchy foods? I know there are others who would like to have this explained, so please answer through your column."

Answer: To explain briefly in this short space, first, the digestion of starches begins in the mouth, hence the necessity for masticating all starchy foods well so as to thoroughly mix with the saliva. The saliva is normally alkaline, in which state it is necessary to the digestion of starches. Now, as to the fruit interference—the acid not only counteracts this normally alkaline saliva of the mouth, but also stimulates the flow of gastric juice which is not needed for the digestion of starch but for protein and other food elements, the digestion of which begins in the stomach.

Question: Mrs. R. E. Y. writes: "My little boy is quite sick with ulcers of the stomach. He is thirteen years old. Should he go on a diet?"

Answer: If he does not go on a diet he will surely go on the operating table. I hope by the time you read this answer you have already placed him under the care of a diet specialist who understands how to treat stomach ulcers so that the case does not develop into one which requires surgical intervention.

SHORT STORY

THREE HAPPY FOOLS

By Martha McCulloch-Williams.

"You don't say," Miss Lexy exploded, rising so quickly she literally rained scissors, thread and emery-bag upon the carpet. "Did you ever in all your life? I shorely never did."

"No, sir," said the Widow Lane, chuckling. "That Copley boy has run away with Damaris, one of the dancin' Reeves twins, shore enough. I just stopped by to tell his mother. The Reeves girl's stepfather is that cut up he cried in the telling. Said he got the blame, same as for the stage-dancing, and him as innocent as a babe unborn."

"Lying, as usual," Miss Lexy commented. "The twins would be quietly at home if he hadn't fooled away the nice money Tom Reeves, poor fellow, left his widow. She's one of those smart fools—I tried to warn her against Jack Ross, being a church-sister, but she paid no attention. So she married him and he used all her money, and it was sinful hard on Damaris and Doris. Course they took to dancin'. They had to do something for their living. I wish to patience Sid Copley had been born twins for the sake of Doris. Will she stay at home now or go back to dancin'?"

"Ain't heard tell—yit. Let you know when I do," Widow Lane said grumpily, whereat Miss Lexy countered. "Needn't trouble. I'll see that child in about half a jiffy——"

"What for?" the widow demanded.

Miss Lexy, already bonneted, nodded towards the door, with a "Come on." But outside, she slid through the side gate, almost running towards the short cut leading to the Ross home.

"I'm glad you—know," Doris told her. "Dammy wanted to tell you—but they had to hurry so, Mr. Ross was simply dreadful—talked about 'kidnapping.' We are not of age—won't be for a year. We've been paying him to leave us alone since we went to work. Says now he means to keep me here and save the cook's wages——"

"He cain't!" Miss Lexy cried.

Doris smiled wanly, gulped and replied: "But he can. Mother made him our guardian—I can't get work without his consent. Besides—I can't get away—he has locked up my dancing clothes, my jewels—three silver dollars is all the money I have in the world. Sid had so little I couldn't let Dammy go to him empty-handed. So—I'll grit my teeth and bear it for the year, rather than give him three parts of what I could earn—if I were free——"

"You're goin' to be free in short order," Miss Lexy interrupted. "Come with me right now. Time somebody took Mr. Jack Ross in hand—and I'm the person to do it—with a little help from the good Lord, and Tommy Woodley," the last under her breath. Tommy, her claim-kinsman and her god-son, would do whatever she asked of him.

"Come just as you are—fetch nothing but your music," Miss Lexy ordered very low, setting her back against the door. She heard from the front Jack Ross laying down the law furiously to his weeping wife. Instantly she set her shroud black hat upon Doris's golden head, huddled the girl into her own prim jacket, and, walking in front of her, went to the back door undiscovered. There she whispered: "Run your best to my house. You know the way. Here's the key. Lock up—tight—and open to nobody—until I come. Now—my hat and jacket, please."

Five minutes later she had gained the highway. The first passing motorist was glad to take her straight to the county town. There she divided an hour betwixt the bank, the courthouse and the law office of Bryce & Woodley, whence she rode home in a rather extravagant car, with Tommy himself at the wheel.

Tommy talked little but chuckled a lot on the way home. "Thinking over the case," he explained to Aunt Lexia. "Puzzle? Not a bit. There's several ways to win it—question is—which is best?"

Tommy was sudden—after the manner of youth. But he had the grace to wait until after a late but lovely dinner was out of the way before saying anything startling. Then, in the warmth, glow and perfume of a June afternoon, he stepped behind Doris's chair, leaned over her, and said, with the least touch of tremor: "Honey, I've loved you nineteen years at least—since I saw you first, you know—so if only you can tolerate me it will be joy to look after you all the rest of our lives."

"But—Mr. Ross — my guardian?" Doris stammered.

"Mr. Ross knows his danger—prison if it were proved in court how he had looted your father's estate, of which your mother had only life-use, but which he assumed to be hers in fee. But—we don't want to send him there—no blots on the family record if we can sidestep it."

"Is that really how it stands, Tommy?" said Doris wonderingly.

He smiled down at her, saying: "Say you'll marry me, darling—say it right now, do it right now. We can go get our license and find a parson in an hour at the longest. Aunt Lexia shall be bridesmaid and Judge Bryce best man. First thing after that, notice to vacate to Mr. Ross—tell him to go quickly while the going is good. That will leave nice quarters for Dammy and Sid—they love country living even as we love town atmosphere. You'll go with us, of course, Aunt Lexia."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

ADOLPHE MENJOU IN "SERVICE FOR LADIES"

Pictures about waiters seem to grow increasingly popular. Some time ago, we had Adolphe Menjou appearing in "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," taking the role of a servitor as a temporary expedient to gain the favour of a lovely young lady. Then we had Lewis Stone, just recently, in "The Prince of Head Waiters," a sad affair with a dramatic touch. Now, the agile Menjou appears once more in a pseudo-farce affair that has a touch of curious mixture in its story-book unfolding, its tang of unreality and the very real romance which colors it.

The veteran actor who can convey more expressions with his eyes alone than possibly any other screen favorite, and who brings to his work at all times a debonnair atmosphere that makes it very entertaining, has the part of the "most famous head waiter in Europe," Albert, maitre d'hotel of a Parisian establishment that caters to the very richest and most exclusive of people. Here he sees the beautiful daughter of a rich American, a blonde beauty named Elizabeth Foster, and becomes infatuated with her. Seizing an opportunity, he departs "incognito" for a Swiss chalet and makes the acquaintance of Miss Foster and her father. Through a series of circumstances, caused by his meeting with a Balkan king of unconventional demeanor who has admired him in his hotel setting, Albert is mistaken by the Americans for a man of noble lineage, and he makes ardent love to the blonde beauty. Later, realizing his folly, he goes away, still leaving Beth to think of him as far beyond her in station.

This picture, in its later scenes, shows a very artistic touch. The story-book atmosphere never suffers a let-down, but it ends romantically and very satisfactorily. The airy artificiality combined with real emotion that always distinguishes Menjou's acting has a proper setting in the episode in the hotel, where he reveals himself in his true character as a head waiter to the girl he loves, and in the subsequent bits where an unexpected twist gives the story a happy ending, quite unlooked-for. Adolphe Menjou either picks his directors with discretion, or he has much of his own way about the productions in which he appears. They rarely suffer from the mis-handling that mars the work of other stars, at odd moments.

On the stage in the vaudeville sketch that accompanies the features for the first half of each week are the comedy pair, Williams and Culver, the man of the duo having most of the laugh with his presentation of a line of bright patter, alternated by a little song and a little dance. The audience appeared to enjoy this pair very much.

AT THE GRAND

THE DUMBELLS.

For the ninth time in as many years The Dumbells will provide the main feature of the theatrical season in this city.

When Captain Plunkett and his splendid organization of talented actors come to the Grand on Friday and Saturday of this week they will present an entirely new and surprisingly different entertainment from any of the many revues they have offered here before.

For several years the captain has been building up a personnel around the original stars, of actors who could adequately handle a budget of one act plays and sketches of a more important nature than any they have attempted so far. It has taken nine years of constant weeding out and development to achieve this without sacrificing any of the important elements, covering both men and material, that have contributed so much to the success of The Dumbells' productions in the past.

The present cast includes Al. Plunkett, Ross Hamilton, "Red" Newman, Pat Rafferty, Fred Emney, Harry Binns, Jack McClellan, "Jock" Holland, Glenn Allan, Morley Plunkett, Cameron Geddes, Charlie Jeeves, Louis Crerar, Howard Fogg and Captain Mert. Plunkett, himself.

The new revue which will be seen here is called "Oo, La, La." It is described as a jolly mixture of trench mud and star dust—the humor of the trenches blended with the clever satire of the current French revues.

Captain Plunkett has gone to the France of ten years ago, as well as to the France of to-day, for his inspirations.

Those of us who believe that Canada's representative soldier show should always retain a bit of that war-time flavour, will rejoice in many of the splendid things that have

AT THE REGENT.

Having ended the war with "The Big Parade," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization has done its duty towards the country by filming the activities of the American Army of Occupation with "Tin Hats."

The dominant note of this production, which is playing at the Regent Theatre, is comedy, however, and it includes no actual war scenes. The story, written by Edward Sedgwick, concerns the strange activities of three doughboys, one the son of a rich man, the second a former gangster, and the third the son of a St. Louis German brewer. These three roles are portrayed respectively by Conrad Nagel, George Cooper and Bert Roach, and Tom O'Brien has the role of a tough top sergeant. Claire Windsor plays opposite Nagel as the beautiful Elsa Von Bergen, a titled German girl.

All those who have seen the production declare it to be one of the finest comedies of the season.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan — slender, beautiful, red-headed — is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, Bobby and David, the family support. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, and gets a cloakroom job in a notorious night club. It is raided. Because of her relationship to Dave, Mary is adjudged to have criminal influences, and is sentenced to reform school.

CHAPTER X

The St. Mary's Home for Working Girls was situated atop a hill in the confines of the township of Bothwell, one of a string of hamlets that nestled along the bank of the Hudson, and bedecked it with all the graciousness of a diadem. The St. Mary's home for Working Girls had been built in the days of regal pomp, when any sort of official structure was invested with the dignity of the city, the state, and the country itself. One could imagine the exalted dignity, the pomp and circumstance attendant upon its completion. The rendering of our national anthem, perhaps, accompanied by speeches from the lips of the town's leading citizen, the mayor, and perhaps even the governor himself. The St. Mary's Home for Working Girls reposed graciously upon the hill-top, resplendent in its red brick and white porticos, with the flower beds laid out like the floral decorations that repose at the feet of the mausoleums. The visitor riding on the road at the foot of the hill could look up and read in red, white and blue flowers, outlined in white-washed little round stones, the name of the imposing red brick structure, and the reason for it. In particular the reason for it. The visitor was ofttimes curious. Noting the bars on the windows he desired to know if it were a jail. No, said the red, white and blue flowers, kept in meticulous evenness a few inches from the ground, no, not a prison—the St. Mary's Home for Working Girls.

Dressed in gray, their uniforms brightened by the touch of white at the neck and sleeves, the girls might be seen marching two by two along the broad path that was used as an automobile driveway. That is, they might be seen if the visitor were fortunate. More often than not there was no living sign about the place except for the movement of the three poplars that stood guard before the entrance. The driveway might safely be used as a path upon which to walk, so seldom were vehicles of any description seen upon it. On Tuesdays and Fridays there were, of course, the equipages of Raphaelson, the grocer, and A. Taylor, Dealer in Meats and Poultreys of All Kinds. These too, might even be a mirage, for if on Tuesdays and Fridays, A. Taylor, dealer in Meats and Poultreys, if, I say, A. Taylor was known to visit the home, where, pray, were the poultreys? The girls often evinced curiosity as to these visits. He was known to come, and the sign had been seen by more than one, and yet there had never been skin nor feather of a fowl about the place. Which was strange. Unless, of course, unless he brought the poultry for the private consumption of Maria, which was not so strange. It could very easily be understood, as a matter of fact. Odors were known to float towards inquisitive noses passing Maria's door. Odors foreign to the home. Odors reminiscent of the world outside. Odors it were best to avoid if one would avoid the wave of homesickness that washed in their wake. Not that many of the girls had homes for which to long. It was best, indeed, not to dwell too long upon the habitations of many of them before they had been introduced to St. Mary's. But there were some who had memories. These rarely passed Maria's door during the dinner hour.

Mary had killed her memories. Had finally learned a method whereby she could deaden that feeble part of herself that would persist in searching the archives of the past. It had become very simple. It meant, of course, that you deadened that part of you that could feel. It wasn't difficult of attainment, that perfect state. Most of Mary had been killed during the course of certain events, and there wasn't very much feeling left. Which made it much simpler. She often thought of the delight in suffering that would be here, should she free herself of the little emotion that remained. That would mean that all there would remain of Mary would be the sharp little body that had once leaped toward the sun, and the swing of gold in her hair and the eyes that had misted so delightfully. But now. The mist was gone. There was very little left in those eyes. What peered forth was dull and dry. Glazed. Almost brittle. You felt that it needed very little to shatter what remained.

The one thought that Mary hugged to the aridity of her mind, the one spark that shed warmth and light, was the thought of Robert. The necessity of keeping informed as to his welfare acted as the pin-prick to her deadened consciousness. Young Robert with his silver lance which he wielded so sturdily. Did he cry, young Robert, when alone at night, and nobody near to see the little boy hidden beneath the protective shield of armor? Did he long for Patch and the joy of racing heatedly after tennis balls that had been batted astray? It was hard on Robert. It was hard on David. What strange events had the Sullivans become involved in. A bewildering vortex into which they were being drawn by diabolical forces.

A week had dragged itself by in an agony of travail. The days had been loath to pass. They had turned their corners with reluctant feet, peering back with faces that spoke of their aversion to banishment, leaving Mary with that much courage less with which to face the time to come.

Scrubbing the white-washed walls. Interminable space of wall that roamed off into the vague distance. Millions of yards of white-washed walls that glared with the blankness of their passive intensity. Mary scrubbing dully. Up, up rose the mop at the end of the stick, little dirty rivulets dancing their dizzy way down toward her wrists. The wrists that had swung the lithe racquets and hit the round white balls firmly in the center. Spat! Little firm pats from which they had sped across the boundary of the net. Mary scrubbing white-washed walls.

The scrawled little missive from Robert arrived during the hour of recreation, an hour spent behind the high brick walls of the St. Mary's Home Recreation Grounds. A bare plot of ground with the thin shadow of undernourished elms raising feeble branches toward the sky. There were the green benches beneath the trees for rest, although no one rested. It was delightful feeling the springiness of the turf beneath one's feet, feet that tramped the stone corridors of the Home itself. At either end of the bare yard boards had been nailed to the walls and baskets attached there for basket-ball, but the nets grew tangled and grey with non-usage, and twisted about their iron rims by the winds and rain. The obscure lines of a tennis court could be seen glimmering through the dust. Mary turned abruptly and walked the other way. She sat upon a bench beneath the undernourished elms, her hands held loosely in her lap. Their nails were broken and dulled from the endless wringings of mops thick with the heaviness of floor dirt, and the grime from white-washed walls.

It was then that the letter was brought to her. So pathetic a missive, with her name sprawled over the besmudged envelope, and the numerous criss-crosses of addresses written and re-written. She clutched it, and made a little sound of thanks. Robert, oh young Robert!

Darling dearest Mary. Why didn't she write? He was very lonesome. There was a boy. His name was Oscar and he could keep his glasses on his nose by spreading his ears. He was very lonesome, and why didn't Mary come to see him? She had said she would. Oscar said to tell Mary he, Robert, was sick, and then perhaps she would come. Would she come if he were sick? Then he did get sick. It was very funny. He was in bed and the nurse had put things on his chest that hurt. His chest always hurted now. Would Mary please come to her little brother Robert, or Lancelot the Brave?

LINDBERGH ENDS TOUR OF COUNTRY

Denies Reports That He Will Enter Politics or Commerce.

NEW YORK, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Col. Charles Lindbergh, having completed a twenty-thousand-mile tour of the country in the Spirit of St. Louis, without deviation from the schedule, is back at the starting point without plans for the future. A crowd of two thousand was waiting at Mitchell Field to greet him on his arrival from Philadelphia, a minute ahead of the time set as far back as last July.

Col. Lindbergh spikes reports that he would enter the political or commercial field.

A recent claim against a Connecticut insurance company was made by a father who said his ribs were broken by his daughter's embrace.

Valiant Tommy In Battle Array Questions Status of Amplifier

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 25.—A Conservative federal M.P. tells a splendid story of something that happened on Wesdneday night in the convention hall.,

The hero was T. L. Church, Toronto's glory and pride, and the one humorous feature of this great gathering.

Mr. Church, far back among the rows of Ontarians, sent a note to the chairman, demanding that the candidates for the leadership be polled as to whether or not they endorsed the views of Meighen's Hamilton speech.

Chairman Rhodes answered through the microphone and, while Tommy, also roaring his demand from the horizon, was standing in true battle, and bantam array, the chairman's voice boomed that such question would have to be made personally to the candidate, the time consumed thereby to be the latter's loss. It happened to strike just after the valiant Thomas had hurled a question which no one heard, and the voice that bore the chairman's dictum to the bellicose Tommy happened to come from one of the amplifiers just above and back of him over the gallery, at which, all unconscious of the principalities and powers with which he was grappling the redoubtable Church flung back over his shoulder: "What have you got to say about it? You aren't a delegate."

The local roar that followed was lost in the buzz of the juggernaut as the great meeting swept on—and Tommy was lost too.

Ontario Shows Greater Increase Than Other Provinces, He Declares.

The second monthly banquet of the men of St. Paul's—season 1927-1928—was called last night in the Sunday School Hall. The attendance, thought not, numerically, as strong as usual, was a representative gathering, about fifty being present.

The Ladies' Aid, as usual, did the honors of the commissariat in a style all their own. The tables, at their hands, were pretty with brass candlesticks, red candles, and the warm glow of large bouquets of salvia.

The chairman for the affair was Tom Dutton, and efficiently did he fulfil the duties.

The Programme.

The artistes for the evening were Mrs. Fred McNeely, who as an elocutionist gave a rare treat with one of Burns' poems, "To Davy," and encore; Mrs. Walter Byers, a soprano, who delighted her listeners with two pretty solos; William Gaskin, a young violinist with a future, whose charming playing of two numbers pleased the gathering, and Martin B. Chenhall, as pianist, always acceptably playing accompaniments. A splendid program, with a few community songs, sandwiched in, was given.

The business part was disposed of with short shrift—passed as read were the minutes, and Tom then called upon James Anderson to introduce the speaker of the evening.

J. E. Anderson, K.C.

Mr. Anderson ("Ernie," as he is known among his intimates) is Crown Attorney of Victoria County, with his office and home in Lindsay. With him last night was a bodyguard comprising John Hornsby, Dan McLean, George Batten, and William Lytle—four good men and true—who were supposed to be subjects of exhibition during the course of Crown Attorney Anderson's address. "Sidelights on Canadian Criminal Statistics" was the subject Mr. Anderson dealt with, and his handling of the various statistical phases marked him as master of the situation. He gave facts and figures, which were startling to his hearers, in a very convincing and lucid manner.

Dealing with criminal records of the provinces, he realized it was not particularly pleasant to rehearse the figures and crimes committed. He could deal with subjects to better advantage than ministers in the pulpit—some of these facts dared not be mentioned from the pulpit. An editorial in The Globe in 1925 caused the speaker to plunge into the statistics of Canadian crime, and gave him many anxious hours pondering over the reasons why there should be so great a comparison between Ontario and the other provinces, especially Quebec, in that here the crime wave was so much greater than elsewhere in the Dominion.

Disregard of Law.

There were many causes, chief among these being the rapidity of escape by automobile after committing murder, or robbery, or burglary. There was also to be reckoned with the pampering of prisoners by sentimental reformers, of persons who treated the laws of the land with utter disregard, knowing there was the chance of leniency being shown. British laws, he said, had a steadying influence on the people, but even juries and judges may be influenced by public sentiment "We are accustomed to taking hard swings at United States laxity, thinking Canadian conditions are almost ideal. We have many phases of criminal statistics in Canada to keep us thinking. Criminal and civil laws are broken continually, criminal law being of the serious aspect of crime against the laws of the Dominion. Civil laws cover summary breaches of municipal laws, not calling for drastic measures meted out to crime.

Here Mr. Anderson quoted figures from the statistical blue-book of the Government showing comparisons of crime and population for the six years, 1921 to 1926, showing approximately a general increase of criminal cases during this period. The crime throughout Canada as a whole had decreased, but for this banner province, Ontario, compared with Quebec alone, the increase was startling; the speaker grew warm in his expression of horror why these conditions should be in existence.

Percentage High in Ontario.

The same seven years, 1920-1926, gave a comparison of the serious crimes of murder, manslaughter, robbery, etc. In Ontario there was a difference of 40 per cent., compared with population, in the criminal cases, against 27 per cent. in Quebec.

Figures were quoted anent the moral convictions in Ontario and Quebec, and these made clear the sad state of affairs in this province. Crown Attorney Anderson expressed his sorrow that so many were falling from grace. They were abominable conditions, he said, and revealed that, taking the statistics as they stood, women were shown more respect in the eastern province than in Ontario. "Is there not something wrong with Protestantism that these conditions exist?" he asked. "We need the confessional. We should get back to the old religion, and we should think of doing something to change these conditions. Statistics carried right down the year showed facts unfavorable to Ontario," he said.

Religion One Answer.

"Let us turn to a brighter aspect of the situation," continued Mr. Anderson. "The religious faiths of the criminal showed that people without a religion are most prone to commit crime. When there is real religion and training in our people, there is less crime among that section of the community. There is a general respect for the laws of the country which is lacking with unspecified religion cases.

"The province is no better than we make it. Let us respect the law at all times, and thus guide the younger generation in the same tracks, so that by our actions of right they may follow our example. They are guided by our respect or disrespect of the law."

Quoting Dr. Harry Fosdick on right living, he said the public governing itself from within will bring most benefit to the country.

Concluding his inspiring and interesting address, Mr. Anderson said there was an opportunity for St. Paul's Church and all churches to be a source of good spiritually, and thus lead young lives to aspire higher, and have respect for those things instilled into their minds, and be an asset to the community.

James Dutton and Sheriff Hall voiced warm thanks for the splendid insight given to this phase of the criminal code, and British fair-play and justice.

Rev. Mr. Allan humorously concluded the program with a story and votes of thanks to the artistes and Ladies' Aid for the good things provided, and the National Anthem was the finale.

TUNNEY PLANS TO SHUN STAGE

Will Devote Time As Champion To Perfection of Physical Equipment.

NO COMMERCIALISM.

NEW YORK, October 25. — The New York Evening World says today: Gene Tunney will retire from the ring within five years but still as heavyweight champion of the world. Until that time the title holder is quoted as declaring he will devote all his time to the "perfecting of his physical and fistic equipment shunning all stage or similar work of a title-commercializing nature."

Tununey intimated that the pictures of the Dempsey fight had been so arranged and cut as to make the former champion apepar to the best possible advantage. The title-holder said he could have risen at the count of four from the knock down in the much discussed seventh round of that battle despite the allegations that the long count saved the titel for him.

Tunney said that he had learned two lessons from his first year as champion that stage work and that sort of thing was best left alone and that "you must never go into the ring with passions aroused."

DIPLOMAS GIVEN ENTRANCE CLASS

Queen Alexandra Pupils Receive Certificates at Meeting.

On Friday evening, October 21st, a large number of interested parents and friends gathered in the Kindergarten room of the Queen Alexandra School, when the Home and School Association entertained the Entrance Class and presented them with their certificates.

J. E. R. Munroe, principal of King George school, made a very efficient chairman. Mr. Munroe in his address extended greetings from the King George Association to the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. He congratulated the pupils and teachers for their success in the last year.

Principal Maurice Park in his address to the pupils impressed on them that school meant more than learning out of books. It meant, honesty, fair play, integrity, patriotism, enthusiasm. They must either go forward or backward; there is no-standing still. They must make the most of their time now. Work, read, study and aim to be good citizens. He then presented the diplomas which were

RADIO TREATY WELL ADVANCED

Second Plenary Conference To Be Held This Afternoon at Washington.

MANY CLAUSES READY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—When the second plenary conference of the International Radio Conference begins this afternoon, a fair proportion of the new radio treaty will be awaiting its approval. Sub-committees have been working steadily since the opening plenary session of October 4 and it is understood that many clauses of the London Treaty of 1912 have been re-written in draft form, subject to the approval of the whole conference.

Many controversal clauses, of course, are still in the committee stage. One of these was disposed of yesterday when the technical committee recommended the general scheme of wave length allocation as proposed by United States and turned down the European proposal which would have changed the whole system of allotment on this continent.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Waterworks Superintendent at Galt Arrested—Sensation Caused.

GALT, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Something of a sensation was caused here today when Peter Cowan, for many years Superintendent of the local waterworks department, was charged in court with the theft of a small amount from the Public Utilities Commission and remanded for a week.

Students See Death Of Young Ex-Convict

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(United Press.)—Scores of High school students were given a lesson out of the class room yesterday afternoon when a policeman's bullet ended the career of a young bandit during a running gun battle. Peter Virgia, 19 year old ex-convict on parole, was killed by a patrol man after he had tried to hold up Abraham Schloss in his second hand clothing store in a Third Avenue basement.

Patrolman Sylvester Savey took up the chase, which led past the Washington Irving High school. Pupils were pouring out after hours. Virgia's gun jammed and he was shot down as he attempted to run in front of a truck.

THREE BANDITS ROB DRUGGIST

Take $150 From Till and $75 From Clerk of Toronto Store.

ROB TOBACCONIST.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Three armed desperadoes, believed to have operated in a motor car, descended upon Omar M. Mitchell's drug store, 1733 St. Clair Avenue West, about 11.20 last night, and, after intimidating Fred Brush, drug clerk, 71 Hounslow Heath Road, with revolvers, escaped with $150 from the cash register and $75 of Brush's own money. Although Brush did not see any motor car in the vicinity of the store, the quickness with which the robbers got away inclines him to the belief that that was their means of exit from the scene. To better facilitate their work, the thugs severed the telephone wires leading to the outside world.

Brush told Detective McMaster that he was behind the counter, fixing up things for the next day when one of the thugs entered, pleaded a bad headache and asked for a bromo-seltzer. Brush turned to mix the concoction. As he did so the first man's confederates entered the store. Brush turned to find himself looking into the forbidding muzzles of three blue-black revolvers.

"Stick 'em up!" the man who had asked for the medicine commanded, as he shoved the gun into Brush's midriff. Brush obeyed. Covered, Brush was pushed back by the thug into the ice cream parlor at the rear of the store, and there relieved of his own money. While this was taking place the other crooks were emptying the register of its contents. So complete were they in their work that they carried away even the coppers, leaving the receptacle as bare as the traditional "Mother Hubbard's cupboard."

Their crime completed, the thugs left, backing out of the store, covering Brush as they did so. Left alone, Brush ran to the window, to see if he could discern the men in their getaway. But they were too fast for him.

It was not until he went to the telephone, intending to call up the police, that Brush discovered that the wire had been cut. He then got in touch with Mr. Mitchell, who has apartments above the store. Mr. Mitchell has an extension line from the store to his rooms.

The police were notified. They scoured the district for the thugs but without coming upon them.

Although Mr. Mitchell was awake in his rooms during the whole proceedings, he heard nothing untoward, proving that the hold-up was carried out in almost complete silence. Brush was not injured in any way, though he was badly shaken up by his experience.

Brush described the thugs as follows:

No. 1—Aged about 25, about 5 ft 4 in., of stout build, and wearing dark suit and peaked cap.

No. 2—Aged about the same, about 5 ft. 6 in., thin face, dark suit and peaked cap.

No. 3—Aged about 30, about 5 ft. 9 in., thin face, dark suit and peaked cap.

The same trio of thugs are thought to be the ones who walked into J. Bradshaw's cigar store, 2175 Danforth Avenue, a short time before the Mitchell hold-up, and after threatening Bradshaw with revolvers, stole $35 in cash from the register and about five dollars' worth of cigars and cigarettes.

The robbery was carried out in the same way and with similar despatch as the Mitchell depredation. One man entered, ostensibly to make a purchase, and while Bradshaw's back was turned, he was joined by his armed companions. Bradshaw, turning, found himself face to face with three revolvers. The cash register was quickly rifled, then the robbers made their departure.

HALL—At the residence of her son-in-law, the Reverend W. M. MacKay, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, on the 24th of October, 1927, Jane Gifford Hall, widow of the late James Hall at one time Sheriff of the County of Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM

HAMLIN.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. J. E. Hamlin, who departed this life on October 25th, 1923.

Four years have passed, four lonely years,
Since last we saw thy face;
There is not one upon this earth
Can ever take thy place.
Thy Mother smile and loving touch
Live ever in our hearts,
Thy words of wisdom still live on
To help us do our part.
So take thy well-earned rest, dear one,
Within the home above,
Our thoughts soar ever on to thee
With our undying love.

—Ever remembered by her husband, Mr. J. E. Hamlin, 254 Munroe Ave, and daughter and son, Mrs. Victor R. Craft, Indian River, and Mr Walter S. Hamlin of Lovesick Locks, Burleigh Falls.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAMLIN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. J. E. Hamlin, who died October 25th, 1923.

It was a tender voice that called our dear one,
And sweetly bade her enter into rest.
We know that she is safe at home for ever
Within the "many mansions" of the blest.
But deep within our hearts we sadly miss her,
And Heaven seems nearer, dearer, and so fair.
We've one friend less on earth; one more in Heaven.
Since this dear treasure of our hearts is there.
Though hard it seemed to her to leave her dear ones,
[illegible] drawing near,
Yet to her Heavenly Father's care she gave them.
And Christ was nigh and whispered words of cheer.
And though the surging billows bore her onward,
She clung to Jesus and His power to save,
Praying, "Lord Jesus, do, I pray, come quickly,
"And bear me safely through the dark, cold wave."

The Suicide Outfit.

To Captain John Dewart fell the role of moving the toast to "The Suicide Outfit." Captain Dewart was a machine gun man overseas and hence belongs to the suicide outfit. He paid a tribute to the men of the local company and the officers who through an uphill fight have done so much to keep the militia alive.

"We see on all side to-day nations preparing for a struggle. The jealousy of Europe is as great as ever. So it is up to the machine gunners to be prepared. Germany was the only nation who realized the value of the machine gun when the war commenced. Our men did good work but they had an inferior gun. Later on [illegible] gun corps were organized [illegible] gun's full value was tested in 1918 when the Germans were repulsing the British fifth army and the Canadan machine gunners stepped into the breach.

Lieut. H. J. Devey at the conclusion of the program moved a vote of thanks to John Crane, V. Morphet, Col. Miller, Mayor Holloway and all who had helped to make the evening such a success.

Some of the guests present were Lt.-Col. Bordon Hall, Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman, Col. J. W. Miller, Major Winterbottom, Major Bruce Mills, Captains E. E. Nichols, C. H. Stewart, J. A. Dewart, Ray Scott, H. P. Ayres, E. H. Woods and M. R. Sloan, Lieuts. B. E. Parks, J. Dunkerley, E. G. Johnson and D. A. Loomis, and Messrs. R. M. Glover, H. E. Effort Will Be Made To Have Streets Clear For Spectators on Foot.

Profiting by this experience of last year when thousands were down town to see the Hallowe'en Parade, and it was next to impossible for those on the sidewalk to see because of parked cars, the Citizens' Committee would like all drivers of cars to refrain from parking on George Street between King and McDonnel Streets between the hours of 7.30 and 9.30 and in this way give every one a chance to see and also avoid accidents. The Police Department would like the public to make it possible to carry out this regulation as easily and as smoothly as possible.

SNOWDEN EXPOSES WEAKNESS OF GOVERNMENT'S FINANCING; CHURCHILL PROMISES ECONOMY

Former Chancellor of the Exchequer Accuses Successor of Laxity.

BILL RENEWAL HIGH.

Opposition Skeptical Regarding Churchill's Promises—Recall Former Attempts.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(United Press.) Recent damaging attacks made upon the British Government's finances by Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, have led Winston Churchill to announce a new and far-reaching campaign for public economy.

Mr. Snowden has pointed out, as a striking evidence of increasing weakness in the financial credit of the Government, the fact that the weekly renewal of treasury bills has increased from the rate of three pounds seven shillings per cent. under the Labor movement to four pounds seven shillings per cent. under Churchill's administration. Mr. Snowden also insists that owing to Churchill's laxiety in arranging final settlements of war debts with France and Italy, the British tax payer is now carrying the heaviest tax burden in the world and is obliged to pay fifty million pounds per year for sixty years on what are really foreigners' debts. At the same time he emphasizes the further fact that British exports for the first nine months of the current year show a decrease of £61,000,000 as compared with last year.

It is generally understood that the Government intends to make its financial policy one of the most important planks in the platform for the next election, so Winston Churchill has leaped into the arena and is countering Mr. Snowden's charges by announcing that he intends next year to carry out the most sweeping reductions in national expenditures. Liberal newspapers naturally express a good deal of skepticism, pointing out that Churchill, when he was First Lord of the Admiralty, made similar pledges of economy and tried to enforce them, but found himself powerless and that since then the other spending departments of the Government had more than defied him.

GIVES ADDRESS ON CONFERENCE

Hon. Frank Carroll Guest of Honor at Joint Press Luncheon.

PRESS AT GENEVA.

TORONTO, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — Guest of honour at a joint luncheon yesterday by the directors of the Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association, Hon. Frank Carrel, of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, gave a very interesting address on the work of the conference of press experts held in Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations last August, when he was the official Canadian delegate.

Mr. Carrel made a moving appeal on behalf of the League of Nations, which he described as carrying on modestly a work of incalculable benefit to the world, for if peace were to be assured, it would be due to the international understandings and interchanges of view brought about by the League.

Urging upon the two associations the importance of taking a deep interest in the present and future work of the World Press Conference, Mr. Carrel said in part:

"While many of the subjects may more vitally interest the European or Eastern Press, we will find an indirect profit in them. Here, in America, we will have our world problems to settle in the near future, and the supply of newsprint will be one of them. In this respect we will be more than benefited in having the assistance, or co-operation, of such a powerful body. To-day we have a surplus of newsprint, but what of the morrow? Probably a general reduction in the size of our papers, as the nations are to-day settling upon a reduction of armaments, may suggest a partial solution."

Outlines Work.

Mr. Carrel went on to outline the technical accomplishment of the conference, along such lines as the speeding up of international cable and telephone communication, removal of press censorship, and the securing by international agreement of property right in news and cognate news, pointing out that in summorning this conference at the instance of the international press the League of Nations had been guided by the idea that the freer the interchange of news and of opinion, the less likely was international friction, suspicion, and distrust that in the past had culminated so often in war.

CABINET READY TO FIGHT PLOTS

Will Proclaim State of Seige in Rumania if Opposition Develops.

FRONTIERS CLOSED.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, October 26 (Canadian Press). — At the least sign of opposition to the Government, the Bratiano ministry was ready to-day to arrest the leaders and proclaim a state of siege throughout Roumania. Troops were ordered to occupy all Government buildings, carrying out the state of martial law proclaimed on the discovery of a plot to restore former Crown Prince Carol to the throne, which he renounced in 1925 when he eloped with Magda Lupescu.

The country is seething with excitement as the Government and Opposition parties line up for what is expected to be a bitter contest for supremacy.

PREPARATIONS THOROUGH.

LONDON, October 26 (Canadian Press). — Reports reaching here are that the preparations of Premier Bratiano of Roumania to thwart any attempt of former Crown Prince Carol to seize the throne from his six-year-old son King Michael, are the most thorough possible, the frontiers being closely guarded and communications with other countries being cut off. A possible attempt by Carol to enter Roumania by airplane is being guarded against so far as possible.

Grayson Plans For Crossing Ocean Slim

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—The non-arrival of a new Wright motor for the Dawn, amphibian plane in which Mrs. Frances Grayson hopes to fly to Europe, remained unexplained last night, twelve hours after the time it had been expected. Despite the fact that it was understood the engine had been shipped Monday night and would arrive here yesterday morning, Mrs. Grayson refused to discuss the situation in any way.

Since fully two days would be needed to install and test in flight a new engine, chances of a fourth attempt to span the Atlantic seemed distant last night.

Mrs. Grayson parried all questions with "I shall have nothing to say to-night." She told interviewers to draw their own conclusions from the fact that the entire party was remaining, but declined to amplify that in any way.

Counsel To Appeal Manslaughter Charge

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26. — Canadian Press. — The manslaughter verdict rendered by a court of King's Bench jury against Ameen Lavaid, proprietor, and Camily Bazzy and Michel Arie, employees of the Laurier Palace Theatre in connection with the deaths of 78 children in a fire panic at that theatre, will be appealed, counsel for the three men announced last night. Notice of appeal will be filed in the Court of Appeals to-day. Application for bail will be made at the same time.

TARIFF CUT IN SUGAR WOULD AFFECT TREATY

West Indies Trade Agreement at Stake, Refineries Claim.

KEEP DUTCH LEVEL.

Agreement Made in June, 1926, To Run For 12 Years.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—The fundamental objection of the sugar refineries of eastern Canada to any reduction in the tariff on sugar is that it would involve a radical departure from the Canadian trade agreement with the West Indies.

This was the declaration to the tariff board yesterday by J. M. Stewart of Halifax, N.S., counsel for the Canada Sugar Refineries, St. Lawrence Refineries, Atlantic Refineries, Acadia Refineries and the B.C. Refineries.

Mr. Stewart declared that this agreement, made in June, 1926, to run for twelve years, was the policy of the dominion government, supported by public opinion. It involved the maintenance of a steamship service and anything which affected this steamship service affected the treaty. Ninety per cent. of the imports from the East Indies were raw sugar and molasses and 85 per cent. of the exports to the West Indies were fish and agricultural products.

The Canadian refiners also objected to the abolition of the Dutch standard as this also was part of the treaty. A. E. Danby of the council of agriculture, pointed out that the West Indies wanted the abolition of the standard.

Question Suitability

Prof. Harcourt of the Ontario Agricultural College gave evidence before the tariff board as to the agricultural aspect of the beet sugar industry when the consumers' league sought to have sugar tariffs reduced, and sugar manufacturers asked for increased protection.

"It seems to me," said the chairman, "that there is the question of the suitability of the industry in Canada."

"It has been well established that beet growing is suitable from a climatic standpoint, but as to labor it has not been so well established. There is a change in farming, and farmers do not want to go into farming which does not bring good returns. It is the same in the dairy industry. The work there is harder than in green crops, but farmers go into it because the returns are greater."

The chairman: "Mr. Lambert (the Quebec commissioner) says the Quebec farmers work very hard, but they failed in sugar beet production. Why is that?"

Prof. Harcourt: "I do not know; but climatic conditions may have something to do with it."

Commissioner Lambert said he could understand the refineries objecting to competition of the Cuban plantations, "where men wear no hat and no shoes and only a little shirt and work for 20 cents a day."

Dutch Standard in Treaty

Mr. Stewart declared that the Canadian duty on sugar was one dollar and the British 81 cents so the British refiners had an advantage of 19 cents per hundred at the outset. The West Indies treaty also involved the maintenance of the Dutch standard.

Mr. Darby: "Pressure was brought to bear by the West Indies to have the Dutch standard abolished."

Mr. Stewart: "It could be made clear to the west Indies that it would be to their disadvantage."

Mr. Darby: "The treaty says the polariscope test will be used, but that the Canadian government would use its best efforts to establish a more stable color than Dutch standard."

Counsel: "That is the old treaty. It has been abrogated."

The chairman: "You are not arguing that the government could not change the Dutch standard without abrogating the treaty?"

Counsel: "They wouldn't change it without consulting the West Indies."

Mr. Deachman: "The West Indies are anxious to have the Dutch standard changed."

Counsel: "You are speaking by the book."

Mr. Deachman: "Yes, and I have the book here. In 1926 they said so."

The chairman: "Why have they changed their attitude?"

Counsel: "They can be shown that the trade with Central American sugars would increase and would be to their detriment. They would be more Cuban sugars come in; sugars which are not refined or filtered, but bleached, but are nevertheless white sugars. These sugars are ready to come in any time the Dutch standard is removed. The Canadian refineries could not possibly compete with this sugar."

YOUNG FLIERS TAKING TESTS AT LOCAL FIELD

Students of Canadian Air Services Company Being Examined.

NEED LANDING PRACTICE.

Have Had Good Instruction Otherwise, Declares Examining Officer Cowley.

Fourteen students of the Canadian Air Services Company have in the last two days been trying their examinations for a commercial pilot's certificate. Flight Lieutenant Cowley of the headquarters staff at Ottawa is the examining officer. The students are required to make four landings from 1,500 feet and stop within 150 feet of a mark. They must make one landing without engine from 5,000 feet in the air and stop within 300 feet of a mark; they have to cut the figure eight five times over points a quarter of a mile apart; go on a 175 mile cross-country flight, and they also must write an examination on the theory and practise of flying and on air regulations.

Flight-Lieutenant Cowley flew from Ottawa here on Monday in about three hours. He used a seaplane and landed in Clear Lake as he was afraid Little Lake would not be large enough for him to make a take-off on his return when he was carrying a big load of gasoline.

He expressed himself as well satisfied with the showing made by the students. He believed that Captain Ayres has given them good, sound instruction about flying, and in all he was very pleased with the air school.

Mr. Cowley said a lot of the students fell down in their landing, showing that they need more practise. Many of them went over the number of feet required to land in.

"This company has a wonderful opportunity here and should develop some real fliers," he said. "The field is a little small and rough but I understand that it is being enlarged next year.

Mr. Cowley held out little hope of Peterborough being one of the first cities to get the two light planes being offered by the Department of National Defence, as only ten have been ordered, and he thought these would go to the larger cities of Canada. "Peterborough's should come early next summer," said Mr. Cewley.

The inspecting officer served four years overseas during the Great War, two of which were in a German prison camp. The cross country flight test to Camp Borden will start tomorrow.

TWO REQUESTS FOR DUTY CUTS

CHEAPER SMOKES ASKED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26, — (Canadian Press.)— Two applications, one for abolition of the tariff on fish net machinery and the other for reduction of the stamp duty on cigarettes made in Canada, were heard before the Tariff Advisory Board here today. Norman G. Guthrie argued for the first on behalf of a Fort William Company and the application was unopposed, it being pointed out that six million pounds of fish nets were used in Ontario. H. J. Hague, on behalf of the Imperial Tobacco Company, urged a reduction by fifty per cent in the excise tax on cigarettes, denying there was any monopoly.

Conscience Money From Peterborough

Here is one honest man in Peterborough. Some time ago the Department of National Revenue received a letter which was postmarked Peterborough, containing $1.00 conscience money. H. W. Cooke, the chief accountant of the Department, did not know to whom to send the receipt, so he sent the following letter to The Examiner:

"Will you kindly state, through the columns of your newspaper, that this Department desires to acknowledge receipt of the sum of $1.00 conscience money, which has been received anonymously, in an envelope postmarked Peterborough, and addressed "Customs Department, Federal Government, Ottawa, Canada."

SEIZED YACHT WAS PROPERTY OF WELBANKS

Magistrate Finds Belleville Doctor Not Guilty of Stealing Boat.

ILLEGALLY SEIZED.

U. S. Officers Had No Right To Violate Territory of Canada.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— Magistrate Mikel delivered judgment in the case of the King vs. Welbanks, in which Welbanks was charged with the theft of the motor boat "Verna," better known as the "Rosella" from the Palmer Fish Company of Rochester. His Honor found Dr. Welbanks not guilty and discharged him from custody.

In his judgment, he said the Crown conceded that the boat in question was the property of the accused.

"On July 26th," the Magistrate continued, "the boat was sailing in Canadian waters with a load of liquor, but breaking no Canadian law. The evidence establishes without a doubt that while the boat was in Canadian water it was seized by persons acting as officials of the government of the United States and later sold to the Palmer Fish Company. These officers had no legal authority to make the seizure in Canadian waters and the sale made to the Fish Company gave no title to the boat.

It is regrettable to have to find that those in charge of the United States' boat which made the seizure on that occasion acted in a highly improper manner while in Canadian waters. They turned the gun of their boat on the Canadian boat and ordered it to stop and come alongside, and with revolvers ordered the two men on the Canadian boat to come aboard the cutter and there handcuffed them, brought them to the United States and placed them in prison in a foreign country. Even judicial officers are not permitted to violate the territorial jurisdiction of other countries

On Oct. 13th last Welbanks, finding the boat at Brighton, demanded possession of it from the men in charge and was given the boat. Welbanks' method of getting possession of the boat from the employes of the Palmer Fish Company was somewhat tricky and might, in the opinion of a jury be held to be fraudulent. Nevertheless the men in charge of the boat appear to have expected Welbanks to claim the boat and it is doubtful if they were really influenced by anything he did or said at the time he got the boat into his possession from them.

"He certainly had a color of right to the boat, to say the least, and the charge of theft must therefore be dismissed."

DAWES POLICY NOT IN DANGER

German Finance Minister Explains Matters to Reichstag Committee.

HIGHER REVENUES.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press) —The Dawes policy will not be endangered by Germany's financial policy, Finance Minister Koehler told the Reichstag Budget Committee today. Fears that the Government's policy, with plans for raising federal salaries, might jeopardise the payment of reparations were unfounded, he asserted. He pointed to huge increases in expenditure which could be met through a higher yield expected through the improvement in business conditions and through a policy of economic retrenchment.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

St. John Man Found Guilty of Slaying Wife—Mercy Suggested.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.) — Louis Jones, of St. John, was to-day found guilty of the murder of his wife Alice Jones, on the night of Sept. 12, last. A recommendation of mercy was added to the formal verdict by the jury, which required two and one half hours to reach a decision. The case was tried before Mr. Justice Graham.

BANQUET HELD GEORGE STREET UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Graham and Rev. Loughead Give Addresses at Gathering.

LAYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Tell of Work at Home and On Foreign Fields.

Two able addresses were delivered by the Rev. Dr. Graham and the Rev. Loughead at a banquet held last night in the George Street United Church by the United Church Laymen's Association of Peterborough. Dr. Graham spoke of the work of the United Church in the home field and Mr. Loughead of the work in the foreign field.

Dr. Graham credited the church union movement as being the most significant thing in Canadian history for it has linked together the sections of Canada in such a manner as no other thing could.

"The great trouble to-day with Canada and the United States is that we have such a rich heritage we are in great peril of dying from fatty degeneration. In a recently written history of Canada I am told that the work the church has done in welding together and forming this great Dominion has not been mentioned; but all history written has not been real history. We cannot take the personal equation out of life and history. It is the all important for the solution of life's problems and until we get the spirit of Jesus in men we will never get anywhere. We will have wars and worse wars, science cannot stop them," said Dr. Graham.

"Jesus Christ is the only hope of the world and to have a world wide redemption we must have a world wide church. The most significant thing in Canadian history is not confederation, but the church union movement." Dr. Graham then showed that those of the Protestant faith in Canada were divided into four sections. The Maritimes in the east with Roman Catholic Quebec separating it, from Ontario; then the rocks of northern Ontario separating this province from the prairies and the Rockies separating the prairies from British Columbia. In each of these sections the tendency has been to pull things to the great cities in the United States that are immediately south. Dr. Graham was of the opinion that if union had not been consumated there would have been formed a great independent church in Western Canada and to the differences between east and west there would have been added ecclesiastic cleavage.

Mr. Loughead has spent 22 years in China as a missionary and during that time he has seen many changes in that great nation. "The most significant thing in the world to-day is the great movement in China; it really dates back to 1900 when, during the Boxer rebellion China tried to cut away from the outside world. After the rebellion it was extremely difficult to establish any foreign relationship. After the failure of the Boxer war China has tried to follow western customs and ideas. In 1906 the Chinese educational system was done away with and before a new one was brought into being many students went to forengn countries to be educated. The books read by these students acted as powerful dynamite on their minds and hence they went home revolutionists, which ended up in the revolution and the overthrow of the monarchy in 1914. As a republic China has been a failure; but one thing that the republic has done for China is that it has put in the minds of the Chinese a wonderful national spirit. A Nationalist party was formed, backed by Moscow and this party, along with the Cantonese army has recently played havoc in China. It swept everything before it almost to Pekin, but to-day it is being driven back."

"Unequal treaties are not the cause of the trouble in China; it is a domestic question and not a foreign one," declared the speaker. In the past 25 years the church has had a wonderful opportunity to carry on Christian educational and philanthropic work. China to-day is going back to her former civilization and culture. Recently nine denominations of churches have joined to form the Church of Christ in Canada. What the church in China needs to-day is something that will make it financially independent," concluded the speaker.

Principessa Mafalda Had 1,208 On Board, Including Crew.

STRUCK REEF.

Vessels Standing By Report Picking Up 720—Majority on Board Italians.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, October 26 (Canadian Press). — The luxurious Italian steamer Principessa Mafalda, carrying more than one thousand passengers ,most of them Italian emigrants to Brazil and Argentina, sank last night off the coast of Brazil.

Four rescue ships standing by all night picked up at least 720 persons of the 1,208 stated to have been on board the stricken vessel, while another estimate placed the number saved at upwards of one thousand.

A Brazilian cruiser was to-day under orders to aid in the rescue work, while four steamers were at the scene, three of them known to have rescued hundreds of persons.

The cause of the disaster was not definitely known, but it was believed the vessel struck a reef off the Abrolhos Rocks ,and foundered after the boilers exploded. The French steamer Formose saved 120, the British steamer Empire Star 200, and the German steamer Athena 400, while the British steamship Radioleine also assisted in the rescue work. Shipping circles suggested that the ship carried 1,500 persons, but officials of the line placed the number at 1,208, including the crew of 240

The ship, of 9,210 tonnage, was reputedly the fastest in the Italian South American service, and was commanded by Captain Gull, 55 years of age. All but 110 of the passengers were Italian emigrants.

Professor Gigli director of the Statistical Institute of Rome, was among the passengers.

The captain of the French steamer Formose, standing by the scene of the sinking of the steamship Principessa Mafalda, to-day wirelessed the Associated Press that more rescue vessels had arrived, and it was hoped to rescue "almost all" of the Mafalda's twelve hundred passengers.

A second wireless message from the captain of the Formose, received to-day, was apparently filed during the night. It said: "Since 9 p.m., with the steamer Mosella and other vessels we have been proceeding with the rescue of the passengers of the Mafalda, which is going on rapidly. We are waiting for daylight. Our arrival at Rio de Janeiro will be delayed 24 hours. We are taking the rescued to Rio de Janeiro.

Ad steamships save H.....

Many More Saved.

Fighting what appeared to be a winning battle with death at least half a dozen ships to-day were standing by the islands of Abrolhos seeking a trace of two hundred or more persons still reported missing.

Seven hundred and twenty persons were definitely accounted for, while the British steamship Avalona wirelessed London it had picked up three hundred, leaving about two hundred still unaccounted for. The French steamer Formose had hopes of rescuing most of the survivors. The vicinity is usually calm, so the lifeboats and rafts should not be in immediate danger.

A wireless to the steamship officers said only thirty-four were missing, and this figure was being credited as reports came in of the shipwrecked passengers landing at Bahia on the Brazilian coast in small boats in which they had escaped from the wreck.

AGENTS ARREST OPIUM RUNNERS

Worked on Case With Trail Leading to Canada, France and Persia.

BEGAN IN PARIS.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Federal narcotic agents who as prospective purchasers, seized 750 pounds of opium in Isle La Mott early yesterday and arrested Oscar Mouvet, proprietor of the Hotel Madeleine, Paris, France, and father of the late Maurice, the dancer. With him was arrested John Wilson, of Colebrook, N.H., a chauffeur, who had driven across the border from Canada the automobile containing the opium. They will be arraigned here to-day.

The agents told of months of work on the case, with the trail leading to Canada, France and Persia. Mouvet showing great agitation, told of losing his fortune for the second time—the first time was during the World War.

The story begin in Paris. To Mouvet's hotel, so his account runs, came one day a wealthy Canadian whose name is withheld by the authorities. This man had a scheme for making huge profits by buying opium in Persia, shipping it to Canada and smuggling it into the United States.

Mouvet listened eagerly. Since the end of the war he had been slowly retrieving the money he lost then. He put 375,000 francs into the venture, on the assurance that two Canadians were each contributing an equal sum. The captain of a French cargo steamer agreed to buy the opium in Persia and bring it across the Atlantic.

Hidden In Montreal.

Mouvet came over and waited. In due time the steamer approached the Canadian coast. Fifty miles out the packages of opium were dropped overboard, picked up by a fishing vessel and taken to a little island in the mouth of the St. Lawrence. They were sent to Montreal later at a transportation cost, Mouvet says, of $10,000 and hidden in a garage.

Mouvet went to New York to find purchasers. He found them, but he did not know that they were Col. Manning and other Federal narcotic agents. Manning and his assistant, Salvadore Piesetti, agreed to buy the 750 pounds of opium, which, Mouvet says, was what is known as "Turkey red," the finest grade, for $50 a pound. It was agreed that it should be a cash transaction.

Monday night the agents went to Isle La Mott, and early yesterday morning Mouvet and Wilson brought the opium across the border. No sooner were they on this side of the line than they were arrested.

The seizure was one of the largest of its kind ever made in this country. The agents said that the opium, if sold in New York, would easily have brought $250,000. They will ask heavy bonds for the two men to-day.

CHOIR APPOINTS VICE PRESIDENT

PREPARES FOR CONCERT.

There was a full attendance at the Male Voice Choir rehearsal, held at the Conservatory of Music last evening and good progress was made in the practice of the various numbers forming the concert program for December 2nd.

During the intermission, some matters of business were disposed of, among them being the election of the Vice President in the place of Paul Manning, who has removed to St. Catherines.

After several nominations had been made, Albert H. White was elected to the position of Vice President for the ensuing season.

It is proposed to enlist the help of the Ladies' Aid of the various churches of the city on behalf of the forthcoming concert in December and steps are being taken with this end in view.

GERMAN PRESS INTERESTED IN A MEMORANDUM ISSUED BY AGENT FOR REPARATIONS

Berlin Believes it Deals With Problems of German Budget.

NOT MADE PUBLIC.

Confidential Conferences Held With Leaders of Government.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press). —The German press is showing intense interest in a memorandum recently handed to Finance Minister Koehler by S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, a memorandum which is believed to deal with the problem of the German budget and its relations to the payment of reparations.

"What did Mr. Gilbert write to Finance Minister Koehler?" is the question asked by an overwhelming section of the German press. The Government first flatly denied the existence of such a memorandum and then rather grudgingly admitted it yesterday.

Chancellor Marx and Finance Minister Koehler have held confidential conferences with leaders of the Government and the Opposition parties except the Communists and Fascists. They declined, however, to make Mr. Gilbert's memorandum available to the public.

The reason assigned for keeping the matter secret is that the memorandum forms the basis for discussions which are still going on, the course of which might be adversely affected by premature publication.

Meanwhile the Opposition has caused a sensation in the political world by charging that Mr. Gilbert's note was directly solicited by Finance Minister Koehler, who in recent times has had frequent conferences with him.

According to Parliamentary advices, Mr. Gilbert's memorandum dates back to his report of June 10, dealing in detail with the system of public finance followed by the Federal Government, the individual states and communities. This report brought about repeated discussions between Dr. Koehler and the reparation agent, which were promptly resumed on Mr. Gilbert's return from the United States recently, and in the course of what the German Minister's request it was agreed that Mr. Gilbert should embody his views in a memorandum.

Deplores Indiscretions.

Parliamentary circles declare that this genisis of the memorandum shows how unwarranted are the reproaches in the German press that the reparation agents had interfered in the country's domestic affairs. The German Government, as well as the reparation agent, deplores indiscretions regarding the memorandum, leading to the wildest conjectures, especially as it is believed that the memorandum's history is sufficient evidence of the practical co-operation between the German Minister of Finance and Mr. Gilbert.

There is great interest in the contents of the memorandum.

Chancellor Marx and the Finance Minister have been in conference with various party leaders examining the document, but as it were to form the basis of further discussion, it is hardly likely to be made public at the present time.

Criticize Government.

The Tageblatt criticizes the Government for the way in which the reparation agent has been made a scapegoat. It points out that the memorandum merely discussed the general question of Germany's loan and budget policy and was not directed specially against the bill regulating Federal salaries as asserted by opponents of the Dawes plan.

The Taglich Erundschau which often reflects the views of Gustav Stresemann, the Foreign Secretary, tries to calm the troubled waters by claiming that Mr. Gilbert's memorandum is nothing more than a written summation of the verbal negotiations of recent weeks and was intended as preliminary to his annual report, but never as a public document.

Arrested Third Time Over O'Higgins Case

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Sean MacBride, son of Major MacBride, who was executed in 1916 for participation in the Easter Week rebellion, was arrested yesterday for the third time in connection with the murder July 10 of Kevin O'Higgins, vice-president of the Irish Free State Council.

Sean MacBride was arrested August 25, on suspicion of being engaged in a conspiracy to murder Kevin O'Higgins, and was released a week later. He was immediately re-arrested under the drastic new public safety act and removed to the Mount Joy Prison, from which he was later released.

MacBride is the son of Mrs. Maude Gonn MacBride, who had long been identified with the Republican movement in Ireland. Mrs. MacBride had been arrested a number of times and recently was reported to be slated for deportation under the public safety act.

OFFICIALS SEEK STRIKE ROWDIES

Endeavor to Apprehend Those Responsible For Disturbances in Coal Fields.

ORDER INVESTIGATION.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Officials of two Ohio mine areas last night were endeavoring to apprehend those responsible for two disturbances in widely separated districts of Ohio coalfields. The tipple of the Budd Mine, 21 miles southeast of Steubenville was dynamited early yesterday with loss estimated at $1,000. Sheriff William T. Allison, of Jefferson County, who investigated, said four or five sticks of dynamite were used. He found no clues. The mine, owned by the Younghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company, has not been in operation. The company recently secured a federal court injunction restraining union sympathizers from it following the operation of the mine on a non-union basis. A National Guard observer has been sent to the scene to make an investigation.

In the Hocking field near Nelsonville Monday night, Captain Willard Havlin, National Guard observer, was fired on by a sniper while en route to the Lick Run mine. Captain Havlin, in making his report to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson at Columbus yesterday, said a number of shots were fired on him from ambush and that when the sniper's position was rushed, no trace could be found of him.

Sign Agreement

Operators of twenty-five mines in the Nelsonville district were reported to have signed agreements with the miners for payment of the Jacksonville wage scale, and were preparing to re-open.

Conrad Wein, secretary of the miners' organization in Nelsonville district, who made the announcement, said that all were small operators. Operators of larger mines in the district have refused to sign agreements based on the Jacksonville scale. J. L. Good, secretary of the Ohio Coal Bureau and a spokesman for the operators, declared Ohio coaol mines could not operate on the Jacksonville scale and remain in competition with West Virginia mines.

PARTIES PREPARE FOR BITTER FIGHT

Rumania Seething With Excitement in Struggle For Political Control.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, October 26. — Canadian Press. — Rumania is seething with political excitement. Former Crown Prince Carol is the central figure in the struggle which is already being waged for political control.

Just as the sixth birthday of King Michael is being celebrated an alleged plot has been disclosed to establish the exile Carol on the throne of his father, the late King Ferdinand. Martial law has been declared and the government and opposition parties are lining up for what promises to be a bitter contest for supremacy.

M. Muncileseu, under secretary of finance in the late Avereseu Cabinet has been arrested and placed in the State prison at Jilava. He is charged with being one of the principals in the plot for the re-establishment of the former Crown Prince. He will be court martialed, it is reported, within a few days, and former Premier General Avereseu will defend him before the military court against accusations which are certain to be made of high treason.

Among the alleged compromising letters found in the possession of Muncileseu were several from Carol who is residing at the time in a suburb of Paris. It appears that Carol wanted a referendum of the people of Rumania as to their wishes regarding his return. Other letters dealt with the question of the dynasty.

Princess Helen, the abandoned wife of Carol, and King Michael's mother, who had contemplated a trip to Florence, with a stay there of several months, has postponed her departure there in order to avoid the appearance of leaving on account of the Carolist crisis. Queen Marie and the boy king are at the royal summer palace at Sinaia. Queen Marie has frequently expressed the desire that her son Carol remain afaw from Rumania and the warning that the re-opening of the dynasty question would only cause turmoil throughout the country.

The opposition parliamentary groups are planning to fight a battle royal on Tuesday, as the summons of the leaders has gone forth to the provinces for members to appear in full strength.

It is declared by government officials that Munelleseu on returning from Paris, where he had many interviews with the former Crown Prince and others, carried documents of a proclamatory nature addressed to the chiefs of the opposition parties. The newspapers announce that the people's party, of which Munelleseu is a member, intends to interpellate the government on Thursday, considering the arrest unjustified.

Premier Bratianu, who has been indisposed recently, had a long conference with his leading supporters yesterday and outlined to them the measures he intended to take to maintain the constitutional government.

ANOTHER RECORD IN GRAIN LOADING

Present Record May Stand For Many Years to Come.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, October 26. —Canadian Press. — Another record in grain loading and marketing was established in the Canadian West Monday.

The record occurring on both railway systems may stand for many years to come. A total of 3,750,526 bushels of grain was hauled to the elevators. Of this 5,109,526 bushels were weighed in at points on the Canadian Pacific and 3,644,000 on Canadian National lines.

Car loadings continued to mount. A total of 4,241 cars were filled, 2266 on the Canadain Pacific and 1975 on the Canadia National System. The Canadian Pacific figure ascended over the 1915 record, which remained the high point for 12 years.

During the past four days, on the Canadian Pacific lines alone marketings have amounted to 18,260,627 bushels; this brings the total quantity of this year's crop marketed at points on the Canadian Pacific to 80,009,740 bushels.

Ten boats, with a cargo of 2419 bushels, cleared from the lake heads Monady, and 28 boats were being loaded. At Vancouver the Canadain National unloaded 194 cars of grain, and the Canadian Pacific 208. Two boats left port with 65,000 bushels and seven more were reported loading.

Storage in terminal elevators at Vancouv at midnight stood at 2,388,000 bushels.

FARM WORKER HAS ARM BROKEN

John Stubbington Thrown To Floor of Barn—Bethany News.

BETHANY, Oct. 26.— On Friday, October 21st John Stubbington, an English boy who has been helping the farmers around here for several years past, met with a very painful accident while helping Mr. I. Strong to draw some clover into the barn. While the clover was being loaded with the hay fork, John did not stand back far enough and was thrown with great force backward to the barn floor, with the result he had his right arm broken at the elbow and received several other nasty cuts and bruises. Dr. Hamilton was called to attend him.

Soon the old Grand Trunk will be a thing of the past. For several weeks past a gang of men have been engaged removing the rails and ties between this village and Millbrook, so that the old roadbed will be all that is left of the railway which gave service to the village for so many years. The stock yards have already been moved to the C.P.R. siding.

On Sunday there was no service held in the United church here owing to so many anniversaries in the neighborhood. The Fleetwood, Ebenezer and Manvers Station congregations held their annual anniversaries. The Rev. A. Poulter preached at Ebenezer, the Rev. E. Rowland of Omemee, was the special preacher at Fleetwood, and the Rev. Mr. Cook, of Enniskillen, preached at Manvers Station, so the church people here divided and attended one of these services, which were reported all well attended.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

LISBON GREETS GIRL AVIATOR AND CO-PILOT

PLANES CIRCLE SHIP.

Met at Docks By United States' Minister To Portugal.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—A welcome which sounded from land and sea and air greeted Ruth Elder and her co-pilot George Haldman, when the fliers arrived at Lisbon last evening aboard the steamer Lima from the Azores, after their bold Atlantic flight and dramatic rescue from the ocean.

Airplanes circled over the adventurous couple, harbor craft loaded with newspaper men and photographers swarmed about the steamer, while whistles screeched greetings and the vast concourse of enthusiastic people at the docks and in the city streets shouted joyfully, welcoming them to the Old World.

Before debarking, Miss Elder was met by Fred Morris Dearing, the United States Minister to Portugal and the staff of the United States Legation. Major Sarmento Beires, the Portguese aviator who made a flight of the South Atlantic, climbed aboard with other airmen to give warm handclasps and extend congratulations to the visitors.

When they had landed, they were driven to the house of General Carmona, president of the republic, who praised their gallantry and expressed delight over their rescue and their visit to his country. Then, tired but smiling, they were taken to the United States Legation, which will be their headquarters during their stay in Lisbon.

Touched by Welcome

Miss Elder appeared very happy and touched by the cordiality of her welcome. Scores of messages from all parts of the world, awaiting her arrival were showered upon her. One incident at the landing moved her deeply. Breaking through the police cordon, a group of students rushed forward and spread their cloaks on the ground, carpeting the way for the pretty little heroine. This brought cheers from the admiring crowds, and it was with difficulty that the pair were rescued and hurried off to receive the president's greetings.

All Lisbon seems to have been awaiting the arrival of the girl, whose fame had long preceded her. Crowds gathered early to glimpse the first coming of the Lima. On the bridge of the vessel, when it came in view, were Ruth and Haldeman. Overhead, escorting planes swung easily in the air, among them the Heinkel D-1220, which is soon to essay a trans-Atlantic flight to America. The crew of this plane had waited specially to pay due homage to the aviators.

Dropped Flowers on Deck

Two planes flying down the river, dropped flowers on the deck of the Lima; one hovered low and took pictures as the vessel, with the two aviators on the captain's bridge, glided slowly to its anchorage.

Ruth was still garbed in her knee breeches and sport sweater, on her head was the jaunty cap of Captain Goos of the Dutch tanker Barendrecht, which snatched them from the seas several hundred miles from the Azores. But it was not until the doctor came aboard and gave a clean bill of health that the welcoming forces could approach the gangway

OLD MASTERS

When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down And slowly read and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep;

How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with false love or true;
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you,

And bending down beside the glowing bars
Murmur, a little sadly, how love fled
And paced upon the mountains overhead

"Meet my good friend Bon Ami POWDER"

Bon Ami Powder is the same soft, scratchless cleaner as Bon Ami Cake—but in powder form in a handy sifter-top can.

Bon Ami will not injure the surface it cleans. It blots up the dirt instead of scouring and scratching it off. Will not roughen or redden the hands.

Keep both forms of Bon Ami on your kitchen shelf. Then you're equipped to do every cleaning and polishing task in the easiest possible way.

CO-OPERATION WANTED.

In connection with its Hallowe'en party The Examiner is seeking the co-operation of motorists, hoping that through the assistance of drivers generally the big parade, outstanding feature of the celebration, can be held in comfort and safety.

Of the motorists we are asking that they refrain from parking on George street between McDonnel and King streets between 7.30 and 9.30 o'clock next Monday night, in order that the roadway may be left free for the masqueraders and spectators on the sidewalks may have an uninterrupted view of the procession.

The success of the Diamond Jubilee parade was materially enhanced by the fact that motor cars were barred from a section of George street, and The Examiner is sure that it has only to appeal to the courtesy of Peterborough's motorists to ensure similar conditions in regard to the Hallowe'en celebration.

Will you, please, help us and the Citizens' Committee and the hundreds who will participate by keeping your car off George street during the hours mentioned in Hallowe'en?

THEY'RE NOT VERY ANXIOUS.

It is rather surprising to hear that foreign-born Canadians, living on this side of the international line and working in the United States, have not been showing much haste to conform with the new American regulations.

These call for residents of Canada who were not born in this country to have themselves placed on the quota list, and although only a month of the six months' grace is left, it is said that only a few hundred have been regularized under the law and but a few hundred more have applied to be put on the quota.

The jobs of some five or six thousand Canadian workers are jeopardized as a result, and it looks as if most of the workers have no one to blame but themselves should the United States Government decline to extend the period of grace longer than December 1st.

The American authorities have given Canadians working over the border a chance to qualify, and the failure of those affected to declare their intention of getting entry as soon as possible must be somewhat mysterious to the United States officials.

PETERBOROUGH'S FLYERS.

The acid test for the pupils of the Canadian Air Services Company is under way, and with the keen eye of Flight Lieutenant Cowley of the Royal Canadian Air Force watching them, the boys who have been learning the secrets of aviation are now striving for their pilot's license.

The examination includes a written test, a climb to 5,000 feet, landing under various conditions, and a flight to Camp Borden and return, this latter part of the test to be done later.

While no results have been given out, the pupils of Peterborough's aviation school have so far given a good account of themselves.

They are a courageous and capable lot, these youngsters, who have spent the summer here studying the mysteries of the art that made Lindbergh a world figure, and they'll make good pilots, even if they do not all succeed in passing on their first attempt.

The nonchalance with which these young men, all novices when they arrived at the aviation school, climb into their machines and take off makes flying look easy, but at the same time speaks volumes for their own ability and courage and for the quality of the instruction they have received.

STUDENTS UNDER FIRE.

The students of Queen's University have come under fire from The Kingston Whig-Standard because of disorderly conduct at the Convocation, and also because of the daubing of the cars of the Kingston street railway with enamel, an act of destruction also charged against members of the student body.

The Kingston paper is so stirred up over the two incidents that it published two articles on the subject, and they both are pointed.

"Manifestly, this sort of thing," says The Whig-Standard, "can no longer continue or be permitted to continue. The rush at the Capitol Theatre was bad enough, the disgraceful misconduct of the students at last night's Convocation was equally bad, but this wilful and wanton destruction of property is a thing that neither the university nor the city authorities can pass over."

For this stand the Kingston paper deserves credit.

There must be no setting up of the idea that there is to be one law for students and another for the public generally.

Evidently the conduct of the students toward those present at the Convocation was anything but gentlemanly, and the need of a reprimand from those in authority over them is evident.

If students were guilty of causing damages amounting to $1,000 they should be punished as any other persons guilty of the same offence undoubtedly would be.

"A DISCREDITED DRUG."

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Indiana has gone on record against any modification of Indiana's prohibition law to enable a citizen, as in other States, to get liquor if he is ill and his physician has prescribed it for him. Liquor, the women have said, is a "discredited drug."

Most of the women who belong to the union would no doubt agree that presumptuousness is at least unbecoming. They would probably deny that they have ever been guilty of it to the face of the fact that not one in a hundred of them can possibly be competent to pass upon the merits or demerits of alcohol taken internally as a medicine. Medical testimony will be found on both sides and no man or woman, without much knowledge and experience, can dare chart the course of truth between them. It is as presumptuous for these good women to make a judgment in this matter as it would be for them to make a declaration regarding the speed of light.

The union does not say, "We think alcohol is a discredited drug and, right or wrong, we do not mean to use it ourselves." No one could take offense at that statement. What the union says, in effect, is: "Many physicians to the contrary, we say that liquor is of no use to the sick and we do not mean to allow any one in Indiana to have any of it, regardless of his views or those of his physician. Though we are not doctors and though we are unlearned in medicine, we propose, in the name of temperance, to make it impossible for citizens of Indiana to take advantage of the medical advice they have received. They and their doctors do not know what is good for the sick; we do."

Presumptuousness and cruelty frequently go hand in hand. The person who pretends to know more than he does is quite likely, as in this instance, to attempt to force his judgments on others, regardless of their welfare and their feelings. It is precisely for that reason, we believe, that most great moral teachers have thundered against the presumptuous. Presumptuousness, if it did not lead to cruelty, would be only ludicrous, like a small boy strutting about, playing policeman.—Chicago Tribune.

SHAKESPEARE SHOULD ESCAPE.

Chicago's Mayor proposes that books he deems pro-British be burned in public by the public hangman. Whether admission is to be charged, as for a carnival in an earlier administration of William Hale Thompson, and the Mayor's friends are to take charge of the receipts, is not stated.

But the most effective pro-British volumes are not histories which, if they seem to give the British an advantage, carry their own antidote by provoking resentment. No, the real pro-British stuff is such as makes friends for the British Empire. Thackeray and Dickens and Scott ought to go first of all; they are too popular. Wordsworth and Keats and Shelley, Byron, Browning, Tennyson—all these should be ferreted out and destroyed to the last copy. And Darwin, who appeals to many as a hero of science. And all the books about Nelson and Wellington and Chinese Gordon and Kitchener. But Shakespeare should escape. He finished his work four years before the Pilgrims landed; he could not have been anti-American.

When that is done, we can turn to translations from other languages. For, of course, it is not just one foreign propaganda we want to get rid of. Goethe ought to go first, we should think, and Schiller and Kant and a good many more. They have given Americans the un-American idea that there were genius and ideals in other lands. Then ought to be burned Moliere and Racine and especially Montesquieu, from whose insidious book Jefferson gleaned so much of his idea of democracy. Tolstoi is pretty bad, too, and we have heard Americans praise Turgeniev and Dostoievsky as though they could compare with Sinclair Lewis and Harold Bell Wright!

When the books are pretty well gone, we must turn to music; that is very insidious. It steals over one. And then to painting. For all these things are responsible for the notion that there is or has been something of worthiness and fineness and beauty in the work and lives of people of other lands. And it has all been very insidious. We could not see how we were being propagandized by these things, as we can when histories falsely declare that there was ever a decent Briton or Hessian or Gaul in America.

THE GREAT SILENCE.

This man Mussolini is setting out to convince the world that in very truth he is a dictator and an absolute ruler. It is not enough that he has abolished parliamentary government, strikes, and home rule for municipalities; it does not suffice that the enemies of Fascism are suppressed and scattered and that his Black Shirts govern Italy with no more open opposition than greets the disciples of Lenine in the Soviet Republic. He is going farther, farther even than the Bolshevists have travelled. He proposes to put down public speeches of all kinds, and surely that is the ultimate limit of despotism.

Mussolini has announced that the final orgy of public oratory will be permitted on November 6, which is the Italian Armistice Day. After that date, and until further notice, there will be no further "ceremonies, manifestations, celebrations, inaugurations, anniversaries and centenaries, either large or small, nor speeches of whatever calibre." He explains that the authorities must not be distracted from their duties, that economies in time must be effected, and the population saved from the weariness of too many holidays and speeches.

Perhaps this drastic order reflects extreme boredom inflicted upon Mussolini himself by oratorical flights into the glories of the Rome that was and dramatic comparisons with the regime in the making. But one doubts if the mightiest of dictators could make his subjects content with a protracted period of speechless days. There are a great many people who possess infinite capacity for being bored. They tend to confuse that which is important with what is merely ponderous. They listen to solemn platitudes about the Roman Empire or "This Canada of Ours" and it occurs to them that they have been privileged to hear a vital utterance. It may not mean anything, nor add anything to their fund of knowledge, but it has a fine large sound and they applaud and come back for more.

At least it does them no harm, and Mussolini should bear in mind that while his dutiful people are absorbed in eloquent perorations and picturesque volleys of language they are not likely to be making plots and planning revolutions. Persons deprived not only of the right of free speech but of the free right of listening to speeches are apt to do considerable thinking, and it is a question whether general exercise of the habit of mental concentration is the sort of thing desired by any first-class dictator.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

We expect to see you all at The Examiner's Hallowe'en party.

The reports of earthquake shakes in Alaska serves to remind us that in Ontario we are fortunate that the only thing that stirs up the country is a ploughing match.

If a laugh a day will keep the doctor away, Chicago's Mayor must be doing more than his bit to keep the world healthy.

Mussolini proposes to fill the air with loud howls after 10 o'clock at night so Italian listeners-in will not remain up to hear programmes from other countries. We can tell him where he can find a couple of machines that will do the work.

All previous grain records have just been shattered by elevators in the West. And they are records, points out The Globe, which spell Canadian prosperity.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press)—Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday, there being practically no demand from any source. A feature of the spot market for coarse grains was the stronger feeling in oats on account of the further strength in Winnipeg futures and prices were again marked up 1 cent per bushel. The volume of business was small.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was quiet but prices were unchanged.

A fairly active business was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was active and steady.

The local and foreign demand for Canadian baled hay was limited but values were unchanged.

Owing to the fact that the surplus supplies of fresh first and second grade eggs have been cleaned up off the market, a stronger feeling has developed and prices have advanced 1 cent per dozen. Other grades were firm. The demand was steady. British columbia fresh extras sold at 60c, other fresh extras at 57c, firsts at 47c to 48c, and seconds at 41c per dozen. The receipts were 882 cases.

The potato market was fairly active and firm. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.40 to $1.45 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag in bulk, and Quebec white stock at $1.25 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The demand for butter continued of a limited character but prices were firm. The receipts were 538 packages.

The United States inquiry for cheese continued good, but the local and English demand was quiet. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 7,974 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Reports of frost predictions for Argentine did a good deal yesterday to lift wheat values. Besides, export sales of North American wheat yesterday were estimated at as much as 800,000 bushels. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1¾c to 2 to 2¼c net higher, with corn at ¾c to 1c advance; oats ¾c to 1c up, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 25c.

From the outset, the wheat market showed an upward trend. There were indications that millers and exporters both regarded prices as satisfactory, and the circumstances that domestic winter wheat receipts were only moderate, counted as an offset to the increased Canadian crop movement which has been exploited for sometime. VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir.—For years we have seen coming a change in the teaching of the evangelical ministry. Once it was founded on the infallible Word of God Himself. Later, they began to find flaws. Now, they believe not that the Bible is the infallible Word of God, but that it "Contains" as they say "an account" of what they used to preach, and that account is infallible where they say so, the rest is trash.

Manifestly, this is an extraordinary change in teaching and belief. We are invited to rely upon them, and not upon the Bible and God as before. They say that their scholarship has disclosed painful inaccuracies in the Bible. Now let me say that a reading of critical literature causes one to marvel that a ministry can be guilty of such folly. Isn't it plain that God could not and cannot show Himself and explain Himself, and His purpose to us except in the way which we can understand? Manifestly, if He talked to us in terms of omniscience we could not understand. Therefore, He caused humanity and the heart of man to write its very fallible life and experiences truthfully and just as they occurred, for us to read and along with these experiences He caused men to write down His remedy for their inaccuracies and shortcomings, and the only method also by which mankind could attain eternal life.

Because these ministers have by means of "their profound scholarship" found these inaccurate experiences and fallacious knowledge of men in the Bible they say the Bible cannot have come from God at all; at any rate that part of it. Verily, the true state of affairs has become "hidden from the wise." It is just as it was told us in that respect. Relying upon their scholarship they have overshot the mark altogether. The Book written, collected and preserved by man, all at the instigation and under the superintendance and direction of God, is declared by this ministry to be fallacious in many parts. Of course it is fallacious in many parts. But that does not prove that God had nothing to do with those parts. It simply shows that man did not know and that God caused to be put down the ideas of men as they were in order to show, not their worldly knowledge, but —their spiritual needs. The Bible is not a scientific treatise, but a spiritual treatise. Whatever is good, bad or indifferent in the life of men, from the beginning has been used to show in what we are, and what it is we must do, to be fitted for the higher spiritual life. As well might these ministers say that Nature is not God's work, because we see earthquakes, storms and devastated areas. The truth is, they do not see what they think they see. They have mistaken God's methods and His purpose. They are plunging the world in doubt and darkness, inviting us to rely upon what they say and think.

How did this tragedy come to pass? By reason of the fact that what they saw formerly with the eye of faith, they no longer see with the eye of faith. They have lost their simple belief that God knew what He was doing when He caused the Bible to be written, with all its human experiences, for our instruction, and caused it to be preserved for us. The minute they recover their faith in God, that minute they will once more trust Him, and not themselves, and see really what it was He did. They apparently have become tired of the great mystery and prefer something they can lay their hands on and can explain in terms of everyday use and knowledge and control. Will that give us Eternal Life? Is there any hope in it of eternal life, under any of the circumstances, assurances or conditions which they have discovered or devised?

It is not the first time however that this has happened. There have been several attempts on the part of ministers in the past, as in the present, to demand that the Gospel of Christianity shall be founded on them, and what they say of it. If they say it is all right we may go ahead. If not we must change about and go with them. A strange and unsatisfactory solution, surely—"O ye of little faith."

But the good time will come again. The fathomless mystery of the Universe is before us. By night and by day "the heavens declare the glory of God." The craving of the heart cannot be satisfied except by faith in God, certainly not by faith in men. Let us alone. Leave us in peace. If the Story be not true as told then you cannot help us. It is beyond your power. You but show us that we are lost.

—J. H. BURNHAM.

A Thought For To-day

THE PATIENCE TO WAIT.

The great trouble with most of us is that we want our prosperity or success to come too soon.

But when we have a too-early success our prosperity really retards our permanent growth. We grow so fast that we get flabby.

Steady success must have a backbone of rugged experience.

Your years of striving are not all wasted. These years are the only things that can give solidarity to your success.

The biggest thing in what we call success is to have the patience to wait until permanent success takes root.

Proof: The most unfortunate thing that can happen to an individual is to have prosperity arrive before he is prepared to protect it.

Lessons in Safety
as Important to Children as Lessons in Arithmetic

Highways and streets are verily alive with swiftly moving motor vehicles. Well considered laws and regulations to guide motorists. Licenses for drivers and permits for cars. Traffic control and traffic patrol. Roads constructed so as to be as safe as possible. Signs and signals on every hand.

The machinery designed for safety on the highways is all set up and working. But the human element must be trained if this machinery is to function efficiently.

Children particularly must be schooled. They must understand the conditions which an enormously increased motor traffic has created. They must be taught their part in the prevention of accidents. Lessons in safety are as important as lessons in arithmetic. Teach your child:

1. Never to cross a street or intersection without looking to see that the way is clear.
2. Where there is a traffic officer or traffic signal never to cross against the motor traffic.
3. Never to dart from behind or in front of a parked car without looking both ways.
4. When walking on the highway, always to walk on the left side facing the oncoming traffic.
5. When riding a bicycle to keep near the right side of the street or highway.
6. Not to play in busy streets.

TO SCHOOL TEACHERS
INSPECTORS AND SCHOOL BOARDS

The Highway Safety Committee makes a special appeal to you to co-operate in the movement to decrease the number of accidents on streets and highways. An appalling fact is the number of child victims. By taking every opportunity to teach thoughtfulness and care you can help to stop this toll on our young life.

As teachers and guardians of our children, will you help?

Upward Movement Halts After Opening Strength

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—A strong upward movement in the stock market in the early trading to-day, instigated by record breaking third quarter earnings of the General Motors Corporation and renewed investment and speculative buying, petered out for a time in the early afternoon. General Motors, which started the day at 133½, fell to 130¾, fractionally under yesterday's final quotation. United States' Steel, which closed yesterday at 139 3-8, dipped to 136⅝ as more consideration was given to the drop of nearly $5,000,000 in the third quarter earnings of the Corporation. Dupont receded to 218 after getting as high as 225¾ and International Harvester dropped five points from its best figure.

Early Trading Losses Offset By Later Gains

TORONTO, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — Losses in the early trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day were offset by gains and the market closed strong at noon. There was a considerable drop in the sales. Stocks which showed gains over yesterday's close included Amulet at 525, Argonaut at 40, Hollinger at 10.10, McIntyre at 28.25, Wright Hargreaves at 7.49, Castle Trethewey at 80, and Kirkland Lake at 247. The losses included Teck Hughes at 10.20, Noranda at 26.05, Nipissing at 7.45, Mining Corporation at 3.91, and Crown Reserve at 52, while Barry Hollinger was unchanged at 92½.

Toronto Trend Upward Although Trading Light

TORONTO, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — There was a general upward trend on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, although trading was not unusually heavy, and considerable gains among the leaders marked the session. Brompton in the paper group, led the favourable stocks with a jump of 5½ points, followed by Canadian Canners, 3⅛ higher at 70 1-8. Brazilian advanced 1⅞ at 197¼, Abitibi showed ¾ better at 130¾, and Massey-Harris was 1¼ over yesterday's close at 36⅛. Canada Bread dropped a point at 164. Northern Bakeries was active, but closed unchanged at 40½. British-American Oil was also unchanged at 32½. The liquor stocks were slightly stronger.

Buying For Advance Causes Wheat To Go Up

CHICAGO, October 26. Canadian Press. — Buying on the basis that United States wheat prices are too low, compared to Winnipeg and Liverpool, led to an early upturn to-day. Some initial weakness, however, was shown because the predicted frosts in Argentina had failed to appear.

Opening at 5-8c decline to a shade advance Chicago wheat quickly rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were easier, corn starting unchanged to ⅛ to 5-8 off and later showing a general set-back.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Dec. 123 7-8; March 127 5-8; corn, Dec., 83 3-8; March 87 5-8; oats, Dec., 46 5-8; March 48 5-8.

L. FRY APPOINTED FOR TIME BEING

Will Take Charge of House of Refuge Until Council Meets.

At the meeting of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge, held yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fry were temporarily appointed to look after the inmates. Mr. and Mrs. Fry will carry on until the November meeting of the County Council, when a permanent appointment will be considered. Mr. Fry has been acting superintendent since the Board of Management asked for the resignation of John Maize.

Mr. Fry was a conductor on the Peterborough street railway for many years and previous to that was a farmer in the township of Cavan.

The Cosy Home TRIPLE EFFECT Heater

See it! - Try it! - Buy it!

Anyone who has actually seen this Heater will tell you it is by far the handsomest piece of home-heating equipment ever made.

It does three things well. It radiates heat. It circulates heat all through the house and it glows with cheerfulness. Just the thing for chilly nights and blustery winter days.

The exclusive thing about this Heater is the draft arrangement—to keep the heat from going up the chimney, to save fuel and hold fire. The standard finish is of Wellsville polished steel and nickeled trimmings. The de luxe model is all-porcelain enamel walnut to match your furnishings. Either one will delight you. See them now.

W. I. CONVENTION AT BELLEVILLE

FIVE SESSIONS HELD

MADOC, Oct. 25.—The Belleville Convention for the Women's Institutes of West and North Hastings Districts, East and West Northumberland Districts, and Prince Edward County District, was held in the city hall in Belleville on Thursday and Friday, 20th and 21st. The weather was ideal and a splendid attendance greeted the many speakers during each of the five sessions held.

Among the prominent speakers were Mr. George Putnam, Toronto Superintendant of Women's Institutes, also Miss Guest and Miss Slicter, both from the Department in Toronto, Dr. Helen McMurchy of Ottawa, Mrs. C. Field Robertson, President of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, besides the officers of the Convention committees and also gentlemen of note in the city.

Mayor Wilmot, of the City of Belleville gave the convention members a very hearty welcome. Principal McLauren of the Belleville High School staff welcomed all to Belleville and described in wonderful detail the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School that is planned and in process of construction in Belleville, and a member of the Board of Education, Mr. Ackerman, gave a hearty welcome, also an earnest invitation which was repeated by Principal McLauren, to hold the convention of next year in the assembly room of the new Collegiate, which it is hoped will then be completed. It is to be sound-proof as to walls and ceilings and will seat 1200 persons.

Mrs. Macoun, of Campbellford, Federation Secretary, was another of the esteemed speakers and dealt ably with the subject "Good Management of Time, Family Energy and Money in the Home."

Miss R. Templeton, of Belleville, had the task of demonstrating a day's menu for October from the farm for a family of five. This she ably did with three tables set in the council chamber, and accompanied by written menus. Her address on "Feeding the Family for Health, Good Temper and Clear Brains," very fully emphasized and explained what had been attempted and well carried out in the exhibit.

Reports on all standing committees were received. Mrs. M. B. Weese, of Belleville was Convention Chairman and was assisted at the various sessions by District Presidents, previously appointed.

Miss Guest dealt with the organizing of Branch and District for efficient work under the various Standing Committees. At a late hour on Friday afternoon the convention closed with the National Anthem.

The report of the Nominating Committee was accepted with few changes. Mrs. Grass, of Wallbridge, West Hastings, was appointed as Convenor; Mrs. M. B. Weese, Secretary, and all the District Presidents (6) and District Secretaries, with the Chairmen of the Standing Committees, and the members of the Federation Board in thi area (No. 4), were nominated as a general Convention Committee.

Visitors from Madoc to the Belleville Convention were: Mrs. James A. Caskey, delegate from Madoc Branch; Mrs. T. L. Nickle, District Secretary for North Hastings; Mrs. W. Ross, Mrs. George Hill, Mrs. D. Moorcroft, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. D. Brown, Mrs. R. C. Fair, Miss Fair, Mrs. W. Ludbrook, Misses Helen and Kathleen Ludbrook, Mrs. Wickham and Mrs. Avery.

COMMON SENSE WON.

General London Opinion On Settlement of Flag Question.

LONDON, October 26 (Canadian Press). — The general opinion on the South African flag question settlement is that "common sense has won." It is remarked that if the question had gone to a referendum, as projected by Premier Hertzog, serious damage would have been done to the relations between British and Dutch in South Africa.

RUTH ELDER SICK.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Ruth Elder, aviatrix, who arrived here with Capt. Haldeman from the Azores, was confined to bed to-day with a cold and her departure from Madrid will probably be delayed.

BODIES RECOVERED.

Two of Men Drowned in Georgian Bay Brought to Surface.

MIDLAND, Oct. 26. — The bodies of Leonard Terry and Frank Mason, two of the men drowned when a launch caught fire and sank in Georgian Bay, last Saturday, were recovered to-day after unceasing efforts on the part of local and Toronto life saving and other officials. The bodies were found 500 yards from the point where the men were drowned. Still missing is the body of Fred Davis.

SCHWARTBARD FREED.

Slayer of General Petlura Acquitted of Charge of Murder.

PARIS, October 26. Canadian Press—Samuel Schwartbard, a watchmaker, was to-day acquitted of the charge of the murder of General Simon Petlura, Ukrainian Separatist, leader who was assassinated last year. Schwartbard contended that he killed General Petlura to avenge the latter's pogroms in the Ukraine, in which peasants suffered.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—A Frenchwoman, Marcel Duret, won an air duel over the German flier, Gerhard Fiesler, at the Tempelhof Flying Field yesterday afternoon. The contest was unique in that each pilot performed the scheduled acrobatic feats first with his own and later with his opponent's plane.

Herr Fiesler recently set a new record for upside down flying remaining in this position more than a quarter of an hour, between Cologne and Bonn.

M. Duret was crowned European King of the Air.

Among the 60,000 persons braving the wintry blasts to see the competitions was the ex-Crown Prince, who was warmly greeted on his arrival and who remained a centre of interest.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—In the stunt flying contest the jury was a jury made up of Dutch, Swiss and Czechoslovak judges. The German flier, Fieseler, lost several points through his failure to land at a given place.

The principal stunts comprised figures of eight, loops, rollings, upside-down flying, abrupt glides and almost perpendicular ascents.

These were carried out at a height of from 500 to 600 feet.

The thrilling feats were often performed amid the hysterical screams of frightened women spectators.

The victor was immediately challenged by the German ace Udet to a contest. The date will be fixed later.

SOCIETY

Mr. Emmet Sheehy, barrister, of Toronto, is spending a few days at his home here.

Mrs. G. W. Gilman has returned to Peterborough, from Ann Arbor, Mich. where Miss Jean Gilman has entered her second year at Ann Arbor University.

Mrs. E. R. Skuce and two small sons, Eric and George, of Reaboro, are the guests of Mrs. A. E. Barrie, 635 Water street.

Mr. Robert Collins of Vancouver, B.C., is in the city, called here owing to the death of his father, the late J. D. Collins.

Among those who have entertained in Toronto for Miss Kathleen Byers, formerly of Peterborough whose marriage to Mr. James Ryan takes place this week, are Miss C. Shevlin and Miss J. Connolly, at a miscellaneous shower; Miss Jeanette Macdonald and Mr. Eric M. Coates, at a china shower and bridge.

Inadvertent omission was made yesterday in the report of the entertainment of Stewart Hall Young People's Society of the Mark Street United Church, of the names of Mr. Lorne Cunningham, who spoke words of welcome and Mr. Harold Dawson, who gave a Scripture reading.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., will address a meeting of the Toronto Women's Liberal Association in the Foresters' Hall, Toronto, to-morrow afternoon.

An interesting bit of old-time history of Peterborough, is contained in a small picture shown The Examiner this morning, over sixty years old and representing Captain Rubidge, who, with Hon. Peter Robinson, founded the present thriving city, standing in front of his home, an old house built where Trinity church now stands and later re-built for occupation by Aaron Cox. On the verandah is Mrs. Rubidge, and on the lawn below stand Rev. V. Clementi and his wife. Both ladies wear the voluminous, enveloping draperies of an older generation, and Captain Rubidge has a long-tailed coat and the tall "beaver" hat of those days.

Yesterday afternoon little Becky and Joey Craig of 299 Bethune street, held a birthday party to which about twenty of their small friends were invited.

Messrs. F. Gardiner and H. Ward, of Brantford were guests of Mrs. W. Hepburn for the recent A.Y.P. Convention:

Local people taking part in the programme at Springville Church's anniversary supper last night included Miss Daisy Murray and Mr. G. D. Carlisle in vocal solos, with accompaniment by Miss Gwen Donley, and Mr. Charles Coleman in humorous monologues, with accompaniment by Miss Elva Nugent.

Mrs. Alexander Mairs of Toronto spent the we...d in the city, called here owing to the death of the late Mr. J. D. Collins.

The Misses A. Bradfield and J. Moxon of Simcoe were guests of Mrs. Giles, Braund Apartments, during their attendance last week at the Dominion A.Y.P.A. convention here.

A very jolly Hallowe'en party and dance was held in St. John's Parish Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Friendly Bible Class, with an attendance of over three hundred people. The first part of the evening was given over to the children, in a programme of games and stunts; the Senior commencing their entertainment with a "ghost walk" and a contest to find "It," a character impersonated by Mrs. S. Wallis, with a successful winner in Spiro Yeotes. The elimination dance was won by Miss Bertha Willson and Mr. Milton Louden; the broom dance by Mr. Donald McIntosh; the peanut race by Mr. A. Rutter, and the married men's race by Messrs. Lemmings and Allen. Later, refreshments were served, in charge of Mrs. Charles Barton. Mrs. A. Pink acted as general convenor, and Mrs. M. Budd had charge of the programme of games. Excellent music was provided by Jack Marshall's Orchestra.

Miss O. Armstrong was in charge of arrangements last evening for the Hallowe'en party of Trinity Club, at which about seventy-five of the members were entertained. The costumes were very attractive and were judged by Mrs. W. A. Giles, Messrs. V. Skitch and A. Wright. The first prize was won by Miss Nell Carter, as "Martha Washington," and the comic award went to Mr. H. Rehill, as a hobo. The programme of Hallowe'en contests, games and ghost stories was much enjoyed, the evening concluding with the service of dainty refreshments.

A number of friends gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cooke, Sherbrooke Street, in a surprise celebration of their host's birthday. Mr. Cooke was presented with a handsome smoking set. The evening was spent in the enjoyment of dancing and cards, and dainty refreshments. Prize-winners for cards were Mrs. E. Crough, Mrs. P. Devlin, Mr. W. Thomas and Mr. J. Garvey.

SAINT and SINNER

Probably Bob recognized the danger signal of hysteria in her voice for when his voice came again—that disembodied, dreadful voice, which she could not associate with the man she loved, but which seemed to be an evil voice of the darkness itself—it was quieter, less heavily charged with sarcasm, but still cold—so cold!

"Foolish, certain!! I knew that sooner or later you would throw it in my face that I had once loved Cherry. You have never forgotten it for a minute! And, God, how I shrould have liked to forget it! No chance! You've reminded me of it every day since we've been married—"

"Except the first three days," Bob admitted grudgingly, but his voice too was softer, as if he were laying flowers on the grave of those three days. "But every day since Cherry came into our home—at you request, remember—you have tortured yourself with questions, suspicions, absurd certainties, until it is a wonder I haven't became a helpless victim of the power of suggestion. I swear to God—"

"It's not necessary to do that," Faith interrupted. Then the dam broke, and her tears flowed uncontrollably, shaken out of her by great, tearing sobs.

"Oh, Bob! Bob! I'm sorry! I could kill myself for very shame! Oh, Bob, have I killed your love for me? Do you hate me so terribly for having tormented you? Oh, Bob!"

She slipped from her bed, her body huddling on the floor in an abandonment to grief and remorse. But her hands went above bowed head, seeking prayerfully, humbly for his face. He caught them, held them in a grip that made her cry out graspingly in sweet pain.

"Why, darling!" she gasped, as her fingers lingered, startled, upon his eyelids, "you've been crying, too! Oh, Bob, beloved! I've made you cry! You ought to beat me, Bob, to teach me some sense! Poor Bob! Darling Bob!" And she raised herself upon an elbow, so that she could bend over him and kiss his wet eyes with passionate tenderness.

"You do love me, don't you?' she probed, starving for reassurance, now that the abjectness of her self-abasement was passing.

"Of course, silly!" he laughed shakily, as he held her close.

"And you were just jealous of Bruce Patton?" she went on relentlessly, unable to leave the subject.

"Damnably jealous!" he laughed again, but it seemed to her that he held her less tightly.

"Then kiss me! Kiss me like you used to!" she pleaded almost wildly. "Kiss me until I forget everything else in the world but that you love me!"

He kissed her.

"Now that we've made up after our first real quarrel, I'm afraid I'll be tempted to quarrel again—reconciliation is so sweet."

"You won't quarrel again with me tonight," he pretended sternness. "It's sleep for both of us—pronto! Good night, darling! Lord, but I've got a hard day ahead of me!"

Children Almost Hate Cross, Nervous Mother

"My children almost hated me, I was so cross. Thanks to Vinol, my nervousness is all gone and we are happy again."—Mrs. T. Johnstone.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how quick the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, E. L. Payne, McDermid Drug Company.

FIRE GUTS STORE AT WALLACEBURG

Premises Occupied By Restaurant Damaged—Other Places Threatened.

WALLACEBURG, October 26. —A serious fire took place yesterday evening shortly before nine o'clock, endangering a block of the business section ,gutting the premises occupied by Hector Sutherland, restaurant proprietor, James Street, and considerable damage to the contents of the O'Flynn Shoe Store adjoining. The damage is estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The contents of the restaurant are a total loss, as also are the household effects of Mr. Sutherland, while the building, which is a brick one, is badly damaged. It is understood that the losses on the contents are partially insured, while the building is also insured.

In order to combat the tendency toward extravagance, the high school authorities of Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, have decided to impose a uniform dress for girl students.

Comfort is a Large Part of Charm!

CHARM is a positive quality. Yet it is easier to describe what charm is not, than what it is. It is not nervous, it is not stolid. It is not boisterous, it is not self-conscious. Probably its most decided affirmative quality is serenity. Truly charming women give an impression of physical and mental comfort. They have learned that a beautiful gown will not hide a harassed expression. Experienced women wear comfortable underwear in the cold weather. They have found that the peaked, stiff-limbed appearance produced by cold is fatal to charm. The fastidious woman knows a warm under-garment that is daintiness itself. LAVENDER LINE is tailored to fit snugly and enhance the slender figure. It can be had with an opera top to conform with a décollete gown. It is made of the finest botany wool, or silk-and-wool. Particular attention is given to its elasticity and shrinkage, so that it comes from the wash as serene and smiling as charm itself.

Smart shops all over Canada sell WOODS LAVENDER LINE hosiery and underwear. Finding the shop in your vicinity will be worth your while.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Generously proportioned beaver collar and cuffs add warmth and beauty to this coat of beige cashmere.

Some of the new cloth coats might better be called cloth-trimmed fur coats, because there really is more fur than cloth about them. Cuffs have grown and grown until they extend half-way up the arms, collars are wide and long with the ends sometimes extending down to the hem of the coat, and wide bands of fur are still placed along the lower part of the coats.

Well-dressed women at present are showing a decided partiality to beige or light brown coats trimmed with beaver, but beaver is an expensive fur, and when lavishly used such a coat costs a pretty penny. Still, beaver is one of the most durable of furs and may be regarded as a good investment.

There is no fur that can be restored or renovated quite so well as beaver, and if you are fortunate enough to have an old beaver coat—no longer wearable in its present condition—I advise you to have a furrier convert it into a pair of deep cuffs, a generous collar and, if there is enough good fur left, a band for the the hem of the coat. With this done it is not an impossible task to make a beige coat upon which to mount the fur at home, though you may prefer to have a tailor do this for you.

Somewhat less expensive than beaver is nutria, sometimes called South American beaver. In fact, the "beaver" you buy on a new coat may be of this description. Nutria is an excellent fur, only it is not so dense nor so long-haired as the true Hudson Bay beaver. Both beaver and nutria are inclined to kinkiness. The effect of heat combined with dampness hastens this tendency, but by a simple process your furrier can have this kink removed for you.

To wear with the beaver trimmed beige cloth coat shoes must be dark brown with beige or dark brown stockings and a beaver brown hat with—I should say—one of the new flat gold ornaments—and of course beige gloves and a brown handbag.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1927

Benefic influences dominate in the planetary government today, according to astrology.

It is a favorable rule for women who will find that they are to be much in public service from this date.

In many states women's clubs and other organizations will be prominent in new movements.

This is held to be an especially fortunate sway for modistes, importers and all who contribute to the apparelling of girls and women.

Theatres continue under a promising rule of the stars, which makes for access of interest in the drama.

Again classical and poetic dramas are to have a vogue in America, it is prophesied, and universities will contribute to their success.

Orators again are subject to planetary influences that promise fame and profit. The lecture platform also will be successful.

This is read as a lucky day for interviewing physicians or lawyers who will have encouraging decisions to render while this rule of the stars prevails.

The planetary direction is most fortunate for all who pay bills or look after their financial affairs.

This should be an auspicious rule for signing contracts. Actors should take advantage of it.

The new Moon of this month brings good promise for trade and commerce. Temptation to speculate will be widespread.

Stock exchanges are likely to be extraordinary busy and sensational flurries in stocks are foretold.

Children born on this day probably will have the gift of wit and satire. Many born under this sign become physicians and all are fond of travel.

HALLOWE'EN GAMES

Hallowe'en in Peterborough, always a merry evening of carnival, promises this year to be merrier than ever before. Back of this festival are many centuries of tradition, and the games that are most appropriate and enjoyable on this occasion are those framed with an eye on ancient rites and ceremonies.

Do you know that when you "bob" in your Peterborough home for apples on All Hallow's Eve, you are following a superstitious practice of the heathen Druids who lighted their fires to Baal in the thick forests of pre-Christian Britain? Hallowe'en, of all nights in the year was one of magic and incantations and all our games ought to have behind them the atmosphere of fate and mystery, to be in keeping with the great festival.

The old Hallowe'en ceremonies, when they were seriously observed, were too thrilling and picturesque to be allowed to pass entirely out of sight, so now, instead of attaching any significance, religious or otherwise, to the old customs we have turned them into harm less merrymaking.

A wheel of fortune will furnish much fun at a Hallowe'en gathering. Cut a large pasteboard disk and paint it to represent a wheel. Fasten with a nail on a large wooden board to turn easily. Draw a circle outside the wheel and paint numbers around it. This wheel is presided over by a gipsy or witch in costume. She has a large rustic basket filled with fancy envelopes, each numbered and containing a fortune or prophecy in verse. The guests in turn give the wheel a spin, and receive from the presiding genius an envelope with the number corresponding to the one before which the wheel stopped.

Fortune's Wheel.

Here is another variation of the game of Fortune's wheel. The guests are formed into a circle sitting two feet apart. An eighteen or twenty-inch hoop with gay ribbon spokes and a bunch of flowers and sleighbells for the hub is started by one of the players the person sitting next giving it a push and sending it on to his neighbour, and thus around the circle. The wheel should not be allowed to roll fast and as it goes around, all should chant:

"Fortune's wheel—oh, speed along,
As we sing this mystic song:
Give happiness fame, power and wealth,
True love, long life, good friends and health;
Success in business, mucic, art—
And—best of all—a merry heart."

If a player fails to touch the wheel as it passes, or sends it into the middle of the ring instead of sending it on to his neighbour, or if the wheel falls at his feet, his fortune is deferred for that year, and he leaves the ring. The game is continued until one player remains who will be given all the gifts in the power of the fickle goddess to bestow. If the players are at all skilful, the wheel can be kept rolling for some time.

The Nut Witch.

The "Nut Witch" is a personage entirely in harmony with Hallowe'en atmosphere. Her place ought to be in a corner of the room, decorated with boughs of oak and fern leaves to secure the proper effect. In her leafy bower, the Nut Witch holds court and distributes nut fortunes to the curious. She should be dressed in orange and brown and have a basket filled with nuts of different varieties, each containing a fortune or prophecy written on a bit of paper. The Nut Witch also reads the palms of those who wish to peer more deeply into the mysteries of Fate.

Paper Gloves.

An excellent way of promoting social fellowship at the gathering is to give each guest a paper bag to be worn on the right hand, not to be removed until it falls apart through excessive handshaking.

A good game, a little out of the ordinary, is pulling the cabbages. The "cabbages" are made of green paper, and "pumpkins" are made of yellow paper. The men are sent into the room to gather the vegetables. Only one pumpkin or cabbage is to be pulled at a time; it is to be brought to the competitor's partner, and a trip made for another until the supply is exhausted. The man who brings his lady the greatest number of pumpkins and he who gathers most cabbages are the winners.

The Wise Man.

The shadowy wise man is a novelty. He should be enveloped in white and remain out of sight until an announcement has been made of the marvellous wisdom that is about to be imparted. After the introduction the Wise Man silently and solemnly appears. Volunteers are asked to come forward and throw their shadows so as to strike the head of the Wise Man. As each applicant throws the shadow, the Wise Man hands to the attendant a written slip which is to be read in a pompous and impressive manner. Giving unlimited opportunities for the deliverance of sundry "wise cracks" this part of the programme, in the hands of the right person can be made a very amusing feature.

MANY ITEMS ON HUMANE REPORT

EXECUTIVE MEETS.

The regular executive meeting of the Humane Society was held in the Chamber of commerce on Thursday evening. The President, Dr. Thomas Johnston, presided. Mrs. W. A. Young, who has moved to Peterboro' recently, and who has had a great deal of experience in humane work in the Province of Quebec, was added to the local executive, as also was Mrs. F. D. Kerr. The executive felt that these two ladies would be very valuable members.

It was decided to have a membership campaign very soon and a special meeting is to be held at the home of the Secretary on Wednesday night for the purpose of making necessary arrangements. Mrs. E. S. Martin was appointed Convenor of the paper collection to be held for the purpose of helping the finances of the Society.

One problem of the Society is the stray dog. The object of the Society is not to destroy a life when it is possible to save it, and for the purpose of looking after the small animals a building has been completed on Townsend Street and will be made comfortable for the stray, sick or injured. A dog- or cat-lover may often obtain same at a very nominal cost. The painting of the new animal home will be under way and was left in charge of Inspector Smith to be completed.

The Inspector's report for the past month was as follows: Investigated complaint of cat and dog poisoning. Investigated complaint about a man beating horse. Called to Norwood to examine worn-out horse; advised owner to destroy same. Dog run over by car; after three weeks' treatment, had to be destroyed. Stray dog brought in; advertised. Examined four horses at Fraserville: one horse in good condition; two had small sores, which were being treated; the fourth horse was badly crippled, and advised owner to destroy same. Tried to locate dog, which had been left by owner, who had moved to Toronto; informed that dog had been shot. Tried to locate a lost Airedale but did not find it. Attended market. Stopped team owned by a junk dealer; one horse in good condition, the other one very thin; ordered horse to be put in better shape. Three warnings about defective harness. Two cats destroyed. Three warnings about flapping blinders. One stray cat destroyed. Received complaint from Trent River that a policeman had shot a cow with broken leg; cow was still living a half an hour later and immediately destroyed. Emergency call to poisoned dog; destroyed. Four warnings re shoeing of horses. Emergency call to dog run over by car; destroyed. Destroyed cat. Stray collie pup brought in; advertised; owner claimed same. Got home for cat. Visited stock yards. Attended unloading of midway; saw no abuse. Horse standing tied in hot sun at Exhibition Grounds; asked owner to move same. Examined all animals in connection with midway; one horse with leg cut; not being used and receiving treatment. Attended races; one horse bleeding from mouth withdrawn from race. Stray dog brought in. Destroyed stray cat. Attended dog show; found three dogs covered with vermin, one with eczema; ordered them removed from the show. Attended market. One warning given re shoeing. Attended loading of midway. Examined three horses owned by a horse trader; one horse thin; no sores or lameness. Dog with fits; brought it for treatment; found that dog was suffering with worms; returned dog to owner when better; owner very grateful. Called for stray kittens. Stray collie brought in. Called to see horse which was ordered laid off; it had been destroyed. Attended market; ordered four owners of horses to have shoes put on horses. Stray cat destroyed. Examined four horses at Lakefield; found one horse with running sore; ordered same to be left in pasture; destroyed same next day. Destroyed three cats with kittens. Destroyed an old dog. Stray collie brought in. Stray cat destroyed. Warning re defective harness. Warning re no shoes. Dog scalded by someone throwing hot water on it; in great pain; destroyed. Warned junk dealer about overloading horse. Emergency call to poisoned cat; destroyed. Complaint regarding very thin horse; investigated same. Destroyed kitten. Emergency call to horse run into by car; hind leg broken; destroyed. Examined horse suffering with Clyde itch; horse's feet running with matter above hoofs; condemned. Stray collie brought in. Emergency call to horse which had fallen on pavement; broken hip; shot. Emergency call to horse which had fallen on pavement; called veterinary surgeon, who said horse would recover; horse still used up. Returned lost dog to owner. Destroyed horse. Called for a stray cat. Emergency call to collie that had been hit by a car; no bones broken, so asked owner to keep it and give it a chance to get better. Emergency call to a sick horse; before going, called up veterinary surgeon who was treating same; was informed that horse would likely recover; died in the night in great pain. Two warnings re shoeing. Emergency call to cat run over by car; destroyed. Destroyed stray cat. Complaint investigated regarding horse with sore back; owner had disposed of same. Examined team of horses; one lame; warning given. Destroyed sick cat. Emergency call to store on George Street to dog which had been hit with car; leg hurt but no bones broken; got temporary home for dog. Examined horse on street, from country, which was very thin and had a sore back; warning given. Received call from Hastings regarding sick horse lying on road-side; got in touch with police there to investigate; informed that horse had died. Emergency call to incinerator to destroy dog hit by car; advised owner to take dog home as there were no bones broken and not badly hurt. Warning re shoeing. Warning re flapping blinders.

Doctor Saw Angels While Lying In Coma; Dies Five Hours Later In Spite of Efforts

CAMDEN, N.J., October 25 (United Press). — The details of an unusual case of suspended animation distinguishable from death, during which the patient, a physician, believed he had journeyed to heaven, were revealed yesterday at the Homeopathic Hospital here. The patient was Dr. Oscar L. Grumbrecht, 59, who had been a staff surgeon at the hospital for thirty years. Friday morning, after he had been in bed at the institution for three days undergoing treatment for a heart malady, it became necessary to administer oxygen. Shortly before midnight of the same day, the nurse, Miss Veronica Logan, called in three of the staff surgeons, Doctors L. E. Griscom, W. J. Barrett, and S. B. Umstead. She said she feared that Dr. Grumbrecht had died, she had in vain tried to find sign of life in his body. Although there appeared to be no heart action or respiration, the physicians administered more oxygen. After a while they were astonished to see the patient's eyes flutter unconsciously. His pulse began to function again, respiration was restored, and finally his eyes opened widely. He stared at his fellow-staff surgeons and at the nurse.

"Where am I?" he asked feebly.

"I have been to heaven; I saw the angels," said Dr. Grumbrecht.

Miss Logan, who revealed the story, bent low to catch additional words but could not. For five hours Dr. Grumbrecht held on to his renewed life. At 5.10 a.m. on Saturday he died, and all subsequent efforts to bring him back to the world of the living were futile.

SALE OF COOKING IS GREAT SUCCESS

Millbrook W. A. Serves Tea and Sells Many Articles.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26.—The sale of homemade baking, and afternoon tea, held in the vacant store on King street, under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Saint Thomas' church, on Saturday afternoon proved a very enjoyable affair from a social standpoint, and financially a success as well.

The decorations were appropriate to the Hallowe'en season, orange and black being the predominating colors big yellow pumpkins, and golden flowers, on a black background filled the windows, and were used with good effect on counters and shelving inside, orange and black draping the tables and making the overhead streamers as well. The dainty tea tables were well patronized, the vase of golden fall flowers with which each was centred being in harmony with the decorative scheme.

Mrs. J. E. Allen was convener for the entire event, and among those assisting were: Mrs. H. J. Grassett, Mrs. T. H. Harkness, and Miss M. Christie, who attended to the customers at the table of baking; Miss Muriel Smith and Mrs. G. P. Harrington, who dispensed the boxes of delicious candy to the numerous purchasers; Mrs. J. A. Vance, Mrs. John Allen, Sr., and Mrs. L. H. Morton, who had charge of the "rummage" table, and who did a thriving business as long as their wares lasted.

Looking after the tea were Mrs. C. McNeil and Miss Annie Armstrong who made and poured the "cup that cheers", and waiting upon the tables were Miss Rose Macnamara, Mrs. Ivan L. H. Gray, and Mrs. T. H. Bradley.

The receipts totalled about $75.00.

The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls in Training held its weekly meeting at the home of the leader, nine members present, the vice-president, Elinor Fallis, in the chair.

A committee was appointed to compose a new group "yell," and arrangements were completed for holding a Hallowe'en social evening next Monday, October 31, the public to be invited to attend.

The study of the story of Gideon was the Scripture lesson, and the leader's talk was missionary in character, "The Life Story of Mary Reed, Missionary to the Lepers."

A sing-song from the C.G.I.T. song book, and the usual social hour closed the meeting.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETINGS

GOOD PROGRAMS

HASTINGS, Oct. 26.—The Young People of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their first regular meeting in the Sunday school room on Monday evening, with over forty present.

The meeting was in charge of Miss Kazey Whitred, social vice-president. The following program was given:

Open hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Thompson led in prayer. The Scripture reading was given by Miss Marion Clapper, followed by a reading by Miss Mary Spooner, "A copper shop in Jerusalem" reading by Evelyn Graham. Vivian Kerr then gave a humorous reading. A reading was given by Elva Killinbeck, "When pa is sick." Dorothy Kerr gave another humorous reading.

It was decided that the Society attend the Presbytery banquet to be held in Peterboro at a further date.

The social part of the meeting was closed by the Mispah prayer.

Games were then indulged in after which lunch was served.

The Young People's League of the United Church held their regular weekly meeting on Monday night. There were about forty present.

The meeting was in charge of Mr Walter Dood, vice-president of the Social and Literary department.

It was moved and seconded that Rev. Mr. Hie be sent to Bay of Quinte Young People's conference as delegate from this League. The conference is to be held on Nov. 2, 3 and 4.

The resignation of Miss Catherine Simpson as fifth vice-president was accepted and Mr. Bryant Scriver elected for the remainder of season.

It was decided that the next meeting be held on Wednesday evening, November 2, instead of Monday, October 31.

The following programme was then given:

Scripture reading, Mr. Everett Fairman; report of Young People's convention held in Havelock last week, given by Mr. Bryant Scriver; reading, Mrs. Albert Brooks; vocal solo, Miss Lillian Theobald; piano solo, Miss Carrie Doxsee; reading, Mrs. J. Johnston; vocal solo, Miss Mae Huyeke. Rev. Mr. Hie then gave a very inspiring talk on Browning's book, "When Pippa Passes", which was followed by an instrumental by Miss Helen Wilcox. The meeting was closed by prayer by Mr. Hie.

St. Catharines, Ont.—"During motherhood I was all rundown, nervous and weak, when, upon advice, I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It strengthened me, quieted my nerves and I had no more trouble. I kept well and had a fine, big, healthy baby—he has scarcely had a day's sickness. The 'Favorite Prescription' was so helpful to me that I believe it is the only medicine for the expectant mother to take."—Mrs. Gordon Bouck, 33 Wiley St.

Salesman For Face Cream Learns a Good Lesson

Mr. Vandivier, New York, writes: "I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—constipation. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking your vegetable laxative pills for constipation my skin took on a new healthy look." CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. Acute Bright's Disease and Bladder Trouble

Mrs. Logan Now Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I doctored for about three months what the doctor called acute Bright's disease," writes Mrs. M. Logan, a well-known resident of Glen Sutton, P.Q. "I had used all the doctor's medicine and my husband was too busy to drive nine miles to get some more. I told him I would try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Within a week they began to help me. So now I am never without them. If I feel any symptoms I take a few doses and am all right again. I have advised many to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

MME. PANTAZZI GIVES ADDRESS

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 26.—By the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie of The Grove School, a few friends were privileged to hear a most interesting lecture on Rumania given to the boys of the school by Madame Pantazzi. This account included a good deal about the well-known Canadian, Col. Boyle, who died a few years ago, to the lasting grief of the people of Rumania.

Col. Boyle was originally from Woodstock, Ont., and ran away to sea in his early youth, wandering round the world for many years, a true soldier of fortune. His wonderful sagacity, intrepid courage, and his personal magnetism carried him through many thrilling adventures, but his chief exploits were on behalf of the Rumanians, and in their service, by which he earned their undying gratitude.

Madame Pantazzi herself is a Canadian, her husband being a Rumanian, and in that country she has lived for eighteen years. Unlike some people when transplanted to a different soil, she loves her adopted country and its people, and has been very happy there. Her informal talk about Rumania, especially during the war, was delightful, but cannot be reproduced at full length, or with the charm of her telling, but she made a distant shadowy land a very real and living country to her hearers.

Most people think of Rumania as one of the Balkan States, but that is not the case. They are geographically and racially quite different. The Carpathian Mountains divide them from these States in the north, and the people are of Latin, and not of Slavic origin, as their history and language shows. Rumania is the ancient Dacia of the Romans, who settled there about the year 100, married the women of the country, and left their mark on it forever. Wonderful Roman remains and roads still exist, especially a bridge across the Danube, called the Iron Gates, and still to be seen there. After the fall of Rome, the Huns and fierce northern tribes swept down on the country on their way to Italy, and constantly devasted that unhappy land. After about a thousand years of this unrest, the Turks came, conquered, and remained in possession until 75 years ago, when Rumania joined Bulgaria and the other Balkan States in an attempt to free themselves from Turkish rule, and at the battle of Plevna the Turks were finally defeated, and Osman Pasha, their leader, was taken prisoner. For the first time in her history Rumania was left free to shape her own destiny. Prince Charles, who had taken a prominent part in the war, was crowned King, and reigned nearly fifty years. His Queen, well known for her literary gifts under the name of Carmen Sylva, and for her many good works on behalf of her people, was much loved and her charities survive today.

The Great War was two years old before Rumania threw in her lot with the Allies, as she was in a most difficult and dangerous position, but when the die was cast, she fought well and nobly. About the time the revolution took place in Russia, there were a large number of Rumanians in Odessa, and Mons. Pantazzi was sent there, his wife and children accompanying him. Seventy-one of these Rumanians, of whom he, was one, were seized and thrown into prison by the Bolsheviks. Just at this critical moment Col. Boyle heard of their plight, succeeded in getting an aeroplane, and flew to their rescue. He had most extraordinary powers of getting what he wanted out of people, and he had just got the promise of release of the prisoners when the Germans arrived and took the city. Col. Boyle could not speak a word of any language but English, so he asked Madame Pantazzi to be his interpreter, which she did, going with him to German and Soviet authorities, and people of all sorts. She accidentally learned that the prisoners were to be put on a ship and transported, the captain in charge having no intention of keeping his agreement with Col. Boyle to remain until he secured a permit for possession of the prisoners from the Soviet. She flew to Col. Boyle, and they rushed to the dock, where he confronted the captain and ordered the prisoners ashore, but by a trick the captain gave a signal, and the soldiers on the ship shot down among the helpless people, forced them aboard, and cast off. Col. Boyle called to Madame that he was going, too, and unarmed, he climbed aboard and sailed. How he managed it no one knows, but after a series of misfortunes he got them all safely landed at Theodosia, beyond Crimea, and taken to a Chinese hospital, where a Greek merchant helped them to freedom. Meanwhile Madame and her children returned to Rumania, and Mons. Pantazzi was restored to them.

Madame Pantazzi also told other stories of Col. Boyle's brave deeds on behalf of the Rumanians, to whom he is a veritable hero. She also spoke amusingly about the little five-year-old King, Michael, who speaks English best, his games with his pet dog, his admiration for a yellow toy balloon, his box of treasures which he showed her, etc., and brought to the minds of her hearers a picture of a very simple, natural little child, who will always be a figure of interest to those who listened to her.

THEY WANT MORE PANCAKES

Perhaps you like the Buckwheat flavour

Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour is the Pancake Flour with Buckwheat Flour added. Nothing is more pleasing than the appetising buckwheat aroma and the delightful buckwheat flavour. No other buckwheat pancakes can be so light. Keep both kinds on hand and have variety.

It's simple to satisfy the natural pancake desire which people have when autumn comes. Serve Aunt Jemima Pancakes. To one part of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour add an equal part of milk (water will do if milk isn't handy). Stir to a smooth batter. Pour on a moderately hot griddle or waffle iron.* Small pancakes are easiest to cook.

Then you have them. Pancakes or waffles—light and delicate in texture—tastily flavored—golden-brown—easily digested. Serve with syrup, butter or brown sugar, or garnish with bacon or sausage. The family know goodness when they taste it. No wonder they ask for more.

Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour is made with a very old recipe. Now the most famous recipe in the world. You could not readily buy all the fine flours it contains nor could you mix them so deftly.

Economical; no waste—for you mix only the quantity required.

Ask your grocer today for Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour.

*Note: Use a thick, cast iron or aluminum griddle when making pancakes as a thin frying pan of steel conducts the heat too rapidly for the best results. Cook with a moderate rather than a hot fire.

Will Elect Successor to Johnson on November 2nd

FRANK NAVIN CALLS MEETING FOR NEXT WEEK

League Directors to Meet In Chicago on November Second.

BARNARD LIKELY CHOICE

Got First Knowledge of Baseball While Working on Newspaper.

DETROIT, Mich., October 26 (Canadian Press).—Frank J. Navin, vice-president and acting head of the American Baseball League, yesterday called a special meeting of the league directors to be held in Chicago on November 2, to elect a successor to Ban Johnson, who resigned last week.

Navin, who has been directing the league affairs since Johnson's retirement last week declined to discuss the probable choice of the league directors. It has been generally believed, however, that E. S. Barnard, of Cleveland, will be elected to fill the place vacated by Johnson.

Sports Writer.

Barnard was born in West Columbia, W.Va., in 1874. He graduated from Otterbein College in 1895 and later coached the Otterbein football team, gaining a brilliant victory over the Ohio State eleven while there.

He never witnessed a baseball game until he was 21 years of age, but a great many of his early years after graduation from college were spent in writing sports for newspapers in the Middle West.

While with a Columbus, O., newspaper, he became interested in the fight being waged by the infant American League against the old National League, and devoted so many columns of space to aiding the young organization in its fight for existence that he soon attracted the attention of the officials of that league.

He joined the Indians as secretary in 1903, was elected vice-president in 1910 ,and ascended to the presidency of the club upon the death of James C. Dunn in 1922. He successfully filled that position up to his present appointment.

The new president of the American League is a tall, serious-looking gentleman who has shown his efficiency by an unusual capacity ofr organization. He has waged and won many warm political battles in baseball circles and seems fully fit to guide the destinies of the junior major league to years of success. Under him, present internal dissension is expected to be curtailed.

Weissdorn Favorite For Cambridgeshire

NEWMARKET, England, October 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—Final betting quotations on the Cambridgeshire, famous fall handicap ,which will be run over the mile and one furlong route here to-day for the 88th renewal, reveals that the German-bred horse, Weissdorn, owned by Baron S. A. Oppenheim, is the favourite, at odds of 5½ to 1 against. Inea and Fohanaun are strong second choices at 13 to 2 against.

Other betting odds are: Orbindos 100 to 9 against and Caporal Silver Lark 100 to 6, Insight and All Blue 18 to 1; Medal 20 to 1; Heir-Apparent and Volta's Pride 20 to 1; Niantic, Esclarmonde, Sun Yat Sen, Caustic and Hera, 33 to 1; Cuarlis and Prester John 40 to 1; Kitty Third, Masked Marvel and Ceteb 50 to 1.

Insight Second (Thwaites), Masked Marvel (C. Childs), Weissdorn (Carslake); Delius (Pryor), Inca (Elliott), Fohanaun (F. Fox), Silver Lark (C. Richards), Volta's Pride (Perryman), Kitty Third (Steve Donoghue), Orbindos (A. Burns), Medal (Caldwell), Prester John (F. Field), Caporal (S. Wragg), All Blue (Sirett), Heir-Apparent (Dines), Cuarlis (Southey), Sun Yat Sen (A. Berry), Ceteb (K. Robertson), Esclarmonde (Baines), Hera (Alford), Niantic (Stephenson), Caustic (A. Wragg).

and the aviators leave the ship. And the little aviatrix looked quite as pretty as she had been pictured, with hair wind-blown and cheeks rosy from the breezes of the sea. She said she had enjoyed the trip greatly, but was glad to be again near land.

Coming ashore they were greeted with a shouting, scuffling crowd which swarmed around them and made landing difficult. It was a good natured, enthusiastic crowd whose only desire was to get close enough to have a good look at the fearless air-woman and airman.

Miss Elder and Haldeman expect to leave Lisbon Thursday by aeroplane, flying direct to Paris. Several planes have been offered them for this purpost, but if they do not deem it advisable to accept any of these offers, they will travel by the southern express.

Discussing the possibility of a future flight, Miss Elder said it would be impossible this year. Both she and Haldeman thought that the start of their recent flight had even been made too late. He also was glad, he said, to be on land. But he modestly remained in the background, conversing with other aviators, who were anxious for details of his flight.

Groh Will Manage South Atlantic Club

CHARLOTTE, N.C., October 26 (Canadian Press). — Heinie Groh, Pittsburgh third baseman, yesterday signed a one-year contract to manage the Charlotte team of the South Atlantic Association, Felix Heyman, owner of the club, announced. Groh's salary was not made public, but Heyman said it was the largest ever paid a manager in the Sally League. Groh succeeds Ray Kennedy, released last week.

O'HARA AFTER NEW OUTFIELD

Not Likely That Fly-Chasers Will Be Asked To Return.

WALSH GOES BACK

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Bill O'Hara doesn't intend to wait until next spring before lining up his Leafs for the 1928 season. The new pilot of the Toronto club knows what he wants, and it will not be his fault if he doesn't build up a club worth while to represent the Queen City in the International League.

It is more than likely that a complete new outfield will be on deck next season. Jimmy Walsh will not be back. The veteran wouldn't have returned in an event, as he was only here on loan from the Indianapolis club of the American Association, and thereby hangs a tale.

Walsh, who was a Buffalo club holdout last spring, was sold to the Indians and out of the league which he had dominated with his big bat the previous campaign because he wanted more money than Manager Clymer was prepared to pay for his services.

Was Good Move.

Walsh was late in reporting and in addition was slow in rounding into form and the Indianapolis manager shipped him back to Buffalo without thanks. Clymer had no place for him and the case was taken to the National commission, which after due deliberation awarded him to Indianapolis and ordered that cub to make good with the player and also with the Buffalo club.

It was then that the Toronto club stepped in and relieved the AA club of a white elephant. The Leafs were sadly in need of a fly chaser who could hit and Walsh looked like the man who would fill the bill. He came high, but President Solman, recognizing the urgency of the situation, not only assumed his contract, but paid him his arrears in salary.

It was a masterly move from a Toronto standpoint, as Walsh won many games for the Leafs with his big bat and played good ball all round despite his weak wing, which was one of the reasons why Indianapolis passed him up.

Spencer to Retire?

Vernon Spencer, according to reports, plans to retire from the game. He has been doing that off and on for several years back a la Patti, but it looks as if he meant it this time. Spencer has a farm in Michigan and baseball with him is only a pastime.

"Jake" Jacobson, who was acquired from Brooklyn late in the summer, didn't perform up to expectations, probably on account of the fact that he played but little during his two seasons with the Dodgers. He is under a two-year contract and it is said that his salary equals that of the highest paid player in the league. Whether the stylish ball hawk will be asked to return is a question.

Charlie High was of little use to the club and it is almost a certainty that he will be sold or traded.

Layne and Carlyle.

Manager O'Hara would like to get Herman Layne and Cleo Carlyle again. The former, who was with Pittsburgh in the spring, played in the American Association all season, when Carlyle was only in the game infrequently with the Boston Red Sox, for all that club wound up the season in last place. They were great favorites when they were with the Leafs, and their big league experience should not be held against them.

Messrs. Solman, Dunn and O'Hara will attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues which will be held at Dallas, Texas, next month, and it is likely while there that they will make some important deals and also decide upon a training ground for next spring. In any event the Leafs will not patronize Augusta again.

Winnipeg Swimmers Break Two Records

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 26.—One Dominion and one Provincial record were broken by Miss Vera Tustin, of Winnipeg, at the championship gala of the Women's Amateur Swimming Club here Monday.

The speedy mermaid bettered two previous marks when she crossed the finishing line well ahead of the other competitors in the 100 yards event. Miss Tustin negotiated the distance in 1:10 4-5, lowering the Canadian record, formerly held by Miss Hazel Kessler, Winnipeg, by three-fifths of a second, and the provincial record by 1 4-5 seconds.

Albert Ford, in winning the 220-yard men's championship in 1:01 3-5, clipped 2-5 of a second off the former provincial mark.

FIDEL LA BARBA AS A FRESHMAN

A "big shot" gets some attention any place he goes. Even when he is a college freshman. Take the case of Fidel La Barba ,retired undefeated flyweight champion . He's a fresh at Stanford now, a green one at that, as you can readily see from the center photograph here. But just the same, Fidel gets some attention from the "big shots" on the Stanford campus. At the left, we see Fidel chinning a bit with "Biff" Hoffmann, Stanford's smashing fullback. Note the pointed finger of Fidel—do you suppose he is telling "Biff" how to sock 'em harder? At the right, Fidel is shown with Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner—and talking, perhaps giving a hint or two that might

VARSITY TO MEET QUEEN'S SATURDAY

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—One of Toronto's four hopes for a 1927 senior football championship took the count on Saturday when Argonauts fell before the onslaughts of Ralph Harrison and the Winged Wheelers at Montreal. There are still three clubs left with their hats in the rings. Balmy Beach and Varsity "Orphans" are in front in th O.R.F.U. and they will finish in one-two order. The Beachers are in the lead and they should retain it. Right now they appear to be the only 1926 championship club that will repeat.

The other club that has a chance to figure in the money is Varsity, they meet Queen's here on Saturday and if they take the count they are out. On the other hand a victory for them over the Tricolor here and another win in Montreal over McGill would put them in position for a three-cornered tie with Queen's and McGill, providing Harry Batstone and his merry men could down the "Shagmen" in Kingston. It would not be the first time in the intercollegiate race that the above situation has come to the fore.

Queen's v. Varsity.

Queen's v. Varsity, that is the big game in local circles on Saturday, the only other affair scheduled for this town is the Camp Borden-Varsity O.R.F.U. set-to and it will in all probability be played at the Oakwood Stadium, and the "Orphans" are the overwhelming favorites.

The game at the Varsity enclosure is attracting a lot of attention. Queen's managed to get a 3 to 0 verdict over the Blue and White at Kingston last Saturday but the battle was so close that the verdict might have easily been reversed. They are two of the most evenly matched clubs that ever hooked up and the game here should be a thriller. It will practically mean the difference between a chance at the college title and elimination, and both aggregations will be primed to the limit for sixty minutes of bang-up football.

At Kingston the rugby displayed was of the careful variety, neither team took a great many chances and the only feature of the play that kept the game open was the large amount of kicking done by Batstone and Sinclair. Last night Queen's started drilling for their visit here and they are not having things easy. Varsity are too much of a threat to fool around with and the Kingston college is calling upon its reinforcements. "Chubby" Dunne, the Ottawa wing man who is on the injured list, is being groomed, and it is at all possible he will be on the line when they face the men of McPherson.

Beachers for McGill.

Balmy Beach are returning the visit that McGill made to the Oakwood Stadium at the beginning of the season and the game should do wonders for both clubs. It will stiffen the Red and White for their next Intercollegiate game with Queen's and give the Beachers a battle that will help get them in shape for the Dominion playoffs. That is one of the drawbacks that Balmy Beach have this year. Outside of their games with the Varsity Orphans they are having a walk away and the battles are not tough enough to get them in proper condition. The forward pass will again be featured and Harry Hobbs has the gold and blue clad organization tossing the pill around again this week. They defeated McGill here earlier in the season and the Montreal college are out for revenge.

Earl Smith and Ross Robertson might not take the trip down east, they are both nursing bad knees, and while they are not serious casualties, the management is not taking any chances.

Ruth Alone Hit More Homers This Season Than Any One Club in the Major Leagues

(By NEA Service)

When Babe Ruth made 60 home runs during the season of 1927, to break his best previous effort of 59 made in 1921, he also established another record that it is doubtful if any slugger will equal.

In making those 60 home runs, Ruth performed the almost inconceivable feat of driving out, all by himself, more circuit swats than did the entire squad of any other American League club, with the exception of New York, of course.

The Yankees made 158 home runs, of which Ruth, Gehrig and Lazzeri contributed 125, Gehrig adding 47 and Lazzeri 18 to the 60 the Babe accounted for. The next closest club to the Yankees was the Athletics with 56, then St. Louis with 55, and Detroit 51. Cleveland, with 36, had the lowest mark in the home run column.

In the National League, only three teams made more runs than Ruth's mark of 60. The Giants knocked out 109 four-base swats, while St. Louis made 84 and Chicago 74. There are short fences in all three parks, taking something off the premium that ordinarily goes with home run hitting.

Thus Ruth, all alone, made more home runs than the combined personnel of each of twelve other major league clubs. Lou Gehrig, with 47, had a higher mark than the combined slugging of seven of the major league clubs.

Ruth continued merrily on his way in the world series, getting two more home runs in four games, even a trifle better than his average for the season, 60 homers in 151 games. His entire total for the year, spring training and barnstorming games included, will be close to 100.

CORONER'S JURY URGES INQUIRY

Port Hope Jurors Withhold Verdict Pending Analysis of Stomach.

PORT HOPE, October 26.—A Coroner's jury failed to return a verdict at the inquest held here last night on the death of Herbert G. Graham, aged 48, who died on October 17, and the Attorney-General's Department has been asked to investigate further and have the stomach contents analyzed.

Graham died on October 17. Doctors H. W. Benson and C. W. Kelly, of Port Hope, conducted a post-mortem examination and were unable to determine the cause of death.

Rugby Star Injured On Practice Field

KINGSTON, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — Fred Warren, former western rugby star, was injured during the practice of Queen's Seniors at the Richardson Stadium yesterday afternoon, his shoulder being hurt in a scrimmage. He was forced to retire from the game; just how long he will be out of the game is unknown at present. The practice was the first work-out of the tri-colour since the Varsity game, and all the players with the exception of Brown and Sutton were in uniform.

LIVINGSTONE OUT OF HOCKEY AGAIN

American Hockey League Reorganizes Without Including the Chicago Cardinals.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Once more Eddie Livingstone of Toronto has been frozen out of pro hockey—and by exactly the same method.

Some years ago Livingstone and the old National Hockey Association had a jam and the association squashed Livvy by disbanding and reforming the league without Livingstone's club.

Livvy went to the courts with the matter and on conspiracy charges received an award of generous proportions as damages, but the matter was taken from court to court and finally went to the privy council, where it was finally lost in the fog. Just where that matter stands no one seems to know but Livvy lost his franchise and his players and he has not yet collected anything.

A year ago Livingstone went to Chicago, secured a franchise in the American Professional Hockey Association, which absorbed the old Central Hockey League, a supposedly amateur organization, which has operated in Winnipeg, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Eveleth and Milwaukee. The American Hockey Association operated all last season but finally trouble broke for Livvy in Chicago and at the tail end of the season he was refused ice at the Coliseum in Chicago. The matter was patched up in some way and the Toronto man arranged to sell his franchise and players, he says, for $150,000, but when he came to deliver the officers of the American League declared that he had no franchise and that four of his star players were under contract to the Chicago Black Hawks of the N.H.L. and had been signed with them since February. He made a protest but the answer of the clubs which had been in the league with his last season was to disband and to reform under the title of the Central Hockey Association without embracing Livingstone's club. The Central League now includes clubs at Winnipeg, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Kansas City. The Kansas City club is a new club. This is the club to which Joe Dwyer, Bert McLeod and Wilfred Ranger of the Peterboro Senior O.H.A. team have reported.

Livingstone have been in Chicago for a couple of months collecting evidence of what he claims was a conspiracy to oust him from the league and is now suing the Chicago Black Hawks and other parties whom he claims are responsible.

Meanwhile the newly-formed league has issued a schedule of 40 games for the five clubs named above, the Chicago club is out of it and the Hawks have four of Livvy's players—Wentworth, Graham, Burns and Taylor, while Gordie Brydson has been awarded to Stratford in the Canadian pro league.

Livingstone bases his claim for conspiracy against the Black Hawks club on the assertion that they signed Wentworth, Graham, Burns and Taylor last February while they were still under contract to him and that they gave them advance money.

JOHNNY DUNDEE THROUGH AS BOXER

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—To the drum-beat of a younger fighter's fists, Johnny Dundee has passed from the spotlight and the headlines.

Shorn of his last excuse for fighting, after a decisive and not unexpected defeat at the hands of young Tony Canzoneri of Brooklyn, the veteran of 326 ring battles admitted yesterday that he was through.

"I thought I could defend my old title at the weight," said John, "but I couldn't make the grade."

Dundee tried one of the most unusual "come-backs" in ring history. He reduced from his natural weight of somewhere around 145 pounds to make the featherweight limit of 126, and took on one of the best youngsters in the game in Canzoneri.

The result was inevitable. Canzoneri won from the opening bell, and the marvel of it was that Johnny's ringcraft carried him through the 15 rounds and that the final bell found him still on his feet.

It was a poor fight, even as fights go in this refined age, and only the game exhibition of the old Italian kept the crowd in Madison Square Garden from booing both boxers out of the ring.

They will be claiming the featherweight title for Tony Canzoneri, now, but it won't mean a thing. Dundee never had defended the title he won from gallant Gene Criqui four years ago.

No longer a natural featherweight, and having long since relinquished any claim to the championship, Johnny boiled down to 126 pounds for one last stab at the headlines and the reward which the fight game reserves for headliners.

Tony Canzoreri is a good featherweight, but he never can be entitled to consideration as a champion on the strength of his victory over Dundee.

The National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission both have recognized Benny Bass of Philadelphia as champion of the 126 pound class. Until Canzoneri meets and defeats the little Philadelphian—and that day probably is distant as ring dates go—Tony will be remembered only as the boxer who put the finishing touch to a long and estimable career.

Dundee's last excuse for fighting disappeared some time ago, on the occasion of his defeat at the hands of second rate boxers. But necessity drove him once more into the ring. Since fighting at the featherweight limit was the only thing Johnny had not done for four years, he attempted to come back at 126 pounds, claiming for himself the title he relinquished after his victory over Criqui.

The claim was ridiculous; the effort a brave one. Dundee weathered a storm of punches loosed by his eager young opponent and stayed upright to hear the verdict at the finis. As a fighter, his ring career ended gloriously. As for the claim that he was fighting as a champion of the world there is something decidedly pathetic in the fact that Johnny had to make such a claim.

Canada Loans Thornton To Solve Mexican Tangle

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Confirmation was given by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, yesterday of the report that he was going to Mexico to make certain studies of the National Railways of Mexico. Sir Henry announced yesterday that, following a request from the Mexican Government to the Government of Canada, he was going to Mexico to examine the organization of the National Railways of Mexico and make recommendations to the Mexican Government. He expects to leave for Mexico some time early in November, and his mission will occupy about one month.

POWER RIGHTS ARE PROPERTY OF PROVINCES

Eminent Lawyers Present Written Opinion To Ontario and Quebec.

FORMER CLAIMS CONFIRMED.

Premier Says Provinces Sought Expert Opinion To Show Ottawa Wrong.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Ontario's hands were considerably strengthened in the St. Lawrence and Ottawa River power development effort by expert legal opinion presented to the Ferguson Government, which upholds the Province's exclusive rights to power develpoment on navigable streams.

The signatories to the document presented to Premier Ferguson yesterday are Eugene Lafleur, K.C., Aime Geoffrion, K.C., and W. Norham Tilley, K.C., three eminent lawyers, whose opinions were solicted in anticipation of further difficulties with the Federal authorities over the question of jurisdiction.

Bears Out Claims.

The legal opinion bears out just what the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec have contended in recent controversies with the Dominion authorities. The only exception stipulated is in respect of water powers connected with canals in existence at Confederation. And the Provinces' exclusive right to develop their own water power is restricted by the legislative power of the Dominion over navigation.

But the Dominion, in turn, according to the experts, is restricted in its control over navigation "to what is reasonably necessary for the control of navigation."

Premier's Statement.

The situation which lies behind the obtaining of the legal opinion by Ontario and Quebec was outlined by the Premier as follows:

"The attitude of the Government at Ottawa toward the power situation in Ontario is very unsatisfactory. It is conceded that Ottawa has the right to protect the interests of navigation, and, to enable a central authority to do this, the Provinces, when undertaking a power development, are required to submit plans to Ottawa, so that they may be in a position to safeguard the right of navigation.

"In a number of cases that have recently arisen, however, the Ottawa Government has assumed the position that the Provinces do not control the power rights. I have no doubt that all the Provinces will be prepared to combat any such contention. At any rate, the Province of Ontario and the Province of Quebec have discussed the subpect of Quebec have discussed the subject that they would jointly undertake to defend the rights of their respective Provinces.

Opinion Obtained.

"The Governments of the two Provinces decided to get a joint opinion from some of the leading counsel of Canada upon the subject. Such an opinion has now been rendered, and it is given by Eugene Lafleur, K.C., and Aime Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal and by W. N. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto.

"This opinion would appear to leave no doubt that the Provinces have the right to develop and utilize the water powers to the fullest extent, provided there is no interference with navigation. Ontario and Quebec stand together upon this opinion, and are prepared, if necessary, to carry the matter to the highest court in the Empire."

Text of Opinion.

"The question of the ownership of navigable rivers and their beds was definitely settled in favor of the Provinces by the decision of the Privy Council in the Fisheries Case (1898) A.C. 700.

"It follows that the potential water powers resulting from the difference in level of the bed of the river are also Provincial property, and that the Provinces have the exclusive right of developing these water powers or of permitting their utilization by others under lease or otherwise.

"The only exception is in respect of water powers connected with the canals in existence at the time of Confederation, which were transferred to the Dominion by the third schedule of the British North American Act.

"This exclusive right of the Provinces to develop their own water powers, is, however, restricted by the legislative power of the Dominion over navigation, and must be exercised subject to the provisions of the Navigable Waters Protection Act (R.S.C. ch. 115), which requires the plans for the construction of any dam in a navigable river to be approved by the Governor-in-Council.

"But this control of the Dominion over navigation must in turn be restricted to what is reasonably necessary for the protection of navigation. It does not justify the contruction of works which needlessly interfere with the right of the Provinces to develop their water powers. And the Dominion cannot, under the guise of legislating for the protection of navigation, appropriate the water powers which are the exclusive property of the Provinces.

"Conversely the Provinces are at liberty to develop and utilize their water powers to the fullest extent, provided there is no interference with navigation. If a plan of development of the power derivable from the Carillon Rapids is submitted which adequately provides for navigation, it would be the duty of the Governor-in-Council to approve it.

DON'T LET THAT COLD TURN INTO "FLU"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

LAUNCH CASE NOT SETTLED

Former Owner Serves Writ on Rochester Man To Prove Ownership.

SEIZED BY U. S. VESSEL.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 26. — A case of an international flavor was aired in Police Court yesterday before Magistrate Mikel, when a charge of theft was preferred against Dr. Hedley Welbanks, veterinary surgeon. That against Frederick McLenaghan, chief clerk of the National Revenue Department, was withdrawn, as there was no evidence against him.

The charges concerned the seizure of the boat "Verna," better known as the launch "Rosella," at Brighton dock on October 12 of this year.

The Palmer Fish Company, of Rochestra, bought the boat at auction from the United States Government and was engaged in the fish trade between Deseronto and Rochester, when the alleged theft took place. They laid the charges against the veterinary and the customs officer, claiming that the company were in receipt of a clear title to the boat. B. C. Donnan prosecuted the charges; C. A. Payne appeared for the defence, and E. D. O'Flynn acted for the department. The case lasted all day, as a number of witnesses were subpoenaed to give evidence. Magistrate Mikel, at the conclusion of the case, reserved judgment until today.

It was shown that Palmer received from the United States Government only a receipt that he had paid $400 for the boat at the time of auction, which was on the 29th of August, and not a title to the boat. C. A. Payne, counsel for the defence, then served, in court, Dwight Palmer, the president of the fish company, with a writ for him to show ownership of the craft and an injunction restraining him from moving the boat until that ownership was proved. The boat is now under surveillance of the police, tied at Roblins dock in this city.

T.C.S. third team defeated L. P. S. in a Rugby game on Monday by the score of 15-7. The game was even throughout, Lakefield holding the visitors until the last quarter.

Earle Major, Neilson and Bugg starred for the Grove, while the kicker and half-back were best for the visitors.

AUTO LICENSE TO COST LESS

But Increase Will Be Made in Tax Levied on Gasoline.

MORE CARS LICENSED.

An announcement is expected soon from the Provincial Government of a reduction in motor vehicle license fees to take effect with the coming year. Lest such a prospect should raise too pleasurable anticipation upon the part of automobile owners, it should be added that the announcement will be accompanied by a companion one proclaiming an increase in the gasoline tax rate.

The idea for a lower vehicle license fee and a higher gasoline tax has been shared for some time by both Hon. Mr. Henry Minister of Highways, and Premier Ferguson. While stating yesterday that no formal move had been made as yet to put the idea into application, Hon. Mr. Henry stated that a decision must be made at an early date, since by about seven weeks from now the Government commences to sell next year's license plates.

Figures which Hon. Mr. Henry has had furnished to him by his department show that the collection of the operator permits at a fee of $1 each has meant a revenue of close to half a million dollars for the Government. The exact total from drivers' licenses issued to date is given as $421,231.

Notable increases in the number of vehicles licensed in the province during the first nine months of this year over the whole of last year are revealed by departmental figures. The number of passenger machines is given as 381,648 for the nine-month period of this year and as 343,902 for the whole of last year. The comparative figures for commercial vehicles are 48,537 and 39,012; for trailers, 1,984 and 1,398; for motor cycles, 3,203 and 3,345; for chauffeurs, 60,706 and 39,513; and dealers, $2,060 and 2,013.

Disease War Opens In Oshawa Schools

OSHAWA, Oct. 26.—Led by the nursing staff, principals and teachers of Oshawa's public school system are mobilizing against the annual threat of epidemic among the children, which in former years, and particularly in 1926, was responsible for much lost school time. Having kept the diphtheria outbreak from gaining a foothold, the final week of October began with the threat of scarlet fever in the Mary Street School, where one child developed the disease. All who came in contact with this child were inoculated and it is confidently expected that there will be no more evidence of the disease at the school.

SATISFY THAT URGE FOR THE GREAT WOODS — BAG YOUR DEER THIS YEAR.

That unmistakable Fall "tang" is in the air and again that impulse to don your hunting suit—to fondle that fine old rifle and to get up North where the big fellows are—moose, deer, caribou, bear—is urgntly making itself felt.

Big game season is earlier and longer this year so get ready early, and make the most of the time allowed. South of French and Mattawa Rivers, the season for deer and moose is from November 1st to 30th; north of these rivers, Oct. 10th to November 30th.

Reports indicate that big game is plentiful in the many fine districts on the Canadian Pacific Railway and as in past seasons special train service for hunters has been arranged. In addition to morning and evening trains a Hunters' Special for Sudbury will leave Toronto 10 p.m., Oct. 29th and Oct. 31st, making all camp stops en route.

Consult nearest Canadian Pacific agent regarding your hunting trip; ask him for copy of booklet "Tips for Hunters."

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing Chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener an anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

MIX IN THRILLING PICTURE WITH "TONY"

Supported by an excellent cast and supplied with one of the most thrilling novels of the west, Tom Mix as Tom Greer gives a performance with plenty of thrills in "Tumbling River," new Fox Films production coming to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow for a three days' showing.

In this latest release this famous western ace swears vengeance on a famous gang of cattle rustlers and desperadoes who have stolen Buster, one of his famous horses, and Tony's pal, and he rides through the mountains and the desert after Grizzly Jim Barton, owner of one of the most prosperous ranches in the country, and Tom learns that Barton's ranch has also been visited by the rustlers. Keechie, the villainous foreman of the ranch, is his lost friend, Buster.

On his travels Tom meets the lovely Edna Barton, but she will pay little or no attention to him.

The thrilling climax is when Keechie kidnaps Edna, and starts to make his escape with his gang of followers. Tom and Barton start out on a mad ride to the rescue and to their surprise run straight to the den of the thieves and find out that the foreman Keechie, was the leader. It is a surprise finish to the picture after the desperate trek through the hills after the thieves and then running into the outfit unexpectedly. It supplies the picture with a terrific punch and a smash up finish.

Mix is ably supported by Dorothy Dwan, Wallace MacDonald, Ed Peil, Sr., Elmo Billings, Harry Gripp, and many others. Lew Seiler directed the production from the novel by J. E. Grinstead.

AT THE GRAND

THE DUMBELLS.

That The Dumbells' newest revue, "Oo, La, La!" which comes here to the Grand for Friday and Saturday this week, is equally as popular all over America, is amply evidenced by the following clipping from The Buffalo Evening Times of September 27th. We reprint the critic's review in its entirety:

"Dumbells in name but entertainers par excellence, Captain M. W. Plunkett and his Dumbells Company are back in Buffalo this week at the Teck in "Oo La La," their ninth annual revue, a brand new show. It is corking entertainment from start to finish, with tuneful singing, solo and harmony, superb dancing and witty sketches that draw round after round of applause.

It would be difficult to place a finger on any particular character as outstanding, so good are all these ex-soldier boys who are entertainers of the first water. It is a clean and wholesome show with not a suggestive line or motion.

Harry Binns, tenor, was found exceptionally pleasing, particularly in the ballad numbers. His rendition of "I Wish I Knew" was signal for vociferous applause and he was accorded four encores for that number alone. Red Newman stopped the show with his cockney soldier sketch and song, "Oh, It's A Lovely War." Newman gives a remarkable character sketch of a soldier's optimistic outlook. It went over big.

Ross Hamilton, the female impersonator, makes a gorgeous appearance and is greeted with a chorus of ohs and ahs. He has a clever soprano voice and offers many tuneful solos. Fred Emmey, the typical cockney, permeates throughout the entire show and is always good for a laugh. He develops many humorous situations and affords much entertainment, particularly at the piano.

Al Plunkett appears to advantage in several solo numbers and in the sketches; Captain Plunkett as host at the studio, Jack McClellan, country character, Glenn Allan, classic dancer, and Howard Fogg with his violin also are outstanding numbers.

"Oo La La" is an all male show in two acts. One of the most pleasing parts of the program is "A Night with the Boys at the Studio," at the beginning of the second act, a sketch that brings out several solo numbers with Captain Plunkett as host. It winds up with a quartet singing old-time favorites.

"Oo La La" is a credit to Captain Plunkett and his boys. It is a production brimming with entertainment that is novel and unique. Few shows offer better entertainment."

Coastguard Uses Bottles As Targets

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 26 (United Press).—When a coastguard aviator wants a little target practice these days, he flies out to sea, aims his machine gun and bangs away at floating cases of whiskey in the water below.

Up and down the coast line, the sharp staccato roll of machine gun fire resounds as the fliers send the homeless and straying whiskey down to Davy Jones locker where it is probably preserved for a sea monster's holiday.

Captain C. C. Von Paulson, commander of Coastguard Base No. 7 here, told the United Press that his men have on several occasions recently resorted to a machine gun barrage from airplanes as a means of destroying cases of whiskey that were thrown overboard by some hard pressed rum runners.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, Bobby and David. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York, gets a cloakroom job in a night club. It is raided. Mary is adjudged to have criminal influences, and is sentenced to a reform school. She gets a letter from Bobby, who is ill and wants her to come.

Mary had risen, holding the one page of lines running up and down written by a little hand with nothing upon which to rest. She held it to her breast, and then her cheek to feel the breath of Robert. "Will I come? Will Mary come? Oh darling!" What to do now? Whither to turn? It was difficult to think. With heart beating with ache she stood, irresolute. She must think. Quickly. To ask Maria for permission to go to Robert? Would that do? No. That would not do. Maria wore great shoes with laces gleaming with polish and flat rubber heels. It would probably prove futile, asking Maria for permission to go to Robert. She knew it. Yet—what other way was there? To run away? Yes, if it came to that she would run away. But better first to ask Maria. Maria, Maria, Robert, Maria. The din of thoughts that clamored as she sped toward the pomposity of the great red brick pile with the white porticos even in the rear. It had been a good job. The St. Mary's Home was built for stability. Built to face any change of fortune. Maria's work, presenting the impassivity borrowed from the face of its tenant. Mary knocked. Not timidly. Firmly. Maria, The St. Mary's Home. What did they matter? Their grimness paled in the light that shone from the illegibly scrawled letter, written by a little boy in bed, with nothing upon which to lean for support.

"Yes?" The rearing back of Maria's head from the papers before her on the desk, and the bone-rimmed glasses placed more firmly on her nose. "What is it, please?"

Mary's hands clasped in front of her. There was no fear. Nor the hopelessness which had invaded her being since her advent at the white porticos that formed the entrance to the Home.

"Please." Mary would let her see how very momentous an occasion this was. That it was the very life of Mary. The only bit that Mary had been permitted to live, to outlast her race with misfortune.

"Yes, my dear. What is it?"

"Please, Miss Giddings, you must let me go!"

"I don't understand."

Of course. She hadn't explained what had happened. That Robert, the brave young Lancelot, had things placed on his chest. Things that hurt.

"My little brother is ill. You must let me go."

"I'm afraid I don't understand."

Rage welled in Mary's heart. It poured in and swelled in the narrow confines of her chest. What if it should burst forth and trickle on the red carpet at Miss Gidding's feet. One hand was playing with the smallest finger of the other. Pressing it back until the sharp pain recalled her to herself and she clasped her hands together to keep her fingers busy. Or they might leap at the pepper-and-salt of Miss Giddings' hair and pull it from its smoothness beneath the carefully arranged net. And that would never do. But the shock on Maria's face should her hands leap. How gratifying it would be.

"My little brother is very ill, Miss Giddings. He is at an orphan asylum in the city. He writes—see what he writes?" She came to the desk and gave the precious letter into the cold hands of Miss Giddings, her eyes filled with entreaty as she watched.

Very composedly, over the scrawled lines, her gaze traveled Holding the letter away from her, with no semblance of interest. A reading in the line of duty.

"I see." She returned the paper to Mary. She settled back in her swivel chair and turned to Mary, toying with a pencil in her hand. "I can see how you feel about the matter of course. But I haven't the authority to permit you to go. I'm sorry, but there's nothing I can do."

"Of course." Of course, there would be nothing that Maria Giddings could do. Mary had known that. There was always a way out, however. That would never fail her.

"Is it—is it possible at all?" Mary's voice failed her then, but she cleared away the obstruction at the base of her throat.

"It all depends upon what the Board of Governors think."

"The Board of Governors?" A rather weak echo, that. And why the Board of Governors, and what had it to do with Bobbie, who was ill, and had things on his chest that hurt,—now.

"Of course. They will have to decide. They make all such decisions."

"But Bobbie's sick," pitifully.

"I'm sorry, but I can do nothing."

Well, that was that. She had tried. Now let come what may. She had done her utmost. Her tread was firm in leaving Maria's office. She had murmured, "Thank you." Thank you for what? Thank you for referring the matter to the Board of Governors, the Board of Governors that meets once a month.

And now there remained but one thing to do. Would it be difficult, Mary wondered, and at the thought her heart turned over in her breast. Not at the thought of the adventure on the morrow, but in dread of failure. If she failed, what then? Then it would mean that she would, in all probability, never see young Robert again. Not until her term was up. But it couldn't be. She wouldn't let it be. She built a little heap of courage and kept it fired during the long black slide of the night."

Shapeless gray-clad forms, with the bit of white at throat and cuffs walking in spiritless formation in twos and threes in the setting of the sun that pervaded the recreation grounds, and Mary, alone. Mary in a chill which nerves brought on. Mary on a green bench beneath the feeble elms, trembling, and endeavoring with a mighty effort of will to subdue that trembling. "You ain't sick, are you? You're that white it's a scare!"

"No," with the brightness of a smile. "I'm all right. Don't bother about me, Anna."

"If you're sick," doubtfully, "I can go tell someone." Mary was sweet. Polish Anna admired the silkiness of the hair that fell so softly on her forehead.

"No, no, Anna." In terror. "No, Anna. Don't bother."

Mary, on the little green bench, alone. Mary endeavoring to give an appearance of placid ease, with one hand plaiting and re-plaiting a fold of her heavy gray skirt. Little gathers, and tucks, and plaits. Others made, then obliterated by the careless hand, while beneath the cream of eyelids thoughts crammed. Thoughts fed upon by the actions in the yard. The phalanx of gray backs and the lilt of a laugh that came from the midst of it. Now. Now. Now was the time. She half rose, and re-seated herself again as Maria came forth with slow tread, clinking the rim of keys in her hand.

"You haven't heard again from your brother?"

"No."

A single glance that encompassed the square of yard, and Maria re-entered the house. At the same instant Mary clutched at freedom.

CHAPTER XI

Later, much later, young Robert asked, "Tell me again, Mary." He flung himself upon her and looked up into her face, and his own was filled with blazing excitement. "Tell me again how you hid in the woods of Camelot till the brave knight in his tin armor came out of the dark and his chariot was long and gleaming in the silver of the moon."

"Robert. Oh, Robert. I have told you, and told you— My throat is rasped Robert. What more would you?"

"I would hear it again, Mary. I would." Young Robert, earnestly, whereat Arthur Graham laughed and said, looking at the shine of Mary where she sat on the side of the bed, "Tell him. He won't sleep until you do."

"Well, I will, Arthur, and he's heard it so many times that he'll correct me and tell me where it is that I should use an adjective instead of a noun—" half in despair.

SCIENCE MADE ARMY TRAINING CAMPS MORE HEALTHFUL THAN THE HOME COMMUNITIES OF THE RECRUITS. THE FAMOUS "SHOT IN THE ARM" OR INOCULATION WHICH EACH ROOKIE RECEIVED WAS ONE OF THE MAIN REASONS WHY THE CAMP DEATH-RATE WAS LOWER THAN AT HOME.

SCIENCE ALSO TOOK A HAND IN FILTRATION OF THE DRINKING WATER. FILTRATION APPARATUS MOUNTED ON AUTOMOBILE TRUCKS TO ACCOMPANY THE TROOPS MADE CERTAIN A SUPPLY OF PURE WATER.

ANOTHER REASON FOR DISEASE BEING LESS DEADLY IN THIS WAR THAN IN PREVIOUS CONFLICTS WAS THE ORDER THAT ALL BATTLEFIELDS SHOULD BE CLEANED AS SOON AFTER AN ENGAGEMENT AS POSSIBLE.

Robbed Four Times He Aids Assailants

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — As a group of armed robbers entered Harry Rosenthal's haberdashery, he surprised them by saying: "All right, there is no money hidden. It's all in the cash register."

"Here's a chair," he added. "There's a rope in that drawer. Be sure to tie my hands behind me."

One of the men paused.

"You seem used to this," he said.

"Ought to. This is the fourth visit," Rosenthal replied.

Beg Your Pardon

The Examiner regrets an unfortunate error in the report last night of the first annual dinner of No. 3 Company, Fourth Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps.

In recording the address made by Major Dodds in response to the toast to "The O.C.", the reporter wrote: "Later he became color sergeant under Major McLean, and then, in 1914, he went to France with Major Bennet." Major Dodds did not make this statement, but instead paid high tribute to "Many of the old 57th Regiment who, in 1914, went to France with Major Bennett.' Major Dodds himself went overseas at a later date.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26.—Among those from the Millbrook branch of the A.Y.P.A. who attended the Dominion Conference in Peterborough last week were Miss Kathleen Fowler, who was the official delegate, and was the guest of Miss Jane Cathcart during her stay in town. Rev. P. C. and Mrs. Howard and the Misses Gladys and Maretta Gray.

Those from Millbrook who attended the Sectional Rally of the W.M.S. of Cobourg Presbyterial at Bailieboro last Thursday were: Mrs. F. H. Howard, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs T. H. Aiken, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Misses Nellie and Maud Finnimore, Estelle Hetherington.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, with their daughters, Misses Jean and Mary, motored to Whitby on Sunday meeting there a party of friends from Toronto, including their son, E. L. Burnham, who is attending the University this year. Miss Jean Burnham visited her friends, Misses Eileen Higgs and Gladys Tucker, at the Ontario Ladies' College, during the day.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Needler of Toronto spent the week end the guest of Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler

Rev. Joseph Wilks had charge of the services in the United church on Sunday in the absence of the pastor who was taking anniversary services on the Whitby circuit. Mr. H. J. Anderson took the service at the Fallis Line appointment in the afternoon, a good congregation being present.

Mrs. Howard and son, Arthur, accompanied Mr. Howard to Whitby and visited friends over the week end, this having been a former pastoral charge of Mr. Howard's.

A series of studies on the Old Testament, under the supervision of Miss S. Hetherington, was begun in the United church on Monday evening; the lessons will cover one section of a teacher training course, and the entire congregation is invited to attend these weekly meetings for the next two months.

Canadians Borrow $350,000,000 In U.S.

NEW YORK, October 26. — (United Press).—Canadian financing in the New York market probably will reach more than $350,000,000 this year, according to A. D. Watts and Co.

Canadian securities marketed here up to September 30 totalled more than $275,000,000, against $314,000,000 in 1926. Corporate financing totalled $183,973,000 and municipal financing $91,566,090 of the total of corporate financing. $150,000,000 represented new capital and $21,000,000 refunding.

Before the shingle is laid—

Try an' burn it!

WHEN choosing a shingle—you ought to know exactly the kind of protection it will give you. Take a Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingle, turn the white-hot flame of a blow-torch on it and see for yourself that it's fire-proof. You'll never need to fear the flying sparks or burning brands that come from nearby fires.

A rigid slab of permanence made of indestructible Canadian asbestos and Portland cement. That's the sort of shingle that scorns the need of replacement or repair. When these beautiful shingles are laid, they will give you everlasting protection from weather, from time and from fire.

BUILDING INSURED.

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press)—Damage estimated at $150,000 was done to the buildings and contents of the Alger Block on King Street East here today when fire completely destroyed the Biltmore Cafe and a number of overhead offices. An ice cream parlor was damaged and the Alger Press suffered a heavy loss by fire, a large number of printing contracts in addition to paper stocks being destroyed. The building was covered by insurance.

STRIKE IS FIGHT BETWEEN UNIONS

Wage Increase Now Side Issue in Struggle in Toronto.

TORONTO, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press.) —The strike of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters now appears to have developed into a contest between that organization and the amalgamated union, a rival body, for the success or non-success of the sympathetic strike called in support of the Brotherhood's claim for non recognition of the Amalgamated demand for a wage increase has been relegated to a side issue while the strikers endeavor to complete the tie up of work on a construction programme involving twenty-five millions.

SATISFY THAT URGE FOR THE GREAT WOODS, BAG YOUR DEER THIS YEAR.
That unmistakable Fall "tang" is in the air and again that impulse to don your hunting suit—to fondle that fine old rifle and to get up North where the big fellows are—moose, deer, caribou, bear—is urgently making itself felt.
Big game season is earlier and longer this year so get ready early and make most of the time allowed. South of French and Mattawa Rivers, season for deer and moose is from Nov. 1st to 30, north of these rivers, Oct. 10 to Nov. 30.
Reports indicate big game is plentiful in the many fine districts on the Canadian Pacific Railway, and as in past seasons special train service for hunters has been arranged. In addition to regular morning and evening trains a Hunter's Special for Sudbury will leave Toronto 10.00 p.m. Oct. 31.
Consult nearest Canadian Pacific agent regarding your hunting trip, ask him for copy of booklet, "Tips for Hunters."

Role of "Pied Piper" Played By Cow Moose

AYLMER, Que., Oct. 26.—The strangest "pied piper" of all time enticed children of this town into a "parade" last week-end. Straying separated from its usual wooded haunts, a large cow moose wandered along a street skirting the Ottawa River, and with its loud bellowing attracted a group if children, who were quick to follow the animal. Eventually the moose leaped from the sidewalk over a six-foot fence and disappeared toward the river.

WEDDING BELLS.

WILLIAMS—EDMUNDS.
A quiet wedding was solemnized at All Saints' Church by Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, when Caroline Edmunds and Charles Williams were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner, who acted as witnesses.
The bride wore a gown of navy crepe de chine trimmed with silver lace and hat to match.
Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside at 544 Douglas avenue.

YULE—ROBINSON
ROSENEATH, Oct. 26. Miss Alfreda C. Robinson and Mr. William Yule, both of Le Roy, N.Y., were quietly married on Saturday, Oct. 1st at 8.30 p.m. by the Rev. Albert W. Beaven, D.D., pastor of Lake Avenue Baptist Church, of Rochester, N.Y. at Dr. Beaven's home in that city.
They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Campbell, of Churchville, N.Y., the latter being a sister of the groom. The bride was attired in light lavender silk trimmed with point lace and black French knots, the trimming having been purchased in England by the bride, during her visit there last fall. Immediately after the ceremony the couple returned to Le Roy and will reside at their home at 15 North street, recently purchased.
The bride is a graduate nurse, having taken her training in the General Hospital, Toronto, and for the past twenty years has practised her chosen profession, during which time she has travelled extensively.
The groom, who was born in Alnwick township and is well known here for the past fourteen years has lived at Le Roy, N.Y., continuously employed by the Jello Company.

OBITUARY.

RUMANIAN CARRIED LETTERS OF CAROL TO COUNTRYMEN; PRINCE ISSUES STATEMENT

Former Crown Prince Confirms That M. Manoilescu Bearer For Him.

DENOUNCES GOVERNMENT.

Says Carrier's Arrest Was Direct Provocation to Public Opinion.

PARIS, October 27 (Canadian Press).— Former Crown Prince Carl of Rumania, who is at present at St. Malo, confirms that M. Manoilescu, former Rumanian Under-Secretary of Finance, arrested at Bucharest, was the bearer of letters from him to the leaders of the political parties in Rumania, including Premier Bratiano.

"His arrest was a direct provocation to public opinion," said Carol, "and an infringement on liberty."

He declared that the letters to the party leaders were intended to bring before the public his statement after the death of his father, King Ferdinand, which, he asserted, had been suppressed by the Rumanian Government.

"The leaders of the parties," continued Carol, "solicited from me confirmation of that declaration, so that the people might understand the situation. It is the Government itself that keeps the dynastic question boiling, because it refuses to allow free discussion of it. The Government has taken a grave responsibility in arresting Manoilescu, and the consequences will fall upon it. May God protect my country and give it wisdom to act according to its interests. That is all I ask."

In describing the general tenor of his letters which were seized at Bucharest, Carol said they were about as follows:

Denied Publication.

"Recent events and news despatches from official and semi-official Rumanian sources compel me to put aside the reserve which I had imposed on myself for a long time. In July, several days after the death of my dear father, I made some statements which I wish might be

"Fourth Largest City!" Windsor's Proud Boast

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—Windsor, with a population of approximately 66,000, has now the proud distinction of being the fourth city of Ontario, leading London by almost 1,000, according to Assessment Commissioner Harry Webster. London's population this year is placed at approximately 65,000.

YOUTHS GIVEN PRISON TERMS

FOR BURGLARY.

George Kinghorn and Royden Rowe, two Lakefield youths, were sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning in Police Court. The boys pleaded guilty last week to five charges that involved burglary, shop-breaking by night, and shop-breaking with intent to steal in the village of Lakefield on October 18 and 19.

Neither boy is 20, Rowe being 18 years old and Kinghorn 19. They were not represented and did not say anything for themselves before sentence was passed.

Kinghorn asked that he be given the sentence as Rowe was not to blame. "It is no good sentencing Royden Rowe; he is not guilty. He did not break into the buildings; he merely remained outside. I committed the crime and I coaxed him into it, promising him if we were caught I would take the blame."

Mr. Hatton said that the Crown had not been able to find any official record against either of the boys. "I do not know what to say about the opportunities these boys have had," he said. "There is no one here to speak as to their character. They are young and the offences they have pleaded guilty to carry very severe sentences. The thing that should be sought after is to reclaim them if possible, and at the same time punish them for committing the offences. The responsibility of punishing these boys should not be lightly looked upon and in time representations might be made for their release."

His Worship, in passing sentence, said: "I have given a good deal of consideration to these cases. The crimes are serious, burglary being treated as the most serious, with the maximum sentence life imprisonment. Shop-breaking by night carries a maximum sentence of fourteen years, and shop-breaking with intent seven years.

"There has been nothing suggested in the evidence that these boys were armed or I would give them longer terms. There is also the fact that they are only 18 and 19 years old, but they deliberately set out to break in and steal, so under these circumstances I must send them to Kingston for two years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

"I have really dealt lightly with you. This should be a turning point in your young lives. You placed me in a position that I could do nothing else. This is not only to punish you but to set a lesson to others. Up until a few minutes ago I had made up my mind to give you three years."

The arrest of these two boys was due to Chief Constable Webster of Lakefield. The boys admitted the crime to him and he also found the stolen goods behind an old stone fence.

HOME BOARD IS RE-ELECTED

Retiring Directors Also Re-appointed at Annual Meeting.

REPORTS ADOPTED.

The sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Protestant Home, was held yesterday afternoon at the Home, with a large attendance of the directors. The former Board of officers was unaimously re-elected and the retiring directors, Mrs. R. Neill, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. Robert Hall, and Mrs. F. L. Robinson, were also re-elected for term from 1927 to 1930.

Reports of the secretary, Mrs. F. M. DeLaFosse, the treasurer Miss Sara Robinson, the superintendent, Miss A. M. Lancaster, and the manager, Mr. J. C. Hamilton, were read and adopted. These will appear in a later issue of The Examiner.

The president, Mrs. R. Neill, spoke briefly mentioning several projected improvements to the Home, in the furnishing of the women's sun parlor, and the erection of a substantial fence, possibly with Memorial gates. Mrs. Neill also urged the general public to visit the Home as often as possible, to brighten the days for the residents there and alluded to the recent passing of Mrs. Jas. Hall at one time secretary of the Board for the period of over twenty years.

Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave spoke of the beautiful situation of the Home and the comfort afforded the old people. Devotional exercises were led by Rev. William McDonald, of Knox church, who also pronounced the benediction.

It was decided to hold a jam and linen shower on November 9th. Tea was served before the holding of the business session.

Hon. Pres.: Mrs. W. Roger, Elora, Ont.

1st. Hon. Vice-Pres.: Mrs. C. M. Birdsall.

2nd Hon. Vice-Pres.: Miss Nicholls.

Pres.: Mrs. R. Neill.

1st Vice-Pres.: Mrs. D. Walker.

2nd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. R. Hall.

Treas.: Miss S. Robinson.

Secretary: Mrs. F. M. de la Fosse.

Executive: Mrs. C. Suckling Miss Dickson, Miss M. Archer, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. E. Harvey, Mrs. G. R. Scott, J. A. Aylmer, E. J. H. Vanston and E. F. Mason.

Rum Runners Held On $10,000 Bond

ST. ALBANS, Vt., October 27 (Canadian Press).—Oscar Mouvet of Paris, France, and John Wilson of Colebrook, N.H., were held in $10,000 bonds each yesterday on charges of opium smuggling. They were arrested at Isle La Matte Tuesday, when Government agents seized 750 pounds of opium.

D. W. Steele, counsel for the two men, asserted that the material seized was a harmless chemical prepared with the intention of deceiving the purchaser into believing it to be opium. The Federal narcotic agents who made the seizure insisted it was genuine opium.

The case was continued until November 16, and meanwhile an analysis of the supposed opium will be made.

Orchestra Played Italian National Anthem To Stay Panic of Frightened Passengers

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, October 27 (Associated Press). — An explosion in the boilers brought an end to the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda off the coast of Brazil on Tuesday night. With more than 1,200 passengers and crew aboard, the captain, realizing that his vessel was sinking, ordered full steam towards the Abrolhas Rocks, Santa Barbara Inlets, not many miles from the mainland.

To calm the alarmed steerage passengers, of whim there were some 800 the captain ordered the orchestra to play the Italian anthem ,and officers and seamen alike moved among the frightened Italian emigrants to stay their panic and encourage them with hope of early rescue.

For several hours the Principessa Mafalda kept on her course until shoal water was reached. Then the French steamer Formose came and other vessels, British, Dutch, and Italian, were soon circling the crippled liner.

With amazing speed the seamen had out their boats and were seen taking off the passengers of the liner and picking up those already in small boats in the sea. The presence of so many rescuers served to assure the passengers, even though at that very time the Mafalda was sinking fast.

Wireless messages telling briefly of the disaster report a total of 1,150 passengers and crew saved from the Mafalda by the ships that took the leading part in the rescue. It is possible that others may have been saved.

It is reported that small craft of all descriptions have put out and are proceeding to the spot where the Mafalda went down, to search for the missing and salvage what they may.

Captain and Radioman Died at Their Posts—Scene Was Appalling.

BAHIA, Brazil, Oct. 27. (United Press.) — The French steamer Mosella, first of the ships to reach the sinking Italian liner Principessa Mafalda, arrived here to-day with 24 members of the Mafalda's crew and a graphic story of their rescue. "I can not believe that less than 600 persons perished," the commander of the Mosella told the United Press, just after the Mosella dropped anchor — "though I do not know how many people other ships rescued."

"I believe from ten to twelves members of the Mafalda's engine crew were killed by the explosion of her boilers."

Radio reports of other ships apparently made it impossible that so many people could have perished. The Dutch steamer Alhena reported carrying 530 to Rio de Janeiro, where it was due at midnight to-night.

The Formosa, reported to have 353 rescued aboard, was due at Rio on Friday. Other ships have reported carrying smaller numbers. The Mafalda's company numbered 1256..

"Commander Simon Guli stayed at his post," the commander of the Mosella said, "and must have perished with his ship. The radio operator stayed with him, after everyone else had left, and I believe that he died at his post also.

As the Mosella dropped anchor in the bay, the local authorities, the Chief of Police, the Italian consul, and the United Press correspondent boarded the ship the twenty-four members of the Mafalda's crew crowded around. Their aspect was one of utter desolation. The Mosella's commander, his eyes filled with tears, started to tell the first story of the Mafalda's sinking.

"I'm an old sea dog," said Commander Privat," but the picture never will leave my mind of the scene I saw after the Mafalda's sinking. We picked up the Mafalda's SOS at 10 o'clock on Tuesday night. The sea was a terrifying sight. Contrary winds were blowing. The seas were running high.

"Our ship arrived at the scene off the rocky coast. The sea was full of people—in life boats, and floating in life preservers. We used all the means at our command to save them. It is impossible for me to believe that less than 600 persons perished, though I do not know how many were rescued by other ships. They lent untiring assistance.

"The Mafalda's captain Simon Gull, a veteran like myself, remained at his post until all the passengers and crew had left the ship. I understand that he was not saved. The radio operator remained, too, as such men must. I understand he likewise went down with the Mafalda.

"The cause of the disaster was a broken probellor shaft. Its failing tore a hole in the ship's hull. The water rushed into the ship like a live enemy. The boiler room was flooded. The boilers exploded.

"The scene was appalling.

"Many persons left the Mafalda safely in the boats. But the panic was indescribable. Many people leaped from the doomed ship's deck into the sea. Even for me who has seen the sea at its worst the scene was terrifying. I have seen many other disasters at sea but none like that. We did all we could.

"The greatest number of victims were first and second class passengers."

Likely To Nominate Candidate On Friday

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Liberals of Prince Edward County met yesterday to nominate a candidate to contest the riding against H. S. Colliver, who was nominated by the Conservatives but they adjourned without making a nomination. Another meeting is called for Friday night, to which Liberal temperance workers and U.F.O. are invited, and most likely a candidate at that meeting will be nominated. There is every likelihood of Fred H. Newman contesting the seat. Hon. Nelson Parliament was offered the nomination but declined and there was no one at the meeting willing to shoulder the responsibility.

LLOYD GEORGE KNOWN FOR WAR

Chamberlain Says He Will Be Known in History For Efforts Then.

KIND WORDS FOR CECIL.

LONDON, October 27. — Canadian Press.—Former Premier Lloyd George will be known to history more for his contribution to winning the war than for anything he has done to maintain peace, in the opinion of Sir Austen Chamberlain as expressed in a speech at a luncheon in his honor to-day.

The Foreign Secretary had only kind words for Lord Cecil, who like Lloyd George recently criticized the British policy towards the League of Nations. Sir Austen expressed regret that Lord Cecil was no longer his colleague. He was not certain as to the nature of the differences between him and Lord Cecil, but said he would not be "willing to run risks or undertake obligations which it seems to me the trustees of this people and empire have neither the right to undertake nor the power to fulfill."

To create interest in local hospitals, Manila held a Hospital Day recently. The hospitals held open house for visitors and at night a torch parade and program were featured on the University of Philippine campus. All hospitals were represented in the parade. Jorge Bocolo, acting president of the university, was principal speaker at the exercises.

EXPLOSION OF STEAM BOILERS BELIEVED CAUSE

Wrecking of Italian Liner Principessa Mafalda off Brazilian Coast.

BEHIND SCHEDULE.

May Have Been Due To Improper Water Supply, Opinion of Experts.

Rescuing vessels answering the call of the Mafalda's "S.O.S." are believed to have rescued all but some 68 out of 998 passengers and a crew of 240. The steamer sank about 80 miles from Porto Segura, a port of the State of Bahia.

Whether she struck a hidden reef or the hulk of a derelict, as one report has it, is not definitely known, but long before the liner disappeared beneath the waves a serious accident occurred aboard—some say a broken screw shaft, followed by an explosion of the boilers.

It was about 7.15 o'clock Tuesday night when the Mafalda's sudden call for aid was picked up by various ships not far distant. It was about the hour when, the evening meal having been disposed of, the Italians were making ready to celebrate their arrival on the shores of the new country where they intended to take up their homes.

Vessel Remained Afloat

The sea was calm, fortunately, and the night was clear, and the crippled vessel remained afloat for hours while rescuing steamers were speeding to the scene. It was not until about

ACCUSE TROTSKY OF REBELLION

Soviet Organ Says He and Zinovieff Planned Armed Revolt.

MOSCOW, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Allegation that an armed rebellion was planned is contained in a sensational account of the investigation which led to the expulsion of Trotzky and Zinovieff from the Communist committee, printed in the official Communist organ to-day. Trotzky adherents were in contact with counter revolutionists, it is declared.

A Nicaraguan newspaper is printing an English section for the benefit of the United States Marines.

Indicated Western Strike Petering Out

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—With the refusal of other Drumheller Valley miners to join crews of the six mines closed because of the Canadian Mine Workers' Union "recognition strike," indications are that the dispute will automatically peter out in the near future. No important move has been made by the miners since the strike began and the operators of the mines affected are "standing pat." The operators are offering standard union wages but are adamant in refusing the right of check-off for union dues to the Canadian union. Mines manned by the United Mine Workers of America are still being operated.

Most of the striking miners are working in the harvest fields.

Defendant And Five School Board Members Go to Sleep During Reading of History Books

CHICAGO, October 27 (Canadian Press). — The question of what was to be done with the four history books taken from the library yesterday by Sport Herrmann, the Mayor's right-hand man in the "war" on pro-British literature, was being discussed to-day in view of Mayor Thompson's denial he had ordered any bonfire. Meanwhile the trial was proceeding before the School Board of William McAndrew, schools superintendent, whose scalp is sought by Thompson.

Readings of lengthy quotations from "questionable" history books were halted when it was discovered that the defendant and five members of the Schcol Board were asleep all at once.

"Something has got to be done to pep up this trial," the School Board president asserted. "It's beginning to fall flat if everybody goes to sleep. I'm in favor of cutting this history book stuff short."

Government Counsel Present Testimony

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Approaching with swift strides the crux of their case—the liberty bond transactions which followed the lease of Teapot Dome—special government oil counsel yesterday presented to a district of Columbia supreme court jury a volume of testimony to support their contentions of deception and secrecy in connection with that lease.

Representaties of three big oil producing companies told of the failure of their efforts to get leases on the Wyoming naval reserve, in the transfer of which the government charges Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair with a criminal conspiracy to defraud the government both of this physical property as well as of the faithful services of Fall as interior secretary.

One of them, Birch Helms, formerly of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company, testified that he called on Fall on April 10, 1922, about a lease, and that the then secretary told him he would be glad to entertain a bid from his company on Teapot Dome. This was three days after Sinclair and Fall had actually signed the lease.

Grave Robbers Visit Marmora Cemetery; One Grave Opened

Caretaker Finds Evidence That Ghouls Dug Down To Steel Coffin of Mrs. B. C. Hubbell and Attempted To Remove It.

ROBBERS LEFT SPOT IN HURRY, THROWING EARTH IN CARELESSLY

Authorities Called From Belleville To See If Body Has Been Taken From Casket—Poles and Cold Chisel Found on Scene—Chisel Bears Initials.

MARMORA, Oct. 27.—An attempt has been made to rob the grave of Mary English, wife of B. C. Hubbell, J.P., in Marmora Protestant Cemetery. This was discovered yesterday morning by William Phillips, caretaker of the graveyard. It is not yet known whether the ghouls succeeded in opening the steel outer vault, as nothing has been disturbed, awaiting the arrival of officers from Belleville.

The late Mrs. Hubbell died in January, 1920, and was buried in the centre of the family plot, which is 18 by 24 feet. Other relatives of Mr. Hubbell are buried on each side and the grave of Mrs. Hubbell is not distinctively marked. This would indicate that the person or persons responsible was familiar with the burial place. The plot is surrounded by a low stone wall.

The perpetrators of the act apparently used a large sheet or tarpaulin, which they placed beside the grave. They dug down until they reached the steel casket, shovelling the greater part of the soil on the sheet. This earth was throw into the grave again as though done in a hurry, leaving one end of the coffin visible.

Two cedar poles, one about fourteen feet long and the other about six feet long, were found on the scene, with a cold chisel marked C. G. & Co. At each end of the grave were marks as though the poles had been used in an attempt to pry out the casket.

TITANIC FIGHT IS FORESEEN FOR POWER PULP RESOURCES

Holt Interests To Battle With the International Company.

REASON FOR MERGER.

Laurentide Company Seek To Enlarge Holdings in Ottawa District.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—A titanic struggle between two great power trusts for the power and pulp resources of Canada is imminent, it was learned yesterday. On the one hand the Holt interests of Montreal, with Canadian financial backing in reserve, have taken up the gauge of battle against the International Paper Company, with its immense American reserves.

The recent merger of Abitibi, Spanish River, Fort William Power, Manitoba Paper, Ste. Anne Paper and Murray Bay Paper Companies is said to be the tightening of the rein in the hands of Sir Herbert Holt and his associates to checkmate the far-spreading grasp of the great International Paper Company, which has recently added more Canadian paper and pulp companies to its holdings.

Further enlargement of the already vast holdings in the Ottawa district of the Laurentide Pulp and Paper Company yesterday are foreshadowed in news of negotiations looking to the acquisition by this company of the big McLachlin mills at Arnprior, and the limits which it operates in connection with them. How near a deal is to consummtaion could not be learned, but it is known that negotiations are under way.

A report that the Laurentide company is also after the great J. R. Booth pulp, paper and lumber industry is in circulation, but this was denied by Jackson Booth.

The McLachlin firm at Arnprior owns some 1,600 square miles at limits on the Ottawa, Petawawa, Coulogne and Black Rivers, and the holdings embrace all kinds of timber from pulpwood to spruce and pine.

Mrs. Stillman Uses Plane For Journeys

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (United Press).—To ranks of aviation enthusiasts today was added the name of Mrs. Annie U. Stillman, who has found that she can shorten by two days the trip from her lodge at Grand Anse, Quebec, to her estate at Pleasantville, N.Y.

Mrs. Stillman and her daughter, Mrs. Henry P. Davidson, flew the 600 miles in a hydroplane yesterday, completing the trip in less than six hours. It was believed that the capitalist's wife would use aerial communication hereafter.

Pilot Saunders was quoted as saying that Mrs. Stillman was learning to fly the plane herself and might take tests for a pilot's license.

RANGERS HOLD FIRST SMOKER

Opening Gathering of Winter Season Will Be Held Tomorrow Evening.

GOOD PROGRAM.

The first smoker of the winter season for officers and men of the Peterborough Rangers will be held tomorrow evening at the Armories. A good program has been arranged by the committee headed by Captain Gordon Monkman and includes a number of competitions of interest and amusement, in which a part will be found for every member of the regiment. The meeting will be held in the recreation room.

The practice adopted last year of sending postcards to every member of the regiment has been abandoned, so members are asked to notify those not likely to see the notice.

Oranges recently were sold at Liverpool at 12 for a penny, owing to the arrival of an unprecedented supply from Spain.

REMEMBER OUR HALLOWE'EN PARADE MONDAY NIGHT NEXT, OCT. 31ST

The full strength of the 57th Regimental Band will be on parade, and The Examiner has to thank Capt. Peryer and his band for increasing the size of the band on this occasion. The Highland Band will also be on parade in full force, and altogether it is expected the night will be one that will be long remembered.

See the prizes on exhibit in Grafton's window. Full particulars as to the route of the parade and where the judging will be held will be given tomorrow.

The Examiner's Hallowe'en Parade and Dance Monday night promises to be one of the big events of the year, and there have been some outstanding affairs in Peterborough during the past ten months.

Hundreds are already preparing their costumes for the parade, and those in costume will not be confined to city folks, as the whole district has become greatly interested in The Examiner's plea for a sane celebration of Hallowe'en.

The committee of citizens working with The Examiner split the judging into three classes.

Judges in charge of Class Club, Society, Store, Farce Bands, etc., in groups, in charge of Mr. A. J. Reynolds.

Each chairman is adding his own members to the committee.

EXPECT PLANES FOR AERO CLUB

Members Take Exception To Statement of Flight-Lieut. Cowley.

ONLY CLUB PREPARED.

At the meeting of the Peterborough Aero Club held last night in the Chamber of Commerce, exception was taken to the statements of Flight-Lieutenant Cowley about this city not being one of the first in line for the light planes being furnished by the Department of National Defence.

The Peterborough club at present is the premier club of the Dominion of Canada in regards to organization complying fully with the Government regulations regarding the formation and the granting of the two machines, and at present there is no other club in Canada as far advanced as the one of this city.

The meeting last night was the largest in attendance since the formation of the club. The constitution and by-laws which were accepted at a previous meeting, were read and explained. A membership committee, composed of W. H. Jackson, chairman, M. R. Sloan, D. A. Loomis, A. Adams, G. Logan, and H. Mason, was appointed. Many of those present signed up immediately after the meeting.

Information will be furnished anyone considering joining the club by Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman, the president, B. Park, the secretary, or any member of the membership committee.

BEAVERBROOK SAID TO PLAN NEW PAPER

Rumors Current That He Will Start London Evening Publication.

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Reports are that Lord Beaverbrook will start a new evening newspaper. He already owns the Daily Express, a morning paper, which controls the Evening Standard. There are only three evening papers in London despite its population of eight million. The Manchester Guardian suggests Beaverbrook is moving toward the Liberal or even the Labor party.

JEWISH WATCHMAKER ACQUITTED FOR ASSASSINATION OF PETLURA

Verdict Returned By Paris Jury in Thirty-two Minutes.

EIGHTH DAY OF TRIAL.

PARIS, October 27. Canadian Press —At the end of the eighth day of one of the most remarkable trials ever conducted in Paris Samuel Schwartzbard, a young Jewish watchmaker, who assassinated General Simon Petlura Ukrainian separatist leader on a Paris street corner fifteen months ago, was set free yesterday evening by the court of assizes.

Schwartzbard was acquitted on all criminal counts; but was condemned —as is the custom of the French courts—to pay a nominal one franc damages to the family of the victim.

The verdict which came after four and a half hours of summing up with Henri Torres, counsel for the defense, taking less than a third of that time, was returned in thirty-two minutes. On the first of the five counts — "Was the accused guilty of striking blows causing the injuries of the victim?" the answer was negative; thus the four other counts were dismissed.

The president of the jury in trembling voice but smiling, announced the acquittal, which was greeted with a howl of approval by the jammed courtroom.

Courtroom Hears.

Most of the 800 spectators who had spent the afternoon herded together in a courtroom intended for less than 300, screamed and cheered, laughed and cried. Counsel Torres was hoisted on the shoulders of a wildly excited group.

There were cries of "Long live France; Long live the French jury," and there were less loud but none the less deeply felt shouts of protests from the Ukrainians. Three squads of special guards stepped in quickly and broke up a dozen fist fights which started in the corridors. Downstairs in the main hall where several thousand Schwartzbard sympathizers were held back by cordons of guards the demonstration was even noisier.

For several hundred yards from the Palace of Justice, as far as the old Pont Neuf and the Boul St. Michel, the police had plenty of work separating the excited partisans.

Address Interrupted.

The final day of the trial moved as quickly as the others had dragged. The address of the prosecuting attorney was frequently interrupted by all kinds of noises. Caesare Campinchi, counsel for the Petlura family who spoke briefly, contested Schwartzbard's right to assume responsibility for judging, condemning and executing Petlura.

M. Reynaud, the prosecutor, shocked the spectators into noisy exclamations by declaring:

"There is no question about transforming Schwartzbard into a national hero," he said. "I do not want to apotheosize a man who is the prey of an implacable obsession."

He traced the early life of the accused and the sufferings of his family in pogroms, the simplicity of his habits. By this time a dozen women were sobbing audibly but Schwartzbard was calm.

His peroration of 15 minutes was accompanied by beating his chest with both fists while the accused's head sank lower and lower and the jurymen stared as if dazed.

TARIFF RATES ARE SUSPENDED

Pending Negotiations For a Commercial Treaty With the United States.

FORESEE AGREEMENT.

PARIS, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—The higher tariff rates recently imposed on United States' imports by the French government have been suspended pending negotiations for a commercial treaty, M. Bokanowski, minister of commerce, announced last night.

"Until the end of the negotiations we will return to the status quo ante," said the minister. 'I have just finished an interview with Mr. Whitehouse (the United States charge d'affaires) which we examined the latest notes.

They are of a most conciliatory nature and permit us to forsee a definite agreement.

"The first point has been made — we have established a provisional regime for exchanging goods during the negotiations. By the terms of this provisional agreement we are giving the United States the same duties they had before the signing of the commercial agreement with Germany, except in cases where the minimum tariffs conceded to Germany are higher than those under these duties.

"In short, it may be said that it means American return to the status quo ante until the end of the negotiations.

"Experts have already gone over the tariff; the conversations now concern largely machinery and chemical products. It cannot yet be said when we will arrive at a definite understanding but you can be assured that our two governments have a strong desire to reach a conclusion as rapidly as possible.

Settlement of South Africa Flag Question Hailed By the Union With Great Relief

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, October 27 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The solution of the flag question means the removal of a controversy which has been hanging over the country like a dark cloud, and is hailed throughout the Union with great relief. The settlement is all the more welcome because apparently it has brought about a better feeling among the political parties, and will enable the work of the development of South Africa's resources to proceed unhampered.

The time of Parliament will no longer be occupied by party questions, and all sides show a desire to avoid carping criticism, and to recognize the statesmanship and courage of Premier J. B. M. Hertzog, General J. C. Smuts ,Opposition leader, and others who have made concessions. The Province of Natal, which is the chief centre of British population, is pleased over the concession which will assure the flying of the Union Jack under existing conditions. Only the so-called Empire group still objects to the settlement.

The ministerial organ, Dievolksblad of Bloemfontein, expresses complete satisfaction, but considers the provision that the Union Jack will be flown with the National flag over offices overseas will create a wrong impression and tend to strengthen the idea that the Dominions occupy an inferior position.

ALNWICK INDIANS PRESENT WATCHES

A. H. and Clarence McKeel Receive Gifts From Band.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 27.—On Friday evening last at Alderville, a complimentary dinner was given to Mr. A. H. McKeel and his son, Mr. Clarence McKeel, in the council room.

Eighty members of the Alnwich Indian Reservation and many friends sat down to a well-laden table which was also tastefully decorated. The banquet was arranged by the lady members of the Memorial committee and others.

The dinner programme was conducted by Mr. W. R. Coyle, former Indian agent of the Alnwick Reservation, who acted as toastmaster and chairman. A toast to the King was given and replied to by Mr. Thomas Marsden who referred to the continued loyalty of the Alnwick Band. Interesting and pleasing addresses were delivered by Rev. H. Wilding, minister at Alderville, Mr. W. R. Coyle, Mr. Fred Slade, and Mr. R. Black.

The main purpose of the banquet was to present to Mr. McKeel and his son, Clarence, an expression of appreciation in which they are held by the people of Alderville. This took the form of a gold watch and chain to each. The address in each case was pleasingly read by Mr. Fred Simpson, the presentation of the watches was made by Chief Norman Marsden. Though this was almost a total surprise to these gentlemen, Mr. McKeel in his reply expressed his thanks to the people for their extreme kindness.

The local Indian Band rendered several selections during the evening.

Rev. H. Wilding in his address spoke of the work done by Mr. W. R. Coyle as the past Indian Agent, and also extended to Mr. Fred J. Slade, the newly appointed agent, the best wishes and hearty congratulations of all.

WINE MEN TO ASK FOR MODIFICATION

Liquor Board Probably Hear Application For Relief To-day.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Application of Ontario wineries for relief from the new measures imposed upon them by the Liquor Board will probably be heard today or on Friday, when the mine men will ask that they be given the right to continue to sell individual bottles of wine and to have the same hours as the Government liquor stores.

Large expenditures have been made by the wine men, it is claimed, and they feel that they are being discriminated against in favor of the liquor stores, holding that if the Government stores can sell single bottles they should have the same right and should be permitted to remain open as long as the liquor stores, so that they could meet the competition of spirits.

It is also contended that regulations covering the frosting of windows are absurd, because in the days of the O.T.A. the stores were allowed to sell in case lots, and to have a display, whereas after the first of November they must frost their windows, while in the liquor stores it is easy to see who may be in there.

Labor men are opposed to the regulation which compels them to purchase in quantities of six bottles at a time, and also to the early closing of the store, and they feel that the Liquor Board should modify the rule and permit those of them who desire to drink wine in preference to spirits and beer to make single-bottle purchases at hours that are possible for them to conveniently reach the wineries without having to go to the downtown liquor store of the Government, which is usually crowded at night, although it remains open until 10 o'clock. They hold the regulations should be amended before being put into effect.

SYNTHETIC TOBACCO LIKED.

Germany, the country of substitutes, now has synthetic tobacco. Chemists there have perfected a method by which thin sheets of prepared paper are impregnated with chemically made nicotine. It is dyed and perfumed to resemble the real weed, and then made into cigars. The "chemical smokes" are said to burn evenly, and are becoming popular in Berlin.

Harlem Gangster Gets 20 Years In Prison

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Salvatore Mileto, alias Solly Cheesecake, a Harlem gangster, was sentenced to 20 years to life in states prison on his plea of guilty of second degree murder arising out of the killing of two trolley company employes in Mount Vernon, N.Y., in July, 1924.

Mileto was arrested in Harlem recently after a gun fight with police in which a girl bystander was killed by a stray bullet. After his capture he was turned over to Westchester County authorities.

The hold-up of the trolley company paymaster, for which he was sentenced, has resulted in four deaths. Jacob Schumacher, motorman of the trolley, and Ragian J. Nicholl, the paymaster, were shot by the robbers. Frank Daly, of Harlem, and David De Maio, of New Rochelle, were executed for the murders.

Another member of the gang, John Marins, turned state's evidene and was sent to Sing Sing, but later was released on the recommendation of Governor Smith, because he was reported dying of tuberculosis.

DIRIGIBLE HOP IS CALLED OFF

Adequate and Experienced Landing Crew Lacking at Canadian Capital.

HARD TO ANCHOR.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).The first flight into Canada of the United States navy dirigible Los Angeles has been postponed indefinitely.

It was proposed to send the famous airship to Ottawa next Saturday as a compliment to the British government in conveying Sir Phillip Sassoon, British Under Secretary for Air, from his visit to the United States back to British soil. When Secretary of the Navy Wilbur received final reports from his officers who overlooked possible landing ground in Ottawa, however, he decided that he could not authorize the trip.

Since the disaster to the dirigible Shenandoah, the Navy Department has been very nervous about ground landings of big dirigibles and the decision was not unexpected. The last time the Los Angeles visited Washington there was such difficulty in effecting an anchorage here that the dirigible has not since attempted to come to the ground, confining visits to flights over the city.

The Canadian Press understands that Sir Phillip Sassoon will be invited to accompany officials of the Air Board of the United States on a short flight in the Los Angeles on Saturday in the region of the ship's mooring mast at Lakehurst, N.J., returning to the mooring at the end of the flight.

If Sir Phillip so desires he and his staff will later be taken to Ottawa in one of the crack aeroplanes attached to the Navy Department. If this plan is carried out it is probable that some or all of the secretaries comprising the Air Board of the United States will go up to Ottawa also.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.) — Steady buying of wheat by houses with seaboard connections, gave prices a lift into higher ground on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Offerings were on a fairly liberal scale throughout the session, but buyers were never lacking with the result that gains were sustained. Quotations at the close were 5-8 to 1 1-8 higher.

In addition to the export buying there was moderate absorption through commission houses, while spreading operations were limited.

A slight weakening of demand for the coarse grains was evident yesterday. Barley found a fairly good outlet, but rye was less active than at any time during the past ten days.

FIRE PROTECTION MUCH IMPROVED

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 27.—The village waterworks are in operation, the tank on the hill is full of water and contains about 30,000 gallons and affords fire protection to the hill district and fills a much needed want in the community. The work has been recently completed.

The second week in October was observed as Fire Prevention week and Mr. A. H. Clarke, the efficient Fire Chief, enlisted the aid of most of the clergy in this campaign, which has become nation wide in its efforts to cut down the wastage from fire each year.

During that week the Fire Chief visited the Public and High school and made an inspection.

Frank Coyle Meets With Painful Injury While Picking Apples.

LADDER SLIPPED.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 27.—Mr. Frank Coyle met with a painful accident while picking apples. The ladder on which he was standing slipped, causing Mr. Coyle to fall to the ground. His back was badly hurt. Dr. Hershey was called and conveyed him to his room. At time of writing he is suffering intense pain.

PILGRIMAGE TO HEROES' GRAVES.

Two hundred men recently journeyed from England to Egypt and Palestine to honor the graves of British soldiers who were killed in those countries during the World War. The travelers were members of St. Barnabas Pilgrimage of London, and were led by F. Mullineaux. The expenses of the journey were largely defrayed by public subscription.

Prepare For Anniversary.

St. Andrew's, Burnbrae, Will Hold Special Services Next Sunday.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 27.—Preparations are well under way for the annual anniversary services and fowl supper of St. Andrew's church which will be held on Sunday, October 30 and the evening of Tuesday, November 1. The special speaker for the Sunday services will be the Rev. Mr. Marshall of Madoc and music will be furnished by the well-known Radio Four of Belleville. The same satisfying meal of chicken for which Burnbrae ladies have a reputation will go hand in hand with all other good things to eat on Tuesday night with a varied entertainment in the auditorium of the church after the supper hour.

Mrs. A. Oddie, Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Alton and family, Mrs. William Varcoe and grandchildren all of St. Catharines have been visiting in the community.

800 ATTEND FOWL SUPPER

Annual Social of St. Andrew's, Campbellford, Great Success.

GOOD PROGRAM.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 26. — More than eight hundred people sat down to a most appetizing meal at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church fowl supper last night. This number is slightly smaller than last year, but the supper was equal to that of previous years and in many respects surpassed them. The proceeds will be in excess of $500.

Since the seating arranged permitted only about 250 at each sitting, it was necessary to reset the tables three and some of them four times. During the interval between the supper and the programme, an orchestra played in the auditorium of the church. The music was very pleasing and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who either had eaten or were waiting their call to the tables. The members of the orchestra were Miss Cherry Turner, Cecil Searles, William Pearson, and George Frederick.

At 8.30, a very entertaining musical programme was presented in the church auditorium. Rev. James Grier, acting as chairman, extended a hearty welcome to all present. He also mentioned the services of the orchestra. Mrs. Ernest Bedford, whose name appeared first on the programme, was unable to be present, a circumstance which Mr. Grier and those present greatly regretted. But Mr. Bedford, also appearing as a soloist, consented to be first on the list and be free to enjoy the remainder of the evening without the mental strain which, he said, invariably mars the enjoyment of one who is yet to make his bow. Miss Wheadon at the piano delighted the audience. With some little reluctance, she was prevailed upon to play an encore, which was equally well enjoyed.

On the platform with Mr. Grier was Rev. D. A. McKenzie, of Burnbrae. In introducing him, Mr. Grier referred to Burnbrae as a suburb of Campbellford which might easily and favourably compare to artistocrat hill of the larger cities of the world. He expressed an opinion that the number of Burnbrae people present were no doubt responsible for the aristocratic air of the meeting. The people of Burnbrae, said Mr. Grier, are of Scottish ancestry, but have improved on their heritage. The world-famous Highland hospitality is not to be compared with the warmth of fellowship which has existed for years in the Scottish settlement.

Mr. McKenzie chose to comment on the remarks of his fellow-clergyman, and it must be conceded that Mr. Grier's ready Irish wit fell prey to that of the Scot. While he had known Mr. Grier to be an Irishman, said Mr. McKenzie, he had not been aware that he had kissed the Blarney Stone. The humorous trend of his remarks brought ready applause from the listeners.

As far as being a suburb of Campbellford, Mr. McKenzie claimed that Burnbrae was the older of the two settlements, although there were not many years between them. This fact, he thought, would reevrse the order of things. He wished, however, to speak the greetings of himself and his congregation to the Campbellford church, and to express a sincere wish that the long period of deep friendship would continue throughout the years to come.

The present gathering, he said, reminded him of an affair which took place in a locality where rabbits were very plentiful. At the local boarding-house, the landlady took every advantage of this detail and rabbit was served at every meal. This was more than some of the boarders could stand, and a plan was arranged to better the condition. One of the boarders was to say grace at the next meal. His thanksgiving speech was: "Rabbits young, rabbits old, rabbits hot and rabbits cold, rabbits tender and rabbits tough, thank the Lord we've had enough." Although he had certainly not been eating rabbit, Mr. McKenzie felt that he had eaten quite enough.

Changing from lighter to more serious mood through the medium of a tale of a Scot who had not been a regular attendant at kirk, Mr. MacKenzie explained that magnomania was a disease which had as its symptom a craze for things on the largest of scales. He illustrated his statement by a tale of a man who attempted to take a picture of a little western town, but was informed by one of its inhabitants that such a thing was impossible since the town grew so fast that it could not be photographed.

Canadians need not be accused of suffering from that disease. Their country is part of the world's greatest empire. It is the third richest country in the world. It is united with the other parts of the Empire by bonds stronger than the truest steel. The British flag, he said, stood for liberty, justice and purity. Religion was also one of the chief factors of the greatness of any empire, and it was the duty of the churches to build up a citizenship of the highest standard. It is righteousness which exalts nations he said, and all should be proud of Canada. If she remains true to her ideals, she will be the greatest of nations.

Following Mr. MacKenzie's address Mrs. DeCarroll sang "Afton Water." It was a very pretty arrangement, and was sung exceptionally well. Mrs DeCarroll invariably wins favor through her interpretation of the Scotch classics. Cecil Searle's violin selection was encored and he responded generously. Both numbers were greatly appreciated. At the piano was Miss Cherry Turner. Having noticed the Rev. L. M. Smith and Mrs. Smith in the audience, Mr. Grier invited him to address the meeting. Mr. Smith conveyed the greetings of his congregation and the personal appreciation of himself and Mrs. Smith for a most enjoyable supper and entertainment. He believed such affairs were a necessity in the affairs of the church even though its function was not primarily of a social nature.

Miss Helen Macdonald seemed unable to satisfy the audience with one number and an encore was imperative. Miss MacDonald's exceptionally beautiful voice and her pleasing manner never fail to win the approval of her hearers.

After expressing his appreciation of Miss MacDonald's inconvenience at having to come such a long distance to sing for them, the chairman asked if the Rev. Ernest Harston had yet appeared. Apparently he had not, so Mr. Grier expressed the regrets of his fellow clergyman, who had promised to make the utmost effort to be present, if only for a few minutes.

An orchestra selection and an encore completed the program, after which Mr. Grier took occasion to announce that Burnbrae Church was holding its anniversary services next Sunday and that there would be special music, and the minister would be the Rev. George Marshall of Madoc. Their fowl supper would be held on Tuesday, Nov. 1. He also wished to thank those who had assisted on the programme or at the supper tables. The National Anthem concluded the entertainment.

CONCERT HELD IN CAVAN HALL

Choral Class Under Miss Daisy Murray Provides Musical Evening.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

CAVAN, Oct. 27.—On Friday evening Cavan Choral Class gave a good concert in the Community Hall. Miss Daisy Murray, teacher of the class, was in charge.

There was a good attendance. The following programme was given; the Rev. J. O. Totten filling the position of chairman very acceptably: Chairman's remarks; chorus, "Skating," by the class; duet, Messrs. Winslow and McCamus; reading, Mr. Ralph Staples; piano duet, Mesdames Totten and Winslow; solo, Miss Murray; chorus, "Sweetest Story Ever Told"; reading, Ralph Staples; duet, Messrs. Winslow and McCamus; chorus, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom"; solo; Miss Murray; debate, "Resolved, That a Young Man is Justified in Leaving the Farm"; piano duet, Mesdames Winslow and Totten; judges' decision; God Save the King.

There were twenty-two who took part in the choruses. Miss Murray played the music and led the singing. They were much enjoyed by the audience.

Debate.

The affirmative of the debate was ably upheld by Messrs. R. Sutton and A. Matchett, while the negative was well taken by the Misses Helen Staples and A. McConnache.

It was a good debate, and well discussed from every angle,—health, morals, social position, intellectual development, patriotism, and financial rewards.

Both sides made excellent use of the ten minutes allotted to each speaker, while the leader of the affirmative in his four minutes given to reply made a brave attempt to break down a strong defence which had been built up by the negative. The judges, Messrs. V. Hunter, O. Carley, and Miss McCullough, gave the decision by a small margin of points to the negative.

While the judges were making their decision, Miss Murray led in community singing.

The Choral Class had been formed under the auspices of the Women's Institute, who were responsible for the finances, as well as the other arrangements for the carrying on of the Class.

Friday evening was the conclusion of the class for this season.

The interest shown by the young people; as well as the progress made, convinced the Institute that their efforts had not been in vain. Miss Murray proved a most efficient teacher.

FARM AUCTION PRICES ARE HIGH

John George Has Successful Sale of Implements and Stock.

CAVAN NEWS.

CAVAN, Oct. 27.—Mr. John George, Fallis Line, had a very successful sale on Thursday afternoon. There was a big crowd and everything brought good prices.

Hens brought ninety-five cents and one dollar and five cents. Chickens sold from forty-seven and a half cents each to fifty-five cents. Eight Leghorn pullets brought one dollar and ten cents apiece. Geese brought one dollar and seventy-five cents each.

The implements sold well, also what household furniture was offered.

Mr. and Mrs. George are moving to Millbrook.

Mr. Allie Fallis has bought the farm.

Mr. James Roddy was the auctioneer.

The rise are being lifted this week on the Grand Trunk track between Bethany and Millbrook. The trains stopped running on that line some weeks ago.

At the ploughing match, held on the farm of Harold McConnell, Emily Township, County of Victoria, the prize for the best plowing in sod was won by Harry McCamus, of Cavan.

David Sharpe, also of Cavan, won third prize in best plowing in sod, open to all except former first prize winners.

C. L. Winslow won first prize in stubble for boys under twenty.

These three boys belong to Beechwood School Section, North Cavan.

At the recent judging competition for junior farmers, held at Bethany on Wednesday, among the ten boys under twenty-three, who won high points in judging and have the privilege of attending the Royal Fair, with their expenses paid, were three boys from Cavan Township, Archie Matchett, Will Swain, and George McKnight.

FAREWELL PARTY.

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 27.—On Thursday evening a very interesting event took place when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. John McGuire, west of here to bid them farewell before their departure for their new home in Lindsay. Mr. McGuire was presented with an easy chair and smoking set and his daughters with a floor lamp. Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. was chairman for the evening and after a few remarks, addresses were delivered by Messrs. Thos. Lucas, Ed. Costello, Robt. Johnston, Frank Milloy and Bernard Murray. Mr. William J. O'Neill read the following address.—

Mr. John McGuire and daughters,
Dear Friends:

On the eve of your departure from our midst, we have assembled here tonight to express in some small measure the high regard you have won in this community and to wish you all much happiness in your new home. We are glad it is to be to Lindsay you are going, for we shall often be able to meet you and share your company and hospitality as we have done so often in the past. In your going, we realize that we are losing a real friend an neighbor, but we know that you have toiled hard for many years and well deserve the rest which will be yours now. We only wish that your dear good wife had been spared you to share it with you.

The girls, too, will be much missed, as the older ones have taken active parts in the social life of the community and the little ones in school affairs. But the distance you are going is so trifling that we hope to see you almost as much as formerly. We ask you to accept these little gifts as tokens of the high esteem in which we hold you all, and trust that they may sometimes remind you of your Emily and Ops friends.

Signed—Frank Milloy, Robt. J. Winn, W. J. O'Neill, Elmer Mahood.

Mr. McGuire replied in behalf of his daughters and himself in a few well-chosen words, ably expressing his appreciation for the kindness of his friends and neighbors.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

FAREWELL PARTY.

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 27.—On Thursday evening a very interesting event took place when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. John McGuire, west of here to bid them farewell before their departure for their new home in Lindsay. Mr. McGuire was presented with an easy chair and smoking set and his daughters with a floor lamp. Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. was chairman for the evening and after a few remarks, addresses were delivered by Messrs. Thos. Lucas, Ed. Costello, Robt. Johnston, Frank Milloy and Bernard Murray. Mr. William J. O'Neill read the following address.—

Mr. John McGuire and daughters,

Dear Friends:

On the eve of your departure from our midst, we have assembled here tonight to express in some small measure the high regard you have won in this community and to wish you all much happiness in your new home. We are glad it is to be to Lindsay you are going, for we shall often be able to meet you and share your company and hospitality as we have done so often in the past. In your going, we realize that we are losing a real friend an neighbor, but we know that you have toiled hard for many years and well deserve the rest which will be yours now. We only wish that your dear good wife had been spared you to share it with you.

The girls, too, will be much missed, as the older ones have taken active parts in the social life of the community and the little ones in school affairs. But the distance you are going is so trifling that we hope to see you almost as much as formerly. We ask you to accept these little gifts as tokens of the high esteem in which we hold you all, and trust that they may sometimes remind you of your Emily and Ops friends.

Signed—Frank Milloy, Robt. J. Winn, W. J. O'Neill, Elmer Mahood.

Mr. McGuire replied in behalf of his daughters and himself in a few well-chosen words, ably expressing his appreciation for the kindness of his friends and neighbors.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Rowen was called to Toronto on Saturday on account of the death of her sister, Mrs. Armour.

Col. O'Dell made an official visit to S.S. No. 7 on Friday.

Miss N. Syer returned to her home in Peterborough, after a pleasant visit with her aunts, Mrs. M. Syer, Millbrook and Mrs. E. Syer, Cavan.

Cavan choir supplied the music for the anniversary services at Ebenezer on Sunday afternoon and evening. Among those from Cavan who attended Ebenezer anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Will Tinney, Miss Annie Tinney, Mr. and Mrs. G. Cobbly, Miss Dorothy Cobbly, Mr. Jas. Douglas, Mr. R. Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perrin and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennedy and family, Mrs. Totten, Mr. and Mrs. R. Matchett, Mr. and Mrs. A. Byers, Mrs. Howson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Carr, Mr. W. Howson and Mrs. Albert Tinney, Mr. and Mrs. Boyles, Mr. F. M. Staples, Mr. Ray Staples and Miss Ruth Staples.

The Rev. Mr. Poulter, Bethany, preached morning and evening.

Mr. Walter Sharpe has his fine steel barn with cement basement completed. The barn was in place in time to receive his hay and grain crop. The basement is being finished later.

The Harvest Home Festival Services were held in St. John's Church, Ida, on Sunday.

There was no service in Cavan United Church on Sunday evening. It was withdrawn on account of Ebenezer Anniversary.

J. D. Hunter attended the meeting in Bethany on Friday night, considering the route which the new highway may take through Cavan. This highway is expected to be built from Toronto to Ottawa via Brooklin, in order to relieve the congestion on the Kingston highway. Cavan and Bethany villages would like to have it come through Cavan by way of the ninth line; this is the direct line between Cavan and Bethany.

Miss Ruth Keegan, R.N., was called to Baillieboro on Sunday to take charge of a case.

THOMASBURG NEWS.

SELECTING OFFICIALS.

The recent incident in connection with the County House of Refuge suggests that in all such appointments more care should be taken in studying the temperament of applicants for positions of this kind.

Too often appointments are made with little or no knowledge of the qualifications of the job-seekers.

The care of old people in public institutions is not a sinecure; it calls for good judgment, tact, patience and control of temper.

Many inmates are admittedly irritating; they are difficult to handle, quick to find fault and ready to complain, and because this is so the official who is placed in charge of them must have an infinite store of patience and at the same time be able to maintain a reasonable amount of discipline.

Admittedly it is not an easy matter to secure such the responsibility of supervising institutions should make officials, but at least all public bodies entrusted with a conscientious and sincere effort to obtain the services of men and women who possess the necessary qualities for a kindly but firm administration of their important duties.

PAYING FOR WHAT YOU GET.

It is intimated that in a short time the Ontario Government will announce the details of its policy of lowered automobile marker fees and increased gasoline tax.

The principle involved in such a system is, of course, that the man who uses the road the most should pay the most for the privilege.

The citizen who only uses his car three or four times a week, chiefly on Sundays, will escape lightly; the motorist who is continually on the road will, through an increased gas tax, pay his proportionate share of the cost of road construction and maintenance.

By lowering the marker fees and increasing the tax on gasoline the Government is logically endeavoring to put into effect a system that as equitably as possible will make those to whom good roads are of the most use pay the most.

There is likely to be considerable opposition to the policy but the government should have little difficulty in justifying its adherence to a principle of every day business, that you have to pay for what you get.

ENFORCEMENT CALLED FOR.

It is evident from a statement given out by Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, that the regulation in regard to the illumination of horse drawn vehicles is not yet being generally observed.

The Minister admits that in many sections of the province there has been no rush to procure the lamps called for by the law and he drops a hint that a campaign to secure better observance of the regulation is to be launched.

The law came into force on October 1, after ample warning had been given the people of the province of the date when the legislation became effective

There is therefore not the slightest excuse at this date, nearly a month after the section has been in operation, for owners of horse-drawn vehicles not to have complied with the law and those who have neglected to secure the necessary lamps have no right to feel aggrieved if the penalties for violation of the new measure are inflicted.

The safety of the public demands that this regulation and all others tending to reduce the danger of accidents shall be strictly and generally enforced.

There is no profit in loading up the statute books with laws that mean nothing if they can safely be ignored.

WARNING THE CHILDREN.

The Safety Committee is continuing its campaign for safer traffic conditions, is appealing to school inspectors, teachers and school boards for assistance and cooperation.

In its latest advertisement the committee stresses the fact that lessons in safety are as important as lessons in arithmetic, and points out that teachers, by taking every opportunity to teach thoughtfulness and care, can help to stop the toll on the young life of the province.

It is true that school hours are well filled with the subjects laid down for instruction, but the preservation of human life is more important after all than all these subjects, and there is undoubtedly an opportunity in the school to drive home to young children the necessity of being careful.

If, at the close of the morning and afternoon sessions of school, the teachers would remind the pupils in their charge of the need of exercising caution on their way home the warning, fresh in their minds, would have a very helpful effect in saving the children from traffic dangers.

At the same time the parents should not fail to keep in front of their children the fact that there is constant peril on city streets because of the volume of motor traffic.

TWO THIEVES AT WORK.

(From the Stratford Beacon-Herald)

In the papers this morning there was a short story about a barn being burned on a farm in Western Ontario. Crops were lost, and so was considerable machinery; in all about $7,000 went up in smoke.

In the same papers there were accounts of a robbery in a branch bank of Toronto where $6,690 had been taken away by bandits.

By a rather peculiar coincidence the monetary loss was about the same in both cases. The farmer had some insurance on his buildings, and no doubt the bank in Toronto would be insured against losing money in a raid, so as far as actual loss is concerned, it appears that the farmer may be out of pocket more than the bank.

But the farm fire got just five lines of notice, while there were a couple of columns telling about the bank robbery, staff photographers have been sent out and they pictured the story that reporters told in words.

From the standpoint of news values the difference is justified, because there is always a realy story in a bank robbery, whereas there is not a very great deal to tell about a barn fire.

But to get at the thing another way for a moment. There were two thieves at work—one set used guns and scooped up money; the other thief was fire, and he did his work just as surely, and just in as spectacular a way as the others.

The trouble is that we have become used to fires. We don't call them thieves; we don't realize that they steal away a whole year's work and a whole life work of thrift in a few hours.

For that reason we have accepted them as someing almost inevitable, and yet on a year's operations fires steal away colossal figures, away over and above anything that burglars take.

It might be a good idea if we regarded a fire as a thief and started to treat it as such.

ADULT EDUCATION.

According to the Vancouver Sun 225 teachers are applying for the privilege of attending night classes in the University of British Columbia. Night schools and lectures now give secondary and even university education, and the tendency is good. A time may arrive in the life of a boy or girl when a choice must be made between further education and family duty, or when the earning of a living may be an absolute necessity. There is no reason why education and bread-winning should not go on together.

This modern tendency is toward shorter hours of labor in factories, stores and offices. There is plenty of time for study, after making all due allowance for rest and amusement. In fact certain forms of study may themselves answer the purpose of recreation after a day occupied in hard manual labor or monotonous work. The man or woman who has spent the evening in reading good literature or listening to an instructive lecture may be better fitted for work next day than one who has been dancing until an early hour in the morning. There is plenty of time for dancing or any other amusement in moderation, and also for education.

The distinction between amusement and work is sometimes imaginary. The solution of a crossword puzzle demands mental effort not unlike that of translation from a foreign language. Chess may tax the brain as much as geometry, and bridge as much as arithmetic. Open an encyclopedia anywhere and read the articles as they come, and you will absorb a lot of interesting information without any perceptible mental effort. The mind of a normal person during waking hours is never absolutely vacant or at rest, and it may just as well be occupied with methodical and useful thinking as with aimless operations.

The difference between profitable and profitless thinking is like that between walking round and round a city block and taking a journey through a new country. The former represents motion without progress, like that of a rocking-horse or a treadmill. It may also represent labor without result. The better kind of thinking resembles a journey through a new and interesting country. The possibilities of developing the human mind by methodical and progressive thinking are beyond conception.

Men and women of mature years may be heard lamenting defect in their early education. It is of importance that the best possible use be made of the years of boyhood and girlhood. The mind is then peculiarly receptive, and certain things are more easily learned than in later years. The man or woman who has missed these opportunities may regret but need not despair. The Edmonton Journal says in this connection:

What would you do if you had a second chance. This is the question which adult education tries to answer. In schooldays, says its exponents, the youngster often does not know or is not interested in what is good for him. He is, as the saying goes, exposed to education, but it may not take. But, they argue, after that same youngster has left school and has been pitchforked into life he comes to realise what he has missed. He knows at last what he needs or wants to study. Adult education offers him the chance.

There is not only one second chance, but many chances. The boy or girl leaving school at sixteen may go on learning until seventy, and in that period there are opportunities for an education fully equivalent to a university course.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Hallowe'en party threatens to include the whole city and a large section of the country. The more the merrier.

Hon. Geo. S. Henry intimates that the law in regard to lights on horse-drawn vehicles is to be strictly enforced. And it should be in all parts of the province.

The deer hunter is beginning to wear a smile that means a whole lot to those who know the joys of an northland outing in November.

About the only sign of winter is the fact that the professional hockey teams have commenced training.

Reckless driving, in view of the penalties that are being meted out, is becoming a rather expensive operation.

Books, Mayor Thompson of Chicago evidently thinks, are more dangerous to the people of that city than machine gun bullets.

The fact that Hon. R. B. Bennett was tendered an enthusiastic welcome on his return to Calgary shows that a prophet is not always without honour in his own country.

The Long Point life-saving crew, after having gone thirty years without being called out, are being paid off. That seems to be abolishing the acme of Government jobs.

On account of the lack of a landing field, the United States dirigible Los Angeles may not pay a visit to Ottawa. Still they should be room enough in Canada for a dirigible to land.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., October 27 (Canadian Press). — A moderate amount of business was done with foreign buyers in wheat here yesterday, but the inquiry for coarse grains was slow.

There was some demand from exporters for wheat in the local market ,and sales of several loads of Manitoba No. 4 grade were made at 6½c per bushel under the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal. The market for Canadian Western grades of oats was again weak and prices were reduced another cent per bushel.

A feature of the flour trade was the marked improvement in the demand from English importers for spring wheat grades and a fairly large business was done for both nearby and deferred shipment. The domestic trade was also better. The demand for winter wheat our was moderate and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand from all sources. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady under a fair demand.

There was some inquiry from London for Canadian baled hay, and some business was done. The local trade was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the egg market was firm and the demand was fair. The receipts were 1,356 cases.

Owing to the milder weather prevailong there was a lull in the demand for potatoes, and this, combined with the large receipts, created an easier feeling and the tendency of prices was downward. Car lots of Prince Edward Green Mountains were quoted at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.40 to $1.45 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag in bulk ,and Quebec White $1,25 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

A steadier feeling prevailed in the butter market, which was attributed to a slight improvement in the demand. The receipts were 54 packages.

The demand from United States buyers for cheese continued fair, and a moderate amount of business was again transacted. The receipts were 2,256 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 27 (Canadian Press). — Wheat prices tended upward yesterday, whereas corn underwent a lively tumble. Export demand for North American wheat broadened, with total purchasing figures at 1,000,000 bushels. Bearish private crop estimates on corn yield were looked for in some quarters. Wheat closed unsettled, quarter to ⅝c net higher; corn ¼c to 2¾c off; oats at ⅝c decline to ¼c advance and provisions unchanged to a setback of 50c.

Much of the speculative demand for wheat yesterday was on the basis that United States wheat prices are too low, compared to Winnipeg and Liverpool. In this connection, special stress was laid on talk that this country's wheat is at present the best available anywhere. Reports were also current that mills at Minneapolis were purchasing future deliveries, December in particular, and that unsettled weather threatened to hamper the Canadian crop movement in parts of the Prairie Provinces. On the other hand, predicted frosts in Argentine failed to appear, and corn weakness had a bearish effect at times, although some of the selling of corn was in the nature of a spread against buying of wheat.

In the corn market, March and May deliveries were heavily sold and reached the lowest prices yet this season. Little was heard yesterday about export demand for corn, but much about remarkably fine weather curing the crop and likely to result in better quality than last year. Oats were responsive to corn weakness, but cash demand for oats was good, and arrivals of oats were light.

Downturns in the value of hogs forced the provision market lower. Talk was heard of unusually large surplus stocks being carried into the winter packing season.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, October 27 (Canadian Press). — Cattle receipts, 12,000; best heavy fed steers, $11.50; yearlings, $17.40; moderate supply well-finished steers, $17.00 to $17.30; largely $13.00 market on vealers to big packers; selected offerings, $15.00 to outsiders; shipper bulls, very scarce at $7.00 to $7.25; most light kinds, $6.25 to $6.50.

Hog receipts, 20,000; top, $10.80; majority good and choice 210 to 300 pound butchers, $10.25 to $10.75; 160 to pounds average, $9.50 to $10.25 largely; 130 to 160 pounds, $8.50 to $9.25 mostly; pigs, $7.75 to $8.50; few best, $8.75; most packing sows, $8.00 to $8.50; best lightweights, $8.75; thin kinds, $7.50 and under.

LIFE SAVING TESTS TO BE HELD AT 'Y'

Will Be Conducted Next Saturday By Rev. J. Douglas Paterson.

The inception of the Royal Life Saving Society was due to the oft-expressed desire to teach those possessed of ordinary courage and the best methods of rescue and the resuscitation of the apparently drowned.

The desire to save a human life and the thought to lend a hand to a brother in peril so greatly underlies the work of the society that it has appealed to people of all classes in every clime, so that at present its aims and objects are known in all parts of the British Empire and most foreign countries; to promote Technical Education in Life Saving, and resuscitation of the apparently drowned, to stimulate public opinion in favor of the general adoption of Swimming and Life Saving as a branch of instruction in schools, institutions, colleges, etc.; to encourage floating, diving, plunging, and such other swimming arts as would be of assistance to a person endeavoring to save life; to arrange and promote public lectures, demonstrations, and competitions, and to form classes of instruction so as to promote a widespread and thorough knowledge of the principles which underlie the art of natation.

The Peterborough Y. W. C. A. is a branch of the R. L. S. S. and each year conducts life-saving classes for juniors and seniors. This year the examinations will be held at the Y. W. C. A. Swimming Pool, Saturday afternoon, October 29, at 2:30. The Rev. J. D. Paterson will be the examiner.

Elementary.—The rescue and release drill on land. The Schafer method of resuscitation. Drills for rescue in the water, second and fourth method together with one of release. Object-diving from surface of water. Swimming distances of 40 yards breast stroke and 25 yards back stroke.

Proficiency.—Rescue and release drills on land. The Schafer method of resuscitation and promotion of warmth and circulation. Four methods of rescue and three of release in water. In rescue method the subject must be carried 40 yards. Swim distance of 150 yards breast stroke and 50 yards back stroke.

Bronze Medallion.—(a) The rescue, release and resuscitation land drills. (b) Four methods of rescue and three of release (combined); must be shown in the water. The drowning subject in the method must be carried twenty yards. Expert ability in diving from the surface for five-pound weight to a depth of at least five feet. (c) A complete knowledge of all the information contained in Parts I. and II. of the Handbook. (d) Swim distance of 140 yards breast stroke and 50 yards back stroke.

The Award of Merit.—(a) To carry a person attired in bathing costume by the second method of rescue a distance of twenty yards. (b) To swim continuously, attired in outdoor clothing, a distance of 600 yards by three different strokes: 1, 200 yards breast stroke; 2, 200 yards back stroke, using arms and legs; 3, 200 yards side stroke or over-arm side stroke, the trudgeon, crawl, or double over-arm stroke, or the back stroke without use of arms. (c) To undress on the surface of the water. (d) To dive from surface of water to depth of five feet and raise and land an object weighing five pounds. (e) To dive nearly from two heights, not exceeding 5 feet and 10 feet. (f) To perform three scientific or fancy swimming movements approved by the Executive.

'QUAKE IN JAPAN.

Seaport Town Badly Shaken To-day, But No Person Killed.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A serious earthquake in Nigata, a seaport town at the mouth of the Shinano river, not far from Kyo, Japan, is reported in despatches to London to-day. No casualties were mentioned in the first despatches.

Purify them daily

EVERY day, restore to false teeth that fresh cleanliness which they had when you first got them. The sterilizing and cleansing action of HYGEOL requires no tedious brushing to aid it in ridding them of all greasy film, germs, food particles, discolorations and odours. A twenty-minute immersion in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water accomplishes a thorough cleansing, besides killing every germ. You can leave the entire job to HYGEOL, while you dress.

There is another method, which you may prefer, if you can sleep without your teeth. Leave them all night in a glass of water to which one teaspoonful of HYGEOL has been added. This method is equally effective.

It is important to note that HYGEOL is absolutely non-injurious to the gold, platinum and vulcanite composing dental plates.

BOYISH PRANK CAUSES DEATH

Little Lad Darts Into Road To Rescue Cap Thrown By Playmate.

STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR.

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 27.— Dashing out on the road to recover his cap, which had been thrown there by a playmate, Clifford Urry, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Urry, 58 Owen street, was on Tuesday evening run down by a passing automobile, driven by Newton Nash, 46 Grove street, and died five hours later in Royal Victoria Hospital from the effects of injuries received. The accident happened near the lad's home, just north of the Worsley and Owen street intersection, where he and his chums were engaged in burning leaves. Nash reported the accident to the police, but was not taken into custody, indications pointing to it being purely accidental.

According to his story given to the police, Nash states that he was aware that the boys were playing on the side of the road and was driving slowly, not more than ten or twelve miles an hour, when the lad suddenly darted out in front of the path of his car. He did not have a chance, he states, although he brought his car to a halt almost within a car length. The injured lad was immediately removed to Royal Victoria Hospital, but internal injuries were such as to make recovery impossible.

Coroner Dr. Rodgers decided an inquest unnecessary.

BOARD CLOSES SEVENTH YEAR

HAS NOW 39 ON LIST

The Local Board of the Mothers' Allowances Commission in this city closed its seventh year of active service at the end of September last, 1927, the ensuing year commencing on October 1. There have been few changes in the personnel of the Local Board during its years of service. As now constituted the Board numbers seven, all of whom have now had considerable experience in the details of the work. The Board functions smoothly and rather avoids publicity, for in the nature of the service and in the activities performed the Board is dealing with the intimate and private affairs of those who make applications and are, eventually, taken on the list of beneficiaries. It will be at once recognized that the minutiae of application, verification, investigation into situations and circumstances, all concern only the applicant and the Local Board, essentially private. But the ratepayers are interested in that from the monies of the municipality one-half of the sums of allowances are paid, the Province supplying the other half.

As a remedial institution the Mothers' Allowances stands as one of the deservedly helpful services brought into being during the last ten years. The administration is closely defined by the terms of the Act under which it was brought into being. Within the last four years efforts have been made to graft on to the service assistance in the way of grants or continued payments in cases outside the purview of the Act, though in many instances circumstances prevail that are contributory to family need. One exception has been recognized, in the case of the breadwinner for the family being totally incapacitated through illness from earning for the support of the mother and children. Such cases are recognized on dependency being established, and on the whole, throughout the Province, form a fair percentage of cases on the lists.

From the seven members of the Local Board the presiding officer and assistant and secretary are selected. Following the approval of the Provincial Board that the entire Local Board had been re-appointed, the following were appointed on vote by the members at the monthly meeting or October: President, Mrs. Jay Knox, 481 Gilmour Street; Vice-President, James Abraham, 179 Rubidge Street; Secretary, F. H. Dobbin, 622 George Street; T. J. McMurray, 185 King Street; S. Whatley, 216 Murray Street; Mrs. George Benton, 272 Thomas Street; Mrs. Joseph Mills, 451 Hunter Street.

All members are supplied with forms, certificates, etc., and intending applicants may consult with any of those named above, in perfect confidence that every attention will be given. For general information it may be added that statements given are accepted in good faith, subject afterwards to minute investigation by the investigating officer sent out from the head office. All births of children, marriages, etc., must be supported by proper certificates from the office of the Registrar General, in Toronto. In cases where births have not been registered in the locality where the birth took place (and many births, it is found, have not been so verified), on application to the Local Secretary the proper procedure is followed at once to secure registration. Incidentally, in the course of the work many tragedies have been revealed, as where the parents have never been married, nor the births of children never verified by registration. Neglect of these observances is sure, at some period of life, to militate against proper procedure in affairs afterwards. In such respect the assistance of the Local Board approaches closely to that of a social service body.

It may be of interest to the ratepayers (the silent partners in the institution), some details of the expense involved in the payment of the allowances, the number of those participating, the number of adults and children benefitting. From the Annual Official Report (which will be published in pamphlet form), the following facts are taken, as apply to the work locally, and in general throughout the Province. The figures for the seventh year (1926-27) are not in-

	Number of Beneficiaries	Amounts Disbursed	Municipal Proportion Amounts
1921	36	$11,357.00	$5,538.50
1922	47	20,149.00	10,017.00
1923	41	21,633.00	10,716.00
1924	40	20,935.00	9,944.50
1925	45	20,694.00	11,954.00
1926	42	21,524.00	10,729.50
		$116,291.00	$58,900.00

In Peterborough City, at the end of September, 1927, the list stood as follows: Number of beneficiaries, 39; number of children, 111.

These families were made up as follows:

	Families	Children
Families with child under 16 and an incapacitated husband	1	1
2 children under 16	17	34
3 children under 16	14	42
4 children under 16	4	16
5 children under 16	1	5
6 children under 16	1	6
7 children under 16	1	7

It may be noted that the last months of 1927 brought several applications from mothers left with families of 8 to 10 children.

The aggregate of expenditure, for the six years previous to the present fiscal year of the Commission (October 1 to September 30, each year) is as follows. From time to time brief statements are given to the press, but these pass out of mind as only fragmentary statements. The figures as grouped convey a better idea of the responsibility incurred by the province and municipalities:

Totals for six years.

For the Years	Number of Beneficiaries	Number of Children	Amount Disbursed	Municipal Sums
1921	2660	8,271	774,667	$387,333.50
1922	3559	10,922	1,382,138	681,669.00
1923	3870	11,791	1,612,701	806,350.50
1924	4058	12,374	1,715,205	853,947.00
1925	4185	12,500	1,790,680	890,640.50
1926	4412	13,089	1,886,045	938,450.00
			$9,161,436	$4,567,719.50

Province-wide Statistics.

The total number of beneficiaries being paid the allowance, at end of the eleventh month of the fiscal year (August, 1927), was 4,746, and the number of children in these families amounted to 14,239. The average allowance, grouping all families, on an average, is nearly $36.50 per month.

The causes of dependency (as indicating the need for assistance) is as follows:

Death of father (widow)	3,613
(a) Insanity (husband in asylum)	131
(b) Other causes	594
Desertion (by husband)	262
Foster-mothers	146
	4,746

The Provincial Administrative Board for the supervision of activities of the work as a whole throughout the province comprises five members. At present, owing to the resignation of Mrs. Adam Shortt, of Ottawa, as a member, the Board is functioning with four members, as follows: Hon. David Jamieson, M.D. M.C.P.S., Chairman; Mrs. Minnie Singer, Toronto; Lt.-Col. T. J. Murphy, K.C., London; Mr. A. J. Reynolds, Brampton.

The Local Board meets the first Tuesday of each month, at the Y. M. C. A. building, the Directors kindly providing accommodation for the purpose.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready to use for only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy soft and luxuriant.

An instrument known as a "detectascope" has been invented that can spot shoplifters and expose loafing clerks in any room of a building.

ANCIENT CROSS ERECTED.

One hundred years after its discovery, a Celtic cross more than 1,000 years old was erected during a ceremony held recently in St. Patrick's church, Ballmena, Ireland. The cross was unearthed in 1827 while a ditch was being dug in the Kirconriola church yard near Ballymena, and placed in the tower of the church, where it remained until 1879, when the church was burned. It was lost until recently, and was found broken in three pieces in the cellar of Ballymena Castle. The cross is of rough, hard limestone, 22 inches long and about three inches thick. The inscription was carved in the tenth century.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

BETHEL UNITED CHURCH.

WARSAW, Oct. 27.—The United church at Bethel held its anniversary services on Sunday last. Rev. H. L. Hinton, a former pastor, conducted the services. There was a very full church in the morning and a good attendance in the evening. The choir was assisted by Mesdames McMillan and Walter Hamblin from Lakefield, and Messrs. Rufus Payne and Ralph Selby, Warsaw.

Warsaw United Sunday school was at half past nine to enable those who wished to go to Bethel.

There was no evening service in the United church.

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 26.—Rev. Mr. Hie, Hastings, preached Sunday afternoon and evening to large and appreciative congregations, the occasion being the anniversary services. The text for the evening was taken from John 3:16. Mr. Hie said no perfect teacher of morals had been discovered outside of Jesus, as others are imperfection. Christ was a teacher sent from God, a teacher of morality. He referred to the excavators of Pompei, who unearthed statues and didn't find anything intact. Imperfection seemed to follow man's program. By error of man the train leaves the track, wealth takes wings and flies through imperfections rising up. There never has been a national constitution but there was a flaw. Education waited long for the school house, religion waited long for the church, love and marriage waited a long while for the beautiful houses that are offered to-day.

The renewing power of Jesus Christ gives an example. Jesus' teachings are so simple a little child can understand. Jesus reveals in a generous manner his simple majesty. In the present day men are trying to tear the good old book to pieces and taking Christ out of it. "Do we want the world without Jesus Christ?" he asked. "A man wants more than a trained nurse at his dying bedside; he wants to know Jesus Christ will pilot him across the river.

"The new life doesn't mean a name on the church register, but does mean having one's name on the Lamb's book of life. The kingdom of God does not come until the image of God is revealed in each of us. Does our church truly represent God's teachings?"

There is no special attire or saving ordinance in the pulpit attire, and the way ladies dress their hair or wear their jewellery doesn't count if the heart isn't adorned with the spirit of Jesus Christ. "If we wash away superficial things what do we find?" he said. "We are to fix ever our eyes on Jesus as He is the one centre. There is no salvation on any other."

ENGLISH LINE CHURCH.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Oct. 26.—Sundaly services at Zion and Hoards appointments of the Seymour United circuit were withdrawn on Sunday last and the congregations joined in goodly numbers with the friends of Tabernacle church, English Line on the occasion of their anniversary services.

Ideal autumn weather prevailed and at the morning service at 11 o'clock the capacity of the church was taxed to the limit with friends from all over the Seymour charge. Burnbrae and Campbellford, who wished once again to hear a message from the lips of one who in bygone years was very dear to them all, the Rev. George A. Brown, of Chalmers church, Kingston. For a number of years Mr. Brown was pastor of St. Andrew's, Campbellford, and while there he not only won the hearts of the members of his own flock, but endeared himself to everyone with whom he came in contact. His opening remarks at the morning service were characteristic of the quiet, Christian love of this good man when he stated that God's wonderful sunshine and the glorious peace of the Sabbath hour were a better sermon than any he could preach.

His text was from Revelations, 22:1-2, "And he showed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it and on either side of the river was there the tree of life which bore twelve manner of fruit and yieided her fruit every month, and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."

Mr. Brown went on to show that this text was a perfect picture of the true religion of Jesus Christ. Our lives were meant to be like unto the tree of the text. God could reach each of us only through the touch of human life. A life to be kept clear from sin must flow always clear as the river of the text. The selfish, sinful man is always dead to the finer things in the community life. These finer things of life are ours for the taking and in a person's outlook of life he or she will find others just as each is personally and so looks for in others. How to attain this life? Be sure that the source of life is the throne of God and the emblem of sacrifice, the Lamb. The spirit of spontaneous sacrifice only comes from living close to God and close living with the spirit urges one to mingle in Christian labor with others.

The United church in a little over two years of history has tried to exemplify this text and is carrying the gospel to outlying communities. Churches uniting have freed ministers to take up other charges and in the past year nearly 600 new mission stations are touched with 149 new mission fields. This is what the church should stand for, the spreading of the living stream of God to all humanity.

The hymns chosen for this service were in keeping with the spirit of the message, "O God of Bethel," "From Ocean Unto Ocean," and "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus." Two anthems by the choir were well received, "The Earth is the Lord's" and "Come, Lift Up Thine Eyes." "Lead on O King Eternal" was rendered by a male quintette, Messrs. Earl, Kenneth and Charles Gadden, Ernest Mitchell and Rev. C. D. Daniel.

Solo parts throughout were taken by Mrs. Harry Grills, Mrs. A. Grills and Mr. Charles Gadden.

When the evening service commenced at 7.30 the church was again filled to the doors and needless to say everyone was thrilled to a deeper sense of Christian love and fellowship by the wonderful gospel message which Mr. Brown presented from the text, Eph. 3:8, "Unto me who am less than the least of all these saints is this grace given, that I should preach the unsearchable riches of Christ." The speaker drew a comparison between wealth which could be estimated and the wealth of the glory of Jesus Christ which would sustain men in their times of greatest sorrow and trial and give them resources to meet these. It gives one the power to give to others and still become richer oneself. The greatest blessings in life are not the superficial things which we sometimes ask for, but the deeper and more beautiful things of life.

One of the greatest needs of each is a true friend and, no stories are more beautiful than those of friendships. Jesus gives a fellowship that lasts through life and we can find him best through the lives of those about us.

Mr. Brown closed his sermon with a powerful appeal to the young people to seek out these unsearchable riches of Christ and try to find salvation in Jesus rather than to follow the seemingly attractive life of sin. The Christian way of life is not a cheerless way, but a life of activity. Every time we lend a helping hand to others we perform a positive Christian act and this leads closer to God. The greatest need of mankind is a Saviour from sin and Jesus Christ alone can do this.

The hymns at the evening service were beautiful and familiar, "At Even When the Sun Did Set," "Take Time to be Holy," and "Lead On O King Eternal." Two anthems by the choir, "Lift Up Your Heads, Ye Mighty Gates" and "Let the Heavens Rejoice," and a male quartette, "Glory of Sunset is Waning," Messrs. Earl and Charles Gadden, Ernest Mitchell and Rev. Daniel, were other musical numbers.

While the officials did not ask for a special offering, the sum of $85 was placed on the plates and this, with the proceeds of the fowl supper the previous Thursday evening bring the total sum of over $500. The supper was very successful and the Sunday services even more so, so that the Tabernacle congregation feel that they have been truly blessed.

Many Fine Addresses Given at Y.P.S. Meeting in Havelock.

PRESBYTERY GATHERING.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 27.—The first annual convention of the Peterborough Presbytery, Young People's Societies of the United Church of Canada was held in the United Church, Havelock, on Wednesday, October 19th, 1927.

There were a large number of delegates registered during the day from the different Young People's Societies of the Presbytery which includes Pontypool, Fraserville, Bailieboro, Bethany, six United churches of Peterborough, Lakefield, Warsaw, Cottesloe, Westwood, Norwood, Havelock and Trent River.

The morning session opened at 10.30 with the President, Gordon Denike of Havelock in the chair. Greetings were extended to the visitors by Pastor of the convention church, Rev. W. R. Archer, after which an Inspirational address was given by Rev. R. F. Stillman of Norwood, speaking from the words, "As the Father is in Christ and Christ in God." He spoke of Christ as the Superman in His service to humanity. Truly it is said He bought us with a price. The life of Jesus Christ has stood the test. His service is the supreme service in the world to-day, and the spirit of Jesus stands for unity.

The next item on the program was the appointment of committees after which they adjourned for lunch which was served in the dining hall by the ladies of the church.

The afternoon session opened at two o'clock, worship period being conducted by Mr. R. Redden of Trent River. After the opening hymn, Rev. D. Wren of Peterborough led in prayer. Psalm 17 was then read, followed by prayer by the Rev. H. B. Herrington, of Warsaw.

A message from the chairman of Presbytery, Rev. J. E. Todd, of Peterborough was enjoyed by all. He spoke on "The Day and Situation we are Facing." He said there is no golf between this age and the age that is past. Why so hurried today and how many evenings a week are we giving ourselves time for cultivating home life and the things worth while? "After all the evenings spent out what have we got to show for it?" he asked. "But what is the use of thundering at the young people if the father is just as anxious for money and the world. This should be kept in the background of life and we should have certain convictions, a call for something higher and stronger.

This is the age of self expression, not self repression, Mr. Todd said. "Always have a reason for the hope that is in you," he urged. "Have a little self-knowledge, self-control. These are the fundamentals to self-expression. It is so easy to get the bit in our teeth and go racing away out of control. Why grow lob-sided? Let us grow physically good, intellectually also, in terms of the Spirit that we may grow in the statue into manhood and womanhood like Him."

The next item on the program was an address by Rev. A. C. Hie, of Hastings, "The C.S.E.T. Program in Relation to Young People's Program."

Mr. Hie's interests are very much in the work of the young people. He spoke on dealing with a four-fold life. He said a boy is 50 per cent fun, 20 per cent fight, 10 per cent curiosity, 10 per cent study, 5 per cent work and 5 per cent religion. See where we stand with material in C.S.E.T. work he said. The important work of the C.S.E.T. leader is to keep the boy through the 'teen age period. It is a link in the chain from childhood to young manhood to keep for the church to use. Mr. Hie said to keep the young man interested in young people's work is to always keep him at it.

The next was the round table discussion led by Rev. H. W. Foley, of Fraserville, dealing with the problems of young people's societies. Much interest was taken by all in this discussion.

Mr. Holton of Belleville, President of Bay of Quinte Young People's Presbytery spoke a few words. He advised the young people to have a real spirit of optimism. He said there were in the Bay of Quinte Presbytery almost 400 groups of Y.P. Societies with 15000 young people, and there was the need of getting together with a spirit of co-operation.

Rev. F. Reid, a missionary from China spoke on the Chinese situation. The whole situation is inevitable economic trouble, not only economic, but tremendous social trouble. The trouble had to come in China, and was brought on by British trouble-makers. As rumors have gone, China, he said, has suffered from too much advice. The people tried to release China, but failed. The cure will not come from outsiders. The solution must come from within the manhood of the nation is not sufficiently strong to cope with the work. Lack of loyalty, of honesty are the things which the Chinese race are up against. They cannot manage a large concern, cannot play the game squarely; have no sense of trust. Mr. Reid said in closing that the only cure for this was Christianity.

The evening session was taken by Rev. A. Poulter of Bethany.

Rev. J. W. Gordon, of Peterborough addressed the convention, taking for his subject, "Thinking and Acting."

Just what are the young people of this generation doing with their minds? Are they employing them properly? What is the effect of pleasure on your life? Are you using your mind to consecrate on the good things? What does God think about your thoughts? he asked. Truth never stops growing and there isn't anything but what you may know more about. Use your mind. Apply it to some form of truth he counselled.

What is making the task for the missionaries in the foreign field is the influence of science and the influence of industrialism. Christians are not living the truth. The East today looks for Western civilization. In closing, Mr. Gordon said, "If you belong to a society and think it is worth while, get behind it and do some thinking."

A splendid solo was rendered by Mr. Roger McMullen, of Norwood, after which Mr. Holton told the young people about the third annual convention of the Bay of Quinte Young People's Conference which is to be held in the United Church, Smith Falls, November 2nd and 3rd, urging every Young People's Society to send at least one delegate and as many as possible.

The Havelock Choir then rendered a musical number, after which Rev. F. Reid spoke again of the vast work that was to be done in China. He said, "Don't think all the work is done. Missionary work is just beginning. The political situation is a mere bubble on the stream."

Rev. A. Poulter, of Bethany closed the convention with prayer.

The officers of the Young People's Societies of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church are: President, G. W. Denike, Havelock; vice-President, Mr. Barnard, Bailieboro; Secretary, Miss L. C. Howson, Norwood; Treasurer, E. A. Forbes, Peterborough; Christian Fellowship, Miss H. Burgess, Lakefield; Missionary, Rev. W. R. Archer, Havelock; Citizenship, J. John, Peterborough; Social and Literary, Rev. A. C. Hie, Hastings; Boys' Work, T. Miller, Peterborough; Girls' Work, Miss Verna Lee, Bethany.

NORHAM NEWS

NORHAM, Oct. 27.—Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare spent a few days of this week in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Gummer have returned home from Trenton, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Newton.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell assembled at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Palmateer, on Wednesday night; to tender to the bride and groom a miscellaneous shower. A goodly number from the Norham and Warkworth neighborhood were present. The bride received a large variety of beautiful and useful gifts. The evening passed very enjoyably for all present. The time was spent in dancing.

A slot machine that sells ten different brands of cigarets and makes change has been invented.

This year's

Family Gift!

Plan now to give your family a new Orthophonic Victrola. Select and reserve your Christmas instrument. At His Master's Voice Dealers only.

Here is a family gift which repays not merely in the joy of giving, but in the enjoyment you receive from it forever after. It is not too early to begin planning for one of these wonderful musical instruments. Today, His Master's Voice dealers have complete selections of models, but no one dares predict for how long. Your instrument reserved,—is your instrument assured.

People often wonder why the new Orthophonic Victrola is "so much alone" in its musical superiority. The secret lies in the practical application of the principle of "matched impedance" as scientists call it,—or, in simpler words "smooth flow of sound". The patents are Victor-controlled. You will find them in no other instrument.

With Victor music at home, you can turn on the flow of entertainment as the mood impels. When a record finishes playing—don't rush to get up—it stops itself. Electrical drive, if you wish—at slight additional cost—eliminates winding. Seven beautiful models to choose from, from $790 down to as low as $115, all obtainable on convenient terms from His Master's Voice dealers.

HEINS RECITAL

(By Jeanette)

A very appreciative audience listened last evening to the recital given in the hall of the Conservatory of Music by Donald Heins, violin virtuoso and concert master of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, assisted by Miss Ethel Dawson, brilliant concert pianiste of Ottawa. Applause followed each number on a programme which was of a very high order, the selections throughout being of a very classical order.

Donald Heins is a musician of a type seldom heard here, the very intellectual sort of violinist whose music is of the most difficult order. His playing is marked by technical perfection, a full-bodied tone, and an excess of nervous energy. His bow is facile, but the action appears to come from the shoulder, father than from the wrist, with much use of the broad, free, legato bow. He appeared to be at his best in the most difficut passages, in music of an unceasing, rapid tempo, with the pitch very high. In his own composition, a Concertino in D Major, most of the execution was in the very highest pitch of the fifth position. It was a wonderful exhibition of expert musicianship, with the emphasis placed on showmanship rather than melody or limpid tone.

Bach, who is always such a favorite in the premier position of most programmes, was the composer of the opening selection, "Chaconne," a florid, lengthy piece displaying the masterly control of sustained action possessed by the violinist, with its many demands in fluctuating tempo and mood. This was followed by a smoother composition, in the dreamy "Adagio" from the Suite in G Major of F. Reis, and a selection of the player's own composition, "The Butterfly," with a piercingly sweet high-pitched refrain decorated with sudden harmonics and pizzicato notes plucked by the bowing fingers. As an encore, Mr. Heins played a little thing that sounded exactly like the negro spiritual, "Run Along Home."

The second group by the violinist included "Dedication," a lovely thing of Schumann-Auer arrangement; Goldmark's "Andante" from Concerto in A Minor, another exposition of technical proficiency; and a "Grand Polonaise" by August Wilhelmj, a polished bit of extraordinary difficulty. An encore to this group was an arrangement of Mr. Heins' own composition, illustrating impressions gleaned by him from hearing an old-time caller-off at a country dance, with the tune of the country fiddler running through its unceasing, swift, bright music. As a conclusion to the program, Mr. Heins played his own composition, the "Concertino" in D Major, an impeccable performance illustrative of his flair for exacting, high-pitched music of brilliant calibre, the sort of composition that leaves the player and audience alike somewhat exhausted. Another little encore that displayed the violinist's versatility was done with the muted strings and in pianissmo effect, still high-pitched in tone.

Miss Ethel Dawson, whose piano accompaniments provided a superb background for the violin work, also proved herself to be a brilliant solo performer. Her apparently faultless memory, technical supremacy, and clear, bell-like tone combined to make her music very striking. Her liking for Chopin's compositions was demonstrated in the program, which was entirely from his pen, as far as the piano solos were concerned, but, at request, Miss Dawson exchanged her last solo number for a composition by Liszt.

In illustrating the music of the temperamental Pole, Miss Dawson appeared to be quite at home among its chromatic sinuosities and sudden temperamental changes. She played the "Etude" from Opus 10, Number 3, and a Valse in E Minor, with a splendid appreciation of their varying demands in tempo and rhythm, while the third number in the group, the "Etude" from Opus 25, Number 12, was a superb demonstration of the composer's typical and dominant mood, with its smashing arpeggios, played "en batterie," and heavily-marked chords. An encore was a graceful thing with the melody in the bass and a running accompaniment of trilly cascades in the treble.

As a concluding solo number, Miss Dawson played, by request, Liszt's Second Rhapsodie, an extraordinarily difficult presentation of the composer's Hungarian temperament, with its tonal vagaries and boldness of flight, its emotional quality and unbridled imagery. Miss Dawson proved herself fully capable in her interpretation of this exacting number, that progressed from an opening of hammered, isolated chords to passages of gay, swift character and a furious, dramatic ending. An outburst of enthusiastic applause brought a dainty, brief encore of lighter type.

Giving a striking demonstration of technical proficiency and grasp of music lifted to the very highest degree, the two artists also illustrated a phase of musicianship that is sometimes apparent in such exhibitions, the struggle for mastery that is curiously displayed at moments between the player and his instrument. To play like this is evidently a matter of high nervous tension in some cases, and gives rise to the remembrance of the habit of Leo Smith, the 'cellist, in demanding, if possible, a darkened stage, which undoubtedly would mitigate the effect of strain that at moments detracts from the wonderful music being played.

S.A. SALE OF WORK WELL PATRONIZED

Ladies Sell Large Variety of Pretty and Useful Articles.

The sale of work conducted during Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in the Young People's section of the Salvation Army Temple was quite successful, and enjoyed a satisfactory patronage. The ladies in charge had a splendid assortment of pretty and useful things on sale, also a rummage sale of bargain garments and an afternoon tea room. The Salvation Army Band contributed music to the evening sessions. Decorations of the various tables were carried out in colored papers in varied designs, with emblems of the different classes who co-operated in the sale.

General convenors were Mrs. J. Pammett and Mrs. A. McDonald. In the Young People's section, Mrs. G. Robinson had charge of the Legion booth, where fancy work and quilts were sold, assisted by Miss Jean Gilmour. A sale of candy by the Band of Love was in charge of Miss C. Gilmour, assisted by Miss May Robinson. A sale of soft drinks, fruit, and ice-cream by the Life Saving Guards was in charge of Mrs. W. Jones, assisted by Miss K. Winslade.

The Home League had a sale of linens, fancy work, plain sewing, and also the rummage sale. Ladies in charge were Mrs. Reid, Mrs. B. Johnson, and Mrs. E. Griffin, assisted by Mesdames Wells, Withers, Rushworth, Glover, Robins, Mrs. J. Halcrow looked after the service of refreshments, assisted by Miss Jean Day.

Wheat Strength Abroad Sends Chicago Price Up

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—The unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires helped give an early upward swing to-day to the market here. Opening unchanged ½ cent. higher, Chicago wheat soon scored a material advance all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼c. up and then underwent a general sag. Oats were firmer. Provisions likewise had an upward slant.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 125, March 128 3-8. Corn, December 81 7-8, March 86. Oats, December 47, March 48 7-8.

Mine Trend Uncertain; Leader Loses Heavily

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Gains and losses were about evenly distributed in the trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today. More than 15,000 shares of Mining Corporation were traded in, a decline of 38 cents being recorded with the noon close at 3.62. International Nickel was another weak stock, declining 1.25 at 64.00. Hollinger lost 20 cents at 17.25 and Teck Hughes five at 10.35. Noranda sold down to 26, a loss of 20 cents. McIntyre led the stronger stocks, moving up 15 cents to 28.75. Dome gained five at 10.75.

Leading Stocks Lose In New York Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.) — The recent buying movement in the stock market, which had brought a number of issues up substantially from their low levels earlier in the week, appeared to have lost much of its momentum to-day. The volume of specialty sales, pressing on the general market, drove some of the leaders to new low levels for the current decline. Bear pressure was focused on the steel group, United States' Steel and several of the independents suffering severely on pessimistic comment over current earnings and prospects. Efforts to safeguard some of the profits garnered in General Motors on the brilliant third quarter showing brought out a steady supply of this stock and particular heaviness also was displayed by other high grade industrials, including American Smelting, General Electric and International Harvester.

General Motors sold as low as 128 and Steel got down to 133 5-8 before a rebound of about a point occurred.

Listed Shares Weak In Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 27.— (Canadian Press.)— Weakness developed in the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, though the unlisted and occasional listed stocks held firm. Canadian Canners preferred continued the active leader with a gain of more than four points at 1½ and Winnipeg was marked up sharply at 85. Imperial and British American Oil each firmed slightly at 31. Imperial Tobacco was an eighth better at 9. Brazilian was the weakest feature, losing 3 3-8 at 195 5-8. Industrial Alcohol rights lost two at 11 and Massey Harris a point and a half at 35¼. Liquors were steady.

Schwartzbard, Freed By Court, Fears Vengeance of Petlura's Friends.

PARIS, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press) —The possibility that friends of the slain General Petlura might seek to punish Samuel Schwartzbard, his assassinator, after the court had freed the latter, kept Schwartzbard today under cover. If the court defined Schwartzbard's act on behalf of the Jewish rase "justified vengeance," perhaps Petlura's relatives might continue the cycle by taking Schwartzard's life, it was suggested.

ALCOHOL KILLS BELLEVILLE MAN

Jury's Finding Is That Charles Welsh Drank Rubbing Alcohol.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27. (Canadian Press).—The jury impannelled to inquire into the death of Charles Welsh found he succumbed by drinking rubbing alcohol. They also added a rider to the verdict that more stringent methods to restrict the sale of rubbing alcohol should be taken and that every bottle should have plainly written on it the word "poison."

Welsh, a painter, died in Belleville hospital late last night. He was taken from a gangway near a local hotel on orders from Dr. Faulkner, and died in extreme convulsions shortly afterwards.

TRIAL OF ALLEGED STRANGLER TO OPEN WINNIPEG FALL ASSIZES

NEXT TUESDAY.

Wife of Accused Man To Be Brought From California.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).The trial of Earle Nelson, Winnipeg's alleged strangler, in prison here awaiting trial on two charges of murder growing out of the strangling to death of two local women, will be the first to come up when the Fall Assizes open here next Tuesday before Mr. Justice Dysart. The Crown is calling 51 witnesses and expects to complete the hearing not later than Friday.

It is not expected that the taking of evidence in the case will commence before Wednesday morning, as the first afternoon of the opening will be taken up with the selection of a jury.

New interest has been injected into the case by the report that the wife of the accused man will be brought here from California by defence counsel. The prisoner's wife has been employed as a house matron in a girl's school at Pal Alto. Whether she will be used as a witness has not been decided, but it is probable that she will appear in the box if Nelson's lawyers deem her evidence as material to his defence. Other evidence proposed by the defence counsel is the fact that the alleged strangler is an escaped inmate of Napa Insane Asylum at Imola, California.

Appearance Changed

The five months' imprisonment, which has elapsed since Nelson was taken into custody at Kilarney, Man., after his spectacular escape from the Kilarney prison where he was incarcerated when first captured, has worked havoc with his physique. He has lost considerable weight and now looks quite thin. Except in conversations with his counsel he has refused to discuss the crime with which he is charged, and a great deal of his time has been spent in reading the Bible.

Closely Guarded

Nelson has been the most closely-guarded prisoner in the history of the provincial jail. Two guards have been in charge day and night, one inside and the other outside the special steel cell. Three shifts, six men in all, have been engaged on sentinel duty, but only on rare occasions has the prisoner addressed them in conversation and never in reference to the crime with which he is charged.

A total of $3,500, or $24 a day for the five months, has been the cost which the province has borne since the accused's capture.

J. H. Stitt and Chester Young have been appointed by the Crown to conduct the defence. The case against the accused will be directed by R. B. Graham, K.C., City Crown prosecutor, who will likely be assisted by E. H. Crawford.

RUMANIAN BORE CAROL LETTER

seen by the Roumanian people. These declarations published by the Matin on July 31, were denied publication in Roumania . They were so thoroughly suppressed that certain party chiefs who saw them doubted their authenticity and asked me to confirm them.

"Furthermore, an official communique of the Roumanian Government, published in August exclusively in the foreign press, asserted that these declarations of mine had produced no effect whatever; whereas, in truth, they were not known to the country.

"More recently, by a manifesto published throughout Roumania and in foreign countries as well, I was personally attacked despite the fact that I have never attacked anyone, though from the standpoint of a human being I had certainly the right to do so.

"My education, acquired with a certain end in view, taught me to place myself above political struggles and passions. It taught me to arrogate to myself only the right to serve above everything else, the interests of my country.

"Having given the declaration which I made, and the facts cited above, I consider as an elementary right that my declarations be brought to the knowledge of my country in order to give to the people an opportunity to judge them freely, in the full knowledge of what lies behind them."

EXPLOSION OF STEAM BOILERS

11 o'clock that the Mafalda sank.

The Dutch steamer, Alhena; the French, Formosa; the British, Empire Star; the British steamer, Avelon; the Italian, Rosetti, and others joined in taking the despairing passengers off the Mafalda, and picking up survivors who were huddled in small boats or clinging to rafts. The Alhena sent a wireless message last night that she had 500 survivors aboard and would reach Rio Janeiro today.

The Empire Star is reported to have rescued 185, the Formosa 110, and the Rosetti 150.

Boilers Exploded

From meagre accounts received from various sources, experts are satisfied that the boilers of the Principessa Mafalda exploded, due either to improper water supply, or to flooding after the broken screwshaft had torn a hole in the side of the vessel. The liner is said to have been 24 hours behind her time, and this is taken as an indication that the machinery might not have been functioning properly, or that the steamer was being forced along to make up for lost time.

Reports vary as to when the first call for aid was sent forth by the Mafalda's wireless. One report had it that she signalled at 3.14 in the afternoon that she was in distress 300 miles distant from Bahia. But it was four hours later, according to the best authorities, that the steamers at sea picked up her call.

The first to arrive on the scene was the French liner Formosa. She hove in sight at 8 o'clock and immediately began the work of rescue. Other steamers came quickly, and one of them is credited with having put lines aboard the Mafalda in an effort to save the sinking craft.

Lifeboats were put overboard not only from the Mafalda, but all the other vessels, and careful search was made for hours after as many as could be saved were taken aboard the rescuing vessels. One steamer reports that in her search she passed two empty lifeboats and several rafts, but no sign of survivors. There is reason to believe, however, that those who had occupied the boats and rafts had already been picked up.

HAVELOCK MAN LOSES ONE EYE

Is Struck By Handle of Freight Car Door in C.P.R. Yards.

SKULL INJURED.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 27. — Robert Crawford, who is employed as car foreman for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, met with a very serious and painful accident yesterday afternoon as the result of which he has lost an eye. He was engaged in closing the hopper or under door of a grain car when the lever in some manner slipped and struck him in the eye. He was taken to the Western Hospital at Toronto this morning for treatment, as complications may arise from the injury to the skull.

WEDDING BELLS.

SHEEHAN—SULLIVAN.

DOURO, Oct. 27. — A pretty autumn wedding took place on Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's church, when Anastasia Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sullivan, was united in marriage to Michael Sheehan, son of the late Daniel Sheehan and Mrs. Sheehan. Rev. J. McGuire, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. The organist, Miss Mabel Allen, played the wedding march.

The bride was handsomely gowned in rosewood crepe with trimmings of silver lace, a metallic velvet hat also in rosewood shade, with blonde shoes and stockings. She wore the groom's gift, a silver chain necklace and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Rosabelle Sullivan of Toronto, sister of the bride, wore a dress of Catalina blue georgette with velvet trimmings and felt hat with velvet trimmings in a matching shade. Mr. Hugh Walsh, of Hastings, cousin of the groom, was best man. His gift from the groom was a pair of gold cuff links, while the bridesmaid received a bar pin.

After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple left on the 3.10 C.P.R. for Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride travelled in a gown of black flat crepe with seal coat.

Many handsome and useful gifts were received by the young couple, among them a tea set from the Turnbull Co., where the bride has been an employee and a tablecloth from the store staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheehan will reside on their farm on the third line.

The "combined" mannequin parade is a novelty now interesting fashionable women in Paris and London. Instead of seeing just gowns or hats, several different kinds of shops combine. As well as frocks from one place there are hats from another, jewelry from a third, handbags from a fourth, and shoes and stockings from still other firms.

EAST EMILY LADIES HOLD FOWL SUPPER

Annual Dinner and Concert at Bethel Church Great Success.

EAST EMILY, Oct. 27.—The members of the Ladies' Aid at Bethel United church held their annual fowl supper in the basement of the church. The basement was very prettily decorated for the occasion in orange and black and the tables were laden with a wonderful variety of good things to eat.

The George street orchestra from Peterborough took charge of the program, which was much enjoyed by all those present. The proceeds amounted to about $190.

OBITUARY.

JAMES YOUNG.

APSLEY, Oct. 27.—One of the oldest pioneers of this district passed away on Sunday evening in the person of James Young, who would have reached his 92nd birthday on December 23rd next, having been born on that day in the year 1835. He came to Canada from Ireland seventy-two years ago, and settled a few miles north of Apsley, and had lived here practically all the time. In those early days there was nothing but a trail in from Burleigh, with no bridges as there are now over Eels Creek, and supplies had to be packed in on one's back. During the last few years the deceased had been in failing health, physically and mentally, and lived with his son Fred near Apsley, who cared for him most devotedly.

Mr. Young was highly respected in the community. The funeral was held on Wednesday morning at St. George's church, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence officiating, interment being made in the family plot in the cemetery. Besides his son Fred, he leaves two other sons, Andy and Festus, in the West, and two daughters, Mrs. Trent (Lotty) of Toronto and Mrs. Irvin (Stella) in Winnipeg.

ALBERT HAGERMAN.

STIRLING, Oct. 27.—Mr. Albert Hagerman, who was born 75 years ago, in the sixth concession of Rawdon near the east boundary, but had for many years followed the vocation of farming near Carmel church on the town line between Rawdon and Sidney, after a short illness, passed away last Friday morning. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at Carmel church. Rev. Mr. Barret had change of the service. The burial was in the adjoining cemetery.

Besides his wife there are two sons and two daughters married and living near the homestead, left to mourn.

MRS. JAMES KETCHEN.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 27.—The late Mrs. James Ketchen was laid to rest in the Burnbrae cemetery on Monday afternoon in the presence of a large number of sorrowing relatives and former neighbors. The deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Ann Whitton, married James Ketchen over 60 years ago and for forty years they lived on the farm east of Burnbrae and reared a large family. Twenty years ago they moved to Havelock where they have resided since. Mr. Ketchen passed away in August only three short months before his beloved helpmate.

In seemingly the best of health until ten days prior to her death, the late Mrs. Ketchen, who was in her 79th year, suffered a severe heart attack accompanied with pneumonia which proved fatal and she passed away on Friday last.

The funeral party proceeded from Havelock to the Burnbrae cemetery where interment was made with service afterward in the church, conducted by the late Mrs. Ketchen's pastor, Rev. Mr. Archer, assisted by Rev. D. A. McKenzie. Mr. Archer gave a message of comfort and cheer to those in sorrow, taking his text from Psalm 91:11: "For He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways."

Mrs. Robert Matthews is the only member of the family now residing near Burnbrae and the sympathy of the entire community goes out to her in the time of sorrow from the loss of both her parents within such a short period of time.

With one exception the same gentlemen who bore the late Mr. Ketchen to his last resting place, acted as bearers on Monday last. They were Messrs. Alex. Hume, John Hay, Sr., Alex Leeson, Stewart Crossen, M. T. Stephens, and Charles Bedford.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, October 27. Canadian Press. — Reports that heavy loss of life was involved in the wreck of a passenger train between Sarajevo and Mostar yesterday, were refuted with the collection of the details to-day which showed that two trainmen were killed and another seriously hurt in a freight train's wreck.

SAINT and SINNER

While Bob lay sleeping, his breathing deep and regular, Faith lay with wide, tragic eyes staring into the dark. And she knew that she would have been almost willing to exchange her hope for a spiritual heaven for the power to drop into the oblivion which so obviously had swallowed up her husband and any pain and grief and joy that he had experienced that memorable night.

And as she lay in the dark, resentful, subconsciously, of that even, deep breathing of the man she loved too passionately for her own peace of mind, she could not sustain her role of utter humility. She knew now that her vehemence had been dictated by her supreme need to believe that she was wholly in the wrong, for if she were, then she could believe that Bob loved her as much, in a different, man-like way, as she loved him.

And now in the dark her hard-won comfort fell from her, like a cloak dragged by brutal hands, leaving her heart naked and cold, almost as desolate as it had been while she waited for Bob to return. She could no longer refuse to face the truth: he had not told her that he did not love Cherry. He had merely accused her of "foolishness," of torturing herself with sadistic imaginings. Of course that was a direct assurance, but he had not given her the surest of comfort—the plain statement in so many words, that he had never loved Cherry as he loved her; that his infatuation for her was completely dead.

No, he had said none of these things, she reminded herself bitterly. And again that ghastly picture, which she had tried to erase from her mind by the vehemence of her own abasement, sprang out in the dark, like a moving picture projected upon a screen. Again she saw that sudden, hungry, brutal kiss to which Cherry had challenged him, goaded him to only God knew what desperation by her conflicting love for Bruce Patton and her brother-in-law and her jealousy of the sister who had never before triumphed over her in a competition for love. His kiss for his wife, she told herself sickly, had been such a weak, feeble thing in comparison.

Why had he come back to quarrel violently with her—his wife? In an effort to divert her from the very issue which she had forced at last? Had the quarrel been premeditated, meant for a queer, perverted sort of kindness—to pate her? Perhaps—and she clenched her hands and beat her breast with them—he had worked it all out painfully, knowing his guilt, knowing her nature, the inevitableness of her self-abasement if he accused her at the right time. Perhaps he had said to himself, 'Faith must be spared at all costs, even if I have to lie to her. Faith is good. She loves me, I must not hurt her. I must go on and on, no matter if Cherry has realized that she loves me and that I love her. We shall not hurt Faith, no matter how much we hurt ourselves. It is our mistake, our tragedy, not Faith's."

She knew, sub-consciously, that she was doing the very thing that Bob had accused her of—tormenting herself and getting a sort of morbid pleasure out of it—but she could not help it.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cought or cold is not relieved after taking according to direction. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SECTION MEETING OF PRESBYTERIAL

Ladies From Part of Cobourg District Gather at Castleton.

WOOLER, Oct. 27.—On Friday morning the Cobourg Presbyterial sectional meeting, in charge of the third vice president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, was held in Castleton church, with a large delegation. After the morning session of business, reports were given from twelve Auxiliaries, Circles, Bands and Baby Bands. An excellent address by Mrs. Bellamy, of Brighton, on the young women's work in our church was much enjoyed and appreciated.

Miss Bessie Ketcheson, returned missionary from China, was introduced to the meeting before the adjournment for lunch. The Castleton ladies were to be congratulated on the sumptuous repast, served in the basement in order that all might be seated at the tables together. During the luncheon hour, the address of welcome was very ably given by Mrs. Gaffield. In response, Mrs. Sweetman, of Smithfield, assured the ladies of the appreciation of the hearty welcome by the guests.

At 1.30 p.m., the afternoon meeting opened with devotion led by Mrs. (Rev.) Street, of Stockdale, and Mrs. (Rev.) Neal of Wooler.

Miss Ketcheson, in her pleasant, humorous way, gave many interesting facts of her kindergarten work in China, and of the trouble arising, causing her to return to her native land where she is now attending mission school in Toronto.

Mrs. Roberts, President of the Cobourg Presbyterial, gave a report of the Branch executive meeting held in Belleville on Tuesday.

A report of the Courtesy Committee and the closing prayer by Rev. H. B. Neal of Wooler concluded the meeting.

The Castleton ladies again served lunch.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Uppermost is shown the end of a sleeve and pocket of plaid on a new sports frock. Cuff and pocket are outlined with a narrow band of ribbon. Just below this a navy-blue satin sleeve trimmed with gray and a turned-back cuff of blue. The ruffled cuff is of beige georgette with button trimming and is attached to a brown velvet sleeve. The pointed cuff at the right is trimmed with beads. The long tight sleeve of velvet at the left is fastened from wrist to elbow with tiny gold buttons. At the lower right-hand corner is a red sleeve with puff and embroidery of darker red. Below at center is a pointed cuff held with straps and buttons while at the lower left are shown four narrow flaring cuffs that give finish to a tight long leeve.

"Indeed," says my grandmother's little book on 'perfect gentility'—"indeed, some persons, especially gentlemen, make the hand the test of beauty, calling a lady pretty, however ugly she may be otherwise, if she only can display a beautiful hand."

Gentlemen in those days preferred a beautiful hand—and some of them are still as susceptible to the charms of gracefully moulded wrists, shapely fingers. Much as you and I may like the fashion for short sleeves or no sleeves at all we must still admit the fact that long sleeves do much to enhance the charm of hands. If your hands need all the help you can get, if, indeed, you want to make them appear beautiful when in truth they are not, then be thankful that fashion now permits long sleeves of a sort even in the evening.

Some of the cuffs and sleeve endings that have been fashionable recently have been anything but becoming.

If your wrists and hands are a trifle too thick you will find a long sleeve closely fitted below the elbow and finished with a small cuff very favorable—the sort of sleeve suggested in the sketch just below the pocket. If your hand is large and long as well, then a cuff that extends down over the wrist on the back of the hand is a good choice. For a fairly large wrist and small enough hand choose a straight, uncuffed long sleeve, because a sleeve of this sort diminishes the apparent size of the wrist but not that of the hand. For arms that are too thin the frilled sleeve has decided advantages.

Of course, long sleeves and cuffs of this sort are a trouble, for they usually show premature signs of wear or soil. But they do add immensely to one's distinction. An excellent plan if you have your frocks made to order is to secure at the time of making a second pair of sleeve ends or cuffs—or save enough of the original material so that these may be made when the original ones give way.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1927

Except in the early morning hours, the planetary sway today is unfavorable, according to astrology.

Again it is a rule under which to make big plans and to map out campaigns, but action should be delayed.

Good vision regarding the future is supposed to be imparted by today's aspects, but it will be unlucky to make the visions realities until better aspects prevails.

Promoters or political managers should find this an auspicious direction of the stars for obtaining supporters of every sort.

There is a fairly good sign for surgery and the forecast of extraordinary demands especially for those who are brain specialists.

Those who seek employment should be successful, if they start on their quests early today.

In the far west labor unions are to become more active than they have been for a number of years, the seers prophesy.

Manufacturing interests are subject to influences making for prosperity. Iron and steel products will be in great demands, astrologers foretell.

If the stars are rightly read the southern states will offer serious problems for party managers in the coming national campaign.

A London astrologer predicts criticism of the British ambassador to the United States, because of a diplomatic problem.

Children born today probably will rise rapidly in any place that life gives them. They may love history and literature.

HASTINGS S. S. WORKERS MEET

Annual Sessions of Religious Education Council Held in Madoc.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

MARMORA, Oct. 27.—Bright, enthusiastic sessions, afternoon and evening marked the annual meeting of the Religious Education Council held in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc on Friday, October 21st.

In the afternoon following devotional exercises by Rev. C. G. Marshall and greetings by President W. A. Donnelly, the various County Department Superintendents gave their reports. Mr. J. F. Baker also gave an interesting report as Secretary-Treasurer.

Discussion on phases of Sunday school work was led by Rev. H. P. L. Seymour, the Provincial Representative. The various committees were then appointed, Rev. W. P. Rogers, of Tweed gave a splendid report as delegate to Summer School. At a meeting of the Executive, following the adjournment, officers were elected as follows: President, W. A. Donnelly; vice-Presidents: R. W. Sullivan, G. West, F. Hulin, A. Wood. Secretary-Treasurer, J. F. Baker.

Superintendents:—Children's Work, Mrs. J. Martin; Girls' Work, Mrs. W. P. Rogers; Boys' Work, Mr. A. Wilson; Young People's Work, Mr. T. McMullen; Adult Department, Mr. B. Ketcheson; Home Department, Mr. H. Wood; Teacher Training, Mrs. F. McCauley; Missionary, Mrs. H. Rollins; Temperance, Mr. F. S. Pearce.

At the evening session, opening exercises were taken by the Rev. A. B. Caldwell. Rev. F. G. Joblin carried out the installation of officers. Mr. Wilber S. Gordon, of Tweed, Past President of the Ontario Religious Education Council awarded a Life Membership in that Council to Mrs. W. H. Craig, of Tweed, who has attended Sunday school for the past forty-four years. Mrs. Craig, in response, gave her personal impressions of the value of Sunday school work and the need of its continual support.

The Provincial Representative in his evening address emphasized three departments of Sunday school work, the Adult Department, Teacher Training and Temperance. He declared that the responsibility of the work lay not upon human shoulders, but on the great Spirit Divine and Sunday school workers are only the vehicles. He urged his hearers to have a passion for making character, and said that the interests in every community should be capitalized for the great business of the Sunday school.

At the close of the meeting, President Donnelly was elected delegate to the world's Sunday school convention to be held at Los Angeles next summer.

Under circumstances out of the ordinary, Miss Ola Sunshine Thomas, teacher in a rural school near Los Angeles, became a bride on the last day of the school term. Her wedding took place in the school room, with each pupil in the class taking some part in the ceremony.

Walter Johnson to Pilot Club in International

BELIEVED WILL TAKE THE HELM OF NEWARK CLUB

Says Looking Forward With Pleasure To New Venture in Minor League.

HAD SEVERAL OFFERS.

Understood That Contract Offered By Owner Is For Two Years.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press). — Walter Johnson, veteran Washington pitcher, announced over the radio last night that he had "about decided to accept a managership in the International League, and that he was looking forward with pleasure to his new venture in the minor league.

While he did not mention any particular club in the league, Johnson, who has been given unconditional release from the Senators, is believed to have decided to accept a contract offered him here Tuesday by Paul Block, owner of the Newark Club of the International League.

Speaking in the interest of the Boys' Club of Washington, the veteran pitcher said he had several offers from both major and minor leagues, but the Newark club is the only one thus far publicly identified in negotiations with Johnson.

"I expect to stay in baseball," Johnson said. "I don't believe I could quit if I wanted to. My greatest regret, however, will be that I will have to leave Washington."

While no terms have been mentioned in connection with the contract offered Johnson by Mr. Block, it was understood here that it was for two years. In addition to managing a team, Johnson has indicated that he might attempt to pitch a few games, as he believes he still has a few victories left in the arm, which he has used for twenty years with the Washington team.

Makes Offer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Paul Block, owner of the Newark club of the International League, has offered Walter Johnson, veteran Washington pitcher, a contract to manage and possibly pitch for that club next year, it became known yesterday, after a conference between the two men. Johnson has been given his unconditional release from the local American League club.

The exact terms of the offer were not divulged yesterday, although it is understood to be for two years.

Johnson said yesterday he was considering the offer along with about a dozen others from minor league clubs and several from major league teams.

"I haven't decided just what I will do yet," he said, "but expect to make a decision shortly, probably within a few days."

CONACHER FINED $25 FOR ASSAULT

"Big Train" Had Provocation, But Blow Not in Self-Defence.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—After Lionel Conacher, outstanding Toronto athlete and New York American team hockey player had been tried before Judge Denton in County Judges' Criminal Court on a charge of assaulting William R. Miller, Jr., at a softball game last June, the court reduced the charge to common assault, found Conacher guilty on the lesser charge and fined him $25 and costs.

Miller, evidence showed, was struck during a free-for-all flight at Willowvale Park during a game between the Marlborough and Old Orchard. The cartilege of his nose was torn away from the nasal bone by the blow.

"Evidence shows there was a great deal of provocation in this case," Judge Denton said. "I will only find him guilty of common assault and fine him $25 and costs.

EDDIE ONSLOW IS PASSED UP

Veteran Once With Leafs Released By Washington Club.

DUNN IN DEMAND.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Whether Eddie Onslow, one of the real old timers in the International league, will be back in the organization with which he has been connected for practically his whole career on the diamond next season is a matter of conjecture.

Onslow started the past campaign with Rochester but wound up in a Washington uniform, filling in for Joe Judge for a while when the latter was hurt. His outright release was recently announced, as the Senators had no place for the veteran. It is not likely that he will return to the Colts as the new owners of the club, Walter Hagen, the golfer, and old "Jawn" Ganzel, plan cleaning house from top to bottom. That is the way with new owners.

With Onslow an absentee, Tooles loop would hardly look the same. Although he spent many of his years in the league with Toronto the old timer was prominent with Providence long before he came to the Leafs.

It was not from that club, however, that the late President McCaffery secured him but from Cleveland of the American league. The Indians bought his release when the Providence club went out of business during the Federal league war but didn't keep him long. Joe Birmingham who managed Cleveland tried to convert Onslow into an outfielder but as a fly chaser the latter was a fine diplomat.

Star While Here.

Onslow starred with the Leafs all the time he was here and but for some trouble after he was elevated to the management in all likelihood would never have been sold. He couldn't get on with the players and his whole regime was just one scrap after another. But despite his managerial deficiencies Onslow played a first-class first base for the Leafs, better perhaps than it has been played either before or since.

Onslow had the same sort of trouble at Rochester that he had here and in mid-season quit the Colts in a huff when Mogridge was placed in charge of the club over his head. It was after that that he caught on with Washington.

Dunn in Demand.

More than one club owner in the two big circuits would like to land the services of Jack Dunn the wily manager of the Birds, but the veteran mentor is wedded to Baltimore. For Dunn has turned down an offer to take charge of the Boston Braves, which club is without a leader now that Dave Bancroft has been sold to Brooklyn.

The Birds didn't do any too well last season, but Dunn who not only manages but owns the club has no intention of deserting his home town. He can stand a few financial reverses as, according to reports, he is not very far from being a millionaire as a result of his activities in the Maryland metropolis.

Beckman and Winter Lead In Bicycle Race

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Hurrying nowhere at the rate of 16 miles an hour, by means of antiquated, self-propelled transportation, fifteen teams of two men each had travelled 1,041 miles, or fractions more when the sixty-sixth hour of Chicago's eighteenth international six-day bicycle race was passed last night.

Reggie McNamara, the greatest of them all, and Cecil Walker, this year's all-around champion, and another pair, Tony Beckman, the Secautious, N.J., pig farmer, and Charley Winter of New York led the race.

McNamara and Walker were in second place, however, since they had scored only 45 points in sprints to the other pair's 86.

A lap of one-tenth of a mile, back of them raced four pairs, any of them regarded as probable winners.

Senators Will Start Practice On Saturday

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press) Ottawa's world champion Senators will get down to strict hockey business on Saturday night at the Auditorium, when the first ice practice of the season is scheduled. For two weeks the team have been busily engaged in indoor training, but ice is promised them for the week-end.

The Ottawa squad is complete right now except for the presence of Frank Nighbor. The centre ice star will be in the city this week and when he arrives the camp roster will be complete. Jack Duggan is still in town but there is a possibility that he will again be sent to London for the season. It is rumored that one other of the Ottawa squad may also be sent to the same Canadian professional league.

Ask That Two American Teams Visit Their Country.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 27.—Australian baseball fans has been waging an uphill battle against the popularity of cricket and they need support, they indicated in letters to John A. Heydler, president of the National League. Through A. Blackman, secretary of a baseball league in the Antipodes, they asked that American teams visit their country.

Mr. Heydler said he would propose the sending of two teams of baseball "ambassadors' to Australia at the Annual meeting of the National League in December.

Australian fans have not seen an American team in action since A. G. Spalding led the first American expeditionary forces there forty years ago. The progress of the game there has been slow, because it is played in the winter and because social advantages and other connections associated with cricket draw all the youthful talent and give it a monopoly on playing areas.

CADETS WIN FROM LOYOLA

R. M. C. Rugby Team Defeat Montreal College Squad 13-7.

INTERMEDIATE SERIES.

Richardson Stadium, Kingston, Oct 27.—R. M. C. and Loyola Intermediates met at Richardson Stadium yesterday in the first of the home and home games. Perfect weather prevailed for the game. The return game is in Montreal on Saturday. The teams were:

Loyola: Flying wing, McCarrey; halves, Tynan, Savard Macalear; quarter, Haynes; snap, H. McCarrey; insides Shaughnessy, George; middles, Pageon, O'Connor; outsides, Timmins Munich: subs., Mullally, Power, Starr, Slattery, Beaubien, Cummins.

First Quarter.

R. M. C. had advantage in early stages of games. On a fumble R.M. C. got possession of Loyola's 10 yard line and Darling started scoring with a field goal. Play went up and down and Loyola secured a fumbie on R. M. C.'s 10-yard line. Macalear then broke in for a touch down which was not converted. Quarter time score: Loyola 5: R.M.C. 3.

Second Quarter.

R.M.C. played better in the second quarter and secured a short kick on Loyola's 30 yard line. On a fake kick R. L. Massie lowed his way through and went over for a touch putting R. M. C. ahead again. After an exchange of kicks Darling took a pass from Molson and ran fifty yards. On the third down Darling's outside kick resulted in Francis falling on the ball for a touch which was not converted. Half time score:

R. M C. 13; Loyola 5.

Third Quarter.

Fumbles proved costly in the early part of the period. R.M.C. fumbled twice in succession and Loyola gained thirty yards on the miscues. From R.M.C.'s 10-yard line Savard's onside kick went over to Molson who played it safe and allowed Loyola a point. Francis broke through for a forty yard run but lost the advantage when Molson fumbled and recovered on his ten yard line. R. M. C. weer fumbling continually. Savard got his own kick on R. M. C.'s 30 yard line and kicked for a point on his attempted field goal. Third quarter over.

R.M.C. 13; Loyola 7.

Fourth Quarter.

R. L. Massie made a run of 25 yards at the start of the quarter but Savard ran Darling's on-side kick out. Molson fumbled Savard's kick, and Loyola recovered at centre. Smith pulled a run of thirty yards to R. M. C.'s 50 yard line on Savard's kick Loyola could make no gain through the line, and the game developed into a kicking duel, with Darling having the better of the argument. Macalear broke away for a 25 yard run to centre. Game over.

R.M.C. 13, Loyola 7.

DEMAR TO COMPETE IN RACE AT HALIFAX

Johnny Miles and Other Marathon Stars to Run November 7th.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 27 (C.P.).—Clarence Demar, star marathoner of Melrose, Mass., will compete in the marathon to be held here November 7. His entry was received last night. Johnny Miles, formerly of Sydney, Mines, N.S., and who won the 1926 Boston marathon in record time, has forwarded his entry from Hamilton, Ontario, where he now resides. Other stars from leading Canadian and United States clubs are expected to start in the long race, the first event of its kind to be held in Eastern Canada. Interest in this province was stimulated by the announcement that the first five Nova Scotians to finish the grind would be sent to the Boston marathon in April.

Winnipeg Historian Known In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 27.—A Canadian Press dispatch dated October 20th refers to Dr. Charles Napier Bell, F.R.G.S., president of the Manitoba Historical Society has written a full and authentic history of Winnipeg for the past two hundred years. Dr. Bell is a younger brother of Mr. Alex. Bell for many years a resident of Lakefield, later of Apsley and now of Toronto and a well known summer resident on Stoney Lake.

When Dr. Charles Bell was a lad in 1870 he was desirous of getting into the expedition of General Wolseley, who was then making ready to go into the Red River country. The boy applied to the General for a position as bugler and in order to test his ability he was ordered to sound all the calls. The General remarked that he had omitted to sound the retreat and, quick as a flash, young Bell replied: "We don't sound that in Canada, sir." He got the position with the expedition as General Wolseley was delighted with his ready retort.

WORKOUT FOR SATURDAY GAME

HARD PRACTICE.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—If hard work, determination and the right amount of confidence count for anything, Varsity should come through with a victory over Queen's at the Blue stadium on Saturday afternoon, in what should be the feature senior rugby struggle of the week-end. If the Blue and White can come out on top they have a slim chance of getting into a tie for the Intercollegiate title and, like a good team, they are not giving up hope until every chance has fled.

Queen's are coming here three thousand strong to cheer their pets to victory. The Kingston University supporters are not a bit downcast over the defeat handed the team at McGill and they can see nothing but another college title in front of them. They would like nothing better than to hand the Blue the ancient "raze" as the locals relieved them of the championship last year after their reign of three years.

Varsity did not get much support in Kingston, only a small number of fans and students went down on the special train, but those who did were well rewarded, and they all think that the men of McPherson should have come out on top.

The game on Saturday is causing plenty of interest, the Students are at last beginning to realize that they have a team which they can cheer for, win or lose, and they should get out and give it the whole-hearted support that it deserves.

A Hard Practice.

Tuesday a fierce scrimmage with the Orphans featured the Varsity workout. Neither team was spared and they went at it tooth and nail. The Orphans are striving their hardest to get in shape for their game with Camp Borden on Saturday, and the far more important struggle with Balmy Beach on the holiday. The strength of the Intercollegiates does not frighten them in the least, and how they tear into them. The battle lasted for a half an hour and it did both teams plenty of good.

The only thing that marred it was a painful accident to "Herbie" Little the humorist, who was raised from the Orphans to middle wing on the firsts. Little, a former Upper Canada College star, was with the juniors last year, and he has been showing remarkable form. He played a smart game in Kingston. Tuesday night he tore the ligaments in his knee, and he will be out of Saturday's struggle. He will be missed, as he is a fearless blocker and plunger and is a smart tackler and fast on his feet. Outside of the injury to Little, the squad is in the best of shape. The backfield were going like great guns, and Sinclair and Trimble should duplicate their good performance of last Saturday in the coming crucial battle.

The vast improvement of the Students since their first game with Argos and the battle with McGill speaks well for the time and work spent on them by "Ronnie" McPherson and Les Blackwell, the big guns of the coaching staff. They have not had an over-abundance of material to work upon and they have had a lot of shifting around to do. The quarterback position caused them a lot of worry and then when they filled it with Westwood they thought their troubles were over. "Westie" received a bad crack on the head in the McGill game, and he has not been the same since. Murray Snyder, the outside wing, was shifted to quarter, and he made good with a vengeance. He is a field general with a commanding voice and he knows rugby. He turned in a fine game in Kingston and should do better here.

Senators Practice

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct 27 (Canadian Press).—Still entertaining hopes that they may yet get another crack at the Big Four Title, the Ottawa Senators are driving hard through this present week, preparing for the coming of the Winged Wheelers for the scheduled Interprovincial Union fixture here on Saturday. There has been no let up in the Ottawa camp and the team is working hard for a victory over the Red and Blue. With a slim hope still gleaming before them, they are pinning their faith on Argos to do the trick at the expense of Tigers and let the Ottawa contingent back in there.

SCHOOL PUPILS HOLD BANQUET

Shield Presented Athletic Society of Omemee High School.

HALLOWE'EN DECORATIONS

OMEMEE, Oct. 27.—On Friday evening, the pupils of the Omemee High School, with their teachers and guests enjoyed a sumptuous supper and entertainment in the school room. Hallowe'en decorations and tinted autumn leaves adorned the rooms, and the heavily-laden table. Pretty favors were hidden in each serviette, folded in cup shape and not only added attractiveness to the table, but commenced the ball rolling for an evening of pleasure.

During the course of the evening, Dr. G. N. Earle presented a shield to the school through Jamie MacKey, the President of the O.H.S. Athletic Society. This shield will have the names of the winners of the Field Day engraved thereon.

The following programme was given with Rev. E. W. Rowland acting as chairman.

Chairman's Address.

Presentation of Shield and reply by Jamie MacKey.

Announcement of Field Day results by the Principal, Miss Ross.

Remarks by Mr. Stalter.

Vocal Solo: "Honolulu Moon," Eleanor Sherin.

Brief Address: Mr. M. Sherin.

Reading: Arthur Williamson,

Community singing.

Address: Rev. J. A. Kennedy on "Moral, Intellectual and Physical Strength."

Remarks: Mr. Kells.

Vocal Duet: Eleanor Sherin, Christina Connell.

Instrumental: Floyd Parsons.

Reading: Gordon Marshall.

Community Singing.

Before entering into the games, Howard Wilson, the leader of the Golds, the winning side on Field Day, moved a vote of thanks to the judges and teachers for their co-operation, and assistance on Field Day. Floyd Parsons, the leader of the Blues seconded the motion.

Such games as peanut race, Blues versus Golds, musical arms and nine pins and two contests provided ample entertainment for all, after which the gathering dispersed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Among the invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. M. Sherin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Kells, Rev. E. W. and Mrs. Rowland, Dr. G. N. and Mrs. Earle, Rev. A. T. and Mrs. Weir, Rev. J. A. Kennedy, Mrs. Stalter and Miss Faulkner.

Y.P.U. Meeting.

Those who attended the weekly meeting of the Young People's Union of Trinity Church were provided a treat on Monday evening by the splendid programme arranged. The President, Miss Violet McBain, led the meeting and was assisted by Miss Christina Connell, who led the responsive Scripture reading.

Miss Mary Weir, the delegate to the recent Young People's Convention at Oakwood, gave an excellent report of the sessions. This was followed by a solo in good voice by Miss L. Parsons. The topic was exceptionally well taken by Mrs. Max. Sandy, "A Missionary Ladder" being the subject chosen.

Items of business included the final arrangements for the Hallowe'en Social also a decision arrived at to present the play, "Eyes of Love," on Christmas night under L.O.L. auspices.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid, of Trinity Church, was held on Thursday afternoon, in the basement of the church. The president, Mrs. Henderson, was in charge, and she was assisted in the devotional exercises by Mrs. R. Poast and Mrs. J. Bushnell.

Several bills were presented for payment, which included the installation of new furnace pipes in the parsonage.

The annual hot Fowl Supper to be held on Thanksgiving night, was the chief item of business and considerable time was spent completing the arrangements, appointing the various committees, etc. The programme committee gave a report of their success in securing talent and there is every indication that a splendid evening will be provided.

Mrs. Rowland closed the meeting with prayer.

BAILIEBORO NEWS.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 26.—Mrs. M. Parker is the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. Byers.

Among the teachers of this district who attended the teachers' convention at Cobourg last week were: Misses E. Falls, M. Earl, E. Wallace, F. Bonnycastle, D. Hall, E. Deyell, V. Nurse and Moise.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

THE DUMBELLS.

After nine years of catering to the theatrical tastes of Canadian patrons of The Dumbells annual revues, Captain Plunkett is undoubtedly in a better position to judge the songs, sketches and material needed to insure the success in this country than is any other producer.

That he has used this knowledge to its fullest advantage is amply evidenced by the spectacular success of his latest production, "Oo, La, La!" which is billed for the Grand tomorrow and Saturday.

Not only has the show proved immensely popular with Canadian audiences right from the beginning of the season in Toronto, but it has found equal favor with our neighbors to the south. One reviewer in Buffalo was of the opinion that if the New York producers did not take a leaf from Captain Plunkett's book and provide a few clean shows with real comedy, that the theatres might well make an arrangement with Captain Plunkett to produce and bring across several shows every season.

A well-known humorist likened the popularity of The Dumbells revue to the interest that would be displayed if Lady Godiva rode down Main Street on a white horse. He hadn't seen a good clean show or a white horse in years. One thing is sure, the people who go to make up the steady patrons of any theatre in any country, recognize and appreciate good singing, clean comedy, and artistic stage settings. Those are the prime requisites—and it is to the abundance of these basic qualities that The Dumbells owe their long and highly successful career as entertainers.

"RED" NEWMAN, OF THE DUMBELLS, IN "OO LA, LA!" COMING TO THE GRAND, OCTOBER 28-29.

Not only has Captain Plunkett been particularly fortunate in his selection of material, he has added some splendid talent to his former cast of established favorites and appreciably added to the singing and acting strength of the organization this season.

AT THE REGENT.

"WHISPERING WIRES"

The feature picture coming to the Regent Theatre for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is a laughing, baffling, thrilling melodrama with plenty of comedy situations. The element of mystery is worked up to a very high pitch and holds one in suspense until the very last. The leading part is taken by that versatile actress, Anita Stewart, the comedy is contributed by Arthur Housman and Mack Swain. The plot has been founded on the great stage success of the same name and has been skillfully directed to make it a memorable picture to be enjoyed by children as well as adults.

BIKE RACE TIED.

Two Teams Deadlocked Half Way Through Six-day Event.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Jams, no end of them, made the Coliseum a bedlam last night and today as the international six-day bike race wheeled past the mid-way point. Petri and Hill, the German American team, went into a tie for leadership with the Australians, McNamara and Walker, after a night of wild riding.

REMOVE THAT FROWN!

Healthy people never frown, not because they haven't worries, but because they don't let their worries worry them.

The best frown remover is the little "daily dimeful" of Kruschen, each morning, tasteless in coffee or tea. One salt alone could not bring you that glorious health which makes you snap your fingers at worry, but the SIX in Kruschen can—and will. They'll make you eat well, sleep well, work and play with a youthful zest that's simply great! And all for half-a-cent a day.

ABSOLUTE PURITY
The proprietors of Kruschen Salts guarantee its absolute purity. Each ingredient attains a standard of purity far exceeding that demanded by the British Pharmacopoeia.

WHAT KRUSCHEN IS
Not one salt only—but Six!

1. SODIUM SULPHATE — Very valuable medicinal salt. Aperient. Diuretic. Purifies the blood. Prevents absorption of toxins.
2. SODIUM CHLORIDE — Medicine and food. Improves digestion. Maintains alkalinity of the blood serum. Antiseptic. Prevents fermentation.
3. MAGNESIUM SULPHATE — A most valuable item in medicine. Bitter tonic. Improves appetite. Useful in all gouty conditions. Excellent remedy for Dropsy and Gravel.
4. POTASSIUM IODIDE — Affects favourably every organ and tissue. Purifies body and brain. Many governments put it in drinking water, table salt, etc.
5. POTASSIUM CHLORIDE — Of great benefit in cases of high blood pressure. Valuable for Gout and Rheumatism.
6. POTASSIUM SULPHATE — Similar saline action to Sodium Sulphate. Dissolves Uric Acid.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, Bobby and David. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York, gets a cloakroom job in a night club. It is raided. Mary is adjudged to have criminal influences, and is sentenced to a reform school. She gets a letter from Bobby, who is ill; and runs away to visit him.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

"I won't, Mary. I promise you I won't."

Arthur Graham, grinning. "He won't, Mary, he promises you he won't."

Mary, shaking her head at Arthur while her hair swung. "You aid and abet him, and aid and abet him till I swear there'll be no living with him when we get home."

"Mary, just this once."

"Just this once, then," agreed Mary, and bent to kiss him where the hair clung to his moist little forehead. Why had she come, then, if not for "just this once?" Why the breathless escape from the Home, if not for "just this once?" Why the original trip to New York if not for the pleading in young Robert's eyes, and the hurt that fled from the little chest with the arrival of Mary?

"Well, then, Robert," she plumped his cushions, and said, "And you try to sleep."

"I will sleep, Mary. I will."

"Very well, then." She took a deep breath. "There I was!" dramatically.

"There you were!" crowed young Robert. The sparkle in his eyes that carried him along the road to health.

He pointed out the small white cottage.

"—at the outside of that gate, and Maria due at any moment—"

"With a hue and a cry, Mary!"

"—and Maria due at any moment with a hue and a cry. But nothing happened. It didn't seem true that I had escaped with nobody the wiser, but it was, and after waiting a few minutes behind the hedges at the side of the road, and hearing the quiet continue, I crept into a space between the great boulder and the scraggly hedges that hadn't been trimmed because they were so far behind the Home, and stayed there till dark."

"When you were missed, Mary?"

"When I was missed, Robert. But though I heard them leaving the Home with flashlights and calling cars to help search for me, I wasn't worried at all, because I felt—I knew they wouldn't think of beginning to look so close. It seemed hours to me, but I learned later that it was soon after—they returned, and I heard the voice of Maria saying that it was useless to continue tonight. That she knew where I had gone and could find me there. But I didn't care, young Robert, if only I could get here. After that they could do what they pleased."

"And you met the knight in the gleaming armor then, Mary?"

"Yes," Mary laughed, "then I met the knight in the armor that gleamed silver white in the light of the moon."

"And it was just a little ol' Ford, Mary!"

"Exactly. But the knight's heart was made of gold."

"Exactly," Robert repeated seriously.

"And I put on the raincoat he gave me. And sat with him in the front seat. And came to you in the morning—and that's positively all. But you're not asleep, Robert, and now what shall we do to you?"

"I will sleep, Mary, I will," and he did, while Arthur Graham and Mary sat at either side of the bed and watched.

"And what now, Mary Sullivan?" asked Arthur Graham.

"You don't mind if I cry?" asked Mary in response.

"I don't mind anything, if it will relieve you, of course. But why cry and redden those very lovely eyes?"

"I must do something," said Mary, and came to stand before him. "I must do something to show how you've made me feel again. I am alive, because of you. I am whole again and have recovered my laugh. That is why I want to cry."

And she did, softly, so that Robert might not wake. There was none to hear but Arthur Graham, and he heard not the sobs, but wondered that such indomitable spirit should be found in one girl.

"You see," said Mary, in explanation, as the sobs died away and the tears shone in her eyes, "you see, I've had rather a hard day."

"Yes."

Mary had had a hard day. But what would she have done without Graham? Harder days would have followed, doubtlessly. For one cannot come wildly from a little shaky black tin car with a voluminous raincoat dragging at one's heels and burst in upon a startled orphan asylum without dire after effects. There had been the car, and the soft hearted Abner Baker who had driven her to the city, and the raincoat which he had solicitously placed over her shoulders that the uniform gray of her dress might not be observed. And there had been the jolting night ride over the roads that led away from Bothwell. "Quickly, quickly," urged Mary's heart, and the leaping tin thing had responded through the long, black tunnel of the night that had cautiously turned to a gentle pink upon their arrival in the outskirts of the city. After that it had been simple, with Mary crouched in her seat that the red of her hair might not show, for they would surely have wired ahead. But the way had been peaceful, with the soft peace of an August dawn. Then the stop before the long, grey buildings of the Asylum, and her tearful farewell to Abner, who had muttered that it was all right and to get on in before she was spotted and if she'd write him to tell how it all came out he'd feel mighty well repaid because of the story it would make for Mamie, back home. This was just like a movie, he'd declare, and Mamie was gone on the movies, he'd tell Mary, clean gone.

After that, the deluge.

She had run to the building marked "Superintendent" and let herself in. There was no one about, the little office at the top of the three wooden steps was deserted with the calm that is the start of the day. Finding no one there she had run up the length of the walk, with the rows of cottages on either side, and met a milk-cart, the back door yawning open and revealing box upon box of white bottles. "The milk-man would know," Mary thought, and decided to wait for him, shivering in the gray cool of the morning. When he had emerged with his wire basket of empty milk-bottles under his arm she met him as he came toward the wagon.

"Please," said Mary, the anxious light making her face seem a bit paler than usual, "can you tell me—the Infirmary—can you tell me where it is?"

He pointed out the small white cottage, and watched her as she flew up the path, a small figure in the drapes of a voluminous raincoat. Within the infirmary was the same quiet that seemed to pervade the entire place. Standing there, unresolved as to which gleaming door to try, a cough broke the stillness of the cottage. There was the sound of a small body moving about restlessly in bed, and then another cough. A series of them, breaking out hollowly, seeming to splatter the silence. Robert! In an instant the door had been opened, and there in the white cot bed lay young Bob, little body asprawl as she had seen him so many times at home, one cheek sunk deep in the pillow and arms flung above his head.

Young Robert opened his eyes. It had been difficult of accomplishment of late, that comparatively simple feat. The lids were heavy and seemed to have been clamped down upon him as covers on a stove. It was so difficult, removing them, that the effort had not seemed worth while these past days. But young Robert was being held tightly against someone, and it was very strange. The nurse did not hold him tightly. Her uniform would have cut, probably. He had often imagined so, at any rate. But this was the feeling of something soft. From it poured love. Robert felt it stir in his breast, where of late there had been nothing but rasp. The feel of softness that might be Mary was worth while investigating. Most probably it would be a dream again. He had had them often. And then he managed to force the clamps from his eyes, and when he opened them—well, here she was!

PREMIER SAYS CALM PREVAILS

But Reports Filtering Through Say Situation Critical in Rumania.

CAROL LEAVES PARIS.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Answering an inquiry by the London Daily Mail, Premier Bratiano of Rumania telegraphed to-day that complete calm prevails throughout Rumania. He declared that the Government has been aware of the attempts of agitators on behalf of Prince Carol for some time. Despite this assurance and despatches from Vienna, reports filtering into Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, assert that the situation in the capital, Bucharest, is extremely critical.

Stern Measures Taken.

PARIS, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Advices from the Rumanian border indicated to-day that the Government had taken stern measures to suppress any attempt to restore former Crown Prince Carol to the throne which he renounced. Many supporters of Carol have been arrested, according to reports from Belgrade. In Bucharest it was stated that calm prevailed throughout the country, which is under martial law.

Carol At St. Malo.

ST. MALO, France, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Former Crown Prince Carol's removal from Paris to a village here is seen as an indication that he has commenced an active fight for restoration to the throne now occupied by his son, King Michael of Rumania. His exact whereabouts in this town are unknown but through an intermediary he is giving interviews outlining his aims.

HOW TO BANISH PILES

Dr. Leonhardt Has Discovered a Harmless Internal Remedy That's Guaranteed—No Cutting—No Messy Salves.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEMROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting, he discovered the cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discoverey and so that there will be no doubting or delay, McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Stores and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every pile sufferer should try Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID without delay.

PENETANG HERE ON SATURDAY

Will Play Peterborough Juniors in O. R. F. U. Series.

FINAL PRACTICE TO-DAY.

Peterborough Junior O.R.F.U. rugby team finish their active training to-night for Saturday's game with the Penetang Juniors. Coach Max Sloan has put them through a strenuous week and after their last uniform practice to-night at Confederation Park they should be in good shape for the game. To-morrow evening the Y.M.C.A. has invited the boys to be guests at the Friday evening supper, and as a preliminary there will be a talk on the rules.

About twenty-two have been turning out regularly to the practices, and the boys and officials of the local club deserve a lot of credit for the interest they have shown, and the fans can show their appreciation by purchasing tickets for the game from the boys. The boys hope to earn a big enough lead on Saturday to take them through the return game in Penetang on Thanksgiving Day. It will be remembered that last year the Penetang team played their game here with a lead of 14 points from the first game in Penetang, but the Petes won the game here by 28 points. Points will also count on the round this year, and the Penetang team, practically intact from last year, will furnish tough opposition.

The local team will be chosen from the following players: Westbrook, McLeish, Hope, Fraser, Henry, Wilson, Hatton, Mackey, Newson, Welbourne, Miller, Ashmore, Mackness, Fawcett, Peryer, Dobbin, Fleming, White, Allin, Robertson, Weir, and Bert Hall.

The game commences at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at James Stevenson Park, and in addition to tickets from the boys, they may also be obtained at the Empress Hotel, LeBarr's News Store, McLeod's Drug Store, and the Y.M.C.A.

TORONTO BOYS TO PLAY HERE

Boys' Band of Dovercourt Corps of Salvation Army To Visit City.

SEVERAL CONCERTS.

Twenty-six young lads, clad in the uniform of the Salvation Army, will invade the City of Peterborough this week end. Their invasion will be a harmonious one, for they are well trained and, for their age, talented musicians, surprising many older musicians by their splendid playing at the Salvation Army Congress, held in the Arena, Toronto, recently. They are the Boys' Band of Dovercourt Salvation Army Corps, Toronto.

Their visit is in connection with the Boys' Band week end, arranged by Comanmdant Frank Ham and the Young People's Band Leader, Joseph Halcrow, and is expected to be an incentive to the local Salvation Army Boys' Band.

The Toronto Boys' Band will be under the direction of Young People's Band Leader Jack Robbins, who is a talented musician and to whom great credit is due for the direction and training of this splendid group of young lads.

The visiting and local bandsmen will be the guests of the Boys' Band mothers at the welcome luncheon in the Salvation Army Temple on Saturday afternoon. Representatives of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs will be present and give addresses of welcome.

Three separate open airs will be conducted simultaneously on George street on Saturday night by the Dovercourt Boys' Band, the Peterborough Boys' Band, and the Temple Silver Band.

Immediately following the open-air engagements a musical festival will be given in the Temple, Simcoe street. His Worship the Mayor, Dr. Holloway, will preside and will be supported by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, J. I. Allen, and others.

The Sunday morning and evening services will be conducted by Young People's Sergt.-Major Frank Ham, of Toronto, the father of Commandant Ham, and Sergt.-Major Watson of Toronto. The Toronto Boys' Band will render special music.

The afternoon meeting is advertised as a program of praise, and at this meeting, E. A. Peck, M.P., will preside, supported by A. Brown and Y.P.S.M. Braund.

Before the evening meeting it is planned that the Toronto Band will visit St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence, and also the Nicholls Hospital, playing appropriate old hymns. Ald. Walter Stocker and Mr. Moffat are also kindly arranging that the children of the Shelter have the opportunity of hearing the band on Sunday afternoon.

JELLICOE URGES NEED FOR NAVY

SHEFFIELD, Oct. 27.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Viscount Jellicoe, former commander of the Grand Fleet, recently visited "what was left of the Royal Navy," he said last night. He urged that Britain's naval needs were greater than any other country's.

Here is a floor enamel that wears like steel—one that is unequalled in rich tone and beauty of finish.

Strong soaps do not affect it, nor does water spot or discolor it. It retains a permanently fresh appearance.

Brilliant with life, and of extreme durability, this new Canada Paint Product is ideal for all kinds of wood or cement floors—exterior or interior. Made in a range of colors to please the most fastidious tastes.

FLIERS LEAVE LISBON.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Ruth Elder hopped off from here in a German plane for Madrid, three hundred miles away, to-day.

Miss Elder and Capt. Haldeman, her co-pilot, who accompanied her, plan to go by train from Madrid to Bayonne after a short halt. They then fly to Paris and sail for America on the Mauretania on Saturday from London. The plane carrying them to-day was a big cabin passenger machine.

Reception at Madrid

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Ruth Elder and her co-pilot of the American Girl, George Haldeman, were given a reception when they arrived here on board a Junkers passenger plane. They are guests at the United States Embassy until proceeding to Paris.

Y.W.C.A. BEGINS ANNUAL CANVASS

Members Given Lists To Make Appeal For $1,500 This Week.

The social committee of Y.W.C.A. entertained the members of the board of directors and committee members to afternoon tea yesterday in connection with the opening of the Association finance campaign.

Each Fall the Association appeals to the citizens of Peterborough for $1,500 toward running expenses, special repairs, and new equipment for the public department. Lists of subscribers to be called on were given to the members, and Miss Hamilton, president of the Y.W.C.A., spoke of how much the campaign meant to the Association in making it a better community centre for all-round development of the girls of Peterborough. The Y.W.C.A. stands back of the city's girlhood and looks to the citizens of Peterborough to stand back of the Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. W. D. Scott, convenor of the finance committee, spoke of the large budget of $25,000.00 required to carry on the work, which is 96 per cent self supporting, only $1,500.00 being asked in subscriptions. This year the campaign funds will be used to pay the balance on the filtration system installed, heating repairs and running expenses.

Miss Brownscombe, general secretary, outlined some points to be remembered in connection with the campaign, requesting that all lists be completed by November 5 if possible.

OBITUARY.

ANN MARIA WILLIAMS.

The death occurred last night of Ann Maria Williams, in her 51st year. Mrs. Williams has been a resident of this city for the past 17 years, being predeceased by her husband eight years ago. A devoted member of St. George's church, her presence will be greatly missed. Mourning her decease are Miss Ivy and Edwin, residing at home, 4 Pradette avenue. Leaving the house at 1.30 p.m. Saturday, October 29th, the funeral procession will proceed to St. George's church, where the last services will be conducted at 2 p.m. by Rev. J. L. Hughes. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. ERNEST SANDERS.

The death occurred yesterday evening, after a lingering illness of Delilah M. Quinn, beloved wife of Ernest Sanders at her home McKellar Street

She has been a highly respected resident of this community for the past twenty five years and a faithful member of St. James church.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband four children, Dora, Bertha, Max and Viola, all at home; also her father, three sisters, and two brothers, William Quinn of Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Moffatt of Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Martin of Fenelon Falls; Mrs. Richmond, of Nogie's Creek; William of Saskatchewan, and James of Elora.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on McKellar St., at 2 o'clock on Friday, to the Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, will officiate.

ETHEL THOMPSON

There passed away this morning Ethel Thompson, aged 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of the River Road, R.R. No. 9, Peterborough. The deceased had been ill for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing mother and father; two brothers, Kenneth and Ivan, and one sister, Patricia.

The funeral will be held on Saturday, at 2 p.m., from the family residence, with interment in Lakefield Cemetery. Commandant Frank Ham of the Salvation Army will officiate.

This day of all days in the year,
Is one to memory ever dear;
A day that comes with sad regret,
And one that we will ne'er forget.
It was her last with us on earth.
We miss her smile, her valued worth.
Dear Jesus, grant our last request,
That we may meet her with the blest.
—Sadly missed by Mother and Father, Sister and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRIOX.—In loving memory of my twin sister, Katie (Dot) Graham, wife of Alphonse Briox, who passed away Oct. 27, 1924:

LOCAL ENGINEERS' ASSOCIATION HEAR INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESSES AT OPENING MEETING OF SEASON

Talks Given Concerning "Electric Equipment of Modern Paper Mill."

GATINEAU PLANT.

At this season's inaugural meeting of the local Engineers' Association, last evening, the Chamber of Commerce was the scene of three masterly addresses concerning "The Electrical Equipment of the Modern Paper Mill." The speakers were all from the Canadian International Paper Company's new mill at Gatineau ,which is the largest and the most up-to-date paper mill in the world. They were A. B. Gates, general engineer, B. Ottewell, in charge of the D.C. machines, W. E. Ross, industrial control engineer.

Mr. A. E. Caddy, in his introductory remarks, pointed out that 80 per cent. of the electrical equipment and a portion of the machinery installed in this tremendous building were supplied by Peterborough concerns. For the purpose of illuminating their remarks ,a map and a number of slides were used.

Outline Equipment.

Mr. Gates touched more particularly on the high lights of general interest ;Mr. Ottewell covered in detail the types of motors used to drive the machines and the experience gained in starting up the huge plant, while Mr. Ross outlined the control system. In brief the most interesting remarks might be summed up as follows:

Began Construction.

To get a clear idea of the scheme as a whole let us go back to the inception of the Canadian International Paper Co. in 1916, when it took over all the Canadian plants of the International Paper Co. In 1919 it began the construction of a four machine mill in Three Rivers, Quebec, and by 1926 it had doubled the capacity of that mill to a daily total of 700 tons, making it the largest paper mill in the world.

It was decided in 1925 to erect a 600 ton mill at Gatineau, five miles from Ottawa ,on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River.

To ensure a plentiful and steady flow of water in the Gatineau an impounding dam was built at Bitobe, 126 miles above Ottawa on the Gatineau. This dam holds 99,000,000,000 feet of water, cost $10,000,000, forms a lake 110 square miles in area and increases the flow of the river from 2500 to 10,000 cubic feet per second, allowing a final development of 750,000 H.P. on the whole river.

A word might also be said regarding the supply of pulp wood behind this Gatineau mill. The company owns 8,000 square miles of timber along the Gatineau valley. It is estimated that these will provide a perpetual supply of pulpwood not only for present requirements but for future mill extensions.

The mill is strategically located. The raw material is carried to the site by water. Kettle Island splits the Ottawa River just opposite the mill and thus forms a safe holding ground for logs. The Dominion Government is dredging a channel to the company's dock so that paper can be shipped by water seven months of the year. The river provides the thousands of gallons of water required as a carrying medium.

In the process of producing one ton of paper it requires the use of 2,000 tons of water.

The concluding remarks give one an idea of the immense sums needed to finance such gigantic undertakings . Exclusive of the power plant, this mill represents to date an investment of $16,000,000. Altogether the C. I. P. Co. has well over $100,000,000 invested in their holdings. At present, however, there is an over-production of paper, and unless Governmental action is taken in Ontario, as in Quebec, the paper industry will be in serious danger.

Before entering the mill it may be interesting to know the personnel of the present C.I.P. Co. board of directors. You will note that they are men of affairs in widely divergent fields:

R. B. Bennett, of Calgary, controlling E. B. Edd Co.; Raoul Dandurand, K. C., Montreal; V. M. Drury, Montreal; J. H. Fortier, Quebec; Sir Lomer Gouin, K.C. Montreal; A. R. Graustein, New York President International Paper Co., Neil C. Head, New York; John R. Macomber, Boston; George H. Montgomery, Montreal; J. M. McCarthy, Quebec; J. W. McConnell, Montreal; H. C. Phipps New York; Hon. Donat Raymond, Montreal; T. A. Russell, Toronto; F. N. Southam, Montreal, (Hamilton Spectator); Smeaton White, Montreal; Brig. Gen. J. R. White, Montreal, (President, A. H. Wiggin, New York; E. R. Wood, Toronto, (Brazilian Traction.)

To understand the oeprations of any paper mill it is well to have a clear idea of what is involved in the manufacturing process. Cellulose is mixed with water to make a very thin

Heavy Rain Delays Nova Scotia Harvest

HALIFAX, N.S., October 28 (Canadian Press). — Heavy rain last week retarded harvesting all over Nova Scotia and ploughing in some sections of the province, while in Cape Breton and the eastern part of the mainland, where the rain was particularly severe, a great deal of damage was done to roads, bridges, and unharvested crops, says a report issued by the Department of Natural Resources. The wet held up apple picking part of the week, but nevertheless much fruit was gathered owing to the hesitancy of growers to wait for fine weather this late in the season. The apple crop is of excellent quality, and is bringing good prices. The harvesting of grain has been completed in most parts of the province and threshing is well advanced. The "never-rot" potato in Yarmouth and Digby Counties is reported to have shown no rot, but most other varieties have gone bad. Potato digging is well advanced .

CAROL WARNED AGAINST PLOTS

Rumania Will Not Tolerate Conspiracy, Premier Declares.

DEBATE IS HEATED.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—A warning to Prince Carol and his adherents that Rumania will not tolerate any conspiracy against the State was given by Premier Bratiano in an address before the crowded Chamber of Deputies last night. "Rumania does not want and will not have an elected leader of State," the Premier declared, discussing Prince Carol's recent statement that he would return to take his place as king if called by the nation.

The Premier's defence of the precautionary measures taken by the government met with a spirited reply from the leader of the National Peasants' Party, Julio Manou, who defended Prince Carol and challenged the Premier's actions as contrary to the sovereignty of Rumania. A heated debate between the Premier and Manou then developed, Manou asserting Carol had merely stated he would return if the people wished him to do so.

Peasants Favor Prince.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Oct. 28. —(Canadian Press.) — Reports received here say Government troops clashed with national peasants at Kishinev, Rumania, when the pleasants, believing Prince Carol was in Rumania at the head of an army, showed fight. Numerous arrests were reported.

LEGION APPOINTS SOME COMMITTEES

Entertainment, Program, and Visiting Committees Are Named.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28.—The local branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. met in their club rooms in the Armouries last night. There were no new members, which is the first time since the branch was formed that some returned soldier has not submitted an application form. Accounts for the wreaths for the memorial were passed and a letter from the Provincial Command read. This stated that H. MacLeod and other officers of the Command would be present here on Sunday, November 13th, for the purpose of formally presenting the charter to the branch.

The next item of business was to form an entertainment committee. Comrades Free, Ironsides, and Long were elected to the position. A lengthy discussion as to the proper way to issue invitations for the ceremony was brought to an abrupt conclusion when Comrade Free made a motion that a committee of three be appointed with full authority to arrange the order of service and to issue the invitations. The members of the committee are J. M. Bygott, Ray Connor and George Free. As this will be a very exacting commission the members asked that every member would render whatever assistance is required of him.

The sale of poppies to commemorate Armistice Day was next discussed and the matter was left in the hands of Comrades Dickson, Smith, and MacEacheran. It is expected that the branch will have a large quantity of these for sale and the members anticipate a ready market.

The fact that Comrade Davis, who is ill, had not been visited by the Legion, caused a visiting committee to be formed. These members are Vice President Connor and Comrades Morgan and Dutton.

Britain's Armaments Same Since the War

LONDON, October 28 (Canadian Press).—Continuing his disarmament campaign, Viscount Cecil, in the course of a lecture last night, said that, compared with 1913, France had cut her armament expenditure by fifty per cent., Italy by 40 per cent., Germany by 65 per cent., but Great Britain's expenditure had remained the same and that of the United States was about 25 per cent more than before the war.

"These figures seem to me profoundly disquieting," remarked Lord Cecil. He contended that as most of the big nations desired Great Britain's friendship, Britain had an excellent opportunity to lead the forces for peace.

"If we oppose any international proposal," he continued, "it is bound to fall. If we support it, it is almost certain that it can be made successful. I believe we can save Europe from war if we have the courage and the vision. But without that courage and vision, Europe's future is black indeed."

WORKERS MUST OBEY U. S. RULE

ALIENS UNDER QUOTA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press). — Canadians who commute across the border to work on the United States side will have to conform to the terms of the border ruling of the Immigration Department if they wish to retain their status after December 1. This was stated positively today by Harry Hull, Commissioner, in an interview with the Canadian Press. In other words they will have to take out non quota visas and passports, declaring themselves immigrants in the United States. Canadians not native born will have to get entry under the quota or at least register themselves on the quota list of the country of their birth.

Says Employers Are Encouraging Trouble

OTTAWA, Ont., October 28 (Canadian Press). — The Executive Council of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, in a statement issued early last night makes the following statement:

"In tendering their co-operation to the Amalgamated Carpenters with their revolutionary allies, the building construction employers of Toronto are certainly encouraging and abetting industrial trouble. The Trades and Labour Congress supports the international trade union movement with its splendid background. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters is in line with these progressive ideas and in their fight against the Amalgamated Carpenters, a dual organization, they should receive not only the support of all parts of the Dominion."

Grayson Plane Put Through Final Tests

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Pilot Wilmer Stultz yesterday for two hours put Mrs. Frances Grayson's plane, the Dawn, through its paces in tests for another attempted flight to Europe.

The amphibian, rejuvenated by a new Wright motor to replace the one broken in the flight last Sunday, soared in and around the shore, mostly at low altitude, to the delight of several hundred persons who shivered on the beach.

Those in the plane on the test flight, besides Stultz, were Mrs. Grayson and T. Harold Kinkade, the motor expert. Navigator Brice Goldsborough did not fly yesterday.

The fliers said Wednesday night that only one more hour in the air was needed to satisfy them that the ship was ready to continue its journey to Copenhagen.

WOMAN'S BODY NOT DISTURBED

MOTIVE UNKNOWN.

MARMORA, Oct. 28. — That the persons who attempted to open the coffin containing the body of Mrs. B. C. Hubbell had been unsuccessful was revealed yesterday when the steel casket was brought to the surface and examined by Provincial Police Inspector D. Silvester and Constable W. F. Johnston. The officers also took photographs of the immediate surroundings, including footprints in the soft earth.

It was found that the door of the casket had been tampered with, but the inner coffin and remains had not been disturbed. The body was reinterred last night.

The motive for the attempt is not known. No jewelry or valuables were buried with Mrs. Hubbell, who died seven years ago. It is thought they were familiar with the place as there was nothing to indicate where the grave was located.

LATEST ESTIMATES PLACE LOSS OF LIFE IN SHIPWRECK AT 315; OFFICERS' SILENCE WAS FATAL

Ask Observance of Mourning For Victims

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Assurances that the loss of life by the sinking of the Italian liner Principessa Mafelda off the Brazilian coast Wednesday was not so great as was at first feared, brought great relief to Italians here, who are anxiously awaiting further details of the disaster. There is pride that Italian sailors acquitted themselves so bravely and that Italian ships aided in the rescue.

The Government commissary for the Fascist Marine Federation has issued an address to Italian sailors everywhere asking observance of mourning for those who perished and announcing that arrangements had been made to distribute funds provided for that purpose to the families of the victims. Furthermore, the commissary forwarded a cablegram addressed to the captain of the liner, assuring him and the members of his crew of the full sympathy of the Maritime Federation.

Survivors' Stories Differ Regarding Conditions of Lifeboats.

CAPTAIN A SUICIDE ?

RIO JANEIRO, October 28. — Canadian Press. — Latest estimates of the number who perished in the sinking of the Italian Steamship Principessa Mafalda place the victims at 315. This number were still missing to-day from the ill-fated Italian liner which sank off the Brazilian coast on Tuesday night in the midst of harrowing scenes of suffering and panic.

More definite reports were available to-day with the arrival in port of the rescue steamers Alhena, a Dutch liner, with 531 survivors the French liner Formose 353, and the arrival at Bahia yesterday of the French steamer Mosella, with 52.

Other survivors are reported incensed over the silence of the officers of the ship, declaring the first-class passengers were not informed of the gravity of the disaster and had no time to save themselves. Petrico Rosas, one of the survivors, asserted that many of the lifeboats were not in proper condition and sank.

Through the medley of stories poured out by exhausted survivors were tales of wild panic and suffering of brilliant heroism and of terror in the darkness of Tuesday night.

The cause of the disaster was obscured in conflicting stories. Some told of seeing sharks tearing at the bodies of the victims in the water, but others scoffed at this.

Most agree that Captain Guli went down with the ship, but while some said he committed suicide, others said he had been engulfed in the sea, crying vive Italia, as the waters swept over the ship.

Many survivors declared that the life boats of the Mafalda were in poor condition and shipped water though the embassy here denied that the equipment was faulty, saying that there was enough to carry the Mafalda's passengers and crew. All the passengers were lavish in praise of the rescue ships.

One woman who lost her five year old boy went mad to-day, while another who lost an infant son was almost insane with grief, while many moaned in grief and desolation at the loss of loved ones. A doctor attending the rescued to-day found many in a weakened condition because of the lack of nourishment, and all were destitute. The Brazilian government distributed clothing.

Empire Star Saved 185.

S. S. EMPIRE STAR (By Wireless.)—One hundred and eighty-five persons were rescued from the sinking Mafalda by this ship and later transferred to the French steamer Formose, which landed them at Rio Janeiro to-day. The Empire Star, a British ship, with the Dutch ship Alhena, was the first to reach the Mafalda and was occupied in getting the Mafalda's passengers aboard until more ships arrived about two hours later.

More Survivors.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28. — Canadian Press. — A wireless message from the British rescue steamer Empire Star, mentioned that the Str. Rosetto had secured twenty-seven survivors from the Mafalda and was taken these to Pernambuco. The Rosetto had never been mentioned in connection with the sinking of the ship and it is presumed her twenty-seven rescued will cut the number of victims down to three hundred.

TOURISTS HAVE SPENT HEAVILY

$1,500,000 IN DISTRICT.

During the past three years the amount of money spent by United States tourists has been almost doubled according to statistics recently compiled by the Chamber of Commerce. A safe estimation of the money left in Peterborough and Lakefield during the summer is $500,000, and for the whole Trent system $1,500,000. This year the amount of United States currency shipped back to that country and the total of travellers' cheques cashed in the banks of Peterborough and Lakefield amounted to $415,000. Many tourists exchanged their money when they crossed the border, while some United States money is probably in circulation, so $500,000 is a very conservative estimate of the amount spent in the Peterborough and Lakefield district.

Practically all this money has come to Peterborough or Lakefield as they are the great distributing centres for this section of the Trent system.

Last year the banks of Peterborough and Lakefield reported $370,000, and in 1925 the total was 252,000.

The Trent Waterway Development Association which includes all the municipalities on the Trent Valley Canal, from Trenton on Lake Ontario, to Midland on Georgian Bay, and the towns of Hastings, Bobcaygeon, Penetang, Orillia, Barrie, Allandale, Beaverton, Lindsay, Campbellford Port Stanton, Port McNicholl, Victoria Harbor, Lakefield, Burleigh Falls, Port Perry, Coboconk and Kirkfield, reports that the tourists spent $1,219,000 in American money or travellers' cheques, and the association has made a conservative estimate of $1,500,000 as the actual amount left by the United States tourists in the Trent Waterway system.

It is also claimed that there would have been a great deal more money left but there are not sufficient hotels, and the tourists had to camp out. It is estimated that fifty per cent. of those who visit this district are people who can afford to stay in hotels that have modern equipment.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETE FOR BIG MASQUERADE PARADE

Citizens' Committee Working With Examiner Announces Final Details.

BIGGEST EVER.

Monday Will See Greatest Celebration of Hallowe'en Ever Staged Here.

At a meeting of the Citizens' Committee which is co-operating with The Examiner in the sane observance and celebration of Hallowe'en, the following arrangements were made:

Those in costume only are to line up inside the Armouries at or before 8 o'clock. Each class will have a Boy Scout as leader, with a placard under which they are to parade. Those in costume will go in the front entrance of the Armouries, and the parade is to leave by the Murray Street exit, going down Murray to Aylmer, up Aylmer to McDonnel, on McDonnel to Water, down Water to King, up King to George, up George to Brock Street Rink, where the final judging will take place . Only those who appear in the parade will be judged. The Brock Street Rink will be open for spectators to watch the judging. As soon as the band of the Peterborough Rangers, which will head the parade, reaches the Rink, it will immediately proceed to the Armouries, and spectators and those who cannot obtain admission to the rink, as well as those in costume, as spon as released from judging, will be given an opportunity to have a community dance.

If Hallowe'en is a fine night, it is possible that Peterborough will see the biggest downtown crowd at night it has ever seen . And the Police Department would like the regulation asking for no parking on George Street between King and McDonnel Streets between the hours of 7.30 and 9.30 to be observed with as little difficulty as possible. The Citizens' Committee are also asking the public to kindly help the police out in this matter.

And once again have a good time, but be sure that it is a sane Hallowe'en, injuring no one's property or person. Now, get your costume in shape, and be on hand sharp before eight o'clock at the Armouries.

The police request there be no fireworks in the parade or Armouries or Rink, as many of the costumes are made of flimsy material, and there might be an accident, or worse.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS REPORT OF BIG CONVENTION IN LONDON

HALLOWE'EN PLANS.

Club Will Enter Band in Examiner Parade on Monday Evening.

The feature of the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day was a brilliant report of the recent International Kiwanis Convention at London, Ontario. It was presented by John R. Heron, secretary of the club, and was received with terms of highest approbation. On motion of the members Mr. Heron was heartily congratulated upon the excellent manner in which he had gathered together and presented what was apty termed as "the jewels of every address and the high lights of all activities," a detailed account of which will be found further on.

Booster for the day was Carl McLean. The three prizes were awarded respectively to Jack Comstock, John R. Heron and Carl S. Browne.

Luncheon was interspersed with several bright and snappy songs from the new Kiwanis song book. Martin B. Chenhall,—A.R.C.O., coaxed inspiring melodies from the piano with incredible ease, but the Mouth Organ Quartette put the finishing touches to the musical programme. Caustic comments abashed the "talented four" for a moment, but getting started in the face of strong opposition they finally soothed their listeners and closed with the deserved plaudits of their admiring brethren ringing in their ears. The quartette included John J. Turner, I. P. McNabb, A. J. Reynolds and H. J. McCannan, under the leadership of E. Vern Morphet.

Bill Merrill made public an invitation from the Lindsay Club, inviting members and their wives to a musical comedy to be given at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay next Thursday ,the proceeds of which will be devoted to child welfare work. Lunch will be served to the visiting members previous to the play. About thirty signified their intention of accepting the invitation.

A message was read by the president from the Y.W.C.A., inviting the members to attend the life-saving tests to be made to-morrow. Thanks were expressed for the Kiwanis making it possible for eighty underprivileged children to join the swimming classes .

The club went on record as supporting The Examiner's Hallowe'en Party. A number of the members will appear in costume.

Several visiting members were officially welcomed and listened with pleasure to the convention report.

The convention report follows:

Belgian and British Kings Avoided By Bombers During War, Says German

LONDON, Oct. 28.—"It was generally understood throughout the German Air Force that wherever King George or King Albert happened to be, that place was to be avoided by bombers."

This statement is made by Captain Ernst A. Lehmann, former German Zeppelin commander, and Howard Mingoes, in their "Confessions of a Zeppelin raider," the first instalment of which appears in today's issue of "The World Today."

"On April 13, 1915,' they write, "the Zeppelin L-735 was ready to set out on a raid over supply centres behind the British lines at Cassel, St. Omer and Hazebrouck. Just before departing the Commander, Captain Masius, was handed a telegram in code.

"By direct order of the Kaiser the attack on St. Omer was forbidden and Poperinghe substituted. The reason was soon made known. Headquarters had received word that the allied leaders were to hold a secret meeting at St. Omer and the Kings of both Belgium and England were to be present."

MANY POSSIBILITIES OF STRIFE ARE SET FORTH BY KENWORTHY IN NEW BOOK, "PEACE OR WAR"

Discusses Chances of War Between Britain and Other Powers.

TO BE ON WIDE SCALE.

Friendship Between Britain and United States is Key to World Peace.

NEW YORK, N.Y. Oct. 28 (United Press).—Dozens of alarming possibilities of new international strife are advanced by Lieut.-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, British member of Parliament, in his book, "Peace or War," shortly to be published by Boni and Liveright.

The author devotes two chapters to possible causes of war between the United States and Great Britain, and describes the present naval rivalry, with its background of economic competition, as favorable to war propaganda. He describes the state of mind in his country and the United States and sets forth the opinion that the nervous tension produced by city life makes war scars and mob hysterias easy to generate.

Rivalry in the Orient might easily bring about a clash between Great Britain and Russia, he says, "earlier than may be expected."

Commander Kenworthy also foresees the possibility of a "Russian Napoleon" beginning a conquering role.

A new war, the author says, would be hard to localize. He predicts the next world fight to be on a greater scale of destructiveness than the recent one.

Chicago Mayor Called 'Clown' By New Yorker

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (United Press).—An invitation to Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago, to address the Bronx Chamber of Commerce at a dinner here next week has aroused dissention within that organization.

Albert E. Davis an architect, felt so badly about it in fact, that he wrote to the chairman of the dinner committee:

"If a clown is desired to enliven the banquet, why not patronize home talent, which is a cardinal principle of our Chamber?"

But when Davis was assured that Mayor Thompson was expected to speak on "Civic Duties" and not on "Anglo-American Relationships," the architect said he would make no further objections.

REFUSES TO REVEAL SOURCE OF $230,000 LIBERTY BONDS IN FAMOUS OIL SCANDAL CASE

Colorado Refuses To Divulge Information To Supreme Court.

FALL-SINCLAIR TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press.)— Flat refusal to reveal the source of the $230,500 in liberty bonds, which bulk so large in the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial, was made yesterday in the District of Columbia supreme court by the man the government contends can furnish that information.

He is M. T. Everhart, Pueblo, Colo., banker, and son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, who, after a visit to New York, Washington and other eastern points, returned to his home town with that amount of bonds, which went into the locked box held in the First National Bank of Pueblo in Fall's name.

Before Everhart was called to the stand the government had presented to the jury evidence to show that the bonds were used to pay off debts of Fall, Everhart and Fall's Tres Rictos Cattle and Land Company. The bonds were received by Everhart after the lease of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair by the former interior secretary.

Might Incriminate Him.

As was the case when he was called in the trial of the Teapot Dome civil suit at Cheyenne, Everhart based his refusal to answer on his constitutional rights contending that such testimony might lead to incriminate him and lead to his indictment on the very same charge that Sinclair and Fall now are facing before a jury of two women and ten men.

Justice Siddons will determine later probably to-day, whether Everhart will be required to tell from whom he received the bonds. The government contends that Harry F. Sinclair gave the bonds to Fall as a part, at least, of the consideration of the lease of the Wyoming naval reserve.

Patently nervous and extremely ill at ease, Everhart was a reluctant witness from the first, and at one point appeared on the verge of going to jail for his refusal to answer a previous question as to whether he had met Sinclair prior to February 1, 1922.

Justice Siddons directed him to answer.

"I decline to answer," Everhart reiterated.

Charles A. Douglas, a Washington attorney, appeared then for Everhart and asked permission to advise the witness. Justice Siddons refused, remarking that he had advised Everhart.

The witness then asked the stenographer to repeat the question and finally answered in the affirmative. That eased the tension for the moment, but Everhart later refused to answer another question and Justice Siddons directed him to do so.

No Business With Sinclair.

Before coming to the source of the liberty bonds, Owen J. Roberts, of special government counsel, carefully laid the groundwork for that question by dragging from the witness the admissions that he had had no business transactions with Sinclair, that he had never been employed by the government, and that he had nothing to do with the negotiations for the lease of Teapot Dome and did not know it had been leased until more than a month after the lease had been executed on April 7, 1923, and that still later he was in New York City and that still later he saw Fall in Washington. On May 29, 1922, he returned to Pueblo and deposited the liberty bonds at the First National Bank.

YOUTHS GIVEN PRISON TERMS

FOR BURGLARY.

George Kinghorn and Royden Rowe, two Lakefield youths, were sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning in Police Court. The boys pleaded guilty last week to five charges that involved burglary, shop-breaking by night, and shop-breaking with intent to steal in the village of Lakefield on October 18 and 19.

Neither boy is 20, Rowe being 18 years old and Kinghorn 19. They were not represented and did not say anything for themselves before sentence was passed.

Kinghorn asked that he be given the sentence as Rowe was not to blame. "It is no good sentencing Royden Rowe; he is not guilty. He did not break into the buildings; he merely remained outside. I committed the crime and I coaxed him into it, promising him if we were caught I would take the blame."

Mr. Hatton said that the Crown had not been able to find any official record against either of the boys. "I do not know what to say about the opportunities these boys have had," he said. "There is no one here to speak as to their character. They are young and the offences they have pleaded guilty to carry very severe sentences. The thing that should be sought after is to reclaim them if possible, and at the same time punish them for committing the offences. The responsibility of punishing these boys should not be lightly looked upon and in time representations might be made for their release."

His Worship, in passing sentence, said: "I have given a good deal of consideration to these cases. The crimes are serious, burglary being treated as the most serious, with the maximum sentence life imprisonment. Shop-breaking by night carries a maximum sentence of fourteen years, and shop-breaking with intent seven years.

"There has been nothing suggested in the evidence that these boys were armed or I would give them longer terms. There is also the fact that they are only 18 and 19 years old, but they deliberately set out to break in and steal, so under these circumstances I must send them to Kingston for two years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

"I have really dealt lightly with you. This should be a turning point in your young lives. You placed me in a position that I could do nothing else. This is not only to punish you but to set a lesson to others. Up until a few minutes ago I had made up my mind to give you three years."

The arrest of these two boys was due to Chief Constable Webster of Lakefield. The boys admitted the crime to him and he also found the stolen goods behind an old stone fence.

MANY ATTEND PLOWING MATCH

THE PRIZE WINNERS

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26—The annual plowing match, under the auspices of the Cavan and South Monaghan Plowmen's Association, held on Wednesday, October 26, on Frank Gibson's farm, three miles south of Millbrook, was an outstanding success, and was featured by having the largest number of entries in the history of the organization, and by the fact that four provincial champions were among the competitors. Included among the latter was Lloyd Turner, of York County, who won the championship at the inter-provincial match this year.

The weather was perfect, the ground in good condition, and the location hardly to be surpassed from the standpoint, particularly of natural advantages. Approximately five acres were plowed in each field, in the sod and stubble classes.

There were eighteen entries in the sod classes, twelve in stubble, and but one in the tractor section. Clarke Young, of Agincourt, was the judge; his decisions, based upon practical experience as a competitor in at least fifty plowing matches, giving general satisfaction.

The local organization has always made a specialty of boys' classes in order to have coming along younger men of experience ready to take the places of older members as the latter drop out. A prize is promised every boy entrant under 18, whether awarded a prize by the judge's decision or not.

The youngest plowman at Wednesday's event was Richard Rich, of Little Britain, fifteen years of age; the prize of $2.00 was donated by J. J. Duffus, Ltd., of Peterborough.

Another item of note was the fact that the team of horses owned by Harry Paterson, Millbrook, which won the special prize for best outfit and which were used by E. Windrum, Omemee, in the stubble plowing competition, are 30 and 27 years old, respectively. It would be interesting to know if this record could be equalled in connection with any other plowing match in the province. The prize, four gallons of motor oil, was donated by the Imperial Oil Company.

Plowmen of many years' experience declared they had never seen finer work than was done at the Cavan match—a decision that was to be expected, since entrants in the various classes represented a number of Plowmen's Association outside the local territory, and some of whom, as has been noted, have provincial championships to their credit.

The prize list follows:

First Class in Sod (open to all single lows).—Commitee: I. W. Larmer, L. Fallis.—First for land, crown, and finish, W. Timbers, Stouffville; 2, D. J. Tran, Stouffville; 3, Wilfred Shortt, Woodville.

Second Class, Stubble (open to those who had never won a prize at any recognized plowing match).—Committee: H. A. Fallis, Gerald Armstrong.—First for land, crown, and finish.—Emery Windrum, Omemee; 2, John Graham.

Third Class Stubble (open to boys 18 years and under)—Committee: John Greer, G. A. Fair.—First for land, crown, and finish.—Wilfred Perguson, Stouffville; 2, Harry McCamus, Cavan; 3, Peter Brown, Oakwood; 4, Richard Rich, Little Britain.

Fifth Class, jointers in stubble — Committee, A. J. Henderson, L. W. Smith — First for land, crown, and finish, John O'Brien, Indian River; 2, Charles McLean, Woodville; 3, Harry Hatherly, Peterborough.

Sixth Class in sod (open to boys 21 and under) — Committee, R. O. Larmer, H. Tait—First for land, crown and finish, David Sharpe, Cavan, 2, Will Cornish, Cresswell; 3, Clare Winslow, Cavan.

Seventh Class in stubble (open to all), not less than three horses to be used except to open and finish—Committee, R. J. McKnight, J. L. McCamus—First for land, crown and finish, Alex. Carlow, Indian River; 2, C. L. McNeil, Cavan.

Specials (in addition to the two already mentioned) — Best plowed land by boys 18 and under—W. Ferguson, Stouffville, the prize, $2.00 in cash, by A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P.

Oldest plowman (must be over 60 years)—Joseph Archer, Peterborough, the prize goods to the value of $5.00.

The officers and directors wish particularly to thank the business men of Peterborough, as well as the local merchants, for their generous donations both in goods and cash towards the prize list; without this support it would be impossible for the local organization to carry out the programme of a plowing match each year, the competition being open to the province.

A substantial hot dinner and supper were served at the Gibson homestead and probably well over two hundred people were served at these meals, the competing plowmen and the officials of the organization being included among the guests.

L. H. Winslow, who is second vice-president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, is also president of the local organization; H. A. Fallis, first vice-president; George Berry, Jr., second vice-president, and C. L. McNeil, secretary-treasurer.

The directors include: A. J. Henderson, G. Berry, W. R. N. Sharpe, J. L. McCamus, A. J. Fallis, G. A. Fair, Joseph White, John Greer, A. B. Kennedy, G. Armstrong, R. O. Larmer, L. M. Fallis, I. W. Larmer, Robert McCamus, L. W. Smith, R. J. McKnight, James Eagleson, H. Tait, Dawson Rutherford, J. A. Vance, Stewart McGill, V. R. Hunter, William Atchison, Russell Bonner, and W. T. Donaldson.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—Heavy overnight sales to exporting houses and brisk demand yesterday on the part of interests with seaboard connections gave a buoyant tone to prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Offerings were fairly liberal, but found a ready outlet during the entire session. Closing gains ranged from ⅝c to 1c.

Late advices from New York confirmed sales of approximately 2,200,000 bushels of Canadian wheat during the past 24 hours.

SCHOOL GIVEN HIGH STANDING

BOARD MEETS.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 26. — The regular monthly meeting of the Campbellford School Board was held in the Council Chamber, Public Library Building, last night. There were ten members present, and in the absence of the secretary, E. H. Greig, B.A., principal of the High School, acted in that capacity. After the usual preliminaries had been disposed of, the first item of business to be brought before the meeting was a communication stating that Daniel Flint, pupil of the Public School, had been suspended indefinitely. This was signed by the teacher of the class, but as Mr. Haig, principal of the Public School, had not yet arrived, it was deemed expedient to lay the matter over till he should arrive.

The report of the inspector of High School, A. J Husbands, was read by Mr. Greig. In only one respect does the local school rank second-rate. That is with regard to the hat rooms. The numerous other details of the building, staff, and grounds were all given first-class standing. The accommodations of the school are very fine, stated the inspector, and the Board are to be commended for their fine institution. The ratio of pupils to teachers is twenty-eight to one, and the equipment is quite satisfactory with the exception of a few maps which have become worn through use. The discipline of the school is reported as good, the teaching as satisfactory, and the work of the students of a very high standard of efficiency. Last year's report was very satisfactory, but this one is even better. The inspector also paid a neat compliment to James Massey, caretaker, for the excellent condition in which the building and the grounds were maintained. The Trustees are greatly pleased with what might be termed a perfect report, and the motion to adopt and file it was quickly placed on record.

The only committee to report was Dr. O. C. Watson, who stated that he had secured suitable transportation for the out-of-town pupils who arrive by train to enter the classes at nine o'clock. At the last moment, C. W. Palliser had agreed to take the contract of conveying the pupils to and from the C.N.R. Station each school day of the week. He also accepted the Board's terms of one dollar per day. Proper authority was given the chairman to engage him.

The matter of maps was next discussed, and Mr. Greig assumed the responsibility for the purchase of them. Typewriters was another item of equipment which was badly needed. After a brief discussion a motion was passed authorizing the purchase of two new machines. This will make six typewriters in that department, and should be sufficient for present needs, Mr. Greig claims.

The removal of Glenn Thompson from town left a vacancy on the board and it was necessady to appoint someone to fill his place. Owing to the lateness of the year, some discussion arose as to the necessity of appointing a member for but two meetings. It was, however, considered the proper procedure and A. Linton was appointed to the position.

Mr. Haig having arrived at the meeting, the matter of the suspension of Daniel Flint was re-opened. Asked if he could furish any information on the matter, Mr. Haig said that he did not think the boy had been suspended. As he understood the affair, he had been sent home till such time as he would apologize to his teacher for disobedience and impudence. He said that the thought there had been some emphatic language used by the boy. When told that the board had received written notice of the suspension from the teacher, Mr Haig was somewhat surprised. He did not recall having been advised that this action was being taken.

At this point there was some discussion by various members of the board regarding discipline in the schools. They considered that the teacer had overstepped her bounds of jurisdiction in bringing the matter before the board without first notifying the principal.

Mr. Haig explained that this particular teacher was very lenient in her punishment when it was considered that there were several very unruly pupils in her class. He said he did not think that she should be required to stand for some of the remarks which had been addressed to her. He also stated that he had had reports, both written and verbal, from parents, complaining of the actions of some of the school children. This was a matter which he thought required the most rigorous investigation and action. On motion of Dr. H. B. Longmore and William Stevens, the internal committee was ordered to investigate the matter fully. After some further discussion of the matter the accounts were ordered paid as read.

When asked if he wished to address the meeting, Mr. Massey asked if he had authority to purchase Dustbane for the floors. After a brief discussion it was decided that the sawdust and floor oil which he had been using would answer the purpose quite satisfactorily.

To determine whether whales have two wives is the chief purpose of a scientific expedition which has spent the past year in the Antarctic. The object is neither flippant nor romantic, but sheer hard business. If it is found that the male whale has more than one female mate it obviously follows that it is more destructive to kill a male than a female, and steps could be taken to safeguard the males in the interest of the whaling industry.

COUNTRY BEAUTIFUL IN LATE OCTOBER

Tourists Still Coming to Rice Lake to Enjoy Scenery.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 28.—Although the beautiful month of October is gradually slipping past and we soon will come into the more dreary month of November, still the leaves are green and firm on the trees. Up to date there has been little frozen with the occasional light frosts and older residents agree that every indication points to a late winter with an open fall. The trees in the woods and along the fences have not as yet fully taken on their autumn tints and this is very unusual for such an uncommon occurrence.

Each week end finds a number of tourists out from the cities enjoying the beautiful autumn week end around Rice Lake.

LAKEFIELD LADY PUBLISHES POEMS

Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron Issues Book of Verse of Heart Type.

(By eJanette)

"Songs that the Wind has Sung" is the title of a delightful little book of verse that has just been published by Elizabeth Cameron (Mrs. Charles Cameron) of Lakefield and Toronto.

Mrs. Cameron, of Canadian birth, has "been jingling rhymes" as she calls it, ever since she was a little girl, and her poems are of the "heart" type that appeal to sentiment, while having no trace of the mawkish sentimentality that mars so many poetical effusions. They are not occupied, either, with Canadians. The majority of the Dominion's ryhmesters give primary place to poems about the land and its beauties, and one grows a little tired, sometimes, of their insistence on its pre-eminence. In one only of the brief bits in this booklet is there a reference to the author's birthplace, in "An Old Lullaby."

This is a revealing little volume of verse, probably more so than the author would imagine. From a two-column account of the work and life of Mrs. Cameron which appeared in The Mail and Empire this week, under the heading "Keeps House by the Side of the Road", many facts regarding the poet may be gleaned, but a perusal of the little book of her compositions would give an insight into many of them.

Mrs. Cameron is a woman of mature years and deep experience of life. From the depths of bitter sorrow and loss she has snatched the feather falling from the bluebird in its flight, commemorated in the ever-constant refrain of so many of her songs that sing, again and again, of the Everlasting Mercy and the Everlasting Hope for a different morrow to the night of the present. In the poem called "Life" are the closing lines: "Her youth returns—with joy they enter in Those golden gates, and leave behind the Night!"

The motherhood that was sweet is in the "Old Lullaby": "Again a little head so dear Lay warm against my breast!" the constancy of maternal affection is in "Love from the Shadows"; "I called to my lad in the silence, And he heard my call and knew I wa sthere to cofrot and aid him Till he passed to the shadows too."

An the boy who died in Flanders is remembered in "An Invitation": "While God's bright sun Falls softly on a bloodstained uniform A shattere gun!"

That friendliness to the world at large that is noted b ythe writer of the article in The Mail and Empire is voiced in the son: "By the Side of the Road" and in "My Prayer" where the singer asks that Paradise "Yet grant me 'neath the walls some little place."

Again there is the voice of the older mortal, looking back at years that have been tinged with many experiences, in "It Won't be Long": "It won't be long till we are through with sorrow Till scalding tears will turn to smiles of juy, Till all the hurt, and loneliness, and grieving, Give place to happy peace without alloy", while the dweller in quiet place speaks in "My Books": "When lights flash out, and firelight softly falls At close of day on these familiar walls. I hear the gay world pass along the street, And then I turn my dear old friends to greet."

There is much to admire in these verses, all, without exception, having a strong appeal. To one reader, there was a particular charm to half a dozen of the little poems: "Spring is Coming", with its final: "Listen! you will hear some robin Singing, singing n the rain!", "My Prayer" and "Love from the Shadows", "My Books", the descriptive fantasy of "The Song o the Equinox", with its rugged syllables: "I strip the trees of their leaflets As htey wave their arms to the blast, I veil the mountains in snow-wreath As the gulods drive past!" and the strength of the verse in "The Old Sailor", with its opening stanza: "Aye, they have caged me ashore! Me, that was born for the sea! Thunders of surges, and tossing—That was the life for me! Now there come to my ears Naught but the breeze in a tree!" and the final verse: "They're calling the muster for port! So open the windows wide, For the win is blowing inshore, And a gull just passed and cried. To the sea he was calling my spirit, And my soul will go out with the tide!"

These are not the ordinary verses of a feminine writer, but about Mrs. Cameron's work there is a stronger touch than noticed in the work of most women, and this strength, combined with an aptitude for vivid description and a quality of down to the earth naturalness, rather than the aloof attitude taken by so many poets who sing of fantastic lands and ways, makes up the charm of her little book of verse.

Mrs. Cameron makes her home with a married son in Toronto for five months of the year, spending the balance of the twelve months in Lakefield, where she "keeps house by the side of the road" and makes many friends, from humans down to birds and dogs and squirrels, and finds time also to do up preserves and to write a weekly colmn for The Lakefield News, over the pen name of "Jock." Many of her verses have also appeared from time to time in The Mail and Empire.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT UNITED CHURCH

Church Beautifully Decorated for Anniversary Services Held at Madoc.

MADOC, Oct. 28.—The anniversary services of Trinity United church of Madoc were held here on Sunday, Oct. 23rd. The church was beautifully decorated with sheaves of grain and sheaves of corn, which were wreathed with the beautifully tinted maple and every available space were decleaves. The window sills, platform orated with golden pumpkins, dark green squash, rosy apples, beautiful flowers and plants and glowing sprays of bitter sweet. The Sunday school was held as usual at ten o'clock and had a splendid attendance.

The special speaker for the occasion was Rev. F. E. Malott, D.D., of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. A full choir, under the able leadership of Mr. W. Sills was present, and from the opening to the close of services at night the music was a special help and inspiration to all. The opening hymn, 'Rejoice, the Lord is King," struck the keynote of the day, rejoicing and worship. The Psalm (103) read responsively, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul and Forget Not All His Benefits," continued the message and was followed by the 3rd chapter of Corinthians.

The anthem by the full choir, "Blessed Are They That Dwell in Thy House" was followed by the Offertory.

A solo by Mrs. Tyhurst as a special number followed. " There is a Land I Know Not Where" was enjoyed by all, and then Rev. Mr. Malott, taking as his text, "All Things Are Yours," gave a very impressive and earnest message on "Our boundless wealth."

Mr. Malott dwelt on the message of Paul and its connection, but soon came the message, specially for our own times. He spoke of the great men and the great preachers of all the world and of all the centuries, the leaders of thought in the early ages, the greatest preachers of the reformation, the preachers of Scotland, England, America, all gave the wealth of their learning and their lives to the church, and all are ours now. The many things of the everyday life are ours also and the many peoples of the world all working for us. Even at our simple breakfast the cereal produced by the farmer, ground by the miller, handled by the grocer, all for us. The coffee from Brazil, the sugar from West Indies and each thing used being the product of many hands working all for us. Then in another sense there is temptation and suffering to make us "perfect through suffering. There is also death, not the grievous things we continualy view it, but a drawing aside of the veil of our great inheritance. There are also things present and things to come. There is no death. What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but the suburb of the life Elysian, whose portal we call death.

All things are yours, therefore use them for ourselves and to draw others to the better life, to draw all men to God. Therefore a great responsibility rests on all alike and all must remember that. All things are yours, and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's.

The church was well filled for the morning service.

For the evening service, the minister and congregation of St. Peter's withdrew their own service and joined with the evening services of Trinity Church. Rev. Mr. Marshall of St. Peter's Church, assisted Rev. G. W. Reeves and Rev. Dr. C. W. Bishop, Principal of Albert College, Belleville, in the evening service of worship.

The hymn, "Crown Him With Many Crowns," opened the service, followed by the reading of John VI., by Rev. Dr. Bishop, and prayer led by Rev. T. G. Marshall.

The choir rendered a beautiful Anthem, "There Were Ninety and Nine," the soloists being Miss L. Vandervoort, soprano, and Mrs. C. Whytock, contralto.

The offertory was followed by a solo by Miss Vandervoort, "When With All Your Heart Ye Shall Truly Seek Me." The hymn, "Break Thou the Bread of Life," and then Dr. Bishop gave as his text John VI., 68: "Lord, to whom shall be go but unto Thee? Thou has the words of eternal life."

These words came at what we now recognize as the turn of the tide in the ministry of Jesus—and we know and recognize a distinct turning away of the world now. About the time of the Great War the nation turned away for war.

The commercial world turned away in mad pursuit of wealth.

The laboring people and the social world all turned away; showing a tide of practical turning away.

But to look at the other side is our aim, and we look to find the modern representatives of the disciples. We must find the bright side.

We find the great speakers declaring that the only hope for the world is the religion of Jesus Christ. Such great men as the late Henry Waterson, politician and journalist, and George Bernard Shaw agree in saying that Christ is the only hope for the world.

The great financiers of the world are declaring that the tide must change or there is no hope for the world.

To look for the causes of this turning to Christ, The first cause noticed must be the effect of the Great War. People were brought suddenly to see where all this was leading—the selfishness, the hate, the greed for power, the utter disregard for others, and the League of Nations declared that the world need was "Good-will, to bring men together."

The next cause is the progress of Science. Men have got possession and control of powers they never expected to, but they are finding that Science without morality and without religion is neutral. It is just as likely to destroy thousands as it is to help and to cure.

We need not more discoveries in Science, but more moral power to use aright what we have.

We must have Christ and we can say with those of old, "Lord, to whom shall we go, but unto Thee? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

This means to the church a great opportunity, also a great test. Men are saying "We would see Jesus" and looking to the Church for the way. Will they find Him in and through the church?

Mr. Colon Ross took the solo part in the beautiful Anthem following, and the choir all joined in "Tarry With Me, O My Saviour," and the closing hymn, "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts," sung heartily by a full congregation, ended a most impressive and enjoyable anniversary Sunday.

The Benediction was given by Rev. Dr. Bishop, and with quiet music and thoughtful happy faces the large audience dispersed.

HOW TOURIST TRAFFIC PAYS.

The fact that United States tourists spent approximately $500,000 in this immediate district during the past summer, almost double the amount spent here two years ago, is surely an answer to the question, "Does it pay to go after tourist traffic?"

The banks of Peterborough and Lakefield report that the total American currency sent back by them to the United States and the value of American travellers' cheques cashed by them this summer amounted altogether to $415,577.

As many tourists undoubtedly had their cheques converted into Canadian money at the border, or at all events, before reaching Peterborough, it is safe in estimating that these visitors spent half a million dollars here.

The growth in this profitable new industry is indicated by Chamber of Commerce figures, showing bank reports for last year as $307,000 and two years ago as $252,000, a notable increase.

Similarly along the whole route of the Trent Waterways the bank figures as to American currency and cheques cashed show a total of $1,219,000, a material gain over other years, and justifying the estimate that United States visitors put $1,500,000 into the pockets of the people in the Trent Waterway section this summer.

It does not require much thought to realize what that means to the whole district.

THE TAX ON CIGARETTES.

It is significant that the application of the cigarette manufacturers of Canada before the Tariff Board for a fifty per cent. reduction in the excise tax on cigarettes received support from an unexpected source.

A. E. Darby, speaking for the Canadian Council of Agriculture, pointed out that the general improvement in economic conditions made tax reductions possible, and remarked that under the circumstances the claims of the consumers of cigars and cigarettes might properly be given serious consideration.

The manufacturers had no difficulty in making out a strong case.

The present excise tax of $6.00 per thousand is excessive.

The duty, in fact, amounts to 75 per cent. of the gross sales, and representatives of the manufacturers stress the fact that the Canadian consumer of cigarettes pays more in duty alone than the smoker across the border does for his cigarettes.

There is no logical reason why the smoker should be discriminated against while the consumer of tea, coffee, chewing gum, soft drinks, etc., is exempt.

The tax is too high, and in the general interest should be reduced, as the Tariff Board is likely to recommend.

PENITENTIARY NOT THE PLACE.

The Examiner has always been able to resist the temptation to be sentimental over the tribulations of those who have been convicted of serious offences.

The "sob sister" attitude has never been assumed by this paper in connection with such cases, and we have always been firmly convinced that Canada's splendid record from a crime standpoint as compared with that of the United States has been due to the fact that the administration of justice in this country has been strict, fair and speedy.

With decisions of magistrates and judges The Examiner usually has had no quarrel; we believe that Canadian magistrates and judges are inspired with a high sense of duty, and that their efforts to reach a just verdict in all cases are sincere and conscientious.

Yet there are occasions when it becomes the duty of a newspaper to call attention to what it considers judicial mistakes.

The case of Cyril Bailey, the young sailor who is now serving a two-year sentence in Stony Mountain Penitentiary for escaping from the prison farm at Fort William is one example.

"Time and time again complaint has been made that men of wealth and influence have been given their liberty soon after receiving severe sentences for serious crimes. Bailey, a lake sailor, had no money. His original offense of drunkenness was not a very grave one. If he had had sufficient cash to pay the fine which was imposed he would not have had to go to the prison farm, and would therefore not have been tempted to escape from the institution—an indiscretion for which he, a mere youth, is now confined in a penitentiary and made to associate with criminals of the worst description. A rich young man convicted of drunkenness under the same conditions as those in Bailey's case would have paid his fine, and the matter would have ended there. It looks very much as though Bailey is being made to suffer unduly because he happens to be a poor man, and our administration of justice must not be allowed to be tinged with a suspicion of this kind.

"For the crime of escaping from the prison farm Bailey was sentenced in July. As he has been undergoing correction ever since, there is a very strong feeling that he has already been more than adequately punished for what is not usually regarded in the ordinary sense as a criminal act, but is, after all, merely an offense against prison discipline. He should be released immediately."

With The Globe's opinion The Examiner finds itself heartily in accord.

If the facts have all been made public, Bailey has been the victim of a harsh penalty that is very likely to make a criminal out of a young man whose only offence against society so far has been that he drank a little more liquor than he should have.

And now, coming closer to home, The Examiner finds it necessary to consider the sentences meted out to two Lakefield youths in the County Police Court here yesterday.

Here were two youngsters, the eldest nineteen, the other a year younger, who pleaded guilty to entering a number of buildings in Lakefield and stealing a quantity of articles.

It was the first time either had been in trouble, despite the fact that neither of these youths had had the usual advantages of a good home training.

They had no criminal records, they were caught on their first offence against society, and they presented none of the characteristics of the criminal type as they appeared in Police Court.

In fact, the older boy displayed very unusual altruism in endeavouring to clear his companion, manfully taking the full blame upon his own shoulders.

And yet, in the face of an intimation from the Crown Attorney that the Crown would be satisfied with a short sentence, the penalty prescribed by Magistrate Langley for each of these youngsters was two years in the penitentiary.

As has been said, The Examiner believes in proper punishment for those who go wrong.

These boys had committed an offence and deserved to suffer for it, but surely the interests of justice would have been fully served had they been sentenced to the jail farm for an indefinite term.

There is perhaps no surer way of breeding criminals than to send boys on their first offence to mingle with the hardened inmates of the penitentiary.

In the Portsmouth institution they'll find plenty of instructors to school them in the ways of crime, plenty of seasoned old crooks who'll be glad to tell them that they would be foolish if they try to go straight after serving their sentence, and eager to convert these youngsters into enemies against society.

Taking into consideration all the circumstances entering into this case, The Examiner believes that a travesty against justice would be committed were these youths compelled to spend the next two years companioned by all types of criminals.

It is to be hoped that before the sentence is put into effect there will be an effort to have their case reviewed.

Strongly as we favour law enforcement, much as we admire the administration of justice in this country, we feel that we would be guilty of moral cowardice if we did not protest against boys with no criminal records being sent to an institution that in their case can scarcely fail to act as a training school for crime.

The penitentiary, we submit, is not the place for such youthful offenders.

WHY NOT CANADIAN COMPANIES?

Buying—as far as possible—goods "Made in Canada," or at least in the Empire, would help all Canada very considerably.

Employing engineers, architects and town planners who are resident in Canada, would benefit all Canada.

Paying premiums to Canadian or British insurance companies would also help all Canada.

"Fire premiums paid in Canada in 1926 were $52,571,124. Of this only $7,426,306 was paid to Canadian companies."

What does this mean?

That we Canadians are paying forty-five million dollars to outsiders and less than seven and one-half millions to our own Canadian companies.

If all these premiums were paid to Canadian companies, there would be many more men employed in the Canadian offices.

This would be good for Canada as a whole.

An extra forty-five millions spent in Canada would be quite a valuable addition.

And it would benefit every Canadian.

The cancelling stamp in that country read:

"Your own country first; buy only New Zealand made goods."

If citizens generally would buy goods "Made in Canada," how our industries would thrive!

And how much better general business conditions would be!

But meantime, if every Canadian municipality would buy—as far as possible—goods "Made in Canada," what a help it would be!

And it would not only help Canadian factories.

A great deal goes for food.

And the farmer gets it.

It never stays in one person's hand.—The Municipal Review.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for wheat here yesterday showed further improvement and a good business was worked for shipment to all positions. There was a fairly good inquiry from New York exporters for No. 2 and No. 3 Northern wheat on spot here, but there was none available in this position, but some business was done in No. 3 Northern with local exporters at 3¼c per bushel under the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. bay ports, and sales of No. 3 Canadian Western barley were made at 12¼c per bushel over the October option, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the further weakness in the Winnipeg future oat market spot prices for cash oats were reduced another cent per bushel, and Argen-

A Thought For To-day

DO YOU HAVE TROUBLES?

Trouble is blindness. Trouble is incurable illness. Trouble is self-convicted conscience. How true it is that most people call trifles, troubles. The little things are great to little people. Little folks give weight to smoke.

The small mind is like a microscope. It magnifies the trifling things, but cannot receive the big things. To the small mind, the little, inconsiderable annoyances, the petty vexations are the trifles that look like troubles.

If you are hopelessly paralyzed, helplessly incapacitated, you are in trouble; but if you are a well man with a good appetite, a clear conscience, and plenty of hard work to do to keep you mentally and physically fit, you have lost your right to complain.

I sincerely hope that it will be years before you are seriously ill, but when you do get down on your back and suffer with pain, this sentence will come to you with full force. "The greatest material blessing we mortals can enjoy is good health."

If you have good health, are able to work, and then complain of your "hard lot," because you have to work, perhaps you need a little physical warning to set your mind in an appreciative mental attitude.

Personally, I would rather work a whole year than be sick a single week, or a single day, for to be ill a few hours means that nature is trying to tell you that you have not treated your body right, and the man who misuses his body has got to pay the price in pain, in cash, in time, and these three things few men can afford to give.

Knowing when to seize an opportunity is an essential to success in any field, but scarcely less important is it to know when to forego taking an advantage.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Perhaps one reason why more politicians don't throw their hats into the ring is that they like to talk through them.

All a man needs these days to be able to make a living at selling gasoline is a little target practice.

CAVAN COUNCIL BUYING BRIDGE

Will Have New Structure Erected On Quarter Line in Concession Five.

ACCOUNTS PASSED.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28. — Cavan Council sat in regular session; the members all present, and Reeve S. Fallis presiding.

The reeve reported that the engineer had declared the bridge on the quarter line, concession 5, east, as unsafe for travel and had with a committee of the whole council met the president and general manager of the Ontario Bridge Company at this bridge, and had purchased from this company a steel bridge of 60 foot span, with steel girders and plank covering. The bridge is to be erected by the company at a cost of $1400; $500 payable this year and the balance in 1928. The government engineer has given permission to build cedar piers for the support of this bridge, the usual grant being allowed.

Deputy Reeve G. Hootan reported that with Councillor Finney, he had examined the collector's bonds and found them satisfactory.

Hootan-Hunter: That the council purchase a small steel bridge from the counties at a cost of $40, and that a cheque be sent for the same. Carried.

Hunter-Hootan: that the usual grant of $100 be given the Agricultural Society. — Carried.

Deputy Reeve Hootan introduced a bylaw to cancel Bylaw No. 476 and to be an additional clause to bylaw No. 306, to prohibit all animals and poultry from running at large on the public highways of the township. The bylaw passed.

Councillors Finney and Hunter moved that the reeve sign the following orders:

School orders, Legislative grant: V. Jones, $1455; J. Fee, $2245; J. H. Sanderson, $3215; B. Sharpe, $4245; J. Douglas, $5423.75; S. C. Boyles, $7215; H. Lang, $8255; G. F. Clarke, $9265; L. Fallis, $10,255; T. Godwin, $12349.38; A. Coulter $13,290.37; R. O. Larmer, $14,137.50; R. H. Armstrong, $15,255; J. Morton, $16,260; D. L. Armstrong, $19,337.50.

Millbrook Rural Telephone Company, account, $3.47; R. O. Larmer, S. S. No. 14, $300; J. Jones, damages by winter road $5; W. Howson, brushing on con. 10, east, $20.75; J. L. Moncrief, pay sheet No. 11, west $9.50; Treasurer Agricultural Society, grant, $200; J. A. Vance, valuating sheep killed, $2; L. H. Gibson, pay sheets, various, $320.30; George Greer, for bridge, $40; Council pay, $20; committee work, one day each, $20 $40; J. N. McGill, $37.50.

W.C.T.U. HEARS JUBILEE REPORT

Delegate Tells of Provincial Convention Held in Ottawa.

GROWTH REPORTED.

The W.C.T.U. held their monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. with the president, Mrs A. J. Throop in the chair. The secretary, Miss E. Might and the treasurer, Mrs. E. Wand, gave their reports. A letter was read from Mrs. Gordon Wright, Dominion president, acknowledging the letter of sympaty sent her upon the death of her husband. It was announced that the annual bale for the Indian work should be prepared this fall and donations sent to Mrs. W. Payne, London street.

The feature of the meeting was the excellent report of the Jubilee convention held in Ottawa, which was presented by Mrs. John Speer. Reports showed that Peterboro stood first in the province in temperance work in the Sunday schools of which Mrs. McBride is convenor.

A pleasing event was the Jubilee banquet at which Mayor Balharrie extended to them the freedom of the capital. He also presented them with the beautiful birthday cake that occupied the centre of the table.

Addresses at the convention were given by Dr. Gisborne, president of the Prohibition Union; Mrs. Gordon Wright, Dominion president; Mrs. Pugsley, the Past Provincial President, Mrs. Asa Gordon, the newly-elected president, and the visiting speaker, and Mrs. Munns, the International treasurer.

The keynote of the addresses were education agitation legislation for the promotion of Dominion wide prohibition. While disappointed at the result of the vote they were not dismayed. Reverses often cause new vigor and new life, resulting in renewed efforts. This was seen in the announcement of the Provincial President that 1000 new members had joined the W.C.T.U. in Ontario since the last election.

It was resolved to concentrate upon the education of the youth along temperance lines.

A pageant, "The March of Prohibition," was presented under the direction of Mrs. Lester Albright.

Among the resolutions passed was one of commendation of the Dominion government in raising the prices of magazines of doubtful character by a 25 per cent. tax.

Mrs. J. G. Plunkett read the Scripture lesson. Prayer was offered by Miss E. McCamus. Mrs. Mendell Braund sang two solos very sweetly. Tea was served at the close. Delegates were present from Keene and Lakefield.

THE MARKETS.

tine corn declined two cents per bushel. The demand was quiet. Argentine corn was quoted at $1.00 to $1.01 per bushel.

The undertone to the market for Spring wheat grades of flour continued firm and the local and foreign demand was moderate. A fair trade was also done in Winter wheat flour and prices were steady.

The trade in all lines of millfeed was fairly active and prices were firm. There was also an improved demand for standard grades of rolled oats and values ruled steady.

A feature of the baled hay trade was the demand that developed from Newfoundland and sales of 500 tons were made. The local trade was fair, and prices were unchanged.

A fairly active business was done in all grades of eggs and values were unchanged. The receipts were 1,582 cases.

The condition of the market for potatoes showed no improvement owing to the unseasonable weather. The undertone was easier and prices declined 5 cents per bag. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.35 to $1.40 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag in bulk, and Quebec White at $1.20 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

Although the improvement in the demand for butter noted on Wednesday was again in evidence yesterday an easier feeling developed in the market and prices scored a fraction decline. This was attributed to the increased offerings. The receipts were 560 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade was the fact that there was some demand on spot for export account and a sale of Western deep colored was made at 21½c per pound. In addition to this there was also some further business done in undergrades for United States account at lower prices. The receipts were 3,397 boxes.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices had an upward slant most of the time yesterday, chiefly as a result of big export takings from North America. Actual purchases for trans-Atlantic shipment, however, were mostly Canadian wheat. Influenced by auspicious weather, deferred deliveries of corn established a new low price record for the season.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at the same as Wednesday's finish to ⅝c higher; corn unchanged to ⅜ off; oats unchanged to ⅛c up, and provisions varying from 22c decline to a rise of 10c.

It was estimated that North American wheat export business yesterday reached as high as 1,700,000 bushels. Although the great bulk of yesterday's export transactions consisted of Canadian grown wheat, domestic clearances of wheat and flour this season up to October 22 were announced as totalling 108,000,000 bushels. This amount is 4,000,000 bushels more than for the corresponding time last year. On the other hand, ideal weather for threshing continued in Canada and country deliveries were almost 7,000,000 bushels.

Numerous traders who have been working on the bull side of the wheat market here were apparently disposed to take profits yesterday and with the northwest also selling, the fresh upturns in price failed to hold well. However, commission house buying of an excellent character was in evidence on the breaks. Meanwhile, official reports covering western Kansas and Oklahoma indicated that rain is necessary for the progress of newly seeded winter wheat.

Some buying of corn against sales of wheat tended to rally corn prices from an early downturn. Country sales of corn to arrive were the smallest in some time, and the shipping sales were the largest. Favorable conditions existed for rapid curing of corn, but husking returns from Illinois and Indiana were below expectation. Oats were firmer, receipts being light.

Provisions turned weaker with hogs and on selling ascribed to packers.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted yesterday as follows:

9 Points That Recommend The Treasure Furnace

THE Happy Thought "Treasure" Furnace owes its remarkable long life, its heating ability and its ease of looking after to its 9 well-conceived points of construction. You'll appreciate the value of these 9 features—all in the one furnace—

ALL CAST FURNACE—non-rusting. Develops no leaks in years of use. Remains efficient for a lifetime.

EXTRA HEAVY FIRE POT—in two pieces with room for expansion. Its straight sides eliminate ashes.

BURNS ANY FUEL—any kind of coal, coke or wood. Wood grates are easily installed.

RADIATOR—is fully guaranteed—made by our improved moulding method which insures even thickness of metal.

ASH PIT—is cast in one piece—it is extra large and deep, with straight sides.

BASE BOTTOM—is made in one piece.

Let us show you this furnace. No obligation.

soup, say, rather, consomme. This soup is spread out on a wire screen to felt the fibres and to get rid of the water. The felt of fibres is run through a gang of wringers to further consolidate and dewater it. A group of huge steam heated dryer rolls, known as a calender, compresses the surfaces of the sheet, and it is then reeled up for ease of handling. Newsprint requires but one further operation. From the reel it is run through slitting knives and rewound in commercial news widths for packing and shipment.

The cheapest package of cellulose we know to-day is a spruce log. A ton of spruce yields eleven hundred pounds of cellulose. These packages stand on end in our Canadian forests over hundreds of thousands of square miles. The package needs no wrapper, will stand an infinite amount of abuse, supplies its own canoe for water transportation.

The logs come to Gatineau in 16 to 20 foot lengths, are hauled from the water by chain elevators broadside to slasher saws which cut them to four foot lengths. They proceed to huge barking drums (built by the William Hamilton Co.), where every vestige of bark is removed by tumbling under a copious spray of water. The trimmed log then goes by conveyor to storage piles, each containing about 22,000 cords. Conveyors, saws and barkers are all motor driven.

The cellulose is extracted from the log by two processes and material from both is mixed in specified proportions to make suitable news stock for the paper machine.

Ground wood pulp as its name implies is made by grinding the logs on revolving stones in a plentiful supply of water.

At Gatineau 12 2650 H.P. synchronous motors each drive two five foot stones. The logs are fed into a magazine from an upper floor and are held against the stones by a slow moving toothed chain, motor driven. The chain motor is so controlled that the load on the main driving motor may be maintained at any set figure, or if a stone is out of order half load may be maintained on the motor.

The pulp from the stones contains slivers knots and dirt. It is passed through several varieties of screens and refining engines before being stored in tanks for future use.

From the storage tanks where it has been kept constantly agitated to maintain consistency, it is pumped to the stuff or supply boxes of the paper machine.

While the ground wood pulp is being made another unit of the mill is making so-called chemical pulp.

Logs are chipped by revolving knives into pieces roughly two inches square and 3-16 inches thick. These are elevated and dumped into a digester—a huge tank—where they are cooked from five to eight hours in steam and sulphurous acid. The tank load is blown out and the resulting pulp washed screened and stored as was the ground wood pulp.

China clay, coloring matter, and the two varieties of pulp made up ¼ of 1 per cent. of the soup referred to above. The rest is water. The proportion of moisture is 200 per cent. at the wire and about 8 per cent. at the reel, and this proportion must be changed in, perhaps, 40 seconds.

This would mean that there is left a soft, yielding material at one end of the machine and a firm, comparatively strong material at the other, with varying degrees between.

This fact affects the drive of the various portions, in that it is a prime requisite that each section must be capable of variation in speed independently of the others, but the speed of the whole machine as a unit must be capable of decrease and increase.

A system of synchronous motors and cone pulleys allows 20 per cent. variation in speed between adjacent sections.

Largest Machines.

The rolls are 270 inches, or 22½ feet long.

The dryer section comprises forty-eight 5-foot diameter cylinders, and is 150 feet long.

The machine is designed for 1,200 f.p.m. paper speed at 250 volts, or 1,440 f.p.m. with 300 volts.

The motors on each machine are fed by a 750-900 k.w. D.C. generator driven by a steam turbine, and the exhaust steam is used in the dryer rolls.

A spare generator driven by a 1375 k.v.a. synchronous motor is used as a standby for each pair of paper machines.

All the electrical apparatus is located back of the paper machine, but is controlled by push button stations on the front of the machine.

It may be of interest to know that for determining the motor capacity required to drive each section of the paper machine, a constant based on paper speed and width has been arrived at from tests on the dozens of machines in service. Given this constant, it is only necessary to multiply by paper speed in feet per minute and by the number of inches of paper width to get the actual running horse-power. Temperature and starting requirements are factors also entering the problem and affect the nameplate rating given the motor.

The four machines now installed and operating 24 hours a day, six days per week, at Gatineau require per hour:

8 acres of spruce (equivalent to 146 acres of paper).

56,000 k.w. of electrical energy (City of Peterborough uses 3,600 k.w.).

280 tons of steam (electrically generated).

One New York daily uses 875 tons for its Sunday edition, or the output of the Gatineau mill for 22 hours.

The mill has its own pumping and filtration plant, and all water used for culinary or drinking purposes is treated with ultra-violet rays to kill possible disease germs. Storage battery trucks are used to handle broken boxes and trailers. The fully equipped machine shop is electrically driven. Electrically heated glue pots are used in the shipping department. Electric hot plates are used to heat hand irons for joining ends of paper rolls by means of mending tissue. The pressboard ends of the paper rolls are sealed into place by hydraulically-operated electric hot plates. Flood lights play from the mill roof on all working locations in the yard making night operation as safe as day operation. An auto call system keeps all superintendents and foremen in touch with the telephone exchange. The employees' residences are equipped with electric ranges and water heaters.

RIGHT ALREADY BLIND.

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—By means of a new serum treatment Booth Tarrington, the novelist, may have preserved for many years the sight of his left eye, his wife said today in connection with reports he was threatened with blindness. He lost the sight of his right eye two years ago

REDUCTION SOUGHT ON RUBBER GOODS

Consumers' League Application on Tariff Board Opposed By Makers.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The application for reduction in the duty on manufactured rubber goods by R. J. Deachman, on behalf of the Consumers' League, met with considerable opposition on the part of manufacturers before the tariff advisory board today. The applicants contended that the present tariff rate almost prohibited imports and the present position of Canadian manufacturers justified a reduction, but Douglas Hallam of the Canadian woollen manufacturers and A. B. Hannay of the Rubber Association countered with an application for a 25 per cent increase, asserting the industry required continuance of protection against the huge production of the United States.

WEDDING BELLS.

CROUGH—MURPHY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Martin's church, Ennismore, when Catherine Clara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murphy, became the bride of Michael Joseph Crough, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crough. Rev. J. V. McAuley performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of pale peach georgette with silver trimmings, bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

She was attended by her sister, Eliza Anne, who wore rose taffeta, picture hat and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. Paddy Crough supported the groom, and little Anna Marie Killen, niece of the bride, was a dainty flower girl.

Later the young couple left for their future home in Detroit, the bride travelling in a rose beige crepe, with hat to match and fox fur, the gift of the groom.

INVINCIBLE RASPBERRY JELLY POWDER

flavored with the actual juice of

Luscious Muskoka Wild Raspberries

BECAUSE we want every family to appreciate fully the luscious wild Raspberry Flavor pent up inside a package of INVINCIBLE Raspberry Jelly Powder, we are offering a regular, full-size package FREE to every one presenting the coupon from this advertisement to any of the grocers listed below. It is a present of a delicious dessert for Sunday.

When you taste this tender-textured jelly, you will at once notice the full-flavored wild raspberry taste—so much more piquant than that of tame raspberries. The actual juice itself of Muskoka Wild Raspberries is used for flavoring this matchless jelly powder.

In rocky, pine-studded Muskoka, the raspberries are plucked for us by the children of the settlers and the neighboring Indians. Then at our laboratories in Hamilton, these luscious berries are crushed to extract every ounce of delicious juice—and this actual juice is used to flavor the jelly powder.

This process of using actual fruit juices is what makes McLaren's Invincible Jelly Powders so delightfully "fruity" in taste. It is a process perfected by ourselves many years ago, and is used by us not only with Raspberries, but choice Strawberries, Cherries, Grapes, Currants, and Pineapples are used in the same way.

We are confident that you will be so delighted with the true Wild Raspberry flavor of the Free Package that you will be eager to try other McLaren Jellies. We rely on the Free Package to convince you of the superiority of our Actual Fruit Flavors. We are convinced that, once you taste McLaren's Invincible Jellies, you will continue to use them and to serve them frequently. So, cut out the coupon and pin it to your week-end grocery list, so you won't forget it. Any of the grocers below will be glad to supply you with the FREE Package. McLarens Limited will reimburse the grocer the full retail price of the free package. Invincible Jellies sell regularly at 3 packages for 25 cents.

FINE CONCERT AT LAKEFIELD

Indian Baritone Features Program at Knox United Church.

WELL ATTENDED.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 28.—An excellent concert was held in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening under the auspices of Knox United Church in connection with their anniversary, which was held on Sunday last. Mr. Charles Cook, of Ottawa, the Indian entertainer, who has already captivated several audiences in the district, was the premier attraction and made a distinct hit with the large audience. The stage was decorated with flowers which were contributed by Mrs. Wesley and Mrs. Walton.

Rev T. M. Wesley gave a short address, which put the crowd in good humor, thanking them all for their patronage and assuring them of their welcome.

Misses Helen Porter and Dorothy Sutton played a piano duet, which was exceedingly well rendered.

Mr. Cook as raconteur has few equals, and his anecdotes kept his audience in roars of laughter.

His first musical number was the Scotch song "Captain Mat," which was encored, and he responded by singing softly a verse of Annie Laurie which is probably the most popular of all the songs of Old Scotia. Instead of singing the second verse he gave a parody in the brogue of "Ould Erin." Mr. Cook has a remarkably fine voice with a marvellous range, from a deep, rumbling basso to a rich baritone. Miss Etta Garbutt played the accompaniments.

The Harrison Brothers Quartette of Omemee sang "Down on the Farm," unaccompanied. The song included the imitations of various farm animals and captivated the fancy of the audience to such an extent that an encore was demanded.

Mr. Cook followed with an imitation of a French-Canadian farmer who was called upon in a spirit of jest to make a speech in support of a candidate at a general election. This was a very funny number and brought down the house.

Mrs. J. R. Hull and Mr. Henry Baten followed with a duet which was extremely well rendered, the voices blending beautifully. Mr. Cook sang "Augustus Miles," which displayed the marvellous qualities of his deep bass voice, and as an encore he gave a pretty child's song.

Mr. Cook rendered "The House by the Side of the Road," as recitation with musical accompaniment.

Mrs. Osborne sang a humorous song which stated that "Mamma gets younger and papa gets older every day." Mrs. Osborne's song was encored and she responded with a pretty encore.

Mr. Cook, in dumb show, gave a representation of a bachelor sewing on a button, which was absolutely inimitable.

The Harrison quartette in a vocal number, which described at length and in a witty manner the sufferings and treatment of John Brown's baby who developed a cold, and when encored responded with a novel instrumental number which was very popular. Two played mouth organs, one the piano and the fourth an auto harp, and a young lady accompanied them on a banjo. They rendered a medley of popular airs in a tuneful manner.

Mr. Batten, who is always a favorite with a Lakefield audience, sang "A Brown Bird Singing" in good voice.

Mr. Wesley took an opportunity at this stage of the program to thank all the performers, Mr. Cook and the other out-of-town performers, as well as those from the village and the congregation of Knox church.

Mr. Cook paid a tribute to the work of Miss Etta Garbutt, his accompanist, and congratulated the people of the village on having her in their midst. She is a remarkably clever musician and a most satisfactory accompanist.

Mr. Cook sang a solo, the first verse in English and the second in the Mohawk language, which he fears will become obsolete in two more generations. There are thirty-seven distinct Indian languages in Canada and the United States besides the variety of dialects.

Mr. Cook's closing number was a deep bass solo, "Bells of the Sea," a very fine song and well sung.

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served to the performers by the ladies of Knox church and a social hour was spent.

Attracted by their compatriot a number of Indians from the Curve Lake reserve were in the audience, appreciating Mr. Cook's performance especially.

HALLOWE'EN SUGGESTIONS

MACAROONS ARE DELICIOUS

Made with Eagle Brand Condensed Milk

At the right is given a recipe for Cocoanut Macaroons that has become famous. Once you have tried it you will always make them this easy way because you are sure of dainty, irresistible tidbits. The candy recipes are old favourites, too, and will add to your reputation as a hostess who serves delightful refreshments.

RUSSIAN TAFFY

2 cups brown sugar, ½ lb. butter, 1 tin Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, 1 cup corn syrup, ¾ cup nuts (broken). Dissolve syrup, butter and milk over slow fire, add sugar. Boil for twenty minutes, stirring constantly. Add nuts and pour in buttered pan to cool, cut in squares and serve on waxed paper.

LAKEWOOD CREAM

1 can Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, 1 cup chopped walnut meats, ½ pound sugar, 2 tablespoons butter. Combine the milk and sugar. Bring to boiling point: add the butter and boil twelve minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add the nuts and pour into buttered pan. When cool cut in squares.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

Melt 2 squares of chocolate and mix well with 1 can of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk. Add ½ pound shredded cocoanut, mix thoroughly, and add 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Drop on greased pan 1 teaspoonful at a time, about an inch apart. Bake in a moderate oven until nicely browned. This makes 30 macaroons. Omit chocolate for plain macaroons.

HASTINGS NEWS.

HASTINGS, October 28.—Mr. John Wilson, who has been seriously ill, is able to be around again.

Dr. McDonald had the misfortune to lose his touring car on Friday evening last. He had just motored out in the country a short distance, and had left his car to visit a patient. Happening to look out, he discovered it in a mass of flames, which totally destroyed it. A short circuit in the car is thought to have been the cause of the fire.

Mr. George Richardson, of Campbellford, fish and game inspector for this district, was a visitor in town on Monday.

Miss Margaret Heir, of Dartford, was a week-end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

AMOS DENOUNCES SIN

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 30. Amos Denounces Sin. Amos 2:4-12.

* * *

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

We have seen in connection with last lesson the essential character of Amos and the preparation that came to an earnest true-hearted man as he went about the work of his daily life in open spaces, working with God in nature and through nature's process.

Amos was a herdsman and a gatherer of fruit. He was accustomed to keen and clear sense of value. There were in his world no illusions, no self-deceptions, no pleasing and plausible social fallacies that obscured the elemental facts and conditions of life.

Much of the world's sin and immorality arises from lack of clear perception. It may be said that any man knows the difference between right and wrong: and within certain limitations that is true. But in modern complex life there are all manners of theories that tend to break down the clearness of this distinction between right and wrong.

Moreover, the very complexity of society does not make the distinction always clear even for earnest-minded men and women.

False Prosperity.

Ancient Israel in the time of Amos was in a prosperous social condition. It was a period when nationally men were glorying in their prosperity, but, as often happens, much of this seeming prosperity was on a false and insecure foundation. It did not rest upon the solid basis of just and righteous relationships man with man. It was under these circumstances that Amos pronounced the judgments of God, which were also the judgments of sound sociology, against his nation in its day of seeming prosperity.

Coming with his clear vision from the fields he was not deluded by any show of grandeur and magnificence. The show of splendor, luxuriating in ill-gotten gains, did not blind him for a moment. He looked beneath it all to the hollowness associated with social injustice. "They have sold the righteous for silver," he said, "and the poor for a pair of shoes." He perceived a disregard for the meek and the tragic lack of the sense and guidance of morality, to say nothing of the lack of any vital religion.

Religion itself, under the circumstances, had become perverted to the approval of immoral and abominable practices.

Without sounding any note of undue pessimism may not one say that there is something very modern in all this arrayment of society by Amos? Can one deny the extent to which the righteous are still sold for silver and the needy for a pair of shoes? Is not the glaring immorality of our modern life, especially as it affects home and family relations, made vivid, sometimes horribly vivid, with its records of adultery, murder and divorce? Is there not also, even as in the ancient day, a tendency to reduce the very maxims of philosophy and religion to the approval of the things of unrestraint and so-called "self-expression"?

Is there not a profound need of the clear and elemental vision of men like Amos to mark the distinction between the things that are right and the things that are wrong?

Applying the Teaching.

It would not be right to say that all the cleansing and revivifying powers of life are associated with the country, that is, with the rural sections.

As a matter of fact much of the high idealism of the modern day is found in our cities, and increasingly there are those in our cities who do not forget, even in the crowded and befouled atmosphere, the clean skies and the clear horizons of life: but just be cause the conditions of life have become so complex there is all the more reason that those who would serve their age and their fellow-men should strive in every way to keep their vision clear and their souls unsullied.

Probably the men of this ancient time accused Amos of being a narrow-minded bigot and a Puritan. It has been the cynical charge of those in every age who have sought to justify their own lusts and courses of injustice.

There is such a thing as narrow-minded bigotry and there are aspects of the Puritan that we should neither approve nor strive to emulate, but in the great ultimate things of life we must stand either with those who exercise a high-minded and godly restraint, or with those whose way of life, no matter how it may be covered up with pleasant words and plausible philosophies, is essentially established in selfishness.

Text: Amos 2:4-12.

Thus saith the Lord: For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof: because they have despised the law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lies caused them to err, after the which their fathers have walked:

But I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

Thus saith the Lord: For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes:

That pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and turn aside the way of the meek: and a man and his father will go in unto the same maid, to profane my holy name:

And they lay themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar, and they drink the wine of the condemned in the house of their god.

Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks; yet I destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

Also I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith the Lord.

But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

U.S. Delegate Opposes British Proposals For Granting Wireless Congresses Votes

WASHINGTON, October 28 (Canadian Press). — Opposition to British proposals that in future wireless congresses votes be granted to all territories having an autonomous radio administration was expressed yesterday by Representative White of Maine, on behalf of the United States delegation to the international radio conference here.

White suggested instead that a more equitable distribution of votes might be had if one vote were assigned to each country entitled to conclude international agreements in its own right. Another basis, he added, would be to distribute votes in proportion to traffic handled, as had been suggested on Wednesday by the Chinese delegation.

The British proposal, it was pointed out, would have the disadvantage of giving countries possessing colonies with autonomous radio organizations numerous votes, while leaving countries like the United States and Germany with only one vote. His proposal, he added, would allow each British Dominion a vote.

A sub-committee approved by a majority vote yesterday a motion to forbid the use of radio spark sets over 500 watts after 1940.

It was decided to leave the next radio conference to decide when spark sets under 500 watts should disappear. While the great interference which spark sets cause to ordinary radio communication was urged as a valid reason for their abolition, certain shipping interests pointed out that there are over 300,000 pounds sterling involved to-day in maritime spark sets. It would be obviously unfair, they said, to jeopardize this capital by immediately rendering all such apparatus illegal.

CABS COMPETE WITH TAXIS.

City officials of Alexandria, Egypt, are encouraging the horse cabs of the city as a competitor for the taxicabs. They recently ordered a reduction of taxi rates, and when motions were introduced to bar the 1,700 horse cabs from the main street or to suppress them and indemnify the drivers as was done in Athens, the plan to foster them was adopted.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BUMPLE

Now that Uncle Wiggily had come back from the seashore and lived in his hollow stump bungalow again, and also now that Boppy, Um and the six wooden Wogglejigs lived in their Bungleump near the bunny gentleman, it often happened that Mr. Longears had adventures with Bumple, Dumple and Mazie. Those were three of the Wogglejigs. The others were Gazie, Dazie and Wumple.

One day when Uncle Wiggily had helped his wife and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy get the forty-twelve little bunny boys and girls off to the Hollow Stump School, the rabbit gentleman looked in the glass to see if his pink nose was twinkling properly, and then he said:

"I am going adventuring!"

"That is nothing new!" chuckled his wife. "You do that every day."

"But I don't have the same adventures every day," and Mr. Longears also laughed. "That is the beauty of it. When I start out I never know what is going to happen."

"And we never know whether or not you are coming home," sighed Nurse Jane.

"Well," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper, "we never know but what the Fox, Wolf or Bob Cat might carry you off to their den and bite off your ears. Then you would be a pretty looking sight; wouldn't you, eh?"

"No, I wouldn't!" said Uncle Wiggily. "And, what is more, I do not intend to let any of the bad chaps catch me. I am too smart for them."

"Don't be too sure!" warned the muskrat lady, and as Uncle Wiggily hopped away, his pink nose bravely twinkling, his wife and Nurse Jane sighed sadly, for, somehow or other, they thought something might happen. And it did! I am going to tell you about it.

As Uncle Wiggily hopped along he met Bumple Wogglejig. The little green boy, made of wood, from his head to his legs, was skipping here and there looking for wooden nutmegs that he might have a game of ball.

"Hello, Bumple!" called Uncle Wiggily. "Why aren't you at school?"

"Oh, I didn't have to go today," Bumple answered, taking off his wooden head and putting it on upside down, which made him look very funny. For all the Wogglejigs could do these tricks—take off their heads, tails or legs and scramble them all up.

"Why didn't you have to go to school?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Because I had my lessons so well on Friday," Bumple replied, "that the Lady Mouse Teacher said I needn't come this Monday. But I almost wish I was in school," said Bumple with a sigh.

"What's the reason for that?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, everybody else is in school 'ceptin' me," answered Bumple, though if the Lady Mouse had been there she would not have let him talk like that. "I haven't got nobody to play with." (Wasn't that talk just terrible?)

"Hello, Bumple!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"Then come adventuring with me," invited the rabbit, and I wish you could have seen Bumple smile upside down. It was really funny. "But put your head on straight," said Uncle Wiggily, "or you'll be walking criss-cross."

So Bumple changed his wooden head and then he and the rabbit gentleman went on together until at last they reached a place where there was a big, flat, smooth rock like a table. They climbed up on this to look for adventures, but there seemed to be none there until, all of a sudden, up on the rock jumped the Fox.

"Now, I have you, Uncle Wiggily!" howled the Fox. "I have you on this bare rock where you can't get away from me. And there aren't any loose stones or anything else for you to throw at me. Ha! Ha!"

"Oh, is that so?" suddenly cried Bumple. "Well, I have something to throw at you!" With that the Wogglejig boy pulled loose one of his green, wooden legs and threw it at the Fox, hitting the bad chap in his left eye. Then Bumple took out another green wooden leg and banged the Fox in his other eye, making the unpleasant creature howl twice.

"I guess I made a mistake!" snarled the bad chap. "I didn't know anybody could throw their legs away like that!" And off he ran, not harming Uncle Wiggily at all. Then the bunny and the Wogglejig boy scrambled down off the smooth rock. Bumple picked up his legs and put them back on and Uncle Wiggily said it was as jolly an adventure as he ever remembered.

So that's what happened, and if bicycle will run along to the store by itself instead of waiting for the roller skate to give it a ride, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and Um's umbrella.

ABOLISHING P.A.T.A. OF LITTLE EFFECT

Ottawa Druggists' President Says All Are Members Of It.

OTTAWA, October 28 — Canadain Press. — Though all the Ottawa drug stores are identified with the Proprietary Articles Trade Association, defined as an illegal combine by Commissioner L. V. O'Connor, the abolishment of the P.A.T.A. will make little difference, declared S. J. Stevenson, President of the Ottawa Retail Druggist Association.

Every Baby Needs Vitamins

Science has rightly given emulsified cod-liver oil, as in Scott's Emulsion, a place of premier importance as a help to perfect baby's nutrition and to furnish its growing organism with a needed abundance of rickets-preventing and growth-promoting vitamins.

Young children who are not absorbing a full abundance of essential vitamins, should receive, as an added food-ration, regular doses of easily-assimilated, pleasantly-flavored, emulsified cod-liver oil in the form of

CHRISTMAS SEALS WILL BE MAILED

Health Association Will Send Them Out, Expecting Money Back.

The ladies of the Peterborough Health Association are extremely busy getting ready for the sale of Health Stamps or Christmas Seals, which will shortly take place. There are so many people in Peterborough who are interested in the work of the Health Association, and who are more than willing to help financially in order that the work may continue, it has been decided the best way to reach all the people and give them an opportunity to participate in the work, is to offer the Stamps through the mail. The "mail sale" method of selling the stamps is a business way of handling them. Following this method Peterborough citizens will receive Health Stamps through the mail and may send their money in return to the Health Association.

In the past different methods have been tried out. To affirm that a method is good just because it is old or bad because it is new is hardly logical. The mailing plan has proven to be the best yet devised. The Health Association ladies are busy making up mailing lists to whom the stamps will be sent. When the lists are completed a letter together with an allotted amount of stamps will be mailed to each name, and the money for the Seals may be enclosed in the return envelope which will accompany them.

The work of the Health Association is too much needed and too widespread to allow it to be curtailed for lack of funds to carry on. This method of selling by mail gives everyone a chance to help and a generous response will certainly be the result.

METEOR FALLS NEAR CYCLIST.

While people in all parts of England viewed the falling of a meteor recently, Reginald Harvey had a close view that was not expected or desired. Harvey was cycling near Oxfordshire when "a ball of fire the size of a cocoanut" shot past him, whistling, and hit the road 20 feet ahead of him. Rushing to the spot, Harvey could find only grey ashes strewn about the ground.

MORE LITIGATION OVER MOTOR BOAT

Fish Company Gets Injunction Preventing Welbanks From Taking it.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., October 28.—(Canadian Press). — Further litigation is probable before the motor boat Rosella is taken from its dock, where it has been tied since the arrest of Dr. Hedley Welbanks, local veterinary surgeon. Dr. Welbanks was found not guilty in the Police Court yesterday by Magistrate W. C. Mikel on a charge of stealing the boat. The craft is claimed by the Palmer Fish Company, of Rochester, N.Y., having been sold by auction to the company after it had been seized by a United States patrol boat last summer. Dr. Welbanks regained possession recently.

At the present time an injunction, secured by the Rochester firm, prevents the return of the vessel to Dr. Welbanks, and it is possible the case may come before an Admiralty Court. The Palmer Fish Company contends that even though the original seizure was unwarranted, the sale by auction was perfectly legal.

SEIZE PLANE AS SUSPECTED RUM-RUNNER

First Taken on International Border as Possible Smuggling Vehicle.

MYSTERIOUS TRIPS.

Pilot Under Arrest Pending Investigations By Customs Officers.

ST. ALBANS, Vermont, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—The first aeroplane ever seized on the United States-Canada border as a possible smuggling vehicle bobbed on the waters of Lake Champlain last night while customs officers sought to determine its real status. Its pilot, W. H. Wincapaw, of Staten Island, N.Y., was under arrest charged with crossing the border without reporting. Its passenger, Leon A. Tarr, claiming to be a New York milliner, was in Burlington hospital threatened with pneumonia.

Although the plane was captured late Wednesday night, the customs officers revealed the fact only yesterday. Last night they were still somewhat in the dark as to the mission of the plane, which Wincapaw said had more one previous return trip to Canada. A mysterious black bag which the pilot said Tarr had carried on his trip had not been found.

The Lake Champlain liquor patrol, which seeks to break up international rum running by water, had been watching for some time for a plane which had previously passed over without reporting. Collector of Customs Harry C. Whitehill said yesterday. Wednesday night a patrol boat which was plying off Colchester Point, which is about 20 miles from St. Albans, and 10 miles from Burlington, was rewarded when a big seaplane dipped down to the lake surface. The illness of Tarr, combined with engine trouble, brought about the unscheduled landing.

Search Plane

A preliminary search of the plane failed to reveal any contraband liquor, narcotics or jewelry, and the personal effects of Tarr were examined with no better result. Wincapaw, who was held by the customs men here, claimed that he had been engaged as pilot only and knew nothing of the activities of Tarr, his employer. He said that Tarr always carried a black bag, which he watched very closely, and that in Montreal he called on "business friends." The pilot said he received $80 a flying hour for his trips, which usually occupied eight hours.

Wincapaw gave the customs officers the information that air smuggling was fairly common these days. While refusing to give names he said he knew several aviators who were carrying passengers into Canada and back for "big money."

Four customs officers left at noon yesterday to make a thorough examination of the plane off Colchester Point. These had not returned to St. Albans early last night. It was said that if no contraband was found on the plane Wincapaw would be fined $100 for each trip he had made across the line without reporting.

FALL GOT BONDS.

Bank Cashier Testifies To Depositing of Bonds By Son-in-law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Direct testimony that ninety thousand dollars in bonds was deposited in the safety deposit box of Albert Fall after the lease of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve to Harry Sinclair was introduced by the Government today in the trial of Fall and Sinclair for criminal conspiracy. E. T. Rule, assistant cashier of a Pueblo, Colorado, bank, said a son-in-law of Fall placed the bonds with him after a trip to the east.

WOMEN'S PAGE

SOCIETY

The Rotary-Annes are holding a continuation of their dance to-night in the new Ford building, in an "after theatre" community dance.

• • •

Friends of Miss Maud Young, who has spent the past fourteen years in the city, will regret to learn of her return next week to her native birthplace in England.

• • •

Messrs. W. D. Grant, superintendent of Canals at Bobcaygeon, and Mr. I. R. Stewart, were in town on business yesterday.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Throop, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Throop and family, Mrs. V. Boorman, Mrs. C. Agnew, Mrs. H. Hunter and Miss Mabel Reynolds were among the local people who motored to Stewart Hall last evening for the fowl supper held there.

• • •

Mrs. J. Black, 196 Aylmer street, was hostess yesterday afternoon and evening at a very successful Hallowe'en tea held at her home under the auspices of the Brownton Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church. Mrs. Black, president of the society, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. N. H. Sutton. The tea room was prettily decorated with Hallowe'en colors and novelties, the table being centred by a bowl of orange French marigolds. Tea was poured by Mrs. Joseph Crowe, assisted by Mesdames H. Strickland, H. Marsh, N. Stewart, G. Hutchinson, C. Hotston. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. T. Busby and Mrs. W. Thompson had the sale of home-made candy. During the afternoon and evening, a pleasing musical programme was given, including vocal solos and readings by Mrs. H. Turner, violin numbers by Mrs. P. Hooper and Mr. G. Gatfield, piano selections by the Misses Pearl Smith, Mildred Hetherington and Jean Black, and recitations by Master Kenneth Hotston. Piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. W. A. Logan and Mrs. D. J. Goodley.

Under the auspices of the Rotary-Annes, a Community dance was held last night in the new Ford building, recently opened at the corner of George and King streets. A crowd of about two hundred people assembled in the large main portion of the building, where decorations were very effectively carried out in profusion of overhead flags and pennants, Rotary emblems and palms and ferns, which banked the stand where the seven-piece Silver Slipper Orchestra, directed by Stewart Widdess, provided excellent music. In the large waiting-room which forms the entrance, a refreshment booth was conducted by the ladies, who also had charge of the comfortable checkrooms adjoining. The president of the Rotary-Annes, Mrs. Gerald McClelland, acted as general convenor, with Mrs. J. H. Seels in charge of decorations and Mrs. Robert Abbott of the sale of refreshments. Ladies assisting were Mrs. Gerald Wood, Mrs. A. L. Killaly, Mrs. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. F. L. Roy and Mrs. J. Gillespie. Mrs. W R Widdess and Mrs. B. L. Bates were in charge of the cloak-rooms. Messrs. J. H. Seels, G. H. Thompson and Ross Dobbin also assisted as treasurers.

• • •

Mrs. Frank C. Roberts, Lansdowne street, was hostess on Wednesday evening to the members of the Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church, who held a handkerchief shower at her home for her booth at the coming Winter Fair of the church. During the evening, Mrs. H. Turner gave several readings and vocal solos which were received with much applause, and Mrs. N. H. Sutton, president of the Guild, presented a purse to Miss Maud Young, one of the members who is leaving shortly to make her future home in England. Miss Young acknowledged the gift in appropriate terms, expressing her regret at leaving her many friends in the city. Dainty refreshments were served later, and Mrs. Roberts thanked her guests for their gifts, after the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

• • •

Miss Barbara Massey-Cooke of the "Araby" Gift Shoppe, Toronto, is opening an Eastern Art Studio next week.

• • •

Ensign P. Payton of the Salvation Army, who has been visiting her parents at 320 King street, left yesterday for Newfoundland, where she will take the position of Supervisor in the Salvation Army Hospital in St. John's City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lush, Bethune Street, were hosts last evening at a very jolly Hallowe'en party held at their home by members of the Anglican Young People's Association of St. Luke's Church. About thirty-five of the young people were present, the majority being in costume. The evening was spent in the enjoyment of dancing, cards, and dainty refreshments. The prize for cards was won by Mrs William Hepburn. Prizes for costumes went to Miss Flossie Pammett as a Colonial Lady, Miss Amy Doupe as a Hawaiian Girl, Mr. Douglas Betnune as a Hobo, and Mr. Floyd Curtis as a Count. Others appearing in costume were Mrs. W. Hopburn and Miss Maudie Joyes (Colonial), Jean Lush and Clemena Long (Fairies), Annie Simmons (Little Girl), Grace Simpson and Queenie Hope (Spanish Ladies), Dorothy Dodds and Mary Spenceley (Pierrettes), Margaret Grierson (Sailor Boy), Elizabeth Lawrence (Night), Hilda Ephgrave (Russian Lady), Madeline Wheeler (Spanish Gipsy), Mrs. J. Lush (Spirit of Hallowe'en), Morgan Perry (English Aristocrat), Ormie Heap and Robert Sedgewick (Farmers), Herbert Lee (Negro), Jack Lee (Tramp), Roland Krant, Joseph Grierson, and Gordon Maniece (Evening Dress), Cecil Hope (Huckleberry Finn), Stanley Curtis (Jew), and Mr. J. S. Mason (Clown). Others attending, not in costume, were: Rev. G. J. and Mrs. Bousfield, Mrs. W. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Simpson, Mrs. Colborne, the Misses Deck, Florence Adams, and May Sedgewick, and Messrs. V. Sedgewick and E Eames.

• • •

Mr. Owen Staples, of Toronto, who spoke to the Women's Art Association this afternoon, on a "Talk on Things Artistic," is the guest over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Park, Rubidge Street.

• • •

Miss M. Richards, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. DeLaPlante, Lock Street.

• • •

Mrs. A. F. Calder has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Perth, Carleton Place, and Smith's Falls.

• • •

Mr. Bruce Bolton, of Nassau, has returned home after spending the past two months at Lucky Lake, Saskatchewan.

• • •

• • •

Miss Viola Harvey, Sherbrooke Street, entertained a number of her friends last evening at a delightful Hallowe'en party held at her home. The programme of the evening included Hallowe'en games and dancing, a feature of the entertainment being the opening contest, which was a treasure hunt led by three captains, Richard Cowan, Neil Gemmell, and Alan Heiderman, won by the former, the trail leading to a pirates' cave, where supper was served in bandit fashion. Guests present were: Margaret Walker, Muriel Wilson, Mary Westbye, Eleanor Stacey, Kathleen Hodgens, Violet Davidson, Isobel Davidson, Dorothy Foster, Barbara Foster, Jeannette Allin, Grace Comstock, Mary Comstock, Arleigh Comstock, Arnold Allen, Howard McDonald, Richard Cowan, Alan Heiderman, Keith Wightman, Max Middleton, J. V. Elliott, Crawford Hall, Neil Gemmell, Ralph Cox, Grant Breckenridge, and Wilmot Gordon. Contest prizes were won by Isobel Davidson and Arnold Allen, and the "lucky number" dance prize was won by Violet Davidson and Howard McDonald.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. When there is no maid to wait on the family, who serves the soup, fish, meat and vegetable courses?
2. Who serves the salad and dessert courses.
3. Is it better to nave one member of the family wait on the others, or just quietly pass plates, bread and other things around the table?

The Answers

1. Father.
2. Mother.
3. The latter.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28.—Mr. W. W. Head of Peterborough was in town yesterday on matters of business.

Mrs. William Hume, Mrs. James Allan, and Miss Jessie Neil motored to Grafton to attend the thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church there.

Mr. Phillip Leviscount, Peterboro, was in town yesterday.

Some very useful work is being done in patching some of the breaks and small holes in the cement sidewalks on the main streets of the town.

Thanks to the excellent condition of the roads for motorists, many of the Campbellford theatre-goers have arranged to attend the Grand in Peterborough on Friday or Saturday night to hear the Dumbells.

STYLISH DIGNITY FOR SNOWY LOCKS

By HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Last but not least in our series of costuming different types comes the white-haired woman, whom the winter snows have touched, perhaps, a bit prematurely.

Bright colors are her privilege and ultra stylish modes become her. But she must never seem to try to dress too girlishly. A delightful dignity should set her in a class apart and all the flaming hues and unique cuts will only enhance her charm.

Make-up is an important element in a white-haired woman's life. But, since that is another field from dressing her, I can only warn her that too definite an artificial coloring tends to harden her expression, while just the right touch of lip-stick and rouge make her truly beautiful.

Stunningly Becoming Hues.

Reds are stunning on the white-haired woman, as are all the pinks, fushcias, purples and deep-tone wine shades that make this winter a delight to the coutourier. Greens can she wear, too, and sapphire blue is a delight on her. Browns are a mistake and beige should always be discarded. A soft grey in lace or chiffon, or a silver cloth dress sometimes makes a white-haired woman just too beautiful for words. And I remember fashioning a white gown for a youngish white-haired woman that, she said later, brought her more compliments than she ever received before.

Cut Important as Color.

The cut of clothes for this type of woman is as important as the color. Unusual drapes, necklines, odd touches and exaggerated modes of this type or that are apt to make her distinctive looking. But she must never wear the flapper type of bouffant gowns, too short skirts, or the Kate Greenaway cut of bodice. They are all incongruous on a woman with white hair, even though she be in her early 20's.

I like black and white on a white-haired woman, too. Often a rich costume of this type gives her a regal elegance that color might not. I show today a day-time semi-formal Worth gowns in black chiffon velvet with bolero jacket and unevenly tiered skirt, the tiers running horizontally giving a tight effect across the hips.

The dainty blouse under the bolero deserves a word of mention for its lady-like quietness. It is white satin, finely pleated into a simply-bound round neck. Pearl buttons march up the side-front, plainly closed, and in similar manner up the tight cuff. The bolero ties across the front, giving somewhat the impression of a Tuxedo vest.

Crown Gracefully Shirred.

With this is worn a black mushroom hat that has triple shirring to give grace to the front of the crown and a little brim that is almost tricorn in shape, with a tiny roll to it.

The coat I show is a rich kasha vella in becoming garnet hue with very narrow insets of matching crepe appearing as stitching around the bottom and down the back and sides of the coat, adding an extremely chic note and giving the coat the feeling of great luxury.

Nothing is more becoming to the white-haired woman than the right fur. So this coat has a stole of natural baby lamb in soft silver tone, encircling the throat and falling to the hem over the shoulder as well as edging the front opening to the hem.

Silver-Kasha Lined.

Deep bell-shaped cuffs of the rich fur slope nearly to the elbow and the lining of the coat is of silver kasha.

The evening gown is a sapphire blue chiffon, beaded all over, as is the manner this winter, with matching gleaming beads. It has the popular front fullness which is so characteristic of Chanel, who fashioned this gown.

The sophisticated note of this gown is the deep U back which has two long ties which fall to the uneven hem-line. The gown swathes the hip-line snugly and two ties in the front hang below the dipping front hem-line. With it she wears brocaded slippers that emphasize the rich color of the gown.

THESE MALES KEEP HOUSE.

That the male of the rare Arctic surf birds not only keeps house, but hatches eggs and protects the young better than the female, has been learned through recent discoveries. The bird has been known to science for 150 years, but only recently were a nest and eggs found. These were at Mt. McKinley, Alaska, where the habits of the birds were observed.

SAINT and SINNER

One of the most beastly things about marriage, Faith decided as she dressed the next morning while Bob was still sleeping, was the necessity for facing, across the breakfast table, the husband with whom you have quarreled in the dark the night before.

"I'm always a rag after an emotional debauch," she frowned at her image in the glass, "but Cherry will be as fresh and crisp and vivid as a new-cut nasturtium."

But not even that usually disturbing thought had the power to stir her this morning. She felt utterly let down, dully angry with herself and with Bob for the shamefulness of that ugly quarrel in the dark. But her anger was dull—a sort of indifferent disgust. The very flatness of her morning-after emotions dismayed her. She asked herself wearily if she had at last come into that doubtful haven of indifference to what Bob did or said, or how Cherry affected him. She would have preferred to be flushed with fear, rather than to be dull with reaction. She shrugged wearily, finished her hair, chose the first house dress her hands encountered and dragged to the kitchen to prepare breakfast. She resented the fact that she could not hide from him this morning, not see him until a decent interval had elapsed, so that they both should be in more merciful mood when they met again.

Before summoning Bob, Cherry and Joy to breakfast she drank two cups of very strong black coffee, hoping that it would stimulate her emotionally and physically. But she might have spared herself the insult to her nerves and digestion, for Bob came to the table with the morning paper in his hands, vouchsafed her scarcely a glance.

"I wish to heaven," he exclaimed irritably, without looking up, "that these trans-Atlantic fliers would all drown before they get out of sight. I'm sick of having my sympathy demanded for a lot of foolish publicity-seekers."

Before Faith could think of something absolutely unirritating to answer, Joy came into the dining-room, dragging a sweater over her uncombed blonde hair. "Cherry's sick," she announced excitedly. "She says she don't want any breakfast. Can I bathe the baby, Faith? I can do it! I wouldn't be very late for school."

"No, certainly not." Faith answered impatiently. "Go back to your room and comb your hair, and then ask Cherry what she wants me to bring her for breakfast."

She did not dare look at Bob for fear his face would be sullenly flushed with anxiety. So her prediction about Cherry had been wrong. Sherry was not as fresh as a new-cut nasturtium. The melodrama of that ridiculous and shameful evening had not left her unscathed. Perhaps she was really in love with Bruce Patton, had been driven to almost insane desperation by his flagrant flirtation with her sister. Or—maybe that kiss to which she had challenged Bob and which he had answered so fiercely, so hungrily, had opened an old wound, the fever of which was now a physical scourge in her blood.

"If Cherry is ill, Joy," Bob halted the sulking child brusquely, "tell her to take it easy. I shan't expect her at the office to-day."

A few moments later Joy returned. "She says she don't want any breakfast at all, and she don't want anyone to come near her. I guess she's pretty sick. She looks just awful. Could I stay home from school, Faith, and help you?"

Evening Examiner Fashions

A Youthful Negligee

A simple negligee for use in madam's room is this very simple straight-line kimono. It is surplice and closes at low-waist-line. When worn with a straight slip it makes an attractive lounging-robe. The kimono pattern, No. 1133, is finished with shirred ribbon, contrasting material faces the neckline and sleeve-edges. A more elaborate and youthful negligee may be made from this very useful style. It is cut for sleeveless, and by adding the flattering tucked ruffles in some soft material, about the neck and deep armholes, one has an interesting bit of finery. Cut in sizes 34 to 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 2¼ yards of 36-inch material. Price 20c.

Half a hundred women in New York City have won notable success in various branches of the electrical industry. There is a woman assistant to an electrical contractor, a woman editor and publisher of an electrical trade journal, a woman who is employed by a public utilities corporation to draw individual plans for home-lighting, a woman expert who solves problems of flood lighting and the illumination of churches, schools, theaters and business houses, a woman who lectures and conducts classes in home lighting, and several women who are employed as lampshade designers.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1927

While a benefic aspect is strong early in the morning, there are adverse aspects later in the day, according to astrology.

This is a planetary government under which it is held to be especially unfortunate to speculate, but there will be strong temptation to dabble in stocks.

The first work under this sway of the stars should be the settling of bills or stabilizing of one's financial situation.

There is a fairly good aspect for the signing of leases or business agreements.

Under this rule plans may be thwarted and there may be a strong sense of the futility of effort.

It is wise to postpone constructive work and to delay all important initiative.

Persons who exercise authority may be testy and difficulty to deal with, while this rule prevails. Employees should be careful.

It is not a lucky day for seeking employment or benefits of any sort and all solicitation should be postponed.

The evening is not especially promising for theaters or other places of amusement. Storms may diminish audiences.

Love affairs this evening are subject to the most sinister direction of the stars. Engagements are likely to be broken.

Changes in the modes may cause heavy losses to merchants, unless they are careful to keep their stocks small, astrologers warn.

Fashions are to be much more feminine in line and more dainty in material, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be conservative in all social and business activities in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be inclined to talk too much or to emphasize their own importance. They may be great social favorites, but they should be taught to work hard if they want success.

RADIO AND MUSIC.

Broadcasters Cannot Get Along Without It, Questionnaire Reveals.

The radio cannot survive without music. The program manager of one of the most important stations in America wrote me a few weeks ago: "Music is the foundation on which broadcasting rests. We would close our station today if we had not music, and so would anybody else who runs a station."

In order to ascertain how much music and what kind of music the radio public is seeking and getting I sent a questionnaire of nineteen items to the principal broadcasters in the United States and received fifty replies, some of them elaborated and of great interest. This has been supplemented by personal interviews and an extended correspondence.

To my first question: "How does music compare in popularity with other broadcasting features?" Forty-nine of the fifty squarely ranked music first. The fiftieth man put it second, and when I sent across the continent to learn what he ranked first, he replied that his "Hoot Owls" were his greatest attraction, and fifty per cent. of their feature was music, adding that "in his section, as elsewhere, music was the staple line for radio." In ranking music first there is therefore practical unanimity, for in the words of an important station, "No broadcasting feature can be compared with music."

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Following her brother's example the girl who plays golf wears a black woolen sweater and stockings on the golf course, completing the ensemble with gray skirt, hat, shoes and belt.

They are wearing black stockings!

I am not referring to the extremely transparent black stockings which when worn show flesh tints beneath that rob them of their somberness. I mean, honest-to-goodness, thick black stockings. I was informed of this fact the other day when I dropped in to see a recently married friend of mine and found her in her immaculate little kitchen working over a kettle of inky-black dye. The kettle contained a number of stockings—or rather high socks, for they were her husband's.

"They're wearing 'em black," she told me by way of explanation, and before I had a chance to ask her who was wearing black she explained that the men at the golf club were wearing black socks—black socks with black sweaters. It is considered quite smart. So the gaily checkered and striped woolen socks that my little friend's husband had on hand were all going into the pot of black dye. She had got him to promise that he would buy a plain black pull-on sweater.

After that I kept my eyes open at the golf club and noticed that not only were the men wearing 'em black, but some of the women as well. Black socks and black sweaters with light-toned shoes, skirts and hats. One very smart young woman wore black socks and sweater with the rest of her costume a soft gray, and the effect was most pleasing.

If you play a good game of golf, and want to earn some money, why don't you start a children's class in golf? Golf is no longer an old man's sport. There is an increasing demand for diminutive golf clubs, and experts recognize the importance of learning the rudiments of the game at a tender age. It isn't necessary to start with to take your little charges to the golf course. You can teach them how to "drive" and "put" in your own backyard.

KIWANIS CLUB

Secretary's Report.

"If Peterborough Kiwanis Club fails to step on the gas and use its high speed gear during the next convention year, it will not be for lack of inspiration received at the District Convention. I have heard the Club referred to as a dynamo. It is something more, but it is that much anyhow. But a dynamo must have horse power put into it before kilowatt power can be gotten out of it. The convention showed us how to put the horsepower into the dynamo—how to put the man power into the Club—and we learned a lesson there that should be included in the primer of every new member. The lesson is this, that a man is not a Kiwanian who has not high ideals for his Club, and that he cannot expect his club to give more of service, do more of work and bring about more of accomplishment than he is able and willing to put into his Club himself. No Kiwanian can expect to get any more kilowatts in service out of his club than he puts horse power of work into his club. It is under these two heads, the work to be done and the way to do the work that I present this report on the District Convention.

I think Mr. Chairman, that it will not come amiss if I go back at this time, to the beginning of things and endeavour in a few paragraphs to tell what it is all about. Most of us know that Kiwanis started in Detroit; that it first had the motto 'we trade' changed later because of public misunderstanding to 'we build,' and that the fundamental of the organization is the free giving of service. At our Conventions and district meetings orators of distinction have sprinkled the flowers of language like confetti on the assembled multitudes in an endeavour to give expression to something of a mystic or allegorical nature in Kiwanis, but to one who has given the philosophy of Kiwanis any serious thought it seems just as inappropriate to envelop the fundamentals of Kiwanis in mysticism as it would be to similarly treat the Sermon on the Mount.

Kiwanis goes deep into the web of business life—in fact it is part of that life, since every Kiwanian must be a business man and a builder. It brings two of the best men in each line of business and professional life into close association to aid in the solution of national, provincial and community problems. Theological dogma, political creed, nationality, wealth, social status and m[illegible]rite—none of these things hav[illegible] place in the acquisition or reten[illegible] on of a Kiwanis membership.

Perry S. Patterson defined Kiwanis as "a conscious driving force toward newer and higher objectives." It goes beyond steam, electricity, waterpower, bank clearings, and railroads to the human soul and the creative spiritual force upon which all these things depend, and from which all these things originate. In fact, Kiwanis is old fashioned, though new in its application. Its fundamentals are integrity, faith, industry, thrift and an interest in the other fellow. Honesty in leadership and membership, vision founded on faith in God and man and the great spiritual forces; industry to develop and produce and manifest these things, and an interest in the other fellow as a means of expression, are the attributes that build Kiwanis and make us worth while Kiwanians.

Those of you who attended the conferences and listened to the addresses at the London Convention realize the need of the hour in Kiwanis—that Kiwanis shall appreciate fully this appraisal and continue to revive in men the potent spiritual forces that are the fundamentals of true personal and business prosperity, and the exemplifications of the living of the golden rule.

The Convention was well managed and well arranged, with everything possible done for the convenience and entertainment of visitors. That, I hope, is the last generalization I shall make in this report, and those who visited room 801 will understand why it is necessary to be not too specific. The hospitality of London was wonderful.

The Peterborough Club was represented by 25 members and ladies, a splendid record, considering the distance to be travelled. You had present:—Rev. J. D. and Mrs. Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Boyle, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Heron, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Oke, Mark Bredin, M. B. Chenhall, H. J. McCannan, I. Lillico, I. P. McNabb and lady, J. John, C. Elliott and two ladies, E. V. Morphet, E. Wood.

Officers Elected.

As being one of the most important features of the convention, I wish to report first the election of officers. Three men were nominated for the position of District Governor—Fred Harvey of Windsor, W. Y. Mills of Kingston, and Sid Dadson of Hull. Billy Mills withdrew from the contest, was compelled to stand for election, and was elected. There were 83 votes cast, 42 were needed, and Mills received 43. The motion to make the election unanimous was moved by Sid Dadson and seconded by Fred Harvey.

In the contests for the Lieutenant Governorship, John A. Waddell of Brantford won from A. Willard of Galt in the western division; W. McClellan of Montreal was the unanimous choice of the East; W. A. Lewis of Barrie was chosen by the Northern division when J. Smyth Carter withdrew, and our own John I. Allen was defeated by Andy Gaul of Hamilton in the central division, by a very small majority.

Under a new plan adopted at the Convention, Arthur B. Ford of London was nominated by Higman and Lewis as this district's choice to represent Ontario-Quebec and Maritimes on the next International Board, and on motion of Higman and John Turner, our Isaac P. McNabb was elected as alternate.

There was not much competition for the 1928 convention, and notice is being served on you now that you will be expected to attend the next District Convention to be held at Kingston. Sault Ste. Marie extended an invitation also, but was not strong. In this connection my report will include, at a later stage, some recommendations for preparation.

It is my very great pleasure to report that the Peterborough Club won the efficiency contest in its division, in competition with clubs having 65 members and under. Yarmouth, last year's winner, came second.

Ottawa and Hamilton were first and second in the class having 101 members and over, and Barrie and West Toronto were first and second in the class having 66 to 100 members. The presentations were made by Bev. Hay.

In the attendance contest Yarmouth came first with 87%, Orillia was mistakenly given 2nd place with 85%, and Owen Sound 3rd, with 80%. Peterborough had 75%. The presentations were made by Capt. Jenkins.

The District visiting cup in the Western division was won by Brantford, in the Northern Division by Owen Sound, in the Eastern Division by Cornwall, and in the Central Division by Belleville, with 2287 points. Peterborough ran second. The Toronto Club won the exhibit prize, a speaker's clock, the presentation being made by John Moss, and the Peterborough Club was second. I was chairman of the Committee on Club exhibits, and our entry was prepared by John McKone.

The stunt competition was won by the Windsor Club with a splendid sketch, and the Brantford Club was given second place, though according to the rules it should have been disqualified for having in the cast a lady pianist. The Peterborough Club was not mentioned in the awards, though the very excellent play, written by our own members, is deserving of favourable comment. I think probably more attention should be paid next year to rehearsals and the stage arrangements. The curtain did not come down at the proper cues, leaving the ends of the scenes ragged.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar of Sydney, N.S. were presented with a basket of roses in token of their coming from the most distant point to the convention.

By resolution of the Convention the name of the District has been changed to "Ontario-Quebec-Maritime."

That, I think, covers the special contests and the elections and awards.

Secretaries' Conference.

The Secretaries' conference, presided over by Sid Dadson, contributed much information and instruction. There were about 20 secretaries there, and it was my privilege to lead the discussion on two topics, giving reports on methods of handling International affairs, which were well received and noted for adoption in other clubs. In his report to the Convention, the chairman did us the honor to comment on the good relations existing between the Peterborough Club and District. It was the general opinion, expressed in this conference, that weekly bulletins should be snappy and concise, carrying an easily seen statement of the speaker, subject and programme. In fact, it struck me that the notice considered by the Conference as ideal is so like the splendid bulletins prepared by Jack McKone that someone must have adopted ours as a pattern. Once again the question of efficiency report preparation came up, and once again it was decided that this is no part of the Secretary's duty, though it was admitted that all the secretaries' conferences in International will fail to relieve the secretary of this twice-a-year job. The newspaper clippings that form the history of the club, however, should be kept by the publicity committee, it was pointed out, and this is being done for the Peterborough Club this year by Walter Kidd.

It was the opinion of the conference that copies of the efficiency report should be distributed to all members of the Club, and I will later recommend that this be done. It was also recommended that the Club order a copy of the Kiwanis Magazine to be bound and kept with the records, and that all clubs in the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime District be placed on the mailing list for the weekly bulletin. The Peterborough Club sends its bulletins to all these clubs.

Reports on the Presidents' and Trustees' Conferences have already been presented by Isaac McNabb and John Turner.

Report of Governor.

The Governor's report showed the entire district to be in healthy condition, with two charter presentations in the year. Bill Cockburn recommended that the public affairs committee be composed of past presidents in order that the club, from year to year, may have the advantage of their judgment and experience, and I shall so recommend to the Board of Directors for next year. He also urged diversity of activity so as to interest all members of the Club. Everyone cannot be expected to take a personal interest in underprivileged child work, for instance, and Kiwanis should have sufficient activities to engage every member in personal work.

Another recommendation from the Governor is that the club insist upon the filling out of the Public Affairs Committee activity blank at the beginning of the year with a view to preparing a schedule of activities that will interest all members, and also that the Board of Directors choose committee chairmen and members from the information given in these blanks, thus fitting men into the jobs in which they have the greatest interest and aptitude.

Other Reports.

Lieut.-Governor W. Y. Mills, reported for the Central Division that 15 interclub visits had been made. The financial condition is good, with all clubs maintaining separate accounts for public activities and general running expenses. He mentioned particularly the record of the Peterborough Club, second in the International Efficiency Contest and a leader in all departments of Kiwanis activity.

I wish briefly to tell the reports of the committees as presented at Tuesday's session.

The Agriculture Committee, I. B. Whale, London, told of many contacts made with farmers, usually along the lines followed by the Peterborough Club, and urged all clubs to take steps to fill the farmer classification. The inviting of farmer guests to Kiwanis luncheons on special occasions is approved by the Committee, but the suggestion is also made that individual members might bring farmer guests whom they know in a business way to the ordinary weekly luncheon. Another suggestion approved by the committee is the organization of potato clubs, calf clubs, pig clubs, home garden contests, and so forth, among boys. The Club Agricultural Committee, should, in the opinion of the District Committee, have a long term objective.

Fred Page Higgins reported for the Bowmanville Training School, but as this was so thoroughly covered in the press on the occasion of the dedication of Kiwanis lodge a few weeks ago, I shall pass it with mere mention of that fact that Higgins' work in this connection was thoroughly appreciated by the convention.

Bert Fyon of Montreal asked on behalf of the classification committee that the rules be most strictly adhered to in order to preserve that diversity of interest which is so essential to the progress and purpose of Kiwanis. A list of classifications in the city should be at all times available, and these should also be a list of men suitable for admission to Kiwanis Club so that upon a vacancy occurring there will be no hesitation in finding the best man. Membership drives were frowned upon, and it is the opinion of the committee that a club is not functioning 100% so long as possible classifications remain unfilled by the process of choosing members already outlined. The first instruction to the Classification Committee is "Follow the Constitution" and the last appeal of the Board of Directors in acting on the Classification Committee's findings is this same Constitution.

The District Goodwill and Grievance Committee report, presented by Billy Moore of Kingston, indicated the same difficulty in finding something to do that exists in the club. It is pointed out, however, that there are wider activities open to this committee than the mere handling of complaints. It is the duty of this committee to promote acquaintance and friendship on the part of members, to restore the goodwill of disinterested and indifferent members, to urge through personal contact, the proper functioning and co-operation of officers and committees who are not properly caring for the duties of their official positions, and to personally confer with any members who are in any way delinquent, to persuade them to fulfil their obligations as members of Kiwanis. It is evident then that this committee has a real purpose in being, and is no more a non-functioning unit in the Kiwanis scheme of things than is any other committee.

G. R. Wallace of West Toronto reported for the Inter-club Relations Committee, on the movements of the travelling cups in the 4 Divisions.

Peterborough Mentioned.

The Jubilee of Confederation report was presented by Ron Starr of Orillia. The record of Peterborough Club's activities on July 1 was so well presented by Harry Huffman that the entire report was included by the Chairman of the Jubilee Committee for the District. It is evident that the Peterborough Club was not by any means the least active of Ontario-Quebec Clubs in the Jubilee celebration.

Herb Bassett, of Galt, urged for the Kiwanis Education Committee that greater efforts be made to assimilate members through definite instruction in Kiwanis principles and objectives. When you join fraternal orders you are required to take certain instruction at stated periods, and advance gradually in learning to full membership and fellowship. The same plan should be followed in Kiwanis, with personal definite directed education by the Kiwanis Education Committee. The committee should meet new members at regular times for a month or six months, whatever period is decided, and new members should be required as part of their membership undertaking to attend these meetings where they will be taught Kiwanis principles and aims through a series of talks. A very good outline is as follows:

(1) History of Kiwanis International and Club, by the Secretary.
(2) What Kiwanis expects of its members, by the Club President.
(3) The Club's place in the District, by the District Trustee.
(4) Work of the more important committees, explained by their chairman.
(5) Talks by the Lieut.-Governor and prominent visiting Kiwanians.

Many important features about Kiwanis should be explained by a competent member before the proposed member is taken into the Club and an understanding of Kiwanis objects and methods and requirements will lessen the Club mortality and keep out many men who would take all the benefits of membership without assuming any of the responsibilities.

This committee, holding one of the most important offices in the organization, should be the most active. It has great opportunities, and no opportunity ever existed without corresponding obligations.

Having been appointed chairman of the District Committee on Publicity last January, I had the pleasure of presenting this report to the Convention. It has always been my opinion that the spreading of Kiwanis ideals is more the duty of this committee than the mere recording of Club doings, and I endeavoured to bring out this in my report.

The Underprivileged Child Committee report was presented by Harold Stovell of Hamilton, who told of help given 1600 children, of the maintenance of 14 summer camps, and of many other activities. He complained of the few responses made to an appeal for information and I pointed out the necessity of giving the clubs notice of information required. The questionnaire that came to me last month demanded a statement of the ages of children helped, whether the children were orphans, and so on, which I could not give. The forms will be sent out early next year, so that these particulars may be gathered by your next year's secretary and the Underprivileged Child Committee.

Outstanding Address.

One of the outstanding addresses of the Convention was given by Fred C. W. Parker, International Secretary, on Monday. The Ontario-Quebec District was lauded by Mr. Parker as being the only District in the International organization having entertained two international conventions, having given two international Presidents, and having a club that won three International efficiency contests, the Montreal Club. He also mentioned the fact that not only did an Ontario-Quebec Club win the senior division of the efficiency contest in 1926, but a junior club was second in the junior class, this, of course, being the Peterborough Club.

The first club built in Canada was the Hamilton Club, and there are now thirty four clubs with 2634 members in the eastern half of the country.

Adherence to the objectives of Kiwanis International was urged by the International Secretary, who remarked that when a club combines International activity and local work it has the vital spark of Kiwanis ideals. His glance backward and his praise of this district, he said, were not to make the members self-satisfied. Kiwanis in Ontario-Quebec is a going concern, and a going concern has its eyes fixed on today and tomorrow, striving in the time that is present and ahead to accomplish greater things than in all the past. The world is moving, and Kiwanis International must move, too—there cannot be a moving world and a stationary Kiwanis Club or District or International.

Urging an intensive cultivation of membership without special drives which are apt to prove detrimental to the class of membership desired, Mr. Parker suggested that the classification committee of every club prepare the lists of prospectie members and classifications as a preparation for extension work. Members should be instructed in Kiwanis aims, he said, to lessen membership mortality. Industrial concerns have forsaken the hire and fire method in handling their employees for the hire and inspire method, and Kiwanis Clubs must discard the add and delete system for the add and assimilate plan. Members must be adequately informed before being admitted and adequately instructed after they are received, and thus built into the fellowship of Kiwanis in a real method and into the work of Kiwanis so that they feel they are integral units in a going concern. "When a Kiwanian is taken in in this way, he will not drop out for any superficial reason."

The work of vocational guidance and placement was urged in order to bring into play the talents and activities of every sincere Kiwanian in a personal way. Insistence also upon the work to be done by the Business Standards Committee was a strong point in the message of the International Secretary. This committee is charged with furthering the great International objective of bringing into practical everyday life the high ideals of the organization, "To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationship."

In concluding, Mr. Parker summed up the achievements of the District and left as his final message the words: "That—and better—will do."

Splendid inspirational addresses were also given by Past President John H. Moss and Rev. Tom Roy.

There are just three more points on which I wish to report, and I will touch on them very briefly. The first is the convention daily, of which I was editor, reporter, make-up man, and general man of all work. A copy of each day's issue was sent you in your bulletin for this week. This purported to be a newspaper, but since the first copy went to press on Saturday, before the convention, and Tuesday's issue went to press at noon on Monday, there was not much news in the papers except what came out of my rather futile imagination. It is my purpose to recommend to the District Executive that the Daily be discontinued, and that, instead, a printed summary of the convention be distributed to every Kiwanis member in the District within a few days of the convention's close. I believe that this will be productive of much good.

Splendid Entertainment.

The second to last report I wish to make is on entertainment, and I have no hesitation in saying that we all thoroughly enjoyed the amusement prepared for us by the London Club. The ladies had a splendid programme. They joined in our luncheon in the London Hotel on Monday, and in the afternoon were taken for a drive around the city and for afternoon tea as guests of Rotary Club. They joined us at Dinner in the Masonic Temple and later at the Governor's ball. On Tuesday morning they had another drive around the city, followed by luncheon, bridge and golf at the London Hunt Club as guests of the London ladies, and joined us at the banquet and theatre night at the Masonic Temple.

The Governor's Ball on Monday, was, of course, the social event of the convention. There was a splendid orchestra of 15 pieces, and a variety of dances that pleased everyone. Almost every number was a novelty of some kind, and between dances there were musical numbers of outstanding merit. Non-dancers had seats in the gallery from which they watched the fun, or they joined in cards in two ante-rooms. After the ball, which ended about 2 a.m., many of us adjourned to a cabaret, where we danced until some others were getting up.

After the theatre party, which ended at midnight on Tuesday, sixteen Peterboroughites swooped down on the cabaret and took possession of the ground floor, dancing until about 3. It was a glorious period to a splendid convention.

And that, Gentlemen, brings me to the end of my report on the District convention. I would just like to add a word about my personal experiences after its close. As a member of the International Committee on Publicity I attended a conference in Chicago on Friday and Saturday and I wish to tell you that I never before had the same sense of the possibilities that exist in our connection with so large a body as the 100,000 men who make up our organization. International Headquarters is a busy place; it has a great many employees doing our business; it has many ramifications, but it is not of these I would speak, but of the spirit. In the conference I met men from California, Indiana, New York, Ohio and Georgia. International President H. Heinz spent all day Saturday in our conference.

Kiwanis Cannot Die.

I learned many things that will be of interest to your Board of Directors and a great deal of personal worth but outstanding among the lessons of what will remain a memorable trip is that of the tremendous power for the highest things of this Kiwanis International of which the Peterborough Club is an important and integral part. Kiwanis International will not die. It is an institution that will be perpetual through time as a great work for the uplift and betterment of humanity. Rome fell in an orgy of material avarice, and medieval countries died because they lacked a knowledge of their social responsibilities. Present-day Europe is paying the penalty for centuries of misunderstandings. But here, in United States and Canada, the fairest and most favored lands that the sun has ever shone upon, there is growing up an International spirit through Kiwanis International that will weld them in a genuine common spirit of good will through its teachings of amity, founded upon a bed rock of fair dealing in business relationships. Its members are bound together by the strong mortar of co-operative and common service for the underprivileged and unfortunate. Our work must grow and our ideals will broaden, until a glorified Kiwanis exerts a commanding leadership that will perpetuate in progress, happiness, and harmony, these two great nations.

Gentlemen, Kiwanis is bigger than this Club, bigger than the District, but Kiwanis is built upon the individual, and upon every one of you devolves the duty and the privilege of work in a great cause worthily sponsored.

The writer of the Book of Proverbs says: "Where there is no vision, the people perish." If there is one outstanding message from the District Convention and from International Headquarters, it is a call to catch the vision and demonstrate in our individual and corporate life the works that lay this wider and deeper foundation, to the end that Kiwanis may ever be a conscious driving force toward newer and higher objectives."

GREAT WELCOME FOR RUTH ELDER

Crowd Turns Out On Arrival of Aviatrix in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Ruth Elder, the aviatrix who attempted to follow in Lindbergh's trail, appeared stunned by the magnitude and warmth of the reception she received when she finally reached Paris today. She arrived in an airplane, but it was from Bayonne, not New York. Nevertheless, a huge crowd gave her an enthusiastic reception, although they apparently overlooked Captain Haldeman, her co-pilot, who remained tinkering with the passenger plane he had piloted himself while Ruth was surrounded by admirers.

COUNCIL CRITICIZES MAGISTRATE COOK

Midland Official Accused of Lack of Courtesy By Aldermen.

MIDLAND, October 28. — At a special meeting of the town council on Wednesday night Police Magistrate Cook was severely criticised for his lack of courtesy and autocratic manner in discussing a case in which the town was interested in his office recently. It was decided to present the facts to the Attorney-General, and the following resolution was passed unanimously:

That the complaint of Council Albert Bowie having been heard by the Council that this Council recommend that a report of the same be placed in the hands of the Attorney General of the Province of Ontario and that the Mayor and Clerk be instructed to write to the Attorney-General full facts as to the same.

PRESENTATION MADE

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Boatman Leaving Caughnawaga District.

At Caughnawaga a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Boatman on the eve of their departure to live in Peterborough. The address follows:

Mr. and Mrs. George Boatman:

Dear Friends.—We, your friends and neighbors, gather here tonight to bid farewell to you before you leave our community to take up your residence in Peterborough. We always found you ready to lend a helping hand whenever necessary and we could not let this time pass without showing our appreciation, and we ask you to accept these chairs as a memento for the future. We wish you every success, and as you will not be far distant, there will always be a welcome for you whenever you come back to Caughnawaga.

Mr. Boatman replied with a few well-chosen words, in his jocular manner; then all joined in singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Luncheon was provided and the remaining part of the evening spent in cards and dancing.

CHIEF THOMPSON ON TRIAL TO-DAY

Windsor Court Room Jammed For Hearing Before Police Commission.

WINDSOR, October 28 (Canadian Press).—The hearing of eight charges against Daniel Thompson, suspended Police Chief of Windsor, commenced to-day before Judge Coughlin and Mayor Jackson, with the court-room jammed to the doors. The charges made by Alderman Curry included allegations that the Chief permitted the operation of gambling houses and that he accepted bribes.

PACKERS END TWO YEAR FIGHT

War For Control of British Meat Market Ends in Agreement.

HAS COST MILLIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Nearly a hundred and fifty million dollars was asserted today to be the cost to the meat packers in their two-year fight for control of the British import trade in chilled meat, which it was unofficially stated had ended in agreement after a prolonged discussion. American, Argentine, and British companies were the combatants and The Financial Times says today the conference which ended in 1925 and precipitated the fight will be re-established so that all the companies will be working on a profitable basis by December, agreeing on quotas of supplies.

Firm Of H. Le Brun & Co. Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Well Known Firm Established Half Century Ago—Marking Event With Big Sale.

H. LeBrun & Co. are just now celebrating the 50th anniversary of the establishment of this well-known business which during the past half-century built for itself an enviable reputation for quality, service and values in men's and boys' clothing and furnishings.

The firm from its inception prided itself on the quality of its goods and the reasonabel prices at which it dealt with the public, and as a consequence hundreds of friends made in the early days of its career have found it to their advantage to practically confine their trade throughout the years to this business concern. Not only have the old friends and customers continued to be patrons but the new comers to the city and the growing up boys have found the store of H. Lerun & Co. in recent years a fine place to buy.

This firm in commemoration of the 50th year in business are holding a most important sale, and their desire is to give to the public of this city and the surrounding district the very best values to be had, confirming the good opinions of so many that no matter what the occasion, whether it is during a sale period or the regular course of business values quality and service are at all times behind H LeBrun & Co. advertising and statements.

FOUR TEAMS TIED.

Sensational Spills and Fights Occur at Six Day Bicycle Race.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Fist fights, sensational spills, and jamming during which thirty-five laps were gained furnished the spectators plenty of thrills at the international six-day bike race. Four teams were tied for first place, McNamara and Walker, the champions, Stockholm and Spencer, American; Georgetti and Walthour, Italo-American, and Petri and Hill, German-American team.

TRYING TO TRACE BONDS TO TORONTO

U. S. Counsel Thinks Deal Was Made Through Toronto Firm.

WASHINGTON, October 28 (Canadian Press). — Government counsel at the conspiracy trial of Albert Fall and Harry Sinclair to-day attempted to trace the quarter of a million in Liberty bonds figuring in the case to the Continental Trading Company of Toronto, through which the company Sinclair is alleged to have been identified. The Government contention is the bonds passed to Fall after the latter had approved the lease of the huge Teapot Dome Reserve to the oil magnate.

Robert Rae, of the Dominion Bank, testified H. S. Osler, of Toronto, had opened an account on behalf of the Trading Company and had asked the bank to purchase bonds for him.

Government to-day was stopped by Justice Siddons from forcing M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, to disclose the source of the bonds.

Everhart had declined to answer the question regarding the source of the bonds on the grounds that such testimony would tend to incriminate him, and that he had a constitutional right to refuse. The Government had hoped to secure from him a statement which would have linked up Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil magnate, with the bonds deposited to Secretary Fall's credit after the lease of the Teapot Dome.

ENGINEERS VISIT WELLAND CANAL

Four Members of Peterborough Branch Are Away On Tour.

Four delegates from the Peterboro branch of the Engineers' Institute of Canada, Messrs. A. E. Caddy, A. L. Killaly, A. B. Gates and W. E. Ross, left early this morning on a trip to the Welland Ship Canal. They will be the guests of the Hamilton branch of Engineers, and will return tomorrow.

Freak Baseball Play Puts End To Contest

A novel situation developed recently in a baseball game in the Slocan mining district of British Columbia. The married and single men of one of the mines were billed to play a five inning game.

In the last inning, with two on, two down and the side at bat one run down, the "Babe" Ruth of the district strode to the plate.

And here is where the fun started, bearing in mind that the man who operated the mine was the umpire. "Babe" took one lusty swing and connected for a clean hit to the outfield, which had a 40-degree slant. The ball lit fair, then rolled 300 feet to a mine shaft and a thousand feet under-ground to the portal at third base.

Anticipating that the ball would reappear, the catcher ran over to the portal near third, recovered the ball and touched "Ruth" out, the game ending in a tie. The mine operated was threatened with all sorts of dire consequences, his entire organization being almost disrupted, but he stood his ground and has finally succeeded in getting his men back to work.

CHATSWORTH FIRE DAMAGE IS $12,000

Two Stores, a House and a Carriage Shop Are Destroyed.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 28. —(Canadian Press.) — Two stores, a residence, and a wagon repair shop were destroyed by fire to-day in Chatsworth, near here, with a loss of about twelve thousand dollars. The Owen Sound fire department was called to prevent the blaze spreading.

I.O.D.E. CHAPTER MEETS.

57th Regimental Chapter Arranges To Hold Tea Next Week.

The regular monthly meeting of the 57th Regimental Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in the Armouries yesterday afternoon, the Regent, Mrs. R. Cottrell, presiding.

A period of two minutes of silence was observed in honour of the memory of the late Provincial President, Mrs. H. F. Burkholder, of Hamilton, and a communication from the Provincial Chapter was read, asking each member to wear a piece of purple ribbon beneath her badge during the coming month, in memory of the deceased president.

Arrangements were made to hold a tea next week in the Armouries.

CARDINAL BURIED.

Many High Prelates Attend—Armagh Crowded With Mourners.

ARMAGH, Ireland, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—This city to-day was a city of gloom and despite a heavy rain the streets were crowded with sorrowing people for the funeral of Cardinal O'Donnell, Primate of Ireland, who died on Saturday. Many high Prelates of the Church were present.

Y'S MEN HEAR SUCCESS TALK

James Dutton Gives Helpful Address On Some Elements Needed.

MENTIONS FIVE POINTS.

Some elements of success were pointed out by James Dutton to the members of the Y's Men's Club at their weekly supper meeting last night in the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Dutton's talk, delivered in a straight-forward, intimate manner, was of great interest to the members, who expressed themselves as being greatly benefited.

Mr. Dutton's first point was a good start. This did not, he said, necessarily mean starting with plenty of money and a good education. Sometimes adversity breeds in a man self reliance and self respect that are of better service to him than the more apparent advantages which some other fellow has.

Labor was the second element taken up. Even though labor saving devices have eliminated the necessity of a man working twelve or sixteen hours a day, it is necessary to work hard to succeed.

The next point was integrity. A reputation for trustworthiness in all things is essential. Mr. Dutton remarked on the fact that some men are described as "very honest." Honesty and such virtues should not need qualifying, he said. Either a man is honest or he is dishonest.

Courage was Mr. Dutton's fourth point. A man needs physical courage in some callings and moral courage in others. He needs courage to stand firm in his principles rather than allowing the desire for gain to control him.

The last of the elements cited by Mr. Dutton was religion. He urged upon the members the necessity of having a real contact with God in their lives in order that they might achieve true success.

The thanks of the club was tendered Mr. Dutton by Elmer Brown, President Roy White occupied the chair.

WOMAN'S DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Toronto Police Hold Two Men For Vagrancy During Inquiry.

TORONTO, October28. Canadian Press. — The police are investigating the death to-day of Audrey Stewart, found dead by William Feagen, with whom she had been living for a week. Feagen and John Billibeck, the occupant of the house where she was found were arrested on a nominal charge of vagrancy pending the result of the postmortem and the coroner's inquest.

DOGS OWNED HERE WIN IN NEW YORK

Herbert Routley's Firesqual Wins Open takes at Spaniel Show.

Dogs of the Trent Valley Kennels, owned by Herbert Routley of this city, carried off first in the trials and on the bench at the fourth annual field trial meeting of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Association, held last week at Fish Island, N.Y., which was the highest class field trial ever held in America.

The judges were Lewis D. Wigan, Brandon, Suffolk, England, and F. C. Neilson of Shrewsbury, N.J. These trial were held for English Springer Spaniels only and had an entry of over one hundred and twenty-five dogs, with a few absentees.

The winner was Firesqual, a liver, white, and tan dog owned and handled by Herbert S. Routley of this city, who owns the famous Trent Valley Springer Kennels. Firesqual won first place in the Open All Age Stake, first in Amateur Handlers' Stake, and again first in "Members' All Age Stake." Mr. Routley's Limelight took third in Non-Winners' Stake, and a Certificate of Merit in the Open All Age Stake. Other winners from his kennel included Trent Valley Handsome, who took second; Trent Valley Hidden, and Trent Valley Victory. At the Specialty Show, held at these trials, Trent Valley Handsome took two firsts and "Winners' Dogs" and Best of the Winners, defeating seven champions. Limelight took two firsts and "Winners' Bitches."

These winnings are the most outstanding in view of the fact that the same owner's dogs not only won in the trials but as well took the top honors on the bench, which made a clean sweep for Canadian-owned and bred Springers. The wins carry with them over one thousand dollars' worth of sterling silver trophies, besides considerable prize money. Firesqual also wins the British Challenge Cup, valued at $350.00, donated by the English Springer Spaniel Club of England.

At the second annual field trials of the English Springer Spaniel club of America, held at Brewster, N.Y., Firesqual again took first. Other prominent winners were Limelight, Trent Valley Handsome, Trent Valley Hidden, Trent Valley Indian, Trent Valley Inaction and others. Then four latter were all bred and sold by Mr. Routley, Firesqual holds the enviable record of being run eight times at field trials and has always been placed. He won the Lip-hook Game Farm Cup last fall in England when only a puppy, his first time out at trials.

In Brazil, one-third of the year consists of Sundays and holidays. There are 243 working days.

Mechanical Larynx Saves Man's Voice When Speaking Parts of Throat Are Cut Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (United Press).—Deprived of his vocal cords and part of his tongue and wind pipe in a delicate throat operation, a "mechanical larynx" has saved the power of speech for United States Senator T. Colman Dupont, Delaware capitalist.

Two weeks ago Senator Dupont underwent a serious operation here for an ulcer. Every physical agency contributing to the power of speech was either aremoved or deranged by the surgeons, who had no alternative in the operation.

Now the Senator will be able to talk—through the use of a device presented to Science three years ago by Dr. Harvey Fletcher E. Lane of the Western Electric Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company Laboratories.

The old familiar tone of Dupont's voice is lost and his talking will sound strange and artificial, but he will be able to make all understand him and this is considered a great scientific achievement.

New Stock Features Strong Mine Session

TORONTO, October 28 (Canadian Press).—Fairly general strength was shown in heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, the feature being the sharp advance of a new stock, Marlott, to fifty, a gain of nine points. Teck Hughes was 15 points higher at 10.55 at noon while Kirkland Lake and Kirkland Hunting both gained moderately. Bidgood went up three at 91, and Amulet was sold up four at 534.

Wheat Averages Lower While Corn Advances

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.— (Canadian Press.) — Wheat averaged lower in price to-day during the early dealings, whereas corn advanced. Selling centred in northwest, together with weakness at Liverpool, had a bearish effect on wheat, but corn was strengthened by prospective unsettled weather. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cents off, wheat held near the initial figures. Corn started at ½c. decline to 1-8 advance and later scored general gains. Oats were firmer. Provisions likewise slanted upward.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 124 5-8, March 128¼. Corn, December 81½, March 85½. Oats, December 47 1-8, March 48¾.

Selling Wave Sweeps Wall Street To-day

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Selling pressure was resumed in a more extensive manner to-day on the stock exchange. Early advances of one to three points, inspired in large part by a big reduction in broker's loans, were transformed into losses of as much, or more, when a selling wave swept the market. Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading, with losses of three and four points respectively, were outstanding weak spots in the railroad section. Some of the week's lowest prices were reached by some issues, notably United States' Steel, General Electric and General Railway Signal. Warren Brothers was an outstanding exception, moving up 11½ points to a new maximum.

Toronto Market Weak; Canners Falls Sharply

TORONTO, October 28. Canadian Press. — The Canadian Canners issues featured the depressed regular list on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, when they were forced down from their recent advance. The common lost 5½ at 68½ and the preferred 9 at 105¼. Brazilian lost fractionally at 195 and International Nickel suffered a loss of 1 3-8 at 63½. British American, the leader of the oils, lost fractionally at 32¾ and Carling Breweries was easier at 25, strong spots were Walkers and Goodham & Worts G. & W. gaining 2 at 60 and Walkers 1¼ at 61¼ in heavy dealings.

Encouraging Indications In Iron and Steel Trade

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

With prices practically unchanged, except in some minor items, and with production continuing on about the same level, the general picture of the iron and steel industry has not changed much from a week ago. There are, however, several indications of an encouraging tendency. Some firms are showing a substantial increase in business in a wide variety of lines, although the market still lacks the zest heavy demand would bring to it.

In this connection, it is reported the Ford plants in the United States will start production on the new model almost immediately, which indicates a schedule advanced by several weeks from that thought to be operative. Canadian plant is expected to start not long after the American. The Ford News says $15,000,000 has been spent to date in changing the various plants over for production of the model.

One of the most important developments is the commencement of work on an extensive program for reconstruction of the Canadian Railway shops at Point St. Charles, Montreal. Construction has been commenced on a building for locomotive and tender repairs. Dominion Bridge Co. has the structural steel contract. The building is being designed to carry 10 electric overhead traveling cranes.

A number of new machine tools will be required, and it is understood tentative inquiries are now out.

Call for material now on contract in the metal markets is good, an indication that consumption is large, but new buyings is in limited tonnages. Contracts are slow to be placed. Users may be holding this business in the hope that prices will take a tumble. Price readjustments occupy the centre of attention in the United States just now. Lacking new buying impetus, the pig iron market shows further declines. Large sheet producers, too, have met competition from mills offering concessions and prices are down $2 on practically all grades.

These changes are not yet reflected in the Canadian market. The only movement of any size in the Dominion is in scrap metals at Montreal, where a reduction averaging $1 a ton is reported.

Activity recently noted in the iron and steel trades in Great Britain has continued and export business has at last shown some promise of expansion. It is anticipated that as soon as consumers are clear of their present commitments, the full effect of the subsidy offered to consistent buyers will be seen.

P.A.T.A. MUST TAKE NEXT STEP

Report Victory For Consuming Public, Says Chain Store Owners.

WILL REDUCE PRICES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28. Canadian Press. —Official action by the government against the Proprietary Articles Trade Association, the druggists' price maintaining organization is contingent upon the action of the P.A.T.A., now that it has been declared a combine by the Government's commissioner. If the P.A.T.A. disbands the matter will end, but if it continues the government will advise the provinces officially of the decision, leaving it up to the provincial attorney generals.

The director of a large chain of drug stores at Toronto declared the decision was a great victory for the consuming public, predicting cuts of as large as 25 per cent. on a great many articles which are necessities of life.

JUNIOR HUMANE MEETING HELD

Members Decide To Hold Two Meetings in Each Month.

The regular meeting of the Junior Humane Society was held yesterday afternoon in St. John's Parish Hall, at 4:30. The President, Warren Turner, presided.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Ring the Bells of Mercy," after which the pledge: "I will try to be kind to all living creatures and will try to protect them from cruel usage," was repeated. The President read a letter of resignation from the Secretary, James Turner, after which Lily Bull was appointed successor. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. It was decided that meetings would be held on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Increase of attendance was discussed and it was decided that a prize would be given to the girl and boy responsible for the most members brought to meetings up to December 22nd.

A true story, taken from the National Humane Review, entitled "A Troublesome Family" was read by Mrs. J. S. Chandler. One of the young members was appointed to give a speech on "What we owe to the birds," at the next meeting, November 10th. The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

BUDDY CANADIAN APPLES FOR OVERSEAS.

"What shall I send the folks in the Old Country?" is a query heard as the Christmas season approaches, but if the average Canadian realized how much our big, juicy, red apples are appreciated and enjoyed by people overseas the problem would be immediately solved.

Canada's luscious, rosy apples are relished by young and old alike. They symbolize our brilliant sunshine and warm summer days, and they do look Christmasy and cheerful Northern Spies, McIntosh Reds, and Baldwins are the best and the most popular to carry your kind thoughts and good wishes across the sea, and standard boxes and barrels of choice hand-picked and hand-packed fruit, Government inspected, are procurable at reasonable prices from any grocer, while the matter of shipment is as simple as the mailing of a card.

The Canadian National Express will call for your apples, transport and deliver them by quick service to any station in Great Britain, Ireland, and most European countries.

The transportation charge from Montreal and Quebec up to November 15th or from Saint John and Halifax, thereafter, by direct steamer to points in Great Britain, Ireland, and the Channel Islands is $3.10 per standard box and $6.20 per standard barrel, including refrigeration.

For rates to Canadian ports, through rates to Continental stations and other particulars, consult any Canadian National Express agent.

MANY POSSIBILITIES

ish war, Kenworthy says: "The key to world peace is friendship between Great Britain and the United States of America. Will this friendship be engandered, and how can it be preserved?

"The first steps in the working up of a state of feeling between England and America commenced soon after the armistice. It was checked by the Washington Naval Convention of 1921, but the feeling between the two great English-speaking democracies began to get worse again after the partial failure of the Geneva Disarmament Conference of 1927.

"The European nations resent the supposed superiority complex of the United States, hate her for demanding repayment of the debts, and are jealous of her wealth and material prosperity.

"Is what I say doubted? Ask any American tourist or business man who knows Europe.

"If events move in the next ten years as they have in the last nine years, England will stand at the head of a European federation a federation of mutual mistrust and disappointment with America. The British official attitude toward America is not only correct, it is almost sycophantic. To please America, England renounced her treaty with Japan, a treaty which had stood her in good stead and had proved of great value.

"England pays her 33,000,000 pounds a year in cash to America as interest and amortization on the debt, but privately, and sometimes publicly, resents the payment, in spite of the goodwill effects on her credit."

BROWN READY FOR BERLINGER

TORONTO COLISEUM

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—Newsboy Brown, the flyweight who is shunned by most of the 112 pounders and who for all his lack of avoirdupois has beaten many of the best bantams, was an arrival yesterday. The Los Angeles lad who boxed Frenchy Belanger tonight at the Coliseum claims to be as fit as he could possibly be and looks the part.

Naturally he doesn't anticipate an unfavorable verdict in his ten rounder with the Canadian challenger but he does expect a torrid tilt. Belanger's reputation as a stiff puncher is not unknown to the claimant to the championship once held by Jimmy Wilde and he passed the opinion that any youngster good enough to stop Joe McKeon of Detroit, must have a wallop worth while. The latter is as rugged as they make 'em and his decisive defeat by the Toronto tadpole was his first in many years of boxing.

Brown was surprised to hear that Belanger when he was a mere novice held Willie Davies of Pittsburgh to a draw and that he had won eleven of his last twelve bouts in summary fashion.

Leo P. Flynn will be held to second him tonight Brown said. He is a busy man and handles personally but few of his many boxers and Brown is one of them. Flynn made the long trip to the coast purely for the purpose of giving Brown the benefit of his advice when he fought his draw with La Barba and then champion. The man who almost put Dempsey over in his return fight with Tunney at Chicago is the best second in the game according to Brown who said that he figures that he also has an ace in the hole when he is behind him.

Brown plans to take a couple of light workouts before the battle.

Nothing but good reports regarding the condition of Dave Garrity's boy come from the Belanger camp and the feeling of optimism that prevails generally is surprising considering the calibre of his opponent.

Alex. Burlie who takes on Tiger Jack Powers of Youngstown in a preliminary bout has apparently shaken off the effects of his recent illness and his comeback attempt should be greeted with success. Another six-rounder which promises much in the way of thrills is the Tommy Mitchell-Joe Scinta affair. The Buffalo lightweight is a knockerout and when the pair met at the Bison city Tommy was on the floor a couple of times. Only his superior footwork and boxing ability enabled him to go the limit.

In Scotland, races up hills are frequently organized and on several occasions there have been races up Ben Nevis, which is the highest mountain in the kingdom.

Billy Alger, who of late has been doing considerable fighting before the Chicago boxing clubs, is an Arizona product and when on his native heath quite a cowboy.

VARSITY WILL MEET TRICOLOR

Blue and White at Full Strength for Saturday's Battle.

RUGBY SCHEDULE

TORONTO, Ont., October 28. — The senior football card for Saturday is:

Intercollegiate Union.

Interprovincial Union.

Argonauts vs. Hamilton Tigers, at Hamilton.

Montreal vs. Ottawa, at Ottawa.

O. R. F. U.

Exhibition.

Balmy Beach vs. McGill, at Montreal.

The pick of the above card for Saturday is the Varsity-Queen's struggle at the Varsity Stadium; it should be the hardest fought contest of the afternoon, and from all indications it will be witnessed by the largest crowd of the season. Queen's always attracts a great crowd here, and this year the interest in the game is at a fever heat. Varsity supporters are beginning to wake up, and they are clamoring for tickets, the general public always liked to see Harry Batstone and his squad in action, and the fans are grabbing every ducat they can lay their hands on. Then in addition Queen's are right behind the Tricolor and they are sending the largest contingent to this town that has been mustered since the pennant winning days of 1924 and '25. Three thousand hectic supporters will be here, and if the Queen's win they will in all probability tear Yonge Street to pieces.

Varsity at Their Best.

Yesterday afternoon Varsity looked their best, with Les. Blackwell in charge of the line and secondary defence, and Ronnie McPherson in charge of the backfielders, they went through a gruelling practice, then when they thought everything was over for the day he turned them loose on the Orphans. It was thought at first that there would be no scrimmage, but the powers to be willed otherwise, and the Intercollegiates tore into the O.R.F.U. squad.

Blackwell's tuition become apparent at once and the First opened up big holes in the Orphans' line and worked their way up the field. Only good work on the part of McIntyre and Baille on the half line and sensational tackling by Alex. Carrick on the secondary defense kept the thing from being a parade. Harrison, the big lad from Appleby, was the hero, he plunged and bucked his way through for good gains time after time and once broke away for 35 yards. Francis Trimble also scrambled through a mob of Orphans for 70 yards and a try at one time.

The Blue opened up the play, they made good use of end runs and extensions, and it now appears likely that they will use that type of game against Queen's. Everything worked smoothly last night, Snyder had every thing moving at a fast clip and the players travelled fast and made practically no errors. Only once did a play go 'blooey' and the Orphans certainly made good use of it. Someone up on the line intercepted a pass of Trimble's on an extension and gave the O.R.F.U. squad possession on the forty-yard line. They worked their way into the middle of the field and McIntyre drove a goal from placement over the bar. It was a pretty effort with Beal holding the ball.

A Few Bruises.

Contrary to what most people think the Blue and White did not come out of Kingston without a few souvenirs. Allan Stollery limped around last night after coming out late and he has a pretty sore ankle. The rest of the cripples are all right and McPherson has no cause for worry. They are going out there determined to lower the colors of the Kingston University and they have a great chance of doing it.

Queen's are just as confident as the Blue and White led by the peerless Harry Batstone they are coming here with the intention of celebrating their second straight victory. They are going to open the game up and they are trusting on the speed and trickery of their backfield to evade the Queen's Park tacklers. It is the intention of both teams to make the game an open one and if they do it should resemble the McGill-U. of T. fixture that was palyed at the stadium last year. It was the most open and most interesting game played in the college union in the past three or four years.

The three Queen's players that are on the injured list may all start on Saturday but right now "Chick" Mundell has the call over "Ike" Sutton to follow the signals. Sutton was pretty badly bounced around in both the McGill and Varsity games and he is still feeling the effects. "Hank" Brown, the giant wing man has not been at the workouts but he will start. Frederick Warren's shoulder has responded to treatment and he will be alongside of Batstone when they take the field.

All players associated with the Quaker Oats and Thistle clubs are requested to be at the pavilion no later than 2.15 prompt, on Saturday.

On Saturday evening, at 6.15, the Moose F. C. players will meet at Roy's Photography, so as to get a group picture of the league champions.

WESTERN TEAMS STRONG LINE-UPS

Twin Cities and Kenora Have Plenty of Coming Stars.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 28.—There is not much danger of there being any dearth of senior hockey material here or in Port Arthur this coming season, despite the recent land office business carried on by professional scouts. True, some of the Lakehead's stars have gone, but there are others rapidly coming up to take their places, and the prospects are that the coming season will see one or other of the now famous amateur clubs somewhere near the top of the heap.

Port Arthur deeply regrets the loss of Art Shapman and Alex Gray, players who helped them carry off the Allan cup, but still they are optimistic over their 1927-28 outlook. They have two players that the call of the dollar has failed to lure, around who they expect to build up another formidable contender for championship honors. They are: "Phat" Wilson, defenceman, and Wilf L'Heureux, forward. Both players are getting on in years, but there are few they have to "doff their hats" to yet.

They have no shortage of players for goal, Andrew Spooner, Bert Strachan, Lloyd Hainstock and Archie Bell all being available. Spooner and Strachan were junior goalies last year. Toronto fans will no doubt remember the former, who defended the nets for the Port Arthur West Ends against the Owen Sound Greyhounds in the junior championship play-offs last spring. Hainstock is a new arrival, having played in the California League last year, while Archie Bell was the Ports' regular custodian during the 1926-27 season. Hainstock is reported to have played with the old Monarchs.

Several forwards, including a number of the champion West Ends will line up with the tri-colored brigade. Numbered among these are: Whalen, LaRoche, Hodgkins, Manahan, MacKay, Traer, Friday, Kytoma and Barton. LaRoche and Hodgkins are easterners who have taken up residence in the Hill City in the past year, the former hails from Quebec and the latter from Preston, Ont. They can be used either as forwards or defensemen, for the rest they are home fed boys.

Fort William Prospects.

The situation in Fort William is much the same as in the sister city, though perhaps a hope more promising. All but perhaps three of last year's memorable team will be out with the old brigade. Jimmy Ward who was considered the most outstanding player in the Fort William-Toronto Grads series at the coast last spring, is now with Montreal. Bob Davis, crack defenseman, is considering an offer from the Winnipeg Maroons, while Harry Tuckwell, Davis' running mate figures on going into retirement. All the others and a few more besides will be here. Fred Kearney, whose fame precedes him after his great display at the coast, will again be on hand for goal. Harry Fraser and Cliff McBride, formerly of Iroquis Falls, are defensive prospects, while there is still a chance of Davis staying. For forwards there is the veteran, Frank Macquoil, Tommy Cook, Donald McLeod, Gus Forslund, Johnny Salonen and others, not to forget Eric Pettinger, who has stated it to be his intentions to pass up a contract with the New York Rangers, which he has signed.

Fort William and Port Arthur will very likely play in a league with Kenora again this winter. Kenora has all of their last year men but Brennan, who has joined the Winnipeg Maroons. East as well as west may well mark the little town of Kenora, as one of the fastest amateur puck-chasing teams in Canada is to be found there. They will take a lot of beating this winter, should they profit by some of the system they learned in their battles with Lakehead clubs last winter.

Heavy Practice.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—With the last attempt at heavy scrimmage drill taking place yesterday afternoon, Coach Frank Shaughnessy will send his team through a light dummy practice today as a final preparation for their game with Balmy Beach at the stadium to-morrow. Coach Shaughnessy announced on Monday that the week's activities would be confined to dummy drills, but yesterday the McGill mentor surprised his charges by sending them through a heavy scrimmage in which every member of the team except those on the injured list took a prominent part. Captain Jack Little, Curly Taylor, Al Blair and Charlie Littlefield are suffering from minor injuries, and the McGill leader declared that none of the four would start the game, and the only player likely to get into it at all was the McGill captain.

Jack Brown, freshman quarter-back from St. Andrew's, will start at the key position with Babin held in relief. At outside wing, Granger and Petch will take the places of the two Regina stars with Lovering going into Captain Little's position of catching half. With the exception of Carson, who will fill Littlefield's shoes at inside wing, the remainder of the team will all be at their regular positions.

Tricolor Strong.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Queen's seniors leave at noon to-day for Toronto, where to-morrow they will meet Varsity in what should be one of the real crucial games of the season. The tri-color will be at full strength, except for Sutton, their regular quarter-back, who was in such bad shape yesterday afternoon that it seemed highly improbable he would not be able to play on Saturday.

Sutton's injury of Saturday proved more serious than at first expected, and yesterday, while he was in uniform, he could scarcely walk.

In his absence, Mundell will handle the team in the pivot position, with Mungovan, formerly of Toronto Argoes, likely getting a chance to sub in that position.

Hank Brown, inside wing, who was hurt on Saturday, was back on the scene yesterday and showed no effects of his lay off or injury, while Fred Warren, who was hurt on Tuesday, was also going great guns, and maintained that he was good for sixty minutes, despite his sore shoulder.

In the practice yesterday Batstone did most of the catching and kicking, and was dodging tacklers all through the work-out, while "Bubs" Britton showed more life than ever. After the practice, Coach Carson expressed himself as pleased with the team, and sure they would give Varsity the hardest battle of the year.

Coach Carson stated that the team would be at full strength when they leave the city to-day at noon, with the line-up for the game being: Flying wing, Britton; halves, Batstone, Warren, Abbot; quarter, Mundell; snap, Nagel; inside, Brown, Handford; middles, Howard (captain), Kilgour; outsides, Walker, Agnew; subs., Mungovan, Durham, McKelvey, Baird, Young, Carter, Sutton, Stevenson.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 28. — A challenge has been issued to Mr. Traynor, the handcuff artist, by the local police. They assert that they can, by the use of their own handcuffs and straight-jackets, keep Traynor secured. Traynor is confident that they cannot make good their boast, and the test is to be made tonight at the Regent. This is the direct result of local gossip, and a slight disagreement as to the genuineness of the feats which Traynor has been demonstrating on the local stage as part of the regular program for the first part of the week. Those who are inclined to be a little dubious will be afforded an excellent opportunity to either prove or disprove their contentions.

DUNDEE-HUDKINS FIGHT POSTPONED

Steady Rains Causes Postponement of Fight Scheduled for Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Steady rains and lowering clouds yesterday caused a postponement of the outdoor fight scheduled for to-morrow night between Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and Ace Hudkins, of Nebraska. The fight will be held next week, the day depending on the weather.

An increasingly dark sky and a continuous drizzle which neared the half inch gauge prompted Promoter Dick Donald's decision. The postponement came almost simultaneously with word from the rival camps of the fighters that the training period was over and that both contenders would be within the 147-pound limit.

SETTLE SOCCER GAME TO-MORROW

Jags-Quakers Meet Third Time at King Edward Park—Kick-off at 2.30.

After battling for two successive Saturdays the two local soccer teams, the Thistle and Quakers, will again face one another to-morrow afternoon in the final of the Rev. Phelan Charity Cup at King Edward Park.

In the first encounter, they enlivened the proceedings by scoring four goals between them, two goals each, and every one of them were earned. When they met last Saturday, it was a perfect defence on both sides that prevented the attacking forces from making any successful tally throughout the ninety minutes and the extra time was stopped through darkness.

In order that the contestants may be able to finish before darkness sets in, the start has been fixed for 2.30 prompt, so that they may be able to play extra time, if necessary, of ten minutes duration,—twenty minutes in all.

The executive have been fortunate in securing the services of Alex McKinley, who acted in the capacity of referee last week, for this game to-morrow.

No doubt the Quaker Oats will rely upon the same eleven again, while the Thistle intend to strengthen the forward line by the inclusion of Dawson, if he can get away from business. Turner will be unable to play through injuries received two weeks ago.

Soccer fans have been generous in these charity games and again request their assistance when the collectors call upon them.

Romance Is Hinted For Norse Explorer

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The New York World today advanced romance as a possible explanation of Capt. Roald Amundsen's sudden and unexplained departure for Norway with the resultant cancellation of his lecture tour and postponement of a banquet in his honor. Friends of the explorer would not be surprised at the announcement of the explorer's marriage, it was said.

The first victory of a Western football team over one of the East's "Big Three" was Chicago's memorable win over Princeton in 1921.

After performing for nineteen years under the big top, the veteran Zach Wheat seems destined to make his exit from major league baseball.

FAST TEAM HERE FOR RUGBY GAME

Penetang Juniors Have Not Lost Match This Fall—Petes Are Strong.

Penetanguishene O.R.F.U. junior team to date has defeated every team it has met in the Georgian Bay district. Their first game was with Orillia and was won easily by the score 31 to 0. Collingwood was defeated 16 to 7, and in Barrie last Saturday, after an exciting struggle, Penetang was victorious 5 to 1.

This team that will meet the Petes to-morrow at Riverside park has a splendid record. In the three games they have played they have scored 52 points, while they have had 8 scored against them.

Last year they won their group also, but when they came to Peterborough they found the locals too strong for them, and if the dope is not upset they will find a much stronger team this year. Coach Max Sloan has groomed into shape one of the best junior rugby teams in the history of Peterborough and a real game tomorrow is promised the fans. The local boys travel to Penetang on Thanksgiving day.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

THE DUMBELLS.

Captain Plunkett and his record-breaking Dumbells company will offer their supreme success, "Oo, La, La!" for the first time in this city, at the Grand Theatre this evening.

Although the various revues that have been presented by this splendid organization have always maintained a high standard of excellence, some are naturally better than others, but it has taken just nine years for Captain Plunkett to produce his masterpiece.

"Oo, La, La!" is, by all reports, the outstanding achievement of this master of stage-craft, who is in a better position to know the elements of a successful show, than any other purveyor to the theatrical tastes of Canada.

The organization has been materially strengthened this season by the addition of several actors and singers of pronounced ability, so that now the cast includes not only the established favorites like Al. Plunkett, Roes Hamilton, "Red" Newman, Pat. Rafferty, "Jock" Holland, Glenn Allan and Morley Plunkett, but such new stars as Jack McClellan, Harry Binns, Fred Emney, Cameron Geddes, Charlie Jeeves and others, not forgetting the personal appearance of Captain Plunkett, himself. With the captain in the cast the Plunkett brothers trio is again a feature of the show.

"Oo, La, La!" has been a sensation right from the very start when they broke all records for two weeks at the Royal Alexandra Theatre in Toronto.

Buffalo, where they played shortly after, was equally as enthusiastic. The Buffalo Courier went on record with the statement that The Dumbells' show contained "more absolute and universal talent in it than any other offering that has been seen here—a giant revue, with a series of sketches, sub-sketches, vaudeville, dramatic playlets—all of them new, out of the ordinary, sometimes sensational and always surprising. Time and again the individual stars halt the performance for a series of encores and each act merits enthusiastic applause." That is a splendid tribute to a Canadian soldier show.

AT THE CAPITOL.

TOM MIX IN "TUMBLING RIVER."

The shadow of Tom Mix, with his large-leafed sombrero and his wonder horse, Tony, evidently never grows less. As long as this actor can appear in western films of the type of "Tumbling River" he is sure of success. Even the stereotyped stories that form the basis of these pictures take on thrilling significance when Tom and his superb horse are the central figures. They are always interesting and the audiences seem to enjoy them, no matter how often they make their bow on the flickering screen.

In "Tumbling River," Tom Mix, as Tom Greer, with his little partner, the childish Kit Mason, operate a lonely ranch in the western hills, where Tony and Buster, another horse, pal of the wonder animal, form their sole companions. A gang of horse rustlers steal Buster and Tom gives chase, meeting on the way the romantic Barbara Barton, daughter of a neighboring rancher. Dorothy Dwan has this role, and Estelle Essex is her younger sister, Eileen, also sentimentally inclined towards handsome horsemen.

Barton's foreman on the ranch, Kreetch, turns out to be the head of the gang of rustlers and works with the thieves to steal both of Tom's horses. A hidden corral, a perilous journey over mountains trails and a thrilling gun fight with the rustlers, when they make away with the whole herd and try to get across the ferry, form dramatic episodes in the tale's unfolding. A concluding bit is the rescue of the girl from a sinking boat above the rapids, in which Tom and Tony have stellar roles.

The programme includes a unique little picture called "A Short Tail," occupied with the sory of two dogs, one owned by a rich girl, the other by a newsboy. The whole picture unfolds itself by the aid of feet alone, as far as the humans are concerned. One sees nothing but their feet and the little story is cleverly told in this way.

The opening episode in a second series of "The Collegians," so popular last season, is shown with this programme, featuring Ed Benson and Don Trent and the flirtatious June Maxwell.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By Ahern

Log of the French Steamship Mosella Tells Vivid Story of Sinking of Ship

BAHIA, Brazil, October 28 (Canadian Press). — The log of the French steamship Moselle, one of the ships that went to the rescue of the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda, tells of picking up the sinking liner's S.O.S. signals and the rescue of the passengers and crew.

"October 25 at 5.40 p.m. we intercepted S.O.S. signals from the Principessa Mafalda saying she is in serious danger in longitude 16.58, latitude 37.51, about thirty-six miles from our position.

"We immediately went to that point by forced draft. The Mafalda's radio started to get fainter, and we got into communication with the Formosa, which also steamed toward Mafalda's position, with the Dutch steamer Alhena and the British Empire Star, all of which stood by and began to transfer the passengers from the Mafalda.

"We reached the spot at about 8.30 in the evening, when the Mafalda began to sink amid the horrifying cries of the shipwrecked. Immediately all our starboard boats, previously made ready, were lowered. They were manned by emergency crews, composed of volunteerr, who gave proof of great valor and self-sacrifice.

"They rowed swiftly toward the scene of the catastrophe, with only the saving of lives in mind. Meanwhile I carefully manoeuvred my ship toward the spot where cries for help were coming, and in a manner to keep her near where the Mafalda sank. My object was to rescue those who might be floating in the water, as well as survivors in the lifeboats.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 4

In a previous article, the writer defines "average expectancy of support" as the average number of tricks which may be expected to be held by a partner who has not bid. For example, if the dealer holds the following hand:

Hearts — A, K, 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 10, 4
Diamonds — J, 8, 3
Spades — 9, 8, 5

he can justifiably bid one heart. Why? Because his hand, if hearts are trumps, should average to win four heart tricks. As there are thirteen tricks in all, that leaves nine tricks to be won by the other three players, one of whom is the dealer's partner. If these nine tricks are equally divided, each player should win three tricks, the so-called "average expectancy of support." For every trick in excess of these tricks, a player may help his partner's bid once. In this connection it should be noted that quick tricks, such as aces and protected kings and queens, are worth double their quick trick value in support of partner's suit bid.

Here is a hand illustrating these points that came up the other night in one of the New York Card Clubs:

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — A, K, 7, 6, 3, 2
Clubs — 4
Diamonds — A, 10, 7
Spades — 10, 8, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart, A passed, Y bid one spade and B bid two diamonds. Z bid two spades, A bid two no-trump, Y bid three spades, and B bid four clubs. Does Z's hand justify a bid of four spades? Of course it does. With spades trumps, Z's hand should win at least five tricks and, therefore, contains at least two tricks more than the "average expectancy of support." For that reason, Z can raise his partner's spade bid at least twice. The fact that Z has bid one [illegible] justified in raising his partner's bid twice, irrespective of his original heart bid.

Here is an interesting hand, involving, as it does, the question of rebidding your own suit or of helping partner's:

Problem No. 4

Hearts — A, K, J, 10, 7, 5
Clubs — 9, 8, 6, 3
Diamonds — 7
Spades — A, 4

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one club, A passed, Y bid one heart and B bid two diamonds. Z and A passed, Y bid two hearts and B bid three diamonds. If Z and A passed, should Y bid three hearts or four clubs? Figure out how many raises Y has for his partner's club bid. Then figure out whether it is a better choice to try for game in clubs or in hearts, with the knowledge that Z has no help in hearts. An analysis of this interesting hand will be given in the next article

Problem No. 5

Y — Hearts — K, Q, 10, 8, 2
A B — Clubs — K, Q, J
Z — Diamonds — 8, 6, 3
Spades — 9, 2

Hearts — A, J, 7
Clubs — A, 6, 5
Diamonds — 5, 3
Spades — A, K, Q, 10,

Score, 20 all, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A bid two diamonds, Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid two spades, A and Y passed and B bid three diamonds. Z doubled and all passed. Y led the jack of spades and the first three tricks were: (1) Z won with the queen of spades; (2) Z led the trey of diamonds and A (holding A, K, Q, 10, 7) won with the queen; (3) A led the nine of clubs and Z won the trick with the [illegible] play to defeat the contract? An analysis of this hand and the cards held by A and Y will be given in the next article.

VARICOSE VEINS REDUCED OR MONEY BACK, SAY DRUGGISTS

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to treat can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Bond's Drug Store, C. M. Moncur, Bert McLeod, McDermid Drug Co., Ltd., and McDermid & Jury sells lots of it.

FRENCH TARIFF WAR IS AVERTED

Negotiations For Commercial Agreement Will Begin Under Favorable Auspices.

LIST PRODUCTS.

PARIS, Oct. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—All danger of a Franco-American tariff war is regarded by French officials now as averted, in view of the statement issued Wednesday night by M. Bakanowski, French minister of commerce, in which he announced that the high rates on United States imports recently imposed had been temporarily suspended.

Negotiations for a commercial agreement, it is thought certain will begin under favorable auspices as soon as the French and United States experts complete the list of products on which France will provisionally grant a minimum tariff.

The negotiations will be undertaken as though they had begun last August, before France raised her tariff duties, and United States products will be granted the minimum rates then existing except in cases where they were raised under new schedules. In such cases the United States will be put on the same footing as Germany.

Attaches of the United States embassies began work yesterday afternoon with French experts in preparing a list of articles, so that a decree granting the United States minimum duties on these articles can be issued at an early date. The work is extensive, involving the study of long, intricate specifications, and may take three or four days. At any rate, the decree is expected at the latest early next week, whereupon negotiations can be opened.

Another French note may be sent to Washington in the meantime, but it will be purely a formal document intended to establish clearly the French viewpoint as to the basis of the negotiations.

TWO ENCAMPMENTS TO VISIT PORT HOPE

Oddfellows There Are Holding Field Day on Thanksgiving Day.

The two local Oddfellow Encampments are in receipt of an invitation to visit in Port Hope on Thanksgiving day, and participate in the exemplification of the degree work there.

The Port Hope Encampment members are holding a big "Field Day" on that date and have issued invitations to the several Encampments in this district to visit with them on that occasion.

The officers and members of Mount Hebron, No. 56 ,and Hiawatha, No. 66 Encampments here, have been pleased to accept, and will be largely represented at the meeting.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, Bobby and David. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York, gets a cloakroom job in a night club. It is raided. Mary is adjudged to have criminal influences, and is sentenced to a reform school. She gets a letter from Bobby, who is ill; and runs away to visit him.

She had said she would come if he needed her, and she had. Which was as balm to the chest wherein lay the rasp. After lifting a very thin hand with which to stroke her hair, once, it was all he could manage—he fell asleep again, both his hands in hers.

It was so that they found them, thin, spry Miss Campbell, the superintendent, who blew through the door as though she had been lifted by the wind of a shock and set down in the exact spot to which her duties called her. Miss Campbell was a bit out of breath, and seemed to lose even more at the sight of Mary in the raincoat, sitting stiffly beside the bed. Mary had anticipated this, of course. It was not the shock to her to see Miss Campbell as it seemed to be for Miss Campbell to see Mary. Her face, as she stood there in the doorway, seemed not quite to grasp the enormity of the offense which had just been telephoned her from the Home, up-state.

"It doesn't seem possible," she had said to Maria. Gasped it, rather, in terrible enjoyment of the doubtlessly pleasureable task before her.

"What are you doing here and what have you to say for yourself?"

"—quiet little thing, and you'd never think," continued the voice of Maria in her ear, "—don't see how she expected to get away with it though—because I knew where she would go, and of course—"

And here was Miss Campbell with the culprit before her. That is, there doubtless was a culprit. She took it for granted, did Miss Campbell, that the raincoat had not come of itself, and there was that sleek head besides, which no amount of jolting on dirt roads could disarrange.

Miss Campbell entered. Slowly. Coming to stand before Mary on the further side of the cot. Rehabilitated in her customary frigidity which she slipped over her head each morning and buttoned down the front with her blue denim that stuck out in a circle about her thin cottoned ankles.

She felt that it was Mary who should give an explanation of her presence there. Had she not learned the cause of Mary's presence through Maria, her manner would have lacked its present degree of surety.

But Mary said nothing. Mary sat with Robert's hot hands held in hers and gazed up at Miss Campbell where she stood. Mary, too, had resolved to say nothing. What was the use? This brittle person in starched blue denim doubtlessly was entirely aware of the facts of the case. Let her say what it was she had decided to do with the runaway. It didn't matter. Robert was sleeping easily, and had been for the hour that she had sat at his bedside. It didn't matter what would be done with Mary now. She had accomplished her purpose, and no punishment could remove the balm that had seeped into young Robert's rasped chest with her coming.

"Well?" said Miss Campbell, impatiently. There was a limit to human endurance. She came to stand beside Mary, her skirts rustling as she walked and her heels coming down click upon the scrubbed stone floor.

"Well?" she repeated, with still further impatience. And then, "Well? Well? Well? What are you doing here, and what have you to say for yourself?"

"I am here to see my brother," said Mary quietly, a manner which irritated Miss Campbell even more, "and there is nothing that I can say for myself."

"What do you suppose is going to happen to you when you're returned to the Home, Miss?"

"I don't know." She turned her gaze to Robert, who had awakened. "You need not have awakened him!" she told Miss Campbell passionately.

Robert beckoned to Miss Campbell with a great air of importance when the fogs of sleep had dispersed, and he realized the situation.

He whispered to her. There was some difficulty with Robert's voice. "That's my sister Mary," and nodded to her where she sat. It was ridiculous, and just like Robert. "She's the amateur tennis champion of Garden City," and lay back, a trifle more flushed than before, in pride.

"Yes. And champion of cross country hikers, evidently."

At that Mary grinned. "No," she corrected Miss Campbell, and shook her head slowly, in reflection. "No. A little broken Ford and Abner Baker."

CHAPTER XII

That day Mary was to remain at the Asylum. The following afternoon Maria herself would come for her. Meanwhile Mary was not to remain with Robert. There was that matter of influence. She was discovered to have a great deal of influence with the boy, and that would never do. Not, that is, the influence of a girl who had the brazenness with which to travel all night, escaping from the Home in order to do so. A Home in which kindness and loving care were lavished upon just such as she, who were hardly deserving. Who were, in fact, not at all deserving.

"How," Mary wanted to know, "is Robert?"

Whereat Miss Campbell turned and left, locking the door behind her. Some of them, reflected Miss Campbell on her way to the Board meeting, some of them were hardened beyond all belief. It did not matter whether they owned the faces of old paintings or were the common run of girl with shiftiness lurking in their eyes when they thought you were not aware of them. Hard. The result of drink and cigarettes and the hiccough of jazz.

The business of the Board meeting was being handled with the usual smoothness that comes of efficiency and long practice. The nasal tones of Mrs. Lorna D. Churchill reading the report of the last meeting. Fluff of feathery boa about her neck where the veins stood on guard, and lorgnette held the smart distance before her eyes to read the report. This many babies fed and clothed during the past year, this number received, these graduates sent out to homes that had been found for them. Minute study of the kitchen list had resulted in the discovery of pillaged groceries. The cook had been discharged. Donations to the sum of twenty-three hundred dollars had been secured toward the building of the new creamery. There would be no mention of names, as had been requested—Mrs. Lorna D. Churchill lowering the lorgnette and beaming at the rows of hats and careful interest on the faces beneath them—but it was commonly known, of course, whose was the generous spirit that had contributed more than half of this sum. Spirited applause of gently gloved hands, and glances toward Arthur Graham in the rear of the room. The asylum was one of the numerous "hard actualities" in which Arthur was endeavoring to find the reason for numerous oddities of nature, including that one of existence.

Mrs. Lorna D. Churchill didn't believe—glancing through the pages of the report before her—she didn't believe—slowly—that there was anything else in the minutes. No. There was nothing else. They were now ready for the business of the present meeting. She resigned the chair to their gracious president.

The length of leg as she stepped from the platform, giving her place to their gracious president. The interchange of smiles. The whisper of something to be explained—something in the report—the understanding smile of the gracious president. Mrs. Lorna D. Churchill settled in a seat at the president's right.

The tapping for order. Now. The business of the present meeting was ready, but before that was taken up would Miss Campbell amuse them with the delightful anecdotes of her children, little frivolities and small naughtinesses which had burst from their little happy hearts during the week since the last Board meeting.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

KNOX CHURCH, LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, October 27. — The anniversary services of Knox United Church were held in Lakefield on Sunday, morning and evening, with Rev. J. W. Gordon, St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, in charge. At the morning service Mr. Gordon took as his text "I will sing unto the Lord a new song." The choir rendered special music.

The evening service was attended not only by the regular congregation, but also by members of the Regent Street Church and the Baptist Church, where the services were waived in order that the members might honour the Knox Church anniversary.

The choir rendered an anthem, "Sing Praises Unto the Lord," Mrs. J. R. Hull takin gthe solo parts, just prior to the sermon Mr. Henry Batten sang "The Song I heard in Heaven." Following the sermon Mrs. Hull and Mr. Batten rendered very effectively, "Just Outside the Door." The musical numbers were of excellent quality and showed careful preparation. Miss Etta Garbutt presided at the organ.

Mr. Gordon took his text from the 8th verse of the 55th chapter of the Book of the Prophet Isaiah, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord." This is a study in thinking and acting. During the speaker's vacation he read a number of the modern novels which are sold at two dollars, and he found the detective stories (which were included in his holiday reading) the healthiest of the lot. A good book may be bought for fifty cents; for this figure one may purchase the works of Scott, Dickens, Wordsworth, Thackeray, etc. Scott, who was one of the most voluminous writers, said on his death-bed that he had not written one line which he would have blotted out.

Mr. Gordon deplored the tendency of modern youth for the salacious literature which is so freely dispinyed and is found in the public libraries and Sunday School libraries. It is surprising that so many healthy people should have such unhealthy thoughts. "What do you think about Sunday, about worship, what things matter most, missions, purity, play?" he asked. "What is the effect of your play on you? What do you think about October in God's work" There are a host of Christian people who don't go to church because they can stay away. What do you think God thinks about the way you think? It is of no consequence how you think unless you think as God does.

"We who will be loyal to the past must have the spirit and sacrifice of the past. There was the day when the cross was undreamed of, and our God is not the same God as in those times. God changes with the passing of time. The truth is growing all the time. Where would salvation, Communion, our best hymns come from if God did not suffer on the cross?

In China, where there are no missionaries owing to the unrest and state of war, the native congregations of Christians are left leaderless, and it has been said that if the missionaries are kept away long enough, these Christians will get together on the basis of truth and form an undenominational Christian Chinese Church.

"If a man knows he ought to go to church and doesn't, God have mercy on his soul. If all Christian people would live up to the truth they know, the evangelising of the world would be easy and we would soon solve the financial problems.

"Thinking and acting, the old Greeks thought without God and the Hebrews thought with God. These two thinking nations combined with the Roman nation, whose organization was marvellous, and prepared the way for the Christian Church.

"Bell was the man who thought out the telephone, Watson was the practical man who made it, but the former is the much more widely known.

"There is no hope for the man or woman who doesn't work. Think what it cost our forbears to make us comfortable and provide the means whereby we enjoy many benefits. We have no business to take things easy. If we think well in God's name, let us act as we think."

Rev. S. A. Kemp led in prayer immediately after the sermon and Rev. W. Spencer pronounced the benediction.

The Board of Management asked for $400.00, and on Sunday evening $459.00 had been received, with more still coming in, which is exceedingly gratifying.

The church was decorated with potted plants, cut flowers, grain, vegetables and autumn leaves.

EMILY UNITED CHURCH.

DUNSFORD, Oct. 26. —The anniversary services at Emily United church on Sunday and the fowl supper on Tuesday evening were a very great success. The services on Sunday were well attended. Both morning and evening the church was filled to its capacity. The pastor, Rev. J. F. Everson, was in charge while the Rev. S. Wesley Dean, of Toronto, was the special preacher for the day. In the morning he spoke on "The value of the Christian church in the community" and in the evening on "The fruits of the Church.' The local choir furnished music which was very appropriate and well rendered.

Over 400 people were present at the supper and concert on Tuesday evening. The total proceeds amounted to $230.00.

EMPIRE CLUB ADDRESS.

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—"Building a Nation in the Northern half of the North American Continent," was the subject of an address by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, B.A., Premier of Saskatchewan, before the Empire Club yesterday at the King Edward hotel.

The problems confronting Canada were in no essential respect different from those through which the United States had passed, and which were, afterall, merely a repetition of the experience of the rest of the great nations, said Mr. Gardiner.

"There are a great many people who speak of an Anglo-Saxon race, which does not exist and never did exist." Tracing the history of the British people from the time of Hengist and Horsa, who upon landing in what is now England, drove the Britons into Wales and the mountains of Devonshire and Cornwall, and the Scotchmen to the Highlands of Scotland. "There is not a Welshman, or a Devonshireman, or a Highland Scotchman with one drop of Saxon blood in his veins."

U. S. History Repealed.

Dr. Gardinier spoke of Canada as the fifth country in the world in international trade, and the greatest wheat producing and exporting country in the world. Saskatchewan with a few hundred thousand people was producing more wheat than any other province in Canada, and Alberta produced the major portion of what remained. He quoted figures to show that the United States during its early periods was in exactly the same postion as Canada and predicted a population of 23,000,000 people by 1930.

Saskatchewan was the most cosmopolitan in point of population of any province in Canada, and said he, "I sometimes think that we are endeavoring to build a nation backwards."

Inspiration For Newcomers.

The history of the British people and their high ideals, would inspire those who came from other shores to seek fortune in this land of great promise. He did not think that the making of a language and the conservation of certain forms would make a nation, but the sterling qualities of mind and heart that had inspired the pioneers of the past would inspire the boys of to-day who were coming to Canada, from Germany, lands. The teaching of what these men accomplished would be an important element in inspiring the newcomers. Those who were coming from some of the foreign lands were coming here, just as their forefathers went into England, and their presence would be reinfusion of that blood and character that had made the British race and the British Empire the greatest the world had ever known.

FOUR MEN SAVED FROM SHIPWRECK

One Found Dead and Six Missing When Lifeboats Arrive.

PENZANCE, England, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—Heroic efforts by life savers, after a perilous all-night vigil, to rescue eleven seamen clinging to the rigging of the Italian steamer Isabo, which went ashore on the Scilly Islands yesterday, were only partly successful, four of the men being saved at dawn. When the lifeboats which picked these up reached the doomed vessel, one was found dead and there was no trace of six others. The ship sailed from Montreal, October 14.

CANADIAN DAILIES HIGHLY PRAISED

English Publisher Finds Them Dignified and Usually Well Edited.

LEEDS, England, Oct. 27. Canadian Press. — Apart from defective reporting in some of the smaller journals in the Dominion, I have nothing but praise for the Canadian newspapers," said Arthur Grime, general manager of the Yorkshire Post, in an address before a gathering here today. He was one of a party of British newspaper men who toured the Dominion during the past summer.

"The best type of Canadian morning newspaper," he continued, "is unexcelled by our own morning papers dignity and fairness of comment."

The evening papers he found, likewise, some aproaching the American standard of sensationalism. The contents, however, were generally well edited.

WOMAN REMANDED.

Picton Woman Accused of Theft From Husband Must Return To Him.

PICTON, Ont., Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—On condition that she return to her husband, Clara Mounce, wife of Charles Mounce, local baker, was today remanded for sentence till November 5 by Magistrate Levi Williams. Mrs. Mounce pleaded guilty to theft from her husband of $500, a trunk and grip. Claude Brown, who was a driver for Mounce was remanded till the same date on a charge of being an accessory to the theft, bail being set at $5,000. Brown and Mrs. Mounce disappeared from Picton, October 13, and were arrested in Windsor this week.

IN POLICE COURT.

Col. G. T. Chisholm of Toronto, pleaded guilty this morning to speeding on the Provincial Highway and was fined $10 and $4.00 costs. Highway Traffic Officer Wilson caught Mr. Chisholm's chauffeur driving at the rate of 50 miles an hour about one mile out of the city on Monday, October 10.

Pursued New Policy To Win Tennis Crown

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (Canadian Press).—France, it is now disclosed, attributes her triumph in the Davis Cup tennis competition this year chiefly to the success of a carefully calculated and pursued policy of "wearing down" the American ace, "Big Bill" Tilden.

This strategy was carried out to such a degree that the French doubles pair, Borotra and Brugnon, conceded slight chance of victory, went into their challenge round match at Philadelphia with final instructions to extend the match to five sets at all costs so that Tilden would be "softened up" for the battle he lost to Rene Lacoste on the final day.

The "inside story" of France's victorious quest for tennis laurels is told for the first time by M. Pierre Gillou, captain of the French team. Published in the current issue of American Lawn Tennis, as translated from the French publication Tennis Et Golf, it reveals the thoroughness and foresight behind the invasion that overthrew seven year tennis dynasty of the United States.

OBITUARY

MRS. SAMUEL T. WILSON.

The death occurred at her residence, King Street, Omemee, on Tuesday, October 18th, of Isabella Hooton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hooton, Cavan, and wife of Samuel Wilson.

The late Mrs. Wilson had been ill for several months, but bore her suffering with great patience. All the medical skill and loving hands could do was of no avail, and she passed peacefully away to her eternal rest and happiness.

She was born at Fairmount, Cavan, and spent her girlhood days there, where in 1892 she was united in marriage to Samuel T. Wilson, of Emily. Later they moved to Omemee, where she resided until her death. She was a faithful and active member of the United Church of Omemee. Her lovable character, her cheerfulness, and her goodness of heart endeared her to a wide circle of acquaintances, who greatly deplore her passing.

She is survived by her husband, two sisters and two brothers. They are Mrs. J. W. Bidgood of Cleveland, and Mrs. George Haygarth of Omemee, Robert M. and George H. Hooton of Peterborough.

The service was in charge of Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of Trinity United Church, Omemee, who paid a glowing tribute to her memory. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Emily Presbyterian Cemetery by six elders of the United Church, namely, Messrs. S. T. Connell, R. Poast, P. Race, William Connell, F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., and D. Weir.

Many beautiful floral tributes surrounded the casket, sent by sympathizing relatives and friends.

One by one our loved ones leave us,
And the bitter pain of loss
Teaches us that the heart's best shelter
Is the shadow of the Cross.

MRS. ROBERT HAMILTON.

The death took place early this morning of Mrs. Robert Hamilton, relict of Robert Hamilton, Ashburnham, in her 73rd year.

The deceased has been ill for some time, and since the death of her husband just six months ago, she never seemed to gain at any time.

The late Mrs. Hamilton was born in Annapolis, N.S., but for some years lived in Lowell, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton came to Peterborough about forty-three years ago, and have resided here until their death.

The family surviving is Victor and Bert, who live in Peterborough, and Fred of El Dorado, Ark., who arrived here at noon to-day. Mrs. Hamilton has also one brother surviving in Avvon, Mass., and one sister in Boston, Mass. The deceased was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church, and will be greatly missed by neighbours and friends in Ashburnham, where she has resided practically all her married life.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, Mr. Victor Hamilton, 40 Robinson Street, at two o'clock—service at St. Luke's Church at 2.30 o'clock—on Monday, October 31st. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. G. J. Bousfield officiating

IN MEMORIAM.

LEBAR. — In loving memory of Cecil youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. LeBar who passed away Oct. 28, 1921:

Those who loved you sadly miss you
As it dawns another year,
In the lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever dear.
Sweet is the word remembrance,
As these few lines will show;
You will always be remembered
In the days that come and go.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS HEAR TALK ON INSURANCE AS A PROFESSION AT REGULAR MONTHLY BANQUET

J. J. McSweeney, of London Life Assurance Company, Addresses Local Association.

HOLD DEBATE.

Traces Record of Insurance From Pharoah To Present Time.

Following their monthly banquet at the Empress Hotel, the Peterborough branch of the Life Underwriters' Association last night listened with avid attention to a soul-stirring address on "Life Insurance as a Profession," eloquently delivered by J. J. McSweeney, of the London Life Assurance Company, Toronto, former Dominion President of the Life Underwriters' Association for 1925. The concensus of opinion, as expressed in the vote of thanks at the close of the oration, classed it as pre-eminently the best that it had ever been the privilege of the local body to hear.

The immense mass of material was aglow with interest from start to finish and a man with less experience than the speaker could never have accumulated so many jems of insurance philosophy and psychology as therein contained. With a quarter of a century of active service behind him, and still filled with the energy and vigor of youth, and with all the power of his convictions behind his ringing and straight-from-the shoulder statements, Mr. McSweeney carried his audience along with him until at last every representative present was firmly convinced that Life Insurance as a profession was a God-given task which was not lightly to be assumed or carried out.

Introduced by the president, Mr. McSweeney plunged into his subject with little preamble. He first traced the rise of man and insurance in these words:

"The history of life insurance is simply the evolution of rise of man, both intellectually and morally. The whole history of the rise of man was one of art, a striving towards the beautiful in search of symbols that would set man apart from the beasts. Family life developed through the centuries until instead of maltreating the women and leaving the weak and aged to die with callous indifference, man is now actually providing for and protecting his family from any financial difficulty after his death by perpetuating their income through the medium of insurance.

First Insurance.

"The first known insurance dates back to the advice of Joseph to Pharoah, in distant Biblical times, to insure himself from want during the seven lean years by laying up a sufficient store of necessities during the seven years of fat and plenty. Following this first crude form of insurance came another, this time during the Holy Crusades against the infidels, when some of the crusaders deposited a sum of money to ransom them should they fall prisoner."

Proceeding to what he termed as "Our Job," a comprehensive outline of modern life insurance, salesmanship and conditions was gone into. A few of the outstanding epigrams and statements will suffice to give the gist of this body of the address.

Need Its Services.

"Life insurance is unique on three counts; that the great majority of mankind need its service; that this need is likely to increase rather than decrease; that there is no substitute. It follows then that the problem of the life assurance salesman is unlike that of any other, his market is never glutted; his clientele is never fully stocked; his activities extend equally the year round. His problem is not one either of production or of distribution but is essentially one of demonstration because it is only thus that people can realize their undoubted need for this protection."

The public should never be blamed for failing to buy insurance as it is the agents' job to see that they come to appreciate it as one of the prime essentials of life and if once creating that feeling then the difficulty is to present the proposition in such a plan that the prospect will want it, and the battle is almost won. The sale is a mental process and the key to success is sales personality. The statement was repudiated that personalities could not be changed. Through the marvellous scientific methods now extant any mannerism at fault could be changed. The various ways of playing upon the emotions were enumerated. A neat personal appearance, proper enunciation, development of clear perceptions with the consequent lucidity of expression were all specially stressed as absolute requisites of the good salesman. The best salesman is the one who, once having rid himself as far as possible of his flagrant imperfections, analyzes his prospect, gets particulars concerning him, and then decides on a plan of insurance best suited to one of that mode of life and condition of circumstances. Thus prepared, with the courage of his convictions and determination there can be little reasonable loop-hole for failure. A successful salesman must be an expert psychologist and have the ability to place himself on the same mental plane of his prospect.

Look At It As Profession.

Visualizing the future, the speaker looked ahead to the time when the

Grayson Pilot Says Stick To Expedition

OLD ORCHARD, Me., October 29 (Canadian Press). — Rumors that Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Mrs. Frances Grayson's projected air expedition to Copenhagen, was on the point of retiring from the flight were disposed of last night by Stultz in his first public statement concerning his reported difficulties with Mrs. Grayson. Admitting freely that he wished to resign as pilot, Stultz said he would remain with the expedition under his contract with the commander.

Since the amphibian plane was forced last Sunday by motor trouble to return to Old Orchard from a point off Nova Scotia, reports had been current of a disagreement between Mrs. Grayson and her pilot. Yesterday when Mrs. Grayson went to Boston for a conference with Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, it was rumored that she hoped to replace Stultz with one who had already conquered the Atlantic. Mrs. Grayson declared, however, that she had merely sought to discuss aviation in general with Chamberlin in view of his ripe experience.

TABLES LOADED WITH PRODUCE

Offering Are Plentiful on Farm Market This Morning.

EGGS 60c. A DOZEN.

There was plenty of produce of every type on the farmers' market this morning. The tables were loaded with fowl, and butter and eggs were also very plentiful. On the open market, the fruits of garden and farm overflowed from carts and bags and barrels.

Butter had quite a wide range in price this morning, selling all the way down from 48 to 40 cents a pound. Cream was 30 cents a pint, and eggs were generally quoted at 60 cents a dozen. Dry-picked chickens were 30 cents a pound, while 20 and 25 cents a pound was asked at other counters. Ducks were 25 cents a pound, and geese were priced from 25 to 30 cents a pound.

Apples were very plentiful this moning. In barrels, Starks sold at $4.00 to $4.50, Russets at $4.50, and Spies at $5.00 and $6.00. Tolman Sweets were 40 cents a peck, and Russets 50 cents. Baxters were $2.00 a bag, Snows $2.50, and Tolman Sweets $2.25.

Green pears were 50 cents a peck, grapes 50 cents a basket. Red tomatoes were priced from 50 to 80 cents, in small and large baskets, and green tomatoes were 40 cents a basket.

FARMERS GUARD FLOCKS OF SHEEP

Wait Armed For Dogs Who Have Killed Many Near Guelph.

GUELPH, Oct. 29—Attacking a flock of prize sheep on the farm of William Wilson, Guelph Township, marauding dogs killed a ewe outright and worried others to such an extent that they had to be destroyed. This is the fourth instance within a week that flocks had been attacked. The farmers have become so incensed at this wanton destruction of their sheep that they are sitting up at night armed, watching for the unwelcome intruders.

Tong Gunmen Granted One Week Reprieve

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct 29.—Canadian Press. — A reprieve for Chin Lung and See Hoo Wing Hen, On Leong, Tong gunmen, under sentence to die on the gallows on November 1, was granted by Governor John H. Trumbull, yesterday afternoon, the period being one week or until November 8th.

Counsel for the Chinese had appealed for a respite that they might appear before the Board of pardons on November 7th in behalf of their clients.

The Chinese were convicted of slaying a laundryman's helper at South Manchester, March 24, when there was a re-opening of Tong warfare. The victim was said to have been a Hip Sing, but no reason for his murder was brought out during the trial.

THREE SAVED FROM WRECK

Owners of Fishing Schooner Fear Rest of Crew of 16 Dead.

HIT BY BIG LINER.

BOSTON, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press.)— A radio message from the Italian steamer President Wilson, which sank the schooner Avalon off Highland Light early to-day, said that in addition to three survivors she had on board the bodies of two members of the Avalon's crew. Coast-guard headquarters were notified by the destroyer Burrows that she was in the vicinity searching for survivors or for bodies and nine were believed missing.

The rescued were Nicholas Walsh, Eldin Fleet and Frank Henson. The Avalon carried a crew of at least sixteen and it is feared most of these were lost. The collision occurred at dawn in sight of the Massachusetts coast, and though the liner stood by for hours it was able to save only three.

The death toll of more than a dozen was feared, as the President Wilson, an Italian liner, continued on her way to Boston from New York. The exact number of the Avalon's crew was not known. The collision occurred in a dense fog, the liner reported by wireless. The Avalon was a two-masted fishing schooner ordinarily carrying a crew of twenty-five.

CARS COLLIDE; BOTH DAMAGED

ON GEORGE STREET.

Two cars collided last night on George Street in front of the Home Lunch Cafe. One was owned by Dr. J. M. O'Brien and the other by Harold Dunsford. Mr. Dunsford's car was damaged on the left side with the front fender being badly smashed. Dr. O'Brien's car was damaged on the left front fender.

Dr. O'Briein had come east on Hunter Street and then swung south on George. In doing so he struck the other car, which was coming north.

RETURNS TO DUTY.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker Back in City After Vacation.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker has returned to duty after two weeks holidays. This week he was down in Belleville at the General's inspection of the Provincial Police in Central Ontario, and while there General Williams gave him three extra days' leave.

Adverse Harvest Weather In September Caused Decrease In Railway Earnings

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press)—Adverse weather during the month of September last had an appreciable effect upon railway earnings, causing a large decrease in car loadings in comparison with September, 1926, and a consequent reduction in revenues. The statement of earnings and expenses for the month of September last, issued yesterday by the Canadian National Railways shows gross earnings of $22,125,397, while in September, 1926, the earnings amounted to $22,619,873.66, a decrease of $494,476.66 for the month just passed. This is equivalent to a reduction of 2.19 per cent.

Working expenses for September last showed a small decrease, being $17,103,870.13 as against $17,111,900.69 in September, 1926, a decrease of $8,030.56, equal to 0.05 per cent for September of this year.

The net earnings for September last amounted to $5,021,526.37 while in September, 1926, they reached th total of $5,507,972.97, a reduction of $486,446.10 or 8.83 per cent.

These results bring the operating ratio to 77.30 per cent for Septembr, 1927, as compard with 75.65 for Sptember, 1926.

OCEAN'S TOLL STANDS AT 293

Survivors' Stories Differ Regarding Cause of Catastrophe.

TRAGIC EXPERIENCES.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—The ocean's toll from the ill-fated Italian liner Principessa Mafalda last night was placed tentatively at 293 dead and missing as rescue ships in port completed discharging their unexpected passengers.

The actual story of the disaster also began to take definite form as the accounts of survivors were pieced together. Terror gave those rescued almost as many views of the tragic scene as there were survivors, but many points stand out as agreed upon by many or all of those who lived to tell the tale.

Of the 1,256 persons said by the Italian Embassy to have been aboard the vessel, 963 were accounted for last night. The French liner Mosella took 53 survivors into Bahia Thursday night.

The French steamer Formose, first rescue ship on the scene, brought 353 survivors here yesterday, and the Dutch vessel Alhena brought 531. Twenty-seven more have been reported en route to Pernambueo aboard the Italian steamer Rossetti.

The total on these ships is 963, and it is not believed here that there are any survivors on any of the three or four smaller vessels that answered the Mafalda's distress call.

Ended in Tragedy.

Practically all of the survivors are agreed that dancing, laughter and festivities on a beautiful tropic afternoon were suddenly turned to gloom by the crash of a breaking propeller shaft and the sound of water rushing into the vessel's stern. From this point on accounts diverge as to details.

Many claim there was an explosion, and that the ship's flooded boilers tore open the ship's hull as they burst. Others deny there was any explosion. Some claim Captain Gull calmed the passengers by telling them the accident was not serious, and that festivities were resumed; they maintain that time was lost because of this, with resultant loss of life in the haste when the ship's boats were finally launched.

Some told of sharks devouring terrified victims as they struggled in the water, while other survivors who did not see the sharks were skeptical.

SURVIVORS LEAVE FOR NEW HOMES

Further Charges Made of Neglect, and Poor Equipment For Life Saving.

RIO DE JANEIRO, October 29.—(Canadian Press). — Sorrowing over the loss of three hundred ship companions, the Italian emigrant survivors of the Principessa Mafalda disaster to-day prepared to resume the journey to the new homelands in Brazil and the Argentina. The added horrors of the foundering of the ship were recounted and charges of negligence, inadequate life-saving equipment, and ship in bad condition were aired.

Georges Grenade, a wealthy Belgian resident of Buenos Aires, made public in La Nacion a letter which he sent to the Royal Italian Maritime Commission, charging the officers and commander were negligent, "for had they acted with energy they could have subdued the frantic emigrants and the work of saving passengers could have been carried out normally in five hours."

Twenty-six of the Mafalda's sailors created a scene at the Government immigration station by becoming unruly, charging the officers were taken to the finest hotels in Rio de Janeiro, while they were kept like immigrants. They were finally pacified.

PERMISSION GIVEN FOR PLANE TO LAND

Formal Authority Granted U. S. Ship To Enter Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Octobe 29 (Canadian Press). — Canada to-day officially granted permission for the entry of a United States Army plane into Canada from Buffalo to Ottawa, carrying Sir Philip Sassoon, British Minister, to-morrow. The plane is expected to reach here shortly after noon on Sunday, but this is not definite.

Triplets Stop Trips; Too Many Papers

HARBIN Manchuria, Oct. 29.—(United Press). — A citizen of Harbin desiring to visit Russia, obtained passports for himself and his wife and bought train tickets when he was informed he must have a visa for his two year old daughter.

While he was waiting for it his wife gave birth to triplets and he called off the trip.

CAROL'S VILLA BURGLARIZED

Theft of Papers a Week Ago Believed Connected With Exposures.

POLITICS REASON.

PARIS, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press). — The foiling of the plans of the Carolists in Rumania and the arrest of M. Manoilescu, a former minister, to-day appeared to be directly connected with the burglarizing of the villa of the former Crown Prince Carrol at Neuilly. The theft of papers belonging to Carol occurred a week ago when Carol's valet was lured from his post by a woman. Carol to-day was returning from Saint Malo. It is believed politics and not theft was the motive of the robbery.

The valet told the police the woman had lured him from his post of duty, buying his supper. After that he remembered nothing except that he awoke the next morning with a bad headache. "She must have put a drug in my wine" he said.

When he returned to Carol's villa, he found letter box rifled, the valet said.

Carol Awaits Hour

PARIS, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press) —"I will wait for my hour to come, if indeed my hour is to come," said former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania when he arrived here today in connection with the theft of papers from his villa. He returned almost immediately to Normandy.

"Yet if public opinion in my country should call me, it would be cowardice for me to shirk my duty," he added. Carol said he had refused for three months requests from the Rumanian National Peasants' Party that he declare his candidature for the throne, consenting only after long consideration.

HUMANE SOCIETY STARTS CAMPAIGN

Will Make Drive During November For Membership of 1,000.

The Peterborough Humane Society will start a campaign for members on Tuesday, November 1st. The objective is 1,000 members out of the population of Peterborough, which is 23,000.

The people of any community would stand aghast at any suggestion made to abolish the police or fire department. In their own particular sphere, societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals are carrying on a work which is no less important and necessary. The work embraces problems in morals, economics and sanitation which are of vital importance to the welfare of the citizens of a city.

If the child is taught gentleness and consideration toward its pet, it is likely to follow that a like attitude will be maintained by that child toward his or her fellow humans. Statistics have shown that of more than 2,000 prisoners confined in a penitentiary only about a dozen ever had pets in their childhood.

Economics and sanitation are closely allied in the work, for unsanitary conditions make for sickness, while sickness impairs efficiency. Credit must be given to the Animal Protective Associations for the large share they undertake in work of this character.

Join the Peterborough Humane Society during the Campaign Nov. 1 to Dec. 1. Our motto, "We Speak For Those Who Cannot Speak For Themselves."

STORM SWEEPS BRITISH ISLES

Nine People Killed and Heavy Damage Done To Property.

BIG CHIMNEY FALLS.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).Nine lives were lost and much property damage done by a sixty-mile gale which swept Ireland and parts of England today. Trains were at a standstill and roads blocked in some districts, while steamers and boats were torn adrift in various harbors. A tidal wave swept the river banks at Lancaster and cut off a portion of a hospital, three patients being drowned.

The storm uprooted trees and unroofed houses. In down town London a giant crane atop a new building crashed to the street, partially demolishing adjacent buildings and wrecked a taxi-cab from which the occupants escaped without injury.

Three of the deaths were reported to have been caused by floods invading a sanitarium in Lancaster.

Among the policemen on duty in the exclusive West End of London are experts in German, Spanish, French and Italian.

That 3,600 pails of wine and 1,600 barrels were consumed at the wedding of a German prince in 1561, has recently been disclosed.

Survivors Succumb On the Way to Port

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Italian liner Rosetti arrived last night with a number of survivors from the sunken steamship Principessa Mafalda. Two of those picked up by the Rosetti died on the way into port. (A wireless dispatch to the Associated Press from the British Empire Star said there were 27 survivors aboard the Rosetti).

Six of the survivors aboard the the Rosetti were members of the crew and the rest were steerage passengers.

Reports of sharks attacking victims in the water, scoffed at by some of the survivors who said they did not see any sharks, were reiterated by those aboard the Rosetti, who said the sea beasts were of the hammerhead variety. One man who lost his wife and six children, said one child was snatched from his arms by a shark. A woman aboard the Rosetti declared she had a similar experience.

RANGERS HOLD HAPPY SOCIAL

First Smoker of the Season Well Attended—Interesting Program.

PLANS OUTLINED.

There was a splendid attendance of members of the Peterborough Rangers at their first Smoker of the season, held last night in the Armouries.

The first portion of the evening was taken up with races. "A" Company won the relay race and Corp. Griffin was first in the 100 yards dash; Pte. Murphy being second. The 100 yards dash between officers and N.C.O.'s was won by Lieut. Bolton, Capt. Monkman being second. After all the racing aspirants had "recovered their wind" the gathering adjourned to the recreation room and indulgtd in community singing. Following this an hour was spent in the well known "Bingo" game.

The contest of the best pronunciation of "The Leith Police Dismisseth Us" was won by Pte. Cruikshanks, the second prize going to Corp. Griffin. This contest caused considerable amusement and a number of members found that it was a little more difficult to pronounce than they imagined. The winners of the Christmas goose and chicken for the weight guessing competition of a bucket of water were Corp. Griffin and C.S.M. Varty respectively. Corp. Griffin had a very profitable evening as will be noted from the number of prizes he won.

Previous to supper Lieut. Col. W. G. Hall, spoke to the members with reference to future training and also in regard to winter social activities.

Major Winterbottom also spoke in connection with indoor bowling, shooting and softball and also urged all members to take an interest in the activities of the Regiment.

The Adjutant, Lieut. Bolton, outlined the scheme in connection with the promotion classes which are to be held during the winter.

Capt. Monkman gave the members an idea as to the cost of new equipment for the bowling alleys and after a vote had been taken it was decided to go ahead and obtain the necessary equipment to make the alleys more modern. Sert. Majors Calladine, Gaskell, Hales and Varty and Sergeants Chate and French also gave their views in regard to the sports activities for the winter.

Songs were rendered by Capt. Nicholls and a Yorkshire reading by Sergeant French.

The Sergeants were responsible for serving the refreshments, which they handled in a very able manner.

Other officers present were Major Park, Major Mills, Capt. Yelland, Lieut. Melton, Lieut. Park, and Lieut. Dunkerley.

A very enjoyable evening ended with the singing of "Oh, Canada" and "The King."

INTERNAL STRIFE AMONG LORDS GRADUALLY WEAKENING COUNTRY PEOPLE ARE SUFFERING GREATLY

Fighting Is In Progress In At Least Six Different War Areas.

NORTH AT PEACE.

Winter of Widespread Suffering and Hardship Appears Inevitable.

PEKING, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press) —Never in recent years has China been in a more chaotic condition than now. Fighting is in progress in at least six different war areas and a winter of widespread suffering and hardship appears inevitable.

The number of independent contending factions appears larger than ever and the only combination enjoying comparative stability appears to be the Manchurian-Shantung-Chihli alliance, usually known as the Northern Alliance, which has its centre in Peking. Here conditions are comparatively serene, although even here artillery and rifle fire is frequently audible from recurring guerilla conflicts to the north and west.

It is authoritatively estimated that 500,000 soldiers are now actually in the field. Disintegration among the soldiers is so marked that it is virtually impossible to indicate any broad political alignment or to mark out the fronts accurately.

Momentarily attention centers on the conflict of the former allies at Hankow and Nanking on the Yangtse River, both of whom are claiming local successes. The position of Tang Senchi, the Hankow leader with reference to Peking is obscure with the line-up of the Nanking group likewise is vague since the allegiance of the ruling generals in Kiangsi, Chekiang and Canton is uncertain.

Fighting North of Yangtse

North of the Yangtse River several campaigns are in progress, the most vital being that east of Chengchow Junction in Honan, where the Shantun-Chihli army is proceeding westward and has reached Chung-Mowhsian after a desperate battle. It is reported that the fate of Chengchow now hangs in the balance. If this city should be captured by the northerners, it would permit them a more complete co-operation against their foes in Honan and Shansi and would eliminate any aid that might be forthcoming to them from General Feng Yu-Hsiang, once known as the Christian general.

Chang Tsung-Chang, the northern general, has reported to Peking that Feng's troops are withdrawing toward Honanfu, the capital of the province, and that the early fall of Cheng Chow may be expected. However, the combined forces of the so-called Red Spears with those of Feng contend that they repulsed the northern advance from Tamingfu in South Chihli, on Chant Ho, indicating that Feng has his back to the wall and is fighting desperately.

Foreign reports received here now show that the northerners claim to have recaptured Chochow, forty miles southwest of Peking, were premature.

Three thousand Shansi troops, besieged for the past two weeks in Chochow, where they were caught in their first rush on Peking, have been holding out fiercely despite northern artillery fire which already has battered down two gates of its twelve century-old walls.

Repel Troops from Chochow

The Chochow siege is a striking combination of modern and medieval warfare, and that ancient walls have proved unexpectedly strong against modern artillery fire. The defenders, dug in modern trenches on top of the great walls, have been successful in repelling troops seeking to scale them.

The besiegers are using aeroplanes both for dropping bombs and propaganda. It appears that a portion of the northern forces succeeded in entering the city by breaks in the wall, engaging in street fighting, but the Shansi defenders are still holding on.

Using Chentow as a base, the Northerners have been conducting air raids on Tayuanfu, the capital of Shansi, claiming successes almost daily.

The Northerners also are driving westward from Kalgan, but the outcome of this appears doubtful.

North China is in the grip of its first cold weather, which is making more intense the hardships of the troops and the populace, presaging a winter of suffering. Large areas, especially in Honan have been reduced to the condition of a desert by the incessant fighting of the past year. Crops have not been planted and where they have the harvests have been carried off by soldiers. Thousands of civilians consequently are facing starvation and freezing, while other thousands, erstwhile peaceful farmers, have found themselves compelled to join bandit gangs scouring the countryside.

U. S. Patrol Boat Captures Rum-Runner

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press.) — The two-masted schooner Marion Phyllis, of British registry, out of Halifax for New York was brought to the United States barge office yesterday with seven prisoners and 1,500 cases of alleged liquor valued by customs authorities at $100,000.

The vessel was seized Thursday by the coast guard patrol boat Travis about seven and a half miles off Amagansett, L.I. The prisoners were taken immediately to Brooklyn for arraignment before a United States' commissioner.

Captain Richard Jones, master of the schooner was one of the prisoners. Although his papers showed he had sailed from Halifax, federal offcials were inclined to doubt their authenticity because of a recent ruling that all ships clearing from that port must post a bond of twice the value of liquor carried.

CAPITAL CITY CENTRE OF WAR

Troops Engaged in Experimental Battle Outside Ottawa.

DIVISION IN ACTION.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Capital to-day was surrounded by warfare, as the tactical exercises of Military District Number 3, Kingston, continued. Gas attacks, tanks, airplanes, liquid fire, and other modern features will be utilized in a battle which is expected to take place in the vicinity of Bells Corners, not far from here, as the high light of a three day campaign which ends to-morrow. The troops to-day, a whole division of them, were ready to cross the Rideau river to strike at the enemy now encamped at Carleton Place.

BATTERY BEGINS ANNUAL TRAINING

Large Number of Recruits Join Up With Local Artillery Unit.

At the Armouries last night the 4th Battery of the Canadian Field Artillery (4th Batt., C.F.A., C.E.F.), commenced fall training, with Major Stevenson in command. A large number of recruits were out but there is yet room for a few more before the battery will be up to the allotted strength.

The officers and non-commissioned officers are Major Stevenson, O. C. Capt. Cameron, Capt. Harstone, B.S.M. Sutherland, C.Q.M. Sloan, Sgt. Coombs, Sgt. Weyer, Sgt. Parsons and Bombardier Hillier, Curtis and McIntosh.

The battery will drill every Monday and Friday night in the Armouries. Last night a short gun drill was held and announcement was made that there would be no parade on Monday night on account of the Hallowe'en party in the armouries.

Mayors of Middle-West Cities Invited To Join "Amerian First" Organization

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—"America First," Mayor Thompson's campaign slogan, drove the British lion out of the spotlight yesterday as an aftermath of Chicago's investigation to determine whether its school children and its citizens are reading "propaganda inspired by England."

Mayors throughout the Middlewest received letters signed with Mayor Thompson's name inviting them to join "America First Foundation" and send in $10. Mayor Thompson was one of the incorporators of this organization formed this week with the announced intention of promoting "better citizenship based on loyalty and patriotism."

Mayor Thompson said he had received about 100 replies out of 1,000 invitations sent out Thursday night and said that they were "mostly favorable." Mayor Daniel Hoan, Milwaukee, and Mayor Victor Miller, St. Louis, were among those sending early replies declining to become affiliated with the organization, while Mayor Swarthout, Grand Rapids, said he would think it over.

Congressmen, Senators and Governors also were sent invitations, John J. Murphy, one of the incorporators, said.

Meanwhile, a white silk pennant bearing an "America First" slogan hanging on a staff above the American flag in the Board of Education offices came in for criticism. Opponents of the Mayor said the pennant flying above the flag constituted a "rank insult," and have asked President Lewis Coath of the Board how it came to be there. President Coath explained that Mayor Thompson presented the pennant to the Board along with the flag.

THE WEATHER

Lowest temperature last night 40 degrees; highest yesterday 67 degrees. This month has been one of the finest Octobers we have had in recent years. The temperature has been each day about five degrees above the average. There have been but few frosts during the month and none of them very heavy. October of 1924, 1920 and 1913 were much like the present month.—W. R.

RUTH ELDER GIV EN WELCOME ON ARRIVAL AT FRENCH CAPITAL

Set Another Record For Speed Mark From Bayonne To Bourget.

CROWDS THRONG FIELD.

American Girl Flier Beginning To Show Strain of Trip.

PARIS, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Ruth Elder, 18 days out of New York, completed her trans-Atlantic journey as she began it—by air—when she landed at Le Bourget Air Field at 3.47 o'clock yesterday afternoon. In finally reaching Paris, Ruth and her flying companion, Captain George W. Haldeman, broke another record. They set a speed mark from Bayonne to Bourget.

Miss Elder alighted at the famous French airdrome to the plaudits of a multitude which at once gave her an affectionate nickname, "The Smiling American midinette on holiday."

The charming smile and cheerful mien of the girl made an instant hit with the enthusiastic French crowd, while Haledman's saturnine appearance and blase demeanor caused the spectators to ponder.

French officials greeted the ocean-rescued pair in solemn, official style, but the real warmth of the reception came from French common people who in the 1927 season have never tired of welcoming aviators, successful, unsuccessful or spectacular.

Sets Record

Basing their forecast on previous air records from Bayonne to Le Bourget, thousands had settled down to await the arrival of Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman about 5 o'clock when suddenly out of the southern sky, heavily veiled with fog, a plane shot out.

"It can't be them," ungrammatically said pilots, but, swooping down gracefully over the field, Haldeman brought his plane to a standstill a few feet from the cement boardwalk used by the London-Paris liners.

Haldeman crawled out and then a shock of medium bobbed hair above a bright red sweater, appeared over the side of the plane.

"There she is, that's Ruth," the spectators shouted.

A look of dismay on the face of the woman flier as she saw the crowd rushing forward, changed to smiling as she cried "Good, good, I'm repeating "Bon, tres bon." This was evidntly all the French she had, for as she was almost buried under kisses of the demonstrative French women she had not another word to say.

Tophatted officials, airmen in glittering uniforms with many bright ribbons adorning their breasts fought to grasp her hand and in the lull of cheering a feminine American voice piped up "Let me kiss George, that's all." Miss Elder laughed outright, but Captain Haldeman, grimy with oil, tinkered with the motor of the plane and said, "I'm just the mechanic."

Commandant Cartier and Lieutenant Finat, two of France's most renowned airmen, approached Haldeman and asked the Association Press correspondent, "Won't you translate for the American pilot our admiration of his perfect landing and great speed achieved by the plane in which he sat for the first time?"

When this was done Haldeman smiled for the second time. "Tell them," he said, "that I'm sorry I couldn't have landed here with our little 'American Girl.' The only regret I have over this wonderful reception is the thought that our little lady plane is down at the bottom of the ocean."

Ruth beamed on the two bemedalled war heroes and smiled her sweetest, but said nothing.

Shows Strain

Miss Elder ascended the steps leading to the commandant's office rather haltingly, as if she was weary. George was nowhere to be found then. Champagne corks began to pop in a regular barrage, but when Miss Elder was sought that she might be toasted, she had disappeared. She was located a few minutes later by Commandant Renvoise's stenographer. The aviatrix was busy with comb and brush fixing up her hair.

"Here I am," she chuckled, as she re-entered the room to say, "No thank you, no champagne; a little water, please." Coming from a woman who had escaped death in the waters of the ocean, this remark, when translated, seemed to amuse the French spectators.

Haldeman came in at this time, reached for a glass and downed it without a word.

CARS COLLIDE.

Considerable Damage Done at Bad Turn on Ennismore Road.

ENNISMORE, Oct. 29.—On Saturday morning a motor accident occurred about one-half mile from Chemong bridge between a touring car and a sedan. Mr. F. J. Leonard was on his way to Peterborough. There is a sharp turn in the road and he did not see the car coming owned by Mr. P. Alexander of Oak Orchard. Mr. Leonard received a few cuts about the head and his car was badly damaged.

BARN BURNED WITH CONTENTS

NO INSURANCE.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 29. — Euston Gibson, of Allan's Mills, lost his barn and contents by fire yesterday morning. He suffered the complete loss of the season's grain, a team worth $350, two pigs, and some implements. No insurance was carried on the barn. The first intimation that Mr. Gibson had of the fire was when he was awakened by the sound of rain and saw the barn a smouldering mass of ruin. Mr. Gibson says he has no bad friends in the community, but believes someone set fire to the barn.

Last spring his house was burned down.

UNKNOWN HUNTER HITS THREE PEOPLE

Fires From Behind Grape Vines, Inflicting Many Wounds.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 29.—Shots fired Thursday morning by an unknown hunter hidden behind the dense foliage of the grapery on a farm below the Lake Road, on Vine street, struck Mrs. Sophia Childs, aged 55, of R. R. No. 2; her daughter, Miss Nora Childs, and Joseph Swartz, of 24 Edmund street, of this city, who were standing in a group. The two women are in the General Hospital here with gunshot wounds. Mr. Swartz also has several shots in both legs. The condition of Mrs. Childs was reported as uncertain. A hemorrhage may prove fatal. No clue to the hunter who fired the shots has been discovered.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHARLES HARRINGTON

ENNISMORE, Oct. 29.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Harrington took place on Tuesday morning to St. Martin's church, High Mass being said by Rev. Father McAuley, after which interment took place at St. Martin's cemetery. The pallbearers were J. Davis, E. Harrington, S. Nurse, William and James Harrington and S. Davis.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT FARM AUCTION

William Bell Disposes of Stock and Implements—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Oct. 29.— A fairly good crowd attended William Bell's sale on Wednesday afternoon. On the whole Mr. Bell was pleased with the result. Cows went from thirty-eight dollars to seventy-five dollars; some sheep brought fourteen dollars; pigs weighing about one hundred and twenty-five pounds went for eleven dollars; horses went from fifty dollars to seventy-five dollars. A binder brought seventy-five dollars; a seed drill sixteen dollars; ploughs from twenty-eight to seventy-five dollars; a mower brought seventy-five dollars and a hay-rake brought forty dollars.

Mr. Morrison, of Norwood, was the auctioneer.

Mrs. Bryson's sale was well attended on Wednesday afternoon. A sideboard sold for eleven dollars; chairs went for over a dollar. Nearly everything that was sold went for a good price.

The regular meeting of the United Church Ladies' Aid was held on Thursday afternoon at Mr. Thomas Clement's home. The final settlements for the fowl supper were made and there is one hundred and fifty-three dollars clear. Arrangements were made for the circuit bazaar to be held this winter again, Mrs. Hamblin representing Bethel Aid, was present.

The Warsaw Aid has put a new gas lantern in front of the church. It lights the steps, and walk, as well as the sheds. The old coal oil lantern is at the basement entrance.

Mrs. David Taylor gave a very interesting talk on her trip to British Columbia. She had post cards, snaps and curios to illustrate her talk. Mrs. George Taylor gave an instrumental selection and Mesdames Weller, McCauley and Arthur Payne sang in a trio.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid met at Mrs. John Clifford's home and made plans for a social evening in the near future.

CANADA TO HAVE 23,000,000 IN 1950

Premier Gardiner, of Saskatchewan Optimistic About Dominion's Future.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Optimism—stirring, genuine optimism rang forth from every sentnece of an address on the "West and Canada's Problems," delivered by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Prime Minister of Saskatchewan, at the Empire Club on Thursday.

Premier Gardiner believed with Sir Wilfrid Laurier "that the nineteenth century belonged to the United States and that the twentieth belonged to Canada." With the expansion of the great wheat-producing areas of the West through the establishment of the Hudson Bay trade route; the development of the great mineral resources lying in the shield surrounding Hudson Bay, and with the building up of a population not necessarily purely British-born, but from the countries which originally contributed their share to the blood of Anglo-Saxonism, the Premier evisioned the rising on the northern half of the North American Continent of a great nation within the British Empire.

Audience Cheers.

That he had deeply stirred his audience, was manifest at the conclusion of his address. Instead of the formal round of applause which is generally accorded Empire Club speakers, the gathering, waving table napkins in the air, rose and sent a deafening succession of cheers.

Turning in search of Canada's problem, Premier Gardiner arrived at it by a process of elimination. Canada, he pointed out, had the richest gold mines in the world, the greatest supply of pulpwood, the largest asbestos mines, great wheat-producing areas, and a form of Government patterned after the greatest of all Governments, that of England. However, with all this, he said, Canada was the most sparsely settled country in the world, in proportion to her natural resources, and therein lay her problem.

However, he saw the solution of this problem within the compass of the twentieth century. The population of Canada, so far in the twentieth century, he showed, had kept pace with the progress of the United States in the same period of the nineteeth century, and he expressed the firm belief that by 1950 Canada would have 23,000,000 people. He showed that from 1800 to 1850 in the United States there had been great agricultural development, bringing a large increase in population, and that in the latter half of the century the progress had been industrial. He foresaw the same development in Canada.

Amused at "Big Bill."

He referred, laughingly, to Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, pointing out that the Mayor of the "Windy City" could not dispose of the Anglo-Saxon race, since that had already been done by King Canute and William the Conqueror. However, he said there was still in the British race an Anglo-Saxonism which might be described as the spirit of the race, and did not believe that if Mayor Thompson destroyed every book ever written by an Englishman, there were 1,000,000 men in the United States who were Anglo-Saxon in spirit who could write back into their life everything that was worth while.

MAN, 97, JAILED AS COUNTERFEITER.

TEXARKANA, Ark, Oct. 29.—A. D. Carr, 97, charged with counterfeiting, was arraigned recently in Federal court and pleaded guilty. Owing to the man's advanced age he was given the lenient penalty of four months in jail and a fine of $100.

SIX BANDITS ROB BANK AT CAMPBELLVILLE

Cover Manager and Teller in Bank of Nova Scotia.

ALARM GIVEN.

Make Escape After Cleaning Teller's Cage of $2,000.

TORONTO, Ont., October 29. — At 3.30 p.m. yesterday the Bank of Nova Scotia at Campbellville, Ontario, near Midland, was rifled of $2,000 by hold-up men.

Six bandits entered the bank, holding the staff up at the point of their guns and took all the cash from the teller's cage, amounting to $2,000. They made good their escape by means of a waiting automobile, which drove rapidly away. The police headquarters at Toronto were immediately notified of the robbery, and they will commence making investigations immediately.

Asked for Change.

One man entered the bank and asked the teller to change a five-dollar bill. A moment later two others swept in and covered the two members of the bank staff with revolvers. The manager, W. B. Stewart, reached for his gun, but was observed by the first of the bandits who had entered the building and ordered to drop his weapon on the floor.

As the manager dropped his pistol the three hold-up men vaulted the wall and cleaned out the teller's cage of $2,000 in cash. A larger amount in the vault remained undisturbed.

As the men ran from the building, they entered a waiting motor car in which were three other men. But a second after the car pulled away, Stewart, the bank manager, came running out firing his revolver. At least two shots are known to have taken effect in the car itself, but whethe or not they struck any of the six occupants is still in doubt.

After Hours.

Although it was after business hours and the bank was technically closed, the doors stood open, permitting the bandits to enter.

The whole job was the work of four minutes The village police were on the job soon afterward and broadcast the alarm throughout the countryside. Hospitals have also been warned to keep a look out for men suffering from gunshot wounds, as it is thought possible one or more of the sextette may have been wounded.

Manager Stewart immediately notified the police at Toronto, Burlington, and Hamilton, that the car had speeded towards Burlington.

The car was parked 250 yards from the bank, but following the hold-up Stewart ran after it for about 100 feet, shooting as he ran with another revolver he had at the bank.

He says the bandits did not return his fire, although villagers declare that the robbers also fired shots.

LATE WEATHER HELPS HARVEST

Farmers Able To Get in Corn and Root Crops in Cavan.

CROP REPORT.

CAVAN, Oct. 29.—The weather has been ideal for the harvesting of corn, clover seed and turnips, and farmers have been taking full advantage of it.

A few farmers have finished their fall plowing, but more are only well started. Silo filling and threshing as well as the harvesting of roots has delayed the ploughing in some sections.

A few good crops of mangels and turnips are seen, but on the whole they are small.

The threshing machines are busy. A great deal of threshing remains to be done.

Alsike has not yielded well this year and much of it is of a poor grade. The price is also much lower than last year, even for seed of good quality.

The wheat crop was varied. Some farmers had wheat which yielded fairly well and was of good quality, while others had it small and shrunken. Others had smut. Some of the latter was unfit for milling purposes and had to be sold at a lower price for feed.

Peas are a fair crop. Late barley and buckwheat yielded well. Oats are above the average.

Potatoes were few in the hill and very many had a great loss from rot. Apples are scarce. Hay and alfalfa were a good crop, which will help out the feed problem.

About the same acreage of fall wheat was sown this year as is usual in this section.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, October 29. — The Winnipeg wheat market experienced a lull yesterday following three days of good action. Absence of foreign demand and weaker speculative business gave values a moderate downward thrust, the closing losses ranging between 1⅝c to 1⅞c. Liquidations in the nature of back-spreading saw both October and November wheat sink 2⅛c below Thursday's quotations during the early stages of the session. Weak Liverpool cables also influenced the down trend.

Easiness also characterized the coarse grains, prices generally undergoing fractional losses.

COURT UPHOLDS BOND RULING

Government Fails in Efforts to Trail Source of Securities.

TRACE COUPONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(A.P.)—Harry F. Sinclair was linked directly yesterday by government witnesses with the operations of the Continental Trading Company, Limited, which at one time had possession of the $230,500 in liberty bonds which eventually found their way into the hands of M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, shortly after the lease of Teapot Dome.

The government failed, however, in its effort to force Everhart to tell from whom he received the bonds, Justice Siddons upholding his contention that he had constitutional immunity because for him to reveal this information might tend to incriminate him.

This ruling was a distinct disappointment to special oil counsel, but after recalling Everhart and putting him on record as refusing to answer several other questions on the same grounds and in the presence of the jurors, they set out upon the winding trail of the bonds and their coupons

As this trail was explored, the jury was taken rapidly from New York to Pueblo, Colo.; to El Paso, Texas; to Carrisozo, New Mexico; to Denver, Colo., and finally to Washington, where the cancelled coupons were safely locked away in the federal treasury and from which the oil counsel obtained them.

Purchased Bonds.

The day's testimony was that by direction of H. S. Osler, of Toronto president of the Continental Company, who refused to give a deposition, for use in the civil trial of the Teapot Dome case at Cheyenne, the New York agency of the Dominion Bank of Canada purchased $300,000 in liberty bonds through three New York brokerage houses.

This was on April 13, 1922, six days after Fall and Sinclair attached their respective signatures to the lease by which Teapot Dome passed from control of the government to that of Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Company. Osler himself visited the Dominion Bank agency and carried the bonds away, they having been wrapped in brown paper for him by the bank.

There the trail of the bonds was momentarily broken. It was in the following month that Everhart says he was in New York. From that city he came to Washington, he told the jury yesterday, and conferred here with his father-in-law.

BALE APPRECIATED.

Letter Received About Clothing Sent To Labrador Hospital.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Trussler from the Grenfell Mission at Harrington, Labrador.

My dear Mrs. Trussler:

A bale of clothing arrived last month for the hospital that has been greatly appreciated.

I found your name and address in the bale. Would you be kind enough to thank those who so generously have contributed to the support of our hospital.

I am,

Sincerely yours,

ISOBEL FLEMING.

Sarnia Collegiate Wins Shooting Trophy

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Sarnia Collegiate Institute Cadet team was adjudged the winner of the annual King George V rifle shooting competitions conducted yesterday afternoon on the Cove Ranges. The score, which is compared with high scores in other military districts throughout Canada to determine the winner of the magnificent trophy donated by His Majesty, however, was not announced, in accordance with the custom of previous matches. As the high team of the day, the Sarnia representatives are winners of the Challenge Cup donated by the Department of National Defence for military District No. 1, and of $34 in cash. The following teams, in the order of naming, shot the next highest scores of the day, winning cash prizes: Tilsonburg, Guelph, Wingham, Watford and Chatham.

J. Headley, of Kincardine placed first with the highest aggregate score on shooting, winning the Frank White, M.P., silver cup and $25 in cash.

HISTORY records the story that Hezekiah, king of Judah, fearing that he was near to death, asked, as a sign that he might be spared, that the shadow should move backward upon the sundial of Ahaz.

As Hezekiah, trembling in anticipation, watched, it is said that the shadow slowly ceased its onward course and commenced to move backward around the dial, in token of the fact that fifteen years were added to the life of the king.

Fifteen years of added life meant much to Hezekiah—it would mean much to us today.

Yet we, of this generation, enjoy an average life many years longer than our ancestors just a century ago. These years have been added to the average, individual life—without any seeming miracle—without even very common knowledge, proving that

Life Can Be Prolonged

A steadily-growing programme of health conservation has been launched and given impetus, thanks to the efforts of far-seeing and humanitarian men. Each year sees an increasing interest being taken in the prevention of illness and disease—in giving every child an opportunity of becoming a strong, healthy, happy man or woman.

Any plan which has at its object the bettering of public health and the prolonging of human life merits the unreserved support of every thinking citizen. It is our responsibility—it is our business—to see that every care is taken in the matter of sanitation, and prevention of contagion, that healthful rules of living are followed, and that the regulations and practices of preventive medicine are employed.

What You Can Do

There are certain steps we can all take to assist in the wide-spread programme of welfare and health, such as attention to little ills as they appear; care of the teeth, eyes, skin, etc.; prevention of contagious or infectious diseases; proper feeding and care of children; regular habits of living and diet; thorough examination by a competent medical authority at regular intervals.

When sickness threatens seek proper advice. Have a thorough medical examination at least once a year.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

IT SEEMS TO ME that it would be a good thing for all concerned if the bankers and the boys could get together. I am in hearty agreement with an editorial appearing in The Toronto Globe under the caption of "The Rich Man's Son," which, apparently, was suggested by what Principal Grant had said at the prize day celebrations at Upper Canada College in regard to the dangers of allowing too much pocket money to young people. "This is an age of easy money, and too many boys have too much of it," he said. "To train a boy in the wise spending of money is one thing; to train him in the squandering of money is quite another thing."

PAMPERING PARENTS.

Every right thinking person will agree that the practice followed by some fond fathers, and mothers, too, of responding to every request for pocket money is a foolish and sometimes a fatal one, and in many cases will lead to disastrous results sooner or later. Such pampering of young people will never help them to appreciate the value of money.

An over-indulgent father may be one of the heaviest handicaps ever imposed upon a young life.

It is too bad when a man now prosperous, but who in his earlier years knew from bitter experience some of the trials and hardships which keep company with poverty, becomes too indulgent with his own family in an effort to save his children from the experiences of his own early years. It is a mistaken kindness to give money to gratify every whim. It is an investment of the worst kind, and it will bring dividends which will impoverish instead of enrich.

A CASE ON RECORD.

"Many years ago there appeared in the dock of a London Police Court a young man, the son of a millionaire. The father had by industry and business ability risen from penury to great affluence, and, remembering the privations of his own boyhood days, determined that his boy should not be stinted in any way. The result was that, while still in his teens, the youth, who always had his pockets filled with golden sovereigns, was surrounded by a swarm of 'sharks,' who did everything to flatter his vanity, and in return he distributed largesse with an unsparing hand. Before he came of age his fond father died; the youth got into the hands of money-lenders, and before the time came when he should have inherited the paternal fortune he had been led into crime by his worthless companions, and was sent to prison, disgraced and despised by all decent people.

"And his downfall at the time was ascribed entirely to the fact that his wealthy father had been over-indulgent."

A fool's fortune is his misfortune! He rushes into all the more extravagance and vice because he has the means of paying for his pleasures. Nothing is a greater misfortune to some young men than to be born rich except it is to have a father who pampers them before they reach their majority. If a young man is to be burned it is a pity that his father should slave to gather the faggots.

THE BOY AND THE BANKER.

There is one feature of a boy's culture, or bringing up, which is as a general rule, given too little attention. This is the matter of teaching him the importance of cultivating the faculty of thriftiness and economy, as well as energy and industry.

Why don't we point out to him the necessity of planning for the future by beginning the saving of at least a part of the money which comes to him, even while but a boy? It seems to me that it would be wisdom of a worthwhile kind to start early and give him advice as to investments and business generally. Such a course would fit him for meeting what he must face and save him from many embarrassments which come to being financially helpless upon attaining his majority.

It is beyond question that many men who manage to "get along some way" after they have the responsibilities upon them realize that much embarrassment, inconveniencing of friends and other unpleasant things, naturally coming up as time passes, would have been avoided had they been taught the wisdom of beginning to save to a reasonable extent from their young days.

SAVE THE PENNIES.

The man who as a boy was impressed with the old adage that "a penny saved is a penny made" finds as he grows older that he did well to act on the idea conveyed; and so as he becomes a young man he saves his dollars as he used to save his dimes, with the result that when he is grown he finds himself equipped with both money and more or less business experience, supplemented by the habit of husbanding his resources.

In my anxiety to impress both parents and children with the value of a wise economy, I am willing to run the risk of influencing them to go to the other extreme, making misers of them!

There is a vast difference between stinginess and economy, between stinting and saving; and while inculcating the habit of thriftiness, the distinction should always be emphasized.

PARTNERS IN BUSINESS.

Early in his life the boy should be led to make the acquaintance of a good banker. Probably this can be best done by starting an account with a bank, even while he is yet saving his nickles and dimes.

A modest weekly allowance for a boy is, of course, a good thing. Knowing that the amount is restricted, he will learn to invest it in a way which will best meet his particular needs.

It is a wise provision when the authorities of certain great schools fix the amount which boys may receive in the way of weekly pocket money. It is an extremely small amount, and no matter how wealthy the parents may be they are not permitted to exceed in their remittances the limit set for the school. The boys are thus taught to eke out each quarter, with the result that in later years when they have larger sums to handle they know the value of money.

But I repeat—let the boy and the banker get acquainted!

A boy or young man forming such an acquaintance, and who is himself worthy of the banker's confidence and trust, will find that he not only has some capital to begin with, but also a valuable asset in his reputation for integrity, industry, economy and business worth that will be a source of helpfulness and reassurance during his business life. Such an acquaintance will prove mutually helpful and profitable to him and his banker.

One doesn't value what one has always had—only what one has painfully acquired.

IS THE YOUNG MAN SAFE?

When one came back from the battle to play the part of war correspondent to David, who then occupied Israel's throne, David's first question was, "Is the young man, Absalom, safe?"

No young man is safe who has had an over-indulgent father during the period of his school and college days. Make the boy earn in one way or another all that he gets for pocket money. He will appreciate the value of it better that way than any other. Encourage him to save some of all the money he gets, and in later life he will be increasingly grateful to you for your thought and advice.

—Allan Fairbairn.

What Is Death

HE SAID, "I reckon it's like going to sleep when you are pretty well tired out, and waking to find a summer day with the scent of hay coming in at the window. I used to thank God for such mornings way back in the Blue Grass country, and I guess I'll thank Him when I wake up on the other side of Jordan."

Shall We Live Again?

THERE is not a whole household on the face of the earth Not one in which there is no grief for the departed! The air is full of joyful greetings for those who have just come and of sad farewells for those who are just going.

We know by experience what awaits the newcomers into this short but beautiful life, but what have we to say of those who have whispered their "good night" and are about to fall asleep? Are we left in the dark concerning them, and must we weep until forgetfulness dries our tears, or can we look serenely into the future and think of them as in some foreign clime, where they are rejoicing at their larger opportunities and awaiting our coming?

TELL US A STORY

PERHAPS the grandest example in modern history of that audacity which combines all the physical, civic and mental elements of courage, is found in Napoleon's return from Elba, and triumphant progress to Paris. The world then beheld the whole organization of a monarchy melt away, like a piece of frost-work in the sun, before a person and a name. Every incident in that march is an epical stroke. He throws himself unhesitatingly on the Napoleon in every man and mass of men he meets; and Napoleonism instinctively recognizes and obeys its master. On approaching the regiment at Grenoble, the officers in command gave the order to fire. Advancing confidently within ten steps of the levelled muskets, and baring his breast, he uttered the well-known words, "Soldiers of the Fifth Regiment, if there is one among you that will kill his Emperor, let him do it: here, I am!" The whole march was worthy such a commencement, profound in intelligence, irresistible as destiny.

A Pen Picture

A poor young man lying out in the fields—he is quite alone and seems to be sick and dying. Hour after hour passes, and some days and nights drag their slow length along and he is still alone, sick and starving.

He hears footsteps—perhaps his friends have come back to look for him? No, these are strangers and soldiers; perhaps they will kill him! But see, they are kind to him and give him a drink of water and some food.

• • •

What a crowd of people! And what a fine time they are having! They are singing and dancing, they have plenty to eat and drink, and are evidently determined to enjoy themselves. Such a contrast to the first part of the scene—nobody starving here; and yet I think that I see some who look very sad and broken-hearted. But the rest are not going to be sad, not they. Perhaps some of them think for a moment or two of one of their party whom they deserted the other day, but they soon forget him and return to their fun again. Little do they imagine that someone is watching them.

What Man Needs

MAN as a sinner is alienated from God, and needs a Mediator; he is enslaved and needs a Redeemer; he is polluted and needs a Sanctifier; he is disordered and needs a Physician; he is helpless and needs a Saviour; he is born in sin and needs a new birth.

Churches And Churchmen

HAZARDS to life and limb have been materially reduced in West Kwangtung Province, China, since the military operations of last spring. Rev. F. Opperman, missionary at Limchow of the Schleewig-Holstein Missionary Society, reports the followin situation: "The anti-Christian movement, of course, is going on. Only the methods have been changed a little, but we are very grateful that the terror has ceased. Anti-Christian demonstrations have been strongly prohibited by the Government. Friends and even officials now dare to visit us in our home as before. Others are coming to our meeting without being molested. Meantime, a 'Bible campaign' has been conducted with considerable success and a few encouraging meetings have been held at one of the mission's outstations. In spite of the continued danger, the mission has opened an enlarged school at Pakhoi, and, at both Pakhoi and Limchow, the church boards are very active and the congregations are taking great interest in the development and the extension of the work. They are striving to reach the responsibility of self-government as soon as possible."

Moslems and Money Lenders.

MOSLEMS faced with the necessity of revising and changing their ethics in their religious system, continue to ask questions regarding the business ethics of the Christian West. A business man asked only recently about the laws controlling the giving and taking of interest on money in Christianity. In the discussion which followed he pointed out the many evils of the interest system of the East. These evils were probably as tangible in the East in the days of Mohammed, as they are today in Syria where it is estimated that 95 per cent. of the peasants are debt slaves to the landowning money lenders, and they have no hope of release.

A Helpful Contest.

THERE has just been organized by the men of Miami, Fla., a Sunday morning Bible class, which meets in a theatre, the attendance at the first meeting having been 321, Frank Strubee, President of the class, and Dr. Everett S. Smith, teacher, expect the membership to reach 1,000. Nationally known speakers and visitors who go to Miami this winter will be invited to address the class. It is expected ultimately to arrange an attendance contest with a church in Long Beach, Calif., which has a men's class of 2,000, the President of which, by the way, is a Canadian.

A Priest Married.

REV. JAMES K. BOYLAND, of Miami, Okla., who until last May was a priest of the Roman Catholic Church, has assumed the pastorate of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Puxico, Mo. Mr. Boyland severed his connection with the Catholic church in May when he married Miss Lois C. McReynolds, a Methodist, of Tulsa. While preparing for the Methodist ministry, he supported himself by working as a salesman.

A Banker Invests in Religion.

IN the opinion of Oscar C. Hagen, a Chicago investment banker, the best investment that business can make is in the spread of religion. Mr. Hagen, who is a member of the Second Presbyterian Church, Chicago, gives that belief as his reason for extending an invitation to 1,000 clergymen and laymen of Chicago to be his personal guests at a dinner at the Hotel LaSalle Nov. 10, to launch one of the largest revivals in the history of the city.

The banquet is said to be unique in Chicago religious circles in that it was conceived and is being carried out by the business man who is bearing the expense of several thousand dollars out of his own pocket.

"I am spending no more on this dinner than many men spend on golf in a single year," said Mr. Hagen. "A business friend who is quite a golf fan seemed astonished when he heard that I expected to entertain a thousand churchmen in a plan to advance religion in Chicago and asked me if it wasn't quite an expenditure of money.

"I asked him to figure up what his various golf club memberships and other expenses of the game cost him over a year, and he finally estimated the amount at more than $5,000. I told him that I was spending less than that on an effort to benefit the entire city.

"Moral character is the basis of credit and without credit our vast commercial, industrial and financial enterprise would come tumbling down. The foundation of moral character is religion. If religion disappears, embezzlement, fraud and corruption will spread with inconceivable rapidity.

"I believe it is up to the business men to realize this, and instead of expecting the ministers to do all the work of spreading the gospel, to do all they can in the common enterprise. For that reason I expect from this time forth to devote just as much of my time and energy to the spread of religion as I do to business affairs."

Darkness and Shadow

"And they feared as they entered into the cloud."—Luke 9:34.

WHAT a strange influence darkness and shadow have over us all! I was never so scared in my life as when the Mt. Vesuvius elevator shot right into big black cloud. Wendell Phillips is authority for saying that when "geese enter a barn door they duck their heads, for fear of hitting the top sill." I know it is hard for us not to duck and crouch when we enter darkness of any kind, and especially a cloud of sorrow. The whole discipline of life is to teach us how to enter every kind of darkness without a tremor. Do not be afraid of the night. Do not be afraid of a thunder-cloud. Don't be afraid of a misfortune or a sorrow. Don't crouch. Don't tremble. Walk right into it with your head up. God is as near you in the dark as He is in the light. And this is the only real source of safety. You think you can take care of yourself in the daylight. You are mistaken. If God should withdraw from you a single moment, it would be like withdrawing the air from under the bird. It is because His eye never slumbers nor sleeps, because His everlasting arms are everlastingly beneath us, that we are safe. —C. F. G.

All impatience disturbs the circulation, scatters force, makes concentration difficult if not impossible. —C. B. Newcomb.

There is a kind of intuition by which journalists can fulfil the invariable law of the newspaper, which is to be interesting.

Mere shrewdness is among the stupidest and most hateful things in the world. There is nothing with which men are so soon satiated.

Life Is Imperfect

THERE is, perhaps, with all classes the conviction that this life is imperfect and partial—that the human spirit calls for a higher and larger life to satisfy its deathless cravings. A sense of the incompleteness of this life is well nigh universal, and it is a prophecy of those larger things the future holds for the sons of men. "In the heart of man a cry: in the heart of God supply."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1927.

SEE YOU ALL MONDAY.

The Examiner expects to meet all its reads Monday night at the Hallowe'en party for which all preparations have been completed.

For the second year in succession we are presenting this community celebration of Hallowe'en as a contribution from The Examiner, believing that a sane observance of this occasion will provide more honest fun than the old-time horse play and not leave in its wake a record of damaged property.

Everybody is invited; we want you to take part in the parade or at least to watch it, and after the prize winners have been decided we expect you are to participate as our guests in the community dance at the Armouries.

We do not think it necessary to ask that there be no rowdyism or ungentlemanly conduct; the splendid order and general spirit of fun, without damage, that distinguished last year's celebration offer a guarantee, if any were needed, that Monday's big event will be carried out without a disturbing feature.

It is your night, and we hope you will get as much fun out of it as we are getting satisfaction out of making the affair possible.

LOWEST IN CANADA.

After an exhaustive study of the per capita taxes levied by Canada, Great Britain and Australia and the United States, the Citizens' Research Institute has found that the people of Canada pay the lowest per capita taxes of the four countries studied.

Comparisons in this regard have frequently been made, but usually erroneous impressions have been created, inasmuch as an activity which is carried on in one country by the Federal Government may be performed in another by the local or state Government, and the cost will therefore not be included in the Federal Government upkeep.

The Institute's study is, however, an attempt to present a complete picture of the taxation borne in the four countries, and provides some interesting figures.

For the year 1925 the total taxation in Canada per capita was $65.52, as compared with $69.94 in the United States, $73.20 in Australia and $92.42 in Great Britain.

Canada in that year paid a per capita Federal tax of $35.34, per capita Provincial taxation of $6.33 and per capita municipal taxation of $23.85.

Her Federal taxation is lower than that of Australia and Great Britain, but higher than the United States per capita Federal tax, which in 1925 was $27.11.

STAND BEHIND THE Y.W.C.A.

The finance campaign of the Y.W.C.A., which was launched on Thursday, aims at the raising of $1,500 which is to be used to pay the balance on the filtration system and repairs to the heating plant and to meet running expenses.

The Young Women's Christian Association is a most important unit in the community life of Peterborough, and its various activities are of great value.

Although a budget of $25,000 is required to carry on its work here, the institution is 96 per cent. self-sustaining, and the balance should readily be forthcoming as a result of the present campaign.

The importance of the Y.W.C.A. as a rallying point for the girls of the city and the part it plays in their all-round development are so generally recognized by this time that it should not require very exhaustive efforts to secure the small sum needed to balance the budget.

The Y.W.C.A., a home for the girls away from home and a club, a gymnasium, a social centre and a training school for the girl who does live at home, is justified in claiming that it stands behind the city's girlhood, and in appealing for the community in turn to stand behind it.

WORTH GOING AFTER.

The fact that United States tourists during the past season spent $1,500,000 in the Trent district is about the most pointed proof of the success of the publicity efforts of the Trent Waterways Development Association that could be adduced.

The association has been devoting its campaign to advertising the many charms of the Trent district among the people of the Northern States, and that its propaganda has been getting results the figures as to the extent of the tourist traffic this summer leave no doubt.

Our own immediate district has had a liberal share of this lucrative traffic.

The sum of $500,000 cannot be put into circulation here within the compass of a few months without everybody directly or indirectly sharing in the benefits.

It means money in the pockets of all, and the fact that one-third of all the expenditures in the Trent district by United States tourists were made in the Peterborough-Lakefield section suggests that local support of the Trent Waterways Development Association and its activities should be more generous than it has been up to the present.

The tourist business is worth going after and worth spending a little money on; there is no reason why the returns from this source of revenue cannot be doubled again within a year or two.

MARRIAGE AND A CAREER.

Comment is made by The Toronto Star on the fact that the Prime Minister of Canada, the new leader of the Conservative party and (so it says) the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway are all unmarried.

"Here are three men holding the highest positions in the land, and—unmarried. The women of this country should find in this something to think about. Whither are they drifting?

"Women demanded the right to vote and got it. They are asserting their right to appointment to the Senate, and may get it. They are swimming the English Channel and flying the Atlantic. But what shall it profit them if they prove that they can do a hundred-yard dash as fast as any man, or throw a javelin or jump a five-barred gate, if they miss the main chance and let three such prospective husbands as these escape them—if they allow these three men alone and matrimonially unattended to display themselves in the highest places in the land, advertising the advantages of celibacy?"

The Star goes on to say that young men may thus be misled into believing that they may attain to high positions without the aid of wives, and that the women ought to do something about it. It must be noted, however, that women have been making a still more striking declaration of independence. In former times it was generally held that the destiny of woman was to marry and bring up a family. Without a husband she was supposed to be incomplete. Few independent careers were open to her. Now women are found in business and the professions, sometimes earning so much money that marrying would involve a financial loss. All this tends toward the postponement of marriage, if not to single blessedness for life.—London Advertiser.

INFANT MORTALITY IN CANADA.

Disquieting in the extreme are certain facts contained in a recently published statement of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics having to do with the births, marriages and deaths recorded throughout Canada during the year 1926. From this statement it is learned that, in spite of the efforts made by the various departments of health, Federal and Provincial, and scores of other agencies, to reduce the rate of infant and maternal mortality, last year Canada lost no fewer than 23,671 babies under the age of one year, 30,973 under the age of five years, while another 7,089 children were stillborn. In addition, it is recorded that 1,314 mothers died in childbirth, or at the rate of 5.7 per thousand living births, one of the highest maternal death rates amongst civilized states.

Actually, as the Canadian Council of Child Welfare has pointed out, the infant mortality of the Dominion was as high as the immigration from the British Isles. During 1927, the country welcomed 37,569 immigrants from Great Britain and Ireland, and during the same period it lost 38,062 infants under the age of five years or stillborn. Any advantage which Canada gained through the arrival of these newcomers was, therefore, offset, by the loss of the same number of infants. Moreover, she lost a further 1,314 mothers through childbirth.

What makes this circumstance particularly distressing and unfortunate is the undeniable fact that in a great many cases, these deaths were preventable and were the product of either ignorance or the inability of mothers to obtain proper advice and treatment at the time of childbirth. No person is able to tell how many of these young lives might have been spared had prompt medical attention been received or the proper facilities been at hand to ensure the best possible treatment.

The problem of population is one of the greatest that faces the Canadian people. How to retain Canada's present population and to add to it is a question which has staggered public men during the past decade or more. Everywhere the cry is for a greater population in order that the burden of taxation may be more evenly distributed, that there may be a greater outlet for the products of the factories and the farms, that the railways may be able to increase their earnings and that, in general, the prosperity of the Dominion may be enhanced. To that end successive Governments have bestowed their best efforts upon the attraction of settlers from abroad and the repatriation of Canadians who have established residence in the United States. That these efforts have been crowned with more than a measure of success is evident in the immigration returns which are issued from month to month and which reveal an ever-increasing number of arrivals at the ports of entry. Yet during the year 1926, according to the authoritative Bureau of Statistics, infant deaths throughout the Dominion actually exceeded the number of arrivals from the British Isles. Annually, if this state of affairs continues, we shall be actually losing in British-born citizens a greater number than we receive.

Would it not be well for the different Governments to devote equally as great attention to the preservation of infant life as to the acquisition of adult life from distant sources? Admittedly, the problem is one of exceedingly great difficulty. In the more settled parts of the country, where medical advice, efficient nursing and hospital facilities are quite easily obtainable, there is really little excuse for infant mortality attaining the high rate that is prevalent. But in those parts of the Dominion where population is widely scattered and where physicians, nurses and hospitals are limited, it is easy to understand that loss of life may be quite frequently the result. Nevertheless, the fact that one of the oldest of Canadian Provinces possesses the highest infant mortality rate—reaching the almost unbelievable figure of 142 deaths per thousand living births—is unmistakable evidence that ignorance regarding pre-natal and post-natal care is to blame and that the loss of life is in numerous cases preventable.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

LOCAL HOG MARKETS.

Live hogs, thick smooth, $9.25 per cwt.; select graded, $9.75; dressed hogs, head on, $17.00; head off, $18.00 per cwt.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Ont., October 29. — There was no change in the general situation in the cattle market this week. Receipts run into record figures for the season and prices continue to hold steady to firm in practically all grades ,though with a rather wide range between top and bottom.

Though the bulk of receipts are of the medium and common types ,as usual on the eve of the winter stalling, there are some fancy quality among the comparatively few heads of choice, finished cattle. One load of extra fancy type topped the market for the week at $9.60.

The general average of prices ran steady with the last week.

Hogs have weakened in sympathy with the lower hog prices over the border.

General run of prices as follows:

Choice butcher steers, $8.25 to $8.75. Heavy beef steers, choice $8.50 to $9.00. Choice light steers, $8.25 to $8.50, and choice butcher heifers, $8.00 to $8.25.

Baby steers firm, choice, $12.00 to $13.00.

Common steers and heifers, $5.00 to $5.50.

Choice butcher cows, $5.50 to $6.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.00.

Bulls, choice, $5.00 to $5.75.

Hogs steady at $10.65 off cars, selects. Packers bidding $10.40 for week-end loadings .

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., October 29 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in wheat here yesterday with the United Kingdom and the Continent was somewhat disappointing, there being only sales of a few loads of Manitoba No. 3 wheat.

The domestic market for Canadian Western oats was again weak, and prices were reduced another cent per bushel on account of the further decline in Winnipeg futures. The demand was fair.

There was a steady demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for spring and wheat flour for both nearby and deferred shipment, and a fair amount of business was done. The local trade was also fair, and prices were steady. There was no change in prices for winter wheat flour for which the demand was steady.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the demand that developed from the United States and some business resulted. The movement for local and country account was fair and values were firm.

The undertone to the market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady, with a fair trade passing.

Prices for all grades of eggs were firmly maintained under a fair demand from all sources. The receipts were 154 cases.

There was no further change in prices for potatoes, but the undertone to the market was still easy owing to the liberal supplies available, for which the demand is only moderate. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.40 to $1.45 per bag of 90 pounds ;New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.35 to $1.40 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag in bulk; and Quebec White Stock at $1.20 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

There were no new developments in the butter trade, the undertone being easy with a moderate amount of business passing in small lots. The receipts were 764 packages.

Owing to the continued indifferent demand from English buyers for cheese, the market in this respect was quiet, but there is still some business passing in the lower grades for United States account. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 9,172 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Undoing of spread trades between wheat and corn was largely responsible yesterday for a downturn in wheat values, whereas the corn market simultaneously went higher. The undoing of spreads consisted of sales of wheat against purchases of corn Wheat closed nervous, ⅝c to 1c net lower; corn at ⅝c to 1¼c advance; oats ¼c up; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30 cents.

Favourable conditions yesterday to promote the moving of the Canadian crop were coincident with indications of a pause in export demand for wheat from North America. Besides, Liverpool quotations were a good deal lower than due, crop reports from Argentine were bearish, and European wheat production outside of Russia was estimated at 75,000,000 bushels more than last year, although of poor quality in some countries, especially Germany and France.

Big arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg, 2,607 cars yesterday compared with 1,637 a year ago ,counted further as a bear influence ,and so likewise did word that country marketing in Canada on Thursday totalled 6,111,000 bushels. On the other hand, farmers' deliveries of Canadian wheat are figured as still about 21,000,000 bushels under last year's total at this time. Word that a cargo of 295,000 bushels of domestic spring wheat had cleared from Duluth for Chicago was also the subject of notice.

Prospective unsettled weather tended to strengthen the corn market. Husking returns continue to be disappointing. Oats were responsive to upturns in corn.

Provisions reflected the advancing trend both of corn values and of hogs.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Oct. 29.—The basement of the Marmora Separate School, to be known in future as the Parish Hall of the Church of the Sacred Heart, lent itself admirably on Wednesday evening to the holding of the annual Chicken Supper, under the auspices of that Church. With this event was associated the holding of a two-day bazaar in the cheery rooms of the school. Mrs. W. Hughes, with the assistance of members of the Sodality, was entrusted with the serving of the supper which left nothing to be desired in the minds of the four hundred and more patrons. Previous to this, Mrs. C. A. McWilliams served afternoon tea, to those making an early visit to the bazaar. Pleasure was added to the occasion in the attendance of Father J. Hanley, of Tweed and Father H. J. O'Farrell of Enterprise, both of whom have in the past been associated with the parish as its priest. The main attractions of the Bazaar were superintended as follows: Fancy Work: Mrs. J. P. Marvin, Mrs. M. Shannon, Mrs. E. Deacon and Miss Hilda Hughes. Candy Counter: Misses Mar— Ryan Frances Doyle, Jean O'Neill and Kate Doyle. Fish Pond: Misses Florence Auger, Mary Auger, Mary Brady and Kathleen Neill. Home Baking: Mrs. J. Brady, Mrs. Hannah Auger and Mrs. H. Crawford. Games: Messrs. Harry Dunlay and Edward Hughes.

On Thursday evening good patronage was extended the card party which was the concluding event.

CAVAN PERSONALS

Wet, Slippery Pavements call for Special Care

The chances for motor accidents multiply greatly on pavements which are wet or covered with snow or ice. Even when equipped with chains, an automobile will not stop in so short a distance as on a dry pavement.

Motorists and pedestrians should keep this fact in mind. Too abrupt application of brakes is the cause of much skidding. Disengaging the clutch at the same time emphasizes the tendency to skid, and also detaches the most efficient brake on the automobile, viz., the engine itself.

In braking on a skiddy pavement close the throttle, take the foot off the accelerator, leave the clutch engaged so that the engine helps the braking process, and apply the brakes GRADUALLY.

Above everything else don't lock the wheels of your vehicle by suddenly clamping down the brakes.

Just before the vehicle is brought to a stop, the clutch should be disengaged.

On slippery pavements that are free from traffic, practice this method of controlling your automobile. The skill you acquire may save you money, and perhaps a life.

Remember, too, that your brake bands pick up moisture from the pavement in wet weather. A wet brake is not so efficient as a dry one.

Driving in fall and winter has its dangers both in city and country. By schooling yourself in handling your machine on wet or slippery pavements, your driving will be safer for yourself and for other drivers. Remember your automobile is a machine. It does just what you make it do.

If you are supporting the movement for more safety on the highways you will put the sticker on your car "I'm for Care and Courtesy. Are You?" You can get one at any garage or filling station.

Friday Night Club Makes Presentation to the Chairman.

BIRTHDAY HONORED.

At the regular meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Club, the Peterborough Junior O.R.F.U. Club members were banqueted. Adrian MacDonald, M.A., of the Normal School, was the speaker of the evening. His subject was unique and exceedingly interesting. It had to do with "The method of instruction for deaf and dumb." As this subject is one very rarely touched upon it proved full of not commonly known facts and problems in such instruction, and left a deep impression upon the listeners.

A pleasant surprise was sprung on Mr. Wallace, chairman of the club, in the form of a birthday remembrance. He was visibly touched and thanked his donors in a neatly turned speech.

ANNIVERSARY HELD AT SPRINGVILLE

Rev. Robert Pogue Preaches Two Stirring Sermons—Fowl Supper.

Successful anniversary services were conducted at Springville on Sunday last by the Rev. Robert Pogue, now of Toronto. Many old friends travelled from Peterboro to hear a beloved pastor and faithful preacher of the Gospel. Two large congregations listened with deep interest to messages fraught with spiritual power and lighted up with kindly humor. Miss Wolstenholm of Peterboro, was soloist at both services with Miss Nugent as accompanist. The offerings for the day amounted to $319.

On Tuesday night the fowl supper was eminently successful, nearly 600 being catered for. The new basement proved an excellent acquisition, the smooth handling of the crowd being a subject of remark.

A good programme followed, given by Miss Daisy Murray and Mr. G. D. Carlisle, Miss Trethewey and Miss Coon, Miss Outram, Mr. McLaren, Mr. Coleman and Mr. S. Fairbairn. Miss Donley acted as accompanist. The proceeds amounted to $323.

MISSIONARY EVENING

Young People of Warkworth Church Have Interesting Program.

WARKWORTH, October 29. — The missionary evening held by the Young People of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening was very interesting and was well attended. The president, Mrs. Carmen Carlaw, was in the chair. After the devotional exercises, routine business was transacted. The young people decided to have their social evening next Monday night in the form of a Hallowe'en party. Mr. James Bamber read the Scripture lesson, while sentence prayer was given by several members. The roll-call was answered by giving the name and work of some great missionary.

Miss Allie Mowat, convenor of the Missionary Committee, took charge of the rest of the meeting, the topic for the evening being "Christian Endeavour Work Throughout the Land," and several papers were given showing the good work that was being done in different countries.

To add to the success of the evening Miss Heather Grant sang a solo unaccompanied and Everett Maycock gave a piano solo, which was much enjoyed.

COMMUNITY DANCE IS GREAT SUCCESS

Fourteen Sets Occupy Floor at One Time at Campbellford Masquerade.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 29. — The masquerade party at the Community Hall seemed to be the main attraction of the evening. The dancing was the old-time square variety, and most of the dancers were in costume. The music was furnished by an orchestra from Roseneath, and was equal to any that has been heard in the locality for years. At one time during the evening fourteen sets were dancing, but the usual number was twelve. To relieve the monotony, a few round dances were sandwiched between the squares. There is every reason to believe that this will become a weekly affair.

Traynor, the master of the straight jacket, made good his promise to escape from the toils of the law last night at the Regent. The local Chief of Police and Officer Duncalfe, assisted by County Constable Seaborne, put on the first jacket, strapped it tight, locked it with two new and very serviceable padlocks made sure of their work by adding two pairs of handcuffs, one of the most modern type, and then adjusted the second jacket, which covered Traynor from his neck to his feet. This was strapped tight and additional heavy canvas and leathern straps pulled as tightly as two husky policemen could pull them. When they had finished, Traynor asked if they were satisfied. They replied that they were, and left him to his own resources.

Seven minutes later, Traynor had so far freed himself as to practically make it certain that he would make good his promise to escape. To completely free himself required an additional twenty-one minutes from the time he was pronounced secure till he was free was but twenty-eight minutes. In that time he had wriggled out of two tightly adjusted straight jackets. The applause which greeted his accomplishment was thunderous and prolonged.

For those who are still inclined to doubt, there was absolutely nothing unfair about the entire stunt. Besides the police, the press was also requested to view the act from the stage. Secured to the complete satisfaction of three efficient policemen, Traynor regained his liberty in twenty-eight minutes. That is all that need be said. In fact, it is all that there is to say, except that the physical exertion required is almost superhuman. Medical attention was required immediately Traynor had left the stage.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS HEAR TALK

world would look upon life assurance as a profession for which to prepare as does a student of medicine prepares to launch out on his career as a doctor.

In concluding he briefly summarised in impassioned manner: "I have pointed out that to be successful you have to make, build create. I have tried to show that the proper realization of this truth brings home the fact that a Life Assurance man must possess something more than the qualities of a blood-hound—sight instinct, scent. The nose for a prospect is not sufficient. It is true that he must be a searcher, but he must be a builder at the same time; he must not spend his time looking for a ready made article—he must find the raw material; he cannot hope to find the man who has made up his mind to buy life assurance; he must look for the man who needs it and who has the qualifications which will enable him to pass the medical tests. Then his creative faculty must be brought into play; he must imagine the man's needs; he must have the artistic faculty which will enable him to picture those needs either to the eye or to the brain of his prospect; he must have the arresting power which compels the prospect to concentrate his attention on the picture portrayed; he must have in his own heart that faith in the beneficence of his own proposition which automatically carries conviction to the mind and creates desire in the heart of the prospect. Finally to be really true to the ideals of this great work, he must approach the prospect with a feeling akin to that of a doctor who has dedicated his life to the good of humanity. The force back of this is love—think, practice and preach love and a renewed respect will uplift one and increase ambition. With a final exhortation to be men of vision and courage, Mr. McSweeney brought his fine speech to a close with the following lines, which he thought ought to be the creed of every life assurance agent "I am the servant of humanity, helping men by my advice to overcome the uncertainities of life, enabling one generation to hold out a helping hand to the next, thus serving most truly my fellowman, and carrying out the divine purpose of God."

Heated Argument.

Following this a heated argument ensued during the business part of the programme in reference to the proposed elimination of all part-time salesmen, as it was felt that a continuance of this policy would eventually lower the prestige and narrow the field of prospects of the legitimate underwriter. If such a measure can be consummated it will result in the creation of a more efficient and intelligent class of salesmen.

As those present failed to agree on a previous motion to this effect, a good deal of slightly acrimonious debate arose, and the feeling was so strongly divided as to the proper method of solving this vexing question that it was thought advisable to call another meeting of the district and branch managers at an early date to clear up the situation in this district.

An announcement was made concerning the projected Underwriters' Congress to be held here. An extract read thus "While completing plans for the Congresses are still uncertain a schedule calls for a three day Congress commencing in Peterborough on Wednesday February 15, 1928. Dr. Rockwell will deal with such subjects as The New Salesmanship; Everyone a Prospect; Broaching the Subject; What to Tell your Prospect; Supporting the Family; Meeting the Sales Resistance; Settling the Estate; A Service with Profit." These lectures are highly lauded for their practical educational value to the underwriter and a large number are expected to attend the Congress.

OBITUARY.

JAMES WYLIE KEITH.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 29. — With the passing of James Wylie Keith yesterday, Campbellford and the district loses one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens. Deceased was in his seventy-fifth year, and was a life-long resident of this district. For some years he was a well-to-do farmer of Seymour, but later resided in the town of Campbellford. He was an employee of the Trenty Valley Woollen Mills, now the Campbellford Cloth Company. Mr. Keith had been in failing health for some time, but his condition was not of the gravest nature till quite recently. The funeral service will leave the house Sunday afternoon at 1.30 for Burnbrae Cemetery. Rev. James Grier will officiate, assisted by Rev. D. A. MacKenzie of Burnbrae Presbyterian Church.

"CONSTANTINOPLE"

IT'S EASY There is nothing hard to do. And there is Two Thousand Dollars to win. All you need is paper and pencil. It is easy to understand and play this game. Just sit down and see how many words you can make from the letters in the word Constantinople. You will find all sorts of words that can be made out of these letters. For example, cat is one, pie is one, pant is another, and ant, etc, etc. It is as easy as that. It is a game for the whole family. No expert knowledge is needed. All you have to do to win a fortune is to play the game according to the rules announced to-day. IT COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

FIFTY Prizes will be given for the 50 best lists of words submitted. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of words made out of the letters in the word Constantinople will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize, etc.

Observe These Easy Rules

(1) Any man, woman or child who lives in Canada and is not a resident of the City of Toronto and who is not in the employ of The Mail and Empire may submit an answer.

(2) Make as many words as possible from the letters in the word Constantinople. You may use the letters over and over again in different words, but each word must not contain a letter more times than it appears in the word Constantinople. For example, you may use the letter "a" just once in each word, the letter "o" just once in each word and the letter "t" twice in each word.

(3) Write your words plainly on one side of the paper and in alphabetical order, numbering them 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right-hand corner. If you desire to write anything else use a separate sheet.

(4) Do not use proper nouns, proper adjectives, prefixes, suffixes, abbreviations, contractions, foreign words, obsolete words, combined forms, Scot or dialectic words. Words spelled alike but with different meanings will be counted as one word. Words spelled differently but with the same meaning will be counted as separate words. Both the singular and the plural may be used, and both will be counted, provided both forms are listed in the dictionary.

(5) The judges will use Webster's New International Dictionary, the latest edition, as authority, and the largest correct list of words made from the letters in Constantinople will be awarded first prize.

(6) One correct word will be deducted for each misspelled or incorrect word.

(7) In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tied participant.

(8) Only one prize will be awarded to any one household or group of persons. Every list must represent your own effort, and must be prepared by the person submitting it. Lists submitted which cause the judges to believe that they have been compiled by one and the same person will be rejected.

(9) The largest correct list of words prepared according to these rules will win first prize. The next largest correct list will win second prize, and so on until 50 prizes have been awarded (subject to rule 6).

(10) A cash prize of $50.00 will be awarded the first prize winner if no subscriptions to The Mail and Empire are sent in. However, the first prize winner will receive $1,000.00 instead of $50.00, provided one new or renewal yearly subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in. Better still, if TWO subscriptions to The Mail and Empire (either one new and one renewal, or both new, at $5.00 per year by mail, or $8.00 per year delivered by carrier in Hamilton or London) are sent in by the first prize winner he or she will be awarded $2,000.00 instead of $50.00.

(11) Renewal subscriptions will not be accepted that extend any subscription beyond January 1st, 1931.

(12) All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless of whether or not a subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in.

(13) Three prominent Toronto citizens, having no connection with The Mail and Empire, will be selected to act as judges to decide the winners; and participants, by sending in their answers, agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.

(14) Prize winners in former contests conducted by The Mail and Empire who have won $200.00 or more are not eligible to participate in this contest.

(15) Lists of words must be mailed and postmarked on or before midnight of Saturday, December 3rd, 1927.

How the $5,000 in Prizes Will Be Awarded

The greatest opportunity of your life is what The Mail and Empire is offering you in this word game, to "play and learn" while earning a big cash prize. You cannot help but enjoy the hunt for words in this game. All you need is an observing eye. Let's all join in and have a jolly good time. Put all the family in this game. Give Mary a pencil, and Bobby a pencil. Both parents take a pencil, and any other members of the family. Make it a game. See who can find the most words from the letters in the word Constantinople in half an hour. You'll find it fun. It is easy to do. It's educational, and it may be worth TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

50 CASH PRIZES to Be Given Away

This game is a campaign to increase the popularity of THE MAIL AND EMPIRE. It costs nothing to take part, and you do not have to send in a subscription to win a prize. If your list of words is awarded first prize by the judges, you will win $50.00. However, we are making the following special offers, whereby you can win greater cash prizes by sending in one or two yearly subscriptions.

Here's How the Big Cash Prizes Will Be Awarded

$2,000 instead of $50.00 will be awarded to the answer winning first prize, provided two yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire have been sent in, one subscription of which must be new. Second prize, $1,000.00; third prize, $700.00. (See third column figures in prize list.)

$1,000 instead of $50.00 will be awarded to the answer winning first prize, provided one yearly subscription has been sent in. Second prize, $500.00; third, $350.00, and so on.

Mine Market Active With Downward Trend

TORONTO, Ont., October 29 (Canadian Press). — Frequent moderate losses occurred in heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today when sales topped the million share mark. The weakest stock on the board was Noranda, slumping 40 cents at 25.50. Amulet dropped 21 at 5.10, and moderate losses were recorded in Argonaut at 32½, Aconda at 29, Laval Quebec at 36, and Tough Oakes at 57. Teck Hughes firmed 10 at 10.70, and Jackson Manion, the unlisted leader, sold 1½ higher at 73½.

Wheat Starts Weak But Moves Higher

CHICAGO, Oct. 29. Canadian Press —Wheat turned upward in price today after a wavering start. The initials declines were associated with unlooked for weakness at Liverpool, but the weather conditions in Northwest were less favorable, and talk was current about adverse developments in Argentina. Opening unchanged to ⅛c off, wheat scored advances all around. Corn started at 3-8c decline to ¼c gain and later showed a general upturn. Oats were firm. Provisions went higher.

Opening prices were Wheat, Dec., 123¾; March 127 1-8. Corn, Dec., 82¼; March 86¼. Oats, Dec., 47½; March, 49 1-8.

Toronto Market Dull But Fairly Atcive

TORONTO, October 29 (Canadian Press).—Price changes were for the most part negligible in an active but dull session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. A large number of slight recessions occurred, particularly in the unlisted section. Walkers and Gooderham and Worts each lost about a point at 60 1-8 and 60 respectively, and British American Oil and International Petroleum were slightly lower. Massey Harris at 35 and International Nickel at 63 were steady. Imperial Tobacco gained nearly a point at 9 7-8, and Asbestos firmed a little at 36 5-8. Canners Preferred and Brompton were easier, while City Dairy was marked down three at 195.

Bear Traders Hammer Leading Shares Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Irregular movements at the opening of the stock market to-day were turned into a definite downward trend when persistent hammering of United States Steel by the bear element forced it below 129. Early powerful support of General Motors and General Electric was eventually overcome under the battering received by some of the speculative shares. Another convulsive drop of 27½ points in Rossia Insurance to 145, following a sensational fall yesterday after it had hit 194 had considerable weight in shaping speculative ventures in other stocks.

Metal Trade Growing As Year Nears End

TORONTO, Ont., October 29.—In a summary of the iron, steel, and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Industry in Canada is responding in a convincing manner to the stimulation of autumn, whether this is due to the season of the year or to the fact that a number of large projects have reached the stage where they are prospects for the metal markets.

Production records of the past two months or so show recessions, but it is safe to say that October and the rest of the year will register sharp gains. Production of pig-iron in Canada during September amounted to 52,470 long tons, a decline of 17 per cent. from the 63,234 tons of the previous month.

This summary and the steel report for the same month, which indicates a corresponding recession, were compiled prior to the commencement of the steel mills on heavy new orders. A more inspiring view of the situation may be secured from the report on production of pig-iron for the nine months ending September, which was 520,414 tons, an increase of 15 per cent. over 1926 figures and of 53 per cent. over 1925. Steel production for the nine months was 12 per cent. over the 1926 figure.

Automotive plants are speeding up and parts makers are reflecting the improvement. Production of automobiles in Canada during September declined to 11,262 cars. This output was 10 per cent. less than the 12,526 cars produced in the previous month and 34 per cent. under the 16,923 cars made in September a year ago. The Ford plants are not more than 50 per cent. prepared for production, according to a reliable authority.

A strong demand continues throughout the Dominion for steel for building purposes, structural shapes, reinforcing bars, builders' hardware, etc. It has been estimated that in Ontario and Quebec some 40,000 tons of structural business is now pending. The Dominion Bridge Co., Montreal, will supply 5,500 tons for the new Chateau Laurier at Ottawa. At Toronto, some 7,000 tons will be required for the new Daily Star building, 8,000 tons for the Royal York Hotel, and 10,000 tons for the Bank of Commerce building and the Commerce and Transportation building.

Tool sales are reported to be good, with some large lists out now, one for the new front axle department of the General Motors of Canada plant Oshawa. Inquiries for tools are understood to be out, also, for part of the requirements for the new St. Charles shops of the C.N.R. at Montreal.

The metal markets have shown little variation in the past week so far as prices are concerned, and tonnages for immediate consumption bulk quite large. Sellers are keeping in close touch with the United States price situation, some believing that the movement there will before long affect Canadian quotations.

In Europe, the steel markets are more active. Large numbers of small orders are keeping British mills occupied. Tin plate depression is reported to be the worst in 40 years.

Lighthouse Nan

The performance of "Lighthouse Nan" at Victoria Hall last evening by the Mission Circle of Mark Street United Church drew a crowd of about two hundred people, who formed a very appreciative audience for the bright three-act comedy put on in excellent fashion by the young people under the direction of Mrs. E. Wand.

"Lighthouse Nan" is the story of a young girl who has been placed under the care of a pair of unscrupulous people. Changed at birth, she occupies a poor station in life, while her rich father regards as his own child the little girl, Hortense, whose real parents were poverty-stricken. Nan is a child of nature and attracts the notice of a summer boarder, Ned Blake, at the home of her foster parents. Blake befriends her from the attacks of her [illegible] and then circumstances combine to bring the real truth to light. Nan is sent to boarding school by her father, Mr. Enlow, and comes back to have a romantic love affair with Blake.

The play was presented in splendid fashion by a talented group of young people from the Mission Circle of the church. Under Mrs. Wand's clever direction, they did some exceptionally good character work and their stage scenery and settings were very fine. The comedy of the play was well brought out and the interest was sustained to the end. Cyril Agnew acted as stage manager and built the scenery for the very effective settings, which included an attractive living-room interior, complete with electric fireplace. Mr. Wesley Boorman's orchestra provided excellent music between acts and also numbers were given by Mr. Stanley Willis, tenor, with accompaniment by Mr. V. Boorman, and Mr. Elijah Forbes, with autoharp numbers. Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. W. Smith acted as treasurers. Assisting with the curtain were Gordon Agnew and John Hunter.

The cast of characters was as follows: Lighthouse Nan, a part very capably taken by Miss Mabel Reynolds; Hortense Neville, Miss Beatrice Castle; Honorable Sarah Cholmondeley Choke, Mrs. V. Boorman; Moll Buzzar, Mrs. H. Hunter; Ned Blake, Harold Agnew; Ichabod Buzzar, Cyril Agnew; Sir Arthur Choke, Morgan Perry; Injun Jim, Elijah Forbes; Mr. Enolfi Cleve Robb.

AUSTRALIAN ANSWERS 'BILL'

Sir Hugh Dennison Says U. S. Children Should Know Something of World.

BALDWIN COMMENTS.

NEW YORK, October 29 (Canadian Press).—Sir Hugh Dennison, Australian High Commissioner in the United States, has entered the battle started by Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago, who is campaigning against alleged British propaganda by attacking the Chicago Mayor for "stirring up racial antagonism." In an address here Sir Hugh also attacked Senator Borah for being "provincial," saying the Senator admitted he did not go abroad for fear his opinions might be changed.

Sir Hugh added that business men should be more interested in foreign affairs and the schools should teach children something of the world outside the United States.

Baldwin Agrees.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (United Press). —"I'm in complete agreement with 'Big Bill' Thompson of Chicago," said Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin at a meeting of the English Association.

"The most reliable history, in my opinion, is that with the strongest national bias."

"As a boy, the first history I read was 'Tales of a Grandfather'."

Entire Supply Gives Out During Campaign Against Smallpox.

STILL 48 CASES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press). — The entire vaccine supply available here for this city's battle against a smallpox outbreak gave out today and a rush call was sent to Toronto for more. Long lines of children were left standing outside the health stations when the supply ran out. The number of cases remained at forty-eight today. Thirty-five others are under surveillance in their homes.

KILLED BY ALCOHOL.

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict on Sudden Death at Belleville.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Death from alcoholic poisoning was the verdict returned by the coroners' jury which investigated the case of Thomas D. McGee, who died suddenly here on October 14. An examination of the contents of the stomach made by a provincial analyst disclosed traces of wool alcohol, which it was stated had caused death.

TRIALS OF INDIGESTION.

Errors About This Trouble Into Which People Fall.

Many people so far misunderstand the digestive system as to treat it like a machine; neglecting it until it works sluggishly, then irritating it into work again by the use of purgatives. The stomach needs help at all times, but a study of the process of digestion will show that purgatives as commonly taken are seldom necessary and often harmful.

To safeguard your digestion the diet must be controlled. Over-eating is always harmful, but one must assimilate enough food to supply the needs of the blood. Remember, the blood has to carry nourishment to all parts of the body and find fuel for its energy. Hence when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises. Therefore the sure remedy for indigestion is to build up the blood. If you suffer from any form of indigestion choose your diet carefully and take wholesome nourishment. Above all, start building up your blood by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then under the influence of the new blood supply, your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite improves and your food will do you good. So begin to improve your digestion by starting to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now.

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ADVISES LADIES TO BE ARTISTS

If Not With Brush, in Some Other Way, Says Owen Staples.

LOOK FOR BEAUTY.

To strive to be an artist of some type if not with the brush, at least in one of the many ways in which artistic perception manifests itself, and to look always for the beauty of life that underlies the common things of every day, was the message that Mr. Owen Staples, well-known painter and etcher of Toronto, brought to the members of the Women's Art Association, present yesterday afternoon at the reception held in the studios at the Conservatory of Music, which formed the opening function of the society for this season.

Mr. Staples, whose address, 'A Talk on Things Artistic," was mainly along abstract lines, rather than a concrete exposition of a teacher's conception of what constitutes art, captivated his audience by his genial, friendly personality, and the happy atmosphere which seemed to permeate his address. Of mature years, his appreciation of beauty, has led him into an apparently very intimate perception of its abundance in every phase of life, and he sought yesterday to arouse in his hearers a recognition of this principle which Emerson noted, when he said "In the mud and scum of things, something lovely always sings." Mr. Staples didn't talk about mud, but he went as far afield in his search for beauty as the lowly waterbugs that inhabit quiet pools, and even had something nice to say about the exquisite little insect that preys on the potato bug. It was a wide vista, perhaps wider than the majority of his audience realized, that he opened up for them in his brief talk on what constitutes art, and it had endless possibilities.

Mr. Staples interspersed his address with readings from printed clippings of his own, written around his impressions of various artistic things like spring, and July, and a winter day. He emphasized strongly the beauty of inanimate things, the dignity and strength of the perpendicular lines in nature, the restfulness and peace of the horizontal lines and the grace of the curve that unites them, and deplored the constant use of ornaments that are superimposed on plain lines, in an effort to add to their attraction, in a result that often detracts from the beauty of the unadorned original.

To remember a familiar landscape as it appeared under happy circumstances, to recall it on a summer day rather than when locked in the icy grip of winter, was another duty that was owing to nature, he said. "Beautiful things seem to put us into correspondence with another world where the harmonies are more perfect than in this," Mr. Staples declared, "and in them we get a glimpse of the deeper truth which the artist ever seeks for, and which rests in the world beyond."

Mr. Staples went on to speak of the exquisite patterns the handiwork of the great Creator, discernible in so many of the lower forms of vegetable and animal life. He said "An artist does not confine himself to purposeless copying alone. He thinks of the larger outline, the lines that give gravity and dignity, the grace that enhances the sweetness of the whole —makes elegance the result. Just as in music the rhythm of the composition is expressed by the musician, so in painting, the artist strives to attain the same rhythmic ideal in his expression of what he sees. A child looks at the pure outline of a face, for instance, and makes a picture by putting in marks for eyes and mouth, but as we grow older, we perceive the lights and the shadows, the atmosphere that colors the whole."

It was not until the thirteenth century that light and shade came to be recognised as integral parts of painting, and it was not until about 1500, just before Rembrandt, that chiaroscuro, as this study of light and shade is termed, was given importance in art. "Now we know that there is a tonal quality in everything, pulled together by a very beautiful atmosphere."

"Some people," said Mr. Staples, "like pictures that scream at them. They have a fondness for the poster form of artistic conception. But to my mind, there are extremes that should be shunned in art. I am not fond of noise at all times. I like to be quiet on occasion. If I am invited to a barn dance, for instance, then I relish the loud jigging music, but I could not stand noise forever implanted in my home in the form of a screaming picture. I prefer the painting that places the veil of atmosphere over the glories of nature, and gives to the beholder a glimpse of something beyond this earth."

"A personal vision is the essential thing for the artist, and an individual conception of what he sees. Give a dozen artists the task of painting a certain landscape, and you will find later that each is different. Yet, if you separated each picture from the group and looked at it apart, you would say that it was a graphic likeness of the spot portrayed. Each eye sees differently. Art is an individual thing, and it is in you and you alone, so that our whole idea is to teach people to recognize the vital essence of the subject, to follow Nature in spirit rather than in the letter. A picture is not necessarily artistic because it portrays an artist's conception of a certain place, just as a piece of music is not necessarily well played because it is done in a certain technical manner. There must be in both a true perception of the spirit of the thing portrayed, a glimpse of the beyond that lingers like an echo to smooth out the uncouth things of life, encountered every day. Beauty must be absorbed before it can be depicted. Just like a garden that is made in an artistic way, with a proper perception of color harmonies and values. And we must always remember that appreciation of beauty may sink to a vanishing point if we associate too much with ugliness, even with such things as ugly tempers."

Mr. Staples went on to say that beauty may be expressed in many ways in a picture, instancing the loveliness of the rugged figures portrayed in Millet's "Angelus" and "The Reapers," and of the fading effect of a lovely face on a magazine cover that lacks the character that makes it lasting and worth while as an expression of true art. To select only the details which are needful to a pictorial design, rather than to strive to incorporate unecessary elements in a picture, constituted the difference between the trained and untrained eye. Strong, rigid lines were not an essential in picture-making. To make the figures move and run it was necessary to blur the outlines and make them soft. True art was simple, and not strained.

These strong lines, unrelieved by atmosphere, were very noticeable in the work of the Group of Seven, to which Mr. Staples alluded as a phase of art which aimed to be decorative, rather than natural. The artists in this group had chosen the northern part of Canada as a medium for their work, but Mr. Staples said there were many beautiful landscapes in Canada which they did not touch, and he wondered if it were really a true exposition of our land that went forth in these delineations of "barren rocks, mining country, charred stumps and burnt-over areas.' They strove to show in a decorative way the cruder types of our landscape and their strong and virile conceptions were uncolored by sentiment.

Mr. Staples congratulated the Women's Art Association here on the splendid work it is doing to form a conception of the artistic things in life, and spoke of the art that may be delineated in the home, the dress and the manner of life of a truly artistic character. He regarded the local society's programme, he said, as a truly outstanding one.

An appreciation of the address was voiced by the president, Mrs. William Blackwell, and seconded by Mrs. F. C. Neal. Mrs. Blackwell also displayed with much pride a gift of Mr. Staples to the Women's Art Association, a very fine etching from his own studio

Afternoon tea was served at the conclusion of the address.

CLUB PRESIDENT MEETS OFFICIALS

Lieut. Col. C. H. Ackerman, president of the local Aero Club, was in Ottawa yesterday, and while there he was taken up in the big Fairchild sea plane which carried the overseas mail from Quebec to Ottawa in a trial trip this week and is making a second trial to-day. It is scheduled to leave Ottawa at 11.00 and proceed with the mail to Montreal. At Montreal it will pick up further mail and fly to Quebec in order to catch the steamship the "Regina," which sails from Quebec at 4.00 o'clock.

Col. Ackerman had interviews with several of the air officials and he reported that they are greatly interested in the Peterborough Aero Club, and the success of Captain Ayres' training school.

The Examiner's Hallowe'en Parade Arrangements Have Been Completed

A Big Night Expected Monday When All Peterborough and District Will Be Out For an Orderly Celebration of Hallowe'en.

The Citizens' Committee last night completed final arrangements for the big Hallowe'en Parade on Monday night, and a fine crowd is expected downtown; so much so that the new police regulations given out it is hoped will be graciously observed by all. The Police and the Citizens' Committee would like no parking of cars between 7.30 and 9.30 between King and McDonnel Streets. They would also like in case of a fire truck coming down Charlotte, Simcoe, Hunter or Brock Streets, that these intersections be not crowded with people and thus avoid an accident.

They also desire that no fireworks be used, as many of the costumes are made of very light material.

Those in Costume Only will go in the main door of the Armouries, which are open at 7 o'clock. Jack Gillespie will man the door. Jas. Abrahsm will allot position of the different classes.

Each class will have its own line, and a Boy Scout standard bearer. Art Blade and the rest of the committee will see to their properly getting placed and away.

The Parade, headed by the 57th Regimental Band, will leave the Armouries, Murray Street exit and parade Murray, Aylmer to McDonnel, to Water, to King, to George, up to the Rink.

The Pipers' Band will bring up the rear of the procession of pedestrians. The costumes will be finally judged at Brock Street Rink. Spectators are invited to attend the judging. No charge. Only those in costume allowed on floor.

Community dance at the Armories immediately after the parade, music supplied by the full band of the 57th Regiment.

Now let us have as orderly and happy a Hallowe'en as last year and everyone will be satisfied.

A CLEAN SUIT FOR THANKSGIVING

is, of course, necessary if you would make the proper appearance at the table and in social intercourse. Our dry cleaning will save you the price of a new suit and enhance your appearance. Bring that soiled suit here.

A Six Tube Set with Single Control
$125
Two Six Tube Console Models at equally attractive prices.

IN setting out to develop the radio set which now bears his internationally famous name, Dr. Frederick A. Kolster concentrated his genius on the production of a set that would be "unmistakably superior" to others yet moderate in cost.

How well he succeeded is best proved by the tremendous wave of public approval that has greeted Kolster Radio in Canada and the United States.

You don't have to use your imagination to appreciate Kolster superiority and performance. Your ear tells you.

Claims pale into insignificance. Technical descriptions are superfluous. The set, in actual performance, in realism and quality of tone; hair-line selectivity; distance; ease of control—proves itself.

Call on your nearest dealer. Ask for a home demonstration or listen to the Kolster at his shop. Compare its performance with that of any other set. Then compare prices. We leave the verdict to you.

AN ELIZABETHAN HALF TIMBERED HOUSE

By S. Maclure, Architect.

This beautiful Elizabethan style house is satisfactory evidence of the sterling qualities of this style when applied to the more expensive type of residence. Its characteristic informality eliminates the austere uninviting effect which, on pain of producing an institutional appearance, must be avoided in large house design. Interpretation of the style demands the best judgment of an experienced architect, for half timbering can easily be overdone, and the whole delightful old world effect ruined.

Let us observe a few outstanding features of the plans. Passing through the porte cochere and vestibule, one enters the main hall, in which a large open stair well forms a gallery on the second floor. This, with the big mullioned window, gives a beautiful picturesque effect which immediately impresses visitors when entering the house.

The profusion of fireplaces lends a homely charm to the interior which nothing else could convey. They are to be found, appropriately designed, in the dining, billiard, and living rooms, the study, and two bedrooms.

Linen and clothes closets have been abundantly provided in their most convenient locations, throughout the house.

Small homes on small lots usually have their main rooms facing the street, which is as it should be, for in such cases the owner can be more confident of the future appearance of the street than of the rear. When a large house of the type under consideration is erected on a large lot, however, and where the care is to be lavished on the garden which an English style home demands, the main rooms and verandahs should be so located that the glory of the garden may be felt in them. Observe the application of this idea in the range of service rooms along the front, leaving the garden side for dining room, billiard room, verandahs and living room.

In addition to the accommodation, shown on the accompanying plans, a Chinaman's room, laundry, lavatory, storeroom, and furnace room are located in the basement, while a small portion of the vaailable space in the attic has been finished to form a bedroom, sewing room, bathroom and closet space.

A house of this accommodation and style may be expected to cost approximately $26,000.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address, Mr. S. Maclure, Victoria, B.C.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 29.—Over one hundred neighbours and friends responded to an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, "Hillview Farm" to assemble for a happy few hours on Friday night. Guests were present from the surrounding district, while some motored from Toronto to participate in the event.

The living room was arranged for cards where Five Hundred and Euchre were played. The large kitchen was cleared for dancing and to the accompaniment of several violins and organ, excellent time was given for the old time square dance. Everybody heartily enjoyed every minute and no time was lost between the dance numbers. A luncheon, consisting of many varieties of things good to eat with iced tea and coffee was served at midnight, after which dancing was continued till about 2 a.m.

Mrs. Armstrong made a most charming hostess and did her utmost to see that each and every one received attention as is ever the case when an event of this kind is held at this popular farm residence.

There were one hundred and thirty-five invitations sent out and those who were unable to accept missed the event of the season as the realization greatly excelled the anticipation of this annual gathering.

Miss Ada Doupe is visiting her brother and family at Oshawa.

Mr. E. Parsons, Toronto, is a guest at the Cook cottage for an indefinite time. Mr. Parsons shot a wild goose, Friday, while in company with Mr. Cook down the river.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Walterhouse have returned to Toronto from "Riverview."

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Goodman have returned to Toronto from their island cottage. Messrs. D. Walterhouse and C. Goodman intend returning for the deer hunt in the north country.

Messrs. E. H. Fairbrother, Howard Long and Mr. O'Phara, Toronto, are spending a few days at the former's cottage.

Messrs. Scott, Whittet and Vincent, Toronto, arrived Sunday as guests at the Cook cottage for several days.

Mrs. George Spencer has been confined to bed suffering from the effects of a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cotton left on Sunday for Pittsburg, after spending some weeks at their cottage, "Green Point."

Mrs. W. Wylde has returned to Toronto from spending two weeks with her brother, Mr. T. J. Brown and family. Mrs. Wylde has sold her home in Havelock and will take up residence in Toronto.

Mr. A. Whibbs, Indian River was at "Athlone" last week closing up for the season.

A Bad Case of Eczema

Are you reading the weekly Canadian letters, telling stories of suffering from skin diseases and how relief was effected?

Here is part of a letter from Mrs. B. Gibson, Box 1136, Midland, Ont. Write her if you desire. "I had a very bad case of eczema on my face and neck, also scalp. Could not find anything to give me relief. One small bottle of D. D. D. gave me great relief, so then I secured a large bottle, and I am now without a blemish."

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. When a prescription for skin disease has letters of endorsement from nearly every city and town in the Dominion, surely it is enough to convince the most skeptical.

Relief from itching torment is immediate. Try one $1.00 bottle of D. D. D. today on the positive guarantee. And D. D. D. Soap, too

"SALADA" TEA

FOR WITCHES' EVE THIS PARTY GIVE

Fortunate indeed is the lucky person invited to a fortune party on Hallowe'en! For who of us does not enjoy a glimpse or two into the future?

All sorts of surprises await the guests and the fun begins with the invitations. These are written in the form of an acrostic:

Hail, my good friend!
And how would you
Like by way of diversion to
Lend a few hours
Of your life to the learning of
Wonders that only the
Eerie folk tell truly?
Even so, come to my house on the Night of October 31st, 9 o'clock sharp.

All of the games played, deal in some way or other with the good or ill that the fates have in store. Start the fun with a fortune hunt:

FORTUNE HUNTING

Hide in different parts of the room a ring, money, a thimble, a toy automobile and other similar objects, one for each guest. The player who finds the ring first will be happily married; the one who discovers the thimble will be a spinster, etc. When one thing has been found the search must stop so that each one may find something. It may be well to place some identifying mark on the various trinkets. After everyone has found something the hostess asks, for instance, who has the automobile, and then tells what it means. The different things may be chosen appropriate to the particular group of people you are entertaining.

FORTUNES WITH CARDS

Fortune cards can be purchased with the fortunes written on them so that each guest may read her own future. Or, if preferred, one who is skilled in the gypsy art of reading cards, may take each guest in turn and interpret the hidden meanings.

DECORATIONS AND FAVORS

The tables at which the fortunes are told should be decorated for the occasion in orange and black, the chosen colors for Hallowe'en. Cover each table with a large square of light orange crepe paper. Around the edge of this cover paste a Hallowe'en border of witches and cats. To number the table, make a little pumpkin man of wire and cut-outs. The wire is first wrapped with narrow strips of orange crepe paper. Then cut and bend into arms and legs. One leg should be made sufficiently long to permit bending it into a spiral shaped base.

A realistic witch made of a Hallowe'en cut-out and fringed crepe paper is tacked behind a partly opened door. The effect is startling when first you behold her joining the party.

The favors are ruffs of orange crepe paper gathered onto a narrow ribbon. Tied to one end of the ribbon is a large pumpkin cut-out bearing the number of the table at which the wearer is to sit.

There are always innumerable ways to use fortune verses. Here is a set that may be written on slips of paper and concealed in favors or Jack Horner pies and then read aloud at the table or in any other way that may fit into your particular scheme of things:

FORTUNES

1
Lucky one!—as I unravel
Your life's web, I see you travel;
Travel, travel everywhere,
Land and sea and through the air.

2
Round the corner you will meet
One from whom you've waited,
Long, in secret; hurry, then,
Lest you be belated!

3
Work, hard work,
Struggling and contending;
But wealth, joy and love,
Is the happy ending.

4
Riches would evade you
Staying where you are;
But you'll make your fortune
As a Movie Star.

5
Once, twice, thrice,
You will be married;
Last time to the altar,
You will be carried!

6
You will plod and prosper
Without fear or harm,
And you'll end your peaceful days
On a poultry farm.

7
Old cats, young kittens,
Need no longer roam;
For you will find, for their delight,
A lux-ur-ri-ous home.

HOME OFFICIALS REPORT FOR YEAR

Secretary, Treasurer, Superintendent and Manager Tell of Work.

The followin: is the report of the secretary, Mrs. F. M. DelaFosse, presented at the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Protestant Home:

Madam President, Members of the Board of the Protestant Home, Ladies and Gentlemen: I beg herewith to present my Annual Report as Secretary of your Board.

At the last Annual Meeting, held October 27, 1926, every member of the Board was present. During the year, 20 regular meetings have been held with an average attendance of nine. There was one special meeting with an attendance of fifteen.

It is pleasant to report that, as in the previous year, the past twelve months have witnessed satisfactory progress in the Home.

There have been 55 persons lodged in the Home during the year, of whom 45 were Canadians, 4 English, 2 Irish, 1 Welsh, and 3 Americans. Total, 55. There are at this date (September 30) 34 inmates in the Home: men, 14; women, 20.

In the twelve months 7 men have been discharged, and 10 women. There have been 4 deaths during the year.

Number remaining in the Home, September 30, 1926, 35. Admitted during the year: men, 10; women, 10. Total number of days spent in the Home, 12,722. Average number of days per inmate, 282.

The Government Inspector, after his visit to the Home in the early part of the year, expressed great satisfaction at the way in which the Home was being managed.

During the past year the members of our Board have had to mourn the loss of two very valued friends in the persons of Mrs. Richard Hall and Mr. Harry Rush. They were most interested in everything pertaining to the Home as well as to the welfare of the inmates and in their passing, not only this institution, but the whole City of Peterborough has suffered a very distinct and abiding loss. Mr. Rush had been a member of the Board for many years, whilst Mrs. Hall had been a representative from St. Paul's Church for a considerable length of time.

The following bequests have been made to the Home during the year: From the estate of the late Mrs. Jane Braden, $2,841.08; from the estate of the late Henry Rush, $100.00; from Mrs. Mary Bickell's estate, $500.00; from the estate of the late Mrs. Hazlitt, $5,000.00, for the Endowment Fund; from Miss McKeown's estate, $65.00.

The late Mrs. James Reid, who for many years was a member of this Home and passed away last May, shortly before her death presented the Home with a very handsome clock for the hall on the second floor.

We are also indebted to Mr. Brown for two loads of gravel.

Many other donations, too numerous to mention, were received for the comfort of the inmates.

Improvements.

The following improvements have been made in the Home:

The women's porch has been painted and screened. New window shades have been purchased for the entire front of the building; new curtains and coverings for the women's sitting-room; an up-to-date large electric washing machine has been installed. A new hen house is in course of construction.

It is hoped that in the near future an iron fence will be built across the front of the property on Anson Street, with suitable brick pillars and gates.

The Fire Chief attended one of the Board meetings and addressed the members on the subject of better fire protection. Seve al of the suggestions that he made have been carried out. He also emphatically stated that no helpless persons must be lodged on the third floor.

The warmest thanks of the Board are due to the Royal Arthur Lodge of Freemasons and to Mr. and Mrs. Breyfogle for the very enjoyable picnic which was carried out under the auspices of the Lodge at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Breyfogle at Chemong.

Grateful thanks are also due to the clergy of the city, to the doctors, and to the press for services ungrudgingly rendered. In this connection an extra meed is due to Rev. Mr. Todd, Miss Murray, Mrs. Vaughan Walker, and Mr. Spencer, who took charge of the Christmas entertainment, which gave the utmost pleasure to the inmates.

There is always need of donations for the comfort of the inmates and, although it has never been the policy of the Board to make a specific request in this direction, it is well to mention that such gifts are very gratefully appreciated by the management.

I cannot conclude this report without mentioning the valuable services rendered by Miss Lancaster and every member of her staff. Miss Lancaster has shown herself, as always, devoted to the well-being of the institution and has had valuable co-operation from Mr. Hamilton and Mrs. Hurry. The splendid condition of affairs at the Home is a fitting witness to their efficiency and work.

Following is the statement of the manager of the Protestant Home, Mr. J. C. Hamilton, submitted at the annual meeting:

To the President and Directors of the Peterboro' Protestant Home: Annual report for the year 1927 as to crop raised on the Home grounds: Two tons loose oats for feed; 1 ton hay; 85 bags eating potatoes; 7 bags small potatoes; 58 bushels mangolds; 62 bushels turnips; 32 bushels carrots; 5 bushels parsnips; 14 bushels beets; 3 1-2 bags onions; 386 heads of cabbage.

Squash, beans, peas, potatoes, tomatoes and other vegetables for summer use, together with corn and cauliflower to meet all requirements.

As regards eggs, there have been two hundred and seventy-two dozen during the year from 30 hens. Seventeen chickens have, from time to time, been killed.

The following is the annual report of the superintendent of the Protestant Home, Miss A. M. Lancaster, submitted at the sixty-sixth annual meeting this week:

Again the falling leaves admonish us that the time has come to report our activities, and give an account of our stewardship.

From year to year the life of the inmates of this house shows little variation; but they have reached the time when changes are usually dreaded, and monotony is more welcome than variety. It is true that some faces are missed from the table, and at the family gatherings. Six persons have gone from these doors who will not return. But three of these were over 90—weary they were, and the burden of their years was heavy upon them, and they were satisfied to go. For the other three also death came as a release from long suffering.

It is no idle or purposeless life that is lived within these walls. There are few of the inmates—none who have the physical strength—who have not some duty to perform for the general welfare. Besides these there are many activities carried on—needlework of various kinds, such as knitted sox, knitted quilts, pieced quilts and crocheted articles. These specimens of handicraft are really admirable, and in their finish might shame younger needle women. The producers of these gain, not only in the satisfaction of worthy achievement, but often are able to augment their pocket-money by the sale of the same. Then there is the constant necessity of keeping up the stock of household linens, curtains, etc., to say nothing of the mending and darning. We have put up 375 quarts of fruit and 170 quarts of pickles, which statement gains an added significance when we say that with the exception of a few baskets of peaches the fruit was all produced on the place. This, however, will not be sufficient for this household until fruit grows again.

We have every reason to feel that this Home is the object of kindly solicitude on the part of the citizens of Peterboro'. This is proved by the receipt of many generous gifts, to be used for the extra welfare and happiness of the inmates. So we return our sincerest thanks to all those who by their kindly planning and their unselfish efforts have brightened the lives of those less fortunate than themselves; and strengthened and encouraged by the many assurances that the work done here, though sometimes hard and trying, is well worth while, and is not done in vain. We look forward in faith to another year.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 29.—Mr. Eric Whitfield and his mother, also Mrs. Warne of Oshawa, were guests at the home of Mrs. Whitfield's daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fee, on Sunday.

Miss Annie Graham is spending this week with friends in Otonabee.

Mrs. Gertrude McLean, Mrs. T. C. Morden, and the Misses Helen McLean, Dorothy Morden, Mrs. J. Handley and Mrs. I. Lowe were among those who attended the concert in Cavan Community Hall under the auspices of the Cavan Women's Institute by the members of the choral class and other on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruth were visitors in Ennismore on Saturday.

Miss Helen Shaw of Otonabee is visiting friends here.

Mr. William Scott of Smith spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lowe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Handley were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fee on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Magee, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Blackwell, Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Magee and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Magee were among those from Emily who attended harvest thanksgiving service in St. John's church on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lowe, Mrs. McLean and Miss Helen spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, Cavan.

Mr. A. Armstrong of Indian River was in the village on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lowe were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Scott on Sunday and attended Lakevale anniversary services.

Mrs. H. Jamieson and Miss Helen Shaw visited the former's mother, Mrs. W. H. Lowes on Monday afternoon.

The November meeting of the Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. George Jamieson on Wednesday, November 2, with Mrs. W. H. Lowes and Mrs. Brown responsible for the program of the meeting and Mrs. R. Graham and Mrs. Rutherford on the lunch committee.

There was no service in the United church on Sunday, service being withdrawn owing to anniversary services being held at Ebenezer.

Sunday school was held in the former Methodist church at two p.m. and church service at 3 p.m. conducted by the pastor, Rev. John Riddell, with a good attendance at both Sunday school and church.

St. John's Anglican church, Ida, held its annual harvest thanksgiving services on Sunday at 11 a.m. and seven p.m.

Rev. P. C. Howard conducted the service held in the morning and the Rev. Mr. Crissall of Perrytown, assisted by Canon Allen had charge of the evening service which was very largely attended, the church being packed to the doors. Those who came late were unable to get inside the church. After the regular service a song service under the leadership of Mrs. Allen was given by the full choir of the parish, numbering about forty. Mrs. Waterman and Mrs. Lunnex, both of Bailieboro, also sang a number of solos very beautifully.

The interior of the church was looking very attractive with its profusion of all flowers and grain.

ROSENEATH NEWS.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Lily Turner spent Sunday visiting her father, Mr. J. Elliott, Baltimore.

Mrs. Milton McMillan and Lavigne have returned from Peterborough. The many friends of little Lavigne are pleased to learn she has favorably improved in health since her recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dawe and family of Bethany were guests of Mr. and Mrs George A. Dawe on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Mouncey and Mrs. Robert Mouncey and son, Mr. Archie Mouncey, attended the funeral of the late Miss Mouncey at Havelock, on Saturday.

Whippet

You can buy the Whippet now, assured that a year from now it will still be the most modern car in its field—and that its resale value will be correspondingly high.

Introduced 17 months ago, it changed all previous standards of light car performance. And constant improvement logically forecasts its continued success.

The developments of the year indicate that other manufacturers must inevitably follow the Whippet's lead. Such advantages as greater gasoline mileage, higher speed, faster pickup, the safety of big 4-wheel brakes, low center of gravity, more leg-room, full-vision bodies, force-feed lubrication and modern appearance will be demanded by the public.

The Whippet carries the enthusiastic endorsement of more than 125,000 owners who have put this modern car to the acid test of more than 400,000,000 miles of service. Such proved superiority makes the Whippet, in its present perfection, the logical choice of anyone with a keen sense of automobile values.

A.Y.P.A. MEMBERS CONDUCT SERVICE

Two Delegates to Convention Visit Lakefield on Sunday.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—Mr. Frank K. Gardner, of Brantford, and Mr. Harold G. Pappiatt, of Toronto, both delegates to the Dominion Conference of the Anglican Young People's Association, held last week in Peterborough, were in the village on Sunday morning. Mr. Pappiatt read the lessons and Mr. Frank Gardner delivered the sermon, speaking from the chancel steps and as taking his text, the motto of the A.Y.P.A.—"For Christ and the Church."

Mr. Gardner made a telling appeal for sympathy and co-operation in this great association, which is the youth movement of the Church. It is the recruiting ground for workers in the Sunday school, choir and other church activities.

The speaker referred to the parable of the talents and urged a greater use of our talents, many or meagre as they might be, in the service of our Lord and Master.

Mr. Gardner is a member of Grace church, Brantford, a parish with which St. John's, Lakefield, knows well by reputation, as the late Archdeacon MacKenzie (father of Rev. A. W. MacKenzie) was for years rector there.

Mr. Pappiatt comes from the parish of St. Michael and All Angels, which has contributed to the A.Y.P.A. its Dominion president and immediate past president.

The first president of the Dominion Council, Mr. Clarence Bell, was born in Lakefield and received his elementary education in the village hoo.

St. Paul's Card Party.

The second of the series of card parties under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's church was held on Friday evening in the rooms of the Holy Name Society and was very successful. There was a large crowd and a delightful evening was spent. The first prizes were unique and well worth winning, and consisted of a pair of chickens each to the high lady and gentleman, these prizes were won by Miss Grace Watson and Mr. Charles R. Armstrong. Miss Pearl Charlton and Mr. James Coughlin won the consolation trophies.

The A.Y.P.A. will resume their card parties on Thursday evening of this week for the third season. These progressive euchres have been very popular in the past two seasons and there is no doubt they will continue to be so.

A PERFECT MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets Should Be in Every Home Where There Are Children.

The perfect medicine for little ones is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They are a gentle but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful refreshing sleep. It is impossible for Baby's Own Tablets to harm even the new-born babe, as they are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates or any other injurious drug.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. Alex J. Perry, Atlantic, N.S., writes: "I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for the children, as I have found them a perfect medicine for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MADOC NEWS

MADOC, Oct. 29.—The funeral of the late Miss L. Mouncey took place on Saturday morning from the family residence. Rev. T. G. Marshall, her pastor, took charge.

Miss R. Christie has returned home from Little Falls, where she attended the funeral of her brother.

Rev. T. G. Marshall has returned from attending the Synod of Toronto and Kingston.

Messrs. James Moore, Reeve of Elzevir, and W. Wiggins, Colonization Road Inspector, have returned from Winnipeg where they attended the Conservative Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kerr, of Penetang, were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Moon.

A number of the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. D. McKenzie met at the old McKenzie homestead last Thursday evening to spend a social evening with them before they left for their new home in town.

A parting address was read by Miss Molly McBeath and to Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McKenzie they presented a beautiful tray of silver, also to Mr. Roderick McKenzie, a pipe "as an outward and visible token of esteem."

All enjoyed a pleasant social evening, and all said "Goodbye" with regret, but were happy that Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie were not going far.

Mr. and Mrs. D. McKenzie have taken up residence in the house recently purchased by them from Mrs. William Cross.

CHICKEN SUPPER SERVED AT MADOC

Ladies of United Church in Charge of Successful Affair.

MADOC, Oct. 29.—Following the anniversary services of Sunday, the ladies of the congregation of Trinity church served the annual chicken supper in the Sunday school rooms of the church on Monday.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in orange and black, and the tables were alight with candles, and decorated in orange and black, also with fruits and English marigolds.

Supper was served to about five hundred people, and the supplies were so abundant that it was decided to serve a school children's lunch at the noon hour on Tuesday.

The concert afterwards was given to a capacity house in the auditorium of the church. The orchestra of the Halloway street church of Belleville delighted all by their varied selections and by their willingness to respond to repeated encores. Rev. G. W. Rivers, the pastor of the church, acted as Chairman, and the full choir was present. By special request the choir sang the selection, "Ninety and Nine, the soprano solo given by Mrs. Vandervoort, and the contralto solo by Mrs. C. Whytock. A baritone solo given by Mr. Gillespie, "There's a wee hoose in the heather," delighted the audience.

Rev. T. G. Marshall brought greetings from St. Peter's Presbyterian church and Rev. Mr. Parker from Queensboro extended congratulaions on a successful anniversary and gave greetings from the neighboring church.

An organ solo which was heartily encored was given by Master George Maybee, also a vocal solo by Miss L. Vandervoort, "Sandman's Coming," with, "I Love a Lassie" when encored.

A reading by Rev. Mr. Rivers, "The Old Man Who Went to Town," received most vigorous applause and he was obliged to respond, giving "Whispering Bill."

Mr. Jordan, the leader of the orchestra was then called on, and gave two much-appreciated numbers in splendid style.

Music by the orchestra and the National Anthem followed by the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Rivers, closed the concert.

Visitors were noted from Belleville, Pictoa, Eldorado, Queensboro, Ivanhoe and the surrounding country.

The amount asked for by the Stewards was $600.00 and the latest reports are that the amount realized was well above the objective.

Splendid weather, excellent co-operation, an abundance of everything eatable, dainty decorations, excellent waiters and appreciative guests, all went to help in the success of another of the anniversary suppers for which this church is noted.

London beauty experts are analyzing cosmetics, still fragrant, taken from Egyptian tombs.

CAVAN PERSONALS.

CAVAN, Oct. 29.—A very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elliott on Saturday evening last, it being the occasion of Mr. Elliott's seventieth birthday. All the family were present with the exception of one daughter, Mrs. H. Gardiner, in the West. Mrs. Elliott assisted by her daughters served a very fine dinner, the birthday cake with its seventy candles occupying the centre of the table. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Hutchinson and son, Garfield of Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Richards and family of Cavanville, Mrs. B. Howson, Miss Irene Howson, of Cavanville, Mr. and Mrs. Graham of Norwood and J. S. Cathcart.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Shortt, of Toronto, were week end guests with iss Winona Cathcart.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Werry, of Blackstock, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. Harkness.

Mrs. John Morrison, Miss Mabel Morrison, and Mellville Morrison were visitors to Selwyn on Sunday.

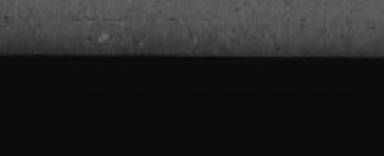
Oakley Carley returned to his home in Toronto on Sunday after a week's visit with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham of Norwood spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fair spent Sunday with friends on the ninth line.

Mr. A. A. Cathcart has sold his Clydesdale stallion, "Drumbeg Chieftian," to John Morrison of Ida.

Green fruit may be ripened in a few hours by means of ethylene gasoline.



Simplify the Task of Housekeeping

After you have a Just-Rite Oil Burner in your home for a couple of days you will not part with it for many times its cost. Not only does it keep your home at a constant, even temperature, without requiring any attention, but it also simplifies the task of housekeeping.

Draperies, curtains, woodwork and wallpaper which quickly become soiled when coal is burned, remain clean and fresh-appearing in homes heated by the Just-Rite.

Smoke, soot and ashes are entirely eliminated. Laundry and cleaning bills are cut to a minimum, and rugs and upholstery remain clean much longer. You can readily see how the owner of a Just-Rite can enjoy a new sense of freedom with more time to call their own.

The Just-Rite Oil Burner is not expensive. Completely installed it costs less than half that of most oil burners. Yet it gives the same results and costs no more to operate.

Come in and let us explain its many advantages.

Spread Happiness on Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en is a time of jollity and fun for children, and certainly the home that is provided with one of Moir's big boxes of XXX assorted chocolates will be a home radiating happiness and laughter.

The purity of Moir's makes them the best for children; their tantalizing flavours make them the most popular.

It's a sure thing that a 5 lb. box will not be too many.

SOCIETY

The studios at the Conservatory of Music were decorated very attractively with a profusion of autumn foliage and glowing salvia for the reception which formed the opening function of the society for this season, held yesterday afternoon with a large attendance of members. The tea table was uniquely centred with a large hollowed-out pumpkin filled with a shower of French marigolds and calendula in deep orange and yellow, with an Italian cutwork cloth and black and orange candles in brass candlesticks. Tea hostesses were Mrs. V. Eastwood, senior, and Mrs. A. Mowat, and members of the executive assisted, in Mrs. H. E. Connelly, convenor of the social committee, Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, and Mrs. F. C. Webber. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. William Blackwell, Mrs. F. C. Neal, Mrs. G. N. Gordon, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, and Mrs. B. L. Barns. A feature of the afternoon was the presentation to the society by the visiting speaker, Mr. Owen Staples of Toronto, of a very fine etching of the Gateway to University College, Toronto.

The Caledonian Club was at home to its members in a jolly Hallowe'en masquerade party held last evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall, where decorations were carried out with Hallowe'en novelties. The evening was spent in dancing, followed by the service of dainty refreshments. Music for dancing was supplied by Mr. R. Gilmour, playing the piano accordeon. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Messrs. Robert Veitch, George Lowe, W. Petrie, T. Gemmell, R. Gilmour and Mrs. G. Nimmons. About one hundred and twenty-five of the members attended in costume, the judging for which was done by Miss Cathleen McCarthy of The Examiner editorial staff. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. James Brown, in a Gainsborough costume, for ladies' best outfit; to Mrs. F. Campbell as a Hobo, for ladies' best comic costume; to Miss Isabel Reid as a Ballet Dancer, for girls' best fancy dress, and to Miss Agnes Baird, as Topsy, for girls' best comic costume. Prizes in the same classes for men and boys went to W. Tait (Cowboy), G. Lowe (Old-fashioned Lady), George Nimmons, Junior (Cowboy), and little Albert Anderson (a cunning Jackie Coogan). The president presented Miss McCarthy with a box of chocolates.

Rev. Thomas A. Rodger of Toronto, who was summer preacher at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church this year, will occupy the pulpit at both services tomorrow, during the absence of Rev. William Allan, and will be entertained at the Manse during his stay in the city.

* * *

Rev. William Allan, Minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, left on the midnight train for Sherbrooke, Quebec, where he is conducting anniversary services in St. Andrew's Church. The minister of St. Andrew's Church, Rev. Alfred Bright, B.A., B.D., was at one time assistant in St. Paul's during the ministry of the late Dr. Torrance. Mr. Allan will preach three times on Sunday, and lecture on Monday night on "A Scotsman at Home and Abroad." He will be away from home till Wednesday of next week.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Eric L. Palin and baby daughter Dorothy, of St. Catharines, are spending a few days in the city with relatives and friends.

* * *

Mrs. Norman Elliott (nee Marion Rae) was presented this week with a set of flat silver by The Examiner staff, of which she was a member.

* * *

Mr. Harry Hobson, of Gorham, Maine, was a visitor in the city for two days. Mr. Hobson was a former road surveyor on the local division of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. A. E. McKeown has returned to the city after spending the past week in the district of Haliburton and Fenelon Falls on business.

* * *

Mrs. T. Byers, 494 Patterson street, was hostess this week at an evening Hallowe'en party given at her home under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' Church. The house was decorated with the season's favors, and guests were greeted by Mrs. H. Welbourn, gowned as a witch. An enjoyable programme was opened by Mrs. J. Dudgeon, and included instrumental selections played by Miss Aileen Rose, vocal solos by Mrs. Fowler, and a vocal duet by Mrs. McKinstry and Mrs. H. Monk, also readings by Mrs. G. H. Rowe and Mrs. McAdams. The name contest was won by Mrs. R. B. English, and the entertainment concluded with the service of Hallowe'en refreshments.

The marriage took place in Toronto this week of Jean Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Byers, Bewdley, to James Bernard Ryan, son of Mrs. Ryan and the late Thomas Ryan, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed at St. Michael's Cathedral by Rev. Father Carroll.

* * *

Mr. Walter Vass, of Oshawa, returned home this afternoon after spending several days in the city.

* * *

Miss Gertrude Doyle has returned to her home at 497 Murray street after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Ingram, in Campbellford.

* * *

At the conclusion of the performance of "Lighthouse Nan," presented in Victoria Hall last evening by the Mission Circle of Mark street church, the directress, Mrs. E. Wand, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by little Elspeth Boorman.

* * *

The Seniors of the Young Women's Christian Association classes held their annual Hallowe'en party last evening, with an attendance of about two hundred and fifty, the majority being in costume. Decorations of the big gymnasium and the various rooms were in Hallowe'en novelties in black and white, while a tall witch stood in the reception hall. A trip through ghostly caves, games, stunts and races occupied the attention of those present, followed by the service of dainty refreshments in the green room. Fortune tellers in witches' caves were Mesdames J. John and T. H. Skinner, and the Misses Marjorie Sayles and Dorothy Roberts. The table where refreshments were served was decorated very effectively with a hollowed-out pumpkin filled with grapes and apples, and little pumpkin candle-holders and black cat novelties. Coffee was poured by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner and Mrs. D. F. Drummond. Those holding black cat tickets were served first, with owls and witches second and third. Judges for the costumes were Mesdames H. R. H. Kenner, D. F. Drumoomnd, H. Beal, [illegible] prizes going to the following: Witch (1928) Jean Coates, Snow Girl, Marguerite Connors, Old-Fashioned Girl, Alma Fontaine, "Don't-mind-me," Lillian Groombridge, Gingham Baby, Mrs. Mark Bredin, Card Girl, Irene Delorme, Peter Pan, Mrs. J. R. Heron, and Topsy, Mrs. S. Hetherington.

One of the first party of deer hunters to take the trail left here by train yesterday, for Paxley-Parry Sound district, and included T. Ashby, captain J. Garrity, W. Gill, S. Elliott and H. Gill.

Miss Genevieve Playford, Royal Bank Chambers, gave a pleasant Hallowe'en masquerade party to a number of her school friends, this week. The evening was spent in the enjoyment of games and dancing, folowed by the service of dainty refreshments by Mr. and Mrs. G. James.

Mr. Gordon Cornish paid a flying visit to the city this week.

Evening Examiner Fashion

The Tailored Coat-frock

New lines and details make this model unusually chic for both large and small women. It will be found one of the newest and smartest of the season's tailored frocks, developed in French repp, and finds its freedom of movement in the inverted plaits at the side seams. Long revers cross the front diagonally, and terminate in an extension which laps to the left hip, and then falls free. A vestee is set under the front, and the long sleeves are fitted at the wrist. The extension may be omitted and the sleeves made short. No. 1179 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (or 34, 36 and 38 inches bust). Size 18 years (or 36 bust) requires 3¾ yards of 36-inch, or 3¾ yards of 40-inch material. Price 20 cents the pattern.

SAINT and SINNER

Joy, pleased with her importance of being the only person admitted to Cherry's room, bustled in and out, bumping the walls with the baby's crib as she awkwardly maneuvered it into Faith's room, and making half a dozen trips for Hope's tiny clothes, soap, powder, nursing bottles, etc. It was with sulky reluctance that she at last consented to set out for school, leaving Faith to her morning's housework and the care of the baby.

She wanted nothing so much as to fall into her still unmade bed and go to sleep, while this strange indifference and emotional apathy lasted, promising her complete oblivion. But there was the baby to be bathed and dressed and fed, three beds to be made, the bathroom to be made sweet and tidy after Bob's tumultous session in it.

As she dusted and polished and ran the vacuum cleaner she tried to convince herself that she did not intend to force herself upon Cherry. If Cherry did not want to see her, she certainly did not want to see Cherry! She had had enough of wheedling and mollifying bad-tempered, selfish people. Good women, unselfish women, women who loved their husbands and families devotedly were always made doormats of. And she'd had enough of being a doormat. From now on, Bob and Cherry could do a little cajoling and mollifying on their own account, if harmony was to be attempted in this crazy household. She'd show them! Nobody ever wondered if she felt tired and ill; nobody tried to save her work or to help her with it! Nobody tried to win her into a good humor when she felt dispirited and grouchy. Why, she could not even enjoy the luxury of a spell of the blues, for fear she would depress her pampered sister and husband. Well, she'd show them!

And so of course she went to Cherry's door and knocked softly, cajolingly.

There was no answer. Fear clutched her throat. She knocked again, more loudly, and called coaxingly: "Cherry! Cherry, darling! It's Faith. Can't I do something for you?"

"Go away!" a petulant, high voice answered. "I told Joy I didn't want to see anyone."

"But if you're sick, dear—" Faith pleaded, her resolutions forgotten in her fear and love.

"I'm not sick!" Cherry's voice came sharply. "I just want to be left alone. The only thing's the matter with me is that I hate myself and I want to die. Go away!"

Faith turned the knob and was so relieved to find that the door was not locked that she felt faint for a moment. Cherry was sitting up in bed or rather was crouching in the middle of it, her bright head with its tumbled copper-and-gold curls bowed upon her crossed arms, locked about her knees.

"Darling, don't frighten me like this!" Faith pleaded, her voice breaking.

At the sound, Cherry flung up her head and faced her sister with stricken, angry eyes, their golden color deepened by the pale violet shadows that lay under them.

"Oh, why can't you let me alone, Faith? You mean so well, but you simply cannot endure for anyone to suffer in silence. You never could! You're always wanting to spare people their emotions, to comfort them. A little honest suffering would be good for me! But will you let me do it? Oh No!"

Faith, her face scarlet with humiliation, fled from the room.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TIN ALLIGATOR

"Heigh ho!" said Uncle Wiggily one day as he hopped around the hollow stump bungalow on one leg and twinkled his pink nose. "It will soon be Christmas. I think I'll go down the street and look in the store windows to see what sort of toys Santa Claus is going to have this year."

"Christmas!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "That is a long way off yet—almost two months!"

"Yes, I know," admitted Mr. Longears. "But it is best to do your Christmas shopping early and I'm going to have a look, anyhow. You know we have forty 'leven little bunnies for whom Santa Claus must make presents, and it is well to let him know, as soon as we can, what kind to make. By looking in the store windows and perhaps going inside to hop about, I can see what there is."

"Perhaps you are right," agreed Mrs. Longears. "And we must not forget Baby Bunty. She must have some Christmas presents too."

"Of course," chuckled Mr. Longears.

In the windows were many beautiful things.

"I wouldn't forget Bunty for anything. Well, I'll tell you about Christmas presents when I get back," he added as he hopped away.

It did not take Uncle Wiggily long to hop over the fields and through the woods on his way to the six and seven cent store where he knew there would already be many Christmas presents shown. On his way past the corn field the rabbit gentleman passed the Scare Crow in whose ragged coat the rabbit gentleman and Baby Bunty had hidden from the Bear the day before.

"Of to find more adventures?" asked the Scare Crow as he saw the rabbit.

"No, I am doing my Christmas shopping early," answered Mr. Longears. What would you like in the way of a present?"

"Bring me an old straw hat!" chuckled the Scare Crow. "I'll need it for next spring."

Waving his short, stumpy little tail at his ragged friend, Uncle Wiggily hopped on and on, and soon he found himself at the six and seven cent store. In the windows were many beautiful things all ready for Christmas, but Uncle Wiggily knew there would be more presents on the counters, so inside he hopped. He found the kind old dog gentleman who owned the store, and many little mousie girl clerks, busy taking toys and presents out of packages that had just been sent down from the North Pole by Santa Claus.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" barked the dog gentleman. "Have you come to my store to buy Christmas presents so early?"

"Well, I am not exactly going to buy now," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I am sort of looking around to see what you have. I shall need many presents for my forty 'leven little rabbits you know."

"I should think so!" barked the dog. "Well, look at all the presents we have. You will surely find some among them that will suit any little boy or girl rabbit, or even a pussy cat or a duck or a squirrel."

There were dolls, roller skates, horns, toy furniture, books, steam engines, fire engines, tinkling bells and many wonderful playthings being unpacked in the six and seven cent store.

"It is jolly good fun just to look around!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "When it comes time to do my real Christmas buying I'll bring my wife here and she and I will pick out the things we want to pay Santa Claus to leave at our bungalow. Yes, I'll look around and—"

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily looked around behind him and on the floor he saw crawling toward him a green alligator. It was not so very large, but the rabbit gentleman knew that even baby alligators can bite hard, so as he saw this small green one open his mouth and waddle at him, the rabbit gentleman gave a shout and started to climb up on one of the counters.

"What's the matter, Uncle Wiggily?" barked the dog.

"The alligator is going to bit me!" cried Mr. Longears.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the dog. "Don't be afraid of him! He is only a toy tin alligator that moves when you wind up a spring inside him. Here, I'll tin alligator that moves when you show you!" So the dog picked up the waddling alligator and, surely enough, it was only a tin toy. Then a funny look came into Uncle Wiggily's eyes.

"I'll buy one of those tin alligators now," he said. "I don't care if it isn't Christmas. Let me have that one!" So he bought the tin alligator and what he did with it you shall hear tomorrow night. The story will be about Uncle Wiggily's clever trick. And I do hope the sugar bowl doesn't turn upside down and spill all its sweetness in the salt cellar.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A new pajama ensemble from Lanvin consists of a white silk sleeveless jacket stitched in green and gold with a silk blouse tucked into black trousers.

There is nothing at all mannish or masculine about wearing pajamas nowadays, and you have only to look at some of the new pajama costumes to know exactly what I mean. Still there are some old-fashioned women who rather shiver at the very thought of wearing them. "Dear me, I must be terribly feminine," they tell you. "I never could endure the idea of dressing like a man."

But nowadays pajamas are no more masculine than short hair or going to college or driving a car or smoking a cigarette—if you like that sort of thing.

And no one with half an eye could say that the pajama costume is any less modest than the modern frock with skirts. Even from the old-fashioned standards they are a whole lot more modest. Still a lot of women would feel immodest to receive men guests at home for tea wearing a pajama costume. But to do that isn't even unconventional, because quite a number of most exemplary women of unquestionable social position do wear pajamas at home. One of them even wears them for informal dining at home.

The fact is that it is the most conservative women in China and Turkey who still insist on wearing trousers. It is only the modern girls there who wear immodest skirts.

Perhaps the reaction against the too short skirts will come in the form of pajamas for general wear.

Every woman wants a number of handbags or purses.

She should have special bags for special frocks—substantial leather bags for hard daytime wear, lighter bags for afternoon, bright, gleaming bags or evening. Of course, you will need to buy your bags occasionally, but you can add variety to your collection by making one or two.

Perhaps you think you couldn't make a handbag or that you wouldn't wear the sort of bag that you could make at home. But that is because you haven't an idea of what nice bags can be made at home.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. Should one ever ask for a second helping at a luncheon?
2. If the hostess urges a second helping, should one individual guest, after the rest have refused, hold up all the others by accepting?
3. Is it considerate to refuse a dish at a luncheon?

The Answers.

1. No. The hostess has probably planned only for one.
2. It is better not to.
3. No. At a big dinner it can be done, for there are many courses. But at a luncheon where less is served, it would embarrass the hostess.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Monday, October 31, 1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Although a benefic aspect is strong early this morning, astrologers find the day rather threatening in planetary direction.

There is a fairly good sign for industry and the week in business should start under first-rate rule of the stars.

Real estate operators will do well to push their affairs while this configuration prevails.

The seers who prophesy for all who own land in the United States figure good fortune, since there is to come a time when values will soar in many parts of the country.

The aged should benefit from the planetary influences to-day, since they are supposed to be soothing as well as stimulating.

This should be a fortunate sway for all who seek the commendation of important men and women.

Politicians should benefit to-day by being able to win the loyalty of leaders of their special parties.

Dissension and schisms are foretold for one of the big political organizations, which nevertheless may enjoy unexpected victories.

To-day is an auspicious time for those who present letters of introduction or seek employments.

Clerks and stenographers are held to be specially favored by this configuration.

This is held as unfavorable in its rule for those who deal with bankers and especially for all who would borrow money.

Under this planetary government it is supposed to be easy to deceive. Dishonesty is held to be more prevalent than when other aspects dominate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy prosperous year, but envy may breathe libels against them.

Children born on this day probably will be keen of mind and strong of body. They prosper all through life.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CREOMULSION

MATCHING PARTNERS

Unusual stunts for matching partners are always welcome. Here is one that is a bit "different." The hostess should give out the numbered verses, the "heads" to the boys, and the "tails" to the girls. Similar numbers should match.

If you will read your card aright
You'll surely get ahead tonight;
If you're a-Head, you will not fail
To find an interesting Tail.

Verse for the Hostess:

1. Is she tall or short? What folly!
   Here's the main thing, Is she jolly?
1. A "silent" partner? Perish the thought!
   Let's talk, though the weather be cold or hot.
2. All alone? Make no moan;
   Use your wits and you will find
   A companion to your mind.
2. He is coming! Watch awhile
   Coming soon to make you smile!
3. "Single blessedness" is a fake!
   Sure, a partner you should take.
3. Hard to judge by a single glance—
   Think, you'd better take a chance!
4. You might go farther and do worse.
   (Ponder well this little verse!)
4. The man you wait for is a prize.
   (Just a whisper to the wise.)
5. Don't wish for a partner; it's much better,
   To stop your wishing and just go-getter!
5. "All things come to those who wait,"
   And he'll come, too, although he's late.
6. Don't "lose your head" what e'er you do,
   Look 'round, good man, there's a girl for you!
6. No use crying fo the moon,
   Man, or any other boon—
   Something's bound to happen soon!

Uzcudum at Outs With New York Athletic Commission

MUST BATTLE WITH SCOTT

Further Entanglements Arise To Hamper Spaniard's Try at Crown.

REFUSED FIGHT.

NEW YORK, October 29 (Canadian Press).—Entanglements with the New York State Athletic Commission that have risen to hamper Pauline Uzcudun's attempts to fight his way into a title match with Gene Tunney multiplied yesterday with the decision that the Spanish heavyweight must fight Phil Scott of England before escaping the suspension that now hangs over him.

Pauline was "set down" two weeks ago for refusal to go through with the match, scheduled for November 4 at Madison Square Garden. He pleaded a sprained back and arm at that time but the chairman of the Spaniard's managerial board, Al M. Mayer, told the Commission yesterday that Pauline refused to fight Scott because of a contract difference with Tex Rickard. Knute Hanson, Minnesota Dane, was substituted for Pauline several days ago.

Signs For Bout.

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press).—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion boxer of the world signed yesterday to defend his title next spring at an outdoor ring show under the auspices of Promoter Jim Mullen. His opponent has not been named, but efforts will be made to sign Tiger Flowers, the Atlanta deacon, from whom Walker won the title here last winter.

PRO HOCKEY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Seven members of last year's Calgary Tigers of the Prairie Hockey League passed through Winnipeg yesterday on their way to Kitchener, Ont., where they will play this season. The Tiger team was recently disposed of to Kitchener interests.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Herb Gardiner, one of the most valuable players in the N.H.L., is no longer a hold-out from the Canadiens. He has accepted an increase and leaves this morning for Montreal.

During the summer Gardiner has been working as an engineer on a C.P.R. survey party near Asquith, Sask. He arrived in Calgary yesterday.

Two Title Matches For Manitoba To-Day

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Two Manitoba rugby championships will be decided here to-day, when contending teams in the senior and junior divisions clash in the feature games of the season.

Tammany Tigers and Victorias, who will battle for the senior title, are regarded as the two most equally matched squads ever to reach the Provincial final. Both teams finished the season with an identical point average. The winners will qualify to meet the Regina Rough Riders in the second stage of the Western Canada play-downs.

The second fixture will bring together the Argos and Tigers for the Provincial junior championship.

DAN HOWLEY MAY BREAK RELATIONS

Reported Former Leaf Manager and St. Louis President On Outs.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—With Dan Howley somewhere in the woods, Phil. Ball, president of the St. Louis Browns, is doing some player juggling on his own. His trade with Washington—pitcher Gaston for outfielder McNeely and Dick Coffman, the latter a young twirler who was with Jersey City for a while—may or may not meet with the approval of the ex-manager of the Leafs.

Gaston was the best righthander or the Browns' staff last season and it is the general opinion that the Senators got all the better of the deal. McNeely at the best is a long way from being a seasoned performer.

The transaction lends some color to the story that all is not lovely between Dan and his boss and is an indirect confirmation of the report that Howley may locate with the Boston Braves next season. The latter club is leaderless since Dave Bancroft was granted his release at his own request and caught on with the Dodgers, and there is little doubt but that the man who brought a flag to Toronto would like nothing better than to hook up with the club at the Hub.

Howley is a near resident of Boston, making his headquarters at Weymouth, Mass., in the off season, and being more or less a home product he would be an eminently satisfactory choice to the fans of Boston. Of course certain formalities would have to be overcome before the switch could be made, the chief being Howley's contractural obligations to the Browns. He is said to have a three-year contract calling for $20,000 annually, which still has two seasons to run.

President Ball may have some objection to voiding the document but in view of Howley's failure to get anywhere with the Browns he may be glad to relieve himself of his bargain and try his luck with someone else.

The news that Wally Stewart, erstwhile starry southpaw of the Leafs, whose pitching in the final game of the little world series at Louisville was a classic, is dangerously ill will be received with regret by his legion of admirers in this vicinity and through the International League generally.

Stewart pitched great ball for the Leafs and lived up to his reputation gained in Toole's organization the past season with the Browns. It is to be hoped that his condition is not as serious as reported. It is said that he may be an invalid for the rest of his days and that in any event he may not be able to pitch again.

Stewart was taken ill with appendicitis at his home at Pleasant Hill, Tenn., and before he reached Nashville, over a hundred miles away, his appendix burst and complications immediately set in. This was a little over a week ago. At one time his life was despaired of, but he rallied and is now holding his own.

SOCCER MEETING
WEDNESDAY EVENING

Owing to the Hallowe'en festivities on Monday evening, also the members of the executive Board not being able to attend, they decided to hold the regular meeting on Wednesday evening, November 2nd, at 8 p.m. No meeting on Monday.

In the entire history of major league baseball there have been only eight triple plays pulled off by one player.

A number of Olympic athletes will be designated from the winners of the National Collegitte meet in Chicago, June 11.

STOP BETTING ON GREYHOUNDS

Would Introduce Legislation in British Parliament to This Effect.

BECOMING CRAZE.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct 29. — Canadian Press. — Betting on greyhound races should be abolished, the Manchester police authorities declare and they have requested the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks to introduce legislation in parliament at the earliest possible date to this end. Already a test case with reference to the matter is under way in the courts and may possibly reach the House of Lords, as the greyhound racing interests and the anti-gambling societies both have plenty of funds to carry the case to the highest court of appeal in the land.

It is certain that the Home Secretary cannot act immediately in the matter through an order-in-council, although perhaps his personal, rather than his political outlook might render him willing to exercise any power he possesses to end the gambling on greyhound races.

The Manchester police authorities say that boys and women are being demoralized by the craze for betting on greyhound races, and that the evil has grown to such an extent that families are being deprived of the bare necessities of life as a result of money lost on the races.

The old saying frequently heard in this city that "What Manchester says to-day the rest of England will say to-morrow," has often been justified by political developments and it may possibly become likewise justified on this acute problem of betting on greyhound races.

Race Bookies Fight Mutuel Betting System

LONDON, Oct. 29 (British United Press).—The embattled bookmakers of Great Britain have declared war against the decision of the Jockey Club in establishing the pari mutuel system on British race courses. There is very little sympathy for the bookies, but they are determined to fight just as they did against the betting tax proposition which was also a losing battle. Greyhound racing has opened a new field for bookmakers, and many of them have turned their attention chiefly to that new form of sport, where they make big money on the myriads of small bets which are placed at every meeting.

Inside Sportin Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Here it is Thurs. again and the customers'll be waiting Sat. night for the few bright ideas, if any, I try to give them, and the old bean is as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. This is the off-season, when the liquor permits run out, baseball's through, rugby is just getting going, and hockey for us anyway is a month or 2 away.

However, I'm glad of the chance to wish Mister Dwyer and Mister McLeod and Mister Ranger good luck. The lads leave us tomorrow for Duluth, Kansas City, Texas and other points to show the natives how a real he-man's game is played, and here's hoping that they'll burn up the old league. Plenty of thrills all 3 of them birds has give us, and the whole burg owe them the best of good wishes in the chain-store league. We expect to see them home again next spring with a bank-roll big enough to choke a cow, and we'll forgive them everything except learning to talk with an American accent. Give 'em the works, boys, is my last word to 3 good fellows and the same No. good hockey players.

Well, Mac, it looks like the pros. was trying to take all the joy outa life. This week Mister Knotty Lee, scout for the Toronto Leafs, the same Mister Lee what took the best left-handed pitcher we ever developed here away from us, sends a tempting contract to Mister Jeff Hardill, the best right-hander that has been raised in this burg. Mister Hardill ain't decided yet whether he'll take the plunge, but anyway he's like the guy that couldn't change the $5 bill but liked to be asked anyway—he appreciates the compliment. Mister Hardill is a product of the Peterboro Public School League, and he'll probably be the last 1 from that organization to attract the attention of pro. scouts until the schools get wise to themselves and restore hard ball to its old place. Soft ball is all right as a school game, but it shouldn't never be allowed to crowd the other brand right out of the picture. They should be plenty room for both.

I was glad to read, Mister Sporting Editor, that Mister Walter Johnson is going to be a International League boss. There is a bird what is a credit to baseball, and he oughta be a big drawing card. I know anytime Newark is playing in Toronto none of the customers what own a good car is going to insult me very bad if they sez something about a trip to the home of Tommy Church. And I ain't sorry neither to see a good Canadian like Mister Bill O'Hara given a chance to handle the Leafs next season. Mister O'Hara didn't make no bad brakes after he took Mister Fohl's place this last summer, and I hope he'll give Toronto a winner next year.

Well, Mac, when you ain't got nothing to say it's a pretty good plan to stop, so I'll not waste no more of your time. Hoping you're the same.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TENNIS EXPERTS RANK PLAYERS

Helen Wills and Senorita de Alvarez at Top of Ranks.

NEW YORK, October 29. — There is no disagreement among tennis experts in ranking Helen Wills of California, and Senorita Elia de Alvarez, of Spain, first and second respectively at the top of the "world's first ten" in women's ranks, but there the accord largely ends.

The ratings of "Big Bill" Tilden, former U.S. champion, and S. Wallis Mayers, the noted British critic, differ widely although the same ten players are included in both lists.

Myers' rankings are Helen Wills, Senorita Elia de Alvarez, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. Molly Mallory, Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, Miss Betty Nuthall, Miss E. L. Heine, Miss Joan Fry Miss Kea Bouman and Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin.

Tilden's list Wills, DeAlvarez, Bouman, Nuthall, Mallory, Fry, Heine, Ryan Chapin and Godfree.

Pirates In No Hurry To Trade Kiki Cuyler

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—While the Pittsburgh Club is willing to trade Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, the Pirates are in no hurry to make a deal unless assured it will strengthen their team, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Corsairs, declared here yesterday.

Dreyfuss was in New York to see his son, Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pirates, off on a honeymoon trip to Europe to-day.

The Pittsburgh president said reports that the Bucs would be willing to swap Cuyler for George Kelly or Hughey Critz of the Reds were unfounded. He also denied negotiations for the outfielder to go to Brooklyn for Pitcher Jess Petty.

FARRELL MAY GET GOLF TITLE

Three Great Stars Will Meet in Last Championship Play.

PRO GOLF COURSE.

(By Jimmy Powers)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.The collision of three great stars, each of whom has his game nursed along to its highest peak of brilliancy, will feature the last national golf championship of the year.

The Professional Golfers' Association holds its annual title chase this fall over the verdant and black soil of the Cedar Crest Country Club at Dallas, Texas, the first week of November.

Judging from recent performances which indicate a steady progression of form, the three gents expected to unload all the fireworks are Walter Hagen, the beefy defending champion; Johnny Farrell, the dapper lad who has won so many meets this summer he is called the uncrowned king, and Tommy Armour, who went out and executed some swell shots, enough to make him champion of all he surveys—if he is a good surveyor. Armour happens to be open ruler of the United States and Canada.

Of course there will be a couple of boys around the clubhouse who think they have a chance—Eugene Sarasen, Robert Cruickshank, Harry Cooper, Albert Watrous, William Mehlhorn and other good golf players, but the public eye will be glommed on the three big potatoes mentioned at the top of the menu.

Old Warhorse Hagen is the defending champion, but the role is not a new one. Mr. Hagen has been defending his title as best professional for three years now. And just between you and me and the caddymaster he looks like a good bet to repeat again.

The most recent tip-off on the Haig's form can be read between the agate lines of the western open results held at Chicago while Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney were training for their late lamented engagement.

This writer ambled out to Olympia Fields every afternoon in the scorching sun and watched Mr. Hagen shoot some scorching golf. He won the tile for the third year in a row.

Over one of the toughest layouts in the world he averaged 68 2-3 strokes for three rounds!

With a scant few exceptions all the high-salaried pros were there—Farrell, Armour, Cruickshanks, Macdonald Smith, Cooper, Loos, Watrous, Sarazen—not to mention a flock of classy amateurs.

On the first day he came home with a 70 over the No. 4 course, the best round of the curtain-raiser. On the second day they routed him over the No. I course.

Now the Olympia Fields greens committee can do more things to a golf links than Mr. Rockne can do to a football. They made one tough route there—the No. 1 course—and it has tripped up many a fine shot maker.

Walter told me before he teed up that he had not even troubled to play a practice round over it. I often wonder what he would have done if he had, because he was playing superb golf at the time. All he did was to whirl around the 18 greens in the dizzy total of 67 strokes—a new record.

He went out on the morning round of the third day and shot a 69 and then bad weather set in and in the falling rain of his final round he slipped—if one can use the word—to a mere 75.

Everyone seems to be hopped up over his impending clash with Farrel and Armour, but if Mr. Hagen keeps up that kind of golf the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Professionals ought to get after him.

Probably next to the national title, the leading players like to win the professional golfers' meet second best. As a rule, this event attracts the cream of the game's best players and a victory means much added prestige and a lot of soft money.

It won't be a contest. It will be a shame.

The record of 24 feet 11-3-4 inches for the running broad jump, made by Peter O'Connor, of Dublin in 1901, stood unbroken for 20 years.

In 1886 Cornell forfeited the Childs Cup to Pennsylvania, the Ithacans not having sufficient funds to put a crew on the water that year.

Collegiate football was introduced in South Dakota in 1889, when Yankton College and the State University played a game at Yankton.

New York's largest indoor swimming pool, measuring 80 feet by 20 feet, will be opened June 28 with a big meet of aquatic stars.

BELANGER WINS FROM BROWN

Defeats Flyweight Title Contender Easily in Toronto Bout.

NEARLY HAS KNOCKOUT.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Toronto has a worthy contender for world boxing honors. Albert ("Frenchy") Belanger, slant-eyed little product of the local amateur ranks, proved this last night when he earned Referee Lou Marsh's decision over "Newsboy" Brown of New York, rated as the leading aspirant for the flyweight title left vacant by the retirement of Fidel La Barba. The bout, the feature of the Shamrock A.C. show at the Coliseum, thrilled close to 5,000 wildly cheering spectators, and provided as sensational a situation in the fourth round as any boxing attraction here has ever done.

In that fourth round Belanger, battling fiercely, made the "Newsboy" feel the full power of the punch for which the Toronto boxer has come to be noted. Belanger all but won by a knockout, but greater experience enabled the New Yorker to weather what was perhaps the hardest round he has ever engaged in, after being on the floor for two counts of nine.

In no other round did either other boxer have anything like the margin that was Belanger's in the fourth. Brown came back surprisingly strong thereafter, but Belanger's boxing throughout the bout was such as to stamp him as of exceptional ability. In almost every department Belanger was as good as Brown, and in some he was better. That Brown has had far more experience than Belanger was evident at different stages of the bout. That, however, was to be expected.

Belanger boxed coolly from the start, with none of the nervousness he might have been expected to show in his first start against a man of Brown's calibre. In hitting ability Belanger decidedly had the advantage. His blows had twice the power of Brown's. Both men showed remarkable speed. Brown was slightly quicker to take advantage of openings and was better at close-range boxing than Belanger. At this style of boxing, it was Belanger who was the aggressor, with Brown confining most of his efforts to tying him up."

Belanger in his first ten-round bout finished strongly after showing signs of tiredness in the middle rounds. Brown's distress is evidenced by the fact that the referee had occasion to warn him several times for using tactics that a winning boxer would not have needed. In the third Brown was cautioned for hitting when told to break. He had not at this time been badly hurt. Twice in the ninth and once in the tenth, however, the referee warned him for using the kidney punch.

STAR STILL STRIVES TO PERFECT WORK

Colleen Moore always knew she would be a motion picture star. It wasn't egotism or conceit. She just knew, from the time she saw her first motion picture, that some day she herself would be an actress and, she promised herself, a successful one.

She kept a scrapbook with pictures of all the stars cut out from magazines and newspapers—but one page was blank! That one she reserved for herself when her picture would appear in magazines and her name would blaze forth over theatre entrances.

Since then she has achieved stardom, but she has never yet filled in the blank page of the scrapbook. That is waiting for the day when she will have reached what she considers her goal. But the goal advances before her and, according to those who know her, it is not likely that she will ever be completely satisfied with her work. So the blank page in the scrapbook is likely to remain blank.

Miss Moore's newest starring picture under her long term contract with First National, is "Orchids and Ermine," which John McCormick produced. It comes to the Regent Theatre Monday. The supporting cast is headed by Jack Mulhall and the other players include Sam Hardy, Gwen Lee, Alma Bennett, Hedda Hopper, Kate Price, Jed Prouty, Emily Fitzroy, Caroline Snowden, Yola d'Avril and Brooks Benedict.

AT THE GRAND

AT THE GRAND C i caoni it, OO LA LA !

"The more we are together, together, together; the more we are together the cleverer we'll be," is a paraphase the Dumbells would be justified in employing in their rendition of 'The Froth Blowers' Song" which they are using as a first act finale in their latest revue "Oo, La, La !" Captain Plunkett's entertainers seem to improve as the years pass and the packed house which greeted them at the Grand last night was symtomatic of the unique place they occupy in the affections of Peterborough playgoers.

Oo, La, La! is a typical Plunkett melange of music, mirth and movement, a long distance away perhaps from the Dumbells first post-war revue and possibly in that respect bringing a tinge of regret to Old Dumbell fans but yet entertainment par excellence clever, bright, colorful arnd fast moving. The old stars twinkle as brightly as ever and with them shine a new galaxy, for Capt. Plunkett is too good a showman and too sensitive to the theatrical appetite of the public to ofrer the same fare too often. Of the new comers, Fred Emney, a clever English Comedian who is funny in everything he does, perhaps carried off the lion's share of the honours last night.

Emney not only proved to be a capital comic but when he got a chance at the piano in the second act his performance on the ivories nearly "stopped the show." Cameron Geddess, well known Toronto singer, who has been added to the Dumbell strength this season, displayed his big rich voice to great advantage in "The Old Bass Viol," and Harry Binns, a tenor with a fine voice, and knowledge of how to use it, contributed several most enjoyable numbers.

The old favorites were effective, as always. Captain Plunkett himself is back on the stage in the revue, and his popular "Come Back ,Old Pal," was as pleasing as ever. Al. Plunkett has several new songs, "Mammy Goes Young," and "The Buggy Ride," that he put across to big returns, as he usually does. "Mad" Newman obliged with "Ma, Look at Charlie," a typical Newman number, during which he succeeded in getting some vocal help from the audience, and later on he scored with his Miner's song. Pat Rafferty had no song of his own but collaborated with Newman in a "Mary and Doug," offering that was a scream. Ross Hamilton, more bewitchingly gowned than ever, and perfect in his characterization, sang "Shalemar," "The Sweetest Story ever Told," and "Hello, My Dearie," the latter a telephone duet with Harry Binns.

Glen Allan, whose dancing grows more delightful each year, is rightly given a good chance in "Oo, La La!" and responds admirably. His waltz number with Morley Plunket and the Dance of the Fountain," with Morley, were among the high lights of the performance.

Charlie Jeeves working as a "straight" with Fred Emney, was of great assistance, and capital fooling is done by Jack McClellan, as the hall and as a cold-footed bull town hall, and as a cold-footed bull fighter. Howard Fogg and his violin got their inning in the second act, when he played an enjoyable solo.

As usual the Dumbells offered plenty of comedy, the comedy skit, "The Rehearsal," and the second act sketch "Sailing, Sailing," earning rich dividends in laughter.

"Oo, La, La!" was lavishly staged, and in this and all other respects a real Dumbell success.

The House was 'sold out" last night and indications are that another capacity audience will greet Captain Plunkett's entertainers to-night. — F. D. C.

TONSILLITIS AND DIPHTHERIA

The tonsils are normally larger at birth but gradually decrease in size during the first few years of a child's life until at the age of puberty they should be so small as to be but barely seen when the throat is examined.

Acute inflammation of the tonsils may occur at any time during life, but is most common with young children. An attack may follow exposure to cold or wet weather, or from direct infection of the throat by the common streptococcus bacteria. Such infection can only take effect in the throat of a child who has been enervated through bad habits or whose tonsillar or throat membrane is sufficiently inflamed, as the result of chronic or acute hyperacidity of the stomach.

An over-acid stomach, from wrong eating, has a positive effect upon any of the other mucous membranes of the body such as those of the nose and throat. The soil must be there for the growth of the invading bacteria before any micro-organism can be said to produce either tonsillitis or diphtheria.

In many cases it seems that the trouble starts entirely from the crypts of the tonsils becoming filled with cheesy looking masses which are formeil from micrococci and epithelial debris. In this case the mucous membrane is swollen and deep red in color, with a white-looking exudation protruding here and there from the tonsils.

The systemic symptoms first felt are chills, aching pains in the back and limbs, soreness of the throat, difficulty in swallowing, and a feeling of temperature. The thermometer will show a rapid rise in the fever until it may reach 105°F. even on the evening of the first day. Examination will show the tonsils to be swollen, the tongue furred, and the breath heavy and foul. The urine is always highly colored and filled with urates.

Symptoms of diphtheria are very much the same as those of acute tonsillitis, but the appearance of the throat becomes very much different after the second or third day. The diphtheric throat develops greenish patches which may form on the soft palate as well as on the tonsils.

Parents are often afraid to call the doctor when the child develops a sore throat because of the fear of quarantine or that the doctor will insist on using diphtheria antitoxin to which many are ethically opposed, or which they consider an unwise or dangerous treatment.

The sensible thing to do at the beginning of any throat inflammation with either children or adults is to start using the proper hygienic measures which are practically the same in the case of tonsillitis or diphtheria, as neither of these disorders are necessarily dangerous if the right measures are used.

In tomorrow's article I will explain in detail the methods I advocate for the treatment of all acute throat inflammations.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Thank You asks: "Will you please tell me what this means? 'Suppurating area over left olecranon, alight lymphangitis, extending to axilla !"

Answer: This simply means some inflammation of a part of the left elbow with enlargement of the lymphatic glands under the arm. The pussy condition may be due to an injury, tuberculosis, or arthritis. Local treatment may be necessary, but dieting will prove effective in bringing about a cure by changing the quality of the blood stream so as to help in controlling the inflammatory process which is going on.

Question: Student writes: "There is a substance in plants and vegetables which makes them 'green,' will you kindly tell me the name of it?"

Answer: You are thinking of chlorophyll, the natural pigment in vegetables and plants which imparts the green color to a greater or lesser degree, its action being dependent upon contact with sunshine. For instance, celery and asparagus are "bleached" by having the light shut away during their growth.

Question: Mrs. H. W. J. writes: "I suffer from shortness of breath and have for ten years. Our family doctor says it is caused from nervous indigestion. Have taken loads of medicine, but still suffer. It causes me to yawn and gives me a tired weak feeling. Have pains around my heart and gas on my stomach."

Answer: Get rid of the gas pressure by living on the proper diet and then take diaphragmatic breathing exercises. Any physical culture instructor will be able to show you these exercises, or I will be glad to send you some articles I have written on this subject.

TRUE STORIES ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE
By a Mutual Life Representative

The FORGOTTEN CLAUSE

I read the Clause to her

A NUMBER of years ago we issued a policy to a man who subsequently became incapacitated from tuberculosis. For three years he was unable to do anything.

One day his mother came to me wanting to surrender the policy on her son's life for the cash value. I examined the policy and found it carried a total disability clause which the poor woman had entirely overlooked.

"Surely," I said, "You don't want to surrender this policy." And I read the mother the disability clause. She didn't yet quite understand.

"It's all right for you to talk," she said, "but "I need that money NOW"

"It would be a sin to take this policy from you now. I simply won't do it," I told her flatly.

I reported the case to the head office. The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada promptly refunded two years' premiums and in addition paid an amount covering the monthly income for the two previous years.

Regularly each month after that until her son died,

The mother received a cheque from the Mutual Life of Canada. At his death the company sent her a cheque for the amount of the policy in full.

Had she surrendered that policy as she tried to do, she would have been practically penniless before he died, as her son's policy had only been running a few years and its cash surrender value was therefore comparatively small.

All Representatives of the Mutual Life of Canada are equipped to give invaluable counsel upon life insurance, explain the various provisions of different Mutual policies and point out the particular policies called for by your insurance needs. Be frank with them and give them your confidence. They will respect it.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She gets a letter from Bobby, who is ill; and runs away to visit him. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, is on the Asylum's Board.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Miss Campbell would. Miss Campbell arose. A merry smile about the room, shedding its radiance on the rows of hats. There wasn't very much that she could tell them this week. It had been a very quiet week and she was afraid that this time there would have been nothing of interest to relate had it not been for the very unusual occurrence that had taken place this morning!

An interested rustle, as the forms beneath the hats straightened in their seats. Miss Campbell waited until the little breeze had died down. Then, with another smile, acknowledging their interest and promising them full returns, she launched forth.

It was, of course, the mention of the brother who had been sent up for manslaughter that pricked the attention of Graham, who sat enclasping his ankle, his gaze upon Miss Campbell, although his thoughts were not with her. The mention of the brother who had been sent up for manslaughter, a drunken roisterer. Miss Campbell would not go on out of deference to one who, they all knew, had been the innocent victim of fate in Sullivan's mad careening toward the loveliness of the flower that lay in his path. Miss Campbell had grown flushed, and the unwonted oratory had brought out the little beads of perspiration on the length of her upper lip. She went on in still greater detail, mentioning the circumstances of Mary's flight, stressing Abner Baker, his aid to the girl, stressing everything that might be laid open to devious significances.

Graham rose and sauntered from the room. There were times when the "hard actualities of life" were harder than even they had a right to be. He returned to the voluble matron, asked for her keys and where to reach Mary, and went in search of her. The recital of Mary's flight, far from astounding him, had touched a part of him he had long since thought sapped of the ability to feel. The graphic picture of her escapade had aroused a feeling of admiration, the desire to see this girl who had flown in the face of an inscrutable power, acknowledging its superior force, but refusing to admit defeat.

When, after a somewhat shy repetition of what he had heard from the lips of Miss Campbell, he heard Mary say that now she was prepared to return to the Home, that seeing Bobbie had been the one remaining desire of her life, Graham resolved that something ought to be done. He cast about for the one to do it and then, with a leap of sudden interest, asked himself why not he?

"At any rate," he told Mary, "there need no longer be the worry of returning to the Home. I'll see about that."

And he had. And now he watched Mary as she wiped the moisture in her eyes, moisture that persisted in flowing, as she explained that it was very strange. Shakily. It was very strange that she should cry, when she was so happy.

In sudden generosity of soul, in the desire to indulge to the utmost this swell of spirits that ebbed in him and which made him curiously eager for more of life and its developments, he continued.

"I shall arrange, too, that Robert be given into your care, Mary," and watched the effect upon her of that. It was pure selfishness on his part, of course. He enjoyed the lift of her head and the look of unbelief that flashed into her eyes, making them enormous. He enjoyed the feel of her firm young fingers when she grasped his hand in the excess of her gratitude.

"Nothing—there's nothing I can say, Mr. Graham!"

"There is nothing I want you to say, Mary. Except, of course," Arthur came to place his hands on her shoulders and hold her straight and eager before him, "except 'yes' to what it is that I am going to ask of you."

"Yes, yes, yes!" An eager string of them that poured forth. "I don't wait until you ask. I say yes, Mr. Graham, no matter what it is."

He laughed at that. "Caution has no part in your make-up. I can see that. And it's just as well, I suppose. Very well, then," gayly. "Let it be yes, yes, yes!"

"Won't you tell me what it is to which I have agreed?" pleaded Mary.

"No. There's to be no backsliding, remember that." Arthur was quite gay. He strode up and down the narrow confines of the little infirmary with its white iron beds, his face alive with planning, while Mary watched. She found it difficult not to join in his hilarity of spirit. Life had become so delightfully simple. The past had been washed away by the careless efforts of a very rich young man. What it was to which he had asked her to agree she did not know, nor care. It would be another large gesture of munificence, doubtlessly. That could remain in the future. The unbelievable freedom that lay before her path now was dazzling with its promise. To be home again—for Mary knew she would return to the peace of Garden City—to make a home for Robert there where they would both wait for David—David. It had been long since he had had a place in her thoughts, so absorbed had she been in the far greater frailty of the younger brother. David. Neither she nor Graham had mentioned his name. She because of the pain she knew it would recall to him, Arthur because of the memories it would doubtlessly bring back to Mary. It lay between them, the shadow of David, and prevented the more easy familiarity for which both were reaching out. The blessed peace that Arthur was bringing into her life with his advent came as a gracious boon to Mary. She could not have strode her path without the courage she had taken since its inception. Weariness had begun to seep through, there had been longings for something which she could not name. The strength that emanated from the hardness of Arthur. The knowledge of this same strength which he took as a part of himself was as salve to her bruised spirit. She longed to bathe in it. When he touched her shoulders it was to infuse some of this strength into her. She still could feel the firm pressure of his hand when she had clutched it in her own. Safety. It was a canopy that radiated from the person of Graham, and under which Mary longed to bask. The shadow of it would bring relief from the glare of the noonday of life, that had been beating down upon her. Was she indeed the same girl who longed to walk the mountain-tops with the quicksilver of her spirit? Much water had passed beneath the bridge since then.

She watched Arthur now, amusedly, happily. He had stopped in the midst of his pacing of the room and brought his hand to his forehead. "I have it!" he announced. The boyishness became him. Removed the weary lines that forked from the sides of his eyes and lifted the usual jaded heaviness from the thickness of his jaw.

He turned to Robert, whose eyes had been focused upon him in his striding of the room.

"Hi, Bob, how would you like to come to live with me?" He stood at the foot of the bed, watching the small boy.

"Who with?" demanded young Robert.

Arthur counted them off on his fingers. "Mary, and a very delightful old lady whom you will call Aunt Mollie, and a still more delightful old gentleman whom you will call Uncle Jasper. And me."

"Well," mused Robert thoughtfully, "have you asked Mary?"

"Mary," announced Arthur Graham, with a swift glance at Mary where she stood with her hand on her heart, "Mary has said yes. Not once, but three times."

"Mr. Graham—" She took a step forward. She had expected a munificent gesture, but nothing like this.

"Please, Mary. Remember you promised. And of your own free will. I told you to use caution."

"I think, then," said young Robert thoughtfully, "that I should probably like it very much."

"Oh, Robert!"

"Well, Mary, I prob'ly would."

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CCCXXX—Science in the World War—LXXVIII. Keeping Our Aviators Fit. — by MAX HAHN

THE FIRST YEARS OF THE WORLD WAR REVEALED THAT MANY AVIATORS WERE CRASHING WHOSE PLANES HAD NOT BEEN HIT BY THE ENEMY. THE ALLIES SELECTED A SPECIAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TO LEARN THE REASON FOR THE ACCIDENTS.

THE INVESTIGATORS FINALLY LEARNED FROM SOME OF THE AIRMEN WHO HAD RECOVERED THAT THE TROUBLE WAS WITH THEM AND NOT WITH THE MACHINE. THEY EXPLAINED THAT THEY LOST CONSCIOUSNESS JUST BEFORE THE PLANE BEGAN TO FALL.

TESTS WERE DEVISED CONSEQUENTLY TO PICK THE FUTURE AIRMEN. THE FLYING CANDIDATES ARE WHIRLED AND UPSET TO LEARN WHETHER THEY CAN STAND AIR-SICKNESS, WHICH IS SIMILAR TO SEA-SICKNESS.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

AVIATORS GENERALLY ADMIT NOW THAT ANY MAN OR WOMAN WHO CAN DRIVE AN AUTOMOBILE CAN PILOT AN AIRPLANE. FOR STRENUOUS COMBAT DUTY, HOWEVER, A VIRTUAL GENIUS IS REQUIRED. ADDITIONAL TESTS ARE BEING DEVISED SO THE ARMY AND NAVY CAN SELECT THEIR FLIERS MORE WISELY.

OFFICERS TELL OF MISUSE OF POLICE FUNDS

Give Evidence at Probe Into Action of Chief Thompson.

BY WINDSOR BOARD.

Electrician Says Chief Asked Him To Say Money Spent For Material.

WINDSOR, Oct. 29. — From some hidden source of riches, revealed only to the Police Commissioners in a scribbled note, Sergt. James R. Wilkinson, fingerprint expert, on a salary of $200 a month, purchased and traded in three automobiles within a two-month period, according to his own admission at the Windsor police probe yesterday.

This, with the testimony of Inspector M. S. Wigle, Acting Chief Constable, and Charles F. Burnie, electrician for the Police Department was the high light of yesterday's hearing of the charges preferred against Chief Constable Daniel Thompson by Alderman Clyde Curry who accuses the police head of misappropriating moneys and with inefficiency in administration of his department.

Says Chief Demanded Share.

Burnie charged Chief Thompson with attempting to persuade him to falsify his testimony, and Inspector Wigle testified that the suspended Chief demanded and got $100 of the expense money granted him (Wigle) for a trip to the Canadian Police Chiefs' Convention at Vancouver in June. Not only did Chief Thompson force him to turn over $100 of the $500 allotted him, Inspector Wigle said, but he arranged for transportation for a woman friend. Inspector Wigle said that the Chief told him he wanted the $100 to assist Magistrate W. E. Gundy in attending the Vancouver convention.

In applying to the Canadian Pacific Railway for tickets, the Chief Constable, the Inspector continued wrote: Myself, wife and daughter Kate." Wigle has no daughter, the Inspector admitted The "Kate," it was disclosed in testimony, was a friend of Chief Thompson.

Money Returned

Inspector Wigle confessed on the stand that he was angered by the Chief's action and complained to Sergt. Wilkinson, head of the Identification Bureau. Wilkinson, he said, thereupon gave him $100 from the fund obtained to entertain delegates to the annual convention of the International Police Chiefs' Association, held here in June.

"We will put that down as rent on a summer cottage," the Inspector swore Wilkinson told him.

Other witnesses told of haphazard methods by which funds collected by the department were accounted for, and the prosecution appeared to score heavily when it was stated that Chief Thompson did not turn over levies on the city burglar alarm system to George Warlow, Secretary of the Police Commission.

Electrician Burnie caused a sensation when he declared the Chief had approached him with a view to giving false testimony.

"The Chief called me to his home and asked me to say that the money received from the six stores where there are alarm systems was used to purchase materials," Burnie said.

Money Not So Used, Is Claim.

Burnie said the money was not so used. It had been previously testified that each of the business places equipped with alarm systems paid $50 annually to the department for maintenance. The cheques were made payable to Chief Thompson, and Secretary Warlow testified that none of the money had been turned over to him.

Sergt. Wilkinson was subjected to a severe and long grilling by Wilfrid D. Roach, counsel for the prosecution, Wilkinson said that something seemed to tell him that sooner or later there would be a day of reckoning. And so he said he kept a record of the money paid to him for issuing character certificates to persons wishing to enter the United States. The Sergeant told the Commission that he issued 225 such certificates for which he was paid $46.

COLLIVER GETS ACCLAMATION

Prohibitionists of Prince Edward Follow Liberal Lead—No Time To Fight.

PICTON, October 29. — Prince Edward County Prohibitionists at a mass meeting last night decided not to place a candidate in the by-election field to oppose Horace Colliver, Conservative standard-bearer, on the ground that the time left for organization purposes was insufficient and that temperance principles would be better served by staying out of a campaign and devoting energies to preparation for the next general election.

Acclamation Likely.

With no Liberal candidate in the field either, Mr. Colliver is certain of an acclamation. Prohibitionists do not appear upset by the turn of events. Some gladly concede the seat to Colliver in the belief that "by giving the Government enough rope it eventually will hang itself."

A. A. Morden, President of the Prohibition Union, read last night a resolution passed by the Liberals in conference last Wednesday, which was to the effect that they would support any nominee of the temperance forces.

Newman Declines to Stand.

A request for the audience's opinion as to what action should be taken to meet the Conservative challenge brought from ex-Mayor Fred Newman, whose name has been frequently associated recently with the "dry" candidature, the information that he would not enter the contest. His reason was that, now that brewery warehouses and liquor stores had been established, there was nothing to gain by his participaiton. He also felt that the forces which as a matter of course would be thrown into the campaign on Mr. Colliver's behalf could not be combated successfully by an preparations the "drys" might effect in the short time left at their disposal.

The resolution which definitely removed the last possibility of opposition to the Colliver candidature was moved by Arthur Hyatt, president of the Progressive Party of the riding, and was seconded by Mr. Newman.

POLICE COURT.

A resident of the Township of Otonabee pleaded guilty this morning to being intoxicated on Water Street yesterday, and was fined $15 and $4.50 costs.

James Moore, an inmate of the House of Refuge, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with assaulting Mixer Record, an aged inmate of that home. Moore had a stoppage in his speech, and it was difficult to make out his plea. His Worship remanded him to the home until Monday. He thought the man acted rather queer, and ordered that he be examined before Monday.

Yesterday Moore, who is a man about 35, struck Mr. Record on the side of the head with his fist, causing a deep flesh wound. High County Constable Pearson was called and arrested the accused.

Grayson Atlantic Flight Indefinitely Postponed

ELEVEN LOST WHEN STEAMER RAMS SCHOONER

Avalon, Fishing Vessel, Sent to the Bottom Off Tip of Cape Cod.

THREE OF CREW RESCUED.

Was Rammed Amidships While Bound for the Mackerel Fishing Grounds.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 31. — Eleven men of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Avalon lost their lives in the swirling waters of the Atlantic off the tip of Cape Cod early last Saturday when their craft was rammed and sent to the bottom by steamship Presidente Wilson. Only three of the crew of the 14 were saved.

The survivors brought into Boston by the Presidente Wilson were Nicholas Walsh, Frank Hemon and Eldin Fleet, all of Gloucester. Among those lost was the skipper of the schooner, Captain Edmund Volger of Liverpool N. S., and his father, Jabez Volger.

The identity of several others remained uncertain for some time as a complete list of the crew was not available. Two bodies were recovered by the Presidente Wilson but their identity was also undiscovered.

The schooner was bound for the mackerel fishing grounds off Cape Cod when the collision occurred.

Friday she landed 9000 pounds of fish at Boston. She had passed the tip of the cape on her return and was about five miles out when the presidente Wilson bound from New York to Boston, on her way to Palermo, Italy, hove in sight. According to the story of the survivors as reported by Medical Examiner George B. McGrath, after he had examined the men aboard the steamship on its arrival here the steamer had come across the bow of the Presidente Wilson, and was on the starboard tack when the steamship struck her amidships. The sharp prow plough-ed through the frailer craft and she went down before the men could take to the boats. The three survivors were picked up within a few minutes. The Presidente Wilson hunted for others but found only the two bodies. The crash occurred before daylight, shortly after four o'clock. According to the story told by the survivors, the schooner's running lights were in good order but a heavy fog cut down visibility.

Remained at Scene.

The steamship remained at the scene for several hours but hope of rescuing any others of the crew finally was abandoned and she headed for Boston where the three rescued men were put ashore and sent to a hospital.

The Avalon was a two masted auxiliary schooner owned by the William R. Jordan Company of Gloucester. She was typical of the fishing fleet which works from that port, manned by a hardy crew, old Gloucestermen and fishermen from the Canadian maritime provinces. She had braved the storms of the Atlantic seaboard for nearly a quarter of a century.

Her fate was not unlike that which has overtaken many of the Gloucester fleet. Only a few weeks ago the schooner Columbia set out from port and never returned. Annually the toll of lost fishermen has grown but the death list of the Avalon was one of the highest recorded in any disaster this year.

Newspapermen were not permitted to see the three survivors after their removal to the marine hospital. Although the men were uninjured they were reported to be suffering from exposure and shock.

No Chance of Escape.

Hospital attendants who talked with the men said that according to the story told by Eldin Fleet, he was at the wheel at the time of the crash. He said the Avalon was off Highland Light about 8 o'clock Friday night when it was decided not to do any fishing until the morning so the schooner hove to for the night. The sailor told of seeing the Presidente Wilson bearing down on the schooner but he thought the steamer would clear the smaller boat. As it approached it was evident a collision was imminent and schooner's auxiliary motor was started but not in time to carry the vessel out of the way. Most of the men were in their bunks at the time and had no chance to escape owing to the speed with which the vessel went down.

Frank Hemon, another survivor, was on watch at the time of the crash. He leaped for a dory and escaped without getting wet.

None of the survivors was able to identify either of the bodies picked up. The men were new to the crew and the only clue to their identity was the belief that one of them was from New York. Most of the passengers on board of the liner were sleeping peacefully when the crash occurred. Among them were Charles Wustlick of Searsdale, N.Y., and Norman T. Forster of New York, college students on their way to Munich, Germany, to study music.

They were awakened they said by the jar when the steamer struck the schooner and looking from their state

Costes Resumes Hop Around November 8

BUENOS AIRES, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Dieudenne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, the French aviators, who flew from Paris to the Argentine capital in ten days and negotiated the South Atlantic Ocean without a stop, definitely decided to resume their aerial conquest on November 8.

They expect to leave then for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Asuncion, Paraguay, for a visit, return to Buenos Aires, and then begin the flight to New York by way of Valparaiso, Chile, La Paz, Bolivia, Lima, Peru, Guayaquil, Ecuador, Panama, Mexico, Cuba, and New Orleans.

STORM TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Many Irish Fishermen Lost When Gale Sweeps British Isles.

PROPERTY DAMAGE.

BELFAST, Ireland, October 31 (A.P.).—The gale which struck the British Isles Friday night and cut off communication temporarily between England and Ireland has taken a heavy toll of Irish fishermen. It did serious material damage inland. The gale swept over the west coast, and its full force was felt in Tipperary, where numberless roofs were stripped from the houses and roads were blocked by fallen trees. Farms suffered heavily by the destruction of ricks.

The worst disaster occurred to fishing boats in Laskan Bay, County Mayo. Several boats put to sea just before 6 o'clock when the evening was fine and starry. They had secured an excellent catch when the storm suddenly broke. They ran for shore, but two boats were dashed upon the rocks and the entire crews drowned, the boats being shattered by the force of the impact.

Only two boats, which out their nets, reached safety. The storm raged for hours. Boats from Baffin Island, Renvyle and other places are known to have been out and it is feared the death toll will largely exceed the fifteen already recorded.

BROOKS' APPEAL OPENS AT OTTAWA

Supreme Court of Canada Hearing Case of Toronto Man.

OTTAWA, October 31. — Canadian Press. — Bart Brooks of Toronto, in the Supreme Court of Canada to-day opened an appeal against a five year sentence imposed after he was found guilty of being accessory in an alleged illegal operation on Miss Ruth Dembner, who subsequently died. In the same connection Dr. O. C. J. Withrow is serving seven years. The sentences were confirmed on appeal to the Ontario supreme court. The grounds of appeal are misdirection, and non-direction by the trial judge. Dr. Withrow is not appealing.

OTTAWA October 31. Canadian Press. — Joseph O'Neill, a prominent prospector, has been lost in the woods north of Timmins for nearly a week, according to advices reaching his relatives near Ottawa. Search parties have failed to find trace of him so far. He expected to be absent only a day or so.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD AT ST. JAMES'

Rev. J. E. Todd is Preacher at the Morning Service.

TALKS ON ST. PAUL.

Urges Hearers To Follow the Apostle's Example and Work For God.

The Sunday just passed is significant, inasmuch as it marks the passing of another milestone in the life of St. James' United Church. On the morning of this anniversary occasion, Rev. J .E. Todd, of George Street United Church, preached on the subject of "All Strange Desire" before a capacity congregation. Assisting the choir was Master Billy Long, of St. Stephen's Church, Toronto. The transcendant merit of his boyish soprano held his listeners enthralled while he poured forth his stirring message of song. Special music was also rendered by the choir ensemble.

It is interesting to make a brief resume of the history of this church. It was first instituted in 1900. The first service was held in a tent, 51 persons attending. In 1908 a Sunday School was built and when, in 1915, the Charlotte Street Methodist congregation decided to erect a new building, afterwards called the Trinity Methodist Church, the old building was utilized as far as possible in the erection of the present modern church, twin cornerstones of which were laid June 1, 1916, and the name of St. James adopted.

In his opening remarks Mr. Todd congratulated the congregation of St. James upon their past history of worthy accomplishments. The fact that there was incorporated in their midst zealous men and women in the service of God, augured well for the future of the church.

He chose his text from the third chapter of Philippians and the tenth verse, which reads in part thus: "That I may know the fellowship of His sufferings." The fact that this was said by Paul made it all the more remarkable. Among all the famous men of history there are none who have made for themselves a more indelible mark in history than had this man, and whatever our attitude towards him, we are forced to admit that his record is highly ensconced in his own particular sphere.

Yet even that great Christian never claimed to have attained the ultimate heights in the work and understanding of his Lord and all that He embodied. Of more than passing strangeness was the story of this man's life. Once a bitter and implacable enemy of all things Christian, the ungodly Saul was virtually dynamited into conversion when on the road to Damascus, there to further continue his merciless attempts to eradicate Christianity.

After meeting with this divine manifestation he became, as he termed it, " a new creature in Christ Jesus. Conversion, it seems, is something intangible and beggars authentic definition. People love better and come to a better understanding of life through sharing the sorrows of others. If parents were all endowed with the happy faculty of being able to share and help solve the troubles of their children in the proper way it would mean a long step towards the elimination of a good many of the besetting social evils of the day.

In a similar manner was Paul affected. Not until he saw the light and began to assume some of the responsibilities and worries of his fellow-man did he really come to the perfect realization of the fullness of life.

The continual low and despicable actions of those in His likeness are surely a source of great sorrowing to Him. How it must anguish the heart of Him, who suffered on Calvary's hill for the redemption of man, when that same man sends forth into armed conflict thousands of his kind.

The answer to all this is universal brotherhood and the key to that Elysium of earthly unity is love, and since the Apostle John's definition of God is the best, namely that God is love, then the only way to bring about this state is through universal worship of and service to God. "When we, too, follow Paul's trail and desire to know the power of His resurrection and the way of participating in His sufferings then we will in some small way, give ourselves, as in the Master's large and comprehensive way He gave Himself a ransom for all mankind," he concluded.

Republic In Danger If Women Get Vote

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(United Press).—"What is the attitude of the party toward votes for women?" asked Mme. Schwab, feminist leader of the radical socialist convention.

"It is that if women, with their mentality, get the vote, the Republic will be endangered" replied the anti-feminist senator cuminal.

Express Says Russian Explorer Has Solved Asia's Greatest Archaeological Mystery

LONDON, October 31 (Associated Press). — The Russian explorer, Professor Peter Kozloff, says the Sunday Express, has solved darkest Asia's greatest archaeological mystery by the discovery of the tomb of Genghis Kan (Jenghiz Khan), Mongolian conqueror, seven hundred years after his death, near the ruins of the dead city of Kharakpoto, in the Gobi Desert.

Prof. Kozloff has devoted twenty years to the search. He found the great Khan's remains in a silver coffin, resting upon the crowns of 78 princes and Khans whom he had conquered.

The wrecked level is 4,100 feet beneath the surface half the distance of the entire shaft. Nothing is known regarding the condition of the levels beneath it, from whence the blast originated, but it is highly probable the supports of the section have been badly damaged. Most of the rescue work is being done from scaffold hoists, but another slip in the loosened strata would mean almost certain death for the workers, who number approximately 150 men.

There is no disposition to discontinue the work, however, and volunteers number more than can safely be allowed into the shaft at one time.

Mining officials and engineers who inspected the wrecked level yesterday were agreed that the accident resulted from the settling of a mass of rock somewhere in the lower levels, which caused a violent compression of air to strike the 41st level.

BANDITS LOOT NATIONAL BANK

Robbers Make Getaway With $10,000 From Banque Canadien Nationale.

GATINEAU POINT.

HULL, Que., Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—The Banque Canadienne National at Gatineau Point, five miles from here, was held up at 9.25 on Saturday evening at closing time and robbed of $10,000. The bandits made their getaway in a large blue touring car, bearing license number Ont. 145-020.

Mr. Robitaille, manager of the Gatineau Point branch of the bank, was just closing up when the two men came through the door, and with levelled revolver, ordered him to put up his hands. A third man remained in the car with the engine running.

Robitaille was forced to open the safe. While one of the men forced the manager to face the wall, hands extended upwards, the other bandit scooped up several bundles of bills of large denomination and hurried to the door. The other man followed, still threatening the manager. Then with a jump, he entered into the car which was whisked away. The manager rushed to the door and gave the alarm.

It was later found that the license plate on the car had been stolen earlier in the evening off a car parked on Main Street, Hull. Police are of the opinion, that the thieves have several sets of stolen markers in their possession.

Open Saturday Night.

Mr. Robitaille, who had been manager of the branch for 15 years, had been in the habit of opening up the office Saturday evenings to accommodate patrons who had large sums of money to deposit.

Persons who saw the three men in the car as it was speeding away, described the occupants as young men, aged between 24 and 28, clean shaven and well dressed.

The police throughout the district were immediately notified, but no arrests had been made up to last night.

REPORTS DIFFER ABOUT RUMANIA

Government Says Everything Calm—Revolution Reports Filter Out.

NOT CONFIRMED.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—Rumania is officially stated to be calm following action against persons suspected of plotting to place former Crown Prince Carol on the throne. Reports reaching this place from frontier points, however, report a revolution throughout the country last night, but these could not be confirmed.

THOMPSON ATTACK IS BAD MANNERS

United States' Playwright Says He Talks Cutter Jargon.

CHICAGO, October 31. —, Canadian Press. — "We have an unguarded Canadian border, and to hurl literary insults across that line is just bad international manners," charged Vachell Lindsay, author and playwright regarding Mayor Thompson's war against British propaganda. Thompson does not talk "United States," said indsay. "He talks the gutter jargon of a steerage passenger, hating all countries—the United States as well as England."

Says 1928 Has Good Industrial Outlook

LONDON, October 31 (Canadian Press Cable).—Industrial conditions in Canada are excellent and the outlook for 1928 is good, said F. W. Field, senior British Trade Commissioner in Canada, on his arrival at Liverpool aboard the Albertic yesterday. He emphasized that there was a marked desire for greater investment in the Dominion on the part of the United Kingdom.

It is probably true to say, continued Mr. Field, that business men and investors of the United Kingdom have taken a greater interest in Canada this year, than any previous year. The visit of the Prince of Wales and Premier Stanley Baldwin to the Dominion last summer made a deep impression, while the tour made by members of the Empire Mining Congress, brought to the attention of mining men and Empire capitalists, the vast mineral resources of Canada.

"We had more calls at Montreal from British manufacturers and merchants, than at any time previously," said Mr. Field. He emphasized that one cannot sell to Canada at long range because it is a market above all others, in which the seller must go to the buyer.

SECOND FIRE IN SEYMOUR

Barn of George Dunk Destroyed With Contents Last Night.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

BURNBRAE, October 31.—The second barn fire in north-eastern Seymour in two days occurred last night at 11 o'clock, when the barn of George Dunk, Lot 26, Concession 8, was burned, with the season's crops. No animals were lost, and the damage to the barn, which was comparatively new, was partly covered with insurance. The cause is unknown.

Coming so soon after the destruction of the barn of Huston Gibson, Allan's Mills, also of unknown cause, the fire is causing much speculation in the district. Spontaneous combustion is not thought probably in either case.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED AT HOTEL

Alcoholic Poisoning Suspected as Cause of Death at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press)—William T. Walland, an aged man, was found dead in bed at the Crystal Hotel last night. A post mortem will be held today to determine the case of death, and an inquest will follow. It is believed the man died from alcoholic poisoning.

Mr. Walland had no relatives excepting a son at Doublas, Manitoba, and was employed in this city as a night clerk. Dr. Tennant of this city attended.

GAS ON WOLFE ISLAND.

Farmer Drilling For Water Strikes Natural Gas Well.

KINGSTON Ont. Oct. 31. Canadian Press. — A supply of natural gas was struck by James Daly, drilling for water on his farm at Wolfe Island, and flames from the gas shot forty feet into the air. He is making arrangements to harness it.

14 GIRLS PASS RESCUE TESTS IN Y. W. POOL

Swimming and Life-Saving Awards Won By Young Ladies.

UNDER STRICT RULES.

Two Recommended For Award of Merit—Rev. J. D. Paterson Examiner.

Fourteen girls passed swimming and life-saving tests at the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday evening, entitling them to various awards of the Royal Life-Saving Society, ranging from that for proficiency to the award of merit. The examinations were conducted by Rev. J. D. Paterson, officially appointed examiner of the Society, and the girls were directed by Miss Caroline Littlefield, physical director of the Y.W.C.A.

The tests are most strictly carried out under regulations laid down in the text-book of the Royal Society, so that there is no doubt of the competency of the graduates to perform the feats of life-saving that are taught by the Society's instructors. Written tests were taken by the entrants prior to the practical swimming tests, and the several releases were demonstrated on the floor before being performed in the water. It was a very interesting exhibition throughout, and a good gallery of spectators applauded well the efforts of the girls. Several members represented Kiwanis Club, which last spring sent nearly a hundred girls to learn the art of swimming. Two of the girls who could not swim a stroke before Kiwanis Club gave them this opportunity to learn, passed their elementary life-saving tests on Saturday.

Award of Merit.

The award of merit, the highest honor sought in Saturday's tests, was taken by Viola Harvey and Ruth Sutton, both of whom have been recommended by the Examiner. It is open only to candidates who have passed the bronze medallion tests, and a very high standard is required before the coveted silver medal is awarded.

Without resting between tests, these girls swam two hundred yards with their clothes on, undressed in the water, dived for a weight thrown into the deepest part of the pool, dived from the board and from the ten-foot balcony, and performed such stunts as marching in the water, the porpoise dive, motionless floating, double somersault forward and backward and the rolling log. This was probably the most spectacular test of the evening, and the splendid manner in which the items were carried out by the girls brought hearty applause.

At the conclusion of the examination, Rev. Mr. Paterson complimented the candidates upon their splendid performance, and announced that they would be recommended for the award.

Bronze Medallion.

There were ten entrants in the tests for the bronze medallion, and all passed in the practical examination. The written tests have not yet been read, however, and the final de-

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAM FOR THE PARADE

Everything is Free to the Public —Have a Good Time, But Be Considerate—Dancing at Armories After Parade.

There is every appearance of a tremendous parade of Hallowe'en masqueraders to-night. What with the fine weather and the general disposition on the part of our citizens to observe Hallowe'en in a manner that is sane and sensible yet in a most pleasant way, great interest has been aroused. The program will be as follows:

Masqueraders will assemble at the Armories, which will be open at seven o'clock.

The parade, headed by the 57th Regimental Band, will proceed out Murray street entrance to Aylmer to McDonnel, to Water, to King, to George to Brock Street Rink, where the judging of costumes will be held.

Only those in costume allowed on floor of rink. No admission charge to spectators.

After the parade, the 57th Regimental Band, under the leadership of Capt. Peryer, will provide music for dancing at the Armories.

Police would like no parking on George street between 7.30 and 9.30, between King and McDonnel streets, on George.

The police would also like the intersections at Brock, Hunter, Simcoe and Charlotte streets to be open in case of fire truck wanting to get through.

Please do not use any fireworks, as many costumes are very inflamable.

Held Greatest Naval Review Since 1919

TOKIO, October 31 (Canadian Press). — The greatest naval review in Japan since 1919 was held yesterday morning, and was participated in by 158 warships. The spectacle attracted immense crowds, which assembled at every point of vantage. The vessels taking part in the manoeuvre included eight capital ships, 20 cruisers, 72 destroyers, and 38 submarines, aggregating 700,000 tons. There were also 12 transports in the fleet.

The ships were drawn up in eight parallel lines off Yokohama, and occupied an area six miles long and tow miles wide.

The battleship Mutsu, with Emperor Hirohito aboard, steamed slowly between the lines, while aircraft circled above. The inspection lasted two hours.

TWO BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Seven Miners Lose Their Lives in Air Blast Explosion.

QUINCY BLAST EXPLOSION.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Oct. 31.— (A. P.)—Bodies of two of the seven miners whose lives were snuffed out by an air blast explosion occuring on the 41st level of the Quincy Copper mine near here Saturday night, were recovered yesterday.

The bodies were those of John Israelson, 40 and Emil Bittama, 51, found near the top of huge pile of stone at one end of the wrecked level. Rescue workers who have been operating in relays since late Saturday evening when the explosion occurred, declared last night it may be several days before the bodies of the other five victims are recovered. Hundreds of tons of stone, heaped up in the section of the level where the victims were trapped, will have to be removed slowly and carefully, due to the hazardous condition of the flooring. One end of the level was completely torn out by the terrific force of the percussion and the weight of the wreckage at the other end may force a cave-in to the level.

RUSSIA ENTERS ARMS PARLEY

Sends Notice of Intention to Take Part in Preparatory Conference.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

GENEVA, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press) —Russia has notified the League of Nations that the Soviet Government will participate in the work of the preparatory commission of the disarmament conference, it was announced today. The absence of Russia had been considered one of the biggest obstacles to any conference which could stand a chance of success in the reduction of land armaments. The Commission meets November 10.

Russia's decision is of the greatest importance to the future of disarmament, probably removing the chief objection by nations bordering Russia to discussion of the disarmament problem. The exact strength of the Russian army is a mystery to the western world and Russia's entry will permit the Powers to lay their cards on the table.

DAWN RETURNS TO HOME FIELD

Pilot Says He Is Through With Flight Over Ocean.

TRIP SUICIDAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—The amphibian monoplane "Dawn" was back in the home hangar at Curtiss Field today, indefinitely out of the trans-Atlantic flying lists and Wilmere Stultz, the pilot, who took the plane nearly 500 miles along the route to Copenhagen yesterday before turning back, declared himself through with the project. Mrs. Grayson, the aviatrix commander, was insistent that the Dawn would yet complete the air hop over the ocean but Stultz said if so it would be without him.

The pilot said it would have been suicidal to continue when the plane could not rise higher than four hundred feet and asserted that Brice Goldsborough, the navigator, was sending wireless messages that "didn't mean anything" to Mrs. Coolidge and others on behalf of Mrs. Grayson instead of helping in crucial moments.

BEATEN BACK THREE TIMES FROM VENTURE

Plane Returns To Mainland Following Failure To Make Take-off.

GIVEN SEND-OFF.

Bring Plane To Higher Degree of Efficiency Before the Next Attempt.

CURTISS FIELD, N.Y., October 31 (Canadian Press). — The amphibian plane, the Dawn, of Mrs. Frances W. Grayson, Long Island real estate dealer, who still hopes to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, last night was back at its starting point here after a three-hour flight from Old Orchard, Me. The flying expedition to Copenhagen Denmark has been indefinitely postponed.

The small woman who has struggled for months to realize the ambition which she has said she holds for her sex as well as for herself, was obviously disappointed at the unsuccessful termination of her programme after she and her companions, Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Navigator Brice Goldsborough, had twice risked their lives in take-offs from Old Orchard Beach for their objective.

Beaten Three Times.

Beaten back twice by the failure of the plane to gain the altitude required to sustain its flight and once when well on the way by heavy fog closely followed by engine trouble. Mrs Grayson last night announced her intention to return to Long Island and spend the winter in further tests designed to bring the plane to a higher degree of efficiency before making another attempt next spring.

The flight back yesterday was uneventful. The plane carried seven persons, including the crew. It will go back to its place in the Sikorsky hangar from where it started three weeks ago.

Although there had been marked difference of opinion among the crew for a week which at times reached the point of open dissension, the group of three remained intact to the end.

None of them last night would discuss the probabilities between now and a possible attempt in the spring.

GIVEN SEND-OFF.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., October 31 (Canadian Press). — A summer resort, muffled to the ears against the hint of winter in the brisk wind, turned out on the sands yesterday morning to wave farewell to Frances Grayson and her companions in the Dawn with cheers of cheering her after her disappointment in failing to accomplish objective of Copenhagen this s

During the three weeks the had remained here, and during wh three attempts to fly the Atlantic h failed, the little bobbed-haired wo man and her pilot and navigator had become known to everyone.

Indeed they had monopolized the only hotel open, had kept the one taxi driver constantly on the move, had crowded the one small lunch room with their newspaper attendants and mechanics.

Still Have Faith.

That they still had faith in the expedition was evidenced by a grey-haired woman who broke from the crowd as Mrs. Grayson was about to step into the plane, and taking her hand warmly said:

"I wish you all the luck in the world; you will be successful on your next attempt, I am sure."

"You can be sure there will be another," said Mrs. Grayson.

Captain Harry Jones, whose hangar has had as guests Lindbergh, Brock and Schlee, Schiller and Wood, the ill-fated crew of Old Glory, and Mrs. Grayson, now has the five-mile natural runway of sand uncovered by the tide to himself until the ice in a short time stops all flying from here until the spring.

Stultz Through.

Stultz declared last night that he is "through" as far as any further plans to cross the Atlantic in the Dawn are concerned.

"I have been paid up until last night," he said, "and I hold no ill-feeling toward Mrs. Grayson. She has repeatedly refused my resignation, with a plaintive cry that I was leaving her in a bad fix."

Referring to his having brought the plane back to Old Orchard after three take-offs, Stultz said that "every experienced person in the country will say I acted wisely." Speaking of the future, he said he has received many offers, but added that he was not flying "blind" over the oceans.

"As for the ship itself," he said, "it is the best flying craft I have ever handled. Too much cannot be said for it. With good weather it will get through. But not with me."

LADY AVIATOR SPENDS QUIET DAY AT PARIS

Takes in Mild Sightseeing Tour of Gay French Capital.

GOES ON SHOPPING TOUR.

Visits Tomb of Napoleon and Other Noted Places of Historic Interest.

PARIS, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press). —Ruth Elder had a real day of rest yesterday, and came forth with her freshness in full bloom and ready for what further adventures awaited her. Except for a few hours of mild sightseeing in an automobile with Major and Mrs. Yount, of the United States Embassy, as guides, the little aviatrix spent the day in the intimacy of her old gold Louis XV. boudoir at such important tasks as having her hair done up in latest Parisian fashion and undergoing other beautifying processes. When all this was done she appeared in the pink of condition.

From 11 o'clock in the morning until three, she shut out a host of visitors who desired to pay homage to the charming flier or to invite her to future activities in the way of entertainment. She saw ohly F. C. Hannebrink, who came in behalf of the owners of the Dutch tanker Barendrecht to thank her for inadvertently making their ship famous. It was the Barendrecht that rescued Ruth and her co-pilot, George Haldeman, when their plane came down in mid-Atlantic many miles from the Azores, their objective point.

"Did" the Town

For the subsequent two hours she "did" the town as a tourist, but looking infinitely more "distingue" than 999 out of every thousand who daily visit Notre Dame, the Tomb of Napoleon, Eiffel Tower, all of which were on yesterday's itinerary. Miss Elder was dressed in a tight black toque of the Rue De La Paix choicest stock, a black coat trimmed with grey, brown fur, flesh-colored stockings and black patent leather slippers. A black and white sports costume of jersey material set off her trim young figure.

Not once did she say "So this is Paris," although she frequently remarked "It is marvellously beautiful" in Notre Dame, where she spent nearly a half hour. Lofty Eiffel Tower also impressed her, but she decided to postpone climbing to the top until the next time she comes to Paris, and then preferably by direct air route.

The motor trip was particularly pleasant for Captain Haldeman, because Major Yount was his first commander in the air service back in 1917.

Facing nearly a hundred newspaper men yesterday evening, Ruth threw up her hands, exclaiming "Am I still as important as all that."

Shopping is Over

"My shopping is over," she confided sadly to a girl who commented admiringly on her costume, "not because I want to quit, but because my money has run out."

Although hesitant regarding the details of her purchases, she said they included three coats and a number of hats—"morning, afternoon and evening costumes."

"This city is all I ever dreamed it could be as a fashion centre," said the girl.

Other purchases included one bottle of perfume and several lipsticks, although her old standby, which survived the flight, she said, was "still going strong."

GREEK PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Shot in the Head By Youthful Assailant After Opening Congress.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Admiral Paul Kendouriotis, President of Greece, had a narrow escape from death yesterday at the hands of a youth named Zafios Goussios. His assailant, who is 25 years of age, fired two revolver shots at the President as the latter was entering his automobile in front of the Municipal Building, where he had formally opened the Congress of Greek Mayors.

One of the bullets struck Kondouriotis in the head, having first passed through the windshield of the automobile, which was shattered in the President's face. Crowds rushed at the youth and attempted to lynch him, but he was saved by the police, who hurried him off to jail.

President Kondouriotis was removed to a nearby hospital. His condition was more serious than at first thought. A bulletin issued by the surgeons soon after the President's injuries had been attended to, said:

Wounded In Temple.

"The President was wounded in the right temple, the bone being splintered. The President bore a slight operation very well; his condition is satisfactory, and he was able to return home."

Ministers of State, diplomatic representatives and high officials hastened to the hospital to express their sympathy. Some of them were permitted to speak with him; the others signed the visitors' book.

Goussios is a waiter, born at Larissa. He came to Athens a fortnight ago for treatment of an aural affection. He also suffers from an impediment of speech, dating from his birth. This gave rise after his arrest to the impression that he was a deaf mute.

The police allege that his luggage contains Communist literature. They said he made a confession, declaring that he had been long unemployed and as the State had given him no support he wanted to avenge himself by killing the head of the State.

SINCLAIR TRIAL ON THIRD WEEK

Government To Develop Activities of Continental Trading Company To-day.

IMPORTANT WITNESSES.

WASHINGTON, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Swinging into its third week, the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy trial is expected to furnish more thrills as the Government continues to-day to develop the activities of the Continental Trading Company, Limited, of Canada, which came into the oil ipcture after the Senate had concluded its investigation of the lease of the naval reserves.

Former Senator Charles S. Thomas, of Colorado, will be recalled to complete his recital of the conferences at the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York City at which were executed two contracts covering the sale of enormous quantities of oil in this country. The Continental Company was a party to one of these and stood to make profits running into the millions.

The contention of the Government is that Sinclair shared in these profits and that $230,500 in Liberty bonds were once held by the Continental passed to the possession of Fall . The wealthy operator has not been connected directly with these bonds ,and there is no evidence in prospect to accomplish that.

After Senator Thomas leaves the stand, the Government will call as another important witness Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, who with Sinclair and James E. O'Neil, former president of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company guaranteed the performance of the contract of the Continental to purchase 33,333,333 barrels of oil from the companies of the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver.

Present at Conference.

Stewart was present at the Vanderbilt Hotel conference along with Thomas, Humphreys, O'Neil, Henry M. Blackmer, former chairman of the Board of the Mid-West Refining Company, a Standard of Indiana subsidiary, Beman Dawes, president of the Pure Oil Company, and brother of Vice-President Dawes, H. S. Osler, president of the Continental, and Sinclair.

The Government probably will rest its case on Tuesday or Wednesday, and then the defence will begin presenting evidence after William E. Leahy, of the counsel for Albert B. Fall, has made an opening statement to the jury.

MARQUIS BURIED.

Queen's Brother Laid To Rest in Royal Vaults at Windsor.

WINDSOR, Eng., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—In the same simple manner in which he lived, the body of the late Marquis of Cambridge, brother of Queen Mary, today was laid to rest in the royal vaults at Windsor Castle. The king and queen and their sons, as well as many of the nobility, were present.

Trainer Refuses To Sign Affidavit

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 31.— (Canadian Press.) — Pilot Harry Sharp, who directed the channel swim of Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, on October 7, has declined to sign an affidavit that she successfully negotiated the channel. In explanation he merely said he refused to sign anything. He gave as his chief reason, first, that channel swimming is a sport like boxing or football and in no other sport are witnesses asked to sign declarations on oath.

Second reason he offered in these words:

"If I put my name to a legal document I should have to answer questions put to me about the course I took in the Gleitze swim and that course is my own secret, the result of several years' study.

FOUR PERSONS LOSE LIVES IN PLANE CRASH

Five Passenger Fairchild Cabin Ship Falls at Newmarket, N.J.

BODIES MANGLED.

Happened Near Scene of Aeroplane Accident of September 17th.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 31.—(A.P.)— Four persons, including the pilot and his fiance, were instantly killed yesterday when a five passenger Fairchild cabin aeroplane fell at Newmarket, a little more than a mile from the scene of the crash of an aeroplane on September 17, in which seven persons were killed and five injured.

The dead:

Leroy Thompson, 28, pilot, of Hackensack, employed by the Colonial Air Transport Company.

Betty McGowan, a school teacher, of Hillsdale.

Wesley Hubbell, 27, room-mate of Thompson.

George Haubner, 26, of Hillsdale.

A boy about 12 years old named Haubner, believed to be a neighbor of the McGowan family.

The plane crashed in a corn field on the farm of Mrs. Bella Halpera about a mile south of Hadley Field eastern terminus of the air mail. Two hunters who said the machine narrowly missed them as it fell from a height of about 200 feet, believed it went into a tail spin as Thompson executed a sharp bank to turn north. The engine continued to roar until it struck earth.

Went Into Tail Spin.

The machine wavered, went into the spin and from that into a nose dive the hunters reported. The engine was buried in the ground out of sight and the fusilage was crushed flat.

The hunters, George Hooley of Plainfield and Charles Drake of Newmarket, and Mrs. Halpera, who watched the plane from her kitchen, were the only eye witnesses to the tragedy. The wreckage did not catch fire and all three rushed to it, but hastily abandoned their work of removing the bodies when they found that all four had been crushed into an unrecognizable mass.

RUTH ELDER VISITS NATIONAL SHRINE

Lays Wreath on Grave of French Unknown Soldier.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press) First official pilgrimage of Ruth Elder in Paris today was to the tomb of the French unknown soldier. Accompanied by her co-pilot, George Haldeman, she placed a wreath of flowers there while several thousands stood hushed and silent around the Arc de Triomphe.

It was an entirely different Ruth Elder from the one who arrived in Paris yesterday. She had outfitted herself in a stylish fur coat and a tailor made suit, evoking gasps of admiration from the feminine section of the crowd.

OLD MASTERS

One word is too often profaned
For me to profane it,
One feeling too often disdained
For thee to disdain it.
One hope is too like despair
For prudence to smother,
And Pity from thee more dear
Than that from another.

I can give not what men all love:
But wilt thou accept not
The worship the heart lifts above
And the heavens reject not:
The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion to something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow?

TUBERCULOSIS CURE IS TRIED ON HERD OF CONDEMNED CATTLE

First Results Are Very Favorable, Meat Passed Veterinary Inspectors.

BODY BUILDING FLUID.

Guinea Pigs Have Been Innoculated—Reports Are Waited For.

In order to find out whether or not a "Body-Building Fluid," discovered by Dr. George Kirkpatrick, a veterinary, of Portland, Oregon, actually cures tuberculosis, as has long been claimed, Mayor Baker instructed Doctors Mack, Chase and Miller, inspectors of meat, milk and tuberculosis, to take charge of a small herd of cattle, which had been condemned by state and Federal officials, and Dr. Kirkpatrick was told to go ahead and cure them.

There is no question about these cattle having tuberculosis. As Dr. A. M. Blackwell, U. S. Inspector at the Swift & Company yards declared, "you could hang your hat on their bones" Ten of the worst afflicted cows in two herds were selected for the test. So sick were they that, before the treatment started, two died, leaving eight.

To these the first treatment was given March 25, 1927. On five of the cows the treatment was continued for 130 days, without interruption. These five were killed on the 7th and 8th of August, 1927, in the presence of some sixty scientists from different parts of the country, the post mortem being conducted by Dr. Jacob Traum, of the Veterinary Science Department, University of California. He was assisted officially by Professor T. D. Beckwith, Bacteriologist, of the same University. Perhaps it should be said that these men were present in their individual capacities, not as representatives of the University. Their report cannot be rendered until guinea pigs have had time to react to inoculation, and all that can now be definitely stated is that these five cows, which had taken the full course of treatment, were passed by United States Inspectors as first-class meat, fit for humans to eat.

Two of the eight cows, which had not for some reason had the full course of treatment, were not included in the official test.

The eighth cow, due to calf-birth troubles, died about the first of May. She had been under treatment for only five weeks. With that cow alone, this article deals. It was not supposed possible that she could have been cured of tuberculosis in so short a time. But, in order to ascertain her condition, the city health authorities sent suspicious-looking parts of certain of her glands to the University of California for examination.

On the 9th of May, 1927, Professor T. D. Beckwith reported to Dr. D. W. Mack, of the Portland City Milk Inspection Service, as follows:

"I received the material together with reports submitted to me by Mr. Ransome Sutton of Pasadena. Dissection of the material was made with Doctor J. Traum of our Department of Veterinary Science. In one of the mesenteric glands we found what appears to be a small tubercle. In the two regions which we deemed to be submaxillary, we found a suspicious area in one, while in the second was an area of fibrosis. The material showed a slight amount of gas; therefore, I did not dare to inject it directly into guinea pigs. Thus, after maceration it was treated with four percent sodium hydroxide, washed in sterile saline, resuspended and used for injection purposes after this treatment. To date the pigs are healthy. Thus, I hardly expect after this time that septicemia will develop. Microscopic examination of the various suspensions prepared did not show acid-fast rods. Further than this I cannot report at the present moment."

Professor Beckwith's final report, telling what happened to the guinea pigs, was rendered under date of August 22, 1927. He first describes the condition of the glandular material when received by him, the methods used in the microscopic examination, and the technic followed in the preparation of slides. Then, under the heading "Microscopic Examination of Direct Smears," it is stated: "No acid-fast organisms could be determined microscopically on any one of the series of fifteen slides thus prepared."

Thereafter, a hostological examination of approximately sixty preparations from various portions of the specimens revealed no acid-fast organisms. "No acid fast organisms were found in any of these slides," says the report. "In no slide moreover were any giant cells discernable."

But the guinea pigs had not yet reported. On the 5th of May, three were inoculated, numbered 1, 2 and 3. At that time, No. 1 weighed 400 grams. On June 14, it weighed 500 grams. It kept gaining up to July 25, when it weighed 625 grams; then it began to lose flesh, to look sick and show sure signs of tuberculosis. When killed, exactly three months after inoculation, "A few acid-fast organisms were found in material from the lungs and many acid-fast bacteria were demonstrable in material from the lumbar glands."

Despite the failure of the microscope to find bacilli in the many slides prepared from the glands of this apparently "cured" cow, guinea pig No. 1 developed a typical case of tuberculosis. But the encouraging fact is this: the cow had been under treatment only five weeks, and it took from May 5 to July 25 for the bacilli to make their presence in the pig apparent. It is hardly probable that the pig could have caught the microbe from any other source than the stuff injected into it, for it was kept in clean isolation, and its final affliction quite conclusively proves that at least a few active bacilli still lived in the cow at the time of her death.

The other guinea pigs fattened on the inoculations. No. 2 weighed 460 grams on the 5th of May; it weighed 700 grams, when killed, on the 5th of August. No. 3 gained from 330 grams to 725 grams.

Guinea pig No. 2, injected with material from sub-maxillaries, "was killed August 5th and was found to be normal."

Guinea pig No. 3, similarly injected with sub-maxillary material from another specimen, "proved to be normal."

Professor Beckwith's diagnosis is very brief and to the point: "Tuberculosis was found in specimen No. 1 from the mesentery gland. No tuberculosis was obtained from the other two samples derived from sub-maxillary glands."

Before her death, the cow had gained on five weeks' treatment about 100 pounds of flesh. Four and one-half months were required for a full course of treatment. Giving due regard to all the facts, it looks as if this cow, at the time she died as a result of calf-birth, was actually recovering from tuberculosis.

PLANTING BULBS DURING AUTUMN

Soil Should Be Well Prepared in Advance—How to Plant.

Of late years an increased interest has been taken in the culture of early spring flowers such as tulips, narcissi, scilla and crocuses. All of these are hardy and when once planted may remain in the ground for a number of years without being disturbed. Tulips, however, have a tendency to produce many small blooms after the second year and are, therefore, lifted at the end of the second blooming season. The largest of the bulbs lifted may be used for planting the following fall.

In general, to obtain good results with bulbs, the soil in the beds or borders should be well prepared in advance of the time of planting. If the soil is a good garden loam, and if it has been occupied all summer by other plants, it should receive a liberal application of well-rotted manure, and this spaded in to a depth of about twelve inches.

Since different kinds of bulbs vary greatly in size, it is necessary to plant them at different depths. A safe rule to follow is to cover a bulb or corm with about twice its own depth of soil. Thus a bulb one inch through from base to apex should be covered with two inches of soil. The distance apart between bulbs will vary according to the size and type of bulb.

About the time the ground freezes in winter the beds should receive a light mulch of strawy manure. This should remain on the ground over winter and until the first growth appears above the surface in the spring.

Many kinds of bulbs such as daffodils, jonquils, snowdrops and crocuses are well adapted for planting in grass along driveways or walks. To plant bulbs in this informal manner a hole should be dug with a trowel about two inches of rich soil placed at the bottom and the bulb placed at the proper depth. Bulbs planted in this way will be benefited by an annual dressing of well-rotted manure, applied in the early autumn.

66-POUND WHEAT IS GROWN IN WEST

A. M. Brumwell, Formerly of Peterborough, Grows Good Grain.

An Alberta paper has the following to say regarding A. M. Brumwell, formerly of Peterborough: The Lake of the Woods Milling Company unloaded a car of wheat yesterday that the manager, George Preston, says is the finest carload sample received in his mill in the last ten years.

The car graded No. 1 Northern, no dockage and weighed sixty-six pounds to the bushel, and what is pleasing the genial manager is that A. M. Brumwell, of Vauxhall, states that he and his neighbors have more of the same grade to ship.

Mr. Brumwell, the grower, is one of the original settlers in the Vauxhall Irrigated District, and is recognized as one of the best farmers in the district. Last spring he expressed his faith in the district by buying more land and figures that this year's crop will go a long way towards paying for it.

Eats 20 Dinners To Settle Wager

LONDON, Oct. 31 (By the Canadian Press).—By eating 20 substantial dinners in four hours Henry Bullion, a dock laborer of Surrey, recently established a record in gastronomy that probably no other Englishman will attempt to equal or surpass. Bullion as an ultimate consumer seems to be in a class by himself. He disposed of the 20 dinners to win a wager.

It all arose over the statement of a patron of the dockland hostelry, Prince of Orange, that he knew a man who could eat 20 of its dinners, as substantial as they are admitted to be. The landlord accepted the bet, only to lose it. Henry, in four hours, consuming 10 pounds of beef, 18 pounds of potatoes, and six pounds of cabbage, together with the other garnishings constituting the menu of steak pudding, potatoes, cabbage, and gravy.

ITINERARY OF FARMERS' TOUR IS COMPLETED

Will Study Marketing Conditions in Great Britain and Europe.

VISIT EXCHANGES.

Famous Cattle Herds Will Be Visited in Scotland and England.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—The itinerary is now practically complete for the marketing tour of 100 to 150 Canadian farmers covering Scotland, England and Denmark in January and February next, being organized and conducted under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways with the endorsation of the Departments of Agriculture of the Dominion and several provincial governments, and with the co-operation of the Ministry of Agriculture of the British Government and the Agricultural Products representative of the Canadian Government in London, Dr. W. J. Black, Director of Agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, has been in England for the past month completing arrangements for the tour.

The party will be entertained, while in Great Britain by many corporations and public bodies at which addresses will be given by leading British authorities engaged in Empire marketing, British agriculture and live stock breeding. Many problems of mutual interest will be discussed.

Unlike the South African Farmers' Tour, the Canadians will devote most of their time to the study of markets, marketing methods and standards, with a few visits to outstanding studs and herds where breeds of particular interest to Canadian farmers are kept. The party will land at Liverpool on January 18th, and embark from Glasgow on February 19th.

A visit will be paid to the corn exchanges, fruit, produce and cattle markets at which a preponderance of Canadian cattle are sold. At Windsor, by special permission, the herds and flocks on His Majesty's Farms will be seen.

In Scotland a tour will be made through Mid-Lothian and East Lothian to give the party an opportunity to see some of Scotland's finest farms. In Ayr it is expected to visit the Ayrshire herds of Mr. Thomas Barr at Hobsland and A. W Montgomerie at Ochiltree and the world-famous Clydale stud of James Kilpatrick as well as the birthplace and farm of Robert Burns.

The visit to Scotland will be coincident with the Perth Shorthorn and Bull Sale. Two days will be spent at it, during which it is anticipated some of the visitors will take advantage of the opportunity to make purchases. The tour will also include Aberdeen and a motor trip will include famous herds in the vicinity of that city.

At Glasgow the corporation markets and Merkland Cattle Wharves and the harbour and storage facilities of that city will be inspected. The party will be taken over the offices and factories of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society. The historic sights of Edinburgh will comprise one of the most interesting features of the whole tour. The tour has had an enthusiastic reception in Scotland where prominent persons in the localities mentioned are co-operating to enable the visitors to learn as much as possible of Scottish markets and agriculture.

In a recent interview in England regarding the tour, Dr. Black said:

"We want our people to see at first hand and to know more of the work being done by the Empire Marketing Board in enlarging the field for Empire products. This affects us in grain, bacon, cheese, butter, fruit, honey and other products. We believe the effect on Empire trade of bringing a large number of our leading farmers into close touch with the old land where they may learn for themselves, will be marked.

"The farmers of Canada," continued Dr. Black, "have developed the world's largest organizations of producers, especially in grain, and their co-operative activities are now being rapidly extended to other products. We believe that, in the matter of co-operation at least, the farmers here can take a leaf out of our book. There is a strong and close bond of interest between our great Canadian producers' pools and the world's greatest consumers organizations as represented by the S.C.W.S. at Glasgow and the C.W.S. at Manchester. We have been invited to visit both societies and I am certain no part of the tour will be more interesting than an inspection of the offices, mills and factories of these great co-operatives."

Air service between Copenhagen and Hamburg has been resumed.

The habit of thrift in Great Britain is increasing.

The Day After Pa Fired the Best Hired Hand in the Country

ALFALFA SEED COLOURED RED

Under Color Seed Can Not Be Imported Into Canada.

POPULAR VARIETY.

On the recommendation of the Advisory Seed Board, the Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa, has amended the Regulations under the Seeds Act to prohibit the importation into Canada of alfalfa seed, or any mixture of seed containing ten per cent or more of alfalfa seed, unless ten per cent of the seed in each container is coloured red. This action was taken to discourage the importation of southern-grown alfalfa seed, which is not satisfactory in Canada, but might persist in quantity to cross-fertilize with our acclimatized alfalfa varieties and destroy their winter-hardy qualities.

Alfalfa gave a short seed crop n Canada this year, because of unfavourable seasonal conditions. But with the carry-over of 1926 seed, this year's seed crop is estimated to be quite sufficient for our seeding requirements.

Canadian alfalfa seed has become very popular in the United States, and in some countries of Northern Europe. Very little, if any, should be exported this year, and farmers would be well advised to obtain their alfalfa seed supplies early in the season. Those who purchase imported alfalfa seed should satisfy themselves that it is adapted to our conditions. The United States Department of Agriculture will provide a certificate showing the State of origin of their alfalfa seed.

FEEDING HENS IN RECORD CONTESTS

460 Birds in British Columbia Laid 106,226 Eggs During the Year.

The British Columbia egg-laying contest for 1925-26 resulted in some startling performances. There were 460 birds in the contest and they laid 106,226 eggs during the year or an average of 231 eggs per bird, a world's record. Several other world's records were made both for pen production and by individual birds. One pen of 10 hens laid 2,946 eggs or an average of 294 eggs per bird. A white Leghorn hen laid 352 eggs in 364 days, and a Barred Rock hen laid 326 eggs averaging 28 ounces per dozen, thus scoring 409 points, also a world's record. Thirty-six birds laid over 300 eggs each.

It will be interesting to poultry raisers to know what was fed to the hens during this most successful contest. Scratch grains consisting of equal parts by weight of cracked corn, whole wheat and oats, were fed twice daily, morning and evening, at the rate of from 12 to 14 pounds per 100 birds or from 4 to 6 pounds in the morning and 8 pounds in the evening. Dry mash was kept in a self-feeding hopper before the birds at all times. It consisted of a mixture by weight of bran 100 parts, shorts 100, crushed oats 100, cornmeal 100, beef scrap 75, oil-cake meal 15, and charcoal 10. Grit and oyster shell were also available at all times in a small divided hopper. Green feed was provided in the form of kale, mangels or cut clover at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds daily per bird. Skim-milk was given daily at from 3 to 4 pounds per 10 birds, and water was before the birds almost constantly. When mangels were used 25 pounds of alfalfa leaves and blossoms were added to the mash mixture. Epsom salts were given from time to time when deemed necessary.

Marketing Board To Show at "Ex"

Empire Marketing Board will have space at Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, in 1928.

The board has taken about 25,000 square feet of floor space which will be devoted to showing as complete a display as possible of the food products of the Empire. The hall will be constructed on somewhat the same plan as the Empire Marketing Board's exhibit at the British Industries Fair in London earlier in the year, and will probably be decorated with the famous frieze of Empire, especially designed by Maurice Greiffenhagen for Wembley and which was taken to Dunedin for the New Zealand International Exhibition in 1926.

ALBERTA GRAIN YIELD IS GOOD

90 BUSHEL OATS.

Under smiling harvest skies, farmers of the Edmonton district are busy harvesting and threshing the greatest crop in the history of Alberta. With the snowfall and cold spell of the week-end all over and forgotten—with only slight damage from frost reported in a few districts—with yields running 30 to 40 bushels to the acre, and individual yields reported as high as 57 bushels—Edmonton district farmers are truly "sitting on top of the world."

Here are some of the returns, taken just as they have come in from Journal correspondents:

Innisfree district—Average yield, wheat 30 bushels, oats 50 bushels, barley 30 bushels. All cut, some threshed. Slight damage from frost. H. MacDonald's oats went 90. J. Yakimysh wheat 40. Many others much the same.

Hughenden district—Estimates 450,000 bushels of wheat from this district this year. Wheat 30 bushels, oats 50 bushels. 98 per cent cut; slight rust damage; mostly all threshed. One nine-acre field threshed on A. J. Williams' farm averaged 57 bushels to the acre.

Killam district—Wheat 30 to 35, grade one. No damage; all cut; wheat threshing proceeding.

Grant's wheat yielding 52. Threshing just nicely started.

Clyde district—Wheat 35 to 40, oats and barley 40; no damage. The extra good crops not threshed yet.

Strome district—Oats 80 bushels to the acre. Lockhart of Wavy Lake, 51 bushels wheat to the acre.

Bellis district—Wheat 30 to 35, oats 40 to 50, barley same.

Wainwright district—Including Fabyan and Greenshields will yield 700,000 bushels wheat, 70,000 oats, 10,000 barley and 30,000 rye. Present threshing is running a good 30 bushels to the acre. Ten per cent damage should amply cover all damage by frost or rust.

Leduc district—Wheat 33, oats 55, barley 40. All wheat cut, and most of oats and barley.

Ponoka district—Early threshing returns indicate good results. T. Russell reports 40 bushels.

Provost district—Wheat and oats all cut. J. P. Schumacher threshed 1200 bushels of oats from nine acres.

Sedgwick district—Wheat 33 to 39—average 35. Oats 60 to 75. Farmers of this district will thresh the largest crop the district ever had.

Vermilion district—Total yield 1,200,000 bushels, of which wheat will be 750,000. Very little damage in general. Demonstration farm, 44 bushels of wheat and 56 bushels of oats to the acre.

Fort Saskatchewan district—Cutting completed, threshing going ahead. Wheat 35 to 40, one field 51. Oats 65 to 75. Barley 45 to 50. Grading 1 to 3, with No. 2 predominating.

LONG LIVING WEED SEEDS

Preventing Start Best Method of Controlling Weeds on a Farm.

LIVE 40 YEARS.

Preventing weeds from getting a start on the land is pre-eminently the best method of controlling them. In fact the neglect of weeds for one year only may result in a farmer being plagued with this trouble for the rest of his life. In this connection a description of an experiment by an American Agricultural College is very interesting. In the experiment, seeds of various weeds were mixed in sand and placed in uncorked pint bottles, buried 20 inches below the surface, and slanted with the mouth downwards to prevent the accumulation of water in the bottles about the seed. One of these bottles is removed every five years. After 40 years in the soil the following weeds germinated: black mustard, pepper grass, pigweed, ragweed, wild prairie rose, common plantain, purslane and curled dock. A strange fact is that some of the seeds that failed to germinate in the early years of the experiment did so in later years. Ragweed failed to germinate in every trial, but the last, that is, after 40 years in the soil. These remarkable results show that some weed seeds are extremely long-lived. It is certain that no one can assume that he can ever let up in his war against weeds.

ENSILAGE CUTTER BECOMES POPULAR

Standing Crop Made Suitable For Silo in One Operation.

Trials of the Ronning Ensilage Harvester have been made during the last two years on the Central Experimental Farm, at Ottawa. This machine takes the place of the corn binder and ensilage cutter. In one operation, as the machine travels over the field, it cuts the standing crop of corn, cuts it into small pieces suitable for ensiling, and elevates this material into a wagon which is drawn alongside.

It is pointed out that the extensive use of trench silos in the Prairie Provinces is an important factor in reducing the cost of corn harvesting with the Ronning harvester system. Where these silos are used the cut material may be dumped directly into the silo, thus eliminating the cost of the blower and the blower engine. The trials indicate that, when a trench silo is used, 45 acres of corn yielding 8 tons per acre would be about the smallest annual cut on which the harvester could show a saving over the binder and hired ensilage cutter outfit. Where the harvester is used an annual cut of 65 acres it will show a saving of 11 per cent on an 8 ton cut of corn and a saving of 36 per cent on a 12 ton crop. Where upright silos are used, however, a yield of 10 tons per acre would be required for the harvester to show a profit.

The main advantage of this combined ensilage harvester is that it eliminates considerable manual labour. Therefore, when labour is scarce and high priced it might be profitable from the standpoint of cost to operate the harvester on smaller acreages and smaller yields. A disadvantage in the use of the harvester is that it is necessary to have two power plants to operate when the upright silo is used. The harvester can be used only for corn or sunflowers. It cannot be used to ensile such crops as oats or sweet clover.

OVER 30,000 GRADE CROSSINGS ARE TO BE FOUND IN CANADA

POULTRY EXPERT.

DR. J. H. GRISDALE,

Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Chairman Executive Committee of World's Poultry Congress, that was held at Ottawa.

More Protection Required Than the Simple and Familiar Warning Sign.

DE-GRADED CROSSINGS.

Canadian Railway Makes Test of Signal Bells, Results Were Failure.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—There are some 30,000 grade crossings in Canada. Supposing an average of four trains a day pass over the railways with these grade crossings it means 120,000 chances for collision with motor or horse-drawn vehicles. However, it does not require any elaboration of statistics to bring home the fact that every driver of motor or horse-drawn vehicle must exercise the greatest caution when approaching level railway crossings. The newspapers constantly record accidents at grade crossings. While nearly every grade crossing is marked for the benefit of users of the highways, it is evident that more protection is required in many cases than simply the familiar warning sign. This perplexing problem is now receiving study by the officials of the Canadian Good Roads Association and it will occupy an important part of the program at the Association's annual convention at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls on September 27, 28 and 29 and be given consideration at the next interprovincial conference.

Call for Co-Operation.

Officials of the Association take the ground that the solution of the grade-crossing menace is essentially a matter for co-operation. The railways must be consulted, and in the past both the big Canadian lines have demonstrated their willingness to act in this respect and have delegated some of their cleverest experts to give the problem their attention. Those who are active in municipal government must also be parties to a solution, because in most cases the expense in connection with the elimination of grade crossings must be shared by the municipalities. The Canadian Good Roads Association feels a direct responsibility as well, because a large part of the duty of the Association today is to render safe for human beings the improved highways already built.

The Canadian Good Roads Association has sought to co-ordinate the views of all interested. To this end the efforts of the Association's "fact finding" committee have been called into use. Every fact in connection with grade crossings in Canada that it is possible to gather has been tabulated and reviewed. Automotive engineers and railwaymen have contributed important information for the committee's use. The uses of gates, flagmen, Wigwags and bells are all under consideration, and it is possible that some definite recommendations will be made shortly. Admittedly the ideal solution is to have subways or overhead bridges for vehicular traffic in place of every grade crossing. But on an average it costs $50,000 to de-grade a crossing, so that the expense of the complete ideal solution is prohibitive for the time being.

Recently a Canadian railway made a test of bell signals on one of its main lines. The bell was rung when no trains were near in order to see what motorists would do. Ten motorists never heeded the signal, though it is not certain whether or not they actually heard it. They simply took a hasty glance in both directions down the track and speeded up to get over. Four motor drivers stopped, and made more careful enquiries before proceeding.

A prominent member of the Canadian Good Roads Association, when visiting Britain this summer, made it a point to gather some data. He was assured that England had solved the grade crossing problem by de-grading them or otherwise making them fool-proof. His first observations bore out what he had been told. However he had occasion to spend a week-end at a country home in rural England. To his amazement he had to drive over no fewer than three grade crossings as bad as any in Canada before he reached the place of his visit. "Don't tell me they have no grade crossings in England," he commented. "They have them too; and if they haven't solved the problem yet, we needn't be exactly ashamed of ourselves. But whatever we do or don't do, we in Canada must still hammer home the warning to look and listen when approaching a railway crossing where the view in either direction is in the least obscured."

APPLES ARE IMPORTANT DAILY FOOD

Found To Have an Abundant Content of Vitamins and Vital Elements.

INTERESTING FACTS.

Sunshine a Most Essential Thing in Developing Living Organisms.

One of the special reasons why apples are such an important article of food, and why we cannot afford to omit them from our daily diet, is because of their abundant content of vitamins.

It is now known that vitamins are absolutely essential to our welfare and that, whatever else we eat, we must be sure to include foods which contain a sufficient amount of these vital elements. The exact nature of vitamins is not yet determined. They are not susceptible to ordinary chemical analysis like the other constituents of food; but it has been established that there is a remarkable connection between them and sunlight, and that they are, in fact, derived directly from the sun's rays.

Since we must have vitamins in our diet, it follows that the most valuable foods are likely to be those which, in their development, have had the greatest opportunity of absorbing from the sun. This is found to be the case and apples, which develop slowly whilst the fruit and the leaves are bathed in the life-giving rays, contain an abundant supply of the essential vitamins. All living things derive the energy which activates them from the rays of the sun. Human beings depend on sunlight for their growth and health and an insufficient supply results in underdevelopment, disease and death. The rays are absorbed by the blood as it circulates through the skin and immediately subjacent tissues and the energy thus collected is transmuted into other forms, such as heat, chemical changes, etc.; and carried by the blood to all the muscles, nerves, organs and every part of the whole body.

Exactly the same thing takes place in the case of trees and plants, the blood in animals being represented by a substance known as chlorophyll. This substance, circulating in the leaves, absorbs the sun's rays and converts them into the required form of energy. It is through the action of the sun that the tree grows and develops its fruit, and the more sunlight the better the apples. But the leaves absorb more of this vital energy than is required by the tree for the performance of its own functions and a considerable balance is stored in the apples in the form of vitamins, thus enormously increasing their value as a food.

A most interesting and instructive experience has been reported authoritatively from a large English school for boys. During one winter session the conduct and health of the boarders was noticeably unsatisfactory. They became more and more slack in work and play and increasingly discontented and irritable. An unusual amount of sickness occurred and the general standard fell much below the normal. Various attempts were made to explain and remedy the condition but without avail until, at last, a modern dietitian was consulted. To the unitiated it seemed that the diet was satisfactory and that the boys were being well fed, but it was found by the expert that there was a deficiency of food containing one of the most important of the vitamins. It appeared that the boys had formerly made up for this deficiency by purchasing apples from a near-by store, but that this had been closed for some time with the result that the disturbing condition of their health ahd become more and more marked. Upon provision of a liberal supply of apples the whole trouble quickly disappeared.

HARDY ROSES BEST FOR SMALL GARDENS

Experimental Farm Authorities Have Carried Out Tests in Past Few Years.

A number of good garden roses, which have proven their worth by actual tests at the Central Experimental Farm during recent years are recommended to growers in a bulletin on "Hardy Roses" which may be obtained from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Three Hybrid Perpetual roses of outstanding merit are specially mentioned as suitable for small gardens where the choice must necessarily be restricted. They are: Frau Karl Druschki, acknowledged to be the finest white rose in cultivation, a strong healthy grower with an abundance of beautiful bloom throughout most of the season; Mrs. John Laing, a rosy pink variety, a free and vigorous grower producing very fragrant blossoms of lasting quality in the spring and again in the autumn; Hugh Dickson, a very attractive crimson, shaded scarlet, rose, a vigorous and free bloomer of lasting flowers.

For those desiring Hybrid Tea Roses the following varieties are recommended in the bulletin: Caroline Testout, bright warm pink; General MacArthur, bright crimson, and very fragrant; Gruss an Teplitz, a very fragrant and hardy rose; Lady Pirrie, a fragrant, coppery pink flower, and La Tosca, a pale pink.

A LAST WORD.

Tonight's the night!

All preparations are completed for The Examiner's Hallowe'en party, and we expect the whole population of the city and district to be our guests tonight.

The masqueraders will undoubtedly outnumber anything of the kind in local history, and while those who get right into the spirit of the thing by appearing in fancy or comic costume will have the very essence of the fun, there will be plenty of amusement for the spectators as well.

Our thanks are due to the splendid assistance of the Citizens' Committee which is taking most of the work of managing this big affair off our shoulders, and on their behalf we ask the co-operation of the public generally.

Motorists especially can be of much assistance if they will refrain from parking on George street until the parade is over.

THE WHOLE RIGHT.

A sentence used by Mr. Justice Riddell in sending a Toronto motorist to penitentiary for three years for running down and killing a three-year-old boy should be memorized by every man and woman who sits at the wheel of a car.

"The great and insistent lesson," said Judge Riddell, "must be taught and taught again until it is thoroughly understood and heeded by all that the whole right an automobile driver has on the highway is the right to pass over it carefully and with due regard to the right of others."

Those words should not be forgotten, "The whole right an automobile driver has on the highway is the right to pass over it carefully, etc," because they correct an unfortunate impression that seems to have taken root in the minds of some motorists that the highway is there for their exclusive use and that all others are trespassers.

Mr. Justice Riddell sums the whole thing up in a sentence that shows the exact status of motorists in regard to the law; they must pass over the highway carefully and with due regard to the right of others.

THE CEMENT INDUSTRY IN LIMELIGHT.

Under the title of "Canada and the Cement Industry," Wood, Gundy & Company have published an interesting illustrated booklet dealing with the history and progress of the Portland Cement industry.

The story traces the use of some form of binding material from the time of the ancient Egyptians and Assyrians to the Romans, who built the great Dome of the Pantheon from a material that resembles present-day reinforced concrete. It deals with the achievement of John Smeaton, who originated a form of cement from which he built the Eddystone Lighthouse, and mentions the invention of Joseph Aspdin, who is known as the "Father of Portland Cement." Continuing, it describes the introduction of the manufacture of Portland cement into Canada and United States, and shows the growth of the industry from 1880 to the present.

The figures given of per capital consumption in Canada and United States indicate the vast use of cement in reinforced concrete construction work due to the modern methods of building offices, factories and highways.

Incidentally, the booklet has some Peterborough colour, inasmuch as a splendid picture of the Hunter Street Bridge is prominently displayed as an example of one important use of concrete.

Concrete highways particularly are being built all over North America on account of adaptability to modern motor traffic conditions and low upkeep cost.

In conclusion, it traces the history of the Canada Cement Company, giving its present position and its future possibilities.

The booklet is being distributed by Wood, Gundy & Company in connection with its financing of the Canada Cement Company.

THE AIR ROUTE SHORT-CUT.

The practical way in which aircraft are being employed in Canada demonstrates the development of aviation along proper lines. There is little "stunt" flying, but planes are engaged in numerous useful activities. They patrol the forests of the hinterland, are used in surveying and laying out new districts, help in prospecting, carry officials on Government missions to the distant North—are in commercial operation also—and have been employed on long-distance mail routes in the far Northwest.

An Ottawa despatch to The Globe yesterday told how they can speed up mail delivery from the Old Country. A monoplane left Quebec with mail bags from the steamer Montroyal, and in less than two and one-half hours deposited them at the capital in time for afternoon delivery that day. In the ordinary course by train this correspondence would not have reached its ultimate destination until a day later. Another despatch from Ottawa told of the activities of Government airmen in the Hudson Straits. They are studying these waters to determine the feasibility of the Hudson Bay route to Britain and Europe, and their ability to cover long distances rapidly obviously offers a much more satisfactory service than could be obtained by water craft. They are able to return to their stations and report daily to the department at Ottawa by radio.

This is an excellent example of the way in which immense stretches of unsettled country can be kept in close contact with civilization and official centres. The use of modern aircraft is making Canada more compact. As it is extended the hitherto-unknown portions of the country will become an open book, which can be inspected any day. Similarly the use of aeroplanes to cut down the distance between Canada and Great Britain brings the two closer together. If a day can be saved between Father Point and Quebec and Ottawa in the delivery of mail, there can be a greater saving if the mail is picked up farther down the St. Lawrence, or even out on the Atlantic. It is altogether probable that passengers will ultimately save time in transportation by the same means. Carrying the same service to the West, mail from Australia and other continents will be picked up on the Pacific and rushed to Vancouver and Eastern points.

The progress of aviation in Canada may not be spectacular, but it is proceeding steadily and soundly.—The Globe.

As we see it, plans for increasing the safety of automobile travel will not be complete until this is done.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

ELBOW ROOM FOR DRIVER.

Carrying four people, two girls and two young men, a two-passenger car ran into a ditch near Fort William, one of the girls sustaining a broken back and the other being painfully, if less seriously, injured. The driver was apprehended on a charge of reckless and negligent driving. Perhaps he was guilty of neither, but to the careful mind it looks to be an impossibility for any man to drive sanely and safely with four people in a two-passenger car. The quartette in question were on their way home from a dance, and probably were not in a mood to appreciate the dangers of auto driving. But apart altogether from this, it is impossible to see how any driver can have his car under proper control with four people crowded into one seat.

Unhappily, this is not an isolated case. It is not an uncommon sight to see three people in the front seat of a car with, perhaps, no one in the rear seat. This is done innocently enough, the idea, no doubt, being that it is more chummy for all to sit together. But a person hasn't to be a Solomon to realize that it is decidedly more dangerous.

Not only is there an increased tendency to distract the attention of the driver, but a crowded seat mitigates against his acting promptly and adequately in case of an emergency. The man at the wheel should have ample room for a free play of his arms and of his mind, too, when danger threatens. This he cannot do if he is cramped for space and has to play host to two charming and vivacious girls, as is often the case.

But dangerous as is the overcrowding of the front seat, it persists, and will persist until the law expressly forbids it, and punishes those drivers who permit it.

CANADIAN COAL FOR CANADIANS.

Premier Brownlee of Alberta and Premier Ferguson of Ontario appear to be working in the closest harmony for the development of the Alberta coal trade in this part of Canada. Mr. Ferguson went on to Alberta following the Winnipeg convention, for a further discussion of the situation. This week, also, Premier Brownlee issued a statement to show that through an error in computing costs of transporting coal to the Ontario market, the Board of Railway Commissioners has made a rate of 47 cents higher than the actual facts of the case call for.

The freight rate on coal from Alberta to Ontario has been the big bone of contention all along. Those interested in seeing Canadian coal consumed in Canada in place of the American product, contend that the railways can haul the fuel East at a price that will permit it to compete with fuel brought in from the United States. Railway officials have argued otherwise, saying that the plan is impracticable. The Alberta authorities have not been content with this, however, and they are working along on ways and means to establish and build up a trade that is obviously in the national interest as well as the interest of their own Province.

The Border Cities Star sincerely hopes that arrangements can be made for supplying the consumers of this Province with Alberta fuel. The Star is familiar with the Alberta product and knows it to be good. Many persons who have used it prefer it to anthracite. It is efficient and satisfactory all around, much more satisfactory than a great deal of the American anthracite that has come to us within recent years. It seems logical that Canada should use her own coal instead of sending millions of dollars across the line for this purpose year after year. We have a large percentage of the world's total coal supply. We know that it is good coal. We know that the development of her coal deposits would mean wonderful things for the Province of Alberta and therefore for the whole Dominion. In the face of this knowledge, however, in the face of the obvious necessity of developing markets for Canadian commodities, we have gone on, year after year, neglecting the home market for Alberta coal.

The excuse has always been that the railways could not afford to haul the fuel at a price that would make it attractive to Eastern consumers. Alberta men say otherwise and it is apparent from the interest Premier Ferguson is taking in the situation that he does not share the railway point of view.

With the Provinces of Alberta and Ontario taking a keen interest in the matter, officially, the situation now looks brighter than at any time in the history of the discussion.

Still another interesting angle is the selection of Hon. R. B. Bennett as leader of the Federal Conservative party. Mr. Bennett is an Alberta man, the only Conservative elected in that Province, or, for that matter, in all the Prairie Provinces. It is only natural to suppose that Mr. Bennett will lend his strong support to any reasonable plan for the development of the Alberta coal industry by the extension of markets. With Mr. Bennett pleading the cause at Ottawa, Mr. Ferguson urging it from Toronto and Premier Brownlee pounding away at Edmonton, it is difficult to see how any authority can resist acceptance of the plan to supply Alberta coal to Ontario.

It is only common sense that Canadians should try, so far as is possible, to use their own products in preference to imported articles of a similar nature. One of our chief difficulties is that there are many things we must import, commodities that, owing to our small population, cannot be advantageously manufactured in Canada. Coal is not one of these. We have the coal and it does seem that means can be found for getting it to the markets.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

We'll look for you in the procession tonight.

Care and courtesy will also help to make Peterborough's Hallowe'en celebration a success.

What's become of the boy who used to help put the neighbor's wagon on the roof of the barn every Hallowe'en? He's probably threatening to shingle his son if he catches him in action with a pea-shooter.

It will be difficult to convince the average Varsity student today that all is right with the world.

The Toronto Star never did have much luck as a political prophet. On the same night it published a story from Picton that the Conservatives in Prince Edward were split and an anti-Government victory likely, the opposition forces met and decided there wasn't any use in running a candidate against the Government nominee.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., October 31 (Canadian Press).—The export business in grain here on Saturday was of the usual week-end character, and the market was quieter in sympathy with the renewed strength in oats futures at Winnipeg. A firmer feeling prevailed in the local market for cash grades, but no actual change in prices was announced.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were well maintained under a moderate demand.

The undertone to the market for all lines of millfeed was steady, and the inquiry was fair. There was no change in standard grades of rolled oats, for which the demand was moderate.

The exports of baled hay from the Port of Montreal for the week ending October 27, were 22,134 bales. Saturday's trade was fair and values were unchanged.

A further falling off in fresh egg receipts at practically every producing point in Canada has now brought the situation to a point where storage eggs form perhaps the bulk of the trading in Montreal. The trade in all storage grades was fair on Saturday. The receipts were 193 cases

The demand for all grades of butter continued inactive, but prices showed no further change. The receipts were 1,182 packages.

The United States demand for cheese was again good and a moderate amount of business was transacted. The local and English inquiry was quiet. The receipts were 5,663 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., October 31 (Canadian Press). — Frost reports from south of the Equator threw a scare into the wheat pit yesterday, and brought about a speedy jump in the prices. Fears were expressed that despatches received telling of low temperatures and frost in Argentina coming at a critical period for wheat growth spelled possible serious crop damage. The wheat market here closed nervous, 1⅞c to 2¼c net higher, with corn ¾c to 1c up, oats unchanged ⅝c advance, and provisions ranging from 2c decline to a rise of 42c.

General buying of wheat set in quickly when word began to circulate that likelihood of an unfavourable prospect for growing wheat had deevloped in Argentina. What made such news especially significant was the fact that crops have retrograded in the other chief source of southern hemisphere wheat, Australia.

On the other hand, although unsettled weather both sides of the Canadian line was threatening to hamper the movement of new spring wheat, top prices on Saturday were not well maintained. The fact that the Buenos Aires wheat market closed without change tended to cast doubt on crop damage chances, and one late cable from Argentina said that frosts had been of no account, and were devoid of harm. Meanwhile however, generous export business at Winnipeg was noted.

Corn rose with wheat, and also reflected less favourable weather conditions over the corn belt. Country offerings to arrive here were small, talk of export demand persisted, and husking returns continued to prove disappointing. Scantiness of receipts gave firmness to the oats market.

Provisions advanced as a result of cash houses buying both lard and meats.

Mayors Sarcastic In Replies to Thompson Suggest Propaganda In Alice In Wonderland

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Mayor Thompson is finding that other American Mayors apparently do not see eye to eye with him in his war against British propaganda. Of the replies received to his thousand messages asking aid and enrolment in his America First Foundation, some are complimentary, a number condemnatory, and several ironic.

The Mayor of Stamford, Conn., Alfred Phillips, wired inquiring whether the $10.00 fee requested should not read "$10.00 free," and suggested the tricky British might have some pretty mean propaganda in "Alice in Wonderland."

Congressman Cellar, of Brooklyn, suggested that Mayor Thompson had made himself ridiculous, which brought forth a devastating reply from Big Bill.

The Mayor is satisfied despite the mingling of brick bats and bouquets.

A Thought For To-day

MANAGE YOURSELF.

The man who requires the most bossing is the low-priced man. The President, the General Manager, the Superintendent, and the Chief Clerk are all there bcause they can manage themselves.

You can keep track of your own results better than any one else. You know what you want to do and what you ought to do better than any one else.

If you continue to depend on some one else to manage you—to tell you how, and where to do a thing—you will always remain a dependent.

What your intentions are, you know better than any one else. You know just how loyal you are and how good you are to the organization.

You can often see things that ought to be done better than the boss, because you are right on the job where they ought to be done.

You know just how much rest you get at night, and you know how much you need, better than any one else.

No living man can appraise your ambition or discount your doing better than yourself.

Knowing all this, your chances for advancement are the direct results of how you manage yourself.

Without self-management, a man's chances of success are as small as a microbe.

Y.W.C.A. AIM DEVELOPMENT

Offers Girls Opportunity To Improve Along Many Lines.

WIDE PROGRAM.

The aim of the Young Women's Christian Association is to develop the highest conception of Christian womanhood and to aid young women in realizing this conception by bringing to them opportunities for all-around development, by utilizing every available resource of the community for their interests, and by offering itself to be used by the community in co-operative service for young women.

The purpose of the Young Women's Christian Association, as formally stated in the constitution of the association, is to lead young women into personal loyalty to Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour, into active membership in the church of their choice, to associate them in the development of their spiritual, intellectual, social and physical well-being, and to make the association a social force in the advancement of the Kingdom of God. In simpler terms this means that the association's conception of the young woman who is a good citizen is one who is strong physically, who is intelligent, who enjoys good times and has friends, who is spiritually-minded, and who gives expression in service to the purpose of her life.

If there is a best way to live, the association covets that best way for every girl and woman. The association seeks to put in harmony with the spirit of the gospel and the teachings of Jesus all the activities of the association and seeks to interpret religion to girls in terms of modern, every-day living.

The program of the association is built upon the principle that it must serve as a community-wide organization, and its so-called activities are open to all girls and young women in the community.

The Peterborough Y.W.C.A. is 96 per cent. self-supporting, but in order to carry on certain departments of work where there is no income and to meet necessary repairs and extensions to its program and equipment, the Board of Directors appeal to the citizens of Peterborough for financial assistance to the extent of $1,500. The annual financial campaign is from Oct. 27 to Nov. 5, and all subscriptions will aid in the worth-while work of the Y.W.C.A.

It is declared Berry, injured also, illegally operated the plane and a warrant will be served on him when he recovers. It is believed the first case of its kind.

SOCIETY

The Misses Winifred and Amy Hammacott of Ottawa, formerly residents of Peterborough, when their father, Mr. Charles Hammacott, was a member of the staff of "The Review," were recent prize-winners at a fancy dress carnival held in the west of England, where the young ladies with their mother are now visiting relatives. At this time of the year, a series of these carnivals are held in the West of England, to provide funds for local charities, and weeks of preparation take place in advance. At the carnival held at Tiverton in Devon, the first prize, with hundreds of competitors, was won by Miss Winifred Hammacott, dressed as "Canada," while her sister, Amy, as a gypsy dancer, won second prize in a class for younger masqueraders. Miss Winifred Hammacott's dress was covered with imitation maple leaves and decorated with small silk flags. A helmet to match bore the word "Canada" in gold letters on a ribbon band, and a shield was carried, bearing the Dominion coat of arms. The maple leaves and shield were supplied through the courtesy of J. O. Turcotte head of the Canadian government Exhibition Commissison, who was responsible for the Dominion exhibit decorations at Wembley, and the World's Poultry Congress. It is interesting to note that Mr. Turcotte suggested a costume similar to that worn by Miss Winifred Hammacott, to Mrs. J. H. Ross, wife of the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Melbourne, to wear at a fancy dress ball in connection with the New Zealand and South Seas exhibition. Mrs. Ross like Miss Hammacott, also carried off first prize.

A Chic Frock for the Junior Miss

The little one-piece frock shown here is a smart and practical style for all daytime wear. The skirt has an inverted plait in the center front, and the sleeves are long and gathered to narrow wrist-bands, or short and finished with shaped cuffs. A note of contrast may be introduced in the shaped collar and set-under vestee, and the belt fastens with a buckle in front. No. 1303 is in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2⅛ yards 32-inch, or 2¼ yards 39-inch material, and 1-3 yard 39-inch contrasting (cut crosswise). Price 20 cents the pattern.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Sunday, October 30, 1927.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects prevail to-day, according to astrology, which finds the planetary aspects conducive to serenity.

The early morning hours are rather threatening to persons in authority and for that reason not favorable to the clergy.

While the mind may not be attuned to worship there should be quick response to sermons, especially those that have been written.

The configuration is favorable to thinkers and speakers, but congregations may have a critical attitude of mind.

Under this rule constructive philanthropic and charitable work should command hearty support.

All the signs appear to presage extension of educational work among all the churches.

The Roman Catholic church is subject to a direction of the stars that presage for its growth in the United States.

Much discussion of religious subjects and the rise of many issues that reveal prejudice are foretold by the seers for the coming year.

There is a sign of promise for invalids to-day, for suffering should be ameliorated by the positing of the stars.

Architecture is subject to the best possible planetary direction and there is a forecast of much building of churches that will be really beautiful.

Many important weddings are indicated by the stars, but wealth will seek alliance with wealth, it is prognosticated.

A new invention in photography which will improve motion-pictures again is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of success, if no change is made in business, or the mode of life.

Children born on this day have the prospect of large interests that insure important and successful careers.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Large metallic flowers are shown in various guises. The morning glories trail from the shoulder of an evening frock and the autumn leaves are appropriate for an afternoon frock of autumn brown. The mother-of-pearl gardenia at the lower left is chosen to wear with the tailord suit.

All sorts of ways in the world, of curing the blues!

I once heard of a man who, whenever he felt particularly dejected and wanted to snap out of the mood, bought a new car. A few hundred miles with a new wheel in his hands and the purr of a new engine in his ears always brought him back to normal.

Then there are women who invite friends to luncheon or tea as a cure for the doldrums. "I'm feeling terribly low," one friend of mine invariably says by way of preface to an invitation.

Some women find nothing quite so effective as an antidote to depression as the purchase of a new hat.

Now, when I'm feeling rather down, I buy a new bouquet of flowers. Just the sight of the counter where all sorts of gayly colored blossoms of silk and velvet, georgette, glass and feathers bloom, fills me with optimism.

Fortunately the fashion for shoulder flowers and bouttonieres goes merrily on. And every season there are new fashions in flowers that give new zest to wearing them. Morning glories or convolvulus has just been promoted to a place of importance, and they may be charmingly worn trailing gracefully from the shoulder of an evening frock.

Autumn leaves in rich browns and tawny reds are well chosen to go with daytime frocks of brown. At polo not very long ago Irene Castle wore a plain brown tailored suit with a beige felt hat and a walking stick. On her shoulder was a bouquet of orchid-real orchids, I suppose. We thought the combination of orchid tints and the beige and brown was remarkably attractive.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Friendly stars rule today, according to astrology, which finds benefic aspects strongly dominant.

This is a day that should mark much progressive work on the part of women, who should start important enterprises under this sway.

There is an auspicious sign for weddings today, making for lasting love and prosperity.

Theatres should benefit from this rule of the stars, which presages successful experiments for the improvement of dramatic productions.

Actors and actresses should benefit, for there is promise of many demands for their talents.

Serious plays will be well received under this planetary government, which is fortunate for classical presentations.

All lines of business should benefit from this rule, which seems to promise stimulation for many sorts of trade.

There is a first rate forecast for new partnerships or novel ventures while this configuration prevails.

The seers prophesy a gradual change in commercial methods which will be perceptible in the new year.

Again extremes will be apparent, making for profit in wide-reaching enterprises and in small projects.

All medium scales of conduct, whether personal or commercial will be subject to unfavorable direction of the stars, it is foretold.

The tendency will continue to be strongly in favor of extremes in all things poverty and wealth, crime and righteousness.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of great prosperity. Journeys and new friends are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be intellectual and versatile in their talents. They should have many friends.

Faith had the curious feeling that she was upon the verge of a great revelation about herself, a revelation of her true character that was of the most vital importance to her insofar as her relationship with Bob and Cherry and Joy, and even less beloved people were concerned. But she was too tired, too utterly dispirited, to follow it through. Cherry loved her and despised her: Bob loved her and was sometimes obviously contemptuous of her: she was not really making Joy's life the carefree, happy state that a child's life should be. But—of, if she could only leep, sleep forever and ever!

She dragged through the rest of the morning somehow: ate no lunch, because her stomach revolted at the thought of food: took Hope for a walk, pushing the perambulator so languidly that the four-months-old baby jounced up and down with impatience. Hope was sitting alone now: could soon be taken out in a sulky: would be walking after a bit, and talking—growing up, growing up! Growing into another Cherry, passionate, vital, too-beaut'ful, fickle, avid for love.

"I wonder," Faith questioned herself dully, "if I really want a baby of my own, to repeat my own tragedies as Hope will repeat Cherry's."

It was three o'clock when she returned to the house.

Suddenly sleep waves poured over Faith's brain, making her so drunk that she could scarcely stagger into the sun parlor with Hope and then into her own bedroom.

It was dusk when she woke. Her sleep-dazed eyes fell upon Cherry's little upturned face, took in the amazing fact that Cherry was kneeling on the floor beside the bed, her chin cupped in her beautiful, useless-looking white hands.

"I tried not to wake you," Cherry said in a small, sweet voice. "I've been kneeling here, looking at you and loving you and trying to imagine that I'm Faith. I wonder," her voice mused softly, "what it feels like to be you—so good and honest and—and faithful, like your name, and—and so hurt by other people's selfishness and sins."

Tears gushed into Faith's eyes and she sank back upon her pillow. "It feels awful," she confessed. "But I'm not really good. I'm selfishly unselfish, I suppose, because that's the way I get almost my only pleasure in life—doing things for other people. It's just as selfish as being frankly selfish," she added, a note of bitterness and self-understanding in her voice.

"No, it isn't," Cherry contradicted her eagerly. "Because good for others does result. I tried being unselfish this afternoon," she laughed ruefully. "And I'm afraid I've made an awful mess of the dinner. I tried to follow a cookbook recipe for baked eggplant and it looks decidedly queer, and I'm sure the jello won't jell in time. But I can fill it up with sliced fruit."

"Sweet Cherry!" Faith cried, reaching for those useless-looking little hands and kissing the finger-tips. "You're not angry with me any more? I didn't mean to be a nuisance, forcing myself on you."

"Don't, darling!" Cherry pleaded contritely. "You make me feel such an awful little beast. I just wanted to examine Cherry's heart and soul a little, all by myself.—and now—if you'll let me—I'd like to talk to you. I always do come to you, sooner or later, don't I?" she asked wistfully. "You've spoiled me dreadfully, darling, but I do love you most excruciatingly."

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. What is the correct linen to use for a luncheon party?
2. Are bread and butter plates put on the table before the guests are seated?
3. What decorations are needed?

The Answers.

1. Luncheon sets of colored damask, refectory sets, doilies or cloths. The first two are more popular.
2. Yes.
3. A center bouquet of flowers is enough, though one can rely on her own taste and use candles, or small flower vases or whatever she wishes.

In Great Britain women are in future to be eligible for licenses as flying pilots for public transport on much the same terms as men.

NOT WORRIED!

The above letter, written by Vera M. Haist of Seaforth, Ontario, is an indication of the favor LUX has found with millions of women.

Women praise LUX because it can always be depended upon to do its work well—and without danger to fabrics.

And, moreover, women everywhere, who use LUX for many purposes say that it is the height of economy.

"Captures the Soul of the Music!"

—says Fritz Kreisler—famous violinist—
in praise of the new Orthophonic Victrola.
It captures all who listen to it!

Captures the soul of the violin, of the piano, the clarinet, the voice—captures the soul of any and all musical sounds, singly and together! Plays naturally the tones of these musical sounds, and all the rippling overtones, that give beauty and color to music. Captures the low fundamental notes that give instrumental music its depth and richness, and liberates them at your pleasure.

All this is yours in the new Orthophonic Victrola (and only in this instrument). And all because scientists have shown us the practical application of the principle of "Matched Impedance" or "smooth flow of sound", the patents for which are Victor-controlled.

Thus you may have beautiful, realistic, music at home, and you may have graceful cabinets finished in fine woods. Seven artistically designed models—all equipped with a device which stops every record after playing. Electric drive which eliminates winding is optional at slight additional cost. Prices from $790 to as low as $115.

Obtainable on convenient payments at all His Master's Voice dealers.

PILES GO QUICK

No Cutting or Salves Needed.

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Co., who will gladly refund the purchase prices to any dissatisfied customer.

room window saw the Avalon passing. They ran on deck they said,and watched the lowering of three lifeboats from the Presidente Wilson.

For ten or fifteen minutes they said they could hear men shouting in the darkness and cries for help.

"There were shouts of "Hurry, hurry," Wustlick said, "but as the minutes passed the cries grew fewer and fewer and then died out.

The students said the Avalon apparently was towing its long boat when the crash came and that this seemingly got loose in the collision and afterwards floated about with no one in it. They saw that one dory had been launched and this afterward capsised. Owing to the darkness they were not able to see the men in the water.

Sits On His Tractor For 220 Hours In Row

ARGYLE, Minn., Oct. 31.—(United Press).—Something useful in the way of an endurance record is claimed by Harold Anderson, farmer. Anderson sat atop a tractor for 220 continuous hours.

"Might as well get some recognition along with these flag pole sitters, marathon dancers, coffee drinkers and what nots", he said.

That Anderson's achievement, unlike most of the others, has some practical value is attested by 60 acres of plowed earth turned during the "endurance record."

Turks Kept At Home While Census Taken

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 31.—(United Press).—All business has ceased in Constantinople and the population is remaining indoors while officials take the census. Under police orders every one must remain at home until the census is completed. Probably in three days. Physicians, mid wives, firemen, police, and 6,500 census takers are the only ones permitted to go out.

Residents of Constantinople were warned before the census began to stock their homes with food.

During the international fair at Budapest there were 30,000 visitors from other countries.

SAFETY FIRST.

This is the novel equipment being supplied to street car switchmen in Toronto in an effort to cut down the number of men hurt by automobiles, with their white belts and "suspenders" so that they attract the attention of motorists.

OBITUARY.

JAMES WYLIE KEITH.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31. — The funeral service of the late James Wylie Keith, who died after a protracted illness in his 75th year, was conducted at the house, Booth street, by the Rev. James Grier. Interment was at Burnbrae where a service was held in the church. The pall bearers were Messrs. James Allan, James Robinson, Arthur Cassan, George Third, William Hubble and James Cook.

Deceased was a life long resident of Seymour Township and the town of Campbellford. He was as Mr. Grier said, a Christian man, who came to a Christian end and is in indescribably better circumstances than we who remain here upon earth. Although Mr. Grier did not speak at length with direct reference to the deceased, his sermon on the Christian religion and its relation to eternity, and the Eternal God, was quite adapt able to the life of the late Mr. Keith. Man, said Mr. Grier, was appointed to toil, but destined to rest, though the true destiny toward which he journeys is not known to him. It rests with the God in Whom he places his faith and trust.

The late Mr. Keith is survived by one sister Mrs. Sam Darrah of Peterborough.

DOUGLAS RAY McARTHUR

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31. — The funeral of the late Douglas Ray McArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McArthur, Sebastapol Street, took place on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Ernest Harston, assisted by the Rev. James Grier, officiated at the service at the house and at the grave.

The deceased was not yet fifteen years of age, a very capable lad with every prospect of the brightest of futures. Always of a most pleasant disposition, he was a favorite among his fellows, who payed their last respects to their late comrade by appearing as a body in their uniforms as school cadets, acting as flower bearers and marching at the head of the funeral procession. Six of his intimate boy friends were the pall bearers. Between the two lines of khiki clad boys, they carried the casket to the hearse, and again from the hearse to the grave. They were Merwin Malcom, Preston Hall, Morley Horseman, Miller Donald, Victor Palliser, and Ronald Richardson.

Silent tribute to the respect in which the young man was held, the paid by the numerous and beautiful floral tributes, including some from the Trail Rangers, the Public School Staff and pupils, the neighbors, and the Young People's Society of St. John's Church.

As well as the excellent regard in which the young man wash eld, the goodwill existing between the McArthur family and those who live in their locality is expressed by the names of those who style themselves neighbors. In every respect they have been really good neighbors.

That the death of this popular young man was keenly felt by more than the members of the immediate family was evidenced by the long procession which followed to the grave. The local police very kindly made special arrangements during the heavy traffic of a Saturday afternoon.

CATCHACOMA NEWS

The summer cottages have been closed and the summer visitors are gone.

A car of hunters from Troy, Ohio, came in on Tuesday. More are to follow.

Mr. Lacheur, Mr. Webber Turner and party have returned to town after a very pleasant holiday.

The fishing is very good, chiefly trout, bass and pickerel.

The advance-guard of the Gold Lake, Eagle Lake and Catchacoma Lake hunt clubs come in next Saturday to get ready for the deer-shooting season which is a month this year instead of two weeks as formerly.

A great many cars have visited this district recently but those returning usually leave by nightfall. This forest-covered country is so quiet and peaceful at night at this season that visitors troubles with insomnia find complete rest and "nerves" are unknown.

The highlands of the Catchacoma Lakes country, some four hundred feet higher than Lake Ontario, is becoming famous as a health-resort.

Mr. Charles Curtis and party were visitors over the week end.

MEDIEVAL MEAL.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A chef, seeking novelties, recently served a medieval meal. The table cloth was pleated so guests could wipe their mouths and fingers, no plates or forks were used. The uncarpeted floor was strewn with foliage. The patters were of wood, and all dishes and decanters of pewter. There were eel pasty, minced fowl, old wines, roots and leeks, served with spice sauce and garlic, fruit and sweet wine from Cyprus.

Bradford, Halifax, Bolton and Rochdale, important cities in northern England, have lost in population in the past 16 years.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD

Burnbrae Presbyterians Hear Two Fine Sermons By Rev. G. Marshall.

CHURCH IS PACKED.

BURNBRAE, October 31. — The congregation of Burnbrae Presbyterian Church yesterday celebrated the eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the "Scotch Church," as it has been locally known since the days when the first Scot put his mind and body into the clearing of Brae Farm in the days when this section of the country was a solid forest of hardwood. Now, as the result of the labours of four generatins, St. Andrew's Church, a beautiful brick church, with all the modern appointments, stands proudly on the crest of the hill overlooking miles of country famous for its beautiful scenery.

The seating capacity of the auditorium is estimated at 450, but this was hopelessly inadequate for the accommodation of the multitudes which thronged to both morning and evening services. Rev. George Marshall, of Medoc, was the minister for both services. In the morning he took as his subject, "Thankfulness," and as his text the 15th verse of the 4th charter of II. Corinthians. The Radio Quartette of Belleville furnished special music of a most pleasing quality, which was greatly appreciated. At the morning service their three numbers were "Rock of Ages," sung to a setting by Professor Riggs, who is their accompanist, 'I Walked With the King," a solo sung by Dr. Haffner, and "A Beautiful Land," a quartette. In the evening they also sang three numbers. The first was a quartette, "I've Found a Friend," "Calvary," a duet by Stillman and Moorman, and "The Wayside Cross," a quartette.

As the text for his evening address, Mr. Marshall selected the sixth chapter and the 14th verse of Paul's Letter to the Galatians. His sermon was well illustrated throughout by incidents from present day life and that of several hundred years ago. Mr. Marshall is a very convincing speaker, and his popularity was attested by the packed auditorium, where not even an inch of standing room was available . The doors leading to the vestibule were left open in order that those who were unable to get nearer might listen to the service though they were unable to see it.

Strange and unreal as this state of affairs may seem in this modern age, where sitting room in church is supposed to be easily available, it was the actual case at Burnbrae at both services yesterday. Outside the church, the motor cars were lined on both sides of the road for several hundred yards. Both of the large drive sheds were also filled with vehicles

Long before either service began, the pews were filled to capacity and chairs were placed in every available space. Even then there was not accommodation for the congregations. Men who had secured seats gave them to ladies who arrived later and stood at the rear of the church and in the aisles during the entire service. Nor did many of them leave immediately after the evening service. The Radio Quartette were giving a sacred recital for an hour after service and few people, if any, left their places till the National Anthem had been sung at the end of the concert.

The Radio Quartette consists of four business and professional men of the city of Belleville. Their singing is in perfect harmony and they derive as much pleasure from it as do their listeners. This is not their first appearance in the communtiy and in Burnbrae they established an enviable reputation a year ago. Dr. A. B. Haffner sings the first tenor part with A. F. Stilman second tenor. J. Arnold Thomson first bass and A. R. Moorman, second bass. Profesor L. B. Riggs, of Belleville, accompanies them, though as a rule his task is but to play the introductions, as the quartette sing most of their numbers unaccompanied.

Shortly after the second concert had begun, the Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, minister of Burnbrae church, arrived. He had exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Mr. Marshall and had made a hurried trip from Madoc in order to be with his congregation for at least part of their services. Briefly, for he was still gasping for breath after hurrying into the church, he welcomed those who were visitors to the church and thanked the Radio Quartette for their excellent assistance. Mr. MacKenzie also announced the Burnbrae fowl supper to take place on Tuesday evening at six o'clock. There is every reason to believe that this function will be quite as attractive as that of other years and provision is being made to accommodate as many as can possibly attend.

ASSAULT CHARGE.

Marmora Man Arrested and Taken to Belleville

MARMORA, Oct. 31.—Stanford Lindsay was arrested on Saturday, charged with attempted criminal assault against a married woman, and taken to Belleville jail.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—Inspired by reports of frost in Argentina and a break in the protracted spell of ideal threshing weather in the Canadian West, wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange surged upwards on Saturday October delivery, on the extreme advance gained 2 1-3c, but realizing sales brought a mild reaction before the close. Final quotations were ¾ to 1⅞c higher. Trade volume was particularly good for the day's brief session.

Barlty sales featured the coarse grain market. Oats also ran into moderate short covering, which forced prices up 3c at the peak of the movement.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

BENSFORT UNITED CHURCH

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 29.—The anniversary services at Bensfort United Church on Sunday last were extremely well attended and quite a success throughout.

Rev. Mr. Thornley of Mark Street United Church, Peterborough, conducted the morning and evening services, while the church choir rendered special music for the occasion.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, while the fine weather which prevailed aided in making both services even a greater success.

The thank offering which was received amounted to about two hundred and thirty dollars.

BETHANY UNITED CHURCH

BETHANY, Oct. 31.—Excellent weather favored the anniversary services which were held in connection with the Bethany United church. The church, which was tastefully decorated with asters and begonias was filled to its utmost capacity when morning service commenced at 11 o'clock.

A full choir was in attendance and was led by Mrs. Ona Thorndyke, assisted by Miss Blanchard of Peterborough.

The anthem, "Oh Worship the King" was well rendered and Miss Blanchard's solo, "Nearer My God to Thee" was also very appropriate. Miss Blanchard was accompanied by Mrs. Ashley of Madoc.

Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., of Toronto, was the special preacher for the day.

In the morning Dr. Wallace spoke from the 30th verse of the 6th chapter of 2 Kings, "And it came to pass, when the King heard the words of the woman that he rent his clothes; and he passed by upon the wall, and the people looked, and behold, he had sackcloth within upon his flesh."

Mr. Wallace divided his sermon into three subjects, first, self-restraint; 2nd, folly and envy and 3rd, sympathy. Dr. Wallace was listened to with close attention. His sermon was greatly appreciated by those who had gathered from far and near.

At two o'clock Dr. Wallace spoke to the young people of the Sunday school. He impressed upon them how they in their helpful enthusiasm might be a power in their local church if they would but try and gave several illustrations as to how this might be accomplished.

On Sunday night at half past six the church was packed to the doors, and when service commenced at seven o'clock many had to stand. The choir again sang an anthem, and Miss Blanchard sang as a solo, "Sun of My Soul."

Mr. Wallace's subject for the evening service was the "Ideal Christian" and he based his remarks on Paul's letter to the Church at Corinth, found in part of the 15 and 16th chapters of 1 Corinthians.

On Monday evening, the ladies of the congregation served one of their famous fowl dinners when about 500 people were fed in the basement of the church. The tables were well laden with all sorts of dainties as well as a generous helping of fowl, dressing, potatoes and gravy.

An excellent program was then given in the town hall across the street, consisting of solos by Miss Blanchard of Feterborough, readings by Mrs. Mott, of Belleville, and an address by the Rev. Archer Wallace, entitled "Some People I have met in churches."

Taken altogether, the members of the United Church were well satisfied with the attendance and proceeds of the anniversary.

Mrs. Wheeler, of Mather's Corners, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Wilson.

The congregation of the United church have decided to hold their annual Fowl Supper on Thanksgiving evening November 9th.

SAVES FRIEND.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 29.—Patrolman John Haffner and his friend John Blessington took a day off in the woods recently. A cat dropped off a tree onto Blessington's shoulder. The automatic service pistol of Patrolman Haffner barked once and the cat crumpled to the ground. It happened to be a wildcat.

Certainly, she can have another!

My dear it is plain that
I'll have to explain
Over and over and over again

Plain York's really great
It's the best chocolate
With flavour and quality splendid for Jane.

Mothers and fathers who have tried Plain York chocolate realize at once how pure it is, how wholesome.

Not too bitter, not too sweet, but with all the deliciousness of pure plain chocolate, Plain York is the triumph of 200 years of experience in fine chocolate making. Just try a bar—to-day.

BASKET SOCIAL IS SUCCESSFUL

Lily Lake Young People Have Enjoyable Evening's Entertainment.

GOOD PROGRAM.

A very successful old-time basket social was held last Friday night by the Young People's Christian Endeavour Society of the Lily Lake Sunday School. The decorations were carried out in appropriate Hallowe'en colors, under the direction of Miss Helen Stuart.

A good programme was put on by the Young People and included the following numbers: Mr. J. A. Middleton, in an able manner and with his witty remarks, made a splendid chairman. Chairman's address by Mr. Middleton; a pageant by Evelyn Mason, Lilian Mason, Mary Middleton, Annie Dixon, Dorothy Rowland, Helen Stuart, Amy Thompson, and Katheryn Rowland, in which Eulah Hancock represented Canada; recitation, "Love," by Helen Rowland; song, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," by Annie Dixon and Harold Thompson, who were dressed appropriately for the occasion; recitation, "The North Wind Doth Blow," Clara Saunders; chorus, "Get Away, Old Man, Get Away," with encore, "When I Was Courting Lena," by Cecil Hancock, Jim Darling, Clarence Hancock, Arthur Hancock, Harold Thompson, Ferdinand Rowland, Clif Prophet, and George Middleton; recitation with encore, Evelyn Mason; instrumental selection by Dorothy Rowland. Little Eric Mason, with his jovial smile, delighted the audience with two songs, "Old Sid Doon" and encore "Money." Recitation, "Then and Now," by Dorothy Rowland. Mrs. J. A. Mason acted as accompanist for the evening.

Mr. William Saunders, superintendent of the Sunday School, and Arthur Hancock, vice-president of the Young People's Society, also spoke a few words ,thanking those present for their support of the Young People, and explaining to them the aims of the Christian Endeavour Society. The social concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

PRESIDENT BETTER.

Greek Executive's Condition Satisfactory After Good Night.

ATHENS, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press) —The condition of President endouristis, wounded in the right temple by a bullet of a would-be assassin yesterday, today was satisfactory after a good night. The Cabinet decided to take all necessary measures to suppress all subversive tendencies against the State. Communists being blamed for the crime. Twenty-five year old Zafios Goussios is held by the Police after attempting the assassination.

HOME INMATES FOUND INSANE

Mrs. Calberry and James Moore Examined By Physicians To-day.

BOTH VIOLENT.

Mrs. Francis Calberry and James Moore, both inmates of the House of Refuge were found to be insane this morning on examination by Dr. J. C Smith of Lakefield, and Dr. J. A. Morgan of this city.

High County Constable Pearson yesterday arrested Mrs. Calberry, and on being brought before Magistrate Langley this morning she was charged with being insane. His Worship immediately appointed Dr. Smith and Dr. Morgan to make a thorough medical examination as to her sanity, and report back to him.

James Moore pleaded guilty this morning to assaulting Mixer Record. Dr. Smith classed Moore as an idiot with a young child's brain and said it was a question as to whether he should be at large or sent to an institution. Dr. Smith has had him under observation for some time and had found him getting worse. On Friday he attacked Mixer Record an aged inmate of that home, and gave him a deep gash in the head and almost choked him. High Constable Pearson laid a charge of insanity against him and the doctors were also asked to examine him .

Mrs. Calberry was the centre of another episode at the House of refuge yesterday afternoon, when she tried to hit Superintendent Lewis Fry over the head with a chair. Unknown to Mr. Fry, Mrs. Calberry had put all the other women inmates out of the ladies' sitting room and was there alone when Mr. Fry opened the door to ask the women to come down stairs to the church service. Mr. Fry told Mrs. Calberry that the minister was there, and they were ready to commence the service but she with a tirade of oaths tried to hit him with a chair. Mr. Fry dodged the blows and got to the door. He locked Mrs. Calberry in the room, and immediately called Constable Pearson.

Ex-Superintendent John Maize was called this morning to give evidence as to the sanity of Mrs. Calberry. He said she seemed to have delusions and at times thought she owned the House of Refuge, and a great deal of property in Dummer. She has been worse and is very vicious," said Mr. Maize.

Wheat Market Rallies After Opening Weaker

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. — Reassuring crop reports from Argentina, led to lower prices early to-day for wheat, but the market soon rallied above Saturday's finish. Opening ½ to ⅝c off, wheat underwent a further sag and then scored gains. Corn swayed with wheat, starting ¼ to 3-8c decline to 1-8c advance, and subsequently showing a setback all around, and then scoring a rally. Oats were relatively firm. Provisions tilted downwards.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Dec., 125¼; March 118 7-8; corn, Dec., 88¼; March 87; oats Dec., 47½; March 48 7-8.

Canada Cement Stock To Be Listed Shortly

TORONTO, Oct. 31.— (Special.)— Announcement is being made to-day by Wood, Gundy & Company Limited of the final step in connection with the Canada Cement financing, namely, the issuing of $21,000,000 6½ per cent sinking fund cumulative preference shares which are being offered in Canada, the United States and London, England, at par with a bonus of two-fifths of one share of common with each $100 of perferred. Application will be made immediately for listing on the stock exchanges in Toronto, Montreal and London, England, which will make for a broad and active market for the new shares.

The new issue has created wide interest because of the success of the recent issue of first mortgage bonds, and it is stated that a strong preliminary demand for the preferred has been expresed. Purchase of the assets of the old company involves payments totalling $46,875,000 to the old common and preferred shareholders and as these shareholders enjoyed such a satisfactory experience, it is understood that a substantial portion of these funds is seeking re-investment in the new shares. As the new issue totals less than one-half of the amount to be distributed, heavy over subscription to the new preferred is expected.

The new financing has focused a good deal of attention upon the company's strong position, its seventeen year old record of earnings, and its favorable strategic position with a view to meeting the increasing demand for its products. The offering of the new preference shares marks the completion of one of the most important peces of Canadian corporation financing ever undertaken. It is a remarkable tribute to the investing power of Canada as a whole that the major portion of the two issues wil lbe owned in Canada.

Toronto Stocks Firm Led By Brazilian

TORONTO, Oct. 31. Canadian Press. — Practically all classes of stocks shared in the upward movement on the Toronto stock exchange to-day led by Brazilian which gained four points at 195½. Hamilton Dairies went up 3 at 50; Brompton and Walker each gained 2¼ at 59½ and 63 respectively, and Gooderham & Worts gained 2 at 62½. Walker's was the leader in activity. Fractional gaines were scattered throughout the list. The weakest issues were Abitibi losing 2 at 131, and pressed metals, losing 2 at 50.

Mine Market Firmer And Very Active Today

TORONTO, Ont., October 31 (Canadian Press). — Advances were well distributed throughout an active list on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, with transactions in more than a million shares. There were no extreme gains, however, Beaver leading with a gain of six cents to 191 . Teck Hughes and Newbec each advanced five points, the former to 10.75 and Newbec to 75. The weaker stocks included Amulet, off 20 cents to 4.90 ,and Area, off three to 51½.

Advance Continues In New York To-day

NEW YORK, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Despite stiffer call money rates and lack of any important trade news, stock prices staged another brisk recovery to-day under the leadership of high priced industrials. A few issues of which the floating supply is small were marked up five to ten points, while gains of two to four points were scattered throughout the list. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume. American Machine and Foundry was run up nearly ten points and American Tobacco issues and Warren Brothers each advanced six points, all to new high records. Russia Insurance recovered about half its twenty-point loss in to-day's trading. General Motors continued to respond to a favourable earnings report. Rails moved forward under the leadership of Atlantic Coast Line.

JUNIORS ENJOY ANNUAL PARTY

Hallowe'en Fittingly Observed at the Y.W.C.A. On Saturday.

MASQUERADE HELD.

Juniors to the number of nearly three hundred and fifty assembled in a monster Hallowe'en party at the Young Women's Christian Association, and had the time of their lives in a morning devoted to jollity and fun. The majority of the children were in costume, and the judges had a very difficult time awarding prizes. The ingenuity and taste exhibited in many of the outfits was a guarantee of the big interest that the children and parents alike take in these big annual events at the "Y," the mothers going to much trouble to make pretty costumes for the juniors, whose Hallowe'en party on Saturday morning followed the very successful Senior event of the night before.

Girls of the Intermediate classes acted as ghosts for the "ghost walk" which took place in the basement "dungeons" below stairs. They were very kind to the babies, but gave some of the juniors a lot of exciting thrills with their wet, gloved hands and spooky forms. Games, contests and dancing also formed a portion of the programme in the gymnasium, with refreshments served later in relays, to the babies, juniors and intermediates in turn, in the domestic science room. Two members of the intermediate class also acted as witches for the occasion.

Judges of the costumes were Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. V. S. Foster and Miss L. Belleghem. Miss Musa Cox played piano accompaniments for the dancing.

Prizes went to Fay Dnford, as Pierrot; Sophia Yeotes as a Page; Gwenyth Boorman as a Danger Signal; Mary Terrace as a Grandmother of an older type, and Phyllis Harris as a Lily. These were in the Junior class, and honorable mention was also made of Katherine Sauer as a Chinaman; Jean Matchett, as the Star of Bethlehem; Gertrude MacDonald and Nora Mosher, as Ghosts; Phyllis Pink as a Scotch Lassie; Mary Kingsbury as Dolly Varden; Mignon Mayneord and Irene Moore as Hallowe'en; Doris Tremain as Miss 1867; Eleanor Scheip as a Cat, and Anna Edmonson as an Indian Girl

In the Babies' Class, prize-winners were Barbara Kane as a Baby; Jean Stinson as a Chinaman; Eleanor Taylor as a Chrysanthemum, and Stanley and Jean Pettit as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. Honorable mention was made of Doris Glover as a Pumpkin; Katherine White as a Little English Girl; Betty Jory as Pierrot; Dorothy Lemon as Pierrot; Jean Jackson as a Bride; Evelyn Hill and Majorie Boyle as Hallowe'en; Vera Barnes as an Indian; Doreen Wallace as a Pussy Cat; Douglas Brownscombe as a Bunny; Marjorie Henninger as a Birl; Pat Graham and Milly Rome as Pierrot; Berta and Frances Belleghem as the Spirit of Hallowe'en, and Dorothy Burnham.

OBITUARY.

ALBERT W. CROUTER.

Albert Wellington Crouter, a veteran of the Northwest Rebellion, and the Great War, passed away in this city this morning.

Mr. Crouter was one of those from Peterborough who joined up in 1885 to fight the Indians and the half-breeds under the command of Louis Riel. In 1915 he joined the 59th Regiment and served for two years at the front. Up until six months ago Mr. Crouter was employed by the Board of Works Department of the city and for the past 44 years he has been a resident of this city.

Two brothers survive, George of the fire department, and Sydney of this city. Mrs. Crouter predeceased him about one year ago.

The funeral will be held under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion of which the deceased was an esteemed member, on Wednesday, at 2 p.m., from the residence of his brother, 293 Bethune street, Commandant Ham officiating. Interment will take place in the veterans' plot in the Little Lake cemetery.

Penetang Carry Seven Point Lead Over First Game

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS LOSE FIRST O.R.F.A. FIXTURE 17-10

Penetang's Superior Kicking and Line Formation Give Them Decision.

WESTBROOK GOOD.

Accounts For Two Touches and Numerous Gains For Locals By Fast Running.

Max Sloan's protegees bowed before a 17-10 defeat administered by the invading Penetanguishene gridders at James Stevenson's Park on Saturday afternoon, in the first Junior O.R.F.U. contest of the season.

A large crowd of fans witnessed the superior kicking and line plunging of the visitors overcome an early lead. But for Westbrook's speed, the Petes would have made a sorry showing. Time and again he dazzled the spectators as, shifty, speedy, sure-footed, he broke away for numerous and phenomenal gains, accounting for both touches. Miller in the line did some fine bucking, but the line as a whole was weak. Fraser came through with two nice dashes.

Fumbled kicks and passes were all too frequent on both sides for first-class rugby. As a rule they proved more disastrous for Peterborough.

The visitors were a heavier team and seemed to be in better condition. The spectacular kicking and end running of Shanacy proved to be a feature of the game. They used huddle signals and were strong on bucking.

Early in the game Fraser broke away for a 40 yard gain, paving the way for an end run by Westbrook, resulting in the first touchdown of the game. Penetang then forced their way to within a yard of their touch-line, but lost ten yards through a penalty which they failed to recover.

Play alternated for several minutes until shortly after quarter time, when the invaders made a 35-yard advance via Shanacy. Yards twice, brought them within seven yards of a touch, and on the third down Dubi was pushed over to tie the score.

With three minutes to go to the end of the first half, Fraser made a pretty 30-yard dash. On the first down Westbrook took the pigskin and, outstepping the Penetang backfield, finished a thrilling 25-yard end run with his second touch, to the accompaniment of vociferous encouragement.

An injury to one of the visiting players on the first kick-off in the second half held the game up for a few minutes. From then on the Northerners were unbeatable. Their bucks nearly always resulted in yards, with one notable exception, when Peterborough presented a stone-wall front, with only a yard to go. The best Penetang could do was to force a rouge, but before three-quarter time, Shanacy made a touch and kicked to deadline once.

A disastrous fumble by McLeish brought the black-shirts to the 20-yard line. An end run gave them yards, and after a short scrimmage everyone was piled in a heap. As the players were untangling themselves the best was hoped, but the worst was feared. Bawks was found barely over, but indisputably over the line, putting them in the lead 17-10.

Both squads battled fiercely for the remainder of the game but neither could make any real headway until Westbrook raised high the hopes of the city element when he started on a sensational run down one side of the field, only to be downed by a perfect flying tackle 30 yards further on just when it seemed that he might evade the whole backfield. With renewed effort, Peterborough tried to get another counter across, but were resisted with equal energy.

Play Thanksgiving.

It was a good game to watch. The locals tried hard and deserved better fate. A stronger line formation and heavier kicking would make a world of difference. They are going to Penetang on Thanksgiving Monday, determined to duplicate last year's victory. May fickle Fortune smile more benignly upon this attempt!

A week remains in which much may be accomplished in reinforcing weak spots. The boys have the goods—all they need to do is to peddle them a little more efficiently.

The teams:

Penetanguishene—Copeland, flying wing; Devalier, Shanacy and Murray, halves; Fahey, quarter; Boyer, snap; Thompson and Terrapel, insides; Dubi and Bawks, middles; Gain and Gignac outsides; Kerr, Denure, Warner, Feris, Hatton, and Tessier, subs; Wendley, coach.

Peterborough—Hatton and Fraser, flying wings; McLeish and Westbrook, halves; Newson, quarter; Mackey, snap; Welbourne and Fawcett, insides; Miller and Ashmore, middles; Henry and White, outsides; Hope, Robinson, Allin, Mackness and Fleming, subs; Sloan, coach.

Referee—Ross Craig, Hamilton. Umpire—Emmett Sheehy, Peterborough. Head linesman—Graham Eastrood, Peterborough.

Walthur-Georgetti Win Bicycle Race

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—Bobby Walthour Jr., of Newark, N.J., and Franco-Georgetti, the Italian motor-paced champion of the United States, won Chicago's 18th international six-day bicycle race which ended here at 11 o'clock Saturday night. They travelled 2,223.2 miles and Walthour rode the last 3 hours with a cracked rib.

The team of Alphonse Goosens of Belgium and the Klas-Van Nek of Holland, ran second. They travelled the same distance as the winning team but scored but 223 points in sprints to 865 run up by the winners.

Carl Stockholm of Chicago and Fred Spencer of Plainfield, N.J., were third, one lap or a tenth of a mile behind the two leading pairs.

The most serious falls of the week occurred just before the beginning of the final hour of sprints for points and forced Norman Hill of San Jose, Calif., out of the race with a fractured collarbone. Four other men went down with Hill and as well as Walthour. Van Nek also suffered a broken bone, a small bone in his leg being fractured. Georgett Faudet of France and Stockholm also fell, but escaped with abrasions and concussions.

After Hill was forced out, Otto Petri of Germany teamed with Gerard Baets of Belgium and they completed the race together, running sixth.

THREE TEAMS SUFFER DEFEAT

Hopes of Dartmouth, Michigan and California Topple Down.

GENERAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (A.P.).—The crash of championship football aspirations echoed from coast to coast yesterday in the wake of a nerve-tingling climax of upsets to October's topsy-turvy gridiron developments.

In widely scattered sectors, but with the same sickening thud, the hopes of Dartmouth, Michigan and California went toppling down in unexpectedly decisive defeat.

These three all previously undefeated and looked on as among the most formidable of title contenders passed from the pace-setting group without the distinction of scoring a single touchdown among them. Dartmouth's Indians had their own scalps lifted by Yale, 19 to 0, in a game that stamped the Elis as one of the East's most powerful outfits. California's Golden Bears had their expectations of a return to the Pacific Coast peak shattered by Southern California's Trojans to the tune of 13—0.

Michigan, the only major eleven entering Saturday's battle's with an uncrossed goal line, lost to Illinois, 14—0, as Lou Gilbert, Wolverine backfield ace, sat on the sidelines, a casualty.

Georgia Tech Loses Out

At the same time, the South's previously undefeated pride, Georgia Tech, went down before the charge of Notre Dame, 26—7, while another unbeaten outfit, New York University, was held to a surprising scoreless tie by Colgate.

The upshots of these upsets is to leave only six major elevens, from coast to coast, neither beaten nor tied, with the November campaign of bitter conflicts still ahead to provide addition "dope" reversals.

Princeton, Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh represent the east in this select list and the latter pair of Pennsylvania rivals meet next Saturday to settle part of the debate. Notre Dame carries the Middlewest's banner among the unbeaten arrays, but Knute Rockne's Hoosier, meeting Minnesota and Westpoint on the next two Saturday's face a strenuous assignment in their fight for a national title. The south contributes the other two teams with spotless slates, Tennessee and Georgia, but the latter's record is more impressive as the result of a 31—0 triumph over Tulane Saturday.

In the race for conference crowns, Illinois now tops the "Big Ten" with a slight edge over Minnesota, which was tied earlier by Indiana. Southern California, on the Pacific Coast, and Southern Methodist, in the southwestern conference are around the top, at least temporarily. In the east, Penn State's crushing defeat of Lafayette and Yale's victory over Dartmouth have put these two teams back among the best in spite of early season reversals.

Comebacks by Harvard, Ohio State and Missouri were among Saturday's outstanding features. The Crimson walloped an intersectional foe, Indiana, while Ohio State knocked Chicago from the "Big Ten" lead. Missouri, badly beaten the week before by Southern Methodist, whipped Northwestern, 34 to 19, in a spectacular a game as the season has yet developed.

From the intersectional point of view, the middle west added to its already impressive slate as Nebraska conquered Syracuse, Purdue defeated Montana, Iowa whipped Denver and Notre Dame turned back Georgia Tech. to offset Indiana's reverse at Harvard's hands.

The U.S.C. California classic drew the day's biggest crowd, 76,000, while Michigan-Illinois played before 67,000 spectators and Pennsylvania-Navy before more than 70,000. Sixty thousand saw Yale and Dartmouth clash while as many more witnessed the Minnesota-Wisconsin tussle.

QUAKERS ONE THISTLE NIL PHELAN CUP

Mitchell Scored Only Goal in First Ten Minutes of Game.

CUSTODIANS GOOD

Second Half Was Solid Defence Against Thistle Forwards—Uninteresting Tactics.

The Quaker Oats defeated the Thistle on Saturday afternoon by one goal to nothing in the final of the Phelan Soccer Charity Cup, before a good attendance of spectators at King Edward Park.

"We certainly worked hard to win that cup," was the remark of a Quaker player after the hard-fought games. They sure did, because the opposition was a real cup tie team.

This is the first season that the Quakers have won the trophy! Other winners were: G.W.V.A. in 1921; Owls, 1922; Thistle (three years in succession) 1923-24-25; Masseys, 1926, and Quakers, 1927. At the end of the game, President Stewart presented the cup to Captain T. Wilson and finished with customary three cheers.

FIRST HALF

The Quakers won the toss and compelled the Thistle to face the sun. Good play by Lang placed Dawson in possession in front of goal, but the full-backs offset his actions. Mid-field play then occupied the attention of the half-backs for a while.

Quakers Snappy Goal

As Millar and Robb battled in the centre of the field, the former beat his man and punted across to the right wing, but it accidentally hit the referee. Quick as a flash the latter carried the attack right down into the Thistle goal. He slipped the ball out to Rankin who shot it across the goal mouth, where Mitchell met it nicely, to bulge the net. This surprise made the Thistle add pressure to the method and for the remaining twenty minues bombarded the Quakers' citadel from every angle.

W. Curtis and Dawson Smart

Cameron was the principal schemer for the Jags, and he tried hard to make an opening for the centre forward. A foul against Robb caused a lot of excitement around the Quakers' area. The Jags' inside left dribbled his way through the defence and finished with a drive for goal, but Carmichael's head diverted his effort for a flag-kick. Then the custodian let the ball drop from a fast drive from Dawson and Maker saving the situation. No matter how the Thistle tried to score, they found Curtis in goal saving everything ranged at him.

Quaker Full-Backs Good

It was a battle between the Thistle forwards and Quaker full-backs, who put up a brilliant defence in every attack launched. A spell of pressure was again added by the losers. Cameron on one occasion sening in an oblique shot that Dawson banged for goal. Curtis clutched it in below the bar and cleared. During this period, the Quakers would break away for the other end to be repulsed as quick again.

Thistle Peppered Out

With only five minutes from half-time, the Thistle gave up the veritable bombardment after a very strenuous attempt to score. Nothing tangible resulted, but Dawson continued to harass the winning defence. Mitchell had another praiseworthy effort to beat Griffin, but the goal-keeper again proved equal to the occasion. He went back again as half time was announced. Quakers 1, Thistle 0.

HALF TIME

Curtis got a fright in the first minute after the resumption. Millar sent the ball well ahead, and Dawson fastened on to dribble the sphere right into goal, where Maker harassed him at the critical point. Quakers immediately afterwards forced two flag kicks. Eventually Millar cleared from the scrimmage that ensued.

5 Half-Backs and 2 Full-Backs

Cameron carrying the play to the other end, and after some play on the right, Lang grazed the bar with a shot. As time wore on, it was very evident that the Quakers were going to hold on to the meagre lead of one goal. T. Wilson and T. Foster dropping back on the defence line with the regular half-backs, that frustrated any attempt the opposing forwards tried to gain. This left the Thistle halves open to punt the ball into the defence area where most of the play was confined. With only three forwards up in their regular position, outside right and outside left, acting on individual movements that left Alex. Mitchell as the solo player against the Thistle full-backs. He made some spectacular plays on his own initiative that caused Griffin anxiety in the closing minutes of the non-interesting tactics. Three corner-kicks fell in succession to the Thistle, but the Quaker goal-keeper was unbeatable. Quakers 1, Thistle 0.

Goal scorer.A. Mitchell.

The Teams

Quakers—W. Curtis, goal; S. Maker and H. Curtis, full backs; Carmichael, Robb and Blowers, halves; A. Wilson, T. Wilson, A. Mitchell, T. Foster and Rankin, forwards.

Thistle.—Griffin, goal; D. McKenzie and A. Anderson, backs; Bromley, Millar and Burgess, halves; Lang, House, Dawson, Cameron and McPhate, forwards.

Referee—A. McKinley.

Linesmen—H. Fowler and S. Laidler.

M'GILL MEETS SECOND DEFEAT

Lose to Balmy Beach 14-11 in Home-and-Home Exhibition.

RUGGED FRONT LINE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31. Canadian Press. — Balmy Beach, champions or the O.R.F.U., and already qualified for the Dominion playdowns, dealt McGill its second defeat of the season in the home-and-home exhibitions between the two squads winning 14-11, largely through the brilliant efforts of Vic Foster, Captain Scotty Cawkell and Red Moore their half back trio, and the sturdy play of a rugged, cleanfighting front line.

The exhibition introduced to Montrealers the onside pass, which is gaining favor as a play that is being advocated for adoption in Canadian Rugby. The onside pass seemed to meet with general approval, if the standing vote of the 6000 at half time can be taken as a criterion.

The crowd a record for an exhibition tilt here saw the onside pass used frequently by both teams with varying success in the first half. Balmy Beach attempted five and completed two for gains of 60 and 12 yards. McGill threw four and completed one for a gain of 30 yards. Both failed on three attempts.

In the second half both squads in their keeness to capture the game, forgot all about the onside pass, and settled down strictly to the business of winning the football struggle. In this Balmy Beach came to life with a dynamic attack that swept them from a trailing position of 8-5 at half time to their 14-11 win. Long runs by Foster and Cawkell and some superb line smashing by Cawkell, put the latter in a position to score a converted touchdown and a drop kick. They counted their first five points in the opening quarter on a touch by Foster after a 50-yard run around McGill's right end.

Scored First.

McGill scored first on an early try and added three points through terrific punts by St. Germain in the second quarter, one going 90 yards, with the wind, a return kick. In the final quarter McGill came with a belated rush and favored again by the wind, started to punt their way forward. They counted three points by Rouges, but were weak on the ground when in promising territory and saw their chance of victory fade when Foster, recovering a fumble by Moore ran the ball from his own 20 to centre, passed to DeWitt, who made ten more and slipped it to Campbell, who was nailed at McGill's 25. St. Germain and Doherty crossed their signals on Balmy Beach's next punt, Doherty being out of position to take St. Germain's pass. There was not time for the Beaches to capitalize against the wind.

LOYOLA DEFEAT KINGSTON CADETS

Qualify to Meet St. Mike's for Intercollegiate Intermediate Title.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press.)— Cutting down a six point lead which R.M.C. had piled up on them by virtue of the 13 to 7 victory in Kingston last Wednesday, Loyola intermediates went on to qualify for the Eastern Divisional football honors and the right to meet St. Mike's for the Intercollegiate intermediate title by defeating the Cadets 9 to 2 here Saturday. Loyola won by the narrow margin of one point in a 16 to 15 round victory, the winning point being booted over by Savard five minutes before the final whistle.

Loyola outplayed the Cadets for three-quarters of the game, showing superior form both on the line and in the kicking, and when the Soldiers rallied and took the lead in the third quarter the maroon-shirted team held them twice when two golden chances offered themselves to the Cadets to clinch the victory, and had the added punch to again tie the score and go ahead and win.

The local team began in auspicious fashion. Savard's kick-off against the wind went for a point and Loyola immediately took the offensive. After several good gains through the Cadets' line had been made, Savard kicked to Molson and when the R.M.C. half fumbled, Nealear fell on it for a touch that tied the round. Loyalo continued on the attack and on two separate occasions made four consecutive first downs against their opponents.

Loyola continued to have the edge in the second quarter and went to the front for the first time on Savard's long kick that went for a rouge. It was the only score of the period.

Starting the second half, however, the Cadets went on an attack that during the third quarter forced the local Collegians back of the defence. It was the only time during the game that the Cadets had the margin of play, but two points and a momentary lead of one was all that came of their efforts. Twice they were in a position for a drop kick only to fumble the first time when, Loyola hurried their play, and on the second attempt, Harold McCarrey, husky snapback of the locals, crashed right through the middle of the line to block the kick.

The third quarter rally was R.M.C.'s last threat for Loyola again took command and twice more Savard sent long kicks acros the Cadets' line that could not be run out.

SCORE THREE TOUCHDOWNS IN THE FIRST

Hamilton Tigers Win 21-6 Victory Over Toronto Argonauts.

INTER-PROVINCIAL RUGBY

Argo Line Unable to Hold Victor's Attacks for the First.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—Three touchdowns in the first quarter gave Tigers of Hamilton a 21—6 victory over Toronto Argonauts in Saturday's important Interprovincial Rugby Union game here.

Argos battled in vain during the last three-quarters of the game to even up the score, but succeeded only in collecting a few minor points. Tigers effectively proved their superiority over the Toronto team, and it was only luck that kept them from chalking up still large a score. "Pep" Leadley, playing his usual perfect football, contributed one field goal and missed three by inches.

From the very start, the Argo line crumpled before the crushing Tiger attacks, while on the other hand the Toronto plungers encountered a stone wall when they attempted to gain ground. In the latter half of the game Argos pulled themselves together and took full advantage of Tiger over-confidence, but they were able to do little more than prevent further scoring.

Baker, Tiger middle, was, with Leadley, the star of the game, and repeatedly made yards single-handed through the middle of the Toronto line. He was ably supported by Timmis and McKelvy, while Walker and Wright of the Hamilton back division, showed up well. Munro's long punts were of immense help to Argos, while Chantler and Thomas also turned in nice games for the Toronto team.

It was good football weather, with a dry field and clearing sky, while hardly a breath of wind blew down the field. About 3,000 watched the game.

From the time Chantler returned Tigers' kickoff to Walker, the Hamilton men were successful in keep ahead of the Toronto men

The decisive first quarter opened with Chantler returning Tigers' kick-off to Walker. The Tigers started a steady march up the field, which took them to the Argo goal posts without a kick. Baker, Leadley, Small and McKelvy participated mainly in the advance, which started at the Hamilton 50 and ended when Baker went over for a try. Leadley failed to convert.

Argos attempted to close the gaps in their line, but the smashing attacks continued successfully Walker, Timmis, Baker and Wright took the credit for thrice making yards, while McKelvy collected 20 on a run around the outside. Leadley lifted a nice field goal from 50 yards out and the score went 8—0.

Hammered Vainly

In possession of the ball for the first time, Argos hammered vainly against the Tiger line. Play went to the Toronto 25-yard line and with Wright's help, Baker crashed through and went over the Argo line for the second try. Argos collected their first point when Tigers lost ground on penalties and Harris forced Leadley to rouge with a long punt.

Baker added to his glory with a 40-yard run, passing to Leadley, who added another 15. McKelvey broke through the middle for the third touchdown of the quarter, but, as in the other cases, the convert failed. The quarter ended with the score 1—18.

Harris and Leadley opened the second quarter with a kicking duel. The Toronto wings showing up well. Tigers were penalized twice and Argos secured when Walker fumbled. Chantler tried a field goal which went wide, and Walker was shoved over for a safety touch, raising the Argo score to three. Play then centered about midfield, from where Leadley kicked the longest punt of the day, rouging. Chantler, Walker and Baker carried the play into Argos ground and Leadley tried a field goal for 20 yards out. It went low, but Thomas was rouged The score at half time was 3—30.

Munro made another one for Argos when the second half opened, with a long punt for a touch in goal. It was the only point of the quarter, Argos showing a determined spirit and Tigers' superiority being discounted by frequent penalties. Argos made yards for the first time in the game when Miles, Wilson and Parke succeeded in breaking through on three downs.

Munro was doing some beautiful kicking, while Leadley's run from behind his own line was a feature.

In the final quarter, Tigers resumed their strong plunges, and Baker, Timmis and McKelvey took the ball into position for Leadley's attempt at a field goal. It failed, but Thomas was rouged. The score then stood at 4—21 Leadley again had hard luck with a field goal, and Chantler cluded the Tiger tacklers The Argo men then put up their best exhibition of the day, Munro and McClennan making yards and Chantler adding a nice 30-yard run in the best individual Toronto effort of the game. Munro kicked for a safety touch. Play was at midfield and the score 6—21 when the game ended

ILLINOIS LEADING WESTERN LEAGUE

Coach Zuppe's Men Break Michigan's Long Winning Streak.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press.)— Illinois' smashing football squad leads the western conference this week. Coach Zuppke's men, who scored their second surprise victory of the season by breaking Michigan's long winning streak, 14 to 0, Saturday, have not been defeated nor tied. Minnesota, like Illinois, has two conference victories, but has a tie score with Indiana. These two apparently, are left to battle for the Big Ten football championship.

Michigan's goal line, the only one in the conference which had not been crossed by an opponent up to Saturday, was twice invaded Saturday by the Illini. Chicago, which shared the conference leadership with Michigan a week ago, now shares runner-up position with the Wolverines. Northwestern and Ohio State have both secured an even break in games.

The Illini have Iowa, Chicago and Ohio State to beat before they can close the season victorious while Minnesota has but one more Big Ten foe, the Michigan eleven. Before the final game though, the Gophers play Notre Dame and Drake.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

EVERTON LEADS ENGLISH LEAGUE

Standing by Their Win Over Portsmouth on Saturday.

DEAN STARS.

LONDON Eng., Oct. 31. Canadian Press Cable. — Everton, who jumped to the top of the English first division soccer standing by their win over Portsmouth on Saturday, owed their three goals to Dean who has been playing splendidly this season. His total tallies so far amount to twenty. It is noteworthy that Everton, who have been the sensation of English soccer clubs this season, were one from the bottom of the standing at this time last year.

The star match of the League was the tussle at Aston between the Villa and Newcastle United. The match drew a crowd of 55,000 spectators who saw the home team crush Newcastle by three goals to nil. Dorrell started the scoring for the villa after nineteen minutes of play. Walter scored a second counter in the second half and just before time Spencer headed in Dorrell's free kick into his own goal.

Pease did the hat trick for Middles brough against Bury one of the goals bouncing in off a defending back. Carr got Middlesborough's fourth, while Bullock netted for Dury.

Forty thousand saw Bolton Wanderers beat Arsenal at Highbury.

Scorers for the wanderers were: — Gibson, who headed in from Butler's centre and Vizard; Buchan scored Arsenal's lone tally.

Scorers in other first division games were:

Derby Hope; Tottenham Hotspurs, Grimsdell.

West Ham United, Earle; Manchester United, Barrett (through his own goal), and McPherson.

Liverpool, Haid, Tuice Devlin and Hodgson; Blackburn, Puddefoot, twice.

Leicester Rine, Tuice; Lockhead, Gandler; Cardiff, Smith.

Sunderland, Cresswell, Ramsay and Wright.

Twenty-five thousand saw the feature match of the second division between Preston North End and Chelsea at Preston. Thompson got two of Chelsea's goals and Pearson the other. At Manchester 35,000 saw the city team beat Reading. Austin, twice, Roberts and Johnson scored for Manchester City, while Robson bagged one for Reading. Fulham scored against West Bromwich Albion through Elliott who got both his goals by heading in and Temple, Stoke, who earned promotion in the standing yesterday just got the winning goal in time against Wolverhampton Wanderers. Wilson did the trick, bringing his bag for day up to two.

Forbes did the hat trick playing for Plymouth Argle against Norwich City. Bryant got into the hero class when he scored the winning goal for Millwall after being injured. He insisted on returning to the game although his head was swathed in bandages.

Top scorer in Scottish games was McCrory, who playing for Celtic against St. Mirren bagged four of his team's six goals. Connolly got the other two. Cowdenbeath's three counters came from the toes of Rankin, Pullar and Leonage. Dunfermline registered through Bain, Digeson and Skinner, while Dundee's single goal was secured by Smith. Scorers in other matches were:

Falkirk: R. Kennedy, two, Hunter, Peterson, Clyde, Wallace Gibson, from a penalty.

Hibernians: McGill, three, Bradley, Halligan; Hamilton, Academicals, Tonner.

Owing to the very limited number of American troops trained in the use of skis the War Department has been obliged to decline an invitation from the Swiss Federal Council to enter the military ski races to be held at St. Moritz next winter.

SENATORS WIN FINAL TUSSLE AT OTTAWA

Defeat M.A.A.A. 6-3 in Their Last Home Game.

BATTLE OF HALF-BACKS

Six Points Were All Single Tallies Scored Through the Air.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—In a battle of the half-backs, that was fought out along the aerial lines at Lansdowne Park Saturday afternoon, the Ottawa Senatods won their last home game of the Big Four season when they defeated the M.A.A.A. team by 6 to 3. The final Senior game of the local season saw a very ordinary game of Rugby, that was brightened up by work of the rival half lines.

Joe Tubman and his trusty boot, ably aided by the sure-catching and strong-kicking Kehoe, proved too much for the efforts of the Montreal booters and the six Ottawa points were all single tallies scored through the air. The Montreal total was amassed by one effort of Ralph Harrison, winged wheel quarter back, who lobbed a field goal over the bar in the first quarter from twenty-five yards out. The game was evenly fought along the rival front lines. Neither team could do any material damage to their rivals through plunging and yards through the line were made on only four occasions, each team taking the required distance twice. But through the air, the home team had a decided advantage owing to the ability of Tubman and Kehoe to outboot their opposition. This was not any marked advantage that was held throughout the contest as Booth and Sheppard gave the Ottawa halves plenty of trouble with their hoists, but it was at critical times, when placement and distance counted that the Senator pair put the ball where it would do the most damage.

There was plenty of spirit in evidence and the game was a scrappy affair, but there was no undue roughness and the officials had an easy time. Only in the second half did the Ottawa team show any of the football ability that carried them to two Canadian championships, and even then they did not uncover a brand that would stand up against a display such as Tigers gave here a week ago. M.A.A.A. fought courageously, but could make little headway, although they were able to afford the home team stout opposition at all stages.

Starred For Senators.

Tubman and Kenoe starred for the Senators, with Smith, Connell and Hutchingame, junior quarter-back subbing for the injured Lynch, also taking prominent parts. Johnny and Pean Bennett were the pick of the visitors, with Potter and Andrews doing splendid work on the line. Harrison also gave a good exhibition and his field goal stood out as one of the brightest efforts of the game.

Ottawas scored in the first minute. Stanyar blocked Pean Bennett when the latter attempted to return Bruce's kick-off and the Senators were in possession twenty-five yards out. An end run was stopped, and Tubman then booted to Johnny Bennett for the first point, Stanyar rouging the Montreal half. Ottawa 1, M.A.A.A. 0.

A fumble on an end run put M. A.A.A. in possession of the Ottawa 15 yard mark just before the quarter ended and Harrison promptly shot the winged wheelers into the lead with a field goal. M.A.A.A. 3, Ottawa 1. Good place kicking put Ottawas in on the M.A.A.A. 30, and Tubman kicked to the deadline just as the period ended. M.A.A.A. 3, Ottawa 2. They battled through a scoreless second quarter and the visitors were holding their one-point advantage at the interval. Tubman started the locals on their march to victory early in the third period when he ran 25 yards on a fake kick to the M.A.A.A. 35 yard mark and then kicked to the deadline. Ottawa 3, M.A.A.A. 3.

Ottawas gained on a kicking exchange that followed and Tubman ran a kick back 15 yard to get in scoring position again. His kick to the deadline put Ottawas in the lead. Ottawa 4, M.A.A.A. 3. Just as the period ended Tubman hoisted another over to Johnny Bennett who made a daring pass to Booth behind the line, but Stanyar nailed the latter for a rouge, making the score, Ottawa 5, M.A.A.A. 3. The final tally of the game came half-way through the last period when Kehoe booted a rouge to Sheppard. Ottawa 6, M.A.A.A. 3.

Harrison uncovered a thirty-yard dash following this point, but the subsequent play was stopped and Ottawas held the upper hand till the end.

CLUB BAG FOR BERT O. M'LEOD

Popular Defence Man of Petes Is Surprised By Friends.

Friends of Bert McLeod, popular Peterborough defence man, who is leaving this week with Joe Dwyer and Wilfrid Ranger, to report to the Kansas City Club of the American Hockey League surprised him on Saturday evening when they invaded his drug store and presented him with a handsome walrus club bag.

Hon. George N. Gordon was the spokesman of the occasion and made the presentation. He referred to Mr. McLeod's splendid services with the Peterborough hockey club, and said it was only natural that a player of his calibre would seek a wider sphere. On behalf of the gathering he wished Mr. McLeod every success.

The recipient expressed his sincere thanks not only for the fine gift, but for the sentiments it represented. He had always said that Peterborough was the finest town he had known, and his consolation in leaving it for a while was to be found in the fact that he expected to return to this city at the end of the season.

Epsom's new grandstand will be ready for the great English Derby on June 1. It will be the largest on any European racecourse, with accommodations for 20,000 spectators.

Wednesday.

Breakfast: Coddled egg, genuine wholwheat bread and butter, stewed figs (fresh or canned).

Lunch: Corn (canned), cooked spinach, cooked cucumbers.

Dinner: Roast beef, cooked oyster plant, cooked mustard greens, salad of shredded cabbage, stewed apricots.

Thursday.

Breakfast: Re-toasted breakfast food with cream, ripe or stewed peaches (unsweetened).

Lunch: Stuffed celery, non-starchy vegetable soup.

Dinner: Baked or broiled rabbit, cooked carrots and peas, McCoy salad, ice cream.

Friday.

Breakfast: French omelet on Melba toast, applesauce.

Lunch: Baked pumpkin, cooked okra, lettuce.

Dinner: Broiled sea bass, cooked chayotes, cooked spinach; salad of sliced tomatoes on lettuce; no dessert.

Saturday.

Lunch: Pint of buttermilk, 10 or 12 dates.

Dinner: Roast veal with Melba toast dressing, baked grated small carrots and turnips, cooked lettuce, salad of tender raw spinach leaves, gelatinized milk with prune juice and whipped cream (recipe given Sept. 17th).

*MUSHROOM SOUP: Place in one quart of cold water a half cup of diced celery, one diced carrot, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and one cup of canned mushrooms cut in small pieces. Place over fire and bring to boiling point. Keep tightly covered, and just below boiling point, for one hour. When ready to serve add a little boiling water if liquid has diminished from original quart, and a half pint to a pint of hot cream. Do not thicken with flour or cornstarch. Add a little salt at the table if desired.

STUFFED CELERY: Mix with peanut butter the desired quantities of minced ripe olives, chopped parsley, and enough of the pulp drained from canned tomatoes to make a smooth paste. Work ingredients together with fork and fill the grooves of crisp, well bleached celery stalks of uniform length. Place on ice for a little while before serving.

NOTE: Genuine wholewheat bread or muffins may be used in a limited quantity with proteids, starches, or stewed fruits by those in good health. This is an exception to the general rules regarding the combination of these foods.

SANTELL CREATES LIFELIKE ILLUSIONS

One director in Hollywood has an odd ambition. He wants to make people forget motion pictures—his own to be exact!

This strange person is Alfred Santell, who directs for First National and whose latest work is Colleen Moore's "Orchids and Ermine," the current feature at the Regent Theatre.

Santell, one of the youngest of the prominents behind the camera, wants people to see his pictures; but once inside the theatre, he wants to unfold before them a film story that will leave a magic spell, make them forget they are seeing motion pictures and make them feel they are watching a real life drama or comedy.

Creates Illusion.

"The director who can make people forget they are seeing just a motion picture has achieved a place in the world," says Santell. "That is why Warfield and Arliss are great on the stage. You lose consciousness of the fact that you are in a theatre. That's doing something worth while."

Likewise, it is Colleen Moore's ambition to make people forget she is an actress while she is on the screen. According to Santell, she has achieved this goal in "Orchids and Ermine," in which she plays the role of a little telephone operator at the lobby switchboard of a big New York hotel.

The supporting players in the picture, which John McCormick produced, include Jack Mulhall, Sam Hardy, Gwen Lee, Alma Bennett, Hedda Hopper, Kate Price, Jed Prouty, Emily Fitzroy, Caroline Snowden, Yola d'Avril and Brooks Benedict.

The first regular team of American college athletes to visit England was sent over by Yale in 1894. The team engaged in a dual track meet with Oxford and was defeated.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

DISTANCE

I know a house where two reside,
Two hearts a thousand miles divide.
And then I think of you today,
Perhaps a thousand miles away,
But when I think of you, my dear,
It seems that you are almost here.

This brings us near or takes us far;
Not where we are but how we are.
How long the miles would lengthen out
If I had any cause to doubt,
How many miles the miles would be
To you, if you had doubt of me.

Ah, there are other women, too,
Who stay at home, as I must do.
I pity them, but pity more
The weary woman waiting for
Not someone's step but someone's sign,
Some word to make her day divine.

And I would rather have you there,
A thousand miles, and have you care,
Than have you here, your vows forgot,
Not caring whether here or not.
Distance is not some mile that parts;
It is the space between two hearts.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE.

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Moore, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She runs away to visit Bobby, who is ill. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, intervenes in Mary's behalf. He invites her to live at his home.

"And so he will, Mary. There is a very delightful room in the second story of the house which a small boy like Robert will probably like. It leads into an old elm that has stood on the spot for ages. The house was almost built around it, and the window opens up into the tree."

"Hi, hi," chortled Robert, "I shall get astride my charger and gallop, gallop like this!" He rose on his knees and in his blue striped pajamas showed Mary and Arthur how he would gallop, were he on his favorite charger.

"Well," asked Arthur Graham, coming to her and taking her hand, "is it settled, then?"

He was so good. But what to do? She clasped her hands and her eyes pleaded with him.

"I can't, Mr. Graham. I can't."

"Why not, Mary?" He was a bit impatient.

"Your mother—" The grandness of Mrs. Mollie Graham had trickled through into even Mary's heedless young head.

"My mother's wishes are mine, Mary. I ask you to come in the name of the Grahams," with a flourish. "Which includes B. Jasper. They're both good sorts, Mary. You'll get on splendidly."

The luxury of it—Mary Sullivan having breakfast in bed.

To the indecision that wavered in her eyes, he resumed, "Where shall you go when you leave here, do you know?"

"There's Mrs. Tomlinson," and the mental picture of that good soul flashed into view.

"A woman with a family of her own, doubtlessly. Am I right?"

"Well—yes."

"And who else?"

"There's—Wally." There was Wally, of course. There was always Wally. He had been tucked into a crevice in her mind from which she removed him at will. He had offered her—various things, had Wally. Including help when she needed it. There was Wally.

"Who is Wally?" from Graham.

"He—" It was strangely difficult to speak of him. "He—he's a reporter for the Herald."

"Money?" Arthur continued his questioning.

"Well—no—I don't think so."

"Then how will he help?" triumphantly. "Why be a burden, my dear, when it is so much simpler to be a pleasure?"

And what was there to do? Arthur carried his point in great satisfaction, and with a few other careless gestures it was all arranged. Mary was to remain at the asylum until Bob was well enough to be moved, when both would be transferred to the Graham home, perched atop Garden City's loveliest bit of rolling verdure, transferred in Arthur's massive car, the car he had bought when a meat truck driven by Sullivan, Driver 37, had careened into and crushed the long-nosed tan roadster with the bronze Winged Victory.

Mary, transferred to the Graham home atop the gentle hill. Mary in the closest proximity to the charm that lay in Arthur's eyes in his rare moments of geniality—

CHAPTER XIII

The sudden dropping of Mollie Sumner Graham's jaw at the receipt of the news amused her son. It must be admitted that he had anticipated the moment of its telling with a keen relish that was foreign to his nature, heretofore.

"I don't understand," Mollie had murmured, and then, "Do I understand you right, Arthur?" Her hand went to her heart, which he affected not to notice.

"You understand aright, Mother. Mary and Robert Sullivan are coming to make their home with us for as long as they please—until the girl recovers from several shocks she's suffered lately. You've never heard anything like it, Mollie." He chose a cigarette from the little pile in the silver case at his elbow. "Why, mother, she—"

"I don't wish to listen to the tale of her escapades, Arthur," frigidly. "I will not have them in my home."

You could see the thickness of Arthur's jaw, which resembled that of Mollie, when he clamped down upon his teeth in that fashion.

"Mother—please."

"I said I will not have them in my home, Arthur!" The towering masses of Mollie's intricately fashioned white hair trembled.

The mild tones of old B. Jasper from the depths of the chair behind the library table. "You forget, Mollie, that this is Arthur's home, and mine also," he chided gently. He came from behind the chair, a dried outer skin of a man with almost nothing contained within. You felt if you poked him, there, the two sides of his body would touch. He, too, carried the Graham jaw, that became his face oddly. It seemed to pull at his cheeks, straining the yellow skin. It was as if two massive hands had crushed his face together, forcing the roundness of the cheek into the lower part of his face. And the heaviness of his jaw almost explained the reason for the head being carried as old B. Jasper carried it, always half turned about, as if listening to mysteries, and concocting others of his own.

"Eh, eh," he continued, wagging a playful forefinger at Mollie. "Mustn't think that, ever. Arthur's home, too, and mine."

Turning to Arthur, he snapped suddenly, and his face seemed more askew than ever, "What's all this, boy?"

Arthur explained, finishing with, "I think we owe it to them, Father."

"Well—well," B. Jasper said testily, "owe it—owe it—I owe no man anything. Well, Mollie—why can't the children come and play here for a while?"

"Jasper," cried Mollie, hysterically, for she felt that banded together as they were, her objections would be overpowered. "Jasper, do you realize what that means? What will people say?" For Mollie Sumner Graham, despite the pinnacle upon which she ruled, payed obeisance to a still higher force.

"Let them come, Mollie," said old Jasper, "let them come. Feed roses into their cheeks. Like the girl's spirit. You couldn't do that, eh, Mollie?" He poked her in the ribs and chuckled. Arthur pictured the massive bulk of Mollie strained into the space between a boulder and an untrimmed straggle of hedge, and laughed.

Mollie gave in with a wan grace of smile, and had to be led from the room by Arthur. Her heart. It pained. Arthur dropped a kiss on the towering whiteness and murmured, "yes, mother," while his spirit chuckled. Mary and Robert, then, were transferred hither in the long grey car.

The luxury, the gracious spaciousness of everything contained beneath the Graham roof filled Mary with the spirit of its beauty. There was a grace about the home, an ease, an easy smoothness. The wheels of the machine went round, but you never saw the workings of the machinery. It was unlike the Home, where the process of running the place and keeping its meticulous order was visible to every naked eye. Mary loved the pink rose, heavy with the dew of the garden, that the maid left on her tray in the morning. Nobody at the Graham home was down for breakfast. B. Jasper had his at the office, and Arthur and Mollie breakfasted in bed. Rather than disarrange the schedule of the household, Mary had hers in bed, too. The luxury of it. Mary Sullivan having breakfast in bed, with the heady fragrance of the pink rose held to her cheek. Mary Sullivan, who a few short days before had been pushing the dripping mop toward the furthest outposts of the whitewashed walls. There was something wrong with a scheme of things that could permit the pushing of mops with wrists that were built for the graceful wielding of a racquet.

There was a tennis court at the Graham home. It lay in the sun at the rear of the house, and since Mary's advent, had been re-marked. Young Robert hugged his knees and watched, as Mary, in a costume as green as the blades of grass upon which he sat, tossed small round balls into the blue air. She swooped, she swirled and took little running steps. She leaped and thrust forward and parried Arthur's clean, swift shots, and beat him handily.

DUNDEE PLANS RING ACTIVITY

Former Title Holder Announces Return—Walker Ready For Bout.

TO MEET McTIGUE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—"From now on boxing centres are going to see as much, if not more, of Johnny Dundee than they did from 1921 to 1924," is the announcement of the veteran of the ring, issued today. The Italian featherweight with the Scotch name says in deciding to keep on, that when he is convinced he can no longer stand up among the top-notchers then he will be the first to notify the press and the public he has retired.

Walker Ready

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press). — Mickey Walker finished training today for his ten round invasion of the light heavyweight ranks against Mike McTigue tomorrow night at the Coliseum. It will be the second meeting between the veteran Irishman and the present middleweight king, the decision being disputed the first time.

Tunney Will Fight.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Promoter Jimmy Mullen said today Gene Tunney has indicated his readiness to defend his title under Mullen's promotion at Soldiers' Field here some time after September 1 next year. It is understood, however, that Tex Rickard has the champion's promise to fight before then.

QUEEN'S WINS FROM VARSITY

Greater Experience of Tri-Color Squad Counts in Victory.

COMES FROM BEHIND.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—After leading Queen's by 6 to 3 into the fourth quarter of Saturday's senior Intercollegiate struggle at the local stadium, the Blue and White squad broke momentarily and this gave the Tricolor an opportunity to capitalize on their greater experience, and within the short space of ten plays, during which Varsity players touched the ball only three times and had possession but once, the tide of battle switched and Queen's jumped from the position of being 6-3 trailers to 11-6 leaders, and for the remainder of the game they held the locals score less and added one more point, thereby emerging from the thrilling contest with a 12 to 6 victory and being back in the Intercollegiate race in no uncertain manner.

Queen's made the most of their opportunities and therefore deserved the victory, but there is no doubt that the losers did not have an even share in the breaks of the game. For the first period they completely outplayers the Tricolor and in the second Queen's were held at bay, although they were in a decidedly dangerous position in the final minute, and the Blue and White were lucky to reach the interval without being scored upon. In the third period the Batstone-Warren combination got working and gradually Queen's were in a position from whence Batstone sent over a field goal.

Although the Kingston crew were steadily improving and the locals were slowing up a bit, it did not look particularly dangerous, but Warren rose to the occasion after taking a kick and after breaking away from three Blue and White tacklers raced 35 yards to Varsity's 40. Queen's made eight yards on two downs and on the third Howard crashed through for yards. The Blue and White line stiffened and on the third down broke through and blocked Batstone's attempt for a field goal.

Here occurred one of the breaks. Up until this year the rule has been that if a kick on the third down is blocked and does not cross the line or scrimmage it goes into the possession of the defending team. During the off season the rule was changed and the ball was ruled to be in play. Queen's recovered and after being held for two or more downs, Batstone made his third attempt to pick up three points. He just did it the ball practically tumbling over the cross bar for the points that knotted the score. Then came the deciding play of the game. Sinclair kicked off to Warren who returned the ball and Sinclair, surrounded by Queen's tacklers, fumbled. Handford grabbed the oval and raced for the goal line and when about to be tackled passed to Walker who just beat the Varsity pursuit over the line for a touchdown which was not converted. From the time that Warren took Sinclair's kick and made what proved to be the most effective play of the game as far as the scoring was concerned, there were but ten plays; five downs and a blocked kick, two downs and a field goal and then a kick off, return, fumble and recovery all combined on the one play.

A NICE FELLOW BUT SO SKINNY

That's what the girls say about you fellows that need a few more pounds of good solid flesh and have never tried McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

A New Jersey man was just as sad as you, but now he's got what the girls call a manly figure,—he needed 28 more pounds and thanks to McCoy's he got them in just a couple of months.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price. Are Parents People?

Article 5

By Judge J. F. McKinley, Judge of the Juvenile Court, Ottawa.

1—Yes. Parents have always been neglectful. The children of today have a great many more temptations than those of yesteryear. This makes the parents' responsibility all the greater—which responsibility they do not, apparently, realize.

2—Ninety per cent. of the delinquency which has come before me has been occasioned as a result of the disease, ignorance or neglect of parents.

3—Absolutely.

4—Everything.

5—Twelve years of age.

6—Yes.

By Professor Peter Sandiford, Ontario College of Education)

1—In many ways more favorably. There is an awakened sense of responsibility, but parents of today do not know how to meet their problems. In the past, the task was easy. The children simply were repressed.

2—The changing social situation is chiefly responsible for juvenile delinquency. We do not fit in to the rapidly changing environment as freely as we ought. Parents, if trained, could help the matter. If they can't help, then nobody can.

3—To a great extent, yes. But there are rights of the child as well as the rights of parents. The problem is to develop the child to fit society without infringing on the inalienable rights of childhood.

4—Yes, strongly. Children inherit traits and capacities. Parents should know about this and how traits and capacities are unfolded by education and training. Every parent should be a child psychologist.

5—Before, if possible. Seventy years ago Spencer pointed out that we trained people as if they were never to be the parents of children. The whole subject has been taboo, simply because sex was taboo.

6—Yes, the child must first be a healthy animal, but health is only one of the many topics that should be dealt with. In many ways physical health is much easier to secure than mental health, yet the latter is just as important.

CLASS PRESENTATION

Mrs. Pammett's Sunday School Pupils Honor Her Birthday.

The ladies of Mrs. Pammett's Bible Class of the Salvation Army met at her home on Friday night, October 28th, in honor of her birthday and to show their love for her by presenting her with a beautiful silver candleholder and three candles. The following address was read:

Dear Teacher,—It gives us great pleasure to meet here this evening on the occasion of your birthday. During the seven years that you have spent with us we have learned to love and respect you, and we have been greatly helped by your teaching and example. We feel that this is a small way in which to show our appreciation of your service, but we hope you will accept this little gift, not as a gift but as a token of the love and gratitude we feel for you. We pray that you will grow stronger in grace and health and that we may be of some blessing to you as we know you have been and will be to us.

Y.W.C.A. WEEK'S ACTIVITIES

Finance Campaign.—This week the Y.W.C.A. is appealing to the citizens of Peterborough for financial help to the extent of $1,500. The Y.W.C.A. as a community centre for the girls and women of Peterborough and district, promotes many branches of work for which there is no income, and it is for these activities and certain overhead expenses, new equipment, and repairs, that the Association appeals for subscriptions. All who would like to assist, even in a small way, are asked to leave their donations at the Y.W.C.A.

Life Saving.—Another Life-Saving Examination will be held Friday evening at 7.30 for all members who did not take the examinations last Saturday.

Swimming Meet—All swimmers are invited to special free Swimming Meet, Friday, 8.30. The pool will be open all week for pupils and others wishing to practise for the swimming exhibition. Admission 15c.

Gymnasium.—Babies, Juniors, and Seniors' Gymnasium Classes are in full swing. There is still room for new members in the various classes. Come and enjoy the exercises and games.

Basketry Class.—New class starting this Tuesday. All interested in learning to make pretty gifts will be welcome. Price, 6 lessons $2.00.

Elocution Lessons.—The Y.W.C.A. will take a limited number of pupils for elocution lessons. This is a splendid opportunity for juniors to learn new pieces for concerts and entertainments. Teacher, Mrs. S. Clifton Carruthers. Price, 6 lessons, Juniors $3.00; Seniors $4.00.

AROUND THE CITY

The Fire Department put in a busy time over the week-end. Saturday at 6.15 p.m. a call came from 321 London Street, where some burning leaves set fire to a fence.

On Sunday three alarms were turned in at 8.17, 10.01 and 11.33 a.m. Overheated chimneys and pipes were the cause, but very minor damage resulted.

This morning at 9.01½ the Corner Garage and Service Station service truck caught fire on the highway at Sherbrooke Street corner. Although there was some difficulty in extinguishing the blaze, the damage is not irreparable.

The Stoney Lake bus went out without passengers this morning. Evidently the hunters intend to stay in town for The Examiner's Party.

Bank clearings for October totalled $4,116,925.

Damage amounting to approximately $100 was the outcome of a roof fire at 197 Aylmer Street this afternoon, which has been ascribed to flying sparks from a passing train or an adjacent chimney. A general alarm was turned in and the outbreak was soon mastered.

BOY MUSICIANS WELL RECEIVED

Playing of Dovercourt Band Delights Audience at S. A. Temple.

GOOD PROGRAM.

Dovercourt Boys' Band of Toronto lived up to advance notices in its concert given in the Salvation Army Temple on Saturday night. The members showed careful training, both as individuals and as a band, playing their various numbers in splendid fashion. The trios and quartettes were also good, the instruments blending nicely, while the boys showed that they could sing as well when they joined in the chorus of a song by Sergt.-Major Watson.

His Worship Mayor Holloway acted as chairman, filling the duties of that office with humor as well as with dignity. He remarked on the pleasure it gave him to see such young musicians as comprised both the Dovercourt and Peterborough bands, beginning their musical training at an early age, and welcomed the boys to Peterborough. He complimented the leaders on their welding together the boys into competent musical organizations.

John I. Allen had what he considered an unnecessary task that of introducing the Mayor. He also welcomed the visitors to Peterborough and spoke on the appreciation of the citizens for the work of the Salvation Army. As a member of the Kiwanis Club he spoke of the similarity of their work and promised full co-operation.

Commandant Frank Ham was in charge of the program which consisted of selections of both bands, instrumentals, vocal solos, readings, and a Bible reading. The numbers were:

Massed Bands — United March, "Belgium."

Instrumental quartette — "Beauties of England."

Selection—"Our Saviour's Praise," Dovercourt Band.

Reading—Sergt.-Major Watson.

March—"Shields," Peterboro Y. P. Band.

Trio—"Tranquility," A. Key, J. Gooch, A. Cutler.

Pianoforte solo—H. Hastings.

Selection—"War Songs," Dovercourt Band.

Vocal solo—Sergt.-Major Watson.

March—"Cadet," Peterboro Y. P. Band.

Vocal solo—Mrs. Mendell Braund.

Instrumental quartette — "Village Chimes."

Reading—Sergt.-Major Watson.

Instrumental quartette—"Simeon."

Selection—"Hosanna" Dovercourt Band.

At the conclusion of the programme a vote of thanks to the Mayor and others was moved by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, who was welcomed to the church circles of the city by the Salvationists with hearty applause.

MISSING GIRL FOUND IN CAFE

Sixteen Year Old Hamilton Girl Drugged—Several Arrests.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., October 31.—Missing since Oct. 13 from her home in Hamilton, a girl under 16 years of age was located on Saturday night in the Star cafe in Port Colborne, in a drugged condition, from which she could not be aroused for five hours. Two Chinamen, William Len, 34 years and Wong Meehen, 37 years, were placed under arrest on nominal charges. The proprietor of the cafe Wong Chan, escaped, and there is a warrant out for his arrest. The girl had lost all sense of time, and she did not know what part of the country she was living in. She was found by her father and Chief Davis of the Port Colborne police.

Also under arrest in connection with the case are Fred Cootes, 41 Teasdale street Hamilton, and his wife, who has been known as Mrs. Olga, and Babe Bennett, with whom the girl has been travelling. They were registered under different names at various hotels and houses. They were traced to Brantford, Kitchener, Guelph, Toronto, St. Catharines and to Port Colborne where the girl has been at the Star cafe for the past ten days. Mrs. Cootes was arrested in Port Colborne also and is being held in jail on a vagrancy charge.

Cootes was arrested in Hamilton and is being held on a similar charge The matter was taken up last night by the Attorney-General's Department and all parties arrested will appear in the police court Monday morning.

A description of the missing girl, who is small for her age, and had never been away from her home before, had been broadcast by radio and advertised in the newspapers since her disappearance on October 13. She was traced finally by the St. Catharines police who caught the number of a car and learned that it belonged to Fred Cootes of Hamilton. The girl is attended by Dr. A. A. Thompson of Port Colborne, and was taken to the Welland County Shelter.

Swims and Runs, Nervous Man Gains 9 Lbs.

"I swim and run much better now than I ever could, due to Vinol. Nervousness is gone, and I gained 9 pounds."—Alfred Maio.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. OMISSION ART TO BE LEARNED SAYS SPEAKER

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Brings Interesting Message To Rotary Club.

NEW MEMBERS.

R. F. Downey and Howard Bonner Welcomed at To-day's Meeting.

Rotarians were strongly urged by Rev. Joseph H. Sutcliffe, M.A., pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, at their weekly luncheon today to develop the art of omission, the speaker declaring that this art was necessary not only in their physical life, but in the realm of the mind and in their moral life!

At today's meeting Rotarian J. H. Seels, chairman of the membership committee, introduced two new Rotarians, R. F. Downey and Howard Bonner, who were given a hearty reception.

President A. L. Killaly referred appreciatively to the services at the Salvation Army Temple which were attended by members of the Rotary Club. He also announced that Rotarian Fred L. Roy and other members of the Club were attending the meeting of the Lindsay Club today and that Rotarian Roy was to address that club in regard to the Boys' Camp.

Among the visitors today was Rotarian James Boxall of Lindsay, who briefly addressed the club.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, the speaker of the day, was introduced by Rotarian Gordon S. Matthews.

Mr. Sutcliffe brought to the members the necessity of cultivating the art of omission. It was neccessary, he pointed out, to omit things in one's physical life and those who failed to do so did not succeed as they should. Too many athletes, for example, did their best work at the table and in the case of nearly every person there were foods that should not be eaten.

In the realm of the mind similar omissions were necessary. The speaker deprecated the time that was wasted reading what was trivial and vulgar, while at the same time the shelves of the libraries were packed with the finest literature that was allowed to remain on the shelves. Mr. Sutcliffe maintained that much of what people read might be omitted in order to leave time for better things.

So, too, in the moral life, the art of omission should be developed. Men and women could not get what they should out of life and be what they should be until they learned to discard the vulgar and the unimportant and brought into their lives something real and good. The science of omission could be cultivated most successfully by substituting things worth while for those that degraded.

President Killaly extended the thanks of the club to the speaker for his inspiring address.

It was announced that next week's meeting would be held on Tuesday and that the District Governor would visit the local club on November 14th.

SAILORS ADVANCE.

Punitive Expedition Has Established Base in Solomon Sands.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 31. — United Press. — A radio message from the Solomon Islands, states that the punitive expedition landed by the Cruiser Adelaide, has advanced ten miles into the interior and has established a base three thousand feet above the sea level in a deserted village whoch has been evacuated by the disaffected natives. Military operations have been delayed by the nature of the country consiting of precipitous hills, covered by almost impenetrable jungle.

14 GIRLS PASS RESCUE TESTS

cision of The Examiner cannot be announced. The questions, selected from more than forty set out by the Society, were as follows:

1—Is it necessary to remove your garments before attempting a rescue? If so, what class of garment?

2—Describe the thorax or chest. What does it contain?

3—Describe the heart—its position, shape, structure, etc.

4—What is the first thing to do when a drowning person is brought to shore?

5—Give reasons for not applying fluids, such as brandy, wine, etc., to an inanimate person.

After taking the written examination, the following girls passed the practical tests: Bertha Edmonson, Georgina Lackey, Anna Simpson, Margaret Rogers, Mary Westbye, Hazel Bradley, Jean Maconomy, Barbara Foster, Dorothy Foster, and Verna Huffman. They were required to demonstrate, on land, the release methods used in gaining control of a drowning person, resuscitation methods, promoting circulation, and then they took a distance swimmng test, followed by exemplification of the release systems in the deepest water. These releases are: When the rescuer's hands are grasped; when the rescuer's neck is grasped; and when the rescuer's body is grasped ;or when the victim clasps the rescuer's arms and body. In teaching these practical methods alone the society is doing a splendid work, because, as is pointed out in the manual, many a gallant life has been lost in the attempt to rescue a drowning person, through ignorance of the proper approach and of the way to deal with a struggling person in the water.

In addition, the candidates brought up an iron weight from the bottom of the pool and demonstrated towing and carrying.

Proficiency.

Ruby Milburn and Ruby Tuck passed their proficiency tests in lifesaving, although they took their first swimmng lesson only last spring. The three methods of release in the water, towing and distance swimming were among the accomplishments they demonstrated on Saturday, to the satisfaction of The Examiner. Rev. Mr. Paterson took occasion to congratulate these girls upon their splendid advancement, and President Isaac P. McNabb, of the Kiwanis Club, told the press that they will be guests of the club at the next Ladies' Night.

ROWDY CONDUCT IS NOT ALLOWED

Chief of Police Issues Annual Hallowe'en Warning To Young People.

Only good decent fun may be indulged in by the boys and girls tonight, said Chief Constable Samuel Newhall to The Examiner this morning. If there is any rowdyism, damage to property, or placing of obstacles on the streets or sidewalks, the offenders will be immediately put in the lock-up by the police.

Chief Newhall also asks that all motorists refrain from parking their cars on George street between 7.30 and 9.30 p.m. to-night in order to give the public a chance to see the parade. Automobiles will not be allowed to park more than two deep in the direction the traffic runs at the intersections along George street, so there will be a drive way in case of fire or accident.

Colorful Scenes And Happy Crowds at Hallowe'en Frolic

Threatening Rain Showers Fail to Put Damper on Spirits of Masqueraders and Spectators Alike as Gay Throng Assembles at Armouries.

CHARACTERS FROM EVERY WALK IN LIFE TAKE PART IN COSTUMED PROCESSION

The general response to The Examiner Hallowe'en Frolic was such as to exceed the highest expectations of its most sanguine sponsors. Not only did the citizens turn out en masse, but hundreds upon hundreds appeared in costume. Early in the evening dense throngs paraded the streets. Shortly before 8 o'clock a shower of rain threatened to put a partial damper on the festivities. It was hard, however, for even the skies to weep when such a scene of jollity was being enacted below, and it was not long before the elements brightened up and entered into the spirit of the occasion.

At the appointed time there was assembled in the Armouries such a riot of color as has never before been seen in all the surrounding district. Demure little Puritan maidens, austere parsons, incongruously mated couples, bold, bad, blustering buccaneers, swanky knights of bygone ages, haughty demoiselles, smiling maidens from far-off Araby, villains, crooks, knaves, movie people, characters from out the weekly comic strips, familiar figures from Mother Hubabrd's Fables, boisterous clowns, rollicking tars from the deep blue sea, swarthy spantards, negro, Christian, Tartar — all were there, mingling in carefree abandon into a confused, whirling, swirling medley of joyous humanity.

Spectators Line Streets.

And out of chaos came order; everyone was assigned to his particular class and section ,and after cheers had been given for The Examiner and Mr. Glover, marching orders were vociferously shouted from throats that were destined to be hoarse and ragged before that memorable night had come to its glorious conclusion. Out on to the pavement swent that motley aggregation; through streets lined with countless numbers of eager, excited, gesticulating, shouting, shrieking, applauding, spectators, marched the gaily-costumed contingents.

By a circuitous route the triumphant procession reached George Street, to be greeted by a tremendous concourse of people who swayed and eddyed along the line of march that the judges in front of The Examiner office were hard put to it to get a clear vision of the parade. As it would have been a worse than hopeless task to make a proper and satisfactery selection of winning persons. For this reason, then, it was decided to judge only the floats and club entries at that particular time and to finish the individual judging when, with a final grand flourish, the fantastically accoutred ensemble wound up in the spacious interior of the rink.

Lead the Parade.

Leading the parade were an animated couple impersonating Si Perkins and his wife, in the persons of Harry Dugan and Fred Scates respectively. As burlesque actors they certainly deserve a liberal helping of jelly beans when the special awards are passed out.

The Dinky-Doo Band on Cooney & Jopling's float was a source of great amusement ,and many and weird were the raucous strains of so-called music disseminated from the various musical instruments, most of which seemed to be of ancient vintage. Special renditions of popular songs were broadcasted with great gusto by a battery of healthy throats. It is remarkable how hard it is to recognize a familiar strain when the harmony has been strained out of it.

A pageant of history was represented by a small body of horsemen, including a splendid representation of an Indian chief by N. Clark. A cowboy, farmers, and a clown portrayed the serious and the light side of life. Half-way down the parade was the Machine Gun Pipe Band.

Winning Lodge.

The winning lodge or society was the Hawaiian Glee Club. This sponsored by the Canadian Department Stores, was a very striking display and adjudged the best. Special mention must be made of the Knights of Columbus, who had 40 members in their entry. The Kiwanis were fairly well represented, but owing to an unforseen complication in their plans, they weren't quite so good as had been hoped.

Besides the band of the Peterboro Rangers, the All Saints' Athletic Association were well to the fore with their imported band of more or less highly trained musicians from Birdeye Centre. Yes ,the redoubtable Pigskin Peters was on deck in all his glory.

The rink presented a panorama of ingenious and varied costumes rang-

525 Patches On Suit Of Patchwork Man

One costume, which was not mentioned, but is deserving of special notice, was that worn by the Patchwork man G. Groombridge, bearing the clever caption, "Don't mind me, I'm not a patch on you." Interviewed, Mr. Groombridge disclosed the fact that his, shall we call it 'Joseph's Coat,' was made of 525 patches, and entailed a year's spare time work.

DYNAMITE USED IN CELEBRATION

Several Explosions in Brockville—Shootings in Chicago.

OIL TANKS ON FIRE.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 1 (CP).—Several explosions of dynamite figured in Hallowe'en celebrations last night, one of them being heavy enough to shake part of the town and shatter windows. Dynamite was placed under the stone bridge which carries the main line of the Canadian National railways, but did only slight damage.

SHOOTINGS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (CP).—Elaborate plans for safe and sane Hallowe'en in Chicago went askew last night. Two boys and a woman were shot, a policeman was stabbed, street car service was interrupted, and the fire department was overwhelmed with false alarms. A policeman wounded the woman and a boy slightly after the woman stabbed him, inflicting a minor wound. The other boy shot himself in the foot.

FIRE AT NEW ROCHELLE

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., Nov. 1.—(AP).—Several gasoline reservoirs, each containing 40,000 gallons, exploded and caught fire here last night. The blast of the first tank threw burning oil in all directions and shattered windows, throughout the vicinity. The fire was rapidly communicated to other tanks, owned by the Pure Oil and the Standard Oil Companies.

Although the cause of the first explosion was not definitely learned, police said they believed it might have been the result of a Hallowe'en prank by small boys.

LATEST STORM REPORTS SHOW SEVENTY LOST

Seventeen Sailing Vessels Are Posted at Lloyds as Casualties.

UNUSUAL VIOLENCE.

Aeroplanes Search Irish Coast For Bodies of Fishermen.

LONDON, Nov. 1st (AP).—A moving story of the perils of those seeking their livelihood on the deep, a story whose pathos is heightened by the attendant circumstances of Irish superstition was told yesterday in connection with the disaster which overtook with terrible suddenness the Irish fishermen of the west coast in the gale of Friday night.

The storm was of unusual violence. It swept the British Isles and took all told, by land and sea, some sixty or seventy lives. The figures are not yet available, as reports of widespread catastrophes are arriving piecemeal, and it may be days before all is known.

No fewer than 17 ships are posted at Lloyds as casualties, and it is feared that the tale of these shipping losses is still incomplete.

But all the suffering endured in England pales before the horror of the disaster which befel the west coast Irish fishermen, whose priests were yesterday pronouncing "conditional absolution" for those who would never return to their sorrowing families. Aeroplanes were engaged in the mournful task of searching the coasts of Galway and Mayo for the bodies of those who fell victims to the angry seas.

About 45 of those ill fated fishermen, who had started out on a fine night and were having good catches, were suddenly overwhelmed by the gale, driven on the rocks and dashed to death in sight of their homes and their waiting wives and children watching from the shore.

Fleets Overtaken.

Three separate fleets of boats were thus overtaken and more than a hundred women and children lost husbands or fathers. Many of the boats were only of tarred canvas, propelled by oars and they were helpless against the storm. The fishermen of Connemare are too poor to have better boats.

Superstitious persons in the neighborhood are talking of a wraith ship which one night last week followed a fishing boat from Inishbafin, Galway, which refused to answer to any hail. But it remained by the boat all night. This the crew interpreted as a warning of a coming disaster and declined to go out again.

If Superstitions Talk.

Other stories are current, of similar ghostly warnings. An actual happening was that Father Quinn, parish priest of Lackan, one of the stricken villages, got warning of the coming storm on his radio set, and rushed to the shore to warn the fishermen. But it was too late.

Many of the poor fishermen sacrificed their lives in attempts to save their nets, and heart-rending tales are told of incidents in the fishermen's ninety-minute fight for life with the pitiless winds and seas.

Another place which suffered heavily in the gale was Fleetwood. But here the loss of life was far less serious. This Lancashire town was marooned by the gale and floods. Twelve hundred of its houses were damaged; all business was at a standstill. It was deprived of light owing to the flooding of the electric works, and only maintained food supplies with difficulty. Hundreds of poor people in the low-lying districts were rendered homeless and were obliged to take refuge in public institutions. Six persons lost their lives here.

No trains have been able to reach within four miles of the town. No tram or omnibus can navigate the streets; boats are the only means of transport, and the flood waters are not expected to subside for many days.

CHANDOS VETERAN LIVES IN CALGARY

John Williams Only Man Who Helped Build Church Still Alive.

Some while ago The Examiner published an account of the Chandos Church observing its Jubilee, in which the name of Mr. John Williams, a resident of the community at the time the church was built, is mentioned.

In a letter received by the Examiner from Mr. Williams, he draws attention to the fact that all others mentioned in the article have since died with the exception of himself.

He is living at present in Calgary and has been a subscriber to The Examiner for a great many years, and to assure any old friends in his old home that he is all right in health. He states that he is able to run a one-man street car in Calgary.

We know that friends in his old home community will be glad to hear from him in this manner.

Porter Hero of New York Hospital Fire Is Later Identified As a Pyromaniac

NEW YORK, November 1 (Canadian Press). — A porter who at first posed as the hero of a fire that yesterday destroyed one of the buildings of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, endangering the lives of 600 patients, later was identified as a pyromaniac, and arrested on a charge of arson.

At the height of the blaze, while a crowd surged outside the police barriers, a five and a half pound daughter was born to Mrs. Mary Conger, a patient in the maternity ward, and a man in the crowd dropped dead from the excitement of watching the fire.

Ernest Rhodes, who was said to have confessed setting the blaze, was described by Fire Marshal Brophy as a pyromaniac, who had been arrested ten years ago for arson and acquitted. District Attorney Dodd, then a city magistrate, recalled having held the man for the grand jury.

The fire was confined to a detached building of the hospital group in which the internes are quartered. When flames and smoke were seen darting from its roof, nurses and internes gathered to calm a partial panic among patients in other buildings. There was a general alarm, but the fire was under control in less than an hour.

Seventy-eight of the 600 patients were taken from the upper floors to the ground floor, ready for instant removal. Those able to walk were led from the wards; some, more seriously ill, were wheeled out in cots.

1927 BUILDING ALMOST DOUBLES TOTAL CONSTRUCTION LAST YEAR

First Ten Months This Year Show Total of Almost $600,000

OCTOBER GOOD MONTH

Twenty-eight Permits Issued Include Five Dwellings and Ten Garages

Peterborough's building permits for the first ten months of 1927, have almost doubled those for the same period last year. All over the city houses have been erected this summer and in many cases they were occupied before they were entirely finished.

In October the amount of building permits issued by the City Engineer shows a considerable decrease from the same month a year ago, for in October, 1926, the Westclox Company got a permit to build an addition to its building.

Last month twenty-eight permits were issued valued at $22,335.00, and the total value so far this year is $590,285.00. In October, 1926 there were twenty-six permits issued, valued at $74,394.00, and the total amount for the year then was $299,302.00.

Permits were issued during the month for ten garages amounting to $3,590.00, five dwellings valued at $14,400.00 ,and thirteen miscellaneous permits involving the sum of $1,345.

C. H. Huffman & Sons are erecting a fine new dwelling on Hunter street, at an estimated cost of $6,000. It will be two storey, eight rooms, and a bath room, with basswood interior finish and hardwood floors, heated with hot water and will be finished about April 1st.

R. C. Braund is having two houses built for him by W. J. Braund, on Chamberlain street. These will be one storey wooden structures, at an estimated cost of $1300 each.

S. H. Abott is building a house at 416 Roger street, at an estimated cost of $2,500. This home will be completed about the first of the year, and will be a two storey six room building with a pine trim interior finish, and brick veneer and stucco outside and heated with hot air.

W. J. Koster is erecting a service station on Aylmer street between Murray and Brock, at an estimated cost of $1500. It will be completed about January 1st.

Harold Dunford is building a new garage on Brock street to take the place of the one that was burned this summer.

F. Rowan is altering H. Dulmage's home, at 16 Benson avenue, and making a duplex house out of it.

At the first of the month the Peterboro Bus Lines took over the building occupied by Stanley Blewett on Hunter street, and A. A. McIntyre altered it so that the large busses could be stored there.

Not Resigned Yet Says Hon. Dunning

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press.)— "I have not resigned yet," laughingly declared Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canalas, when questioned last evening in respect to a published rumour that he might resign his portfolio in the King government on the question of Canadian National Railway expenditures. "There is nothing in the report," added Mr. Dunning.

FIRE DESTROYS VILLAGE CENTRE

Damage to Gowanda Business Block Is Estimated at $250,000.

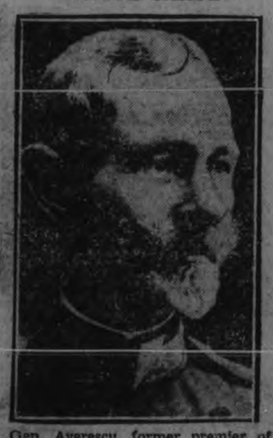
FIREMEN OVERCOME.

GOWANDA, N.Y. Nov. 1 (CP).—Fire destroyed the principal business block of this village, burning over the section from Cattaraugus Creek bridge southwest to the Town Hall and the jail, last night. The loss is estimated at $250,000. Several firemen were overcome during the four-hour fight. Ralph Lebaron of South Dayton and another man from the same village being reported in a serious condition.

COMMITS SUICIDE.

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—John Fairbank, aged twenty-six years, of Petrolia, was found dead today, with a bullet wound in his head, presumably self inflicted. He was a son of the late C. O. Fairbank and one of a family of pioneer oil operators in Lambton County. A wife and child survive. It is believed Fairbank committed suicide in a fit of despondency.

FAVORS CAROL



Gen. Averescu, former premier of Rumania, is said to be among those who favor the plan to place former Crown Prince Carol on the throne.

FIRE DESTROYS GAS RESERVOIRS

Believed Explosion Caused By Hallowe'en Prank of Small Boys.

DISTRICT ENDANGERED.

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Several gasoline reservoirs, each containing 40,000 gallons, exploded and caught fire here last night. The blast of the first tank threw burning oil in all directions and shattered windows, throughout the vicinity. The fire was rapidly communicated to other tanks, owned by the Pure Oil and the Standard Oil Companies.

Although the cause of the first explosion was not definitely learned, police said they believed it might have been the result of a Hallowe'en prank by small boys.

The local fire department found itself helpless to control the flames as additional reservoirs exploded at intervals, spreading the fire. Calls for help were sent to the fire departments of the neighboring towns of Mount Vernon and Larchmont.

Melted Glass.

Occupants of an apartment house adjacent to the oil storage yard were driven out, while the intense heat from the burning gasoline and petroleum melted glass in the windows. Three two-story office buildings of the oil companies were destroyed.

Several fashionable residences in the neighborhood, including that occupied by the widow and children of the late Gales Phillips, artist, were endangered.

Police based their theory that the fire might have been ignited by boys upon the fact that several were known to have been exploding fire crackers in the vicinity of the tank yard shortly before the first blast.

A check was being made by police of boys in the neighborhood in the fear that one or more might have been caught in the explosion. None has been reported missing, however, and it is not known whether any one was killed or injured.

TWO INMATES ARE COMMITTED

Mrs. Calberry and James Moore To Go To Ontario Hospitals.

BOTH INSANE.

Magistrate O. A. Langley yesterday afternoon found Mrs. Francis Calberry insane from the evidence submitted to him and on the reports of Dr. Smith and Dr. Morgan. He ordered that she be kept at the Jail until the proper papers were put through to allow her entry into a place where she will be looked after.

This morning His Worship found James Moore insane and committed him to the county jail until such time as he could be removed to the asylum. His Worship wanted to send him to the House of Refuge but County Clerk E. M. Elliott objected, as he considered after the assault last Friday that the House of Refuge was no place for Moore. Mixed Record, the aged inmate Moore assaulted, is reported to be in a very serious condition and not expected to live. Ex-Superintendent John Maize gave evidence this morning.

James Moore was born in the Township of Otonabee and was committed from the Township of Chandos in 1917. He was then supposed to be 17 years old. His father is dead and his mother is an inmate of Mimico. On several occasions, Mr. Maize said, he attempted to choke inmates and once he tried to choke the witness himself.

CUSTOMS RETURNS OVER MILLION MARK

Collections in the First Seven Months of Fiscal Year Highest Yet.

Customs returns for the Port of Peterborough for the first seven months of this fiscal year have gone over the million dollar mark. This is the largest in the history of the port.

In October the amount collected was $156,020.44, an increase of $43,-899.24 over the same month in 1926 when it was $112,481.20. The total amount collected for the first seven months of this fiscal year is $1,095,-924.80.

Northern Ireland has 50,000 unemployed, which is 20,000 less than a year ago.

LIQUOR REVENUE FALLING SHORT OF MARK EXPECTED BY CABINET

Council Receives Figures on Provincial Financial Standing.

FINAL MEETING.

Succession Duties Branch Sets New Record For Revenue Returns.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Ministers of the Ferguson Government went into Council yesterday afternoon at three o'clock for the last time during the Provincial fiscal year 1926-27, for a final check-up of the year's financial standing.

From what can be learned, it is anticipated that the surplus for the year will be in the neighborhood of $150,000, final figures showing that departmental expenses have not been kept down to the figures set earlier, in spite of vigilance.

Liquor revenues also have not come up to the anticipated mark, but, on the other hand, the Successions Duties Branch has rolled up a revenue higher "by many thousands," according to an official, than was ever achieved before.

Last year, which was also a high one, the revenue in this branch totalled over $8,700,000, and this year it is expected the total will be in the neighborhood of ten millions. This is largely owing to improved valuation of estates and better collection methods.

Information Wanted.

Ministers yesterday have had department chiefs in the various branches literally "on the run" supplying them with last minute statements for use at the Cabinet meeting.

In addition to final checking up of revenues and expenses the council also passed the last batch of accountable warrants issued for the year.

Books of the province closed at five o'clock yesterday for receipts for the fiscal year but remain open another fortnight for payment of moneys under acts passed by the House. It will be some weeks, therefore, before an accurate statement of Provincial finances can be issued.

Aviators At Paris Spend Quiet Holiday

PARIS, Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Ruth Elder slipped further out of the Parisian limelight yesterday by spending the All Souls holiday resting and doing a little sightseeing.

On her infrequent excursions from her hotel the aviatrix gets no more notice than is ordinarily given to an extremely well dressed and attractive young woman.

The sole official event on the programme of the girl, the French have nicknamed the "Happy Midinette" was a visit with her co-pilot, George Haldeman, to the Sarbonne radio institute, where the two broadcast greetings to the French republic. They spent a little time looking over the city's points of interest and the rest of the time luxuriously doing nothing, or answering some of the several hundred letters and telegrams that have piled up since their arrival.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED IN BROOKS' APPEAL

Edward Bayly Urges Upholding of Five Year Term.

OPPOSE RETRIAL.

Claims That Brooks' Every Action Indicated His Guilt.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1st.—Charging that every move made by Bartlett J. Brooks was "shrouded in subterfuge" and indicative of "guilt and fear," Edward Bayly, K.C., deputy attorney-general for Ontario, yesterday afternoon concluded his argument before the supreme court of Canada, in opposition to the appeal of J. F. Hellmuth for a retrial for Brooks. Judgment was reserved at the close of the hearing.

Mr. Bayly reviewed the actions of the 21-year-old Toronto youth, now under sentence of five years in prison for attempting to procure an illegal operation on the late Ruth Dembner, throughout the day's preceding and following the death of his fiancee and contended vigorously that they were incompatible with the theory advanced by the defense, that Brooks had been ignorant of the girl's condition or of the nature of the operation performed upon her.

He stressed the circumstances under which Miss Dembner had been taken to Strathcona hospital by Brooks, under a pretense of going to Muskoka.

"Is such subterfuge compatible with an innocent operation?" he demanded, "especially when she called herself Mrs. Brooks throughout.

"I don't think any jury on earth could view Brooks' actions before or after, as innocent. He smuggled her into the hospital and hustled her from the hospital to a Muskoka sanatorium —his every act indicates guilt and fear."

Make Case Stronger.

"Did Brooks not purport to take the girl to Muskoka on the advice of Dr. Withrow?" asked Mr. Justice Smith.

"Dr. Withrow consented to it, but did not advise it," Mr. Bayly rejoined.

"Dr. Withrow says he advised against it," Justice Newcombe interposed.

"Then that makes the case against Brooks stronger," the crown representative resumed. Miss Dembner herself did not wish to leave the hospital; she said they would have to take her on a stretcher, and she asked the nurse several times 'do I have to go?'" Brooks coerced her into going away from the hospital, away from the scene of guilt, without informing her parents.

"After the girl's death, and knowing she was dead, Brooks telephoned to her mother, saying she was well. Why should he do that, if she died after an innocent operation? Why should he tell his father of his relations with the girl if she died after an innocent operation? Everything fits in with an illegal operation, and nothing fits in with an innocent operation."

Mr. Bayly contended that mis-direction or non-direction of the jury by a trial judge did not in itself constitute grounds for appeal, unless there was evidence that this had influenced the verdict, or had caused injury.

The appeal is based on the contention that Mr. Justice Logie, the trial judge, erred by misdirection and non-direction of the jury on certain points.

Mr. Justice Smith enquired whether it was not possible—as argued by the defense, that Brooks had been unaware of his fiancee's condition until after the first alleged operation had been performed by Dr. O. J. C. Withrow. The latter is now serving a seven year penitentiary term on the same conviction that registered against Brooks.

"Everything connected with this offense took place after Miss Dembner had learned of her condition—learned of it either from Dr. Withrow or in some other manner," Mr. Bayly rejoined, "Therefore the question whether the girl was aware of her condition previously, is immaterial. I submit that the judge need not have touched on it, in this case, he did touch upon it, and delivered, I submit, a very fair charge. He pointed out that the case against Brooks was weak."

SEVEN HOUSES ARE DESTROYED

Fire Causes Loss of $25,000 in Point Anne Today.

FAMILIES HOMELESS.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 1 (CP).—Seven houses in the village of Point Anne, four miles from this city, were totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The places burnt include the store owned by Leo Roluf, two houses owned by Whitford McDonald, and one each owned by Jack Cornell, Ed. Fraser, Fred Rogers, and Wesley Stuart. Most of the contents of each house were saved but having no fire protection the property burned to the ground. The loss is estimated at $25,000 and is partly covered by insurance.

The fire started at two this morning in the barn owned by Jack Cornell. Seven families are homeless with their household effects sitting on the road.

Mexico City and Pueblo, Mexico, have just been connected by long-distance telephone service.

Diamonds mined in South Africa last year had a total weight of 3,217,966 carats.

OLD HOME WEEK IS PROPOSED TO CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL

Members Also Asked Regarding Concessions For Hockey Rink.

MANY APPEALS.

Reeve Reproves One Citizen For Manner of Addressing Council—Regular Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 1. — While it is usual for the council to hold their meetings on the first Monday of each month, next Monday being Thanksgiving day, the council met last night in their chambers in the Library Building. The Mayor and all the council were present.

While reading the record of the business of the previous meeting the clerk referred to a street as "Thirty Foot Lane, commonly known as Petticoat Lane." This occasioned considerable laughter among the councillors and citizens present, and the clerk was obliged to defend himself. "There are at least three thirty-foot lanes," he said. "You ought to give them names that are proper." This will, no doubt, be done in the near future.

Three letters were read from the Workmen's compensation board, referring to the case of G. F. Hubble. They stated that the amount of $19.79 had been granted Hubble and that the board had not yet received either a cheque from the town or a receipt from Hubble showing that he had received the money. The legality of Hubble's claim against the town has been a matter of some discussion at recent meetings of the council and it was decided to place the case in the hands of the town solicitor since the compensation board threaten action if the amount is not paid immediately.

The item re land sold to Mrs. Hollings at the back of her lot and on on which she wishes certain alterations made where town property is now on her ground was referred to the road and bridge committee.

A letter from Cobourg Old Boys Association and bearing the signature of F. P. Webb was read. It detailed the publication of a local historical book which would retail at five dollars the copy, and would contain five hundred pages of interesting facts of the earliest history of the settlement of the county. Before the book could be published it was necessary for a certain deposit to be made with the publishers. In order to do this the towns and villages of the county were being asked to take certain numbers of the books at the reduced price of four dollars each. Campbellford was asked to take fifty. With only the small amount of information furnished in the letter it was considered unbusiness like to subscribe and the matter was laid on the table. There is no doubt but that the book will be

Military Rumors Said Unfounded

VIENNA, November 1 (Canadian Press). — Various reports of a revolution in Rumania have been found on strict investigation to be mere verbal rumors afloat by elements inimical to Rumania. An unimpeachable source, two travellers who returned this evening from Rumania, reports that while there is undoubtedly an atmosphere of uneasiness in Rumania, there are no disturbances whatsoever in the country.

TWO WITNESSES HEARD FIRST DAY

Royal Fisheries Commission Opens Session at Canso, Nova Scotia.

CANSO, N.S., Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press.)— Two outstanding witnesses gave evidence before the Royal Fisheries Commission on its first day of sitting here. Moses N. Nickerson, Clarks Harbour, placed before the Commission a number of suggestions designed to improve the fisheries of the Maritime Provinces and the lot of the inshore fishermen. H. F. Robinson, manager of the Canso branch of the Maritime Fish Corporation, Limited, appeared to answer some criticisms which have been directed to his company by fishermen in the course of evidence already taken. At the conclusion of his statement Mr. Robinson was subjected to a brief questioning by the Commissioners.

Main Inquiry Reserved.

The main inquiry into the affairs of the Maritime Fish Corporation, however, is reserved until a later date. It will probably take place when the Commission meets in Halifax during the month of December.

One of Mr. Robinson's replies brought a shout from the audience, consisting largely of fishermen which filled the meeting hall. "In your experience which fish are in better condition when landed, shore fish or trawler fish?" asked W. J. Ernst, M. P., who has been present at all meetings since the Commission entered Nova Scotia. Mr. Robinson considered for a moment. "I would say trawler fish," he answered. There was a hoot from the audience and some one called "Put him out." The interruption was good-natured, however, and laster for only a moment.

Mr. Robinson dealt particularly with two points in his statement to the Commission. He denied absolutely that the Maritime Fish Corporation Limited, even shipped fish or fish products of inferior quality, and he explained at some length the system followed by the company in distributing bait to the fishermen. In previous testimony witnesses stated that they had been denied bait by this company unless they sold their fish to it. They claimed that the price paid by the Maritime Fish Corporation for fish at the time they were refused bait was lower than they could obtain from another Canso fish dealer.

FIRE DESTROYS $30,000 BARN

Farmer Near Ohawa Loses All Season's Crop in Blaze.

NO LIVE STOCK LOST.

OCHAWA, Ont., Nov. 1. (Canadian Press).—Damage to the extent of approximately thirty thousand dollars was done when fire destroyed a large barn on the farm of Frederick Richardson at Columbus, near here, yesterday. The barn was one of the finest in Ontario County. The total season's crop was also destroyed but no live stock was lost.

WORKMAN HURT AT CEMENT PLANT

Fred Bolton Struck On Head By Heavy Piece of Steel.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 1.—Fred Bolton, a foreman for the Canada Cement Company, was seriously hurt yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a piece of steel which fell while being hoisted out of the excavation for the company's new power house here. His forehead was cut and his face badly bruised and internal injuries are feared. Dr. A. Fraser examined him and had him rushed to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Slight improvement in his condition was reported by the hospital this morning, although it will be some little time before definite word can be issued.

Man To Be Executed Is Chosen By Lot

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 1.—(United Press).—President Siles yesterday signed Alfredo Jaureguy's death warrant. Jaureguy was one of four men convicted of the assassination of ex-President Pandoo of Bolivia. As the law provides only one person may be executed for a single murder, Jaureguy drew lots with the other three conspirators, and lost.

In the presence of the judge before whom the four men were tried they drew ballots out of a box. Jaureguy, the third to draw, pulled out the single black ballot. He was the youngest of the four.

The execution will be carried out at six a.m. today.

Start Investigation Schooner Collision

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 1,—(Canadian Press.)— The United States government's inspection service will not investigate the collision late Saturday morning between the Cosulich liner President Wilson and the Gloucester fishing schooner Avalon, which sent the schooner to the bottom with a loss of 11 lives.

Inspector John Stewart said yesterday that the government could not make an investigation, as the President Wilson is a foreign registered ship. The Avalon as a schooner with auxiliary motor, is not a steamer and therefore does not come under the jurisdiction of the inspection service, he added.

The survivors and relatives of those men drowned could bring civil action against the Cosulich line through the federal courts, he said, an action which might precipitate an investigation by some other branch of the government.

CAR IS BURNED; OWNER INJURED

Walter Dodd's Car Catches Fire As He Cleans Battery.

NEAR GASOLINE PUMP.

HASTINGS, Nov. 1.—On Saturday an accident which might have proved more serious, occurred on Front Street.

While Walter Dodd was cleaning the battery of his car, fire broke out and the car was a mass of flames in a short time. Mr. Dodd, his clothes aflame, managed to get out of the car, and, not knowing what else to do, rushed to the river and jumped in. His arms, hands and legs are badly burned. First aid was immediately rendered to him, but the water had made the burns very painful. He is doing nicely from last reports from the doctors.

His car was completely destroyed. As it was in front of the gas station of Dr. J. H. Hess, it was thought the flames would spread to the station when the tank on the car become ignited, but it did not explode.

Mr. Dodd carried no insurance on his car.

HEALTH STAMPS TO BE MAILED SOON

Prompt Return of Money is Asked By Health Association.

A committee of ladies of the Health Association, headed by Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. R. R. Hall and Mrs. A. W. Turner, are busy making plans to mail out the envelopes containing the Health Stamps to a selected list of names. The stamps sell at only one dollar a hundred. When you receive the letter, put the necessary amount of money in the self addressed envelope accompanying the stamps, and rejoice you have been given an opportunity to aid in the important work of the Peterborough Health Association. It is really your work, because Peterborough is your city.

Suppose this was a street paving job. Everyone would be interested because everyone would expect to use it. The Health Association are doing a far more important work. They are paving the way to health and happiness for some of our own people, particularly the children —our future citizens. Let each hundred stamps represent a paving stone, which you will contribute toward the health pavement of your own city.

PLANES SEARCHING COAST FOR BODIES

Feared Fifty Fishermen Lost Lives In Storm on Saturday.

DUBLIN, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press) —Two Irish Free State airplanes today were searching the coast for the bodies of the victims of the Irish fishing fleet overtaken in the great storm on Saturday. It is feared more than fifty men were drowned, many within sight of their homes on shore. The Counties of Mayo and Galway bore the brunt of the loss. Thirty-one are missing from Cleggan, Galway, where eight bodies were washed ashore.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1.—Short covering on reports of frost damage in Argentine and unresponsive Liverpool cables were the contending factors in an erratic session of the Winnipeg Grain Market yesterday. The initial decline of ¾c, which was inspired by heavy sales, was quickly discounted on receipt of frost damage in South America, values undergoing a sharp upturn to record a net gain of 1⅛c. Gains were held for a time, but the last hour found selling pressure again on the increase, finial quotations being 7-8c to 1 1-8c. Export sales were disappointing.

Prices on the coarse grain market moved within a narrow range, with a fair volume of business worked in barley and rye.

WITNESSES FACE PERJURY CHARGE

Judge and Crown Attorney Consider Steps Against Windsor People.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The question of laying perjury charges against certain witnesses who have testified at the hearing before the police commission of charges against suspended Police Chief Daniel Thompson will be considered by Judge J. J. Coughlin and the Crown Attorney. This statement was made after certain testimony by Paul Bostani, "soup man of Amherstburg" yesterday.

"If what you say is true you ought to go to jail yourself," the Judge told him.

"I know," grinned Bostani.

Bostani said he had told Mrs. Angela Lorenzi to sign an affidavit which had been drawn up by counsel for the committee prosecuting the charges against Chief Thompson. This affidavit contained a statement that Mr. Lorenzi had bribed Chief Thompson, but Mrs. Lorenzi said she did not know the contents of the affidavit because she could not read English. Bostani insisted that the woman did not know what was in the affidavit, but had signed it on his recommendation.

The Judge asked if he himself knew what was in it.

"Sure," smiled Bostani.

This ended the proceedings under this special count.

SEVEN REMANDED FOR CONSPIRACY

Five of Those Under Arrest in Toronto Are To Be Deported.

TORONTO, November 1 (Canadian Press).—Charged with conspiracy to defraud seven members and employees of the Canadian Train Control and Signal Company, arrested on Saturday, appeared in Police Court to-day and were remanded at the request of the Crown until November 8. Bail for five was refused, they being held for deportation.

POPE CONSECRATES JAPANESE BISHOP

New Prelate Will Take Charge of See of Nagasaki, Japan.

ROME, Nov. 1.—(United Press).—Japan's first Roman Catholic Bishop, Mgr. Gennarro Hayaska, destined to the See of Nagaski, was consecrated Sunday in the Basilica of St. Peter, the Pope himself officiating as Consecration Bishop. The ceremony took more than three hours.

Pope Pius XI. was borne into the great cathedral on the "Sede gestatoria" accompanied by the Sacred College of Cardinals and members of the Papal Court in the colorful Papal procession. The Basilica was crowded with hundreds of Japanese, students from the Rome seminary, representatives from the embassy, and travellers.

All the expenses for the voyage from Japan of the Bishop were paid by a noble Japanese family of the Buddhist faith.

ENNISMORE NEWS

ENNISMORE, Nov. 1. — Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Scollard and family, of Peterborough, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Flood on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Best and Mr. S. McDonald, of Peterborough, visited friends here recently.

Miss Ruby Perdue, of Downeyville, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. E. Maloney.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hickson visited Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hickson, of Peterborough, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Crough and baby, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Killen, of Peterborough, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Galvin on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Carroll, of Downeyville, visited friends here on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Murray, of Downeyville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. McAuliffe on Sunday.

Mrs. Edward Hickey left last Saturday for Detroit to visit her son, Vincent.

Mrs. Thomas O'Reilley has returned home after visiting her daughters, Mrs. Joseph O'Connor and Mrs. Fergus O'Connor, of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. Menogue, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with friends here.

The farmers have finished digging their potatoes with good results. Very little complaint is made regarding rot. The threshing machines are very busy completing their fall work. A few are about finished with their plowing, but the work is quite difficult on account of the hardened condition of the soil.

Mr. John Perdue disposed of his farm stock and implements by auction on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. W. J. Hancock, of Peterborough, was the auctioneer and he secured good prices for most of the offering. One team of horses sold for $236; cows, from $35 to $48; one heifer, $55; pigs, $21 to $23; young pigs, $10.50 each. Mr. Perdue and his sister, Katie, are moving to Peterborough where they will reside.

Missed Mafalda— Committed Suicide

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 1.—(United Press).—A 24-year-old Argentine named Ferrari missed at Genoa the liner Principessa Mafalda that sank last week off Brazil. Ferrari managed to catch the Principedi Udine. All during the voyage, La Prensa declared yesterday, Ferrari was obsessed by the idea that the Udine was going to sink and the passengers thought him mad.

On the night before the Mafalda sank, Ferrari jumped overboard and was drowned.

STRIKE ORDER IS DISSOLVED

Injunction Taken Out Last Week By Contractors Is Cancelled.

PREVENTED PARLEYS.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 1 (Canadian Press). — Mr. Justice Logie yesterday dissolved the injunction granted to the General Contractors' Association last week restraining the organizers of the International Trade Unions from inducing members of the building trades unions to cease work in sympathy with the members of the striking United Brotherhood of Carpenters. Since the injunction was granted, all efforts to bring about a settlement of the dispute have failed because the carpenters and other trade unionists refused to attend conferences while the Court order was in effect.

Lads Use Dynamite To Make Firecracker

St. Catharines, Nov. 1. — Expecting it to act like a giant fire cracker three lads stuffed dynamite into an eight inch length of lead pipe in Orchard Park last night and set it off. A terrific explosion followed, and John Williamson suffered slight injuries. The two others, John Henderson and Clifford Northey, miraculously escaped but have not yet returned to their respective homes. The police found the boys had hidden a sufficient store of dynamite to blow up the whole park.

Two Year Term For Ameen Lawand For Fire Last January.

EMPLOYEES SENTENCED.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press.)— Mr. Justice Wilson in the Court of King's Bench yesterday sentenced Ameen Lawand, proprietor of the Laurier Palace Theatre, to two years in penitentiary, and Michael Arie and Camille Bazzy, employees, to twelve months each. The men were found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the fire and panic at the theatre last January when seventy-eight children lost their lives.

Ever Thought of Endowing your Home?

SUPPOSE that — having purchased a home and effected a mortgage on it—you should die suddenly!

Wouldn't your wife and family have a hard time meeting the interest on the mortgage and discharging the principal sum when due?

Not so, however if you were insured under an Imperial Endowment policy for the amount of the mortgage.

A small amount invested each year in such a policy will enable your heirs to pay the mortgage immediately after your death, even if it should occur next week.

On the other hand, if you should live until the policy matures you can then pay off the indebtedness yourself out of the proceeds of the Endowment.

Have you a mortgage on your home? Why carry this responsibility yourself? Why bequeath an unpaid mortgage to your loved ones?

Let us show you how easily you can make sure of its repayment whether you live or die.

Send the coupon to-day—to-morrow you may be uninsurable.

How to Play BRIDGE

ARTICLE No. 5

Here are two interesting hands, just submitted, that involve important principles of bidding:

Hand No. 1

	Hearts — A, 10, 7, 2
Y	Clubs — Q, 4
A B	Diamonds — Q, 10, 3
Z	Spades — A, K, Q, 4

No score, first game. If Z dealt and passed and A and Y also passed, should B open the bidding fourth hand? The test of a sound fourth hand bid is not necessarily the guarantee of a sure game, but rather the guarantee that the hand is strong enough to save game, no matter what the opponents may bid.

B's hand is hardly strong enough to make game, unless A's hand is much stronger than can be expected, but it certainly seems strong enough to save game, if the opponents bid, and for that reason is a justifiable fourth hand bid. There is a choice between a no-trump and a spade bid, but the spade bid is the better.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — A, Q, 7, 6
Clubs — none	Y
Diamonds — A, K, J, 8, 4	A B
Spades — J, 10, 7, 3	Z

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt and bid one club, what is A's proper bid? There is not much question about this hand. It is a perfect example of the type of hand that justifies an informatory double. If partner can bid spades, hearts, or no-trump, there is a good chance for game. With any of these bids, the chance for game is better than at diamonds, the only other alternative to the informatory double. With such hands, don't hesitate to double and invite your partner to bid his best suit.

You will be surprised to learn how often it brings good results.

Answer to Problem No. 4

Hearts — A, K, J, 10, 7, 5
Clubs — 9, 8, 6, 3
Diamonds — 7
Spades — A, 4
	A B
	Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one club, A passed, Y bid one heart and B bid two diamonds. Z and A passed, Y bid two hearts and B bid three diamonds. If Z and A passed, should Y bid three hearts or four clubs? Y has at least three raises for his partner's club suit, so that after he has bid and rebid his hearts, he should then bid four clubs. There is a mighty good chance to go game in clubs. The fact that Z has failed to help the heart bid indicates that he has not more than two hearts. If such is the case, Y-Z should only lose one diamond and one spade trick, if the clubs drop. If they don't, Y-Z will make at least four odd. Z's hand was as follows:

Hearts — 6, 2
Clubs — A, K, 7, 5, 3
Diamonds — 8, 4
Spades — Q, 8, 5, 2

At clubs, Y-Z will score five odd. At hearts they can only score three odd, as there are five hearts in A's hand. Be on the lookout for such hands and if you hold great help for your partner's minor suit bid, don't hesitate to help him if he cannot help your own major suit bid. Many games are won with a minor suit trump and many more could be won, if partners would always try for the best bid of twenty-six cards instead of thirteen.

Answer to Problem No. 5

	Hearts — 6, 5, 3
	Clubs — 10, 4, 3, 2
	Diamonds — J, 9, 4
	Spades — J, 8, 5
Hearts — 9, 4	Y	Hearts — K, Q, 10, 8, 2
Clubs — 9, 8, 7		Clubs — K, Q, J
Diamonds — A, K, Q, 10, 7	A B	Diamonds — 8, 6, 2
Spades — 6, 4, 3	Z	Spades — 9, 2
	Hearts — A, J, 7
	Clubs — A, 6, 5
	Diamonds — 5, 3
	Spades — A, K, Q, 10, 7

Score, 20 all, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A bid two diamonds, Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid two spades, A and Y passed and B bid three diamonds. Z doubled and all passed. Y led the jack of spades and the first three tricks were: (1) Z won with the queen of spades; (2) Z led the trey of diamonds and A (holding A, K, Q, 10, 7) won with the queen; (3) A led the nine of clubs and Z won the trick with the ace. The problem is: How should Z now play to defeat the contract? Z should figure that as A won trick No. 2 with the queen of diamonds, his partner Y still holds the jack of diamonds guarded. Of course, A may be false carding but Z must take that chance. At trick four, Z should lead the five of clubs, which B wins. B should now lead his last spade, Z winning the trick with the king. Z's best play now is a low diamond, which A wins with the king. A cannot trump a spade in B's hand for if he does, Z can win the first heart trick and lead a fourth spade. This play will enable Y to make his jack of diamonds. At trick No. 7, A's best play is to lead a heart and play B's king of hearts, which Z must refuse to win. The second round of hearts, however, should be won by Z, and he should then lead his losing club, which B must win. Z must now either win another spade or Y must make his jack of trumps by over-trumping A. Play it out for practice. Note at trick No. 4, if Z leads a diamond, or takes the first heart trick with the ace, A-B will make their contract. It is a tricky little problem.

SAYS VALENTINO WAS MURDERED

Paris Paper Publishes Story Charging Use of Diamond Dust.

BY JEALOUS RIVAL.

PARIS, October 31. — An American movie actress actuated by personal and professional jealousy, and a film magnate actuated by hatred, hired poisoners who killed Rudolph Valentino by mixing ground diamonds in his drink, according to a story in Milan, which the Paris Midi repeats.

According to the report the actress had been rebuffed by Valentino and she also felt her professional reputation was being put in the shade by his. Once, in a Broadway night club, it is said, she did not even try to hide her passion or jealousy when she saw him with another woman.

After that she determined upon vengeance and enlisted the magnate, who had business reasons for hating Valentino, one being that the star had refused to work for the magnate's company.

According to the Midi, two private detectives, man and wife, followed the jealous woman and found her with the other conspirator making a deal with poisoners. One of the professional assassins is supposed to have recommended the East Indian method of killing, mixing a crushed diamond in the victim's drink.

The fine, hard points of the bits of diamond perforate the intestines and give the appearance of death from peritonitis. (Valentino died on August 23, 1926, following operations for appendicitis and gastric ulcer.)

CANADIAN GIRL TO WED NOBLE

Daughter of Lord Beaverbrook Engaged To Heir Of Duke of Argyle.

DECEMBER WEDDING.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(United Press).—British society received with keen interest yesterday the announcement of the engagement of Lord Beaverbrook's only daughter, Hon. Janet Aitken, to Ian Douglas Campbell, heir to the Duke of Argyle.

"I only met Ian Campbell at Le Toquet this summer", Miss Aitken told The British United Press correspondent yesterday when felicitated on her engagement. "We will be married in December and spend part of the honeymoon in Canada."

Asked if her husband would take any great interest in Canada Miss Aitken replied "of course he will, he will take an interest in me." She was responding to hundreds of congratulations, yesterday morning in a very happy mood. Ian Campbell whose age is 24, is the heir presumptive of the Duke of Argyle. He is the son by his first marriage of the late Douglas Walter Campbell, and grandson of Lord Walter Campbell, who was the first cousin once removed of the present Duke of Argyle who is 55 years of age and a bachelor. The Duke of Argyle's homes are at Sonachan and Dalamally in Argyllshire.

THE COMPLAINT BUREAU.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, has intimated that the Highways Department may institute a "Bureau of Complaints" to which citizens may report instances of reckless driving that come to their notice.

Under this plan the department would have a traffic officer warn offending motorists that unless they changed their ways they were in danger of having their driving licenses cancelled.

There is merit in the proposal, although the average citizen is reluctant to assume the role of an informer.

Whenever, however, there is driving so reckless that lives are threatened the matter becomes serious enough surely to drive out all such scruples and to justify the conduct of the guilty parties being reported to the authorities.

There is no excuse whatever for the action of some motorists, and they should be reported just as any other type of potential murderers would be.

When lives are at stake we cannot afford to consider anything else.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

With the expiration of the 1927 liquor permits an opportunity will be afforded during the next few weeks of ascertaining how many Ontario people desire to exercise the privilege of purchasing liquor.

The sale of permits since the Act was introduced was not as brisk as had been anticipated.

The number issued, including those purchased by United States tourists was well under 300,000.

Making allowance for the fact that some people declined to pay $2.00 for a permit that would expire in a few months, and that tourist permits will not until next year enter very materially into the situation, it is not anticipated that the demand for permits will during the winter exceed the 1927 total, which represented about one permit to every eleven people in the Province.

The system has been in operation long enough to iron out some of its defects.

One of these undoubtedly is the comparatively large amount of liquor that can be purchased at one time by the individual.

It could be materially cut without being much of a hardship to anybody.

LAST NIGHT'S CELEBRATION.

The manner in which the whole community entered into the spirit of last night's Hallowe'en celebration left no doubt that the citizens generally accept the new method as a more enjoyable and a more satisfactory way of celebrating than that formerly in vogue.

The number of people in costume was a surprise even in the face of last year's success, and the turnout of citizens indicated general interest in the affair that amptly rewarded The Examiner for the expense involved.

There was satisfaction in noting the spirit of good fellowship that pervaded the whole celebration, and the very evident desire of everyone to have a good time without infringing upon the rights of others to do so.

The Citizens' Committee did much to make sure the success of the evening, and for their efforts and the very business-like way they carried out their duties The Examiner is sincerely grateful.

All in all, it was a great night, and one that The Examiner feels sure will play a part in strengthening that community spirit without which no centre can hope to flourish.

Such events do much to make people satisfied that they are living in a place where life is indeed worth while.

JUST COMMONPLACE THUGS.

From time to time The Globe has called attention to a tendency on the part of the sensational press to elevate into the rank of heroes the scoundrels who rob defenseless bank officials and storekeepers at the point of the revolver. Discussing the most recent bank robbery in Toronto, The Chatham Daily News remarks that "it wasn't a difficult thing to do," that it "didn't require brains," and that all that was needed "was a strong desire on the part of the thieves to take something that didn't belong to them."

"The greatest degenerate or ignoramus in the world could have done the same thing under similar circumstances," The News declares, in taking exception to the manner in which the crime was treated in some of the newspaper despatches. The thugs were referred to as "bandits" and "gunmen"; the robbery was spoken of as "a bold and daring escapade," and stress was laid upon the thieves' success "in foiling the police."

With good reason The News complains that some newspapers are "building up a sort of romance around a most dastardly business in which only a coward, an assassin and a thief would deign to take part.'

The News has full justification for its protest. The man who holds up another at the point of a gun is one of the most despicable of mortals. There is nothing heroic about what he does. He is ready to take life to satisfy his selfish greed for gain. He is just a commonplace thug, and should be regarded and treated as such. —The Globe.

DON'T OVERCHARGE THEM.

In view of the figures given out by the Chamber of Commerce last week showing that American tourists spent half a million dollars in this immediate district this summer, it is interesting to note that the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior, the Federal organization supplying maps and information to visitors in Canada, reports that its correspondence shows that some car owners in the United States are already planning their next summer's itinerary.

This correspondence also contains many comments on trips through Canadian territory in 1927, which for the most part showed the writers were satisfied and pleased with Canadian hospitality.

Allowances are willingly made for road under repair, and Canadian courtesy is fully recognized; what complaints are offered are usually over lack of accommodation, except in the larger centres, and because of overcharging.

There have been some very definite accusations as to the latter.

In one instance a garage charged $5.00 for a minor repair that did not justify 50 cents. Fortunately, the Resources Service was able to report fully circumstances to the Provincial Government authorities and the latter acting quickly and thoroughly had soon arranged for a refund by the shop in question.

A letter which is fairly typical of those received was from the president of a New York State bank:

"From time to time I have been receiving sectional maps from your department showing automobile routes in Canada. I have passed these on to people who have been taking trips in your good country, and they are much appreciated. Our people like to travel in Canada—in fact, I made a trip myself to the lake section north of Kingston.

"Personally, I have no complaint to make, but I have heard a number speak of the exhorbitant charges being put on the people from the States this year over last season and other seasons. You have the people coming this year, and if you wish to continue this they had better curb their avariciousness."

It will be noted from the above letter that the overcharging is largely a development of the past year, and unless it is checked up with sudden and ceaseless vigilance it will work seriously against the movement of tourists into Canada, for news travels with surprising swiftness among these travellers, due to the exchange of experience each evening in the tourist camps.

Municipal officials and merchants should take a genuine interest in seeing that visitors get a square deal in the matter of prices, and visitors themselves should not hesitate to report glaring cases so that some check may be made and the charges investigated.

Canada has definitely become one of the world's most "Travelled" countries. Her magnificent railways, undoubtedly among the world's largest and best, her splendid new motor highways, of which there are ten miles to every one before the war, the spectacular natural attractions extending from the dyke lands of the Maritimes to the fiords of the Pacific islands, constitute an appeal that from the point of view of diversity and practicability is hard to duplicate. Nature has been profligate in her gift of mountains, rivers, lakes and forests. A splendid groundwork has already been laid in providing improved highways, modern hotels and remarkably efficient railway systems. It is up to Canadians themselves to see that these public services are properly supplemented by local accommodation, friendly co-operation and unfailing courtesy.

HORNS FOR PEDESTRIANS.

The Washington Star notes a new scheme for pedestrian protection in crowded London. It consists of a small horn carried in a walking stick. The other day in the busy metropolis, pedestrians and motorists, too, stared with amazement at a nattily dressed man, from whose cane, at every intersection, a prolonged blast issued.

If this unique walking stick horn should become a fad, the Washington paper suggests, it is logical to believe that the next step would be to equip all pedestrians with lights and possibly bumpers fore and aft. Then they could wander at will through the streets, honking at each other and immune to all ordinary collisions.

One hopes that this dire prospect never materializes. There is enough shrieking from the motor cars now without adding two or three hundred per cent. to the noise by making it possible for those on foot to sound their klaxons. As a matter of fact about one motorist in a dozen seems to know how to use a horn properly. Many persons forget the function of a motor alarm and look upon them as a species of musical instrument to be played at will. Notice a traffic line waiting for the green light and observe one or two drivers who always figure in these lines. The chief offender will be last in line. He draws up and starts pushing the button, annoyed that he has been delayed. It never seems to occur to him that the man in front is waiting for the light and can't proceed until it flashes. Every town and every city has these pests and the wonder of it is that they are tolerated as much as they are.

With the situation so annoying as one finds it now, imagine it with pedestrians also equipped with noise-making devices!—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us pass a belated vote of thanks to Miss October for a super-fine brand of weather.

If everybody who sees reckless driving reports to the "Bureau of Complaints" that body will probably be the busiest department in the Provincial service.

All the world was really a stage so far as Peterborough was concerned last evening.

Somebody warned Big Bill Thompson to beware of "Alice in Wonderland." And Chicago's Mayor will probably think that is the name of a new musical comedy.

London and Windsor are still fighting as to which is the fourth biggest city in Ontario. After all, what does it matter? The real question is, not how many people but what kind of people.

The Humane Society wants one thousand members. There must be at least that many people in Peterborough who want to see dumb animals protected.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The demand from the United Kingdom and the continent for Canadian grain here yesterday was rather slow, and the volume of business was small.

Trading in cash grain in the local market was also quiet, there being little demand from any source for supplies, but the undertone was about steady.

A moderate amount of business was done with local buyers in spring and winter wheat grades of flour and prices were unchanged, the export trade in the former grade was dull.

The millfeed market was fairly active and the undertone was firm.

A feature of the rolled oat trade was the weak feeling that developed and prices scored a decline of twenty-five cents per bag. The trade was quiet.

The undertone to the egg market was steady with a fair amount of business passing. The receipts were 177 cases.

Owing to the continued unfavorable weather prevailing, the liberal receipts and the limited demand, a weaker feeling developed in the potato market and prices were reduced five to ten cents per bag. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island White potatoes were made at $1.35 per bag of ninety pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.35 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 per bag in bulk, and Quebec White stock at $1.15 to $1.20 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

A steady feelling prevailed in the market for imported beans and prices were unchanged with a moderate amount of business passing. Sales of car lots of choice White hand-picked on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel, and at arrive at $2.60 per bushel, while broken lots sold at $2.75 per bushel.

The trade in butter was a little more active and the tone was firm. The receipts were 333 packages.

In sympathy with the lower prices paid at the country cheese boards at the close of last week an easier feeling prevaled in the local market to-day and prices were reduced ¼c. per pound. The receipts were 2,537 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—Confronted by announcement of a 3,288,000 bushel increase of the United States visible supply, wheat values weakened at the last yesterday under general profit-taking sales. Earlier the market had scored a sharp advance largely because of further reports of frost in Argentina.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 3-8 to 5-8 net lower; corn 7-8 to 1 1-8 off; oats 1-8 to ¼ down to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to a set-back of 50.

Discounting bushels effects of fresh reports yesterday from Buenos Aires that there had been light scattered frosts in Argentina, were late advices that no actual damage to wheat had been done except in the Pamp region, where three successive frosts had harmed wheat already weakened by drought. It was noted, however, that cold weather in Argentina is unfavorable, the crop being late and what is needed is warm growing conditions.

In connection with the bearish showing of domestic wheat visible supply figures yesterday, it was pointed out that the total is now 88,290,000 bushels, against 72,034,000 bushels a year ago. On the other hand, unusual sensitiveness to southern hemisphere weather and crop reports yesterday appeared to be partly due to word that the Premier of New South Wales, Australia, anticipates a yield of only 14,000,000 bushels in his territory, compared with 37,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn prices acted heavy most of the day. Frost shown at some points was regarded as beneficial, and the corn visible supply increased 1,965,000 bushels. Eastern shipping demand was slow. Oats re-acted with corn.

Provisions were easier on account of scattered selling which more than offset an advance in the value of hogs.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts 28,000; vealers, 25c to 50c lower on paper; killing quality less desirable; best fed steers with weight $17.75; yearlings, $17; most fed offerings, $13.50 to $16.50; weighty Montana grassers up to $15; several lots, $13 to $14; bulk, $11.00 to $12.50; most veals to big packers, $12.50.

Hog receipts 30,000; bulk good and choice 210 to 300 pounds $9.75 to $10.25; 170 to 200 pounds $9.25 to $9.90; 130 to 160 pounds $8 to $9; most packing sows $8 to $8.50; heavies and kinds lacking finish $7.70 to $7.75; few light weights $8.60 or better; most pigs $7.75 to $8.25; few best 100 to 130 pound averages $8.50. Shippers took 8,500; estimates hold over 7,000.

Sheep receipts 22,000; bulk native lambs moderately sorted $13.50; scattering $13.25 and below; few selected up to $13.75; 100 to 130-pound buck lambs $11 to $11.50; culls $10 to $10.75; mostly $10.50 down; good woolled comebacks $13.50; range lambs absent; sheep steady; fat ewes $6 to $6.50; feeding lambs unchanged; bulk $13.50 to $14.

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Ambrose Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be controlled by my nerves. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I suffered in this way for some time when, one day, I saw advertised, so decided to try them. I had only taken a few boxes when I noticed that I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt entirely different."

MAIL ORDER BRIDES

BETHANY, Nov. 1.—A full house greeted the presentation of the play Mail Order Brides, which was given in the Town Hall on Wednesday, October the 26th, under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of St. Paul's Anglican church.

Not a dull moment was felt from the time the curtain arose until it descended upon the last act.

The first act presented was in the dining room of Ruby Heart Ranch, owned by Nick Henshaw (Arthur Jemison— where two cow boys or ranch hands, Pinky Butler (Charles Smith) and Skeet Snyder (Charles Reynolds) were bewailing the fact that only three women for thirty-four men were in attendance at a dance held in a school house not far from Ruby Heart Ranch, which was twenty-five miles from nowhere. True it was, their boss had a daughter, Nance Henshaw (May McGill), but she had a silly notion she could write poetry after spending a month in a college in Los Angeles, and she went about with a pencil and paper, composing poems and hadn't time to be bothered being nice to common ranch hands. There was also Princess, the Indian servant (Gladys Fierheller) connected with the ranch house, but she didn't count. Upon looking around, Pinky and Skeet discovered a mail order catalogue from Hamilton and Blake's mail order house in Chicago. After talking it over they thought everything under the sun could be bought there, so they would be able to get wives and so they wrote out an order for these very necessary articles. Before they could finish, Nance, with her poetry came into the room wanting to read her newest poem to them. While she was doing so in her best manner, Pinkey and Skeet quietly left the room to Miss Nance and her poetry.

In the meantime Bob Henshaw (Gerald Staples), who was just home from college and who felt he had a talent for writing plays, came into the same room and found his sister busy with her poems. They had an altercation in the midst of which their father found them and gave them a piece of his mind; letting Bob and Nance know how thoroughly disgusted he was to think a son and daughter of his should be bound up in such silly notions as they had instead of taking an interest in the cattle range and the kitchen. Mr. Henshaw gave his son and daughter just thirty days to overcome their foolish notions or else something would be doing, upon which the young folks left their father to himself, when Princess came in. The father, in the fullness of his trouble opened his heart to his Indian servant and she in her broken English told him his children were all right, but what his son needed was a wife, upon arising to leave the room Mr. Henshaw discovered the order for wives that Pinkey and Skeet had left behind in their haste, so after enjoying the sensation of mail order wives, he added his son's name to the list, and saw that the letter was posted.

Two weeks later a letter was received at the ranch house from Mr. William Hamilton (William Sisson) an old school chum of Nick Henshaw, in which he stated that his son Deering Hamilton (Douglas Deyell) and daughter, Jane Hamilton (Vera Fierheller) were about to make a visit to the ranch of his old friend. This letter made Bob and Nance quite excited and they decided to make a splash before these city people and directions were given Princess what to prepare for the meal. In the meantime a young lady appeared unheralded at the ranch, giving her name as Rose Crandall (Mary Sisson) and asking for a position as maid or help. Having arrived just in the nick of time Rose was gratefully received by Nance, who thought she would put Rose in a poem.

The Hamilton young people arrived, Bob having met them at the station. Jane was a very practical young lady without nonsence, but Deering had acquired very distasteful mannerisms following a visit to England. His sister, Jane, determined with the sanction of her father to break him of these habits, but he persisted, and so she made a fuss and declared she wasn't acquainted with him and that he had followed her to the ranch. As a result Pinkey and Skeet came to the rescue and dragged Deering out, he protesting that Jane was "a bally ass"—that she was his "sistah." They took him out to the corral and introduced him to some of the range cattle.

While the ranch family, with their guest, Jane Hamilton, were at dinner (they meant lunch, Nance would say), a commotion was taking place outside, and three young women arrived, bag and baggage, looking for pinky Butler Skeet Snyder, and Bob Henshaw. They were Queenie Dugan (Laura Morton) Gaynell Jones (Mrs. William Morton) and Arabella Jennings (Mrs. Ida Carscadden), and had come from the mail order house in Chicago in answer to the letter. These three young ladies had drawn lots as to which young man should be her's, so a lively time was had in the third and fourth acts, while these determined young women chased the three young men around the ranch house.

At times the audience was convulsed with laughter, but the girls got their husbands and the boys got their wives and peace was once more restored to the Ruby Heart Ranch house.

The proceeds at the door were $125. Delicious home-made candy was sold by the young ladies between acts.

Mrs. Dr. Hamilton was the efficient manager and director of the play, the members of which showed great talent.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

TODAY'S PUZZLE

Just what is a vegetarian supposed to do about animal crackers?

"That wasn't no lady," the British bobby might have said of the young woman who told him to dash for Hades the other day, "that was a countess."

If Gene Tunney goes into the movies we can suggest a title for his first picture—"Pay, Brother, Pay."

ANNIVERSARY SUPPER HELD

Good Concert Also Part of Celebration at St. James'

FINE PROGRAMME

The anniversary supper and concert which formed the conclusion last night of this year's observance by St. James' United Church of another milestone in the church's history was a real sucess in every way. The supper, held in Wesley Hall, and catered for by ladies of the church, was a very bountiful and well served repast and was patronized by nearly four hundred people. The decorations of the tables and hall were carried out in Hallowe'en colors of orange and black, the tables being centred by large pumpkins filled with fruit and silver candlesticks holding yellow candles. General convenors were Mrs. A. Wilson and Mrs. E. Woodley. In charge of the tables were Mrs. W. D. Sargent and Mrs. J. O. Fife, while Mrs. G. H. Rowe and Mrs. J. Plunkett had charge of the cooking and Mrs. F. Pratt acted as convenor of the kitchen.

The concert which was held later in the church was a splendid conclusion to a fine evening's entertainment. The popular vocal soloist, Mr. Albert E. Greenlaw, of Detroit, was assisted by Mrs. Georgie Langmaid Pearce, M.E., of Oshawa, elocutionist, and graduate of the Whitby Ladies' College, also Stanley Northrop of this city, playing violin selections.

Mr. Greenlaw, whose rich, robust baritone voice, with the smooth inflections and melodious undertone of the singers of his race, is always effective and pleasing, sang several groups of songs which were loudly encored in every instance. "King of the Forest" and "Twilight Rose" were followed by the dainty encore, "Mighty Lak a Rose," and a second group of spirituals, those heart songs of the colored people which embody in their wistful melody the yearnings of sojourners in a foreign land, was enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Greenlaw's resonant voice and the quality of sympathetic interpretation which he injects into his music, was especially appealing in these numbers, which included "Steal Away," "I Want to be Ready," "'Tis Me, O Lord," and "Oh, Bye and Bye," with an encore in a delightful arrangement of popular old Southern melodies.

A wonderful degree of devotional feeling was manifested in the singing by Mr. Greenlaw of the beautiful number, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

Mrs. Georgie Langmaid Pearce proved herself to be an elocutionist of much merit in her various readings, which were mainly of the popular humorous type, her versatility, however, being demonstrated in the deeper feeling of the selection, "The Voice From a Far Country" and "A Friend of Man." Possessed of much interpretive ability, a pleasing voice and dramatic power, Mrs Pearce was loudly encored for her readings, which included also "The Ruggle Dinner Party," with an encore in "Her New Gloves," and "The Messenger," an additional encore being "What's in My Pocket."

Stanley Northrop, a junior violinst of much promise and ability, played in pleasing style several attractive numbers, with encores. His accompaniments were played by his brother, Mr. Harry Northrop. Accompaniments for Mr. Greenlaw were played by Mr. G. F. Liddle.

The various artists were introduced by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon.

THORNTON DENIES BREAK ON POLICY

Minister of Railways in Complete Accord With Plans, He Says

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—The story carried in a Toronto Evening paper that there are differences of opinion regarding the administration of the Canadian National Railways between the Minister of Railways and Sir Henry Thornton, were denied here today by the Chairman and President of the National System. "There is no justification for any such rumor mongering," said Sir Henry. "Mr. Dunning has been and remains in complete accord with the policy and plans of the railway."

MODERNIST SCULPTOR

After an absence of twenty-five years, Jacob Epstein, the modernist sculptor, has just returned to his native land, America. With him he has brought his latest work, Madonna and Child. This he hopes may eventually find a place in some cathedral. "An art gallery," he says, "is the last place any work of art should go." Epstein charged that there were hardly any good statues in London. He characterized the Victoria memorial as "that fearful concoction in front of Buckingham Palace," and declared that Trafalgar Square was "an unholy mess; the worst square in the world." Epstein is shown ABOVE with one of his recent creations, which illustrate the rough-cast stucco effect which he favors in much of his sculpture.

Irregular Trend On Mine Exchange

TORONTO, Ont., November 1 (Canadian Press). — There was no definite trend to the trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Considerable selling occurred in Lake Shore, the stock showing a decline of forty cents at 26.40. Amulet lost 15 points at 4.80, while Area was down 6½ at 40½. Among the stronger features were Bidgood, up 14 at $1.10, Aconda 10 at 38, and Towagamac 10 at 4.55. Teck Hughes and Central Manitoba mines each gained eight points at 10.73 and 1.38 respectively.

Cold In Canada Causes Rise In Wheat Prices

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—With temperatures in the Canadian Northwest today the lowest of the season, wheat values scored a quick upturn after a setback at the start. Initial declines were in sympathy with weakness of the market at Liverpool. Opening at a shade to ¾c off, Chicago wheat soon advanced to above yesterday's finish. Corn and oats also developed strength, corn starting unchanged to ⅝c lower but then rising all around. Provisions were inclined to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 125¼, March 128⅝; Corn, December 82⅝, March 85⅝; oats, December 47⅝, March 48⅞.

General Advance Made At New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press). — Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which forged steadily upward under the leadership of the high-priced industrials. Soft spots cropped out here and there, but they were disregarded. The lowering of the call money rate from 4 to 3½ per cent stimulated recovery.

Pivotal industrials, such as United States Steel Common, General Motos, General Electric, and American Smelting, and leading rails, such as New York Central and C. and O., took a prominent part in the upturn. Wide fluctuations again characterized the trading in some of the "Blue Chip" issues, Rossia Insurance soaring nearly 10 points, while Case Threshing, Houston Oil, American Railway Express, Dupont, Warren Brothers, and American Machine and Foundry all sold 5 to 8 points above last night's final quotations.

Brazilian Is Leader Of Upward Movement

TORONTO, Ont., November 1 (Canadian Press). — Led by Brazilian, which advanced to 200 for a gain of more than four points, the list moved to higher levels on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Imperial Tobacco, the most active feature, gained ⅝ at 10½ and Hiram Walker's went up a half at 62½, Gooderham & Worts improved fractionally at 62¼, while Loblaw, Page Hersey, and Brompton all gained a point or more. Farmers' Dairy, Canadian Canners, and a few others eased downward. Banks and mines were firm.

MINE SURVEY

The second edition of The Financial Post Survey of Mines has just been issued. It is the one publication in Canada that deals completely and thoroughly with every mining operation in Canada. A new feature added this year, besides giving details of the board of each company, capitalization, property, balance sheet if any, also tabulates under the heading of the mineral, a complete list of all operators in this class, along with the name of the manager. These tables are a part of the production chapter which reviews briefly the various deposits of each mineral and the recent production figures of the same.

Canada's mineral outlook was never so attractive and indications are not lacking that the public is rapidly coming to realize this, judging from the tremendous increase in mining share speculation and investment. Furthermore, the public seems to have settled down to an intelligent study and appreciation of the various operations. They are coming to pick and choose as against the haphazard manner of speculation that prevailed for some years. Under this new order of things, the 1927 Survey of Mines is a valuable service. Prepared primarily for the investor, a study of the book will give an excellent background for the sizing up of the various operations. In the case of the producing mines, figures are given for five years back so as to provide ammunition for a study of the progress being made.

Not without interest is a list of dead and dormant companies. Thousands of people have old stock certificates, the value of which, if any, they know not. This chapter, made up of pages of these companies undoubtedly lists many of these. There are some companies in this list that are dormant, but in good standing, and that some day may come back.

The Survey of Mines runs to more than 300 pages and describes over 3000 mines in Canada.

LOCAL MEN WIN SECOND APPEAL

Supreme Court of Canada Reverses Finding of B. C. Court.

Judgment has been given in the Supreme Court of Canada in the case of Hall vs. Knox, as follows:

This was an appeal by Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. William Irwin of Peterborough from the judgment of the Court of Appeal for British Columbia, delivered on the first of March, 1927, whereby it was adjudged that the judgment of Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonald delivered at the trial at Vancouver on May 18, 1926, dismissing the action with costs of Mr. J. A. Knox, Mr. James A. Lewis and the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, administrator of the estate of the late D. C. Irwin, was set aside, and the respondents Knox Lewis and the Toronto General Trusts Corporation recovered judgment against the appellants Hall and Irwin for the sum of $6000 with costs.

The action was brought by the respondents against the appellants to recover $11620 for commission in respect of certain timber limits of which Hall and Irwin were trustees for a syndicate.

Respondents cross appealed to increase their verdict from $6000 to $11,620.

The Supreme Court of Canada reversed the judgment of the Court of Appeal for British Columbia and ordered that the judgment of the trial judge be restored which dismissed the action with costs as against the respondents.

The Supreme Court of Canada also awarded costs in all the courts against the respondents Knox Lewis and The Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., of Toronto, and W. F. Johnston, barrister, of Peterborough, appeared for the appellants Hall and Irwin, and D. L. McCarthy, K. C., of Toronto, appeared for all the respondents.

TWO VIEWS

A certain woman who lives in a certain town, has an abundance of this world's goods, and, among other things, owns a large apartment house. She has a few chickens, which cost her practically nothing to feed as she gets the scraps from all the tenants in her apartments. A pigeon, a pretty white fellow, who had lost his mate, was in the habit of flying down in her yard and sharing the food of the chickens, to which the chickens did not object in the least. However, it hurt the puny soul of the woman to think that something which did not belong to her should even eat a few crumbs in her yard. She talked of having the pigeon killed. So one day she had him killed. This woman also had a tiny house at the rear of her premises, which she rented to a man, poor and old, and hardly able to keep body and soul together. However, he has a cat, which he loves and feeds carefully before going to work in the mornings and again at night. One morning, as he was feeding his cat, two lean and hungry looking felines came sidling up looking, oh, so longingly at the food. Without a word, the old man stepped inside his door and presently came out with a bowl of milk, which he put down in front of the two unbidden guests. Needless to say, they lapped it up in short order.

"How can you afford to feed so many cats," he was asked, "with milk as high as it is?"

"Well, you see," he replied, "I don't need very much myself, and it's such a privilege to be allowed to feed something that is hungry. I would much rather they should have it than to have it myself."

Happy old man, with a heart of gold!

Poor, rich woman, with a heart of stone!

NELSON TRIAL BEGINS TO-DAY

"Dark Strangler" Faces Two Charges of Murder at Winnipeg

JURY BEING CHOSEN

WINNIPPG, Nov. 1. Canadian Press. — Almost five months after his sensational capture at Killarney, Manitoba, Earle Nelson, the alleged "dark strangler," entered upon the last chapter of his battle for life in the assize court to-day. Betraying no outward sign of his long incarceration, Nelson entered a crowded court room to face the charge of murdering Mrs. Emily Patterson in Winnipeg last June. Nelson was also indicted for the murder of fourteen year old Lola Cowan, but will not face trial on this count unless acquitted on the first.

To-day's proceedings were devoted almost exclusively to the selection of a jury, following which a brief adjournment was expected with the evidence probably beginning to-morrow.

Canadian Buyers Profit by Canada's Export Trade

It's Better because It's Canadian

IN the distant reaches of Britain's far-flung empire you will find General Motors cars, built in Canada by Canadian craftsmen, from Canadian materials.

In five years over 110,000 automobiles have been sent overseas by General Motors of Canada to carry the standard of Canadian quality around the world.

This represents a truly important contribution to Canada's export trade.

It represents millions of dollars to be spent in wages to Canadian workmen, in the purchase of Canadian metals, wood, hides and the countless other materials entering into the manufacture of General Motors cars.

And it represents a greatly augmented production of General Motors of Canada, resulting in lower costs of manufacture, in economies of purchasing, in greater savings of time and labor through greater volume.

Thus, because in India, in Egypt, in Malta, Ceylon or South Africa, someone is buying a General Motors car from Canada, General Motors can offer to you, in Canada, a product of higher quality at a lower price than otherwise possible.

GOVERNOR IN TROUBLE

Oklahoma is brewing another political upheaval. Members of the Legislature are discussing a direct attack upon Gov. Henry S. Johnston, elected last November. This time the symbolic figure of political conflict is the rosy cross of Rosicrucianism. The Rosicrucians, a group of unknown strength, perpetuate the knowledge of ancient occultism, as rediscovered and revamped in the seventeenth century. Gov. Johnston is reputed to find political guidance in this mystic philosophy and enquiries into its tenets are reported to be much desired.

JERSEY BECOMES FORMAL

DOROTHY LEDYARD

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Oct. —Dog days of Indian summer seem to be fetching out "doggy" clothes for the smart dog shows that are being held in Gotham's environs.

I take back a lot I said about elaborate, formal, daytime frocks crowding the popular jersey sports suits clear out of sight!

Jersey costumes are smarter than I gave them credit for. They are staging a comeback bid for favor by becoming more elaborate themselves. They are much more formal looking nowadays—some inter-threaded with gold or silver, others combining fine tweeds or cashmeres in their ensembles while still others affect tricky monograms or other novel designs in an all-over pattern.

Some Have Even Fur!

Some of them even have fur to dignify them! A midnight blue cardigan jumper and skirt at the recent North Shore Kennel Club dog show had a regular vestee and collar of mole, with a little four-in-hand of the fur.

One smart model had a tweed circular skirt, angora cardigan and jumper and under the skirt, as the wearer stood with one foot on an auto step, one glimpsed a cute pair of English shorts of the jersey, with tweed bandings.

I noticed Mrs. F. E. Blackwell leaning on her Alpine stick surveying a recent sports event, wearing a striking striped two-piece jersey suit—almost a brick red, with black and pinkish reds in an odd striped weave that looked like peasant embroidery.

Mrs. Soldwedel's Odd Weave.

Mrs. Frederick Soldwedel sponsored another odd weave—a zigzag pattern of tiny diamond-shaped dots in white, yellow and brown. The skirt had side pleated inserts that flared like an open fan. A fan-like jabot flared from the left side of the collarless neck.

MRS. JOHN VAN S. BLOODGOOD

The new high neck is much more stylish than any other note in new sportswear. Mrs. John Van S. Bloodgood is one of the first to adopt it. Her rosy angora sports suit looked smartly trim with one of the high collars—the kind that fastened a bit like a Russian smock—under the left ear. A banding running from the neck to the bottom of the jumper also decorated the left side, and in turn was decorated with wooden buttons and piping in a darker tone.

Her rose hat had a couple of felt tabs flapping from the high crown that corresponded to the jabot tie end of her high collar.

Of the younger girls who favored kasha or tweed with their jerseys, Miss Dorothy Ledyard was a charming example. Grass-green jersey and kasha fashioned the two-piece dress she wore and a little green enameled clover in matching shade ornamented her darker green felt hat.

Her skirt was circular and her jumper had a snug hipline, a collarless neck and two tiny tucks had shoulder fullness.

All this dressing up of jersey is only one indication of just how formal, decorative, interesting and unusual are many of the season's modes. If you don't realize the change—step into the Ritz for tea. There's all the difference in the world, in, say, the headgear this season and last. I saw Mrs. Dorothy Caruso (as the late Caruso's widow chooses to be called since she divorced Capt. Ingram in Paris) in a stunning, soft green turban that had just the right bit of manipulation up-in-the-front to give it individuality.

Broadway openings, too, are always as interesting for the brilliant assemblages in the audience as for the productions. Swathed hiplines with flaring dipping, scintillating skirts—bodices elaborately decorated but simply cut, though very low.

TALE SPINNERS FORM LIARS' CLUB

PANA, Ill., Oct. —While motoring through Oklahoma recently, Carl H. Preihs was attacked by a band of hostile Indians, but he seized a tomahawk from one and slew 45 of them.

That is the story told from a speaker's platform here by Preihs himself. The statement may be explained by the fact that he is secretary of the Central Illinois Liars' Association.

Business and professional men organized the club because they wanted a social organization that would be "different." Once a month they get together for a session of well-told falsehoods, and the ones who tell the biggest whoppers are made officers. Members point out that they never mix their pleasure with business affairs.

This youthful adventurer has had one book for boys published on his experiences in the James Bay country. This summer he travelled nearly 800 miles with Bishop Anderson of Moosonee on the Albany and English rivers, and is now in his way home to Walton, New York. Young North's great-grandfather, Jonathan Carver, was one of the original explorers of Wisconsin in 1766-68.

EUROPE TO SEND RADIO PROGRAMS

Short Wave Station Recently Completed in England To Be Used.

This is the radiogram which comes from Capt. P. Eckersley, Chief Engineer of the British Broadcasting Company.

"Any European programme available to America if Europe linked together by land line just as any American programme available in Europe provided short waves satisfactory intercontinental link."

This message is of vast interest to broadcast listeners.

It reflects a new epoch in broadcasting.

It means a real thrill for millions throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, all through Europe, and perhaps in the remotest parts of the world, which have been reached by short waves and rebroadcasts.

As already announced, England is to send programs on short waves for the benefit of American listeners, through the new high power station just erected at Chelmsford, which programs will be rebroadcast on the regular wave-lengths on the station of the National Broadcasting Company, when conditions are favorable.

Now it seems that the fans are to get even much more of a treat—transmissions from all the capitals of Europe!

For the first time, then, programs from Berlin, Rome, Paris, Vienna, Brussels, and other points will be heard on this side of the Atlantic, with reasonable clarity and volume, instead of a smattering of noise-laden carrier wave as marked the receptions, generally, during the international tests two and three years ago.

According to the terms of the radiogram, it seems that the plan is for programs to be sent over land lines, running to the English Channel, thence through the wires contained in the cable under that stormy body of water, to England, where the music and song will be dispatched to the four winds via 6 SW.

European broadcasters are working together in the Union Internationale die Radiophonie. This is why it is taken for granted over here that there will be no opposition to the idea of using a British outlet for a foreign program. It is likewise to be assumed, that in the course of short wave development each nation will seek to use its own transmitters, from time to time, if receiving arrangements are made by broadcast interests in this country.

However, this is not a point which is worrying American listeners; they are content to await the actual programs just promised, regardless of the method adopted on the other side to send them over the ocean.

Actual dates for the beginning of this interchange of programs are not known, but it will be only a few weeks before the date of the first transmission, that of an English program, will be announced.

Prophecies of the dreamers are exceeded. They visualized the time—in the far distant future—when a musicale from Madrid and an opera from Budapest would be heard in London. That has been realized. They never fancied that with the swiftness of light these programs would be conveyed to another continent—that in hundreds and thousands of homes, 4,000 miles away, there would be delighted listeners, who, incidentally, would hear the soloists before the voices reached the ears of the visible audiences! Yet that is the miracle of radio.

LINEN SHOWER.

Held in Honor of Miss Mary Simpson at Alderville.

ROSENEATH, Nov. 1.—On Monday evening, Mrs. (Rev.) H. Wilding entertained a number of young ladies of the Alderville Reserve, in honor of Miss May Simpson, who is to be married on Wednesday next.

A most enjoyable evening was spent. Miss Simpson was the recipient of a number of beautiful and useful linen articles with a host of good wishes for her future happiness.

A delightful and dainty luncheon was served by the hostess, after which several musical numbers were given.

The guests who were present were: Misses Mary and Charlotte Lake, Gladys and Nellie Franklin, Amy and Evelyn Simpson, Myrtle Beaver, Jennie, Marsden, Kathleen Smoke, Ellen Loukes and Mesdames W. Marsden, B. Crowe, A. Simpson, F. Simpson and C. Franklin.

Fowl Supper.

The Centenary United church congregation were the first in this district to have a fowl supper which was held on Tuesday evening. The weather was ideal and the gathering likewise.

It has been known for years what innumerable tasty dishes to both tempt and satisfy the appetite the women of Centenery can place on the tables. The evening entertainment was duly appreciated and testified by the large gathering.

After supper was served an excellent programme was rendered by local talent, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings and recitations, etc., giving a pleasing atmosphere, where one forgets their troubles.

Fenella congregation held special anniversary services on Sunday last October 30th at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. when Rev. Hie of Hastings was in charge. The following Sunday, November 6th a Thank-offering anniversary services will be held at Roseneath United church —Rev. Black of Toronto Metropolitan church, will be the speaker.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary Brown (better known as Aunt Mary) are sorry to learn of her illness and trust for a speedy recovery.

WHALING FLEET HAS THRILLS.

Thrills aplenty were experienced by a fleet of Norwegian whalers in the Antarctic seas during the season that has just closed. Within an hour 41 icebergs were sighted, one of them being several miles long and 3,000 feet high. During one severe gale the wind carried away the whales that had been lashed to the mother ship, and a smaller vessel was compelled to cast away the two whales it was towing. For a time there was danger that the waves would throw one of the whales on top of the vessel. One whale caught was 125 feet long and yielded 175 barrels of oil. The total yield of oil for the season was valued at $2,500,000.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

R. P. CRANE JOINS ADVERTISING FIRM

Brilliant Writer Becomes a Member of Crowell, Williams and Co.

CHICAGO, October 31. — Robert P. Crane, one of the most brilliant and highly paid advertising writers in the world, has been elected vice-president of Crowell, Williams & Co., 612 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, a well-known advertising agency.

The name of the corporation will soon be changed to Crowell, Crane, Williams & Co., and an announcement to this effect is expected within a few days.

Mr. Crane's record has been equalled by few men in advertising. Not only has he written advertising on which millions of dollars have been spent, but advertisements which have been conspicuously successful, profitable and long remembered. Among them the original copy for Palmolive Soap, and the Big Ben Alarm Clock campaign, which stands as a classic in advertising although published more than ten years ago. Practically all of the Sunkist Orange advertising which the public has read for the past 11 years was planned and written by Mr. Crane in his former advertising connection.

The acquisition of Mr. Crane by Crowell, Williams & Co. gives that concern a dual combination of advertising writers probably unexcelled in the advertising business. The other man is L. A. Crowell, president of the company, whose work is most frequently associated by the advertising fraternity with the Parker Duofold Pen advertising, although his advertising experience covers numerous industries.

Mr. Crowell originated and has continuously written the Parker Duofold advertising since its inception.

SHORT STORY

ROLLING STONE

By Jane Osborn.

"Who cares for moss, anyway!" Daphne had flung out at her sister four years ago—and big sister Agnes had never forgotten it.

"If you don't care for my advice, all right," Agnes had said. "I am ten years older than you and I am married and some people would think that my advice would be worth something to you. I was simply telling you that I did not approve of Donald Scott as—as a brother-in-law. He isn't worth a farthing and he never sticks at anything. Now he's got a crazy notion that he can make more money in the city where he doesn't know a soul and has positively no opening than he could here in Blenheim where he knows people who are sorry for him. I'm married and I know that a girl has simply got to have a comfortable income to be happy after she is married. Thank fortune George wasn't a rolling stone. He had sense enough to go into his father's store, and as a result we have enough— and I am perfectly happy."

"I didn't say you weren't happy," snapped Daphne. "And I didn't say that I was going to marry Donald Scott. Donald has never asked me to marry him. What I did say was that I wasn't going to marry Walter Reed, even if he is your husband's best friend, and even if he had chosen to cramp himself by settling right down here in Blenheim in a garage when all the time he hates the smell of gasoline and really wants to be an artist. Perhaps he will gather a whole lot more moss than Donald—but, as I said before, who cares for moss? I am sure I don't."

"You'll sing a different song four years from now," said Agnes.

In a way Agnes was right. Four years later Daphne was quite willing to admit that what she had once lightly called "moss" had a perfectly legitimate place in considerations of matrimony.

Walter Reed had resumed his suit from time to time, and, being the only eligible in Blenheim, there were times when Daphne had seriously considered accepting his proposal. There had certainly never been anything of the rolling stone about Walter. He hadn't even taken a vacation for four years. Not that there was any undue press of business. On the contrary, the state highway had been diverted away from Blenheim, though there had been a good chance at one time that it would run right by Walter's garage.

"I would marry Walter," Daphne was saying as she sat with her sister Agnes on the front veranda one pleasant summer evening, "only the idea of giving up a good job to try and scrimp along on what he makes just makes me terrified. You told me once, Agnes, that at least a comfortable income was necessary to happiness. I think you were right, especially when a girl marries a man that she isn't absolutely crazy about. Walter told me just what his income was. He even showed me a possible budget as he had figured it out. No allowance for help at all. And just one hundred and fifty dollars a year for my dress allowance. He said that his mother had got along on that——"

Daphne did not tell her sister that that very afternoon a tall, well-dressed young man had called at the bank, that he had asked for her and that he had turned out to be Donald Scott. Daphne had talked to him for a minute or two through the gratings of the cashier's "cage." She had told him that she still lived with her sister Agnes and that she would be at home that evening, "after supper."

It was the sound of Donald's footsteps that suddenly interrupted the discussion of Walter Reed's prospects.

Donald sat with them there on the comfortable veranda. Urged by Daphne he told them something of his life since he had left Blenheim. He had gone to a big city where he worked for a time as a newspaper reporter, then somehow he got to doing theatrical press work, and that led to a brief two or three months on the stage. Then a try in the movies. Then a chance to get into the engineering end of the pictures. He'd had a course or two in engineering when he worked his way through college. But not enough. Followed a winter studying—working like a beaver to pay his expenses as he went. Then back to the job he had left among motion picture engineers. That was two years ago. Since then "things had gone rather nicely," Donald modestly explained.

"Then you're really doing well?" Agnes asked. "As well as if you'd stuck here in Blenheim?"

Donald laughed—but answered politely enough that he thought he was. "I wouldn't tell anyone else," Donald said, "but I must tell you." He named a yearly income that was four times as great as that of Agnes's husband—which she considered more than comfortable. "I am telling you so that Daphne will know just where I stand. You see—I came back to ask Daphne to marry me. I never dared ask her before."

Agnes faked some excuse and went into the house. Two days later when Donald went back to the big city it was known in Blenheim that he had become engaged to Daphne.

"I always told Daphne that even the best of lovers couldn't live on air," Agnes said to her husband and anyone else who wanted to listen to her. "Walter was very fond of her and fine in many ways, and Daphne might have married him—if it had not been for my advice."

STILL INVENTING AT 86.

Although he is 86 and has lost his right arm, John Phillips, who is known in England for his many inventions, goes to work every day and continues to devise new things. He and his wife, who is 84, recently celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary at their home in Streatham. After Phillips lost his arm several years ago, he immediately learned to write and draw with his left hand. Among his inventions are a rotary bacon cutter, a pneumatic brake, a mineral water bottle, a pill packer and counter, and a machine for automatically turning the leaves of music at a piano.

TO SHOW SINCLAIR WAS INTERESTED

U. S. Government Hopes To Prove Connection With Company.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press).—It was the purpose of the Government to show that Harry P. Sinclair was interested in the Continental Trading Company of Toronto to which figured in the dealings following the transfer of Teapot Dome to Sinclair, asserted Government counsel at the resumption yesterday of the conspiracy trial of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of interior. The Continental Trading Company had a huge amount in Liberty bonds which subsequently was deposited to Fall's credit. The Continental Company was a mere shell, gotten up by "these gentlemen for their own purposes", Owen Roberts, Government Counsel, charged.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CATHOLIC WOMEN ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Branch Formed in Connection With St. Mary's Church, Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 1.—A large number of the lady members of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church here manifested no small amount of interest and enthusiasm when the opportunity arose for the formation of a branch of the Catholic Women's League here. Miss Nellie Doherty, president of the Hastings branch, was present and addressed the meeting. Her ambition was to outline the aims and working methods of the league, which she did in a most capable manner. She said that the main object of the league was to promote a union of all Catholic women for the benefit of Christian fellowship along religious, intellectual, social, and patriotic lines. The motto of the league is "For God and Country."

Keen competition and interest attended the election of officers, with the following result: Chaplain, Rev. Father Phelan, parish priest; president, Mrs. George O'Sullivan; 1st, 2nd ,and 3rd vice-presidents, Mrs. James Kerr, Miss Marguerite Anderson, and Mrs. Peter Corkery; recording secretary, Miss Kathleen O'Shaughnessy; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Mulhearn; treasurer, Mrs. P. J. O'Connor.

OLD HOME WEEK

of great interest to the people of Campbellford, and Mayor Kingston spoek in favor of such a worthy work, but he thought further information should be received before the council took action on the matter.

A communication from the Provincial Tourist Association asking that a representation from Campbellford attend the dinner to be held in the Pompeiian Room of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto ,on November 9, was also laid on the table. A letter from N. Alex. MacColl, claiming damages for his client, Norman Marsden, Alderville, was referred to the Globe Indemnity Company, in which the town is insured. The latter claimed damages to the extent of $350, and is the result of an accident when Marsden's car crashed into the steel support under the C.N.R. overhead bridge on Grand Road.

This being all the communications, any who wished to address the Council were given the opportunity. Charles Nicholas was the first to speak. He asked for an alteration on his sewer tax on Lot 6, Block 11, Inkerman Street. He claimed to be assessed for a 66-foot frontage while he had only 44. In explanation, he said that Charles Horseman, from whom he had bought the property, had been unwilling to sell the full frontage and had retained 22 feet adjoining his own property. Nicholas produced his deed of property, and his claim was substantiated. Assured that the correction would be made immediately, he thanked the Council and left the chambers.

Harry Cassan also appeared on a similar errand. He claimed that he was assessed for a 66-foot frontage, and had only 48 . He stated his willingness to pay for 48 feet even though the sewer did not benefit him, and never could. This was on account of the relative elevations of the sewer and his house. He also reminded the Council that the sewer did not pass his property, but stopped in the centre of the road on the corner of Palliser and Balaclava Streets. He owned the lot on the south-east corner of the intersection. His case other cases quoted as examples. In was thoroughly discussed, and many the end it was decided to leave the matter with the Mayor, Town Clerk, and the solicitor. This seemed the only certain and fair way to deal with the case. Mr. Cassan was satisfied that his interests would be given due consideration.

Old Home Week.

H. Edelstein and J. Hollander appeared before the Council in an attempt to promote an Old Home Week here next summer. Mr. Edelstein said he was willing to pay the town $1,000 for the exclusive rights to put on the entire programme, the town to do the advertising and have the right to collect the admission fee at the Agricultural Grounds for any attractions there. Certain other sources of revenue were also left for the town. Mr. Edelstein spoke very highly of the benefit of such a celebration to the town, and expressed his willingness to submit plans and to co-operate with the Council. He was very desirous of obtaining some definite word of authority at once, but the matter involved too much risk and expense as well as the responsibility to the citizens, for the council to give to definite and final answer. Councillor Wiggins suggested that a committee be formed to "get down to brass tacks" but later it was decided to call a mass meeting of the citizens and ask their opinion. Councillor J. N. Stone spoke very highly of Eddlestein and Hollander, having done considerable business with them.

Mr. Eddelstein also asked what concessions could be granted for the erection of a modern hockey and skating rink. He stated that the proposed building would cost in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars and would be modern in every detail. His request for exemption from taxation for a certain stated period of time was not granted, since it was beyond the power of the council, nor were they able to grant a fixed assessment under the act, as the rink would not be an industry. It was decided to refer the matter to the town solicitor. This seemed about all that was in the bounds of the authority of the council, but it is expected that every assistance will be given the promotion of the scheme as Campbellford has been well and favorably known in sporting circles for many years.

Mr. Marks addressed the Council to ask when they intended completing the job they had begun with reference to his property. For some time there has been a dispute as to the position of his new building. Mr. Marks now claims that the street is on his property, and that the town owes him rental for it. He reminded the Council that about one year ago they had ordered him to move his building as it was on town property. The Mayor immediately and strongly denied that the town owed him money and said that the Council had not yet taken any action regarding his building but that they would do so when they were ready, not before.

Mr. Marks' attitude and language did not seem suitable for the purpose of addressing the Council and Reeve Bygott rose to object strongly. A brief but extremely interesting exchange of words followed which resulted in loud and genuinely sincere applause for the Mayor. Mr. Marks, having obtained no satisfaction, left the council chambers.

When Major Bygott asked permission for the local branch of the Canadian Legion to sell poppies on the streets on Armistice Day, it was readily and generously granted. Councillor Wiggins reported the purchase of six hundred feet of fire hose. The order was divided between two companies, three hundred feet to each. One company had already made delivery. The accounts and pay sheets were then read and passed.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT MAKES MUTUAL DEFENSE TREATIES WITH FIVE EUROPEAN POWERS

Signing of JugoSlav Compact Will Mark New Development.

TEUTONIC BLOC FLANKED.

France's Political Strength Is Increased By Her Alliances.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—An interesting development in European relations is heralded by the notification sent by the Quai d'Orsay to the other Foreign Offices in Europe that France would sign with Yugoslavia before Nov. 15 a treaty of friendship and mutual defence.

Thus France completes the system of mutual defence treaties originated seven years ago by Nationalist Governments and pretty consistently followed since then.

This system of treaties the French consider the best guarantee of their protection. They consider the strength it gives them as worth the risks it entails. With the signature of the treaty the French bloc in Europe will include France and Belgium on one side of the Continent and Yugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Poland on the other side of the Continent. It will be observed that the Germanic bloc lies between two pincers.

Treaties Not Called Alliances.

It is not desired in Paris that these treaties be called alliances, although the treaties with Belgium and Poland would fall in that category. It is contended that these compacts fall within the provisions of the Covenant of the League of Nations and they are all registered at Geneva. It is not contested that France and her satellites agree that in the event either party to any of the treaties being the victim of an aggressive war the other party will give military aid. In the arrangement with Rumania the case of a Russian war to regain Bessarabia is barred as an occasion calling for French intervention.

France labels the arrangement as regional security compacts as approved by the League of Nations. However, not only do they give France military strength in return for risks on the part of Paris, but they also give France political strength on the continent, for it stands to reason that France will expect her satellites generally to favor the French point of view in major world issues.

While placing reliance on their treaties the French lose no opportunity to point out that their foreign policy looks to the closest co-operation with England and to conciliation with Germany. She contends that with both Spain and Italy, she seeks to reach a more complete understanding.

While England has from time to time been accused by the French of working against the cementing of the French bloc in Europe, certainly since Sir Austen Chamberlain has been Foreign Secretary, London has tended to accept the French group as a fait accompli. Generally speaking, Sir Austen Chamberlain and Foreign Ministers, notably M. Briand, have worked hand in hand with a minimum of friction.

INGERSOL SCHOOL ORDERED CLOSED

Several Cases of Diphtheria, With One Death, Reported in Town.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 1.—Canadian Press. — As a result of diphtheria cases which have developed in Ingersoll during the past few days, the Ingersoll public school was ordered closed yesterday. One death is reported that of a young lad whose sister attended school. Special instructions for the proper disinfection of the school have been issued by the Provincial Health Board.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 1.—James Gay, who has been engaged with a Brighton firm for several weeks is back in town.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart are visiting in town for a few days.

Men and material for the new C.N.R. station platform have arrived and the work is under way. The platform is to be of amiesite construction. The work is being watched with interest as the town is anticipating an extensive paving program for next season. The paving material has not yet been selected.

After the usual religious exercises, the meeting of the St. John's young people took the form of a masquerade party. Practically everyone was in costume and the party was a complete success. Games, contests, community singing and all manner of interesting entertainment was at hand. Prizes for costumes were awarded to Jack Dooher for finding the most nuts, Nettie Forbes for the best lady's costume; Fred Palliser for the best boy's comic costume, G. Smith for the most artistic boy's costume. Enid Richardson won the booby prize and Irene Dunk was at the other end of the class. Miss Blake won the prize for the lady's comic costume.

A Hallowe'en lunch of fruit, candy and nuts was served by the ladies. After a short period of lusty community singing, the meeting closed with "Taps." It was a most enjoyable, sane, and proper method of celebrating the eve of All Saints' Day.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"I can tell you the truth, Faith? Anything? You promise not to be shocked or disapproving or—hurt?" Cherry asked wistfully, a new, lovely note of humility in her voice.

Faith was glad that the dusk hid any expression of fear that might have flitted across her face. Was Cherry about to tell her that she loved Bob? "Anything, of course, darling. And I'll promise to be as sympathetic as possible." She held Cherry's small, cold hands tight against her breast.

"The whole trouble with me, Faith," Cherry burst out passionately, "is that I don't belong to anyone. Oh, to Hope, of course, but she's just a tiny baby that hardly seems like a person to me yet. Since Muggy died——" and her voice broke on that babyish name for her mother, as it always did—"there has been no one who puts me first. Oh, I'm not blaming you! Of course you love Bob best, even if he does get jealous of me sometimes because you love me. No, please, let me go on!" she pleaded, as Faith was about to interrupt reassurances. "If I just had a home of my own, a man of my own, a normal life of my own! I'm taboo here with the nicest men. Their mothers and sisters would throw fits if they rushed me, wanted to marry me—me! That notorious Cherry Lane, who was tried for murder'! They forget I was acquitted——"

"You mustn't brood about it, honey," Faith cried pityingly. "The public soon forgets——"

"Not in your own home town!" Cherry contradicted bitterly. "I'm branded! They didn't just try me for a murder I didn't commit. They put my reputation on trial and—and murdered it. Any man that I meet now thinks I'm fair game. And only the men who don't care what people think of them dare go with me. What chance have I got to get married to a decent man of good social position? I won't marry a lout like Chester Harte——"

"Have you been seeing Chester?" Faith interrupted in astonishment. It seemed ages since Cherry, out of pure love of conquest, had "vamped" Chester Harte from her. Not that she had been sorry to lose him!

"Oh, off and on," Cherry acknowledged with a shrug. "He still wants to marry me. I would have married Glenn Andrews, if he hadn't acted such a beast when Hope was kidnapped by Chris. And—and I would marry Bruce Patton, though I haven't an ounce of real respect for him, if he would ask me. But he won't! I hate him and I'm crazy about him! You know how he affects a girl! Heaven knows you tumbled quick enough!"

Faith's face flamed in the dusk, but she did not loosen her comforting clasp of those twitching, cold little hands. "I'm sorry, honey. I wouldn't have made you jealous for the world. I was just being human, for once. Of course he did make me feel exhilarated. And Bob has been so—grouchy of late that I didn't think it would do him any harm to see that someone else found me attractive, to feel a little twinge of jealousy——" She was about to add "himself," but dread of precipitating a confession from Cherry that would bring matters to a crisis between the three of them stayed her tongue in time.

Cherry laughed nervously, a little too loudly. "That was my psychology exactly! But unfortunately I only had a prosy old brother-in-law with which to make Bruce jealous. I didn't mean to hurt you, darling. I didn't really, did I?" she asked anxiously.

"Oh, no!" Faith lied gallantly,, but she was relieved that the crisis once more had been avoided.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

For Wednesday, November 2, 1927.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Although there is a dominant benefic aspect to-day, it is read by astrologers as rather menacing in planetary government.

There is a sign most promising to industry, read as presaging for workers' employment and good wages.

Labor is subject to planetary influences making for ability to demand large compensation. Strikes here and there are presaged.

Women should be cautious and should postpone all important initiative while this rule prevails.

If the seers are right, there will be little chance for women to be prominent in the next national campaign, except as subordinates in political work.

This is read as unpromising for theatrical ventures and may be disappointing to producers of new plays.

The seers prophesy for the winter much that is distinctive in the line of public amusement.

Motion-pictures are subject to a sway of the stars not altogether favorable, although rises in prices of admissions to the best theatres are forecast.

An aftermath to an American pilgrimage abroad, which may be more or less unfortunate is prognosticated.

The evening of this day should be lucky for newspapers which probably will chronicle an extraordinary event.

Late to-day the signing of leases or contracts is well directed and should bring good luck.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have an exacting year. They should beware of disputes with business associates.

Children born on this day probably will have ability in mechanical lines. They may be hard workers and successful.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. If dinner guests do not smoke, is it courteous for the host and hostess to do so?
2. Do considerate women show the same regard for their associates as men by asking permission to smoke?
3. If smoking, what courtesies should women observe?

The Answers.

1. No.
2. They should.
3. Be careful not to blow the smoke in another's eyes and not to strew ashes about. Sometimes women are more careless than men.

Curly locks are to be the leading fashion in hair during the coming months, and whether a woman chooses to have her hair long or short, she must have curls in some part of her coiffure.

The Women's Savings and Loan Company of Cleveland, Ohio, was organized, financed and is managed entirely by women. It is believed to be the only women's organization of its kind in the United States and after five years of steadily-growing business it can be rated as a success.

LUCKY BLONDE -- SHE CAN WEAR 'MOST ANYTHING!

BUT SHE MUSN'T FORGET HER BIRTHRIGHT—DAINTINESS

By Henri Bendel,
For NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The third in our series of costumes designed for special types of beauty brings us to the blonde.

Whenever I hear anyone say, "Oh, she can wear anything, any color," I know the speaker is talking about a blonde.

For blondes come nearer wearing any type of dress, any lines, any color than either the exotic brunette or the temperamental Titians.

But right there lies the danger. Wearing anything, fairly well, the blonde may forget her birthright. That is to look dainty. She may be five feet tall, or six—as is the beautiful wife of a famous portrait painter—but the blonde just must be dainty to be right. Meticulous grooming and careful choice of clothes achieve this.

Be Fussy, Blondes.

Fussy clothes become the blonde more than other women. Such things as ruffles, tiered skirts, flounces and drapes, elaborate lace yokes, tricky little suits, and all the do-dads that the feminine heart seems to crave, detract less from a blonde than from any other type of beauty.

Pinks, apparently, were made for blondes, they can do so many things to her. A dawn pink enhances her daintiness and adds a modest note. Rose can make her look like a bewitching sophisticated flirt. But red again makes her demure and dangerous.

Blues are good, from the faintest robin's egg blue to midnight. So are greens. Browns are excellent on the demi-blonde. Grays on others. Lavenders and purples sometimes are a riot on a blonde. But for yellows—the blonde should forego yellows unless she is a honey blonde, when a daffodil yellow sometimes brings out the amber of her eyes and is stunningly lovely.

The evening wrap shown today is designed with an eye to blonde feminine fussiness, though it is so skillfully worked that it papears simple. It is a rich cardinal red velvet wrap, fashioned in three tiers, with the yoke and Elizabethan collar shirred tightly, leaving little discs of plain velvet which add a polka dotted motif. It is lined with shell pink crepe and has a spacious pocket inside for the opera glasses, vanity case and what-not a little blonde would need.

The little hat is another example how the simplest apparel the blonde wears may have frills or furbelows added and she can get away with it. The hat is a charming little mushroom import of beige felt. Most women, for a daytime hat, would have only a banding. But Miss Chandler chooses an ornate wreath of velvet leaves, in rich, gaudy autumn reds, yellows and browns—and it makes her look demure!

Period Gowns Perfect.

The period gowns, with their tightly fitted bodices and bouffant skirts, are perfect on blondes. Nothing on earth is more dainty or more feminine than the fitted bodice of soft shimmering materials which flare to give the grace and charm of the old-time full skirts.

The evening gown shown today is a Lanvin import—in shell pink, silver and diamante. The little bodice is of satin, fashioned tight, with a quaint pointed yoke of silver spangles and diamante. A bow-knot of similar trimming is worked in the girdle of the bodice, with long streamers of the sparkling ornamentation swinging gracefully.

The bouffant skirt is made in four sections of chiffon, each flaring section double tiered, and all floating softly in rhythmic motion as the wearer dances. No jewels are needed with so dainty a dress as this. More than a tasselled neckline would, in fact, detract from the delicacy of the picture.

For while blondes can wear anything and all the ruffles their hearts desire, the wise blonde knows that the more feminine and child-like she appears, the more appealing she is. And she chooses her dainty costumes accordingly.

Cakes that stay fresh for days and days

When you use Quaker Cake Flour you have no waste of materials through your cakes turning out poor or flat.

You have no waste through cakes becoming stale. For a suitable quantity of highest grade potato flour is added to the finely ground Ontario wheat flour.

Quaker Cake Flour gives you new and surprising delights with cakes of feathery lightness, fine texture and delicate flavour.

Chocolate Cake

½ cup butter; 1 cup white sugar; 2 eggs; ½ cup cocoa; ¾ cup sour milk; ½ teaspoon soda; 1¾ cups Quaker Cake Flour, well sifted; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon vanilla; 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream the butter; add sugar gradually; cream together thoroughly; add eggs well beaten; then cocoa; sift soda over sour milk and beat together; add sour milk and flour, well sifted, alternately; then salt and vanilla; beat thoroughly; sift baking powder over mixture; beat in quickly; bake in moderate oven 40 minutes, temperature 350°; cover with brown sugar frosting.

DRESS

A small bow of satin to trim a cloth frock is shown above; at the right, detail of a velvet frock with a narrow collar fastened at back with a long bow hanging down the back, and at the upper left corner a bow of material fallin over the arm on a new velvet frock. Below at the right a velvet bow on the long sleeve of a crepe de chine frock, and below at the left beige grosgrain ribbon bows on shoulder and hips of a black velvet frock.

There is something rather demure, unsophisticated and possibly sentimental about the bow-knot. And within recent seasons when sophistication has been considered one of the essentials of smartness, the simple bow has been rather out of fashion. Ends have been knotted, looped, made into tabs, but not tied in bow-knots.

Perhaps it is a sign that the craze for sophistication is passing—the recent revival of the bow-knot. Bows of all sorts are to be found on the new frocks—prim little ribbon bows to trim the hem of the period frock for evening, sash bows with enormous, slightly crushed loops and long ends, narrow bows with small loops and very long ends, full puffy little bows, slinky bows, shoulder bows, back bows, front bows, sleeve bows—every sort that you can imagine.

Black velvet is combined with rare charm by Worth and other French dressmakers. One frock has long, slightly flaring sleeves of the velvet with simply constructed undersleeves of white georgette and a white georgette vestee. In planning a black velvet and white georgette frock the georgette portions should be made so that they may readily be removed, so that they may be kept immaculately clean.

Patou is one of the French dressmakers who are using cream-colored lace at the wrists and neck line of some of his new dark velvet frocks. It certainly adds much to the becomingness of the frock.

And don't forget that skirts really are longer. Personally I think it called for more courage on the part of the designers to start to lengthen skirts this season than it did to shorten them to begin with. Reaction, nowadays, always seems to be more difficult to achieve than action. Besides, there are some women who feel that if they yield an inch now they will have to give an ell later on. And they cannot endure the thought of going back to really long skirts.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIRD PATH

"My, but it is very hot today!" said Mrs. Longears as she sat on the front porch of the hollow stump bungalow, fanning herself with the broad green leaf of a burdock plant.

"If we would only get some rain it would make us cooler," said Uncle Wiggily, who, sitting next to his wife, had a rhubarb leaf, or one from the pieplant, for his fan.

"The birds are suffering, too," squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "See how they sit in the shade with their beaks open."

Uncle Wiggily looked and saw four sparrows, three robins and two bluejays lying on their sides under the shade of a currant bush. As Nurse Jane had said, each bird had its beak open to get as much air in its mouth as possible.

"I should think they would fly down to the brook and take a bath," spoke Mrs. Longears. "That would cool them."

"It is of no use to go to the brook," panted one of the robins. "The weather is so hot and we have had no rain in such a long time that the brook is dry. There is no place we can take a bath or we would be splashing water now."

"What!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "No bath for you birds! That is too bad. I'll make you a bath at once—!"

"You cannot put water in the brook. You cannot make it rain!" said the muskrat lady housekeeper.

There was a queer tooting sound.

"No, but I can put a shallow, earthen dish out here in the yard, in the shade, and fill it with water," said Uncle Wiggily. "And that is what I am going to do."

It did not take the rabbit gentleman long to make the bird bath. Nurse Jane gave him the red clay saucer from an old flower pot and this was soon filled with water from the sprinkling can and set in the shade. The birds watched anxiously and no sooner was the bath ready than the blue jays, being boldest, at once fluttered in and splashed to their hearts' content. Then the sparrows crowded in and the robins had their turn. After that came many birds to cool themselves in the water.

As the water was splashed away, Uncle Wiggily poured more in, keeping it clean and fresh, yet not making it too deep, for a bird must bathe in shallow water, standing up and scattering the drops over his back and fluttering his wings.

While Uncle Wiggily was watching his bird bath and wishing it was cool weather so he could go adventuring, all of a sudden along came creeping Mrs. Longtail, the mouse lady.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" she squeaked, "I am in such trouble!"

"Do you want a bath?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "If you do I will ask the birds to let you have a turn."

"Oh, my gracious, no! I had my bath at home!" squeaked Mrs. Longtail. "But I am in trouble about Squeakie Eekie, the cousin mouse. She crept out with her red parasol, saying she was going to look for a cool spot. But it is a long time, now, and she has not come home. I am afraid the Weasel has caught her!"

"Oh, that would be too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go look for Squeakie Eekie. I'll find her and her red parasol!"

"No, Uncle Wiggily!" sang a robin. "It is too hot for you to go hopping around. We birds can fly through the air much easier, especially since you helped us to cool off in your bath. We will fly around and look for Squeakie Eekie."

"You can easily tell her by her red parasol," said Mrs. Longtail.

So the birds fluttered high up over the woods and fields, looking down for a sight of the lost little cousin mouse. At last Mr. and Mrs. Robin, flying together, saw Squeakie lost in a tangle of high grass. The poor little cousin mouse could not see which way to go, and she was tired, hot and frightened. She was crying.

"Dry your tears, my dear!" sang Mrs. Robin as she and her husband flew down beside little mouse. "We can easily take you home."

"And will you take my red parasol, too?" sobbed Squeakie.

"Surely!" sang Mr. Robin. With the help of the tailor, or sewing bird, the two robins made a little hammock out of leaves and grass. In this Squeakie Eekie was put with her red parasol, and then the robins took hold, one at each end of the leaf grass hammock, and soon flew to the hollow stump bungalow with the lost mouse.

"Oh, how happy I am!" squeaked Mrs. Longtail. "Squeakie is found!" The cousin mouse was happy too, and so was Mr. Longears. Then the robins took another bath to cool off.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will help reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time, indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Bond's Drug Store, C. M. Moneur, Bert McLeod, McDermid Drug Co., Ltd., and McDermid & Jury sells lots of it.

Dempsey May Again Seek Heavyweight Crown

REPORTED TEX RICKARD SEEKS EX-CHAMPION'S AGREEMENT TO MEET HEAVYWEIGHT KING

Dempsey Holds Conference With Promoter in Madison Square Garden.

LAW SUIT QUESTION

Principles Will Not Admit Conference Concerned Affairs Fistic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—The possibility that Jack Dempsey would seek the heavyweight crown of Gene Tunney next July appeared yesterday as the former king of the pugilistic realm held a lengthy conference with Tex Rickard in Madison Square Garden.

Although neither Rickard nor Dempsey would admit that the conference concerned affairs fistic, the report was current that the promoter sought Dempsey's agreement to meet Tunney early in the outdoor season as protection against the plans of Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, to match the title holder against a logical opponent in the midwest some time in September. Rickard's agreement with Tunney is said to call for a title defence some time before September 1, 1928.

"I have not signed to fight anyone," Dempsey said, "and I haven't even decided whether or not I will enter the ring again. That must wait until spring, when the law suits of Jack Kearns and Teddy Hayes have been settled."

Stick to Agreement.

Dempsey admitted, however, that in case he does try again to lift the crown Tunney won from him at Philadelphia and defended successfully in Chicago this fall, the battling will be done under Rickard's direction, in accordance with an agreement entered into some time ago.

"Just now," Dempsey said, "I'm here to fight Jack Kearns' suit for $333,333.33, that opens in Trenton, N.J., November 15. We're going to the bat to settle once and for all whether or not he has any money coming to him from me.

"If I owe Kearns anything I have the money to pay him and I will. It is just a matter of a contract which he believes he has and I believe he hasn't. There is absolutely no possibility of either a settlement or reconciliation. That part of it, at least, was settled long ago."

Dempsey, apparently in splendid health, said that Leo P. Flynn, advisor during the recent come-back campaign, probably would handle his affairs again in the event of a new assault on Tunney's title. There could be no need of a decision in that matter, Dempsey said, until a return to the ring had been decided upon definitely.

Retain His Authority.

Tex Rickard may be at odds with some of the directors of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, but the veteran promoter has no idea of severing his connections with the organization or relinquishing any of his authority as president and general manager. He made this clear yesterday upon his return from a vacation.

Faced with an assortment of reports of difficulties with his associates even of rumors that he would be "ousted" from his controlling position Rickard dismissed them as "laughables." His long term contract, which has more than 20 years yet to run, would be a sufficient barrier to any break in relations, Rickard pointed out, even if it was desired either by himself or by a majority of directors.

Boxing observers, nevertheless, are convince dthat a decided rift has occurred in the Garden organization, involving some reported jealousies in the handling of big fistic events such as the Dempsey-Tunney battle at Chicago. It is said some directors felt Rickard was too extravagant in handling some phases of the Chicago title affair. But whether these issues, if they actually exist, have assumed a serious aspect is not definitely. Rickard yesterday minimized reports of any disagreements. He has a conference scheduled with the corporation directors to-day.

The promoter, nevertheless, made clear his intention of keeping a firm hold of Garden affairs, while at the same time revealing that he had disposed of virtually half of his stockholdings in the corporation.

"It is silly to talk of my stepping out," he declared. "The new Garden is the fulfillment of my dream."

Trouble With Food.

Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, who makes his American debut this Friday in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden with Knute Hansen, has found more difficulty with American food than with ring methods here.

Our "over-sweet, cream-ridden dishes" disagreed with him, he said, to such an extent that his manager obtained an English cook to serve him beefsteak for breakfast and mutton with boiled potatoes and brussels sprouts for dinner.

"Scott is not so pretty a boxer as Billy Wells, another English pugilist," according to his manager, "but he is much more of a fighter, and therefore far more likely to be successful against the highly trained American boxers with their intensive scientific methods."

Six-Day Bike Grind Will Open December 4

NEW YORK, November 1. — New York's forty-third international six-day bicycle race will be held in Madison Square Garden from December 4 to 10 and will be preceded by the customary Saturday night sprint carnival on December 3, according to an announcement yesterday by John M. Chapman.

Chapman, who plans to confine the field to fifteen teams, expects to have fifteen American riders with as many European stars in the grind. Reggie McNamara, "Iron Man" of cycling, who won the race last March with Franco Georgetti, Italian, will be among the starters, as will Georgetti, according to present plans. It is likely the victors will be split as a team.

B. C. CHAMPIONS WILL COME EAST

Meet Winners of Winnipeg Loop for Western Championship.

VANCOUVER, B. C., November 1.—Canadian Press. — The champions of the British Columbia "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League will travel east to meet the winners of the Winnipeg Tammany Tigers-Regina Rough-Riders game for the championship of Western Canada Rugby Football Union. This was announced by James Benthanin, secretary of the "Big Four" League. University of British Columbia and Vancouver will meet at Athletic Park, Thanksgiving Day, in the last Vancouver game of the season. If Varsity wins they will be champions, but if Vancouver should win Varsity will have to defeat Westminster to remain in a tie with Vancouver.

Officials of the Western Union at Winnipeg have wired the "Big Four" heads that they want the British Columbia representative to be in either Winnipeg or Regina Nov. 12. The local Rugby heads state however that they cannot be ready to play until November 19.

HAGEN LEADING IN PRO TOURNEY

Score Three Strokes Better Than Any of His Competitors.

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, Dallas Texas, Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Stroking a sparkling 69, two under par, in his afternoon round for a day's total of 141, Walter Hagen, four times professional golf champion of the United States, took the lead over a field of 65 professionals in the qualifying round of the professional golfers' tournament here yesterday.

Hagen's score was three strokes better than any of his strong competitors, Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, Ohio; Joe Turness and Gene Sarazen of New York, all of whom finished with 144's. Al Espinosa, of Chicago, was two strokes behind with 146.

Par's resistance on the course was demonstrated last week when only five players broke into that class during the practice rounds. Sarazen was the leader of this group, holding a 68 and a 70.

Johnny Farrell, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., tied Espinosa at 146 and Harry Cooper of Los Angeles; Francis Gallet, of Weuwautasa, Wis., and Jack Farrell of New York, scored 147's.

After them the field strung out until six players tied at 154 for the last five places in the tournament play. Because darkness was falling over the course, it was necessary to postpone the play-off until to-day.

Hagen scored his brilliant total after he had had some tough luck in a trap on the first nine of the morning round and gone two over par. He was by far the steadiest man of the course, however, and came home in one under par to give him a 72 for the morning. In the afternoon he assaulted the first nine again and scored two birdies for a 33, two under par.

Match play will start to-day at nine o'clock and each match will go 36 holes. Hagen, because of his exhibition yesterday was a heavy favorite last night, but Gene Sarazen, who is noted for his ability to get the master's goat in match competition, was equally well backed.

To-day's Pairings.

Cedaf Crest Country Club, Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1.—Pairing of the qualifiers for the first round matches of the professional golfers' association tournament here to-day follows:

Johnny Farrell, 146, vs. Tommy Armour, 152.

John Perelli, 151, vs. Tom Harmon, 153.

Tony Maners, 154, vs. Bobby Cruickshank, 149.

Jack Farrell, 148, vs. Walter Hagen, 141.

Albert Alcroft, 144, vs. Morte Dutra, 149.

Charles Guest, 149, vs. Roland Hancock, 153.

Al Espinosa, 146, vs. Mel Smith, 148.

Eddy Murphy, 154, vs. Harry Cooper, 147.

James Gullane, 152, vs. Ed Dudley, 150.

Gene Sarazen, 144, vs. Eddy Loos, 154.

William Klein, 152, vs. Mill Mehlhorn, 150.

Charles McKenna, 151, vs. Joe Turness, 144.

John Golden, 151, vs. Charles Koentz, 153.

Willie Kidd, 154, vs. Harold Lang, 152.

Francis Gallet 147, vs. Bob Shave, 152.

Fred Baroni, 154, vs. Ralph Beach, 153.

Tony Maners, Eddie Murphy, Fred Baroni, Eddie Lees, Willie Kidd and J. G. Curley, all of whom scored 154, will meet before the matches today.

MAY SUCCEED JOHNSON

E. S. Barnard, president and general manager of the Cleveland American League Club appeared last night to be the logical choice of the American League Club owners to succeed Ban Johnson as president of the circuit.

The meeting to elect Johnson's successor will be held here Wednesday. Barnard it was reported, is moving to Chicago to-day to assume his duties at the head of the league as soon as the official announcement of his election is made.

It was also said he will be offered a four year contract at $40,000 a year —the same figure Johnson received after 26 years of building up the League. In addition to naming Johnson's successor the league probably will arrange for a suitable memorial to Johnson who is at present at Excelsior Springs, Mo., attempting to regain his health.

Sets New Record In Albany Swim

NEW YORK, November 1. —Canadian Press. — Geo. Creegan, Paterson N. J., Y.M.C.A. swimmer, who established a new record for the swim from Albany to the Battery last Saturday in 50 hours and six minutes, was received yesterday by Edward Stanton, secretary to Mayor Walker, at the City Hall.

Creegan lowered the record of the Zitenfeld twins by two hours and 25 minutes ,completing the trip in ten days of swimming.

Creegan, who is 27 years of age and was life guard at Long Branch N. J., last summer, is to be entered in a swim at Florida this winter, and in another off the California Coast, according to the present plans by his managers. He previously held the record for the swim around Manhattan Island and was an entrant in the Catalina Channel, Lake George and Toronto marathons.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Johnson to Send Newark Pitchers South In February; Bans Games For First 10 Days

WASHINGTON, November 1. — Walter Johnson, who took orders for twenty years in the major leagues, yesterday gave his first lesson as to how a minor league club should be managed.

In a conference here with James P. Sinnott, president of the Newark Bears of the International League, with whom the veteran Washington twirler has signed a two-year contract, Johnson discussed spring training plans and laid down rule No. 1 for his pitchers, including probably himself.

He told Sinnott that the Bear hurling staff should get under way for the Florida camp the last week in February, and advised that no games should be played during the first ten days of training. Eustis, Fla., has made a definite offr for th training site contract ,although several other Florida towns were said by Sinnott to be under consideration.

Johnson agreed to meet Sinnott in Dallas, Texas, for the meeting of the National Association of Baseball Clubs, December 6, 7, and 8.

COLORFUL SCENES

ing all the way from the Missing Link to the lady of the future. It was a gay spectacle with crowded galleries watching the multi-colored and enthusiastic revellers promenade around the judges' stand. Of a truth the whole was a galaxy of originality and a lovely pattern of weaving motion.

To facilitate the choosing of the prize winners each class was paraded around the stand and the best of them sent up on to the platform, where a weeding process left a few of outstanding merit who were voted on by the onlookers, the one receiving the greatest measure of applause being awarded the prize.

Prize Winners.

In the best dressed married couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walker of 262 Dalhousie street, dressed in suits made completely of maple leaves and representing "The Maple Leaf Forever," carried off the prize, and Mr. and Mrs. I. Edwards looked very neat as confectioneer and cook.

Miss Massey Cook, 547 Water St. was the deserving winner of the Ladies' Fancy Costume class. Wearing the habiliments of a young lady of Araby, and carrying a bronze urn on her head, she made a striking appeal. The judges felt that Miss L. Simons who so ably appeared in the role of Prince Charming, was worthy of praise also.

A patriotic note was struck when Britannia was impersonated by Mrs. R. Gunn.

A better costume than that of a Spanish Dancer could not have been selected to suit the personality of Miss M. Green, who provided a very pleasing and charming contrast to the brighter colors surrounding her. This class was probably the best of the evening and it took some time to declare the fortunate one.

A little lady in cards nearly turned the trick in the Ladies' Comic, but the sentiment was stronger for Miss Myrtle Bradley, 299 Sherbrooke St., who forecast Miss 1928 in a ludricrous make up. The latest edition of The Merry Widow as interpreted by Miss L. Farthing, augurs a gloomy future for any would-be divorcees.

That Valentino is still firmly entrenched in the hearts of the public is well evidenced by Harold Coleman's successful bid for fame in the Gents' Fancy Dress.

Captain Cook, as a shiek from the burning sands of Araby was a close second for the premeir honors.

For Boys' Comic under 14, Albert Woodgate, aged 5, of 177 Ontario St., as Tom Thumb, took the fancy of the crowd and got the biggest hand of the evening. Little Arthur Dayton looked comical to a degree as a Zulu lad.

In the corresponding Fancy class for the girls, Nora Thomas was a cute little personification of Young Peterborough. Lillian Dickens, 283 Westcott street in her suit of "Lincoln green," was quite becoming as Robin Hood. She won the judges' decision.

Mary Terrace, of 105 Auburn St., was good enough as a miniature Pigskin Peters to gain the coveted slip from the officials, for the best girls' comic. Thelma Buller was a close contender at Peter Pumpkin.

Shades of Valentino again! Speros Yeotes, from 205 Brock street ,doubled the great movie lover to such good effect that Jack Watson, 425 Chamber street had to be content with second place for his Spanish garb.

Clean Costumes.

Everyone got a real thrill out of best Clown Class. All entrants had to produce their wares for public approval. It so happened that among the humorous gentlemen there was Hector McLeod 257 Lake street, who knew more than a little about the subtle art of tumbling. In his debut he gave a bewildering demonstration of handsprings, somersaults and back flips that had everyone on tip toe.

Young Alfred Freeman 486 Cambridge street showed evidence of good promise in the future and presumably because of his size was accorded the heartiest round of applause.

One more and the programme closes for another year of pure unalloyed delight, were the Comic Gents' antics. A gruesome skeleton drew more than shivers as it proved to be an exceptionally good entry that beat him. George Rutherford and Miss Milloy as father and baby the latter in a carriage evoked several ripples of laughter and a thunderous burst of handclapping. Another good number was the 'Spirit of Evolution" starring "Deacon" O'Brien. There was a two-faced lad there who did not know whether he was coming or going. Someone suggested that he was "gone"—mebbe so; he certainly looked queer.)

Community Dance.

With the conclusion of the judging everyone hurried over to the armories there to trip the light fantastic to the music as dispensed in a right blightsome style by the band of the Peterborough Rangers. Large as is the drill floor it was taxed to capacity and then some to accommodate the great number of happy dancers. Then, until with a final burst of melody the home dance was played, this ever-shifting kaleidoscope emanated a spirit of good fellowship, and everyone was immensely satisfied with himself and his fellows and the world in general when the time came to wend their weary footsteps homeward bound.

En route vagrant troubadours serenaded girls who were boys, and girls openly flirted with boys who were girls. It was a jolly mix-up. Nobody knew who was who, and if so why? Neither did they care. All were partners in fun and the whole affair passed off without a single marring note. The same idea seemed to be with everyone that is, "The more we are together the merrier we will be."

DOUBLE EXPOSURE.

Here is an unusual double exposure of the men's doubles championships at Chestnut Hills, Mass., also of Miss Eileen Bennett of London, England.

FASTING AND CHRONIC DISORDERS.

Most readers will understand that abstinence from food would be beneficial in the treatment of all digestive disorders. The stomach and intestines would be benefitted by more rest than we usually give them. The stomach is generally full from early morning until after midnight each day. When digestive disorders occur, a simple, common sense thing to do is to give this overworked organ a chance to rest from its muscular activity. Any distress which makes one conscious of his stomach should be a signal for a rest period from meals for a day or two. This is the natural thing to do, but more benefit will be received if the patient cleanses the bowels with enemas, and washes the stomach out by copious water drinking.

A fast of the required length of time is indicated in any such chronic disorders of the alimentary canal as gastritis, stomach or duodenal ulcer, enteritis, diarrhea, appendicitis, constipation, mucous colitis, etc.

Diseases of the liver and gall-bladder are also cured through the fasting treatment because of the rest given these organs, and also because they are enabled to catch up on elimination and consequently empty out biliary impurities which have been accumulating perhaps for years. Fasting is, therefore, helpful in enlarged liver, jaundice, gallstones, inflammation of the gall-bladder, cirrhosis, etc.

Chronic respiratory diseases are eliminated more quickly through fasting than in any other manner. Catarrh of the nose, throat and inner ear disappears as if by magic after a few days' fasting, and under a suitable diet these catarrhal conditions will not again develop. Even the tubercular patient needs a fast for a few days before beginning a strict dietetic regime. Quantities of sputum will be coughed up during the first few days of the fast. The blood count always shows an increase in the number of red cells and a corresponding decrease in the white cells which compose the bulk of the pussy sputum.

Asthma and bronchitis disappear in a short time under the fasting treatment. Quick results are even more marked in the case of asthma, as the emptying of the stomach and intestines immediately relieves the diaphragmatic gas pressure which is responsible for most of the difficult breathing.

Enlarged tonsils in children may be reduced within a few days by taking a short fast, while pussy, diseased tonsils in adults are also cured with a longer fast followed by correct dieting.

Questions and Answers:

Question.—W. Y.T. writes: "I can-t not drink anything cold. If I do, i gives me a cold, and a heavy feeling in my stomach which I don't get over in a week or two. What is my trouble, and can you help me?"

Answer.—Some stomachs are particularly sensitive to cold, and it seems to me the sensible plan for you to adopt is to use warm water or only slightly cool drinks, but never cold ones. It is never a good plan for anyone to drink very cold liquids.

Question.—Lucile M. writes: "I have been troubled with my hands sweating. Will you please publish a cure for this?"

Answer.—Excessive sweating of the hands is generally a sign of some nervous disorder. If you will search out the cause of your trouble you will no doubt find that your nervousness originates from dietetic errors and lack of exercise. If you will get up a good sweat every day this will help materially in throwing out irritating impurities which may be causing your nervousness.

MUSIC CLASSED AS NECESSITY

Napoleon Recognized Its Influence—Was Once a Luxury.

COMPARED TO DRINK

"Many years ago," writes Clay Smith in the New York Music Trade News, "before we were so cultured and enlightened, Napoleon Bonaparte said: 'Of all the liberal arts, music has the greatest influence over the passions, and is that to which legislators should give the greatest encouragement.' If Napoleon were living today he would be astounded at our musical growth. Music is coming into its own and is becoming a necessity of our daily life. It has long since stepped out of the luxury class into the necessary, and would be just about as badly missed as meat and bread if it should be suddenly taken away from us.

"An eminent Maecenas of opera has advised Canadians not to drink whisky to excess, but 'to drink music—it will have the same effect.'

"Symphony concert fans ought to be able to grasp an Einstein universe which ever turns itself like a snake swallowing its own tail. For there is much of the timelessness of eternity and the hereness of immortality appertaining to the fourth dimensional glimpses derived from good music, with its 'overcoming of all the usual barriers between the individual and the absolute.' In his 'Varieties of Religious Emotion,' James credited alcohol as well as music with the strange power of inducing a subject, under favorable conditions, into forms of consciousness other than the normal waking form.

"'To the poor and the unlettered,' he wrote, 'alcohol stands in the place of symphony concerts and of literature.' And he ascribed the way of alcohol over mankind to 'its power to stimulate the mystical faculties of human nature, usually crushed to earth by the cold facts and dry criticism of the sober hour.' And the music fans make very much the same claim for music.

Why Folks Beat Time With Their Feet.

"A Swiss scientist announces that the nerve which registers and transmits the reaction of pleasure we experience in listening to music is in the foot. To be more explicit, it is situated at a point just under the bend of the metatarsus, the five bones between the ankle and the bones of the toe. The nerve spot which reacts to musical rhythm, declares our savant, also is situated in the foot, close to the first phalanx of big toe.

"So, now it is understood why some persons at symphony concerts annoy others by beating time with their feet. They are often quite musical ones! So much for foot music. Will not another learned investigator discover that the true purpose of the pituitary gland is to centre there our appreciation of head music?

"From the physiological standpoint, joy has a reviving power in contrast to the paralyzing power of such emotional states as fear, envy, worry, anxiety or despair. All people have their joy, at one time or another, of one sort or another. From the physiological standpoint, joyful music has a reviving effect. How intense and how universal is the joy in real rhythmic music! I mean especially the pulse-full kind of music such as 'gets you' in the soul-area, rather than the rhythmic sort of music which merely gets you in the foot-area, that of the yumpity, rackety skreekitty sort, referred to by the Swiss scientist above.

"Whether this pulsing music comes from the single tones of a voice or of one single throbbing instrument, whether it comes from the mighty complexities of the orchestra, concert band or mammoth pipe organ, it is a force to be reckoned with, and we have hardly scratched the surface of the fields of possibilities.

"We know less about the hidden forces of music than we do electricity, and any great electrician will tell you that with all we have done with electricity, we are still comparatively groping in the dark. We do know, however, that music has become indispensable in our daily life, and we are growing in knowledge, slowly but surely, day by day."

ROYAL HORSE SHOW PRIZES VERY LARGE

Five stakes of one thousand dollars each are being featured this year by the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show, to be held at Toronto, from November 16 to 24. The "Royal" is a pioneer in introducing this feature in the Dominion, and it is expected that these stakes alone, regardless of the substantial prizes that are being offered for all other classes, will attract to the 1927 "Royal" the most outstanding horses in the United States and Canada. The five classes for which these stakes are offered are harness horse, harness pony, saddle horse, hunter and jumper, the latter to be awarded on performance.

The "Royal" is offering $18,000 in prize-money for the coming horse show. The whole field of horse events will be covered as thoroughly as in the past, with several classes considerably expanded. The stabling for the show has been enlarged this year and there will be ample accommodation and comfortable quarters for all entries.

That the big Canadian show has quickly won recognition from American horsemen is shown by the steady increase in entries from the United States, 1926 showing an increase of 50 per cent. over 1925. Horses from the States of Delaware, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Kansas were shown in the 1926 "Royal" ring. This, coupled with the fact that every province of the Dominion was represented last year and will be next November, has given the "Royal" the added keenness of international competition.

The "Royal" Horse Show is under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency Lord Willingdon, the Governor-General of the Dominion. Shortly after their arrival in Canada last year both Lord and Lady Willingdon visited the "Royal," and Lord Willingdon will open the 1927 show. Both he and Lady Willingdon have signified their intention of attending this year.

The usual number of parties have been arranged for the entertainment of visiting exhibitors, and, as in past years, their stay in Toronto should prove an interesting and pleasurable experience.

LADY WILLINGDON CHRISTENS ROSE

A rose has been newly named. In a Brampton, Ont., greenhouse Lady Willingdon, making the sign of the cross over a beautiful rose, christened it the "Lady Willingdon." She had been asked to permit her name to be used to designate the flower, and after looking at it, consented. Above is shown the rose, and Lady Willingdon, with her daughter-in-law, the Hon. Mrs. I. Freeman-Thomas. Both ladies were enraptured by the beauty of the flower, which was so signally honored.

FARMERS ENJOY GOOD WEATHER

Have Been Able To Get Great Deal More Fall Work Done.

MILK PRICES GOOD.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 1.—With day after day of bright sunshine and almost summer-like warmth, October work progressed rapidly on local farms. More after harvest cultivation than usual with an excellent chance for top-working, early plowing and fine dry weather for the final furrows will result in cleaner, better crops for 1928. All other conditions being favorable.

Potatoes were harvested early and yielded an average crop, though there will not be many for sale here. Mangels are nearly all up and one of the best crops on record has filled the root cellars. Turnip-pulling will be general during the first week of November, and this crop, too, seems to be above the average.

While plowing has been fairly easy through the early days of October, continued dry weather has absorbed most of the moisture from the ground, so that sod fields and especially corn stubble require considerable power for good work. However, ground plowed when dry invariably works down to a finer seed-bed, so all may be well.

Dairy farmers feel jubilant over the cheese factory payments for September. With cheese prices around and over 21 cents, the butter-fat return was from 50 to 53 cents a pound. This is one of the highest on record in recent years. While prices have dropped below 20 cents now October will likely pay well over 45 cents which is quite an attractive figure.

The market for hogs has been none too strong and farmers are going easy on hog production until prices begin to show improvement.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidney, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

LOVE AND LAUGHTER MAKE GAY FILM HIT

That there can be laughter in love as well as heartaches is proven by Colleen Moore's newest First National picture 'Orchids and Ermine," at the Regent Theatre.

"It's the story of the romance of an ambitious and lovable little American girl," says Alfred Santell, who directed the picture for First National, "but the comedy is the big feature of the picture."

"Even in the most serious moments there's a laugh lurking just around the corner. It's a gay, lilting story of a likable young couple who face their troubles squarely but refuse to take them too seriously.

"Not because I directed the picture—but because of the merits of the story itself because of Miss Moore, and the excellent support given her, the work of Mervyn Leroy, the comedy constructor, and of Ralph Spence—the noted title writer—I consider 'Orchids and Edmine' one of the gems among the year's comedies."

AT THE CAPITOL.

"OUT ALL NIGHT."

The feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week is one of the light, entertaining species that the star Reginald Denny, has been in the habit of cultivating since he ceased giving exhibitions of his skill as a racing demon in automobile speed vents.

"Out All Night" features the likeable gentleman in the role of admirer of Molly O'Day, a young lady with whom he becomes acquainted in a stalled elevator, falling in love with her immediately, in the approved manner of the romantic movies. Through various episodes that include a deterdent to matrimony in Molly's movie star contract to refrain from marriage for a specified time, the story progresses to a satisfactory conclusion, with plenty of entertainment and amusement in its dashing atmosphere.

On the stage, Foley and Frances are a vaudeville pair who do some exceptionally clever dancing.

OLD MASTERS

Look in my face, my name is Might-have-been;
I am also called No-more, Too-late, Farewell;
Unto thine ear I hold the dead sea shell
Cast up thy life's foam-fretted feet between:
Unto thine eyes th glass where that is seen
Which had life's form and loves, but by my spell
Is now a shaken shadow, intolerable,
Of ultimate things unuttered the frail screen.
Mark me! how still I am! But should there dart
One moment through thy soul the soft surprise
Of that winged pace which lulls the breath of sighs—
Then shalt thou see me smile, and turn apart
Thy visage to mine ambush at thy heart
Sleepless with cold commemorative eyes.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She runs away to visit Bobby, who is ill. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, intervenes in Mary's behalf. He takes her and Bobby to live with him.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

Robert rose as he saw the regal figure of Mrs. Graham leaving the house, with the court as her evident destination. He was meticulously polite, was young Robert, and hurried forward to give the old lady his arm.

"Well," said Mollie Sumner Graham, as she placed her hand on his shoulder, and transferred her black lace parasol to the other arm, "well, which of the knights are we today, Robert?"

Mollie felt that she could afford to unbend to Robert, who was a very well-behaved child, and who was, besides, too young to be anything but a pawn for others. Meaning Mary. Hence the gracious unbending to young Bob for his own sake, and that the contrast of her attitude to Mary might be the colder.

"I am always Sir Lancelot, Mrs. Graham," said Robert gravely. The "Aunt Mollie" and "Uncle Jasper" of Arthur's reckless prophecy had never come about. "I am always Sir Lancelot because he was the bravest."

"Yes? Seems to me, Bob, seems to me," Mollie wrinkled the pink and white smoothness of her brow,

"Lift up your eyes that I may see your surrender."

"that Lancelot was not so brave. Did he not love Elaine, and run away?"

"Did he, mother?" Arthur pulled her head back in the crook of his arm, and kissed her cheek where it smelled of rice-powder. "Did he love and run away?"

This exuberant son was a stranger to Mollie, a stranger to whom, however, she had grown accustomed since Mary had come to the house on the gentle sloping hill. Her suspicious eyes watched him keenly. He was in love with the little red-haired girl, but did not yet know the why and wherefor of the blood singing in his veins. The short-lived affair with Bernice had been an instance wherein keen admiration had played a great part, and which Arthur had reckoned with as love. This was different, and Mollie groaned with the knowledge.

Arthur had slipped his hand beneath her arm and was leading her toward the wicker chair beneath the elms. "Who was it who loved and ran away, Mater?" he queried.

"Lancelot," explained Robert, and there was a worried frown creasing his forehead. "Person'ly, I don't believe it. Your mother says so, though," he added quickly, and in haste lest he accuse Mollie of lying.

"He did, Robert." Mary had joined the group with tennis racquet under her arm, and had thrown herself at Mrs. Graham's feet, smiling shyly. "He loved, and laughed, and went away." And her eyes looked off into the blue haze of mist. Lancelot had loved and gone away, and Wally had told of his love and gone away— She had written to him since coming to the Grahams. It had been the second letter since leaving Garden City a short two months ago. There had been no response to either, strangely enough. "Indian giver," thought Mary. "He gives and regrets." Which was hardly fair of Mary. But, oh, life had suddenly grown stale, and she could not solve the riddle as to why it had lost its old zest. She settled back more securely against the foot of the basket chair, and permitted her thoughts to roam.

Arthur was still on the subject of Lancelot, who had loved and left. "What do you think of one such as friend Lancelot?" he asked of Mary, leaning across his mother's feet to look at her where she sat with her head against the wicker of the chair.

"I'd rather not think of him," said Mary softly. "There's Elaine, too, you know."

"True enough. There's Elaine, too." Arthur was suddenly gay. "Thank God, there's always Elaine!" He rose, while his mother grew suddenly hard. "Arthur, where are you going?"

"Don't worry, Mother. This boy won't love and leave."

"I'm afraid not, Arthur," said his mother, frigidly. Her glance to him was dire with meaning. "But don't you think that sometimes leaving is the better part of reason?"

"No, Mater. No. Sorry I can't agree with you this time." The laughing, joyous undercurrent of the "this time." "Come along, Mary." He bent to lift her.

"Arthur!" The masses of her white hair trembled again. Young Robert thought wearily that never had he seen a woman so given to spurts of purple rage, and this time there was abeolutely no reason for it that he could see. But Robert was very young, and his gaze could not leap very high. Certainly not into the heart of Arthur, to whom had suddenly been whispered the whys and wherefores of the singing of his blood.

That night Arthur insisted upon candles for the dinner table. Pressed for the reason, he could give none, except to say that he was tired of electric lights. Old Jasper peered at him with suspicion and turned his glance to Mollie. She was white with the uncanny daubed white that comes to old age. It was true, then, thought old Jasper. The boy was in love. With Mary in all probability. There was no other feminine cargo about. He mused. Well, the boy might do worse. There was no money there, of course. But old Jasper had enough. Enough to buy his son a wife, and she was a keen little filly. He grunted. Squeezing between the unclipped ragged hedge and the boulder. Molly could not have done that. Molly would never have done that. Molly would have moaned and fainted. Or perhaps not. He was not yet certain concerning the authenticity of those heart-pains that came upon her at such conveniently timed periods.

There were candles on the dinner table that night. Slim, white, tapering candles with the gloss of their youth wound tightly about them. Little flickering flames casting pools of mellowness on the gauntness that was Mollie, and the sunkenness that was old Jasper, and the radiance of Mary and Arthur. Mary was wearing her little golden frock that night. Her one evening dress, with the fragility of lace on shoulders and throat made of the light of the candles. She felt Arthur's intensity and knew of what his glance spoke.

"Mary, Mary," he pleaded. "I love you, dear. Can you feel that while you are nibbling at the olive that is so beautiful against the slim whiteness of your fingers and the gold of your gown and the red-copper of your hair?"

"Arthur!"

"I'm sorry, Mother, truly. What is it?" How long had she spoken?

"I asked you—the attention he gives me might be better transferred to the parlor maid—I asked you—"

"Look at me, Mary dear. You are lowering the cream of your lids that I may not see the response in your eyes. Would you keep me in agony, darling?—darling!

"Do you realize the sweet slim beauty of you outlined against the shadow of the chair? Do you know the worth of you, the precious golden weight of you that I long to carry in my arms into the radiance, into the silver of the starlight?

"Lift up your eyes sweet, that I may see your surrender. For you will surrender, will you not, Mary, mother of men?"

"Arthur!" There was the gurgle of exasperation now, and the soft flow of his thoughts ceased.

Old Jasper, chuckling, his head bent, cigar between his teeth, left for the library and the hand of Mollie was in his. A furious Molly, who dared not make an outcry, yet who was aware of the danger in leaving those two alone. But what was to be done, with old Jasper's hold on her, a hold that spoke sympathy for youth and love?

Arthur cleared his throat and flipped his cigarette into the convenience of a Cloisonné jar.

"Let's go out, shall we, Mary?"

"Oh no, no, Arthur, no! Let us not go out. Let us remain here where the indecision of my heart may rest. For I know what it is of which you wish to speak, and I don't know—I don't know."

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CCCXXXII—Science in the World War—LXXX. War Wireless — by MAX HAHN

THE SERVICE OF WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY TO THE WARRING NATIONS CAME TO A DRAMATIC CLIMAX AT 5 A. M. ON NOV. 11, 1918, WHEN THE GREAT EIFFEL TOWER STATION RADIOCAST THIS MESSAGE: "MARSHAL FOCH TO THE ALLIED COMMANDERS: HOSTILITIES WILL CEASE AT 11 A. M."

AS THE WIRELESS SETS ALONG THE FRONT RECEIVED THE MESSAGE A GREAT SHOUT WENT UP, "THE WAR IS OVER." THOSE FAMOUS WORDS WERE REPEATED TIME AFTER TIME BY THE WAR-WEARY SOLDIERS. ABOUT HALF THE TROOPS GOT THE NEWS OF THE ARMISTICE BY RADIO.

SOON AFTER WAR WAS DECLARED THE ALLIES TOOK CONTROL OF GERMAN COLONIAL WIRELESS STATIONS. THOSE WHICH THEY DIDN'T DESIRE TO OPERATE WERE DEMOLISHED.

THE ALLIES ALSO BUILT SOME WIRELESS STATIONS TO REINFORCE THEIR WORLD-WIDE COMMUNICATION SYSTEM.

CAR DRIVER HURT IN RACES

Auto Smash-Up Nearly Proves Fatal to Noll When Car Overturns.

LAST RACE OF SEASON

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Following the brilliant victory over Ralph De Palma in a five-lap race, Arthur Noll, 26 years old, of Newark, narrowly escaped death Sunday afternoon when his Fronty-Ford crashed against Victor Jacksen's car of the same make on the fifth lap of a twelve-lap race at the Metropolitan Heights Fair Grounds race track between Maspeth and Middle Village, L.I. More than 10,000 witnessed the accident.

Noll, fresh from his triumph over the veteran De Palma, had returned to the lead after having trailed Lawrence Monico during part of the fourth lap. But pressing Noll for the lead was Jackson, who was gaining on his rival as the two cars entered the first turn after the home stretch.

Jackson, in an effort to gain the lead, darted his car toward the rail as Noll's car closed in. The hubs of the rear wheels hit and Noll was thrown slightly to the side, and it looked as though a serious accident had been avoided.

Car Driven Up Bank.

However, in the attempt to straighten the cars there was another crash and this time Noll's car was driven upon the steep bank bordering the turn. Three times the machine overturned. On its first turn Noll was thrown a distance of twenty feet and for a time it was thought he had been killed. He soon recovered consciousness, however, and an intern from the Wyckoff Hospital who examined Noll stated that he had a fracture of the left hip, a fracture of the collar bone and bruises of the scalp, but that his condition was fair. Noll was removed to his home.

Several accidents had occurred at the Metropolitan track this season, but none were of a serious nature. Noll's accident came during the last race, which was labeled as the "Au Revoir" of the season.

Another accident was narrowly avoided yesterday when the Dodge of George Wingarter turned completely around while coming into the home stretch during the Metropolitan Heights Handicap. De Palma, who was at his rear, narrowly escaped crashing into him. It was in this race that Noll triumphed, defeating De Palma, the scratch man.

O.H.A. BULLETIN

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—With the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association little more than two weeks away, the Secretary, W. A. Hewitt, has issued the following announcement:

The last day for the sending in of amendments to the constitution, rules and regulations is Saturday, Nov. 5, while nominations for office close one week later, Saturday, Nov. 12.

New clubs who intend entering must pay $11 fees ($5 entrance and $6 annual fees) for one team, and $6 for each additional team entered. Clubs already members of the O.H.A. do not require to pay entrance fee.

The applications of new clubs for admission will be passed on at the first meeting of the O.H.A. executive.

Clubs should send their entries in early and make it a point to have representatives at the annual meeting, which will be held at the Temple Building, Bay and Richmond Streets, Toronto, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 10 a.m.

No player can play without a certificate. Certificates will be distributed to the clubs on payment of fees.

Junior players must be under 20 years of age Jan. 1, 1928. Official birth certificates will be required from all players before being allowed to play.

Under the required O.H.A. residence rule a player must be a bona-fide and continuous resident of the town to which his club belongs since May 15, 1927. The exceptions are students, teachers and sailors. The last-named must play where they were living last January.

All players who have changed their clubs or place of residence since Jan. 1, 1927, should have sent in written application through their clubs to the O.H.A. executive within two weeks of their change, as no application received since June 1 will be considered, except in the case of junior players. No certificates will be issued after Feb. 10, 1928.

In cities and towns having more than one club a player is not allowed to change clubs without permission of the O.H.A. Executive after having first secured written release from his old club.

Must Have Amateur Cards.

All players in the senior, intermediate and junior series must hold A.A.U. of C. cards for 1928. Write A. W. Steel, 205 MacIntyre Building, 92 Adelaide Street West, Toronto, 2, Secretary Ontario Branch A.A.U. of C., for application forms. No O.H.A. certificate will be issued without an amateur card. The O.H.A. is affiliated with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and no exhibition games can be played by any hockey club under the jurisdiction of the O.H.A., either in Canada or the United States, without written permission of the O.H.A.

In cities and towns desirous of playing in the senior series no club will be admitted to membership unless it represents what is regarded by the O.H.A. Executive as a bona-fide permanent and general established amateur club or association, and in all towns and villages represented in the O.H.A. in any series precedence is given to civic amateur organizations representing the whole community.

The O.H.A. intermediate champions will be permitted to play for the Allan Cup through a play-off at Toronto with the senior O.H.A. champions. The junior O.H.A. champions will be eligible to challenge for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup.

NEW SAHARA BEING FORMED
That the Argentine will have a Sahara of its own is shown in reports to the Ministry of Agriculture of France. An extensive region north of the province of Neunquen is rapidly drying up, and rivers and springs are disappearing. Great dust storms are sweeping over the country at times and sand dunes form quickly and engulf the few remaining pastoral areas. The territory was once well populated by the Indians, but they have been driven away. A valley, where formerly there were 4,000 cattlemen, now contains only a few hundred. The cost of digging canals and of irrigation work to save the region would be too expensive for the government to undertake.

MRS. H. S. PROUTY.
The death of Mrs. Electa Theressa Prouty, widow of the late H. S. Prouty, of Owenbrook, occurred on Friday, Oct. 21st. She had been enjoying her usual health until the morning of her death and was at a social gathering in the neighborhood the previous evening. At about 10 o'clock on Friday morning she complained of severe pains in her head and passed away within three hours, death being due to apoplexy.
Mr. and Mrs. Prouty had resided in Owenbrook for upwards of 40 years and were highly respected throughout the district. Mr. Prouty died in February, 1925.
The funeral took place on Sunday, Oct. 23rd, the service being conducted by Rev. J. W. Ogden, of Apsley. The burial was in the Owenbrook cemetery, where the body was laid to rest by the side of her late husband. The funeral was attended by a very large number of friends, many coming from Apsley and Coe Hill, where Mr. and Mrs. Prouty had been long and favourably known. The beautiful floral tributes showed the high regard and affection felt towards the deceased.
Mrs. Prouty leaves to mourn her loss one son, Percy, two daughters, Viola and Lena (Mrs E. Whitemore), Coe Hill, and six brothers, Manford, Fort William; Barrett, Port Arthur; Frank, Coe Hill; Norman, George and Charles, residing near Owenbrook.

MRS. CHARLES HARRINGTON.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Harrington took place on Tuesday, Oct. 25th, from her home in Ennismore, to St. Martin's cemetery.
The late Mrs. Harrington had been ill for some itme, but bore her suffering with great patience. All that medical skill and loving hands could do was of no avail, and she passed peacefully away to her eternal rest and happiness.
She was born in Ennismore, where she spent her young life and four years ago was married to Charles Harrington, of the same place, her lovable character, her cheerfulness and her goodness of heart endeared her to a wide circle of friends who greatly deplore her passing.
Left to mourn her loss besides a sorrowing husband, one little daughter, Dorothy, aged three, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, six sisters and one brother, Mrs. G. Harris, Peterborough, Ezetta, Gertrude, Violet, Cora, Vera and Albert, all at home.
The remains were tenderly laid to rest, the pallbearers being W. J. Davis, Stanley Davis, Victor Henry, all of Peterborough, Edward Harrington, James Harrington, William Harrington, all of Ennismore.

MRS. EMMELINE LILLICO.
There passed away in this city this morning, at her late residence, 263 Stewart Street, Mrs. T. A. Lillico, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McKee. The deceased was a member of Knox United Church, and had been a life-long resident of Peterborough and district.
She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband, one son Ivan of this city, three sisters, Mrs. Robert Tully of Vancouver, Mrs. Charles Bidgood of Toronto, and Mrs. A. R. Moore of Toronto, also one brother, Walter McKee of Peterborough.
The funeral will be held from her late residence, 263 Stewart Street, on Wednesday at 2.30, with interment in Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. William McDonald officiating.

Irish Referee Needed For To-Night's Bout

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press).—Only an Irish referee is needed to make tonight's fight between Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue an all-Celtic affair, for both have managers tracing their ancestry to the Emerald Isle. Walker, present middle weight champion, will weigh about 167 and McTigue, former light heavy weight king, about 174. Both have eyes on the light heavy weight title.

FIFTY BABIES BORN IN MONTH

October Leads Year So Far in Number of Births

ONLY 19 DEATHS

In the month of October the city's baby population was increased by 50, which is the record month for the year. There were 16 marriages and 19 deaths, which shows an increase of 31 in the city's population.
The increase in births over October, 1926, was eight. There was a decrease of one in the number of marriages and a decrease of two in the number of deaths.

PREMIER GROUP FIVE BIG PEAKS

Lie in Part of Rockies That Has Not Yet Been Surveyed.

MT. BALDWIN LATEST.

WINNIPEG, Man. Nov. 1 (Special). —The visit of Premier Stanley Baldwin to Canada during Confederation Jubilee year has been commemorated by the naming of a magnificent peak in the Canadian Rockies in honor of the British Prime Minister. Mount Baldwin, which once rejoiced in the name "Mt. Challenger" is 10,000 feet in altitude and is one of the premier group of mountains in the Caribou range which lies in the southwest of Tet Jaune, between the Canadian National railway lines and the Rauss and Thompson rivers.
In making this announcement the National Geographic Board of Canada states that four other peaks in this range, which is visible to passengers travelling over the Canadian National route to the Pacific coast, have been named in honor of four early Canadian statesmen. The highest peak in the five, which towers 11,750 feet above the sea level has been named Mount Sir Wilfred Laurier. This peak was once known as the Titan. Mount Sir John Abbott and Mount Sir John Thompson are each approximately 11,250 feet in altitude and Mount Sir Mackenzie Bowell is 11,000 feet. The five will be known as the premier group, and they are surrounded by a number of unknown peaks.
The region in which they lie has not yet been officially surveyed. It has been visited by alpinists and several peaks have been climbed, however. In 1916 Prof. Holway and Dr. Gilmour, well-known mountaineers, entered the district and in 1924 Prof. R. T. Chamberlain and Allan Carpen made the first ascents of Mounts Laurier and Baldwin. Mr. and Mrs. Don Munday of Vancouver made the second ascent of Laurier in 1925, and in his report of the climb, published in the Canadian Alpine Journal, Mr. Munday tells of the magnificent view which they obtained of the valley, reaching across to Mount Robson, thirty miles distant. In naming the peaks of the Premier Group, the Geographic Board has connected the present with Confederation days, Sir John Abbott having taken over the leadership of the Government on the death of Sir John A. MacDonald in 1891.

IN POLICE COURT.

ARE YOU GETTING VALUE?
To some homes a newspaper is a newspaper, and no thought is given to the quality. That rule does not apply when buying house supplies. The best is then wanted, even if it costs more. Why should those homes not be as particular about the reading matter that comes into the family, particularly when the very best can be had at the same price or less than the inferior article. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the acknowledged best value in all Canada. It is a wonderful combination of newspaper and family magazine and a farm journal without an equal on the Continent, and it costs no more than an ordinary weekly — one dollar a year. Seventy-two pages every week of the choicest reading for every member of the family at a cost of less than two cents a week should interest every home in Canada. No wonder The Family Herald and Weekly Star is read by a million Canadians each week. It is well worth a trial.

PENNY BANKING SYSTEM TO BE INSTALLED IN LOCAL SCHOOLS TO TEACH PUPILS TO BE THRIFTY

Board Authorizes Installation After Hearing Explanation of Methods.

REGULAR MEETING.

Retrogression Shown By School Dentist's Survey—Grants Are Passed.

The penny bank system, in vogue in many municipalities of the province, is to be installed in the Peterborough Public Schools.

This was decided by the Board of Education at last night's meeting, after hearing J. R. Littleproud, inspector of the system, explain its operation and benefits.

Mr. Littleproud explained that the penny bank is a thrift system to inculcate in the children the habit of saving. He stressed the idea that whereas education was formerly confined to teaching the children a few subjects, its purpose is now to make them useful citizens able to make their way through life. Thrift, he held is a vital part of this training.

Four million dollars a day is spent on this continent on moving pictures alone, pointed out Mr. Littleproud, while the yearly bill for luxuries is twenty-three billions. This he put forward as a reason for teaching thrift.

He explained the operation of the system, which requires fifteen minutes of the teachers' time one morning each week. The method has been much simplified since it was first proposed in the local schools, when there were many records to keep. The system has been adopted by seventy-seven municipalities in Ontario, and is in operation in three hundred and forty schools. The money on deposit is now close to the million dollar mark.

Trustee W. R. Turner moved that the system be given a trial in the Peterborough schools. If it is not a success he pointed out, it can be dropped, while if it succeeds it will be a wonderful thing.

Dr. Craig seconded the motion, remarking as he did so, that year by year more and more is being piled on to the schools, but, he added: "If the schools don't do it where will the world end up?". Education along all lines is being left to the schools."

Inspector Mowat stated his belief in the value of teaching thrift, but pointed out that in other places there had been requests for extra help to handle the work. Many families make no attempt to save and the children get no training in thrift at home.

Trustee E. R. Wilson expressed his aproval of the system, while Trustee J. A. McKone said that the main thing seemed to be to get the teachers educated and in favor of the proposal. He suggested that Mr. Littleproud should see the teachers and

Soft Drink Factory's Product Proves Hard

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 2. — (United Press).—An innocent looking "soda pop" bottling plant turned out to be a brewery when Federal agents raided the premises in Milton Street and confiscated $15,000 worth of beer.

Five men were arrested on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. A sixth was held as a material witness.

According to the agents, the plant was in full operation when they entered.

CABINET PASSES FEDERAL AGENDA

Regarding Coming Conference of Provincial Premiers at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 2 (Canadian Press). — The Cabinet Council at yesterday's meeting finally passed upon the Federal end of the agenda for the coming conference of Provincial Premiers.

While no official announcement was forthcoming, it is understood that questions respecting Senate reform, amendments to the British North America Act, and the respective rights of the provinces and the Federal Government over water powers,such as the Carillon, on the Ottawa River, will probably be discussed. "Blue sky" legislation and the possible enactment of a Federal law to set out more clearly the powers of companies incorporated under Dominion or Provincial letters of incorporation, will likewise [illegible] consideration. The matter of increased subsidies to the provinces, suggested as a subject for discussion by several of the Provincial Government, will be another question, which, it is generally accepted, will be before the meeting.

Premier W. L. Mackenzie King will deliver an address of welcome at the opening of the conference at 10.30 o'clock on Thursday morning, while Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, will preside at the deliberations. Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General, will also be on hand as a representative of the Dominion Government.

As announced some time ago, the meeting will probably continue for a week. A session will also be held on November 7 (Thanksgiving Day).

Hon. J. B. McLean, Premier of British Columbia, accompanied by Attorney-General Manson, and Premier E. H. Rhodes, are already in the city. The bulk of the delegates from the several provinces will arrive today.

FULL PROGRAM FOR PREMIERS

Business Sessions and Social Functions Planned at at Ottawa.

MEET TO-MORROW.

OTTAWA, November 2. Canadian Press. — An extensive social as well as business programme awaits the provincial premiers and their wives, as well as the Cabinet ministers who are accompanying their chiefs from the provincial capitals, for the inter-provincial conference which opens to-morrow. The business sessions continue for a week. The government and the city are arranging functions for the entertainment of the visitors.

NELSON IRONED AT TRIAL TODAY

Strangler Appears Indifferent As He Takes Place in Court.

SELECTING JURORS.

WINNIPEG, November 2. Canadian Press. — Guarded by six stalwart officers of the law, with double handcuffs fastened to his wrists and his feet manacled, Earle Nelson shuffled his way into court to-day for the second day of his trial for the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson, strangled to death last June.

Nelson, after a swift glance at the bench, where Mr. Justice Dysart presided, resumed his attitude of indifference. The selection of the jurymen was continued to-day, only four having been agreed on yesterday. If the jury is completed by early afternoon the taking of the evidence will proceed.

Scenes of great confusion were again witnessed in the court corridors to-day hundreds failing to gain admission to the scene of the greatest international trial Winnipeg has had in years.

CHIEF EXONERATED.

Charges Against Preston Police Officer Are Found Untrue.

GALT, Ont., Nov. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Chief of Police David Crawford was exonerated by Preston Town Council when it concluded Monday night its investigation of charges against the police administration, which had been preferred by certain citizens. The charges were found untrue, and it was suggested they had arisen from personal grievances.

Source of Wreckage Continues a Mystery

HOUGHTON, Mich., November 2 (Canadian Press). — The source of the wreckage found washed ashore at Fourteen Mile Point by Edward MacGregor, lightkeeper near Ontonagon, continued a mystery yesterday.

The wreckage, MacGregor said here yesterday, has drifted in during the past week for two miles on each side of the lighthouse. It seemed new and freshly painted, he said. The three letters "Han—" found on a broken timber are three feet high. Lake carriers as a rule do not emblazon their names in letters so large.

Inquiry in marine circles thus far has failed to reveal any vessel missing . MacGregor planned to continue his search along the beach near Ontonagon to-day.

HUNTER CALLS HIS OWN MOOSE

Officials of Canada Crayon Company Pleased With Success.

LIKE ONTARIO WOODS.

A very successful hunting trip was arranged by Frank G. Stinson, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, for C. W. Hord and E. P. Van Blarcum, who are connected with the Canada Crayon Company, Limited, of this city.

These gentlemen wished to hunt in the Schreiber district, and B. W. Harvey, of Peterborough, who knows this district well, kindly offered to take his vacation with these gentlemen. The party, with guides and cook, left the C.P.R. at Black River. While paddling upstream to Bluejay Lake Mr. Hord fired from the canoe and brought down a deer.

It is the ambition of all hunters to be able to "call" their own moose, and during this hunt Mr. Hord made his own horn from birch bark and commenced the love call of the cow moose. So well did he succeed that he enticed a nice bull moose within range and brought it down, thereby entitling himself to be numbered among the three or four American sportsmen who have mastered the very difficult art of calling. Hunters who understand this feat will appreciate how delighted Mr. Hord was with his success as he had been practising the "call" for a considerable time. The next day he "called" two bulls out of the bush, but as his quota was full Mr. Harvey went in search of Mr. Van Blarcum, who was hunting for the first time. This gentleman caught up with Mr. Hord on the third morning, and two more bulls answered the "call" from across the lake, but before they got within range they were disturbed by another hunting party.

Mr. Hord has been hunting moose from his camp in New Brunswick for twelve years, but as a result of this last trip has expressed himself as delighted with hunting prospects in Ontario as game is plentiful, more accessible and the scenic beauties second to none. He will be back another season with his American friends.

Mr. Harvey stayed north for a few days with old friends after the others had returned, and was also successful in begging a nice moose.

Schoolboy On Trial For Striking Teacher

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J., Nov. 2 (United Press)—Fourteen-year-old William Albertson went on trial here for assault and battery against his teacher in the fifth grade.

Miss Caroline Carroll, 23 years old, charged that he broke her nose with a blow after she had rebuked him for not saluting the flag properly. She declared she laid her hand on his shoulder and was struck. Then she seized his hair and received another blow.

The defendant pleaded self-defence.

Pickpocket Aged Six Arrested For 40th Time; Little Chinese Trained in Crime By His Father

SHANGHAI, November 2 (United Press). — Mok La-Tsing, a little old man of six years, is under arrest for the fortieth time while puzzled police try to decide what to do with him.

La-Tsing was born at about the same time as was little King Michael of Rumania.

But while Baby Michael was playing, oblivious to his future eminence, La-Tsing was becoming an expert pickpocket—which he now is. His father, a well-known thief, decided to start La-Tsing early in what to him was an honorable career, and make him the greatest pickpocket of all time.

La-Tsing was arrested first when he was 4½ years old. Nobody in the Police Department wants to sentence or to carry out a sentence on a tiny malefactor like La-Tsing.

But he is ambitious and is approaching steadily, if slowly, according to his years, the goal his father set for him, and nobody knows what to do about it.

JURY CHOSEN FOR TRIAL OF "STRANGLER"

Presentation of Evidence Begun in Winnipeg Trial To-day.

COURT CROWDED.

Alleged Strangler Calmly Declares His Innocence on Dual Charges.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—The task of selecting the jury to try Earle Nelson, alleged "Dark Strangler" was completed shortly before noon today. The presenation of evidence began after a brief recess. Nelson had pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering Mrs. Emily Patterson and Lola Cowan last June.

The jury selection proceeded speedily today in comparison with yesterday, when only the first four were chosen. Some women sustained scratches and bruises in the crush to get into the courtroom today.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—While a noisy, milling, crowd of nearly 1,000, clamored vainly for admittance to the court room, Earle Nelson, alleged "dark strangler" calmly declared his innocence in Assize Court yesterday when placed on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson and Lola Cowan, 14 year old school girl.

Like a man in a trance, unemotional and apparently uninterested, Nelson stood in the prisoner's dock with head thrown back and eyes riveted on the presiding judge and heard the dual charge recited.

To each indictment he replied with a clear, spontaneous "not guilty." The prisoner was manacled when he entered the trial chamber, escorted by a squad of guards, but the shackles were removed as he took his stand in the dock.

The process of selecting a jury was immediately commenced, but it was soon apparent that this task will prove a long drawn out tussle between the opposing counsel.

Four Chosen.

Out of a panel of sixty-two jurors, only four veniremen were sworn in for service during the afternoon's deliberations. Eight jurors were peremptorily challenged, one was rejected for cause while half a dozen were stood aside.

Only one juror was sworn in without questioning. The remainder were subjected to examination by J. H. Stiff, chief defence counsel. In each instance he asked the jurors if they had followed the case through the newspapers; if these accounts had caused them to form definite conclusion of their own; if they could view the evidence presented from an unprejudiced and impartial standpoint. The lone juror who was challenged through cause declared he had followed the case closely through the press and while he did not think the prisoner "altogether guilty," he had formed certain opinions of his own.

As Nelson caught this statement, he reclined his head against the marble slab of the dock and grinned. Throughout the process of challenging and counter-challenging, the accused maintained an air of calm, occasionally shifting his position to watch the parade of jurors across the floor of the court room. At one time when the court announced a brief recess, Nelson, evidently think-

BROOKS GIVEN SECOND TRIAL

Supreme Court Sets Aside Sentence Imposed in Lower Court.

FIVE YEAR TERM.

OTTAWA, November 2. — The Supreme Court of Canada to-day set aside the conviction of Bartlett Brooks of Toronto, on a charge of being an accessory in an attempt to perform an illegal operation on the late Ruth Dembner. A new trial was ordered. Brooks had been sentenced by a lower court to five years imprisonment. In the same case Dr C. J. Withrow of Toronto, was sentenced to seven years, but Dr. Withrow did not appeal.

The Supreme court in a majority decision is of the opinion that "In view of the unfortunate failure of the learned trial judge to present to the jury the principal ground of defence, put forward by appellant, his conviction cannot be sustained." Defence of appellant which trial judge did not emphasize, the Supreme Court says, was that he was not aware of Miss Dembner's condition. This non-direction amounts to misdirection, says the Court.

Stray Dog Raised Racket In West End This Morning

The early morning concert today on Weller Street was given by a stray dog, and not by an animal owned by any resident on the street. This is established by inquiries made by The Examiner to-day.

There were three strays in the party, but only one was a vocalist.

One lady who was called by telephone at 3.40 this morning was certain her dogs were locked up, but, giving in to the importunities of the complainant, went downstairs to see. Of course they were! Then, looking outside, she saw the terrible trio serenading under a tree on her lawn. She chased them. They returned. She chased them again—

And now she does not wish to be blamed for allowing her dogs to disturb the neighborhood.

ROOS CORRECTS HIS COLLEAGUE

SACRIFICES MADE.

CAPETOWN, November 2. Canadian Press Cable. — Widespread interest has been caused in South Africa, by the declaration of the Hon. Dr. Malan, Minister of the Interior, that the Nationalist Government party had not sacrified anything in the settlement of the flag question, and that South Africa was absolutely free of Britain. Hon. Tielman Roos, the Minister of Justice, disagrees with the statement that no sacrifices were made asserting the Union Jack certainly remains one of the flags of South Africa. The Cape Times says Malans views both on the flag and on independence disagree with those of Premier Hertzog and Roos.

SAYS NATIONALISTS SACRIFICED NOTHING

Hon. Malan, Minister of the Interior, Declares on Flag Question.

PRETORIA, South Africa, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's). —Hon. Dr. D. F. Malan, Minister of the Interior, in the South African Union (Nationalist) Government, is reported by the prominent Dutch newspaper One Vaderland as declaring that the Nationalists sacrificed nothing in the recent negotiations with the South African party on the flag question.

Interviewed by the newspaper, he gives a new interpretation to the Nationalist flag design. He said the stripe consisting of the two Vierkleurs and the Union Jack in the middle of the white stipe represented precisely that the shield had represented in the Government's previous design. Then he quoted the rules of heraldry as providing that anything absorbed by a flag was not regarded as part of that flag, therefore the three flags represented precisely what they would have symbolized in the shield, namely the past alone. Consequently in this respect the Nationalists lost nothing.

Dr. Malan explained that under the original Flag Bill the Union Jack would be flown four days each year over the whole Union, "in every little dorp," together with the National flag, but when Gen. J. C. Smuts proposed that the Union Jack and the National flag should fly together all the year round on a restricted number of buildings, he (Malan) immediately accepted the suggestion. He added: "If we compare the existing position with the former one, then we come to the conclusion that we are undoubtedly in a more favorable position than before. The Union Jack will now fly on four public buildings in the interior throughout the year, while formerly the Union Jack on four days a year would have been flown throughout South Africa. The difference between the National flag and the Union Jack is that the former flies over us while the latter flies between us and England. We can, for example, do the same with the American flag if we stand on particularly friendly terms with the United States."

Deputy Calls House Loafing Kindergarten

BERLIN, Nov. 2 (United Press) Parliament is a "kindergarten for organized loafing," explained Helmuth Von Muecke, in resigning as Fascist Deputy to the Saxon Diet. Von Muecke achieved fame during the World War as commander of the German raider "Aychsa."

Northern Ireland has 30,000 unemployed, which is 20,000 less than a year ago.

HARD WINTER MAY FOLLOW WARM AUTUMN

Unusually Cold Season is Possible, Says Bureau Forecaster.

COLD IN AUGUST.

Present Balmy Weather Due To Mild Breezes From South.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (United Press).—The entire eastern half of the United States is experiencing a very late summer, reminiscent of June days, as November begins.

It may mean a very hard winter.

Chief Forecaster Charles L. Mitchell, of the U.S. Weather Bureau, said he can't predict far in advance, but remarked that a severe winter has been expected for sevcral years. The last few winters have been unusually mild.

Breezes From South

The warm weather which has kept overcoats in moth balls in many sections is due to balmy wind currents from the south, one of the weather's expected, but unexplainable tricks, according to Mitchell. These warm currents from the south were due in August. But August got its weather from the Polar regions, and was chilly. October and calmly November are betting theirs from the sunny south. The seasons apparently have changed places this year in the east.

There have been no killing frosts in the east and south yet, and snow only in the far northwest.

LABORITES WIN BOROUGH SEATS

Many Gains Made in English Election By Triangular Contests.

MIDDLE CLASS APATHY.

LONDON, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press). —Labor Socialists, though they did not make any sensational gains, generally increased their hold on the municipal councils in the municipal elections throughout England yesterday. Election returns which were being checked to-day indicated apathy on the part of the middle class electorate toward local politics.Triangular contests gave Labor candidates the victory in many places, as, for instance, Leeds, where they had a net gain of two seats, despite the fact that the Liberals and Conservatives had a twenty-five thousand majority in the total vote.

JUROR TALKED; TRIAL STOPPED

Judge Declares Mistrial in Fall-Sinclair Conspiracy Hearing.

NO FURTHER ACTION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Charges of irregularities concerning the jury preferred by counsel for the Government, resulted in a declaration of mis-trial in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy case.

The trial so far as the present jury is concerned ended soon after court convened to-day as a result of charges that detectives for Albert Fall and Harry Sinclair, the defendants, had made improper efforts to establish contacts with the jury and that one of the jurors talking about the case, had said he expected soon to have an automobile "a block long." Justice Siddons ordered a mis-trial after the defence and Government attorneys had agreed a fair trial would be impossible with the present jury.

The grand jury already has before it affidavits submitted by the Government to back up its charges, with the district attorney's office pressing for action. Justice Siddons told the jurors they were discharged, not only from this trial but also from any further attendance in his court. No immediate action was taken concerning Edward Kidwell, the juror whose alleged talking had a part in the decision to declare a mis-trial.

Within an hour after a mistrial had been directed, Edward Kidwell, the juror charged by the government counsel, went before the Grand Jury for questioning. He declared afterwards he had told them the truth and made a sweeping denial of the charges he had talked about the case or mentioned he expected to get an automobile. Other jurors were slated for questioning while Kidwell was to return later this afternoon. Meanwhile Fall issued a statement saying he had nothing to do with hiring detectives to shadow the jurors.

Eight Lawyers Will Fight Case For Jews

MONTREAL, Quebec, November 2. — Canadian Press. — Within the last few days eight lawyers departed for England to participate in the argument before the Privy Council on the appeal regarding the rights of Jews in the Protestant and other schools of the Province of Quebec.

The case is expected to be heard by the Privy Council about the middle of the month, and it is hoped that there will be judgment in time to have any necessary legislation passed at the next session of the Provincial Legislature which meets in January.

WOMAN MAY PILOT DAWN

Lady Fliers Outnumber Men as Possible Co-Pilots For Ocean Hop.

MANY APPLICATIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Women outnumbered men in the aviation spotlight yesterday, two being linked as possible co-pilots of a trans-Atlantic venture this month, and another taking off on a cross-continent flight to keep a "date."

That two women might attempt the ocean crossing together became a possibility when Thea Rasche, German stunt flier, made public a telegram to Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, half owner of The Dawn, suggesting the feminine conquest of the Atlantic.

The cross country flier was Mrs. Waldo Cory Johnston, of Cooperstown, N.Y., who took off from Hadley Field, N.J., in a mail plane to keep a dinner appointment in Los Angeles tonight.

She will make brief stops at Cleveland, Chicago and Salt Lake City.

But though women held the centre of the aerial stage most of the day, there were still parts for men to play. Clarence Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, announced that if he found Mrs. Grayson's amphibian plane "capable" in a test flight, he would pilot it across the ocean. And from Miami came word that Eddie Nirmaier, a flying associate of Chamberlin's, had been "approached" about making the trip.

Miss Rasche made public her telegram to Mrs. Grayson; which she said she sent to Old Orchard, Me., last Saturday, when she failed to receive any reply. Mrs. Grayson, reached at her Long Island hotel by telephone, said she had not received the wire; but would discuss a possible flight "with any pilot who cares to take the matter up with me direct and not through the press." She said that if Miss Rasche cared to see her they could go into the matter thoroughly.

Would Try Again

Mrs. Grayson also revealed that she had by no means given up hope of making the Atlantic flight because of the failure of her first three attempts.

"If we had been able to go last month," she said, "we would have had splendid weather. I am sure that sort of weather will be repeated this month, and if the plane is ready the flight can be made."

She reiterated her belief that previous attempts failed at least in part because her pilot, Wilmer Stultz, "didn't think I really meant to go, and so failed to have the ship properly loaded." Although Mrs. Grayson would make no definite statement as to the personnel of any further flights, she said definitely that Stultz would have no part in them and it was generally believed that Brice Goldsborough, her first choice for navigator, would be superseded.

PLENARY SESSION SET FOR THURSDAY

Report Six Articles of New Radio Convention For Approval.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—The next plenary session of the International Radio Conference was set yesterday for Thursday, when the convention committee of the conference expects to be ready to report six additional articles of the new radio convention for approval.

The French delegation presented yesterday to a sub-committee a compromise proposal on the manner of allocating votes in future conferences. They hope to end the discussions which have been raging on this point with no apparent progress toward a solution.

The French proposal suggested that all states entitled to conclude treaties should be represented and have one vote on matters affecting the convention proper and regulations to which they had subscribed as sovereign governments. On regulations affecting the management of radio concerns, however, the French propose that all autonomous radio administrations

ESTABLISH NEW GOVERNMENT IN SOUTHERN CHINA

Nationalist Leaders Favor Government Under Purely Civilian Control.

CALL CONFERENCE.

Embodying Ideals of Late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, First Chinese President.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—A new deal on the Chinese political situation with Canton again assuming a place in the leadership in the Nationalist movement and General Chiang Kai-shek, former Nationalist generalissimo back in harness, appeared yesterday.

Leading figures in the original Nationalist movement, which was cradled at Canton, including Wang Ching-Wei and Li Chai-Sum, Canton's military dictator, meeting in Canton, adopted a resolution declaring that the time has arrived for the re-establishment in Canton of a true Nationalist government under purely civilian control embodying the ideals of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Chinese first president and founder of the Nationalist movement

At the same time official foreign dispatches from Canton stated that Chiang Kai-shek, who is now in Tokio, is slated to assume command of the military forces of the newly proposed Canton government. General Chiang, one of the most youthful of China's military figures and one of the most successful, dropped from the military picture ever since his resignation of the supreme command in the south several months ago after the Nationalist regime had split in two with its respective headquarters in Hankow and Nanking.

Seek Japanese Advisers.

Despatches received here further state that the group seeking a new Cantonese government intends to seek Japanese advisers, and, failing that, to seek a return of the Russian administration similar to the one in Canton last year prior to the original Canton drive northward which resulted in the removal of the Nationalist, or as it was then known, the Cantonese government to Hankow.

The leaders of the Canton movement, who are reported as disgusted with the quarreling between Hankow and Nanking, which has resulted in pitched battles between the two, also decided to call a general conference at which Canton's position will be set forth and the other Nationalist committee groups invited to join Canton if they desire.

The Canton group did not issue any ultimatum breaking off with Hankow and Nanking, but foregin observers believe that yesterday's developments amounted virtually to a severance of Canton's relations with the Yangtse valley groups.

T. V. Soong, brother of Madame Snn Yat Sen, widow of the Nationalist leader, is beleieved about to take over the financial direction of the Canton regime. He held a similar post at Nanking.

CARS COLLIDE WEST OF CITY

Two Automobiles Crash on the Provincial Highway This Morning.

BOTH DAMAGED.

A coach driven by Rev. J. O. Totten of Cavan crashed into a truck owned by Alex. Leitch, of Norwood, on the Provincial Highway this morning about three miles west of the city. Mr. Totten's car was thrown into the ditch and the left front wheel and fender were badly smashed. The truck held to the road and had its left front fender broken.

Mr. Totten was coming up over the brow of a hill when the truck, driven by Mr. Leitch, went to turn into a gateway which was on the opposite side of the road from that on which he was travelling. Neither saw the other coming, and as the truck got part way across the road the crash took place.

Nobody was seriously hurt. County Constable R. C. Smith investigated the accident. Gillespie's service truck drew the coach to the garage.

THE WEATHER

This has been a particularly fine fall, but like all good things the fine weather appears to be nearing its end. During October summer weather prevailed on many days. The rainfall for the month was only two inches. There were no storms. In fact they were almost a minus quantity during the entire summer. Our first general "freeze-up" usually occurs about November 15th, and winter in earnest a month later.—W. P.

OIL SCANDAL CASE LIKELY THROWN OUT

Judge Adjourns Court To Consider Question of Declaring a Mistrial.

DECIDED TO-DAY.

Grand Jury Begin To Investigate Charges of Efforts at Jury Tampering.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (Associated Press).—The Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial came to a dramatic halt yesterday, while a grand jury began investigating charges of efforts at jury tampering which furnished sensations rivalling those when the oil scandal first broke in the Senate.

This inquiry was predicated largely upon information obtained by Government agents in a night raid on an apartment in the fashionable Wardman Park Hotel occupied by operatives of the Burns Detective Agency of New York City.

In bringing this trial to a pause, if not ultimate end, special government oil counsel presented four affidavits in which were named Harry F. Sinclair, lesser of Teapot Dome, and one of the defendants on trial; A. Mason Day, vice-president of the Sinclair Exploration Company; Donald Woodward, president of Woodward and Lothrop, Washington's leading department store; Edward J. Kidwell, juror number 11, a young leather worker, and two Burns' operatives.

After examining these affidavits in chambers in the presence of counsel and of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, the other defendant, the trial judge, Justice Frederick L. Siddons, took under advisement until to-day whether the evidence was such as to warrant the declaration of a mistrial.

Counsel for both the Government and the defence agreed that a mistrial was necessary.

Jury Excused.

Meanwhile, the two women and ten men constituting the jury, which has not been locked up as was done with the Fall-Doheny jury last year, was excused for the day, after being held at the District of Columbia Supreme Court under close guard for several hours, while Justice Siddons considered the affidavits.

These documents deal with two separate phases of a case that now has become one of the most celebrated in the annals of District of Columbia courts. Two of the affidavits refer to the activities of the Burns' agents and the other two to conversations affiants swore they had last Friday and Saturday with Juror Kidwell.

J. Ray Akers, a street car conductor and Donald T. King, a Washington newspaper man, detailed conversations they said they had with Kidwell in which the juror was quoted as having expressed "great admiration" for Sinclair because of his "democratic manner," and as having said that "if I don't have one (an automobile) as long as this block I will be much disappointed."

Kidwell also was quoted as saying he had been picked as a juror "because he was a pretty good yes-and-no man" and that "these smart lawyers could not make him say what he did not want to say." The affiants said these conversations took place in a "soft drink" establishment in a back street of south-west Washington.

The affidavits dealing with activities of the Burns' agents were made by Neil Burkinshaw and Walter M. Shea, assistant United States district attorneys, the former of whom made the investigation leading to the Ward man Park Hotel raid, carried out under Shea's personal direction.

Kept Surveillance.

Burkinshaw declared that the papers obtained in that raid disclosed "the close, intimate, objectionable, and improper surveillance" which the Burns' detectives kept on the jurors as they moved about before and after court hours daily. He also averred that "the real employer of the said detectives was Harry F. Sinclair, a defendant in this case."

Moreover the young district attorney said that the operatives living at the Wardman Park—C. G. Ruddy and G. H. Robbins—reported to Mason Day, "who is registered at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C., where also the defendant Harry F. Sinclair is registered."

"I further aver," the affidavit continued, "that said reports were at times rendered to the said Day at the home of Donald Woodward, 2113 Leroy Place, Washington, D.C.

"I aver that Day was what is known as the 'contact man' between the real employer of said Burns Detective Agency in this behalf and said Ruddy acting as manager of the operatives in Washington, D.C.

"I aver that there have been since on or about October 18, 1927, the date on which the jury was sworn in said case at various times, some or all of 16 detective employees working in Washington.

"I aver that the activities of said detectives have been inimical to the proper administration of justice in this court."

TRIAL BEGINS.

Former Alberta Minister Being Sued By Province For $5,821.

EDMONTON, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Before Justice Hyndman, without a jury, the civil suit of the Provincial Treasury filed twenty months ago against George P. Smith, of Hamilton, Ontario, who was Minister of Education in Alberta in 1921, for $5,821, alleged to have been paid for printing not done, got down to trial in the Supreme Court yesterday. The plaintiff's case opened with evidence taken at London and Winnipeg from printers. In the statement of the defence, Smith denies receipt of funds and pleads that the claim was answered by his acquittal on a charge of theft.

Believed Notorious Draft Evader Seeks to Return to United States

GRAND FORKS, N.D., November 2 (Canadian Press). — Capture of a messenger seeking $5,000 for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious United States draft evader, was revealed here yesterday by immigration officers, who said they believed Bergdoll intended to use the money to return to this country.

The messenger, a twenty-year-old German named Martin Scheuch, was captured at St. Vincent, Minn., the point of entry from which Bergdoll is reported to have fled the country. The capture was made some time ago, the officers said, and Scheuch has already been deported to Germany.

Authorities said that Scheuch carried a note from Bergdoll to his mother asking that she send him $5,000 as soon as possible, and saying that he would be in the United States soon, returning "my way." They assumed that "my way" meant through St. Vincent, where he left the country.

When captured, Scheuch attempted to get a revolver out of his baggage, intending, he said, to commit suicide because he felt disgraced through his failure to carry out an "errand of honour." He refused to say anything about Bergdoll.

MacIntosh Hop-Off To-Day In Attempt To Break Long Distance Flying Record

LONDON, Nov. 2.— (Canadian Press.)— Captain R. H. MacIntosh who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly from Ireland to New York this summer, yesterday announced his intention of taking off last night or to-day on a non-stop flight to India in an effort to break the world's long-distance record, now held by Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine.

Captain MacIntosh said he would be accompanied by Bert Hinckler, the well known test pilot who created a world's long distance record for light planes by his non-stop flight from London to Riga.

The two pilots are eager to start from the flying field at Upavon while the moon is full.

In the monoplane "Princess Xenia," named for the wife of William Leeds, who financed the attempt Captain MacIntosh set out for New York in September with Col. James C. Fitzmaurice. They were forced back by bad weather and landed 4½ hours after their take-off.

Shortly afterwards, due to the lateness of the season, Captain MacIntosh abandoned his plans for an Atlantic hop and said he would try to reach India in a non-stop flight.

GERMANY PICKS ENVOY FOR U. S.

Choice Falls on Counsel of German Embassy at Rome.

HAS ACCEPTED.

BERLIN, Nov. 2 (United Press).—Foreign Minister Stresemann yesterday offered the post of Ambassador to the United States to Friedrich Von Prittwitz und Gaffron, counsellor of the German Embassy at Rome, and Von Prittwitz accepted, the United Press was informed.

The appointment will be announced, provided the United States approves.

Nationalists oppose Von Prittwitz because of the rapidity with which he switched allegiance from the monarchy to the republic after the revolution.

ALBERTA MINERS CALL OFF STRIKE

Men Report for Duty in Mines at Drumheller To-Day

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—A special despatch to The Herald says that the strike of the Canadian mine workers in the Drumheller Valley was definitely called off at a meeting of the striking miners held in the Miners' Hall Monday at Drumheller. The men reported for duty yesterday, and it is expected that the mines, which have been affected by the strike, will be working normally again within a short time.

Police authorities so far have failed to find any clues to the culprits who made an unsuccessful attempt to dynamite a box car loader and shaft at the mines Monday.

Montreal's Airport Receives Visitor

MONTREAL, Que November 1. — Canadian Press. — Montreal's new airport received its first flying visitor yesterday, a government plane from Ottawa, arriving on a trial trip to test out the temporary landing facilities at the air port which is located at St. Hubert about four miles south of Langueuil.

Major Tudhope one of the government's outstanding flyers, who has been engaged in the new system of bringing mail from Father Point to Montreal by air, was the pilot of the plane.

Passengers with him were Commander Wilson, controller of civil aviation, and Major Barry of the Engineers corps.

The visiting plane covered the 120 miles from Ottawa in one hour and ten minutes. The plane returned to Ottawa a few hours after landing here.

OLD MASTERS

There was a snake that dwelt in Skye,
Over the misty sea, oh;
He lived upon nothing but gooseberry pie
His breakfast, dinner and tea, oh.

Now gooseberry pie—as is very well known—
Over the misty sea, oh,
Is not to be found under every stone,
Nor yet upon every tree, oh.

And if gooseberry pie was not to be had,
Over the misty sea, oh,
He'd twine and twist like an eel gone mad,
Or a worm just stung by a bee, oh.

But though he might shout and wriggle about,
Over the misty sea, oh,
The snake had often to go without
His breakfast, dinner and tea, oh.

KING'S SPEECH TO BE HEARD ROUND WORLD

Christmas Message to Be Relayed to All Dominions, It is Hoped

ARMISTICE BROADCAST

Prince of Wales' Talk Will Go on Air—Ceremony Not Included

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(United Press).—If the plans of the British Broadcasting Corporation are carried out successfully, Canadians, in common with the residents of all the British Dominions, will be able to hear the Prince of Wales speak in London on Armistice Day and will listen to the voice of the King in Christmas greeting to all the British peoples on Christmas Day. Great preparations are being made for the broadcasting experiment on Armistice night from Albert Hall, where the Prince of Wales speaks. The promoters believe that listeners in Canada that afternoon will hear the program clearly, and that unless extremely adverse atmospheric conditions hinder, the broadcast will be heard in the farthereast part of the Empire, even on the British warships lying at Shanghai.

The broadcasting will begin at eight and last till ten, London time, on the evening of November 11th. This is equivalent to the hours three to five p.m. in Montreal and noon to two p.m. in Vancouver, while New Zealanders will be able to hear the program at 7.30 in the morning.

Joynson-Hicks refused to permit the broadcast of the actual Armistice Day's ceremony at the cenotaph and at Westminster Abbey. It would have been necessary to have torn up the roadway to establish cables, and he did not think it was consonant with the real spirit of the ceremony that people should be able to stay home and listen in instead of attending the ceremonies in person. He feels strongly that public sentiment is opposed to any such departure from previous ceremonies.

DAWN MAY HAVE WOMAN AS PILOT

Thea Rasche Offers to Fly to Europe With Mrs. Grayson

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's Amphibian plane, Dawn, may yet fly the Atlantic this year, and Mrs. Grayson's co-pilot may be another woman, Thea Rasche of Germany, now in this country. Another possibility yesterday was that Clarence Chamberlin may sit at the controls, and this was strengthened when Chamberlin groomed the plane for a test flight yesterday afternoon. He has recently conferred often with Mrs. Grayson. Thea Rasche offered her services, but it is not known whether they will be accepted by Mrs. Grayson.

Has Gained Weight.

Nelson presented a different appearance to that at the preliminary hearing four and a half months ago. During his incarceration he has put on considerable weight, but his pallor was noticeable. The prisoner was clean shaven and dressed in a slate-colored boat and blue serge pants. He wore a cream-colored shirt and black tie.

When adjournment was announced until ten o'clock this morning, women spectators forced their way to the front to get a glimpse of the man whose trial has aroused international interest. As peering faces pressed forward, Nelson looked neither to right nor left, but smiled again and tossed back his head as if in contempt.

should have a voice whether they were located in colonies, protectorates or territories.

The proposal provided, however, that no more than eight votes should go to any one delegation on account of the second provision.

It was claimed that this compromise would protect the stand of the United States in not allowing government interference with private radio concerns by admitting the principle of separate regulations affecting managerial questions regarding which sovereign governments would not be required to vote.

In previous hearings the United States had declared its preference for giving each sovereign country a single vote.

SCIENCE NEAR CANCER CURE

Several Serums Used Indicate Approach to Successful Treatment

DISEASE NOT SPREADING

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—While several serums have been used in the treatment of cancer without success so far, they have indicated that science is getting closer to successful treatment of the disease, declared Dr. Francis Carter Wood, of Columbia University, to the annual meeting of the American College of Physical Therapy yesterday. Cancer is not spreading, he asserted.

tell them about the matter.Mr.Turner pointed out that this was part of Mr. Littleproud's work in establishing the system in a new centre.

Trustee E. F. Reid was in favor of referring the matter to a committee saying that he had not had time to study the literature that had been left with him.

Dr. Yelland stated that it would be the only attempt to educate a great many of the pupils in thrift, while there must be some value in the system when so many places had taken it up, and Mr. Littleproud had mentioned only a few as having dropped it.

School Dental Work.

The item of seventy eight pupils with badly decayed teeth, included in Dr. McPherson's report, was questioned by Dr. Craig, who remarked that this seemed strange in view of the work Dr. Green is doing. It was suggested in explanation that many of these would be new pupils while others would be pupils whose parents had not had any work done for them, although it had been recommended.

In this connection Mr. Mowat asked what he was to do in regard to signing cards for free dental treatment, he expressed fear that those whom he refused as being able to pay would not have the work done.

Dr. Green reported a slight increase in defective teeth at the King George school, which he surveyed in October. In 1926 he examined 292 pupils, and in 1927, 320. Last year he found 356 cavities, and this year 432 in the permanent teeth. This year 148 pupils had teeth O.K. and last year 146, but this year 53.8 per cent. of the pupils need treatment against only 50.35 per cent. last year. In 1926 there were only 1.22 cavities per pupil, while the recent survey revealed 1.35.

A grant of $100 was made to the Collegiate Rugby team to help bear the expenses of the games to be played this fall.

The school attendance report for October is as follows:

	On Roll	Average	P.C.
P. C. I.	647	626	97
Prince of Wales	575	548	95
Central	483	463	96
King Edward	444	420	94
Queen Mary	440	413	94
Queen Alexandra	388	372	95
King George	369	355	96
South Central	44	42	95

The customary grant of $25 to the Athletic Associations of each Public school was passed.

The annual grant for cadet corps from the Department of Education will be paid to the instructors at the various schools.

The request of the National Sanitarium Association that the board change its policy to permit of the sale of Christmas seals by the pupils was received and no action taken.

Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee reported and recommended the payment of the following accounts:

Hydro-Electric Power Commission, $7.50; W. R. Turner, 40c; Wm. Taylor, $8; Graham and Wells, $54.75; J. J. WEDDING BELLS.

CLARKE—TURNEY.

WARKWORTH, Nov. 2.—A pretty autumn wedding took place on Thursday, October 27, at the home of the bride's parents, Morganston, when Dora Irene, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Turney was united in marriage to Cyrus Owen Clarke, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Clarke, Codrington.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards of Brighton officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Turney, wore a dress of white silk crepe de chene with silk tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and the gift of the groom, a white gold necklace set with pearls and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Alice Turney, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore a dress of pink taffeta. Miss Luella Massey played the wedding music.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. George Clarke. After the wedding ceremony about sixty guests repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous dinner was served.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a bracelet, to the pianist a jewel case, and to the best man gold cuff links.

The happy couple left later on a motor trip to Oswego, Rochester and Toronto, the bride travelling in a navy blue dress with coat and hat to match. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Codrington.

NO TRUE BILL FOUND PARALYTIC IS FREED

Man Held for Manslaughter Arising From Boys' Death is Discharged

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Lawrence Crawford, 33-year-old paralytic was discharged from custody when the Grand Jury yesterday found no bill in the case in which he was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mahlon Caughan, who was drowned while intoxicated. Crawford had been arrested after the boy testified at the inquest that Vaughan drank liquor previously in Crawford's possession. Police are now investigating a report that Vaughan obtained the liquor from a blind pig.

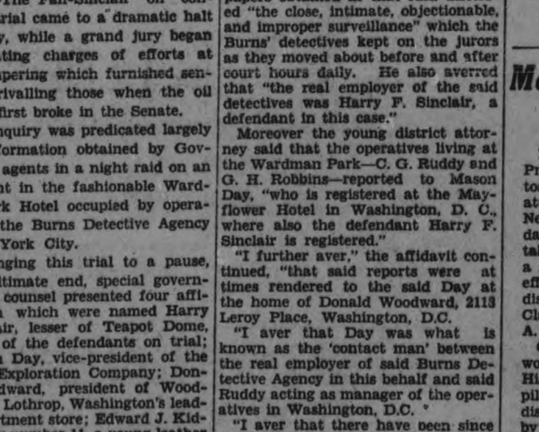
Bon Ami

Saves the surface of your bathtub!



FEW women realize that coarse, gritty cleansers ruin the delicate glaze of a bathtub—leave tiny scratches that collect dirt and make the tub harder to clean next time. Bon Ami does not scour or scratch. It quickly blots up all the dirt, stains and impurities—leaves the surface glistening clean and smooth as new.

A little of the soft, scratchless Powder sprinkled into the tub and a few rubs with a well moistened cloth—that's all there is to it! Dirt, spatter marks and cloudy rims disappear in a twinkling. You'll never know how really clean and hygienic everything about your bathroom can be, until you use Bon Ami.

Quick, easy and thorough, Bon Ami cleans and polishes at the same time. And housewives like it too, because it never reddens their hands!

FOUR DROWNED IN LOON LAKE

Searchers For Bodies of Two Missing Men Find Two Others.

NEAR CHAPLEAU.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., November 2 (Canadian Press). — Loon Lake, near here, claimed four lives in October, it is believed, as a result of the finding of the bodies of two trappers named Legault and Laroque. These were found when searchers were seeking the bodies of two Chapleau men, McKay Vizena and Arthur Hopper, who were lost two weeks ago. The latter two have not been recovered, despite the use of aeroplanes and dynamite in the search.

SHIELDS WILL SUE FOR HALF MILLION

If Hamilton People Raise Money For McMaster He Will Claim It.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Addressing a mass meeting here last night, the Rev. T. T. Shields, leader of the New Union of Regular Baptist Church of Ontario and Quebec, intimated that if the people of Hamilton contributed the necessary half million dollars to take McMaster University to that city, the new union will go to court and claim the money. "That will be all the more money for the Regular Baptists, because we will sue them in court for it," he declared.

SHERIFF ASKED FOR EXPLANATION

Deputy Said To Have Kept Prisoner in Toronto Hotel All Night.

TORONTO, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General, stated today that he has requested the Sheriff of Simcoe County to report on the circumstances surrounding the removal to Portsmouth Penitentiary, Kingston, of Joe McDermott, convicted of cattle thefts at Barrie. It is asserted that McDermott was kept overnight at a Toronto hotel by the deputy sheriff in whose custody he travelled to Kingston and that there were other divergencies from the usual procedure.

WIRE ACROSS ROAD CAUSES ACCIDENT

Hallowe'en Prank Blamed For Car Being Upset and Men Hurt.

BRANTFORD, November 3 (Canadian Press). — A length of wire stretched across the road caused a motor car to turn over on the Six Nations Reserve Road early yesterday, resulting in injuries to Ackland Hill and Ernest Longboat, the occupants. The police are investigating the case. It is believed the wire was stretched across the road in a Hallowe'en prank.

NEGRO SENTENCED.

HALIFAX, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Louis Jones, colored, of St. John, was today sentenced by Mr. Justice Graham to be hanged on January 19 for the murder of his young wife here on September 12.

Wheat Prices Fall On Freer Offerings

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.— (Canadian Press.) — Influenced by reports of cheaper offerings to Europe by Canada and Argentina, wheat prices averaged lower to-day in early dealings. Starting 1-8 to ¾c. down, wheat rallied a little and then sagged lower than before. Corn, oats and provisions developed firmness. Corn, opening at a shade off to ¼c. up, later scored some advance all around.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 124 7-8, March 128¼. Corn, December 83½; March 87 1-8. Oats, December 48, March 49 1-8.

Mine Trading Heavy Most Stocks Advance

TORONTO, November 2. Canadian Press. — Most stocks advanced in very heavy trading on the Standard Mining Excange this morning though soft spots crept into the list. Macassa advancing 7 at 69, and Bidgood with a 4 point gain at 109, were the active leaders in the upturn.

Area at 45, Argonaut at 35¼, Amulet at 485, and Kirkland Lake at 258, were all substantially higher.

Acconda softened at 35, and Teck Hughes sold down 19 at 10.60. Jackson Manion, the unlisted leader, lost 5 at 72.

Unlisted Shares Lead On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Imperial Tobacco again was the active leader of the Toronto Stock Exchange today, declining half a point at noon at 10¼. Walkers slumped 1⅞ at 60¼, but British American Oil, the third active unlisted feature, firmed fractionally at 33¼. Some profit taking set in, but the general tone of the market was firm. Canada Cement issues weakened, the Common to 33 and units at 105, while Gooderham and Worts lost 2½ to 60. International Nickel and Brompton sold lower. Canners preferred gained more than three points at 105¾, while Dominion Stores, Industrial Alcohol, City Dairy and others gained a point or more. Commerce featured the bank section with a gain of five points at 260.

Irregularity At New York Is Followed By Advances

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Early irregularity in today's stock market was followed by a period of strength featured by heavy accumulation of oil and tobacco shares; Houston and Atlantic Refining each advanced about three points and Barnsdall, General Asphalt, Marland, Sinclair, and several others climbed a point or more. The American Tobacco issues soared about eight each to the highest levels since 1920. Midland Steel Products Preferred advanced nearly five points to the best price in its history. Sharp breaks in Gimbl Brothers Preferred and General Railway Signal in early trading had a temporarily depressing effect on speculative sentiment.

I.O.F. MASQUERADE IS GREAT SUCCESS

About 150 People Attend Dance in W.O.W. Hall.

Court Chemong 530, I.O.F., opened its winter programme with a grand masquerade in the W.O.W. Hall, when about 150 took part. There was a good display of costumes, from among which the judges had great difficulty in choosing the best. They awarded the prizes to the following:

Best lady's costume— Miss Dickens as Robin Hood.

Best lady's comic—Miss W. Jacobs as Topsy.

Best gentleman's costume—Mr. F. Clark as Indian.

Best gentleman's comic — Mr. H. Chadwick as Clown.

Het Childerhose's Bluebirds' Perfect Music Orchestra supplied the music for dancing. The hall was prettily decorated with orange and black streamers. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Court.

Some of those present in costume were:

Ladies.

Miss Dickens, Robin Hood. Miss Jacobs, Topsy. Jessie Scholey, Dutch Girl. Miss Hopkins, Pierrette. Mrs. Hopkins, Peasant Girl. Mrs. Smith, Old-fashioned Girl. Irene Foster, Columbine. GRUESOME FIND ON FISHING BOAT

Evidence of Starvation and Cannibalism On Japanese Derelict.

ADRIFT 11 MONTHS.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Nov. 2. —(Canadian Press.)—Grim evidence of starvation, death, and cannibalism on the high seas has been found on a derelict Japanese fishing schooner which drifted four thousand miles acros the Pacific ocean. Picked up off shore by a liner and brought here yesterday, the 85 footcraft bore the lifeless bodies of two Japanese seamen and the bleached bones of eight others. The boat had been eleven months crossing the ocean after the engine had failed, and it was borne out to sea from the Japanese coast.

WEDNESDAY NOV. 2, 1927.

THE MOUNTED POLICE.

Hints that there may be demands from some quarters during the conference of the Provincial and Federal representatives this week for the disbanding of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be received with scant favour by most Canadians.

There has always been a romance about the activities of the Mounties that seized upon the imagination of the people of this country.

No police body anywhere has finer traditions or a better record of service than the scarlet-coated members of this famous body.

While their duties in these modern days are in many respects widely different from the early responsibilities of the Royal Mounted, the efficiency remains.

It is generally recognized that no matter what services they may be called upon to render the Mounties are reliable and sure as they were in the days when the whole frontier knew that the Mounted Police always "got their man."

The movement to do away with this organization is not likely to make much progress at this week's conference.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

It may not be generally known that it is a violation of the Liquor Control Act for a permit-holder to allow any other person to use his permit.

There is reason to believe that there has been more or less of a tendency to ignore that regulation, and those who have been guilty of the practice should understand that they are liable to somewhat severe penalties.

Section 39 of the L.C.A. enacts that every permit shall be issued in the name of the applicant therefor, and no permit shall be transferable, nor shall the holder of any permit allow any other person to use the permit.

Every person guilty of this offence shall be liable for a first offence to a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100, and in default of immediate payment to imprisonment for not less than thirty days; for a second offence, to imprisonment for not less than one month nor more than two months, or to a penalty of not less than $200 nor more than $500, and for a third or subsequent offence, to imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than six months without the option of a fine.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Dominion-Provincial conference which opens at Ottawa will mean much or nothing to the people of this country, according to the spirit in which the various representatives come together.

There are many problems that such a conference can go a long way toward solving if those interested approach the discussion of such matters with a sincere desire to find the best solution.

Many difficulties can be ironed out; over-lapping in regard to laws can be prevented, an understanding in various questions of importance can be reached—always provided that there is enough give-and-take among the representatives at the council board to permit progress to be made.

A conference, regarded by those attending it as important only for what they can get out of it for their own Provinces instead of for what they can put into for the general benefit of this country, could not hope to accomplish much.

Let us hope that the statesmen, Federal and Provincial, now assembled in Ottawa will be able to meet on the high plane of a common desire to do service for Canada in her year of Diamond Jubilee.

HELPING THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

Many citizens of Peterborough will shortly receive through the mail a package of Christmas stamps which they will be expected to retain, and for which they are asked to pay by sending a dollar to the Peterborough Health Association.

The association, whose splendid activities on behalf of a more healthy population for Peterborough are known to everyone, has adopted the sale of Christmas stamps as a business-like way of securing funds for next year's work.

In addition to the civic grant and the assistance given from other sources, it is necessary to raise $1,500 for the general work of the association during 1928, and it is felt by the officers of the organization that the means chosen for this particular campaign will appeal to the citizens generally as a simple and equitable method that will divide the responsibility among many people and not prove burdensome to any one.

The stamps are to be sent out shortly, and you are asked when you receive your package to mail the required amount to the association.

It is not necessary for The Examiner to dwell at length upon what the Health Association has done and is doing in Peterborough.

The work has been efficiently, economically and effectively done, and many a family in this city has had good cause to thank God for the presence here of such an organization.

A VULNERABLE SPOT.

Some more bank robberies have demonstrated that precautions taken in recent years are not wholly effective, nor, indeed, as effective as they should be. Several years ago there was a spectacular hold-up and shooting affray on the streets of Toronto, and the bandits got away with a large sum of money which had been in process of transfer to the clearing house. As a result, armored cars were adopted, and are now familiar sights on the streets of our big cities. No more attempts of this kind have been made, and evidently this stage is adequately guarded.

A merchant of goods can keep his money in a safe place. He transfers his receipts from the cash register to the safe or vault, or deposits them in his bank, so that he seldom has large sums lying around. But the bank is a dealer in money. Money in a bank is just about as prominent as are the goods on a grocer's shelves. The bank does not have to display its wares to the public, but it must have the money right at hand in order that business may be efficiently conducted. And it should be remembered that banks do business on a small margin of profit. They are not like the goldsmiths of the middle ages, who actually charged you for keeping your money.

It has been suggested that a special bank police should be provided. It seems hardly likely that any such force would help, unless it actually exceeded the police forces already provided by the municipalities. It is all right for the big banks in the United States, and it is no doubt practicable for some of the big branches here, to install one or more police officers, and even go in for armored turrets, bullet-proof glass and the other devices whereby a bank may be made assault and siege-proof, but the small bank or the small branch cannot carry such expense. Indeed such precautions in a large bank may be wasted, for bandits would have difficulty in staging a hold-up in a bank with twenty or thirty employees They prefer to operate in a less conspicuous and more certain way.

A better plan would be for the banks to contribute towards the up-keep of the public police. There is, of course, a danger that the cost would merely be shifted from the taxpayers to the banks, without gain to the latter. The banks might protect their interests, before going into any such arrangement, by stipulating for certain conditions. It would unquestionably be of value, for instance, if fast police cars were located at strategic points throughout the city, so that they would be available for pursuit. A special alarm system might be installed, though there seems to be little hope at the present time that hold-ups can be prevented.—Monetary Times.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE.

The general situation and circumstances are favorable for the national conference which opens at Ottawa on Thursday. There have been some candid statements in advance on some of the issues likely to come up for discussion, which may be regarded as evidence of careful thought and purpose on the part of men responsible to the public. Differences of opinion and even conflict of interests are not to be feared where there is goodwill. It is inevitable that in a country which is continental in extent and possessed of great wealth in resources there should be reasons for conference on plans and comparison of views and policies in order to more complete co-operation, based upon confidence and a good understanding between all concerned.

In a very real sense this will be a national conference of the constitutional and responsible leaders of Canada and its Provinces. It was called by the Federal Government, after consultation with Provincial leaders as to convenience all round. There is more stability in the political affairs of the country generally than at any time since the war, all the Premiers, with possibly one or two exceptions, holding office with adequate support by members elected within two years. There are, therefore, entitled to speak with a degree of confidence as representatives of Dominion and Provinces, which is a desirable condition for the meeting.

The Dominion of Canada owes its existence to the voluntary pact entererd into by representatives of the original Provinces. That pact was the basis upon which the British North America Act was framed by the men who formed the pre-Confederation conferences. Legally and technically the Dominion was created by the Act and the Provinces given a new status within which Federal and Provincial authority were limited, exclusive jurisdiction and rights being defined under which they were and still are sovereign in their spheres. But just as agreement on a common purpose and capacity to co-operate made the union a reality, so today the good understanding and willingness to co-operate are essential and paramount.

The Federal union provided in the constitution of Canada has proven successful over the sixty years of Confederation, giving cause to rejoice in the national unity it produced and inspiring gratitude and esteem for the men who framed the constitutional system of Canada. There are times when the opinion is expressed that one Government would do for the Maritimes, and one for the prairies, but with the expansion of those parts of the country and the direct attention which local issues demand it becomes evident that local Governments serve good ends, and that the Federal system has superior merits for this country of wide territory.

The sixty years of Confederation have demonstrated that Canadians are a steady-going people not given to demands for changes except for sound reasons. The preamble to the B.N.A. Act states the Provinces had expressed a "desire to be federally united . . . with a constitution similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom." This suggests one explanation why it is that, although there have been few changes in the constitutional act of Confederation, there has been constitutional progress and important advances made in the period, as outlined in the inter-imperial relations report of the 1926 Imperial Conference. While the constitution of Canada is written providing for application of representative rule under an executive vested in the King, Canada continues to share in the advantages which belong to the British constitutional system, which expands with development of the country by wider interpretation of principles and generous constitutional procedure to meet the demands of the day. Canadians got practically all they asked for in 1866-67 in London and the Imperial Conference report is assurance they will have no difficulty in securing any changes required now, if they are agreed upon what is wanted.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Y.W.C.A. does much for Peterborough; and the city's answer to the present appeal should show proper appreciation of that fact.

Will the Bureau of Complaints pay any attention to charges against the fellow who uses his motor horn as a door bell when he wants to tell the girl friend he has arrived?

One thing the Provincial Premiers are certain to agree on is that the Provinces should get more out of the Dominion Treasury.

Ontario will have a surplus of about $150,000 this year, it is predicted. That is a welcome change from the financial showing of past years

Among the prophets who are without honour may be listed those who predicted Canada would have no summer in 1927.

Two old reliables will shortly make their appearance, i.e., "Do your Christmas shopping early" and "Vote as you like but vote."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—Trade was a little slow yesterday with many of the yards still filled with the cattle sold in Monday's market. There was a big clearance of rough cattle, fat cows and steers, in Monday's heavy run, leaving only a small carry over of about 600 cattle. Prices eased a little on the common stuff, but held good and steady for anything of fair quality.

General run of prices as follows:

Choice butcher steers, $8.26 to $8.75. Heavy beef steers, choice, $8.50 to $9. Choice light steers, $8.35 to $8.50, and choice butcher heifers, $8 to $8.25.

Baby steers firm, choice, $12 to $13.

Common steers and heifers, $5 to $5.50.

Choice butcher cows, $5.5 0to $6.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.

Bulls, choice, $5 to $5.75.

Stockers and feeders, trade good at steady prices, good stockers $5.50 to $6.50, and good feeders, $6.50 to $7.25.

Hogs unsettled up to noon, with bid prices at $8.75 f.o.b. selects, and $9.65 off cars.

Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, 1 038 cattle, 483 calves, 1,072 hogs, and 1,190 sheep and lambs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., November 2 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was extremely dull, there being practically no demand from any source.

A feature of the domestic trade was the weaker feeling that developed for oats, and prices for all grades were reduced one to two cents per bushel. The demand was fair.

A fair amount of business was done in spring wheat grades of flour for both export and domestic account ,and prices were firm. The demand for winter wheat flour was moderate and the undertone was steady.

Owing to the lower prices ruling for oats in the Western markets, further weakness developed here for standard grades, and prices were declined another ten cents per bag, which makes a net decline of thirty-five cents per bag in two days. The trade was active.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand.

The local and export trade in baled hay was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

The trade in eggs was inactive, but the undertone was steady. The receipts were 2,477 cases.

Owing to yesterday being a holiday in Quebec, the trade in potatoes was slow, but prices were steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Island White Stock were offered at $1.55 per bag of ninety pounds ;New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.35 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 per bag in bulk; and Quebec varieties at $1.15 to $1.20 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The demand for imported beans was quiet, but the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were sold at $2.50 per bushel and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, ex-track, with smaller quantities at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for all grades of butter was confined to small lots, but the tone of the market was firm. The receipts were 110 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese. The receipts were 6,336 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 2 Canadian Press). — With world stocks of wheat showing 19,150,000 bushels increase, the wheat market underwent a sag at the last yesterday. Reports of fine weather in Argentina and of excellent crop prospects throughout that country acted also as a bearish influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c net lower, with corn at ⅞c to 1⅛c advance, oats showing ¼c to ⅜c gain, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 12c.

Considering that Liverpool prices were weak and that Canadian country marketings were 5,344,000 bushels against 3,755,000 bushels a year ago, Chicago wheat quotations held fairly steady on the whole, the total fluctuations for the day keeping within a range of 1c a bushel. Export demand for North American wheat was slack, but temperatures in the Canadian North-West were the lowest yet this season, and with other near winter conditions suggested likelihood of interference with the movement and quality of the Canadian crop.

On the other hand, Liverpool advices were current telling of reports that estimates of the Canadian yield were being enlarged and that notice was being taken of improved grading of receipts in Canada. Liverpool said a private Canadian estimate put the Canadian crop at 450,000,000 bushels. As an offset, however, the estimated exportable surplus of Australia was reduced to-day to 48,000,000 bushels, an amount much below recent predictions.

Latest figures on the world's available supply are 222,767,000 bushels, compared with 207,294,000 bushels last year.

Corn developed strength, although crop estimates yesterday by Chicago private statisticians proved to be about as expected. Including the visible supply, however, total stocks of corn for the 1927-1928 season are 2,762,000,000 bushels, or 81,000,000 bushels less than last year. Oats sympathized with the action of corn.

Foreign and local holders were sellers of January lard and this circumstance, together with lower quotations on hogs, weakened the provision market.

The Golden Link Rebekah Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows held a very enjoyable function last night in the I.O.O.F. hall, to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of their foundation in the city. Members to the number of about one hundred and sixty were in attendance for a programme that included initiation of eight new candidates, with exemplification of degree work, followed by a sumptuous banquet served by the local ladies. Visitors present for the occasion included members from Havelock and Millbrook, also officials in the person of the Assembly president, Mrs. L. Booth of Toronto, the past Provincial president, Mrs. Middleton of Toronto, the Assembly vice-president, Mrs. Fred Thomas, of Lindsay, with her husband, also the District Deputy, Mrs. Mark, of Lindsay. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Fleck, of Lindsay, were also present. Mesdames Booth, Middleton, Thomas and Mark were introduced to the assemblage by the Noble Grand, Mrs. G. Worboy, and were presented with lovely bouquets of flowers, later receiving individual small gifts in addition, in appreciation of their presence for the occasion. Brief, appropriate speeches were made by the visiting officials. The decorations of the hall and table for the banquet which followed were very attractive and excited much comment from the guests. They were done in Hallowe'en colors of black and gold, with flowers and pink and green candles arranged on the table, which was centred by a large birthday cake topped by twenty-one tiny green candles. Mrs. W. H. Morton acted as general convenor of arrangements.

At the Prince of Wales school yesterday, from four to five-thirty, the girls of the three High School Entrance classes tendered a banquet to the members of the Prince of Wales soccer football team in honour of their having won the Alex Kay cup for this season. Besides the boys and girls of the Entrance calsses there were present, as guests, Inspector Mowat and the executive of the Home and School Association. Mr. G. S. Mattice occupied the chair for the program that followed the repast. Mr. Mowat and Mrs. G. Worboy, president of the Home and School, in informal addresses, praised the boys of the team—George Gatfield, Harold Epps, Harold Stewart, George Jay, Gordon Seabrook, Joe Gatfield, George Dunkerley, Roy Hope, Fred Chambo, Ivan Pearson and Richard Pearson, for their excellent work, and Mr. F. E. Kerr replied by telling how the championship was won. The members of the Prince of Wales team have been fortunate to have won not only Alex Kay's cup for playing football, but have won the hockey cup, baseball shield and relay race cup.

One of the very finest of the younger Toronto pianists in the person of Margaret Brown, is to give a piano recital in the Hall of the Conservatory of Music on Friday afternoon at 3.30, under the auspices of the Women's Music Club. Miss Brown has forwarded a program of the highest possible calibre. The music critics and press have united in bestowing on her the most enthusiastic praise, and predict a brilliant future for this gifted pianist. Miss Brown is not only a brilliant performer and possessed of a wonderful technique, but her playing is soulful and full of warmth. She is on the Faculty of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. A concert grand piano is being sent specially from Toronto for her use on Friday, and a most delightful and profitable afternoon is expected. Mrs. W. H. Hohner, soprano soloist of Trinity Church, will also sing a group of songs.

The Normal students were entertained last night by Trinity Club in Reid Street Hall. About one hundred and sixty-five young people were capably handled in the different games and contests by Mr. R. C. R. Cumming.

Following a short address by the President, W. Derry, and Mr. Cumming, the Chairman, Rev. Mr. Wren welcomed the students in his customary jolly manner, and everybody was immediately made to feel "at home." Mrs. Vaughan Walker gave two exceptionally fine readings in her usual brilliant style, followed by a violin solo by W. T. Fanjoy, accompanied by Mrs. Fanjoy, which was splendidly rendered. Refreshments were served at the close of Mr. Cumming's group.

Mrs. L. Booth of Toronto, President of the Rebekah Assembly of the I.O.O.F., and Mrs. Middleton of Toronto, past Provincial President, are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. B. Watts, Stewart Street.

Mrs. R. Gliddon entertained the members of the Art Study Club at their first meeting for the season, held in the studio of the Conservatory of Music, last night. The President of the club, Mrs. B. L. Barns, in an address entitled "Hitherto and Henceforth," gave an interesting resume of the work done by the club since its inception, several years ago, and also outlined the programme for the coming season. The response to the roll call was a quotation on "Work." The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Meredith on November 15th, in a Canadian Night, when a paper on "The Quebec Pageant" will be given by Mrs. C. H. Saunders, and the response to the roll call will be a reference to Canadian Literature. Members of the Guild of Arts and Crafts will be guests of the Art Study Club on this occasion.

Messrs. J. Dwyer, B. McLeod and W. Ranger left at seven o'clock this morning for Duluth, where the Kansas City team of the American Hockey League, in which they are making their bow this winter as professional hockey players, will train under Manager Grant.

Mr. James Abraham, School Attendance Officer of the city, celebrated a birthday anniversary yesterday.

Dr. Donald Cameron of the Research Department of the University of Toronto spent the week-end in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCarrell, Simcoe Street, entertained about twenty of their friends at a jolly musical evening and dance held at their home last evening.

Miss Mathews of 203 London Street leaves today for Florida, where she and her friend, Miss Hentig of Kingston, will spend the winter.

Mrs. J. K. Hughes, Weller Street, was one of the week's hostesses at a large dinner and bridge party, at which twelve tables of cards were played. Prize winners were Miss Mamie Drope and Mrs. F. E. Hooper with the consolation award to Mrs. F. Jobbitt.

Mrs. L. W. Gleason, Engleburn Avenue, entertained the members of the Ashburnham Women's Patriotic League at their regular monthly meeting last evening, with the president, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, in the chair.

The annual congregational social of St. Luke's Church will be held this evening in the parish hall.

Mrs. J. E. Patte, Gilmour Street, is taking a fortnight's rest at Nicholls Hospital.

Friends of Miss Anna Gallegher will regret to learn that she is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, and that she has been compelled through ill health to give up the management locally of the Frock Shoppe on Charlotte Street, maintained by the "Martha" establishment of Toronto.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith had an almost sickening curiosity as to how Bob and Cherry would greet each other at dinner that evening—Bob's first glimpse of Cherry since that strange and terrible kiss which she had demanded of him to revenge herself upon Bruce Patton the evening before.

"I cooked dinner all by myself," Cherry bragged, as she placed a small casserole of scalloped eggplant, topped with a crust of crisped cheese, before each plate. "Faith, the poor dear, was all tired out. I even had the audacity to make some gingerbread—"

"It tastes just awful," Joy contributed with a giggle. "I pinched off a piece. She didn't have any cloves and she put nutmeg instead, and used maple syrup, 'stead of 'nigger'lasses,' which is what Mom always used. But the whipped cream makes it look all right. I whipped the cream," she explained to her family proudly.

"Glad you're feeling better, Cherry," Bob said heartily. "A grand way to get out of a day's work at the office! But as long as you stayed at home to cook your boss's dinner, I reckon I shouldn't complain. Missed you today. I couldn't find Carter's letter to save my life."

"I hide things so you can't," Cherry told him impudently. "A boss has got to learn to appreciate his private secretary someway or other, or the poor thing will be taken for granted like a faithful wife. Now, Bob Hathaway, if you dare leave any of that egg plant that I positively slaved over, I'll never find your old Carter letter. Heard from him again?

Faith listened as they continued to banter each other and talk cryptically of the office. There was a smile on her lips, but a dull, steady pain in her heart. Carter? She'd never even heard of him. Was he going to do what? Surely Bob might tell her something of his business! What a fatuous smile there was on his face as he complimented Cherry on the rather soggy eggplant! If she had cooked it, he would have been either silent as to its deficiencies or facetious about them. And he so rarely praised a dish of her making. He took her excellent cooking for granted, just as he took her for granted. But when Cherry rose to be gay, chatty, impudent, how quickly he responded!

"Like to go to a movie tonight, honey, if you're not too tired?" Bob turned to her suddenly. "They've got 'Chang' on at the Neighborhood Theater, and the reviews say it's a 'wow.' I—thought we might go to the Pickwick Inn afterwards for a bite of supper and a dance, if you'd like." His voice was carefully casual, the voice of a husband who wants to make up but who does not want to humiliate himself in doing so.

Cherry's brightness dropped from her like the switching off of a light. "So the eggplant wasn't good! You're still hungry! And Joy has warned you against my gingerbread—the little beast! But I hope you two have a good time. Faith deserves it. Joy will help me wash dishes. Now, don't howl, you little demon! I'll help you with your homework. Cherry, the sunshine of her home!" she applauded herself flippantly.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The black beaded frock in its present versions somewhat follows the line of the figure and is called a "robe en forme."

The important thing to remember regarding the new bodice silhouette is that it should fit smoothly—but not really closely. The happy-go-lucky period in dress is apparently passing—the time when all that seemed to be necessary was to have a skirt short enough and closely fitted around the hips. Now the shoulders must fit if not snugly at least closely, and there must be no bagging or sagging beneath the arms. Already in shops where ready-made clothes are sold, fitters are having more to do than they did a few seasons ago and women are much less willing to take frocks without alterations.

The new well-fitted frocks are spoken of in France as "robes en forme"—and dressmakers are again revealing the fact that women really do possess waistlines, and some rounding of the figure.

There does not, however, among the really smart women, seem to be any tendency to emphasize the actual waistline, and the girls who draw in the belts of their little one-piece frocks or jumper suits are following no fashion but their own.

This new silhouette "en forme" must be taken into consideration in remodeling last season's frocks. Underarm seams must be taken in a little and shoulder seams may have to be raised to adjust the right fullness to the slightly closer outlines.

Most women really like this new outline because if they are not stout it does make them look decidedly slenderer.

Suppose you have an old beaded frock to remodel. In the first place, get a bunch of beads as nearly to match those on the frock as possible. Then get some georgette or other material like that of the frock. You will probably find an underarm seam. Open this and then adjust the gown so that there is no bagginess under the arm and a slight shaping at the waistline. Leave the gown open below the tip line and here insert a godet of the georgette. Now with your beads replace any that have come off and carry out the pattern where necessary to cover up the work of remodeling.

EASTERN ART IS VERY OLD

Flaw in Every Piece of Handicraft in Deference to God.

MEN DO WORK

Eastern art is the art of the cradle of civilization, and their designs, in which they are experts, go back farther than the history of writing. Gorgeous colors are used in this type of art, which ornaments everything, from household furniture to cooking utensils.

In Damascus, which had a population of a half million people before Abraham led the children of Israel across the plains, there are records of business being done on "The Street Called Straight," three thousand five hundred years ago, so that the art of the east is among the oldest arts known to man.

Most of the art work is done by men the women having little time to spare from household duties, and the easterners weave the history of their families into their handicraft. They use no machines, only hand tools often assisted by the toes which hold the piece in place. The grade of work produced depends upon the families, some of which pride themselves upon the high quality of the art they are enabled to achieve. In nearly every case there is a rare piece of handicraft which will not be sold, except in case of dire necessity, but which may be given as a token of high esteem. Their principal article of tableware is a tray around which the family sits at meals. These vary in size from small proportions to those ten feet in diameter and the work on the tray establishes the family's wealth and lineage.

According to their religion which forbids them to make graven images, they include nothing of this type in their art work. They believe also that God is the only perfect being, and to make their work perfect is imitation of him. Therefore there is always present a flaw in every piece of their art work, and most of the workers weave mystic symbols into their handicraft, which brings to the possessor they say, good luck, health, wealth and happiness.

An Eastern Art Studio has recently been opened in the city.

BISHOP VISITS CAVAN PARISH

Conducts Three Confirmation Services During Stay on Sunday.

INSPIRING SERMON.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—Right Reverend J. F. Sweeny, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Toronto, spent Sunday in the parish of Millbrook and Cavan conducting solemn and impressive confirmation services at three of the churches, Saint John's, Ida, at 11 a.m., Christ Church, Bailieboro, at three o'clock, and at Saint Thomas' church, Millbrook, at 7.30 p.m.

A number of candidates had been prepared by the rector during the past few weeks from each of the four congregations of the parish, nineteen from Trinity church (the Marsh) and Saint Thomas' church, receiving the rite here at evening worship.

Rev. Mr. Howard read the lessons and prayers in the absence of the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, who was indisposed and unable to attend.

Mrs. Allen presided at the organ, and the choir was augumented by a number of members from other choirs in the parish. White flowers only were used at the altar.

The Bishop, in addressing the candidates and through them the large congregation generally, spoke from text: "I therefore the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith you are called."

These words, written by the Apostle Paul during his incarceration at Rome, carefully guarded against escape, his active and educated brain drawing lessons from his prison experience, form a marvellous word-painting of the canvas filled in with lessons for all followers of Jesus Christ.

"Sometimes the sweetest and richest songs in the night are brought forth from the heart when sorrow is cuttin incisively into the soul clearing the spiritual vision."

Speaking to those awaiting the laying on of hands in the rite of confirmation, the Bishop questioned: "To what vocation are you called?" Three points received special emphasis (a) To be Christians, reproducing in daily life the qualities and characteristics of Jesus; (b) to walk worthily as sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty; the continual conflict to be waged successfully only in the strength which comes from being armed not with carnal, but with spiritual weapons; (c) to be saints—separated ones; "Come ye out from among them and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you and will be a Father unto you, said the Lord Almighty."

"This is the real meaning of your confirmation to-night, to be separated from the world, and dedicated to God. Prayer, attendance at public worship, reading and meditating upon God's Word, and participating in the Holy Communion, to which, after tonight, you are to be admitted as members of the Church of England in Canada, were pointed out as essential to the vocation of Christian living 'to which you are sealed by the Holy Spirit of God unto the day of redemption'."

The Bishop closed his address by earnestly pointing to Jesus Christ as the Great Exemplar to be daily followed and imitated.

The recessional hymn, "Now the Day is Over", was peculiarly fitting as a close to a service of deep religious significance.

FOWL SUPPER AT BURNBRAE

Annual Social of Presbyterian Congregation is Great Success.

MORE THAN 900 ATTEND.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 2. — The sincere and hearty congratulations which were officially tendered the Burnbrae Presbyterian church by ministers from neighboring churches, were as rightly deserved as they were generously given. The fowl supper which terminates the end of their anniversary season was as much a success as were the services which were held last Sunday. Considering both the special thank offering and the proceeds from the supper, the church's coffers are enriched to the extent of over fourteen hundred dollars.

Nor was the price of the excellent supper exhorbitant. For the meagre sum of fifty cents, admission to a meal fit for a king could be purchased. The tables were laid in the basement of the church and had a seating capacity of one hundred and forty people. The room was suitably decorated in orange and black and the service at the tables was of the most efficient character.

It is generally considered very poor form to blow one's own horn, but Burnbrae sounded two horns, the dinner horn and the horn of plenty. This may or may not be considered a breach of etiquette, but more than nine hundred people seemed ready to overlook any such slight error and enjoy a supper that has become famous for a radius of miles. The Burnbrae fowl supper was, is, and will continue to be the most popular function of that nature in the district, and it has gained this enviable reputation by honest effort and true hospitality.

During the supper hour, the Stirling Concert Orchestra supplied suitable music to beguile the time for those who had not yet eaten and those who were waiting for the program to begin. This was rather late, being after nine o'clock, and it is difficult to assert whether the delay was due more to the large number who sat at the tables or the enormity of their appetites. However, the Rev. D. A. Mackenzie, minister of the church, explained that it had been quite impossible to begin the entertainment at an earlier moment. He welcomed all who had come to the supper and invited the visiting ministers to the platform. These were the Rev. Mr. Shaw of Menie, the Rev. Mr. Reid of Stirling and West Huntingdon, the Rev. Joblin of Stirling, and the Rev. Grier of Campbellford.

A selection by the orchestra pleased the audience and set them in the proper mood for John Storie's humorous song and encore. Mrs. Storie accompanied him. The Rev. Mr. Shaw, of Menie, was the first to address the meeting. He began by saying that he supposed it was conventional to say he was glad of the opportunity to be present. He would, however, not make a speech, just a few words for the better part of an hour, but probably less. Then in all sincerity, Mr. Shaw expressed the pleasure and congratulations of himself and his congregation at the success which had attended this year's anniversary at Burnbrae. Before he had come to the meeting he had become slightly reminiscent and had looked up an old note book. There he found that almost forty years ago he had first addressed the congregation of Burnbrae. The forty years would be complete in the month of February, 1928. But the church was like the family knife which had been in a certain family for many generations. The present owner was having it sharpened and was warning the artisan to be very careful of the heireloom and explained that the knife had had many blades and handles. Burnbrae church, in which the Rev. Mr. Shaw had first spoken was an old stone structure, the present building being a vastly different affair.

He mentioned the delightful spirit of fellowship which always existed between Burnbrae and the neighboring churches and hoped that this delightful state would continue indefinitely, but he wished to warn the members of the church that they must still continue to strive for better things. Regardless of what heights of success they may attain there would still be greater things ahead. Then, reverting to his original humorous trend, Mr. Shaw said that he must make way for the other members of the clergy who were "well loaded up and itching to get a chance to speak."

Mrs. F. de F. Free, Campbellford, was the next soloist. She sang "Oh Flower Divine" and an encore, "Cradle Me Low." Both numbers were well received. Miss Maynard accompanied Mrs. Free.

In introducing Rev. A. N. Reid, Mr. MacKenzie stated that Mr. Reid had many fine qualities, and was in general a very fine man; but he was still a bachelor, and he considered Mr. Reid's judgment would not be at fault were he to select his bride from the region surrounding Burnbrae.

As Mr. Reid rose to address the audience, he was greeted by hearty applause. He stated that he was also the minister of West Huntingdon, and that he would be unmarried to his people if he claimed only the Stirling congregation. Suitably expressing his pleasure at being present at the supper, Mr. Reid conveyed the congratulations of his congregations to Burnbrae. He also realized that there were a great many people on whom the responsibility for the success of the anniversay had rested. This point he illustrated by the tale of the little girl who wished to bake a loaf of bread and the trouble she experienced when she attempted it.

Arthur Duncan's solo and encore were greatly appreciated. Mr. Duncan is a member of the Presbyterian choir of Stirling.

Rev. Mr. Joblin of Stirling was the next speaker. He expressed his high privilege of being the one to bring the greetings of his United congregation to Burnbrae at the time of their anniversary, and both they and himself were greatly pleased at the success. He was reminded of the visit of a famous queen to the temple of King Solomon. She had heard of the greatness of the house of Solomon, but when she had actually visited the temple she expressed the opinion that the half had never been told. It was a similar case with the Burnbrae anniversary, he thought. Continuing at some length, Mr. Joblin spoke of the optimistic side of life and its importance to the church functions and routine work. His remarks were both interesting and humorous, and were received with interest.

As the evening was passing, and the time was late, Mr. MacKenzie asked the audience to forego encores, but John Storie could not avoid one. The applause continued till Mr. MacKenzie asked him to return to the platform. Rev. James Grier, of Campbellford, was the last speaker of the evening. He spoke briefly, saying that he understood that Mr. Reid had conveyed the greetings of all the Presbyterian churches. He wished to complain, not of the supper, but of his associates at the table. He and Mr. Reid had been college class mates and Mr. Reid had insisted upon recalling many of his "sins" of university days. By way of remedy, he suggested that in future, Burnbrae invite either Mr. Reid or himself, but not both of them. Referring to Mr. MacKenzie's reference to Mr. Reid being a bachelor, he said that he had noticed the simultaneous disappearance of Mr. Reid and four very attractive young ladies. This, he thought, was a matter worthy of further consideration.

As for Mr. Shaw's remarks concerning the ministers on the platform who were well loaded up, he could not possibly take any offence, since he was not on the platform at the time. Mr. Grier also remarked that he would retain many pleasant memories of Mr. Joblin's address Then having done with humorous and friendly criticism, Mr. Grier conveyed the hearty greetings of his congregation to the Burnbrae church. For many, many years, Burnbrae and Campbellford Presbyterian churches have been practically sister institutions and the best of fellowship has, is, and will continue between them.

Mrs. Free's singing of "Ferry, Ahoy" was very much appreciated. Mr. Duncan of Stirling sang "The Garden of Your Heart." Mr. MacKenzie, on behalf of the congregation, thanked those who had assisted on the programme and the ladies who had served the supper. Another selection by the orchestra and the National Anthem completed the programme which terminated the most enjoyable and successful anniversary celebration which Burnbrae has ever enjoyed.

BIBLE SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Rev. P. C. Howard Gives Address at Meeting of Millbrook Branch.

HISTORY OF BIBLE.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—The annual meeting of the Millbrook branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the basement of the United church on Friday evening, the town hall being in use for other purposes, the number present being less than the importance of this work should call out at least once in twelve months that its claims might be fully presented.

The retiring president, Mr. A. J. Henderson, was in the chair, Rev. P. C. Howard, assistant clergyman of Saint Thomas' church, reading the Scripture lesson from Isaiah 55th chapter, and Rev. F. H. Howard leading in prayer.

Mr. R. Stone read the secretary's and treasurer's reports, showing a total sent to headquarters last year of $150.75, and the following officers nominated at the executive meeting for 1927-28, and accepted, on motion, at the public gathering: President, W. T. Wood; vice-president, L. C. Russell; second vice-president, L. W. Smith; secretary-treasurer, R. Stone; Directors: A. J. Fallis, J. Steele, G. E. Burnham, N. Belch, J. L. Byam, Dr. A. Jemison, T. H. Aiken, J. W. Hamilton, Henry Hubbeard, H. A. Elson, A. A. Needler, Weston Falls.

Collectors—Fallis Line: Mrs. H. A. Fallis and Miss Edna Lowery; Carmel: Miss Marjorie Bristow and Aileen Armstrong; Zion: Misses Blanche Fallis and Irene Patton; Seventh Line (Whitfield's) Misses Elinor Fallis and Flossie McMahon; Millbrook East: Misses Stella Hetherington and Margaret Whyte; Millbrook West: Mrs. W. Hilton and Miss Miriam Lord.

A solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul", by Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard, and a quartette, "No Night There", by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Miss May Byam, and Mr. M. McDowell, were the special musical numbers. Miss Hetherington presided at the piano.

Rev. P. C. Howard gave the address of the evening on "How We Got Our English Bible", illustrated by slides.

"Our problem today is not how to obtain the Bible, but to induce people to use the copies already in our possession", said the speaker as he proceeded with the fascinating story of the various manuscripts and translations from the earliest times, even preceding the Latin Vulgate, until the authorized King James' version in 1611, 'noted for its grace, dignity and masterful English style', and finally the revised version which was prepared by leading English and American scholars working in collaboration, and which appeared in May, 1885.

Views of the monasteries and churches in which copyists and translators did their work were shown, and also specimen pages of the different versions showing the changes in language from the days of Caedmon and Bede down to the present, as well as the beautiful and intricate designs worked out with infinite and painstaking care in the illuminated manuscripts and title pages of earlier days.

In closing Mr. Howard made an earnest appeal for continued and increased support for the Bible Society, and told how, in his years of missionary labor on the shores of James Bay, the Indian cared for, reverenced read, and loved their copies of God's Word.

Rev. Joseph Wilks moved the formal vote of thanks to the speaker which L. C. Russell seconded.

Rev. Mr. Howard moved a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president, A. J. Henderson, who had faithfully fulfilled the duties of his office for the past three years, Dr. Jemison seconding the motion.

The vote of thanks to the collectors for their faithful work last year, when the largest amount in the history of the local organization since the days of R. J. Doak's presidency was forwarded to Toronto, was moved by Dr. A. Jemison, and seconded by Rev. Mr. Wilks.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. Joseph Wilks. The collectors will call upon the various homes in their respective territory within the next two weeks.

FALSE PRETENCE CHARGES MADE

Galt Waterworks Superintendent Accused of Obtaining $5,600

GALT, Ont., Nov. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Eight charges of false pretences, involving $5,600 and extending back to 1920, were laid against Peter Cowan, former Waterworks Superintendent of Galt, when he appeared in court yesterday to face a charge of stealing $32 from the Public Utilities Commission. This charge was dropped and the others substituted. Plea and election were withheld and Cowan was remanded for a week on bail of eleven thousand dollars.

GIFTS PRESENTED TO CAVAN PEOPLE

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George Are Moving Into Millbrook Shortly.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—A pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George, Fallis Line, on Friday evening when over seventy-five of their neighbors and friends 'invaded' their hospitable home, "Uplands", about 8.30 p.m. to hold a social gathering before their removal to Millbrook to reside.

As the "surprise" guests arrived they were warmly welcomed by the host and hostess, and when the number was fully told Mr. W. Fred Fallis took the chair and invited Mr. and Mrs. George to take seats in the centre of the company. On behalf of those present Messrs. J. McKnight and W. B. Williamson presented the "guests of honors" with a handsome walnut library table, and electric reading lamp with walnut base, Mr. H. A. Fallis reading the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George:

Dear friends,

"The inevitable march of ever-changing time that takes us through the varying circumstances and experiences of life has brought us to the close of your eighteen years of habitation in our neighborhood, and we are assembled here this evening to spend a social hour or two with you, and bid you "God-Speed" before you depart to your new home.

"Every country, every church, and every community is standing on its human pillars; men and women of high public spirit, of keen vision, and of strong moral and religious stamina. It is perhaps with unusual, though just, pride and respect that we recall the pillars of the past who labored in our neighborhood, and in our country at large, to secure for us the material, moral, and religious heritage that we now enjoy.

"During the years that you have lived amongst us we have come to regard you as living pillars of today. Your quiet serenity of manner, and transparent sincerity, coupled with deep religious convictions have constantly shone out their beneficient influence upon us. We recall your service to the church and Sunday school, and also as neighbors in your many kind acts of ministrations in the years gone by. We regret your departure from our neighborhood, but we are glad that you are not going far away.

"As symbols of our gratitude toward you we ask you to accept this table and lamp. We pray that you may both live long to enjoy their service, and that the richest blessings of Heaven may rest upon you.

"Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors,

W. B. WILLIAMSON,
JOHN McKNIGHT,
W. FRED FALLIS."

Taken completely by surprise as they had been by the events of the entire evening, both Mr. and Mrs. George made suitable reply, expressing warm appreciation of the affection and esteem of which the gifts were evidence, and of the kindly words which were their accompaniment.

All joined in singing, "For they are jolly, good fellows" and the following program was proceeded with:

Chorus by the school children, their teacher, Miss Gladys Gray, accompanying them with the auto harp.

Address—Councillor R. J. McKnight.

Address—Reeve Stewart Fallis.

Scotch Song, by John Graham.

Addresses—Messrs. H. A. Fallis and Harry Roddy.

A substantial supper was served by the committee in charge, after which games and other entertainment brought a very happy evening to a close.

Mr. George recently purchased the brick residence on Anne street formerly the property of the late Mr. H. Mulligan, and they expect to move to their new home within the next two weeks.

TIRED OF BEING STUNG, SHE SUES.

TRENTON, N.J., Nov. 2.—It's easier to manage an apiary than a family. At least, Bernard Bigler, bee farmer, was the supreme boss of his honey workers but had frequent spats with his wife and two children. Whenever he had a quarrel with his family, Mrs. Bigler said, he would go out to the hives, infuriate the bees and then turn them loose on the wife and children. Mrs. Bigler, tired of being stung, sought a divorce and suggested that she be allowed to take the children with her.

CHAMBERLAIN MAY BE AMBASSADOR

Rumor of Appointment to Paris Scouted by Members of Party, However

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(United Press). —The suggestion is current that Sir Austen Chamberlain should become the British Ambassador at Paris when Lord Crewe retires as he plans in the near future, but the idea is scouted in well informed political quarters. If the Conservatives feared they were going to be beaten at the next election, which they do not, such a shift might be possible, because by the end of the next Parliament Chamberlain will be 70 years old, and his hopes of becoming Prime Minister will be dimmed, as there is a growing demand in the Conservative party for younger men in the position of leadership. Meanwhile, Chamberlain remains as the natural successor to Mr. Baldwin.

Hagen Stages Comeback to Defeat Farrell, 3 and 2

SHOWS GOOD GOLF FORM IN PRO CONTEST

Wipes Out Four-Hole Advantage After trailing Youngster All Way.

TO-DAY'S PAIRINGS.

Most of Favorites Among Those Who Came Through First Round.

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Walter Hagen again rose to the superb golfing heights that have made him "the invincible" of the links, when he staged a typical comeback to defeat Jack Farrell, of Glenhead, N.Y., 3 and 2, in his quest for his fifth championship of the professional golfers' association.

After trailing the youngster almost all the way, Hagen wiped out a four-hole advantage held by Farrell at the eighteenth, and stroked his way to victory.

Most of the favorites were among the 16 crack golfers who successfully came through the first round of match play. Among them were Tommy Armour of Washington, open champion, who eliminated Johnny Farrell, Marmareneck, N.Y., 4 and 3; Harry Cooper, Los Angeles, victor over Eddie Murphy, Chicago, 7 and 6, and Gene Sarazen, New York, who eliminated J. G. Curley, Marlsborough, Mass., one up on the 37th hole.

Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N.Y., and Bill Mehlhorn of New York were the victims of upsets.

Cruickshanks lost a heart-beraking battle when Anthony Manera, of New York, made a comeback in the afternoon round to win 4 and 2. Mehlhorn lost on the thirty-sixth when his putt rimmed the cup and bounced out, giving William Klein, of East Willieton, N.Y., a one-hole advantage.

Today's pairings in the upper bracket will bring together Hagen and Tony Manera, Cruickshank's conqueror, and Tommy Armour and Tom Harmon, with the probability that Hagen and Armour will meet in the next round. Harmon defeated John Perelli, of Feather River Inn, Calif., 4 and 3.

Other pairings in the upper bracket today will throw Charles Guest of Los Angeles against Morte Dutra, Tacoma, Washington, and Al Espinasa, Chicago, against Harry Cooper.

Gene Sarazen and Ed. Dudley, of Hollywood, will be pitted together in the lower bracket; William Klein, New York, vs. Joe Turnesa, New York; John Colden, New York, vs. Harold Long, Raleigh, N.C., and Frances Gallet, Wauwautosa, Wis., vs. Ralph Beach of Bethseda, Md.

Hagen's play in the feature match of the day found him showing many flaws in the morning round, but he made a brilliant recovery on the last 18 holes.

The match seemed decided on the 28th hole. Farrell pushed his second to the rough and then dropped an approach into a ditch near the green.

Hagen's form flashed early in the afternoon, when he sank a 30-footer from off the green and the stroke so fluttered Farrell that the latter missed a five-foot putt.

Farrell, however, rallied and took the 29th with a beautiful drive over the trees. Hagen was not to be denied and after the 30th, 31st and 32nd had been halved, he drove to the green at the 33rd while Farrell was trapped and failed to get out on his second. This made Hagen two up with three to play and he clinched the match on the next hole when Farrell's 12-foot putt rimmed the cup while Hagen sank a six footer.

ENDORSE OFFICIALS OF SOCCER LEAGUE

Members Express Approval of Manner in Which League Is Operated.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Endorsement of its officials and their policies was given by the American Soccer League at a meeting in New York Monday night, according to a statement given by President Bill Cunningham yesterday. By a unanimous vote the members of the league expressed their approval of the manner in which the league is being operated, answering rumors of internal discord which have been circulated in the metropolitan area.

The schedule was rearranged because of the fact that the league is now a ten club circuit. It was decided that the records of the now defunct Philadelphia and Hartford teams should stand.

The members voted to give the Provident Club ten days in which to proceed with their court action in which the team has enjoined the league from enforcing the suspension of William Stevenson, who jumped a contract with the Arthurlie club in Scotland.

The league refused to commit itself in the matter of territorial rights involved in a disagreement between the Madison Square Garden Corporation which seeks to promote indoor soccer games, and the New York American League club. The controversy was felt to be a private matter.

Sale of the New Bedford franchise to a group of New Bedford business men headed by John Messier and Ike Dawson was approved.

It was made known that Goalie Tom Blair, late of the Hartford team will play with New Bedford, and that Fullback Hugh Reid, late of Philadelphia, has been turned over to Bethlehem.

BOSTONIAN WINS RIGGS HANDICAP

Black Panther in Place With Mike Hall Third.

PIMLICO, Nov. 2. — Bostonian, which started his season at Pimlico so auspiciously last May by winning the $50,000 Preakness,, came back yesterday to be winner of the Riggs Memorial Handicap over the mile and a half distance. The race was worth $23,050 to the winner, with a cup valued at $1,000 for Harry P. Whitney. At the end of the long, gruelling gallop Walter J. Salmon's Black Panther was closely lapped on the son of Broomstick and at his heels came H. P. Headley's Mike Hall.

Bostonian was ridden by R. Workman and the distance traversed in 2.31 1-5.

Maiben, the rider on Black Panther, lodged a claim of foul against the winner but after a few minutes' deliberation the original placing was confirmed by the stewards.

TRIVALVE WINNER OF MELBOURNE CUP

Fifty-Year-Old Jockey Aboard Victor Makes It Four Straight.

MELBOURNE, Australia Nov. 2. — The Melbourne Cup, Australia's richest racing stake, was won by F. Clarke's Trivalve at the Flemington racecourse yesterday.

Sir J. Kidman's Silvius was second and S. Breen's Son o' Mine was third.

Trivalve won by a length while there was 1¼ lengths between second and third. The betting was 7 to 2, 3 to 2, and 12 to 1. Twenty six ran.

Trivalve's jockey who is 50 years old created a record by winning the cup four times.

The jockey is "Bobby" Lewis, millionaire. Trivalve has won $110,000 in cup and derby races.

Lewis is said to be worth $1,250,000, but he cannot bring himself to retire from the game he loves. He has been a leading jockey for over thirty years.

Only three days ago Lewis won the $35,000 Victoria Derby on Trivalve, and the same combination took the $35,000 Sydney Derby on Oct. 1st.

RACE RECEIPTS MUCH LOWER

Betting Tax Blamed for Decline in Attendance at Tracks

WAGERING DECLINES

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(United Press). —The betting tax and the competition of greyhound racing are blamed for the sharp decline in the receipts from British race courses, revealed in figures issued yesterday. In 1925 the receipts from all race courses totalled £848,000. In 1927 this amount declined to £712,000. The amount of money wagered has also declined, but no official figures are available. Mr. Churchill, however, hopes to get six million pounds from the proceeds of the betting tax.

Cooper Regarded As One Of Favorites To Cop 1927 Professional Golf Title

DALLAS, Texas, November 2. — Mark it down, friends, that "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, colorful young pro of the El Soreno Country Club of Hollywood, Cal., runner-up in the national open this year, will be a "heap big favorite" to cop the 1927 professional golfers' championship here October 31 to November 5.

There's a reason. Young Harry will be coming home. He will make his third try at the title over the course he was raised on from a kid of fourteen years. He learned his shots on the Cedar Crest Country Club course, the scene of the professional tournament. He knows every blade of grass, every grain of sand on this toughest of Texas links.

There's another good reason. The "Lighthorse" plays his best before the folks that raised him—the folks that helped him when he was a lanky, growing youth. Dallas still claims him, although he has migrated on to better things.

Harry is called "cooky," but the home folks understand. They believe in him as he believes in himself. And Cooper will play this fall to uphold the faith that Dallas has in him.

Ask Walter Hagen, the so-many times winner of the nation's pro crown—and the present titleholder—if you don't think Cooper is almost invincible here. The "Great Haig" took the worst beating of his long career in February this year when he met Harry in a 72-hole match on the same course. 'Twas a sad, sad battle for Hagen. His greatest shots did no harm. He went down 10 and 8.

Followed by a big crowd of home fans, despite the rain, Cooper became deadly in earnest. He took the lead at the first hole. Hagen saw desperate, sensational golf overcome his steady par game, hole by hole. 'Arry never let up, although as one time he had an eight up lead, and could have tied a hole by taking two safe putts. He tried for the 50-footer and made it.

Cooper, the colorful money player, was strutting his stuff before the home town folk! The Haig fought back and on two rounds tossed in below par golf. But even that didn't work. 'Arry was running from three to five under Ol' Man Par himself.

SYNDICATE TO BUY CLEVELAND CLUB

First Move Towards Clearing Path For Barnard as League President.

CHICAGO, No. 2 (A.P.)—The first move toward clearing the path that leads to the presidency of the American League was taken yesterday when negotiations were virtually concluded for the sale of the Cleveland club to a syndicate headed by Alva Bradley, Cleveland millionaire, who intends to become the club president.

When the sale is completed today, E. S. Barnard, the prospective president of the American League, will be automatically relieved as president of the Cleveland club.

If the sale is not concluded, it was pointed out that Barnard could resign as president of the Indian, be elected president of the American League, and as such proceed to lend a friendly hand in adjusting the Cleveland situation.

The sale of the Indians was temporarily held up yesterday pending the negotiations for a few stray shares of stock. There was some difficulty in rounding up these, as the original holders are dead. Mr. Bradley and his associates desire complete ownership, that no minority stockholders may interfere with their plans. The controlling shareholder is Mrs. James Dunn, widow of the former president of the club.

No opposition to the election of Barnard as president of the American League, succeeding Ban Johnson, is anticipated when the club owners go into session.

Already Elected

The report persisted that Barnard already has been unofficially elected, the act having been performed at a secret gathering of the club owners early last summer, when they decided to retire Johnson.

Barnard sat in yesterday in the negotiations to transfer the Cleveland stock to the Bradley group. He said the deal ofr acquiring the stock desired was proceeding smoothly.

"Are you going to vote for yourself?" Barnard was asked.

"No, I have never done it yet," he replied.

"Not even in case of a tie?"

"There is no danger of that," Barnard answered, indicating that the club owners have unanimously agreed upon him.

Reports from the east, however, said that Clarke Griffith, president of the Washington Club, and Ben Shibe who with Connie Mack owns the Philadelphia Athletics, also are candidates along with Edward Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees. Barrow formerly was president of the International League.

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, who has not attended a meeting of the American League since his break with Johnson ten years ago, will attend today's session.

Ty Cobb May Not Retire From Game

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2. — If any announcement of Ty Cobb's retirement from baseball is to be made, it will follow a conference on Thursday between the "Georgia Peach" and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I'm not yet ready to say whether or not I'm going to quit the game," Cobb said. "But I am pretty tired of baseball—I've played a long time. If I do make up my mind to quit it will be announced after I have had a conference with Connie Mack on Thursday. I would not want to say anything for certain until I have talked with Mack."

Cobb characterized Connie Mack as a "wonderful fellow — one of the finest I've ever known" and declared that if he did play baseball next year it would be under Mack's management.

"I've got some ideas I want to talk over with Mack," he said, "and I want to get his advice before I make any kind of an announcement."

NEW PRESIDENT NAMED BY REDS

Ill Health Causes August Herrmann to Resign After 25-Year Reign.

McDIARMID NAMED.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2.—C. J. McDiarmid, secretary of the Cincinnati base ball club, prominent sportsman and former director of the St. Louis Browns, has been named to succeed August Hermann, president of the Cincinnati club whose resignation was accepted by the board of directors.

His withdrawal from the active participation in the duties of the Reds was not a surprise to officials because his failing health has been known for some time.

Hermann's letter of resignation follows:

"As you all know, my health has not been good for some time past. It is imperative, in justice to myself, to my family and to you, that I be relieved of the strain and worry of the many details of active business. I therefore beg to tender herewith my resignation as president of the Cincinnati base ball club company and as a member of your board of directors.

"I have lately concluded 25 years of active service in the interests of the Cincinnati base ball culb. I have given my time, both day and night to the club. It has been 25 years of pleasant service. I have enjoyed it more than I can tell you.

"In all these years no association has meant more to me than the last years of close friendship with you. I appreciate your co-operation and your many acts of kindness to me. I will be glad to give to you at my time the benefit of my experience and to be of such assistance to you in an advisory capacity as I can, but I must insist that this resignation be accepted at your earliest convenience.

"With very best wishes for the club and the dear old game."

Seize Films of Heavyweight Bout

BALTIMORE, Md., November 2. Canadian Press. — The federal authorities yesterday seized films of the Dempsey-Tunney championship bout at three theatres.

Marshal George W. Collier who made the confiscation, declared that he was acting on orders from Attorney-General Sargent, in Washington. No arrests were made.

On Monday night the films were shown at one of the theatres to test in Maryland the federal law prohibiting interstate transportation of fight films.

WINS MELBOURNE CUP.

Trivalve Winner of the Richest Event in Australian Racing.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The Melbourne Cup, Australia's richest racing stakes, was won by F. C. Clarke's Trivalve at Flemington race course yesterday. Sir J. Kidman's Silvius was second and S. Breen's Son o' Mine third. Twenty-six ran.

The Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing Association was formed in 1878, with clubs in many of the principal cities from Galveston to St. Paul.

"Pirates," the popular designation of the Pittsburgh team, is one of the oldest nicknames in the National League.

Veteran Pitcher Dies At Poorhouse

HARRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Roy C. Patterson, pitcher for the Chicago White Sox during the period of 1900 to 1906 when that team was known as the "Hitless Wonders", died in the Montgomery County Home at Black Rock last Saturday. Found wandering the streets of Bridgeport, near here, about ten days ago very ill, he was sent to the alms house.

Patterson for several seasons was one of the leading pitchers on the Chicago American League team. Records credit him with winning 39 games in 1900 and leading the American League in the first year of its existence.

He was a factor in giving the White Sox the pennant in 1900 and again in 1901 when one of his teammates was Clark Griffiths, now president of the Washington club. The year the White Sox won the pennant and the world's championship as well in 1906, Patterson was released.

Efforts are being made to find his relatives.

FIGHT AFTER DANCE RESULTS IN ARREST

Men Arrested at Wardsville May Lay Charges Against Opponents.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Charged with disorderly conduct following a dance in the village of Wardsville Monday night, Samuel Morrison and Milo Miller, of that village, in Police Court yesterday were remanded. It is alleged that a number of villagers were concerned in the fight and counter-actions may be laid by the two men. The fight is alleged to have occurred on the main street of the village.

INSTITUTE SOCIAL IS GREAT SUCCESS

Millbrook Ladies Hold Card Party and Dance.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—The Women's Institute held an enjoyable social gathering in the town hall on Friday evening, the decorations being of a Hallowe'en character, and the attendance numbering about eighty.

Tickets had been sold for the disposal of a handsome quilt which was pieced and quilted by the Institute members during the summer months, the intention being to have the lucky number drawn at Friday's gathering; this event, however, was postponed at the last minute until a later date.

There were several tables for cards, the prize winners being: Mrs. J. R. Eakins and Mrs. E. H. Ingram, highest number of points; Miss Marjorie Bristow and Mr. H. Hunter the consolation. Mrs. J. McBride and Mrs. R. O. Larmer won the first prizes in the Lost Heir game, the consolation going to Mrs. R. O. Larmer and Mrs. T. H. Harkness. Quite a number preferred friendly conversation to taking part in any of the games provided.

Supper was served about midnight and afterwards dancing was enjoyed by those who wished this form of entertainment.

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, as president of the Institute, welcomed the guests, and assisting her was the secretary, Mrs. Will Armstrong, and several of the other officers and members.

Is In Trouble Before He Reaches New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (Canadian Press).—Willie Smith, sensational South American bantamweight hasn't reached the United States but his difficulties in New York boxing affairs already has begun.

It developed yesterday before the state athletic commission that two managers already are claiming control of Willie, who jumped into prominence by beating Teddy Baldock for the British bantamweight crown and shortly afterward jumped at offers to come to New York.

The boxer sails November 12 to settle whether Walk Miller, manager of Young Stribling and Tiger Flowers, or Bill Duffy of New York, associated with Jack Dempsey last summer, is to handle his American affairs. Miller has a sheaf of cablegrams establishing him as Smith's American representative but Duffy has one naming him as the manager. The commission withheld decision.

ADVANCE RAISED BY POOL OFFICIALS

Six Cents To Be Paid On Oats and Ten on Barley, They Announce.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Notices have been sent to all elevator operators and millers handling Ontario pool grain that on wheat delivered by pool members, commencing yesterday, they are to add a carrying charge of one cent a bushel to the published schedule of wheat prices. On oats and barley no storage allowance is provided for, but the executive of the pool has decided that market conditions on those two grains warrant an advance of six cents a bushel on oats and ten cents a bushel on barley, more than was indicated in the price sheets sent out in August.

STRIKE RETURNS TO FORMER STATUS

Court Refuses to Allow Priority to Contractors' Appeal.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The strike of carpenters and members of the international building trades unions practically reverted to the original position yesterday, when the first appellate division refused to allow the Piggott Construction Company, acting for the other contractors, priority in its action for leave to appeal against the decision which had dissolved the contractors restraining injunction. Subsequently the contractors were granted leave to appeal by Mr. Justice Masten, and the appeal will follow the regular course.

The case being in this status, the business agents of the unions are free to induce the members of the unions to strike in sympathy with the carpenters, at least until the appeal of the contractors is settled.

CAR IS MOVED AT BAILIEBORO

Owner Much Perturbed Until Vehicle Found in Church Shed.

THOUGHT BOYISH PRANK.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 2.—On Friday evening last one of the young men of this district left his coupe in front of the general store on Front Street. When he went out to go home, the car had disappeared. He immediately informed the authorities of his loss.

The car was later located in the Anglican church horse barn, about two hundred yards from where it was taken. It was supposed that some of the mischievous boys of the village had played a practical joke on the motorist.

CAR IS STOLEN AND STRIPPED

Asphodel Farmer Finds Automobile Monday Without Accessories.

NO CLUE TO THIEVES.

HASTINGS, Nov. 2.—It has been some time since thieves have visited Hastings and district until Sunday night. A large touring car belonging to a farmer residing in Asphodel was stolen from the Dutch Line. It seems he had only left the car a few moments and had gone to a nearby house, but when he returned it had been stolen. The thieves were apparently after parts, for it was found on Monday morning on a cross road. It had been stripped of bumper, searchlight, bumperettes and several tools.

No trace has yet been found of the thief or thieves.

M'TIGUE LASTS ONLY ONE ROUND

Mickey Walker Knocks Him Down Three Times in First.

THIRD TIME IS OUT.

McTigue, the Methusaleh of the ring, was knocked down three times before he fell across the middle rope of the ring, his hands at his side, his eyes closed, helpless and unable to defend himself. There he was counted out.

The end came two minutes and fifteen seconds after the fight started. Walker, boxing cautiously, did not get warmed up until a few punches had been exchanged—then he suddenly lashed out with a right to the jaw, following it up with a left hook which knocked the venerable McTigue into the ropes.

Walker sailed in, driving terrific punches to the jaw, and McTigue, looking like an old man, started sliding to the floor, but fell across the second rope and hung there.

After nine seconds had been counted, McTigue attempted to struggle to his feet. He was knocked down again, this time in Walker's corner. He got up and stood there helpless while Walker unmercifully beat him about the head. He went down again, got up at nine and then Walker cracked him with rights and lefts. He did not fall the last time, but dropped to the floor completely knocked out. McTigue's seconds worked over him frantically for at least five minutes before he regained consciousness.

WAITING FOR HUNGER

Normal hunger for food usually disappears during the first few months of a child's life. Even during the nursing period, mothers allow their children to over-feed, believing that in some way it is beneficial for the baby to fill up on as much milk as he can hold. Thus, even at the mother's breast the child learns to develop a gluttonous appetite, and real hunger disappears, perhaps never to return.

Most people speak of being "hungry" at times, but this is because they do not know the difference between hunger and appetite. Real hunger can be felt only for wholesome foods. The "appetite" one may have for condiments must not be confused with the real craving of hunger for real foods.

One must learn to distinguish between the desire for only tasty dishes, and real normal, animal craving for food which comes only because of the body's need for material with which to build and repair tissue. The danger of condiments lies in the fact that they excite the taste buds in the mouth to such an extent that more food is eaten than the body needs for its nourishment. Energy is thus wasted in digesting this food which cannot be assimilated by the tissues but only acts as a poison, clogging up the normal functions of the body.

This congestion of toxins in the tissues is productive of discomfort, and finally diseases are developed which would not have appeared if the appetite had not been stimulated to produce an epicurean appetite.

One who is overstuffed with food cannot enjoy simple dishes, and the plain food so relished in childhood seems tasteless unless really overseasoned. Mother's cooking does not seem to taste the same as it did when you were a child, only because you have over-eaten for years, catering to an appetite which knows no satisfaction.

A good plan to encourage the return of normal hunger is to miss regular meals for a few days. Whenever you feel "lonesome" for food, take a drink of water or the juice of an orange, or eat a small amount of fruit. It will take you at least four or five days to notice an improvement toward real hunger, but the experience will benefit you in every way. Later on, you may find the courage to take a longer fast and to wait, if necessary, for three or four weeks until your childhood hunger returns. And after the fast, exercise and play more as you did when a child, and you will find a normal hunger returning for simple, wholesome foods.

Questions and Answers.

Question.—Enquirer writes: "Thanks for your interesting subjects which I read daily in the paper. Will you please tell me if you approve of my habit of taking one teaspoonful of Epsom salts in water every morning. Will this aid in reducing? What is your opinion of Epsom salts?"

Answer.—The Epsom salts treatment which you are using will induce much bile elimination and frequent bowel movements. This will aid in reducing, but, of course, it is not advisable to carry on such treatment indefinitely.

Question.—Ethel M. asks: "With what foods may we combine non-starchy vegetables?"

Answer.—Non-starchy vegetables may be combined with any other single article of food. But remember, when combining with the carbohydrates, or starches, no proteins should be used, and the same rule applies the other way round. Combine with either protein or starch, but never with both at the same time.

Question.—E. D. writes: "I have been troubled with eczema on my face and arms for some time. What diet or treatment do you advise?"

Answer.—All you need to do is to combine your foods properly so that you will not have an over-acid stomach. Also, the skin may be peeled off with the sunburn produced from the use of the ultra violet light. Or, a few days' fasting is usually enough to make any skin eruption disappear. But the steady diet of well balanced meals is necessary to bring about a permanent cure.

Extensive development plans have been laid out by the Vienna city government.

MARKS APPEAL IS THROWN OUT

Campbellford Board of Revision Leaves Assessment Stand.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 2.—The court of revision resumed their hearing of the Marks' case to-night in the council chamber. Mr. Marks had submitted an appeal to the court at their previous sitting, but had not appeared in person. Since his complaint was of such an indefinite nature, it was decided to ask him to appear in person in order that the matter might receive a proper hearing.

Mr. Marks claimed that his assessment was too high at two thousand dollars. It was pointed out that this was an error and that the amount should have only been nineteen hundred and fifty. Even this was too high, he said. The total assessment was then detailed, and the members of the court asked him which amount he considered exorbitant. He said that five hundred dollars was too much for the two lots and buildings in which his business is conducted. This was on the grounds that the newer building was not yet "half finished."

Mr. Marks refused to allow the assessor to see his assessment notice, but when asked to submit it to the chairman, Mayor Kingston, he was obliged to do so. He would not give any information as to the amount of insurance carried, if any, and only reluctantly gave the dimensions of his building. He stated that he had been in town for twenty years, that he had worked hard during that time and had only begun to get a "toe hold." He reminded the court that he brought business to the town which would otherwise go elsewhere.

A fair statement of both sides of the case having been considered, Councillor O'Sullivan moved that the assessment stand without any change in the amount. At this moment Reeve J. M. Bygott arrived late and took his place with the court. Mayor Kingston took occasion to detail the proceedings of the court for the reeve's information. After a brief silence, Mr. Marks was asked for the dimensions of his building. He replied and complained that he was operating only on a fifteen per cent. margin of profit and must keep down expenses till he began to make headway. When Mr. Marks had finished his appeal, Councillor MacDonald seconded Councillor O'Sullivan's motion, and the assessment was voted to remain as it stood. Mr. Marks, seeing there was nothing more to be gained by further protest remained to address the Council.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"CHANG" PRAISED TO SKIES BY METROPOLITAN EDITOR!

It is not often that metropolitan editors stop to praise a motion picture. Therefore, the following editorial which appeared in The New York World a few days after Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack's Paramount production "Chang" (which by the way, reaches the Capitol to-morrow) had opened, should be of interest to film fans:

"To many of us the new moving picture 'Chang' will be worth more than a dozen superproductions which cost $2,000,000. For this picture has one quality which most pictures lack, and that is reality. The trouble with the average movie, more than the relatively trivial question of art, is the irritating artificiality that hangs over it; no matter how ingenious the story or how beautiful the photography, an intelligent person finds it hard to believe the events which transpire on the screen. But no such weakness inheres in this picture. You can no more doubt it than you can doubt your eyes. And this is because those who made it went straight to Nature for their materials.

"Like the picture 'Grass' in which Mr. Merian C. Cooper also had a hand, it deals with the struggle of primitive people against elemental things. In 'Grass' it was the laborious journey of Asiatic nomads to follow the grass which fed their herds. In 'Chang it is the dangerous battle of' Siamese savages against the jungle. And this jungle, with the leopards, monkeys, constrictors, bears, tigers and elephants which inhabit it, could not be faked. It had to be stalked honestly, patiently, and often at great hazard; and the result is one of the greatest photographic documents that has ever been made. Perhaps the greatest thrill of all is where a herd of elephants, numbering many score, stampede right into the camera's eye. What a feeling when the field goes dark and those great legs pound right over you.

"It is magnificent stuff. May the movies give us more like it."

AT THE REGENT.

"ONE MINUTE TO PLAY."

Throbbing with some of the greatest football scenes ever put on the screen Greater F. B. O.'s famous production of "One Minute to Play," starring Red Grange, will be shown at the Regent Theatre for three days beginning on Thursday. The noted University of Illinois "Galloping Ghost," probably the most wonderful player, who ever donned moleskins, gives a remarkable exhibition of his versatility and extraordinary broken field running in the brilliant climax of the film, as well as proving himself a splendid actor with a great screen versatility. The direction by Sam Wood is an achievement in itself, and an excellent cast, including Mary McAllister, Charles Ogle, Dan Hendricks, Jr., Lincoln Steadman, Edythe Chapman, Lee Shumway and Jay Hunt, handle the supporting roles convincingly. George Wilson, the famous All-American half back from the University of Washington squad, leads the opposing team in the picture, and does much to make the gridiron scenes realistic and vivid. The story and continuity were both written by Byron Morgan, noted for his work on the late Wallace Reid's racing tales.

Famous Kings

HISTORY knows no more heroic figure than Robert Bruce, who by his dauntless courage and military skill ended forever the pretensions of the English kings to the over-lordship of the Kingdom of Scotland.

The Battle of Bannockburn fought on June 24th, 1314, witnessed the most overwhelming defeat ever inflicted on any English army and placed Robert the Good securely on the throne of the country he loved so well and for which he suffered so greatly.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She runs away to visit Bobby, who is ill. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, takes her and Bobby to live with him; and proposes to her.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

"Shall we take a walk, Mary?"

"Yes."

Arthur Graham took her hand and led her out to the garden path, a path splattered with the dust of the stars, of which there were millions. There was a silver haze in the velvet of the heavens. The trees rustled with the whisper of countless messages. "It's perfect—it's perfect," said Mary, and her hand held Arthur's tightly. There was an ache in her throat because she wanted to cry with the beauty of it.

Arthur's voice came to her through the brush of the night upon her cheek, "Is everything perfect, Mary?"

"Everything."

They strolled the length of the walk and turned. Is everything perfect, Mary? No, nothing is perfect, Arthur. There is David to whom the delight of this night is denied—and—and—well that is all.

He folded her hand over his arm. "Mary dear—"

"Yes?" She lifted the little pointed face with the fringe of hair that lay like a gloss on her forehead.

"I want you to know—that I love

"Just in time, mother!" He enfolded her in a great hug.

you. I ask you to become my wife."

Somehow there was pain in that. It quickened her breath and jerked her heart from its customary groove. Her fingers tightened on the muscle of his arm and she could feel the hardness beneath. Strength. It emanated from him, and yet—was that what she wanted? These last few weeks at the house on the hill had soothed and poured balm into the spirit that had been torn ragged. There was no longer that burning need of aid, an aid that could not be dug up by the feebleness of her hands. Now there lay peace in her heart, its wings folded, prepared to remain, and there was no longer the need for strength—any strength that would lift her from the chasms. And that had been Arthur's fascination for the girl whose life had been a matter of tennis balls. Tennis balls that her mother had sewn and she had batted against the wind. Arthur's was a life of gracious gestures. Beautiful gestures that came from a spirit that longed for solace. Any solace. The healing balm of gratitude perhaps. So beautiful, a life that is capable of gestures. And Arthur's had been that. If she married Arthur her life would take on a similar freedom, a freedom from rocks and chasms and the canyons that yawn deep for those who would walk the high places with no silver for their shoes. And she longed for the altitudes. Longed for them with an intensity which her slip into the road had merely heightened. Love? What is love? Service that dragged at you. There would be no need for service with Arthur. Arthur of the grand gestures could fling his gold to the winds did he desire that. With Arthur she would have the opportunity for which she longed. Freedom for her tennis, power for David and young Robert. What more did life hold that could not be bought with the sweep of gold dust? She would marry him, not for service, nor for the urge of passion, but for the independence of her spirit. And this would be perfection of the marital state, for Arthur could give her that.

"Dear?" The question was a breath on the night air.

She hesitated. Then:

"Yes, Arthur," and hid her head against his arm where sudden shyness placed it.

"Now everything is perfect, Mary," he chuckled in a sudden blaze of spirit. "Now everything is perfect, you blessed child," and took her in his arms. There was tension there. Her body straightened with the shock of it as she felt the power of his arms enfolding her. She had an insane desire to break loose and run, which was absurd upon contemplation. Her heart beat fast with overpowering relief at the interruption. He had not kissed her.

"Arthur." It was Mollie who had moved over the fuzz of the grass unheard.

"Just in time, mother!" He laughed boyishly and enfolded her in a great hug. "Arthur! Let me down!"

"Not until you kiss me, mother!"

"What is it, you great booby, you," though she knew.

"I'm engaged!"

"My heart, Arthur! My heart!"

"Bless your heart, mother! It's beating with joy!"

"Oh, Arthur! And Bernice not yet cold in the ground!"

He sobered. "Look here, mother, I loved Bernice—and all that—but she's gone—and I'm here—and Mary is here too." He drew her into his embrace. "We won't announce the engagement yet. Mother—Mary—" he pushed Mary gently toward Mollie. "Be pals, because you both love me." and Mollie had the grace to plant a kiss on Mary's forehead, then turned and left them.

CHAPTER XIV

B. Jasper Graham grunted. "Well—well—well—out with it!" although he knew too. There was the enjoyment of watching Arthur turn a deep red, though. Arthur with the sober swell of Graham jaw, and the little lines that forked from the corners of his eyes.

"Glad to hear it," said B. Jasper. "Glad to hear it. Let me kiss the bride," which he did. "Told your mother, boy?"

Yes, mother knew. "Gad, father, you're the truest—"

"Spare me. Spare me," old Jasper twinkled. He turned to Mary, who had been standing in the light of the reading lamp, waiting for this bit of intimacy to have done. There was something fine about old B. Jasper, Mary thought. Arthur would be that way some day. Taciturn, probably, and crusty, but with the gold of his purse turning his heart mellow.

"Well now, Mary, what about an engagement gift, eh?"

"It would be very nice," she dimpled.

"It would, hey? It would, hey? Name it, girl, and it's yours!"

She would ask for silver-tipped shoes—but Arthur was giving her those—

"There is nothing—"

"Nothing, Mary? Come, come—a pretty filly—"

"I should like," said Mary, and the thought of David swept across her face leaving it a bit wan, "I should like to see Davie—and tell him—"

B. Jasper fumed. "You'll see him. You'll see him soon enough. An engagement gift, Mary!"

"That is what I should like," said Mary soberly.

"Well—well," it was disappointing to tell it to her now, but if she would prefer that above everything else she should have it, the pretty little filly with the hair that swung.

Arthur could no longer contain the news. "We've been planning that for some weeks now, dear. Father is using his influence to have David freed."

"Mary!" He caught her where she staggered.

"Now, now, Mary, what's all this?"

"I'm all right," said Mary weakly. "It was a bit sudden—you'll admit it was sudden? Oh dear," she pushed the hair from her forehead with her free hand.

Arthur, anxiously as he bent to peer into her face, "You're all right, dear?"

"Of course—of course—and if I'm not, it's just happiness! Oh, Arthur!" She put her handkerchief to her face and came to lean it against Jasper's breast, while he stroked her hair, muttering, "Now—now—a pretty little filly like you—"

"This is perfectly ridiculous, and I'm ashamed of myself," sobbed Mary against B. Jasper, "but I'm so h-happy!"

"Shouldn't have thrown it at her that way, Dad."

"She's all right, boy. Eh, Mary?"

"P-perfectly," and after wiping the tears from her cheeks and eyes she turned a radiant face to both men, though the tears welled again and raced unheeded down the course of her cheeks.

PLAY PUT ON.

Bethel Young People Give "I Can't Afford It" at Warsaw.

WARSAW, Nov. 3.—A large crowd filled Warsaw Town Hall when the play, "I Can't Afford It" was put on by Bethel young people. A large majority of the audience were from the south.

Dr. Munro's orchestra assisted in Warsaw as they had in Bethel and Lakefield.

The receipts were divided equally between Warsaw Missionary Society and Bethel Ladies' Aid. After all expenses were paid a little over sixty dollars went to each organization.

GUNMAN OFFERED TO KILL ALDERMAN

Windsor Police Sergeant Tells of Phone Call from Detroit

WINDSOR, Ont., November 2. — That a Detroit gunman offered to "bump off" Curry, or "take him for a long ride," and that Windsor constables had acted in the capacity of "traffic officers" for downtown blind-piggers, were testified yesterday afternoon by Sergt. J. R. Wilkinson and other witnesses, respectively, at the investigation into misappropriation and inefficiency charges preferred against Chief Constable Daniel Thompson by Ald. Curry.

Offer to "Bump Off" Alderman.

Wilkinson, the fingerprint expert of the Windsor Police Department, who at Friday's session of the Police Commission had testified that he had been able to purchase and trade in three cars in two months on $200 a month salary, was recalled to the witness stand by W. D. Roach, counsel for Ald. Curry. The Sergeant yesterday gave evidence that was just as sensational as that of Friday when he attempted to explain how he was able to finance purchase of the cars on his police salary.

"I was sitting in my office in the Police Building," the Sergeant said "The telephone rang. A voice said: 'Is that Windsor?' I said: 'Yes.' The voice asked me who was talking. I told them, and the voice at the other end of the wire went on to say: 'Say, do you want that guy Curry bumped off?' I said: 'What do you mean?' And they said: 'Do you want him bumped off—taken for a long ride?' I said: 'No, we didn't do that sort of thing in Canada,' and they hung up."

Call from Detroit.

Sergeant Wilkinson, replying to a question put by Mr. Roach, said there appeared to be more than one person at the other end of the line. He knew the call came from Detroit, he said, because the person asked if it was Windsor.

"I don't know who the person was," Sergeant Wilkinson continued. "I thought perhaps it was some enterprising gunman from Detroit seeking a job. I reported the incident to Chief Thompson, and I heard nothing more about it."

Tells Gospel Truth To Benefit Women

Thousands of women who are now nervous sickly weak and despondent might just as well be strong and happy, with Bright Eyes, Rosy Cheeks, abundant vitality and nerve force—if they knew the amazing value of Double Strength Erbac Tablets.

Not a "cure all", gland treatment or dangerous habit-forming stimulant—but a positive nerve food and vitalizing tonic ,recognized and highly recommended by leaders of the medical profession. And as a prompt and certain help to womankind, the value of Erbac can hardly be overestimated. A few days' use will quickly convince you of that! So don't give up hope and let yourself sink into the blackened depths of despair—but let Erbac show you the way to a brighter, happier, more useful life! HI-JACKERS STEAL LIQUOR OFF DOCK

Get Away With 45 Cases Valued at $2,500; from Kingsville

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Hi-jackers held up William Wilson, watchman at an export dock here early yesterday, and made away with forty-five cases of liquor worth about $2,500. Lawrence Hoffman, owner of the dock, believing he knew who the hi-jackers were, started after them in a speed boat. The hi-jackers arrived in a speed boat, presumably from the United States.

THINKS FARMERS WILL BEAT LABOR

British Labor Leader Doesn't Expect Party To Win Next Election.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Arthur Pugh, former chairman of the British Trades Union Congress, expressed the opinion here to-day that the British Labor Party would not be returned to power at the next British general elections. He expected gains to be made by Labor but feared the agricultural districts would favor the older parties. Mr. Pugh spent some time with local Labor leaders.

13-Year-Old Boy Routs Big Bandit

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(United Press).—Sidney Perlow celebrated his 13th birthday Monday in an unusual manner. Although he is only 4 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 85 pounds, he attacked a big would-be bandit who invaded his father's store.

Tackling the man, who brandished a cigarette case made to resemble a pistol, Sidney wrestled the case from him, threw it in his face, and then chased him down the street.

Police captured the bandit.

Grim Pyorrhea gets 4 out of 5

All around you are people doomed, through carelessness, to contract Pyorrhea. Four persons out of five past forty (and many younger) are its victims.

Carelessness—neglect of teeth and gums—is the cause. And the results, too often, are loss of teeth, neuritis, rheumatism, or other serious diseases.

And yet, if you start in time, it is so easy to prevent. See your dentist twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

Used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea or checks it. It firms the gums and keeps them healthy. It protects teeth against decay-causing acids and keeps them white.

Ask your dentist about Forhan's, the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid, used by dentists.

Safeguard youth and health! Start the morning-and-night Forhan habit, today. Teach your children to use it as health-insurance. At all druggists' 35c and 60c.

No Embarrassing Give-Away

Forhan's Antiseptic, a new product, most powerful, safe, antiseptic mouthwash known, has no tell-tale odor of its own. Keeps you safe from whispering tongues. Try it.

SEARCHING LAKE FOR AUCTIONEER

Inverary Man's Boat Found Empty—He Has Nine Children.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Believed to have been drowned on Monday, search is continuing to-day at Loughborough Lake, twelve miles north of Kingston, for A. G. Garrett, farmer and auctioneer of Inverary. His empty boat was found yesterday. He is 53 years of age, and has a wife and nine children.

FOURTEEN GIRLS REPORTED LOST

Hamilton and Provincial Police Have Located Five of Them Recently.

HAMILTON, Ont., November 2 (Canadian Press). — Following rumors of a narcotic drug ring and white slavers being active in this district, police records to-day disclosed the startling fact that fourteen young girls have been reported missing from their homes in this city since last June. It is believed a number of them were lured away by promises of a stage career. Local police and provincial officers are trying to locate the girls. Four were found at the border a month ago, while a few days ago a young girl was found in a Chinese cafe at Port Colborne.

BALCHEN AGREES TO PILOT 'DAWN'

Byrd's Co-Pilot Will Go With Mrs. Grayson in Next Attempt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.— (Canadian Press.)— A second flight across the Atlantic to-day lay before Bernt Balchen, Polar flyer and co-pilot of Commander Richard Byrd's America, in the Amphibian plane Dawn. Mrs. Frances Grayson announced the reorganization of her expedition last night, preparatory to a fourth attempt to fly to Copenhagen this year. She said Balchen had agreed to be pilot and navigator while Brice Goldsborough would probably remain as wireless operator.

AGREEMENT NOT COMPLETED.

NEW YORK, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Lieut. Bernt Balchen to-day denied statements by Mrs. Frances Grayson that he had agreed to pilot her plane Dawn on a flight to Denmark. He said, however, he would attempt the crossing if he could give the plane preliminary tests and could be relieved from other duties.

Dull, listless, out of sorts, feeling half-sick

IS it a cold coming on? Is it over-eating or what can it be? Probably it is Nature warning that your system is not functioning properly.

When you feel this way you should follow the treatment that has helped many, many other people. Even two weeks of it will make a difference in the way you feel.

A prominent New York physician says, "When my patients have that dull half-sick feeling I always prescribe Nujol and recommend at least two weeks' continued usage. Why? Because Nujol absorbs and clears away the toxic intestinal poisons that in most cases are the cause of the trouble. Further, Nujol is absolutely harmless and can be taken by young babies or old people."

Not like medicine

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's a natural substance unlike anything else. Can't hurt you. Others have benefited from taking it, why not you?

This remarkable product is sold all over the world. Go to any druggist, get a bottle of Nujol and see for yourself what it will do. Only—don't delay. Do it now. Insist on the real Nujol. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

CARS DAMAGED BY COLLISION

Accident Occurs at Foot of Wilson's Hill, Near Omemee.

DRIVERS DISPUTE.

OMEMEE, Nov. 2. — On Saturday evening a collision occurred at the foot of Wilson's Hill, on the Downeyville-Omemee road, when two cars met. Mr. Wilson of Toronto, a guest at Fee's Inn, was coming to Omemee, and five Omemee boys, two of them sons of T. H. McQuade, owner of the smaller car, were going north. The accident occurred just after the latter car had passed a team of horses on a wagon. Both cars are damaged, and much dispute arose over the affair. An officer from Lindsay visited the scene and interviewed both parties the following day.

"Skinny" Women Gain Weight

New YEAST and IRON builds up weight and strength

First treatment gives results —or no money

If you are skinny as a rail, with flat chest, gaunt limbs, and you seem to lack all energy, you need the good pounds of "stay-put" flesh and the vitalizing strength that only IRONIZED YEAST can give. Thousands of rundown, weak men and women have regained their normal weight and vigor with IRONIZED YEAST.

Yeast turns your food into flesh and strength

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial.

This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form

Only when Yeast is ironized in this way is it most effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

Ask your druggist for IRONIZED YEAST and start to get pounds of weight and new strength today. You will not only feel better, but you will look better, as IRONIZED YEAST clears out the old deadening poisons and brings new healthy color to your cheeks and sparkle to your eyes. Comes in pleasant-tasting tablets—60 to a bottle. Safe for everybody. Does not upset the stomach nor cause gas or bloating.

Results from first treatment —or your money back

Go now to the druggist and get a single course treatment. If you are not absolutely satisfied with the weight and health he gains, money for the bottle will be promptly refunded. If inconvenient to buy at the druggist, send $1.25 to CANADIAN IRONIZED YEAST CO., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Desk 149-R.

IN POLICE COURT.

Chief Constable Newhall, in his effort to stop speeding and reckless driving in this city, had four motorists appear before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, charged with infractions of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act. Chief Newhall told The Examiner that he was determined to stop this speeding across intersections. "Of late," he said, "there have been many collisions due to fast driving across intersections. Drastic steps will be taken and in every case the driver will be brought into police court. With the slippery conditions of the street, accidents will occur more easily, so this law must be strictly enforced. The rate of speed across intersections in the city where the driver's vision is obscure is 10 miles an hour, and in the country 12½ miles an hour."

Russel Little pleaded guilty to driving at a greater rate of speed than 10 miles an hour across the intersection of George and Simcoe Streets and was fined $5 and costs.

William Richardson pleaded guilty to speeding on Charlotte Street. Officers claimed he was going 27 miles an hour, and he was fined $5 without costs.

Orville Ridpath thought Rubidge was a through street, so he paid $5 without costs for speeding across intersections.

G. A. Goheen pleaded guilty to crossing an intersection on Rubidge Street at a greater rate of speed than 10 miles an hour, and was fined $5 and costs.

A local resident pleaded guilty to being intoxicated on George Street last night and was fined $10 and $4.50 costs. His Worship, in passing sentence, said it was only in a very exceptional case that he would give the minimum fine.

Girl Too Nervous To Sleep—Now She Dances

"Nervousness kept me awake nights and I felt awful. After one bottle of Vinol, I go to dances and eat and sleep fine."—Almeta Hingst.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, E. L. Payne, McDermid Drug Company.

CARPET BALL AT ALL SAINTS'

Team From Springville Loses in Two Games Last Night.

MINISTERS BOWL.

A social and friendly though most exciting game of carpet ball was played last evening in All Saints' Parish Hall, by a visiting team from Springville, and All Saints' Men's Club.

Two closely contested games were played by the following teams

Springville.—W. Tully, M. Johnston, S. Staples, Rev. A. H. McConachie.

Peterborough.—S. Curry, E. Bullin, W. Boddison, Rev. J. D. Paterson.

The home team winning with a final score of 18 to 14. The ladies served light refreshments after the game, and several short addresses were given. Mr. McConnachie illustrated the benefits derived from these social gatherings in bringing about friendly relations with the people and the ministers of their church, by giving some of his experiences in carpet ball and other games commenced in this way years ago at his home in Ayr, Scotland. They finally built there a large building called the Men's Institute, installing billiard tables and other games. Mr. McConnachie said it was always known where the men might be found during the evening and that they would early return home. After thanking All Saints' for the splendid evening they had enjoyed, he gave them a hearty invitation to have a representative team go down to meet them at Springille at an early date.

CLARKSON, Ont., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Explaining that he had mounted a passing truck, had fallen asleep and been driven many miles away from his home, Bob Brash, High school boy, for whom 200 people have scoured the country since Monday night, walked into his home here today none the worse for his adventure. Young Brash, in company with other boys on a Hallowe'en prank, slammed the door of a neighboring farmer's apple house on Monday evening, dashed away into the darkness, and was not seen or heard of by his parents and friends till this morning.

ATTENDANCE GOOD AT FOWL SUPPER

Centreville Presbyterian Ladies Hold Successful Annual Social.

A most successful fowl supper and concert was held at Centreville last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church there. A hot supper was served to more than 700 people in the Sunday school hall, after which there was a musical concert given in the church. Many of those who had their supper were unable to gain admittance into the church. The Peterborough Conservatory Symphony orchestra supplied the music for the concert, and the Rev. J. Riddell, the pastor of the congregation acted as chairman.

PLAY PRESENTED AT GEORGE STREET

More Than 300 People See "An Old Fashioned Mother."

An audience of over three hundred people were in attendance in the Sunday school auditorium of George street United Church last evening, for the play entitled "An Old-Fashioned Mother," given by the Dramatic Club of S. S. No. 11, Smith township, under the auspices of Mrs. J. Stubbs' Bible class. The play was excellently presented and the different character parts were taken in admirable style by a talented cast of amateur actors, all of whom entered fully into the spirit of the pleasing drama that depicted the triumph of a mother's love and devotion, with plenty of humorous incidents, and a dash of romance to give spice to the story.

Between acts, a fine programme of music was given by the Sunday School orchestra, led by Mr. W. H. Cunningham, and Miss Eva Outram recited in her usual attractive style a selection entitled "Pluck and Prayer," which was received with much aplause.

At the conclusion of the program the cast and orchestra were entertained by Mrs.Stubbs and members of her Onward Bible Class, Mrs. Stubbs congratulating the cast on the excellent presentation of their enjoyable play. Mr. Harold Lewis responded on behalf of the company.

The detailed attention given to characterization, to stage setting and to costumes combined to make the presentation of "An Old-Fashioned Mother," exceptionally pleasing, and the entire performance reflected great credit on the individual actors, and on their directors. The cast was as follows:

Deborah Underhill, (Miss Victoria Robinson) Widder Bill Bindle ((Miss Margaret Milburn,) Lowizy Loviny Custard, (Miss Veleta Deck), Isabel Simpscott (Miss Irma Deck), Gloriana Perkins (Miss Dorothy Tully), Sukey Pindle (Chasey Deck), John Underhill (Earl Tully) Jonah Quack Underhill (Earl Tully) Jonah Quack enbush (Lloyd Kennedy), Jeremiah Gosling (Chas. Heard), Enoch Rome (Fred Anderson), Quintus Todd (Harold Lewis), Brother Higgs (Elmer Milburn), Sally Larkins (Ida Heard), Lily Sourapple (Beatrice Lewis), and Samanthy Pettifer (Erma Rosborough.)

LEGION NOTES

The annual Poppy Day will be held on Saturday next, when the national emblem of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League will be on sale throughout the city.

A special wreath has been prepared for the churches and the merchants' windows, which is on show at Messrs. Grafton's Store. The local branch of the Canadian Legion requests the co-operation of all to make this year's Armistice anniversary a real period of remembrance. Circulars have been sent to the churches and the merchants respecting this wreath, and it is hoped that every downtown store will assist in making this year's Armistice period one of sincere remembrance by having a wreath hung in eacn window. A number of orders have already been sent in. Others desiring wreaths should send in their order to the secretary's office not later than Thursday night, November 3.

Members of the local branch who are going to sell poppies, may receive their boxes and poppies on Friday evening at any time after 7.30. Names of those wishing to take boxes may be sent in to the secretary at any time. 'Phone 141.

The programme for Sunday will be published later.

COLDS

Autumn colds are sometimes hard to get rid of in the ordinary way, but SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS are wonderfully effective in clearing up colds. When you have that "stiff and ache all over" feeling you can be sure that Chiropractic will benefit you.
